RADIO RUBE'S R-A-M-B-L-I-N-G-S

How many radio fans of Carrizozo heard the program from London, England Tuesday morning? We presume that some, and perhaps a great many, missed it from the fact that the daily papers in making a announcement of the program didn't give the time in which it was to begin. It's what was called the Five - Power Naval Conference, and the first speaker and the one who opened the Conference, was King George of England. The King's voice, like that of other speakers who followed him, was clear and his words distinct—he used expressions common to us on this side of the pond. Listeners also heard Ramsey MacDonald, for Great Britain, and other delegates representing Italy, France and Japan, most of whom spoke in their native tongues. The delegate from Australia also spoke and was very interesting. The U. S. was well represented. It seemed 'spooky' at the early morning hour, but it will long be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to hear it.

Word goes out this week that the Roswell Publishing Company, publishers of the Roswell Morning Dispatch, has let out a contract for a radio station, the permit has been granted by the Federal Radio Commission, and the work will start at once. The installation will be completed by April 1, it is said. The call letters of the new station will be KGMD.

Mrs. Alice M. French, County School Superintendent, was one of the early risers to hear the Five-Power Conference in London. She set her alarm for 4 o'clock, but she had to wait until 4:10, as the King was 10 minutes late in appearing. She heard every speech plain and distinct on her radio. Rube thinks the King should've been censured by the Conference and also docked, for being late.

Damrosch and his Symphony orchestra, preceded by a short talk by Floyd Gibbons, the noted war correspondent, is eagerly awaited Saturday night, being broadcast over the NBC system, by the General Electric Co. If you want a treat, tune in.

Every Sunday night over KOA in Denver comes "The Church in the Wildwood." This interesting program consists of old-fashioned songs, accompanied by the 'melodeon' and is just human, that's all. Last Sunday night, the meeting was held at home of Seth and Ma Parker. Aside from the usual programs of country-church meetings, they 'testified' and one old Scotchman gave a talk and at the close he said "I'm glad that salvation is FREE." (He has been a member of the church for 40 years and it had only cost him 30 cents.)

"Stormy Petrel" Henderson of KWKH, Shreveport, La., now says "Ladies and Gentlemen," instead of "Hello, World, Dog gone Yuh!" Pop's recent bump from the Federal Radio Commission, has modified his speech, and made his manner soft and m-i-l-d, that you'd now take him for a radio preacher, instead of a broadcasting blatherskite.

FORT STANTON NEWS

Miss Katherine Kolkmeier received her orders for transfer to San Francisco and left Friday. A farewell dinner for her was given at the nurses' home Wednesday, where all united in wishing her luck at her new post. Joe O'Connor, our enterprising barber is installing a new hot water heating outfit and also new furnishings in his shop, making it up-to-date and sanitary in every way. He will now be able to serve men as well as lady customers, as he has also installed electrical equipment. The Fort is lucky to have an enterprising barber such as Joe is.

Work on the new addition to the hospital has been progressing and the steam lines and electric equipment will soon be in.

Two brothers of Mr. Kronberg are here from Minnesota on a visit, driving through in a Ford.

Finley McDonald, a patient arrived from Buffalo, N. Y. Tuesday. A number of fans went to Capitan Saturday night for the Carrizozo-Capitan basketball game. Capitan girls outclassed their rivals, they being unable to stop Frances Ferguson, Capitan's star forward. Carrizozo boys won after a hard-fought battle.

The Fort team appeared at the Capitan gym for a game with El Paso Bowie, but they failed to show up. The Bowies have been cleaning up all teams in this section and undoubtedly escaped a defeat by the Fort team. With Parker, Traylor brothers, Evans, Ferguson, Werner and Edwards, the local team will be hard to beat.

The report on industrial and employment conditions for 1930 recently issued by the U. S. Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor in Denver states that a gradual expansion is indicated in practically all lines of industry in New Mexico during 1930. Increased activity and employment will probably be evidenced in agriculture, live stock, dairying, general construction, highway construction and lumbering. Metal mining and miscellaneous railroad activities will likely show steady to a possible upward trend.

While the demand for labor in 1930 will exceed somewhat that of 1929, the resident supply of workers, augmented by migratory labor, will probably be ample to meet requirements at all seasons of the year, with the possible exception of a moderate number of miscellaneous harvesters, during the harvest period and a moderate number of miscellaneous workers in connection with a few of the major construction projects. Prospects for Arizona, according to the report, are for a continued upward trend during 1930, in all lines of industry. Increased operations will likely be noted in agriculture, horticulture, dairying, building and general construction, municipal construction, highway construction, lumbering and metal mining—more particularly to be indicated in agriculture, horticulture and general construction. While the labor demands will likely show a moderate increase, particularly in agricultural and general construction lines, the supply of labor, including resident and migratory workers, will probably be adequate to meet demands, in most lines of industry throughout the year, except during certain periods of citrus, fruit and vegetable harvesting.

Los Angeles Boy Needed Help

Leroy Young, 1116 Georgia St., Los Angeles, is a "regular fellow," active in sports, and at the top in his classes at school. To look at him now, you'd think he never had a day's sickness but his mother says: "When Leroy was just a little fellow, we found his stomach and bowels were weak. He kept suffering from constipation. Nothing he ate agreed with him. He was fretful, feverish and puny."

"When we started giving him California Fig Syrup his condition improved quickly. His constipation and biliousness stopped and he has had no more trouble of that kind. I have since used California Fig Syrup with him for colds and upset spells. He likes it because it tastes so good and I like it because it helps him so wonderfully!"

California Fig Syrup has been the trusted standby of mothers for over 50 years. Leading physicians recommend it. It is purely vegetable and works with Nature to regulate, tone and strengthen the stomach and bowels of children so they get full nourishment from their food and waste is eliminated in a normal way. Four million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it. Always look for the word "California" on the carton to be sure of getting the genuine.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

American Delegates to the Naval Parley Prepared for Big Reductions.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD ONE hundred American delegates, experts and advisers sailed Thursday for the naval limitation conference in London without any definite instructions from President Hoover, but with the assurance that he will support any agreement at which they may arrive with the representatives of the other four naval powers. The Chief Executive, told them he considers they have become naval technologists through their study of the questions involved and therefore are now better prepared on the naval problem than he is.

While no figures have been made public, it is understood in Washington that the American delegation is ready to cut about 200,000 tons from the American navy, to eliminate two of the proposed 10,000 ton cruisers and to agree to a further battleship building holiday, postponing replacements that would begin in 1931 under the Washington treaty. This program would include reducing our submarine strength by 20,000 to 30,000 tons and our destroyer strength by 100,000 to 150,000 tons; provided the other powers made proportionate reductions.

In a statement to the press President Hoover said that to complete the conference in three or four months would be in itself a great accomplishment, and added: "It is the most important of international conferences of a great many years and probably the most important for many years to come. The progress of peace for the world rests in a great measure upon the shoulders of the five delegations. There is good will toward the conference on the part of every nation. The importance and the gravity of the occasion have been recognized in the dispatch to London of the leading men of every country. They have the will to succeed."

FROM Europe the word was that Premier Tardieu of France expects the conference to end successfully in three or four weeks and that France will play a dominant role in the proceedings. The French delegates, it was said, would propose a scheme covering six years, to 1933, creating a naval construction holiday for that period. While France still insists on retaining submarines, it is willing to restrict their size, gun power and cruising radius to a degree that would make them strictly defensive.

France intends to renounce its rights to construct capital ships up to 175,000 tons, as allocated to it at Washington, and concentrate its sea power in the auxiliary classes—cruisers, destroyers, and submarines. The French plan will seek to overcome the existing deadlock between the United States and Great Britain over 10,000 ton cruisers carrying eight-inch guns, by allocating the global tonnage of the various powers with categories merely indicated approximately, permitting each power to allot whatever amount of the total it deems necessary for self-defense to that class.

As was stated several weeks ago, however, the French persist in their demand that whatever agreement is reached in London shall be transmitted to the League of Nations' preparatory disarmament commission so that it can be made a part of the league's general plan for the reduction of both land and sea armaments. The French believe that within six years the league's disarmament conference will be held and that all nations will accept its findings.

work in connection with the development of tanks, armored cars and other weapons and equipment for use with a mechanized force. This had been entirely omitted from the budget as submitted by the President. No change in the size of the army is contemplated in the new bill. As at present, army enlisted strength will remain at 118,750. Officer strength will be 12,000. The National Guard will be given an increase, raising the strength to 190,000. Funds for training citizens at the citizens' military training camps are slightly reduced.

DEVELOPMENTS of the week in the German reparations conference at The Hague indicated that a settlement of all disputes would soon be reached. The major question was as to a guaranty for France in case the German government should willfully default in execution or should denounce the Young plan. The French delegates submitted a draft of a document covering this point which it was hoped the Germans would accept. Vladimir Moloff, Bulgarian minister of finance, pleaded for a reduction in the Bulgarian indemnity. "We are not seeking to haggle or bargain," he said, "but a spirit of loyalty to you necessitates stating that Bulgaria is incapable of paying annuities as high as $3,000,000 over a period of 50 years. We are anxious to discharge the debt honorably, but we simply cannot pay that much."

When asked to name a figure M. Moloff suggested $2,000,000 per annum.

HUMBERT, prince of Piedmont and heir apparent to the throne of Italy, and Marie Jose, the "snow princess" of Belgium, were made man and wife Wednesday in the Pauline chapel of the Quirinal palace at Rome after three days of elaborate fetes and entertainments. The ceremony was performed by Cardinal Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, and was witnessed by a brilliant assemblage numbering 1,500. The princess, who entered the chapel on the arm of her father, King Albert, wore on her head a high filigree crown in the form of orange blossoms, adorned with diamonds and pearls. Her wedding gown was of white satin, and over it was a mantle of white velvet made especially in the Omo district, with a train seven yards long trimmed with white ermine and held by four male attendants dressed in black, gold braided uniforms. King Victor Emmanuel escorted Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, and Prince Humbert accompanied his mother, Queen Elena.

Many other royal and noble personages were there, including King Boris of Bulgaria in a gorgeous Hussar uniform; the duke of York in admiral's dress uniform; Prince Leopold of Belgium; former King Manuel of Portugal; former King Amanullah of Afghanistan, who now lives in Italy; the prince of Monaco; the grand duchess of Luxembourg; Prince Daniel of Montenegro; Prince Paul and Princess Olga of Yugoslavia; Don Fernando of Bavaria, and former princes, princesses, kings and queens from all over Europe. Premier Mussolini of course was a conspicuous figure. The royal couple, after appearing on a balcony of the palace to receive the plaudits of the vast throngs gathered there, were accorded a private audience by the pope, who blessed them and gave them a special piece of Arras tapestry. For two more days there were public festivals and celebrations in Rome, and then Humbert and Marie went to Turin, where another week of the same sort of thing had been prepared.

MUCH talk and little action characterized the session in congress over prohibition enforcement. The one concrete thing was the request of President Hoover that congress appropriate immediately $302,000 for 50 new speed boats for the coast guard to use in combating rum-running on the Great Lakes. This request was in a supplementary budget report which pointed out the necessity of getting the boats into action within three months, before the navigation season opens. Each of the boats desired would be 35 to 40 feet in length, would carry a crew of four and presumably would be armed with machine guns. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts was the first to bring up the prohibition matter in the upper house when sessions were resumed after the holidays. He submitted resolutions of a Boston mass meeting protesting against the "wanton and reckless killing of citizens of Massachusetts by the coast guard." Next day orators, both wet and dry, exploded in both senate and house and the recriminations and retorts were loud and bitter. On Wednesday Representative Black of New York, a wet, told the house that he had heard there was dissension in the President's crime commission. Judge W. S. Kenyon and Roscoe Pound being dissatisfied with that body's procedure concerning prohibition.

PROHIBITION caused what may prove to be the first serious rift between the house of representatives and the White House. Administration leaders in the house sent word to President Hoover that the resolution proposing a joint congressional prohibition committee is not likely to pass. It was passed by the senate three weeks ago and sent to the house rules committee, from which it has never emerged.

Speaker Nicholas Longworth admitted that "the leaders of the house" do not believe such a joint committee should be allowed to usurp the functions of the independent house committee already constituted. Fifty wet members of the house of both political parties pledged themselves at a caucus to battle to a finish against the forthcoming program of the dries to put bigger and sharper teeth in the prohibition laws.

THOSE radical senators who call themselves Republicans won a decided victory by forcing the appointment of Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin as a member of the powerful finance committee. Senator Thomas of Idaho, generally "regular," also was named a member, the vacancies filled being those left by the resignations of Edge and Sackett, now ambassadors. The old line Republicans on the committee or committees fought hard to keep La Follette from the place, but Senator Snoot, fearing to have the contest carried to the floor of the senate, voted with the Democrats and radicals for the appointment. The finance committee now includes 11 Republicans and 8 Democrats. If La Follette and Couzens of Michigan join forces with the Democrats, the latter will control the committee. In any event it is no longer bossed by the Eastern Republicans.

IN THE course of regular business the senate continued its work on the tariff measure, dealing especially with woollens and rayon silks. The committee investigating lobbying heard some more witnesses concerning efforts to raise or lower the sugar schedule, and the name of the President was dragged in several times in a way that brought a sharp rebuke for the committee from one witness, H. H. Pike, Jr., a New York sugar broker.

EDWARD BOK, for many years editor of the Ladies' Home Journal and otherwise noted for his philanthropies, died suddenly at his winter home near Lake Wales, Fla. He was sixty-six years old and had retired from work some time ago. Coming from Holland as a child, Mr. Bok by his own efforts won fame and fortune, and then set about returning to the public much of his money in the way of philanthropic gifts. Another well known American who was claimed by death was Prof. Henry J. Cox, chief of the weather service in Chicago and the oldest weather forecaster in the country in point of service.

GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING does not want to be a senator. Certain of his friends and admirers in Nebraska started a movement to induce him to run against Senator George W. Norris, and broached the subject to him. The general's response was: "I do not desire, nor have I desired at any time to seek public office. While it would be a distinct honor for any man to represent the great state of Nebraska in the United States senate, my decision must be regarded as final."

By REPRESENTATIVE DANIEL A. REED, New York.

SEVERAL bills have been introduced in congress embracing establishment of a department of public education to serve as a clearing house for educational practices for the benefit of the states. The public school is now recognized by the majority of the people as the chief agency for fostering and perpetuating democratic ideals and for laying a solid foundation for the economic development of our country.

Strange as it may seem to us it required a bitter fight extending over a period of more than half a century to establish a public school system in the United States freed from the pauper school taint, open to every boy and girl as an American birthright.

If congress had had the vision to establish a department of education when it was first suggested by patriotic and far-seeing men and women, educational opportunities would have been, ere this, more nearly equalized and much of the neglected and unutilized latent power would have been made available to the several states and to the country at large.

Tragic and suicidal as our policy may have been in the past in this respect, to neglect now to establish a clearing house of educational data, as we enter upon the greatest period of worldwide competition in trade and commerce in history, would be even more shortsighted and deplorable. Our Presidents in their messages to congress have stressed the necessity for a federal department of education, patriotic organizations having an aggregate membership of almost a quarter of the population of the United States have petitioned for it, yet in spite of this urgent, insistent country-wide demand for such a department, the representatives in congress, a majority of whom have expressed themselves in favor of legislation to create it, have never had an opportunity to vote for the bill.

UPHOLD RESPECT FOR LAW

By CHARLES H. TUTTLE, United States Attorney, New York.

Today the danger which confronts our flag and country is not from without but from within. The time, therefore, has come for a thoughtful consideration of the strength and durability of the foundation beneath this vast superstructure and for the American people, by a qualitative analysis of their own democracy, to heed the recent warning of our President that there is occurring a subsidence of our foundations. Stated in another way this means that the foremost problem before the American people today is the problem of their relation to the law and of the law's relation to them and that their foremost task is to preserve the dignity of the law.

One is appalled by the consequence to the vast and delicate structure of the American state if this keystone of reverence and respect for law should ever be shaken by the ceaseless attacks upon it.

LET STATESMEN RUN NATION

By DAVID KINLEY, President University of Illinois.

Statesmanship is an art, not a science, and therefore I do not believe that university departments and political and social science conferences can tell the people how to run the government.

Statesmanship is the application of sound judgment to a variety of facts of very different character—economic, political, social and what not, beyond the purview of a professor in any department of political science, economics, or sociology, or history.

I am a believer in conferences for the discussion by these experts in political sciences, in economics, in sociology, and what not, of important topics of public action from the point of view of such specialists. But it is the statesman's duty to assemble the results of discussion in all these fields and no specialist in any of these departments can do this as such specialists.

Conferences on political, social and philosophical topics are, after all, merely discussions of individual opinions. They are valuable for enlightenment, but only sometimes for practical purposes.

PEACE THROUGH EDUCATION

By HARRY L. SMITH, Indiana University.

The only way to world peace is through education. If we teach concrete facts about other peoples of the world and their contributions to civilization, our own children will be more completely educated to realize the value of international understanding.

There is no reason why the nations cannot find a way to overcome conflicts of opinion without bloodshed and murder. The underlying idea behind all the efforts we are making is to find out what principles the different peoples of the world will support. It is not a propaganda for peace; it is merely a continuation of what has always been talked about in the family, the schools and the churches, only we are endeavoring to implant a deeper meaning into the principles of international understanding.

WOMAN'S PART IN PUBLIC LIFE

By C. BASCOM SLEMP, Republican National Committeeman.

The sex idea in public life is rapidly being eliminated. The old-time prejudice against women in public office has largely broken down. Hundreds of women occupy elective offices and thousands fill every kind of appointive office. Nowadays the same test is applied to women candidates as is applied to men. The main question in both cases is ability to demonstrate service to the public.

Both political parties and every section of the country have reacted to the growing sentiment for women's participation in government.

LOSING "ART OF THINKING"

By DR. WILLIAM MATHER, President Lafayette College.

The fine art of thinking has been lost in the modern age of machines. The mechanical age has made it not only unnecessary, but almost impossible for us to think constructively, even in our leisure.

I would give as an illustration a New York firm, which was saved from bankruptcy by a vacation of one of the partners who, after resting and thinking out his problem, returned to reconstruct the business.

"Please make Father change his smoking tobacco"

MEN go to their graves ignorant of the suffering an over-strong pipe has caused others. But now, we trust, Father will lose no time in discovering Sir Walter Raleigh, whose mild, fragrant blend is as popular with the smoked-at, as it is delightful to the smoker. This blend of choice Burleys has plenty of body and a very special fragrance. Yet it's so mild you can smoke it all day long, with only the sensation of increasing enjoyment.

The Kindlier Past

George W. Davison, the banker, who has presented Einstein's manuscript exposition of his newest theory to Wesleyan university, said in a recent Wesleyan address:

"I love the kindly spirit of the past. The spirit of the present is so different. The itching post of the past—an invitation to stop and hitch your nog—has everywhere given way to the sidewalk notice, 'Don't Park Here.'"

Baby's little dresses will just simply dazzle if Red Cross Ball Blue is used in the laundry. Try it and see for yourself. At all good grocers.—Adv.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

Its Influence Counts

Statisticians compute the numbers of denominations, the number of church edifices, the number of seminaries, church schools, ministers, officers and teachers, church school members and adherents, the value of church property, etc.

But there is one thing they cannot compute and that one thing is by far the most important of all — It is the influence of the church.

There is no nation, no community, probably no human being in the world who has not in some measure, directly or indirectly come under the influence of the Christian Church.

Attend church next Sunday at the church of your own choice. Its influence will make you a bigger and better man. If you choose to attend our church, a welcome awaits you.

OUR POLICY AND ITS RESULTS

An Advertisement of
The Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph Company

OUR POLICY—"To furnish the most telephone service and the best at the least possible cost consistent with financial safety."

1929's RESULTS

Improved and Extended Service

During the year 1929 our construction program, designed to bring more and better telephone service to the people of this territory, involved the expenditure of more than $13,000,000.

At the end of this year this Company had approximately 424,500 telephones in service, having made a net gain of 21,000 during the year.

Important additions were made to the number of direct long distance circuits North, South, East and West.

New equipment and operating methods have substantially improved the quality of both local and long distance service, 325,000,000 local calls, and 12,300,000 toll and long distance calls being handled with a greater degree of excellence than ever before. During 1929 a great majority of long distance calls were handled like local calls; that is, while the subscriber remained at the telephone.

Lower Cost Service

A reduction in long distance rates became effective February 1, 1929, and another January 1, 1930. Both principally affected station to station day calls, evening and night calls not being reduced.

Direct savings also resulted to subscribers from reductions in the charges for certain types of telephone installations and changes, and from the adoption of more liberal practices in extending plant and service to subscribers in sparsely settled sections.

There was fuller cooperation on the part of our subscribers, an important part of good telephone service.

Much was accomplished in making our facilities more attractive, and more comfortable and convenient for our subscribers.

1930's PROGRAM

"The most service and the best" is our continuing aim. In 1930 our effort will be bent toward producing a telephone service of even higher quality in speed, accuracy, convenience, efficiency.

F. H. REID, President.

The above picture shows a sectional view of Samson "Oil-Rite" Windmill illustrating principle of Pump, also location of Four Timken Roller Bearers

The AUTOMATIC OILING SYSTEM and lubrication of the various parts is accomplished as follows: The oil is poured in to the gear case, which submerges the lower part of the double gears, including the wrist pins when at the bottom of stroke. The rotation of the gears carries the oil up and floods the pistons, and the oil running down over the inside of the gears floods the gear shaft. The trough which is part of the hub of wheel head, maintains a level that submerges the lower part of both front and rear Timken bearings, and the surplus oil is returned to the gear case through a passage in the main frame extension. A felt oil retaining washer and paper gasket prevent any oil from working out around the wheel shaft.

AUXILIARY OIL PUMP

One of the outstanding features of the SAMSON "OIL-RITE" is the extreme simplicity, efficiency, and practicability of the pump.

The main frame on the Oil-Rite mills forms a reservoir that holds a sufficient amount of oil to lubricate the mill for one year. A sheet metal helmet completely encloses the reservoir and covers all working parts thus eliminating waste and making it dirt, rain, sleet and snow proof. No water can get in to flood the oil, no dust can blow in to grind out the bearings. This construction prevents squeaks, rattles and gear howling brought about by insufficient lubrication, all of which is avoided in the automatically oiled "OIL-RITE" mill. The ball bearing turn table, the constant supply of oil always flooding the moving parts and the Timken roller bearings insure the owner the "OIL-RITE" mill will pump water in the slightest breeze.

Fairy Tale for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Have you any idea how old you are?" asked the King of the Clouds of the sun.

"I haven't," said Mr. Sun. "I really have been so busy all my life that I have never counted the time. I've left that to others.

"Besides I don't know arithmetic and I would have to know arithmetic to figure it out."

"What's arithmetic and who can do it?" asked the King of the Clouds.

"Arithmetic is a lesson they study in school. School is a place where children go to learn about all sorts of things such as how to add two and two and how to spell words.

"They learn how to talk beautifully," said Mr. Sun, "that some of the raindrops were leaving."

"The earth said that Mr. Sun was drawing them to him, and I laughed for it was quite, quite true."

"I think I'll have to have a frolic soon," said the King of the Clouds.

So the sun continued to draw water from the earth through his powerful ray workers. What fun he did have and how he laughed and sparkled and shone.

A few minutes later some wild ducks flew high up in the air.

"Where are you going?" asked the Sun.

"We're going to fly far out in the bay," they said. "Do you see?" And they pointed with their wings.

"I think," said Mr. Sun, "I will join you. I will move along slowly and will shine where you go, for the King of the Clouds sent some of the army of raindrops out there this morning."

"To be sure I did," said the King of the Clouds. "Well, if you go out there, they can come in here. We'll just change places, eh?"

"The very idea I had in mind," said the Sun.

"Are you coming, are you coming?" called the wild ducks. "We are in a great hurry today, for we need good, quick flying to make us feel better."

"We're greatly in need of exercise."

"I'm coming, I'm coming," said Mr. Sun.

So Mr. Sun followed the wild ducks out into the bay, and then he shone brightly down over the great ocean. The raindrops left as soon as Mr. Sun appeared, and they began to play about and where Mr. Sun had been shining and where he had been drawing the raindrops from the earth.

So Mr. Sun and the King of the Clouds kept changing places and such a jolly time as they had of it.

The King of the Clouds said it was such a merry, merry time.

Dried Fruits Vary the Diet

The new crop of dried fruit is now on the market and at its best. Dates, prunes, figs, apricots, and raisins all help to vary the fruit diet, as the supply of available fruits diminishes. Several of these are rich in iron and other valuable minerals—particularly prunes and raisins—and so may be wisely introduced into the menu as often as possible. Try this combination from the bureau of home economics:

1/2 lb. apricots	1 cup sugar
1/2 lb. prunes	4 cups water

Wash the prunes and apricots thoroughly and put them in the water to soak overnight. Cook the fruit together for ten minutes, add the sugar, and simmer until the juice is fairly rich. Serve hot or cold.

Fitting the Armseye

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The location of the armseye and the fitting of the sleeve into the armseye are two very important steps in the fitting of a garment. The armseye seam when viewed from the side should show a good curve over the top of the shoulder. When viewed from the front, it should lie parallel to the center front, and when viewed from the back, it should be parallel to the center back of the garment. The armseye seam should pass over the tip or highest point of the shoulder bone and from this point make a straight line back and front to the crease formed where the arms join the body. The illustrations were made by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

as closely as is comfortable and must be on the highest point of the shoulder. Stout figures require a closer-fitting armseye and one that is higher under the arm than do the more slender types.

The shoulder may be wider for a shirt sleeve, extending slightly beyond the tip of the shoulder. The sleeve does not fit so closely as other types of set-in sleeves. The armhole should be fitted rather loosely for the figure with very round shoulders.

If the armseye is altered the sleeve will need to be altered also in order to keep the same relation between the edge of the sleeve and the armseye. Before altering the armseye in any way make sure the shoulder seam is in its correct position, which is a straight line from the highest point at the neck to one-half inch of the highest point on the tip of the shoulder. Mark the highest point of the armseye when the garment is being fitted.

The armseye may be too small if either the shoulder or underarm seams have been taken in too much or the armseye has been cut inaccurately. The seams may need letting out, or the center back of the garment. The armseye seam should pass over the tip or highest point of the shoulder bone and from this point make a straight line back and front to the crease formed where the arms join the body. The illustrations were made by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

With close-fitting sleeves the armseye seam should curve to fit the underarm edge of the armhole may need to be carefully snipped until the armseye is comfortable and in the right position. The same should be done if the armhole is not comfortable under the arm. Care must be taken, however, not to make the armseye too low or too wide at the underarm. If the armseye is too large, the defect can in many cases be remedied by taking wider shoulder and underarm seams, or it may be necessary to alter only one or the other. Bulges or wrinkles, however, require special adjustment. Farmers' Bulletin 1530-F, Fitting Dresses and Blouses, which is free, tells how to make these and other special alterations to insure a good fit.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

If food looks delicious and tempting when it comes on the table it is rarely necessary to nag or beg children to eat it.

Dried fruits are some of the best confections for children because they contain valuable minerals and sugar in not too concentrated a form.

Left-over meats may be used to make delicious loaf, meat pie, croquettes, creamed meat on toast, stuffed vegetables and sandwiches.

Bake the meringue on pies and puddings at a moderate temperature sufficiently long to give it time to rise and "cook the egg white"; then it will hold its shape.

Placing Things in Refrigerator

Storing Goods Properly in a Refrigerator.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Even the best refrigerators are not equally cold in all parts. There may be a difference of a number of degrees in the temperature of the coldest and warmest spots. Wherever the cold air descending from the ice chamber reaches first will be the coldest place. This is often directly below the ice, but its precise location depends on the design and construction of the box. For safety, the temperature of this part, where milk, butter, broth, desserts and milk dishes are stored, should not be over 45 degrees Fahrenheit. Uncooked meats and poultry and salad materials in a covered jar should be kept in a location always equally cold—not over 47 degrees Fahrenheit. Berries and cooked meats may be kept on the shelf next above the uncooked meat, where a temperature under 48 degrees Fahrenheit is maintained. Keep cooked vegetables, eggs, fats and left-overs at 50 degrees Fahrenheit, or lower. Raw fruits and vegetables may be stored on the top shelf of the refrigerator, but this should mean at a temperature not over 52 degree Fahrenheit.

In a series of charts on household refrigeration the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture shows why it is highly important to keep many foods cool and some cooler than others. Organisms causing spoilage develop very rapidly in milk and meat as the temperature increases. That is why these foods must be protected with greatest care.

Long Hemlines for Formal Wear

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

The tulips that bloom in the spring are, in fact, will be no more gaily colorful than are some of the flowered chiffons and silks which Paris is featuring for midseason and winter resort evening wear. For that matter, huge tulips in colors "real as life" are outstanding among newest floral patterns.

This trend to large flowers—motifs done in intensified colorings—is very noticeable in fabrics intended for formal wear. One cannot but compare these bold flowery designs, so fashionable for party and opera gown, with the trim, carefully spaced tiny motifs printed in pastel colorings on black or dark colored backgrounds, which are so smart for daytime dresses and ensembles. The velvet brocaded chiffon fashioning the handsome frock in the picture is enlivened with bouquets done in vivacious multi-colors. The dress is styled with a yoke accentuating to the full the elegance of its fabric.

As to present and coming events in evening modes, this gown is quite revealing. Perhaps the most conspicuous detail in the styling of this ultra evening robe is its sweeping length. All the discussion about "four inches below the knee" or "fourteen inches from the floor," which centers about daytime hemlines, has no bearing upon evening frocks. The question of skirt lengths for the formal evening gown is admirably settled by the model in the picture.

Not only are evening chiffons flaunting flowery prints, but stiff silks, especially taffetas and moires, are gay with design. The vogue for sprightly silks which "stand alone" is quite pronounced. In handling these formal weaves, designers emphasize fabric manipulation, stressing tiers, flounces, bustle effects and flaring hemline in endless variation.

Later on lovely printed cotton nets are scheduled to appear. Even now they are gracing the style scene in the milder Southern climes. For these picture frocks delectable nets are employed, which include a patterning of spaced bouquets of realistic violets, or perhaps the design will feature poppies printed in high colors. Short puff sleeves, and capelets which veil the shoulders are exploited in the styling of these picturesque modes.

Black-Eyed Peas, Rice, Pork

Quaint old names have come down to us with foods that were known in colonial days. Black-eyed peas have been a staple in many places for scores of years, and may be combined with rice and salt pork for a winter dish that every one will like. The dish is known as "Hopping John." The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture gives the recipe.

1 cup dried black-eyed peas	4 large onions, chopped
1/2 cup rice	1 1/2 cups salt
Boiling water	Tobacco
1 cup diced salt pork	Pepper

Wash the peas well and cook them in a covered pan in 3 or more cups of water with 1/2 teaspoonful salt until the peas are tender but not broken. Wash the rice and cook for about 20 minutes in 2 quarts of boiling water to which 1 teaspoonful salt has been added. As soon as the grains of rice are soft to the center, drain and wash cold water through it to wash off the surplus starch and keep the grains whole and separate. Brown the diced salt pork until crisp, then remove it from the skillet and cook the onion in the fat for 2 or 3 minutes. Add the rice, peas, fried salt pork, and seasonings and stir until hot and well mixed. Serve with horseradish or chili sauce.

Food for the Family Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

We all tire of the same things day after day and when one originates something different it adds new pleasure to life. This is as true with foods as with anything else.

Graham Apple Pie.—Take two dozen crisp graham crackers, roll and crush, add one-eighth pound of melted butter and mix well. Line a pie plate and shape it into a pastry shell. Peel, core, slice and cook one-half dozen good flavored apples. Mix one cupful of sugar, powdered cinnamon to taste, one-eighth pound of butter and a little salt. Do not stir more than just enough to mix. Fill the cracker-lined plate and place in a hot oven for ten minutes. Serve topped with whipped cream. This is a pastry that the children may eat.

Data Butter.—This filling may be made in quantity and stored in glass jars until ready for use. Take one package of dates, one-half pound of layer figs, three-fourths of a cupful of walnut meats. Put the fruit and nuts through the food chopper, add boiling fruit juice enough to moisten. Any canned fruit juice may be used or orange and lemon. Add the liquid until of the consistency to spread. If to be kept do not add as much liquid, adding it when it is to be used. A bit of salt should be added when mixing.

Beefsteak Roll.—Pound a half inch slice of round steak well and spread with a savory poultry dressing including an egg. Roll up, making a shape like a loaf of bread, skewer, dredge with flour, salt, and cover with strips of salt pork. Place in a hot oven and bake until brown and crisp.

Cream and milk with butter will be liked for many gravies.

This is the time of the year when fried mush, scrapple, giddled cakes and waffles abound.

Patents.—Take one cupful of corn meal, one teaspoonful of salt, four cupfuls of boiling water, cook until the corn meal is well cooked and thick, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, three-fourths of a cupful of grated cheese, a teaspoonful of scraped onion. Mold and cut into thick slices when cold. Fry until brown, sprinkle with grated cheese and serve hot.

Spring Fruit Pie.—Take three-fourths of a cupful of raisins, two cupfuls of finely cut citron or melon rind, three-fourths cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two cupfuls of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, the grated rind of half a lemon and orange, one-half teaspoonful each of cinnamon and grated nutmeg. Cook all the ingredients twelve minutes with one tablespoonful of cornstarch mixed with a little cold water. Cool and pour into a pie plate lined with pastry and cover with twisted pastry strips. Bake in a hot oven.

Cold Timbales.—Take the meat of fish, fowl or lobster, cut into very fine pieces, add four tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise to two cupfuls of the meat and mix to a smooth paste. Meanwhile soften half a package of gelatin in a cupful of cold water, then dissolve over boiling water, add a teaspoonful of salt, white pepper and paprika to taste with a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Cool, add the meat or fish with whatever flavor is desirable. Hold in cold wet timbale molds, turn out when chilled and serve decorated with halved walnut meats, olives, cooked egg or parsley. Serve on lettuce hearts with little curls of crisp bacon and small pieces of ham.

Two more broadsides smote the privateer in the interval required to tack out of the danger zone, and when she recovered her raking position the Badger continued to fall her with several heavy guns that could be aimed forward. A lucky shot dismounted a twelve-pounder and puddles of blood soaked the sand the powder boys had sprinkled across the deck. But one of the Badger's guns ceased firing, as her hull was racked from end to end by the relentless broadsides of the Yankee brig, and presently the Centurion hauled out of the smoke bank to survey the situation, the Long Tom alone hammering away at the unfortunate Britisher.

The Badger was a dreadful sight, her remaining sails spilt and tattered, her rigging awry, her upper works largely demolished. And she looked to be somewhat down by the head. But the White Ensign floated at the jagged peak of her mizzen, apparently unaltered there, at intervals in the riven belt of her bulwarks grined the muzzles of cannon and one of her chase guns that had been hauled aft belched defiance of the privateer—"We're not licked yet," it growled.

Fellowes examined his own ship, received hasty reports from his officers. Five men wounded, three killed. No damage worth mentioning afloat, except for the foretopmast. The hull sound, the well-dry.

"Well heard," he decided, and a murmur of assent expressed his hearers' opinion. "Mr. Noggle, I'm turning over the ship to you. I shall be on the fo'c's'le with the marines. Mr. Spencer, you'll remain aboard, and fight the batteries, if necessary. Mr. Breed, I'll have you take the starboard watch after the marines. That will be all, gentlemen."

Fellowes clung to a forestay, atop of the Centurion's bulwarks, peering into the furry smokeclouds that swirled and trembled to the throbbing cadence of cannon and musketry. Behind him the fo'c's'le was crammed with men. Tom Grogan, hefting an ax in a knobby fist, crouched at his captain's feet.

"Can ye see her, mesmate?" he croaked anxiously, barriers of rank forgotten.

"Not yet—Ah, there's her main-track!"

A wild cheer announced that others had seen it, too. The Long Tom thundered brazenly, the fo'c's'le batteries boomed by divisions, and the concussion blew the smoke upward to expose the Badger's hull, rolling sluggishly like a wounded whale, half a cable's length distant.

"Hard over, Mr. Noggle," Fellowes hailed the sailing master. "Ready, you grape-iron men!"

The privateer slid easily around the sloop-of-war's bow, poking her bowsprit into the tattered boarding nettings aft of the forechains. Grape-iron jangled across the narrow belt of water, and slowly, very slowly, the two vessels ground together, broadside guns muzzle to muzzle, gun crews stabbing at each other through the ports, smallarms rattling in a savage crescendo.

From his perch Fellowes looked down upon the Badger's shattered deck. Scores of hostile faces scowled up at him. His eyes coolly scrutinized the Britishers for his enemy's face. And mingling stirred in him, for Colishawe was nowhere visible. Curry, the first lieutenant, and a midshipman were the only officers in sight. The Badger was a shambles, although her crews were still unbeaten, surging forward to meet the Americans when Fellowes jumped among them.

Coffee had lingered for one more shot with the Long Tom, and leaped from the hot breach of the piece to the brig's bulwarks, yelling his war cry. A second tarp carried him over the heads of the boarders, fighting to widen their foothold on the Badger's fo'c's'le, and into the midst of the enemy, who, for the first time, recoiled from the negro's cutlass and terrible, scarred face—"Grogan's nigger!" "Gawd, 'ere's Coffee!" The old superstitious were aroused—"He'll tear ye wiv his teeth!" "A man-eater, lad!"

The resistance commenced to weaken. Still as numerous as the boarders, the Badger's crew suffered mainly from their dearth of officers, which became an absolute lack after Joe Deak had bayoneted Mr. Curry and Tom had disposed of the lone surviving midshipman. Where was Colishawe? Fellowes asked himself again. The Britishers would have been leaders, if he hadn't been for Bob Clinch. The bosun was indefatigable, wielding a gory boarding pike, shouting hoarse admonitions to his followers.

the superstitious fear engendered by Clinch, himself, realized this latter factor, and bravely sought the negro in personal combat—vastly to Coffee's delight.

"Yaa-aa-aaah, Bob! Coffee goin' out 'o' nose fo' eat."

"No nigger deserter can stand up to me," growled Bob, thrusting desperately. "Ere's daylight in ye."

But Coffee parried the pike with a single blow of his left arm, and raked his cutlass point down the unscarred side of the bosun's face. Poor Clinch, blinded by the flow of blood, staggered and would have fallen if Tom Grogan hadn't caught him.

The capture of Clinch disheartened the Britishers. They had kept together for the sake of the mainmast, close ranks fairly impenetrable; but now, as Coffee whirled into them, backing and hewing, parrying strokes with his bare hand, fled teeth gleaming ferociously in the shiny black mask of his face, a score of Americans wedged after him, they developed a tendency to scatter into isolated groups, which surrendered as rapidly as they were surrounded. Fellowes was leading an attack upon one of these groups when a pistol cracked behind him, and the ghost of a quarter-deck voice pealed languidly above the click-clack of steel:

"I'll shoot every man who tries to touch that flag!"

The startled bluejackets dodged right and left, flinging their weapons from them, and there, propped against the break of the poop, lay Colishawe, his eyes blazing in a face drained of all color, his body, from the waist down, a bundle of soggy bandages. Near by sprawled one of his sailors, dead, the smoking pistol in his hand telling its own story. While the Americans watched, he dropped the weapon, and selected another from a row convenient to his grasp, cocking it and shaking the priming in the pan as carelessly as though not an enemy was in sight.

Fellowes was embarrassed, uncertain how to act, mistaking the idea of violence against a wounded foe. But Coffee was not so scrupulous. The negro stole aft along the port bulwarks, and threw an empty water-bucket which brushed the pistol from Colishawe's hand, and then, before the Englishman could replace it, kicked the remaining weapons out of reach.

Colishawe had been wrenched around by the blow, and a trickle of blood began to seep from his bandages; but not a muscle twitched in his face, and his one indication of feeling was a curious glance at Fellowes. The Long Islander was more at a loss than ever. He had obtained his supreme objective. Here, before him, lay the man who had flogged him, wounded, defeated, at his mercy. The Badger was his. He had humiliated Colishawe as much as he had dreamed of doing. And the words that came to his lips were consolatory!

"Sorry you're wounded. What can we do for you?"

"Nothing, thanks," answered Colishawe. "I'm done for."

"Oh, no! My surgeon—"

"Have him spend his spare time with my men who need it!" The Englishman's tone was inflexible, but Fellowes began to detect a slightly hesitant quality in it, a hidden weakness.

"Our Scotchman was bowled out." "But won't you let me have a look?" "No use. My legs are pulp. One of your d—n twenty-four pounder shot."

Fellowes looked away uncomfortably. He hadn't envisaged this ending to his quest. Suddenly he heard Colishawe speaking again.

"I say, you're a stiffer. That was a well-fought action. Used your head. Did you, by any chance, plan that battery for me?"

Fellowes nodded. Colishawe frowned, plucking at the bandages around his thighs.

"Done the same, myself, in your place. Humph! But I couldn't very well help foggin' you, y'know. Discipline, and all that sort of thing."

subject, said anyway 'twould be dangerous to let you get into New York—you'd talk about the True Bounty meetin' us."

Fellowes rocked on his heels, eyes shut, an awful nausea possessing him. "There wasn't anyone else?" he asked dully.

"Eh? Anyone—?" A shrewd light flickered in Colishawe's fever-bright eyes. "Oh, Miss Inglepin? No, she knew nothing of it. Matter of fact, I've thought since, Chater hooked me deliberately while she was away. Kind of thing the cursed swine would do, y'know."

"I'm sorry," Fellowes said. Colishawe's jaws contracted somewhat, his first real sign of emotion.

"Done the same in your place," he repeated. "I've thought a lot about it. Funny how a feller gets things twisted, eh?"

He caught his breath. "Pain?" Fellowes exclaimed quickly. "Yes-ee. Think you could get me bit of rum?"

A sailor brought a pannikin on the run, and Colishawe lapped it eagerly while Fellowes supported his head.

"That's—better," he said in the crisp, impersonal tones habitual with him. "Y'know, I've often thought about that time—foggin' you, and all. Bothered me. But I can't see how I could have let you off."

There was a new humbleness in Fellowes' heart. "I expect you couldn't have," he admitted.

"Sportin' of you to say so. But I'd have felt just as you did if you'd flogged me. Some things a feller can't forgive."

"Why can't we forgive?" cried Fellowes. "Why should we go through life hating people?"

"Not a preacher—can't say. But any feller'd hate a feller flogged him, especially if he felt there was a dirty play behind it." A streak of passion warmed Colishawe's tone. "What I can't go in havin' a rat like Chater start all this. D—n his soul! If I find him in hell—"

"He's dead," Fellowes blurted out. "Dead? You mean the True Bounty?"

A tremor convulsed Colishawe, and once more the ominous trickle of red seeped through his bandages.

"Miss Inglepin? She—you mean they went down?"

"No, the True Bounty is sunk; but Miss Inglepin—"

"I'm here," Colishawe's voice panted. "Oh, where is he? Where is James?" The stolid ring of sailors was burst asunder as if Coffee's Big Sarpent had been discharged into their midst, and Cara flattered down beside Colishawe.

"James! What have they done to you? Oh, Father, Father, please fetch Doctor O'Singhnessy."

"No use," said Colishawe. With an effort that was pitiful, he raised a hand in Cara's direction, and both her's closed around it. "Goner. But no hard feelin's—eh, Fellowes?"

Fellowes bowed his head, heart sick. For Cara, he saw, he didn't exist. "But there must be something to do," she was saying in a strained voice, tears streaking her cheeks. "Do let me see!"

Colishawe tightened his grasp of her hand, and in response to the effort the trickle that flowed from his bandages became a stream.

"No, no," he gasped faintly. "Don't!" And she saw, as Fellowes did, the gray shadow that mantled his face. She must have seen something, too, in the fading eyes that Fellowes did not see, for she bent swiftly, and her lips touched his.

"Worth everything," he murmured, smiling.

For a breath the shadow lifted from his face. The light blazed in his eyes again.

"No, no," he gasped faintly. "Don't!" And she saw, as Fellowes did, the gray shadow that mantled his face. She must have seen something, too, in the fading eyes that Fellowes did not see, for she bent swiftly, and her lips touched his.

"Nail up that flag, dammit!" he cried. "You'd strike whilst I'm—" Fellowes stooped and caught the poor, mangled clay as it slipped sideways. His shoulder chanced to touch Cara's, and she drew back with an instinctive aversion that blistered his self-respect.

"This is the fruit of hate," she said in a hard, still voice. "But death is better than some things—yes, better than living in hate. Oh, sir, if you might know how I—how I despise you!"

She fumbled in her bosom, and produced a clean kerchief, which she spread over Colishawe's wet face. "Come, Father," she said—and oh, how wearily! "We should try to help James' men."

Fellowes wanted desperately to speak to her, to comfort her, to excuse himself; but the words wouldn't come—a sense within himself informed him her mind was closed to him. Her mind and her heart. So much for victory!

Peep at Valencia
The city of Valencia is on that wonderful bit of Spanish Mediterranean coast where the climate is so much more certain than that of the Italian Riviera or the French Cote d'Azur. It is curious that so many places in this district should be associated with "desert." Valencia and Malaga raisins, Denia oranges, Barcelona nutt— they are all familiar to us. And Tarragona supplies a wine which does duty on many a British dinner table for port.

Lesson for January 26

STANDARDS OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:1-48 (Print vv. 2-9, 17-20, 42-48).
GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—How Jesus Teaches Us to Live.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Standard of Life and Service.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Accepting and Following the Highest Ideals.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Christian According to Christ.

1. The Characteristics of the Subjects of the Kingdom (vv. 1-12). These characteristics are set forth in the nine beatitudes.

"The consciousness of spiritual poverty (v. 3).

"Poor in spirit" means to come to the end of self in a state of spiritual beggary.

2. A profound grief because of the spiritual insolvency (v. 4).

The mourning here is because of the keen consciousness of guilt before a holy God.

3. A humble submission to God's will (v. 5).

This is the outgrowth of mourning over spiritual insolvency.

4. An intense longing to conform to the laws of the kingdom (v. 6).

The one who has received the righteousness of Christ as a free gift follows after the purity of character which expresses itself in deeds of righteousness.

5. Merciful (v. 7).

The subjects of the kingdom now take on the character of the King. Because of the mercifulness of Christ, His followers will be merciful.

6. Purity of heart (v. 8).

Since the King is absolutely pure, the subjects who enjoy fellowship with Him must have heart purity.

7. Peacemakers (v. 9).

The subjects of His kingdom not only have peace, but follow after that which makes for peace.

8. Suffering for Christ's sake (v. 10).

The world hated Christ, the King; therefore those who reflect His spirit in their lives shall suffer persecution (II Tim. 3:12).

9. Suffer reproach (v. 11).

To have all manner of evil spoken against us for Christ's sake is an occasion for glorying.

10. The Responsibilities of the Subjects of the Kingdom (vv. 13-16).

The world is in utter darkness because of its corruption. The subjects of the kingdom are to live such lives as to purify and enlighten. Their responsibilities are set forth under the figures of salt and light.

1. Ye are the salt of the earth (v. 13).

The properties of salt are (1) Penetrating, (2) Purifying, (3) Preserving. Since salt only preserves and purifies in the measure that it penetrates, so Christians only as they enter into the life of the world can preserve it from decay.

2. Ye are the light of the world (v. 14).

"This world is cold and dark. In this darkness the devil has set many pitfalls, and the subjects of the kingdom should so live as to prevent the unwary from stumbling.

11. The Laws of the Kingdom (vv. 20-48).

1. As to deeds of righteousness (v. 20).

The deeds of the subjects of the kingdom must spring from Christlike natures.

2. As to sanctity of life (vv. 21-26).

The duty of the subject of the kingdom is to conserve and sustain his own life and the life of others. Rash anger is heart murder (v. 22).

3. As to organized life (vv. 27-32).

The family is the unit of society. The two awful sins against the family are (1) Adultery, (2) Divorce.

4. As to oaths (vv. 33-37).

Whatever is more than the simple form of affirmation or denial comes of evil.

5. As to behavior toward those who do not recognize the laws of the kingdom (vv. 38-45).

(1) Not revengeful (vv. 39, 40). Turning the other cheek after being smitten, means, after one insult, permit another without revenge. (2) Willingness to do more than is required (v. 41). If compelled to go one mile, go two miles with the one thus compelling you. (3) Be charitable (v. 42). Our hearts should always be open, ready to give to all. (4) Love enemies (vv. 43-48). Love to them consists in: a. Blessing them that curse us. b. Doing good to them that hate us. c. Praying for those who despitefully use us.

Consciousness of Duty
In every heart there is a consciousness of some duty or other required of it; that is the will of God. He that would be saved must get up and do that will—if it be but to sweep a room or make an apology, or pay a debt.—George MacDonald.

Entering Heaven's Gates
Heaven's gates are not so highly arched as kings' palaces; they that enter there must get upon their knees.—Daniel Webster.

When Babies FRET

There are times when a baby is too fretful or feverish to be sung to sleep. There are some pains a mother cannot pat away. But there's no time when any baby can't have the quick comfort of Castoria! A few drops, and your little one is soon at ease—back to sleep almost before you can slip away.

Remember this harmless, pure vegetable preparation when children are ailing. Don't stop its use when Baby has been brought safely through the age of colic, diarrhea, and other infantile ills. Give good old Castoria until your children are in their teens! Whenever coated tongues tell of constipation; whenever there's any sign of sluggishness that needs no stronger medicines to relieve, Castoria is pleasant-tasting; children love to take it. Buy the genuine—with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper.

Forshanded Cat
Miss Helen Currier of Canaan, N. H., has a black Angora cat that, for reasons best known to itself, is showing the hounding instincts of a squirrel. The cat has brought up from the cellar nearly a bushel of apples which it places back of the living room stove. Lately this cat brought up a turnip that weighed one and one-half pounds.

"Dr. Pierce's Medicines Are To Be Praised for This Change in Me"

Salt Lake City, Utah.—"I was tired and completely run-down about a year ago when I was in Joplin, Mo. I took one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription Tablets and was greatly improved. I have used and am still using the 'Lotion Tablets' and 'Suppositories' which have done wonders for me. I can now say that I do not suffer any such pains as I did before. Dr. Pierce's medicines are to be praised for this change in me."—Mrs. Dortha E. Stiles, 752 E 3d St. All dealers.

Ease in 5 Minutes—Comfort in 5 Hours

Stop that COLD . . . before it stops you!

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous—rub Musterole on these parts at the first sniffle—it will relieve congestion by stimulating blood circulation.

But don't be satisfied with the noticeable relief you should experience from the first Musterole rub—apply it every hour for five hours and you'll be amazed at the result!

Working like the trained hands of a masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Even when houses are heated by radio, it will probably cost more than the great enigma of the man who "retires."

Home Has More Danger Than Savages of Brazil

JOHN J. WHITEHEAD, explorer and lecturer, has just returned from eight months in the jungles of South America, where he was searching for traces of the lost Colonel Fawcett and his son.

Dangerous as he found the jungle, he encountered a worse danger at home. But let him tell it.

John J. Whitehead, explorer and lecturer, with a Jungle Warrior

"One of the great problems of a trip of this kind is keeping in healthy condition. When we started, some of the members of the party had laxatives with them, but made wise by experience I carried Nujol. All too quickly my stock ran out. Soon I was in bad shape—what with a diet of rice and beans, lacking vitamins and green vegetables.

"When we finally got back to civilization, entertained first in Brazil and later in the United States, I became positively ill. Severe stomach pains and poor elimination made me realize that Nujol would again prove the reliable, trustworthy keeper of health. Sure enough, with the first bottle the trouble disappeared.

Don't think Nujol is a medicine. It is as tasteless and colorless as clear water. It brings you, however, what your body needs like any other medicine—lubrication. Just as a good bath washes our bodies clean, Nujol sweeps away, easily and normally, those internal bodily poisons (we all have them) that make us feel dull and headachy and sick. Nujol cannot hurt even a little baby; it forms no habit; it contains not one single drug. Doctors and nurses use it themselves and tell you to use it, if you want to be well.

Take Nujol every night for two weeks and prove to yourself how happy and bright and full of pep you can be, if your body is internally clean. Get a bottle today at any drug store. It costs but a few cents, and makes you feel like a million dollars. Start traveling the health-road to success and happiness—this very day!
