

RADIO RUBE'S R-A-M-B-L-I-N-G-S

Monday night, a program of Italian music was put on over the National Broadcasting Company's stations, at the request of King Victor Emanuel of Italy. The famous 'Quartet from Rigolotto' the 'Sextette from Lucia' and the plaintive 'Samba Lucia' were among the numbers heard — and the King certainly got his money's worth if the program came in as well in Italy as it did in this country.

The 'Solitaire Cowboy' program over Denver every Sunday night is good to listen to, as it presents the old time cowboys just as they are with no pretensions. The 'Tenderfoot' furnishes much amusement by asking queer questions in his sissified manner and furnishes much mirth to the program.

Many uplifting musical programs come over the air during the week — the San Francisco Symphony orchestra, alternating with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra every Thursday night over KFI. The Cincinnati Symphony orchestra puts on some enjoyable programs every Sunday night over WLW.

How many radio fans remember Harry Von Tilzer, who was a popular song writer a long way back, being noted for his songs "Wait 'Til the Sun Shines, Nellie," "Rutus, Rustus, Johnson Brown," "I Want a Girl, Just Like the Girl Who Married Dear Old Dad," etc? He sang those songs recently over the NBC network, and it seemed good to hear those old-timers again.

Richard Strauss was heard the other Sunday night as guest conductor for a well-known orchestra. Mr. Strauss arrived the morning of his appearance from Vienna, Austria and had courage enough to make a brief talk in fairly good English. Strauss is the composer of "The Chocolate Soldier," "The Waltz Dream" both well-known light operas.

Just as King George began his address a short time ago which opened the Naval Conference, an employee in the control room of the Columbia Broadcasting station at New York, tripped over and severed the wire that connected us with the conference.

The accident completely severed the connection, but Harold Vivian was quick to see the predicament, and grasping the wires together in his hands, held on for 20 minutes until the wires could be connected. The strong current through his body violently shook him, but he never deserted his post. How many would attempt such an extreme measure? Raise your hands!

'The Olympians' a male quartet par excellence, is heard every Thursday night at a late hour, being broadcast by the San Francisco NBC network. The quartet sang a number of old-timers, among which was the old favorite bass solo, "Asleep in the Deep" given in a masterful manner with a d-a-s-p contra bass voice that went down, down, d-a-w-n to the utmost depths.

CORONA GLEANINGS

The Corona girls won their basketball game with Willard Saturday night, but our boys went down to defeat to a 20 to 22 in their third game this season with Mountainair. Each man played a good, clean, fast game with Joe Atkinson starring. The student body was as usual loyal in the support of its team and is to be complimented upon the good sportsmanship displayed.

Col. Geo. W. Pritchard of Santa Fe was in Corona on business Tuesday.

Mr. Van Scoyoc, principal of the High School, has been ill with influenza for several days.

Mrs. I. E. Bone of Longton, Kan., returned to her home Tuesday, after a two months' visit in New Mexico. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Roberts of Los Lunas for a few days' stay with her sister, Mrs. T. M. DuBois.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Dear have announced the marriage of their daughter Edith to Mr. Thos. A. McCamant, on Tuesday, Jan. 22, at Roswell. The ceremony was performed at a parsonage with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reynolds as the only attendants. After a short stay in Clovis, the couple are at home at the McCamant ranch, where the many friends of the young couple wish them a long life of continued success and happiness.

The Corona Town Team avenged a recent defeat at the hands of the Encino town team when they took 'em to a 29 to 10 defeat at the Corona Gym Tuesday night. Later the winners played a practice game, but were no match for our high school team.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Porter announce the birth of a daughter, Eleanor Iris, Jan. 31.

The boys' basketball team goes to Albuquerque this week-end for a game with Albuquerque High School and for one with the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity boys.

Mrs. C. J. Kimmons was tenderly laid to rest in the Corona cemetery Sunday morning, with funeral services conducted at the church by Mr. A. D. Boucher. Death claimed her on January 31, after a brief illness in Hotel Dieu, El Paso. She is survived by four children all under five years of age, her husband, parents, one brother and four sisters. Mrs. Kimmons lived here only a few years, having resided formerly at Tahokah, Texas, but during her stay here she made many friends, who, with relatives, are left to mourn her. The family in their bereavement have the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

Mr. and Mrs. Carsley Baker entertained Friday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McCamant, who were married recently. A number of lovely and useful gifts were presented by the guests.

TO THE GOOD PEOPLE OF LINCOLN AND SOCORRO COUNTIES, NEW MEXICO

I have before me copies of two written communications sent to the Secretary of the Interior at Washington, D. C., protesting against a proposed exchange of timbered lands in Otero county, New Mexico, owned by me and some of the Public Domain of Socorro and Lincoln counties, owned by the government of the United States.

One of the said communications starts: "We, the undersigned citizens of the State of New Mexico, etc." and purports to be from parties it is claimed will be injured if the proposed exchange is made and the names and purported interests involved are given in the body of this letter, but when it comes to the signatures, only one name is signed to that communication and that name is W. R. Lovelace.

The other communication, also a protest, is signed by one hundred twenty citizens of Lincoln and adjoining counties, many of whom are known to the writer as citizens of high standing and as good men, and it is to these good men and all other fair minded citizens that this letter is addressed because neither of the communications contain the full facts and both contain statements that are untrue and misleading. The writer hereof believing that you have not been fully advised and further believing in your sense of justice, asks your indulgence and invites your attention to the following facts:

First, I am the owner of approximately 13,000 acres of timbered land located within the confines of the Lincoln National Forest in Townships 16 and 17 South, Range 13 East, Otero county, New Mexico.

Second, For the past six or seven years the government forest representatives have been trying to work out some plan whereby the government could acquire title to this land.

Third, In January, 1929, an act was passed by congress authorizing the exchange of this land for public domain located anywhere within the state, the said exchange to have the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior.

Fourth, I own five adjoining sheep ranches together with seven wells and three tanks located in Lincoln and Socorro counties, New Mexico, that were purchased by me with this exchange in view.

Fifth, I have made my selection of the public domain in these two counties including and adjoining my present ranches.

Sixth, This selection and the exchange has the approval of the forest service, local representative of the Agricultural Department, and of the Government Land Office at Santa Fe, who are the local representatives of the Secretary of the Interior.

Seventh, This selection by me of the public domain desired, interferes materially with the interests of a few influential stockmen and politicians because they have enjoyed the use of said public domain for many years without paying 1 cent therefor.

Eighth, I deeply regret that anyone has to be injured if the proposed exchange is consumated, but, wherever anybody has had the long use of public domain and for any reason has to surrender that use, they will necessarily feel injured.

Ninth, That it is impossible to select public domain anywhere within the limits of the state without depriving someone of the use thereof, and practically no other public domain is to be found in the state where so few would be deprived as in the proposed deal and where all are so well able to stand it.

Tenth, That in practically every instance where anyone will suffer deprivation here, that someone has grown rich or at least well-to-do by the long use of that which he had no legal right.

Eleventh, That no man is going to suffer loss as to that which belongs to him, but three are going to lose the right to use that for which they have never paid and on which they have grown rich or well-to-do.

Twelfth, That the writer has in writing proposed to pay and here and now proposes to pay a fair price for all wells, tanks and other improvements on lands within the area of his selection—the valuation of same to be fixed by government representatives who have already placed the valuation on his land and on the public domain involved in the deal.

Thirteenth, That it is to the advantage of the government to have this selection made as nearly in a body as possible so that its holdings will not be scattered and in shoe strings and little patches, and that it is also to the advantage of the writer to have his lands in one body.

Fourteenth, That if the proposed deal goes through more than 100,000 acres of public domain which is not now on the tax rolls will become privately owned and immediately become revenue producing.

Fifteenth, That it is my intention to expend thousands of dollars in building wolf-proof fences; in the development of more water and in increasing the grazing capacity of the land until it will care for at least twice the present number of livestock.

Sixteenth, That nothing is more vital to the Pecos Valley Section than the preservation and protection of the timber lands and watershed of the Sacramento mountains and that there is no other way they can be preserved except by government ownership and that the cheapest way for the government to get this valuable timber land and watershed is to trade for it something that is now non-producing so far as the government is concerned.

Seventeenth, That the timber land which the government would acquire by the exchange is valuable and should by all means be conserved for recreational, scenic and economic reasons and should be under the control of the Lincoln National Forest within the confines of which it is situated.

On the first page of this letter I made the statement that neither of the communications at first mentioned stated the full facts. The reason for my making that statement was partially because neither of said communications contained any of the facts that have heretofore been stated in this letter. And there are still other facts which will come further along in this letter which should have been contained.

In Arizona normal conditions prevailed in most lines of industry during December. There was a slight reduction in the volume of building and copper mining activities were also curtailed somewhat. A surplus of all classes of labor was apparent, particularly of agricultural help and building trades men. Harvesting of the lettuce and citrus fruit crops will offer employment for many workers for the next several weeks. Manufacturing plants operated steadily in most instances. Municipal improvements and highway construction continued in fairly good volume, offering employment to quite a number of men. An increase in highway construction is expected in the immediate future.

According to the recent industrial employment survey report, issued by the U. S. employment service of the U. S. Department of Labor, at Denver, winter schedules prevailed in practically all industries in New Mexico throughout December. A large seasonal surplus of agricultural help was reported. There was a slight decrease in operations and employment in a number of the metal mine districts. Manufacturing establishments operated on normal schedules in most instances. There was a seasonal increase in activity at the coal mines, with the supply of coal mine labor equal to all requirements. There was a fair volume of building under way. Work is expected to start within the next few weeks on the construction of the $10,000,000 Rio Grande conservancy project.

The Telegram, O'Conner said, was to sell five shares of Chesapeake & Ohio railway stock at $2,000 on November 6. That day Chesapeake & Ohio started down and since then the high point has been $171 on November 14, which was the figure at which he finally sold, taking a loss of $347.50 on each share, on his original purchase price.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Naval Parley Starts With Good Chance for Success—Young Plan Signed.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
EVERYTHING except the physical atmosphere of London was auspicious for the opening of the naval limitation conference on Tuesday, and every one connected with the parley seemed optimistic concerning its results. King George, making his first public appearance since he fell ill on Armistice day, 1929, started the proceedings with a warm but brief address of welcome to the delegates gathered in the royal chamber of the house of lords. He was followed by the heads of the five delegations, all of whom made appropriate speeches full of generalizations and hope.

Significant extracts from these five addresses are:
Primo Minister MacDonald of Great Britain: "If we are not careful we shall be once more involved in feverish competition such as heralded the outbreak of the war in 1914. . . . The way of Great Britain is on the sea. The stock of its people came from the sea; its defense and its highroads have been the sea; its flag is a flag of the sea. Our navy now is superfluous to us. It is us."

Secretary of State Stimson of the United States: "I feel it is more important to emphasize the fact that we do not look upon this effort toward disarmament as final. Naval limitation is a continuous process. We regard disarmament as a goal to be reached by successive steps. . . . We sincerely hope that increased feeling of security may enable still more drastic reduction in the future."

Premier Tardieu of France: "Our needs are determined, as Mr. MacDonald has justly observed, by our geographical position, our historical position, our economic, maritime, colonial, political and defensive situations. Taken altogether they define what is called a nation."

Holjiro Wakatauki of Japan: "It is the unanimous desire of the Japanese people that peace should be fastidiously established. . . . I see no insuperable obstacles in our path."

Dino Grandi of Italy: "The fascist government is desirous of securing real and tangible results in the fields of disarmament and security. . . . The problem is one calling for courageous action. . . ."

FROM their public expressions and the information that came from their private conversations with one another, it appeared the representatives of the five naval powers had at least reached a unity of opinion on five broad principles. They were agreed upon the necessity for a naval holiday in the sense that competitive building of war fleets should cease. They admitted that the public opinion of the world demanded economy in naval expenditures and relief for the peoples from financial burdens. They believed it advisable that any agreements arrived at by the conference should be for a comparatively short period so they might be revised and improved in later years. As to the last point, it was said the British and probably the Americans favored revision of agreements in 1936 and the French wished the term to be about twice as long.

The three highest hurdles the conference will have to surmount probably are the British determination to bring about a sharp reduction in battleships with their possible elimination in the future; the contest between France and Italy for control of the Mediterranean and the Italian demand for parity with France on that sea; and the desire of the French that any agreement reached shall be advisory to the League of Nations' disarmament commission.

When the question of the method of limitation comes up, the Americans and British, who prefer restriction by categories, will probably make concessions to the French and Italians, who advocate the theory of global restrictions, and offer to accept an arrangement of global limitation by which 10 per cent of tonnage may be transferred from one category to another on one year's notice.

Business sessions of the conference began Thursday, but it was the opinion of Mr. MacDonald that it would be two weeks before the delegates got to the point of putting their sea strength estimates into terms and figures. In formal meetings he urged them not to be too hasty in getting down to statistics and categories and lists of tonnage, believing the problem should be attacked slowly and piecemeal. The three hundred journalists gathered in London from all parts of the world were bitterly disappointed when it was announced that the "plenary" sessions of the conference would not be open to them for the present. Their exclusion, however, did not prevent their sending many columns of speculation and gossip to their papers every day. It is good reading but the wise reader accepts their statements with reservation.

When on January 20 the delegates of nineteen nations signed the revised and amplified Young plan at The Hague, the World War actually came to an end. Twenty separate agreements, fourteen annexes and fifteen special clauses were signed and presented to Premier Jaspars of Belgium, chairman of the second reparations conference, and he thereupon declared the conference adjourned. After ten years of discussions, quarrels, military occupations and parleys, the final act of liquidating the war had been performed.

The Young plan as modified and accepted requires Germany to pay about $2,522,000,000 from April of last year through 1930. The system of annuities is little changed. The sanctions clause that was added implies that military occupation can ensue if The Hague tribunal holds that Germany has willfully defaulted. The international bank will be merely a clearing house for the payments.

The first concrete result of the adoption of the Young plan will be the withdrawal of 20,000 troops of occupation left in the Rhineland. This already is under way, for the French are moving out of the forts in the Rhine valley and the Germans are blowing up those fortifications in accordance with the evacuation agreement and the Versailles treaty.

CONGRESS has elevated the American legation in Poland to the rank of an embassy, and President Hoover has nominated Alexander P. Moore of Pennsylvania to be ambassador to Warsaw. Similar action, of course, was taken by the Polish government, Tytus Filipowicz, the Polish minister in Washington, being named ambassador.

The nomination of Edward E. Brodie of Oregon to be minister to Finland was also sent to the senate by the President. The senate confirmed the nomination of four ministers. They were Gilbert Baker Stockton of Florida, to Austria; John Molley Morehead of New York, to Sweden; Ralph H. Booth of Michigan, to Denmark; and Henry Wharton Shoemaker of Pennsylvania, to Bulgaria.

IF ANY citizens still thought the Wickersham crime commission intended to take up the question of the desirability of prohibition, they were undecieved last week by Mr. Wickersham himself. In a radio address that was broadcast to the nation the chairman of the commission made it quite plain that that body was concerned only with the enforcement of the dry laws, and he appealed to congress and the people to aid the authorities in making the country arid.

"The Eighteenth amendment is a part of the Constitution and it is the duty of congress to enact adequate laws for the enforcement of its provisions," said Mr. Wickersham. "The detection and prosecuting agencies of the government should be properly organized and there should be tribunals properly constituted to deal promptly and efficiently with violations of the law. These would seem to be elementary principles not requiring argument."

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Prohibition Commissioner Dorgan appeared before the house committee on expenditures in the execution of partments in behalf of the Wickersham commission's bill for the transfer of the prohibition bureau from the Treasury department to the Department of Justice. The members of the committee tried in vain to lure Mr. Mellon into giving his personal opinion of prohibition and the possibility of enforcing it.

In the house of representatives the wets had another chance for sarcastic oratory when five bills to relieve overcrowding of federal prisons were under consideration. But they got nowhere and the bills were passed.

Federal Judge J. W. Woodrugh at Omaha declared unconstitutional that part of the prohibition act which permits personal injunctions against habitual violators of the law.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE LAMONT announced that, on the basis of statistics compiled by the new construction division of his department, it seemed certain there would be in 1930 an expenditure of almost seven billion dollars on construction and maintenance of public works and public utilities. This total, Mr. Lamont said, does not include residences, commercial and industrial structures and other private operations which last year totaled more than three billion dollars.

Programs for betterments to plant and equipment, announced by public utilities, railroads and telegraph companies represent expenditures of $3,250,000,000, divided as follows: Class A railroads, $1,050,000,000; electric, gas and street railway companies, $1,400,000,000; American Telephone and Telegraph company, $700,000; independent telephone and telegraph companies, short line railroads and privately owned waterworks, $100,000.

Complete returns from the governors of 26 states indicate probable expenditures of $1,778,742,901 for public works and this combined with conservative estimates based on partial returns from the remaining 22 states aggregating $1,275,000,000, it was stated would give an indicated total of $3,053,742,900 for public construction by the various states. When federal construction is included, this total for public construction, it is estimated, will be increased to $3,325,000,000.

FOURTEEN passengers and two pilots lost their lives in what was called the worst tragedy in the history of aviation, near Oceanside, Calif. A big tri-motored plane that was bringing passengers back to Los Angeles from the race track at Agua Caliente, Mexico, got out of control and as the pilots were attempting to make a landing on the beach the machine burst into flames and crashed. Every one on board perished, their bodies being burned beyond recognition. Eight women were among the victims.

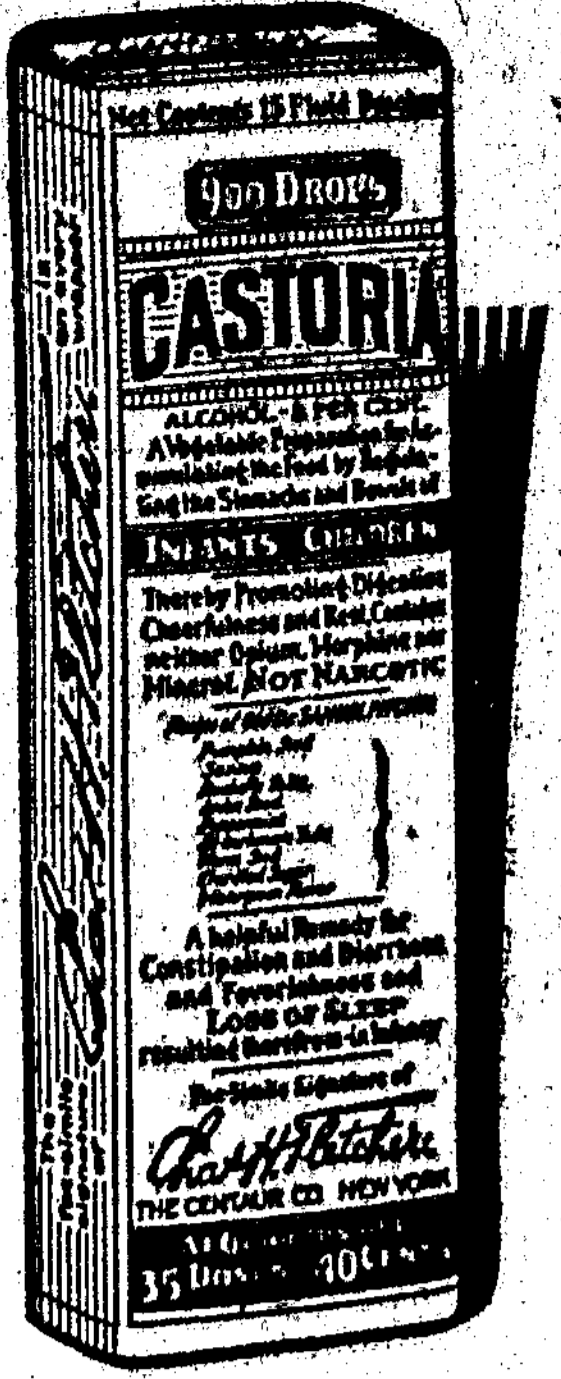

TWO Latin American quarrels reached a somewhat dangerous stage last week. While negotiations were under way for peaceful settlement of the border dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay, there was a clash between troops on the frontier with some casualties. Bolivia said the Paraguayans were the aggressors and were defeated. Paraguay blamed the Bolivians and both complained to the League of Nations.

The government of Honduras ordered a mobilization of troops to dislodge Guatemalan forces that were alleged to have occupied Honduran territory. The foreign minister at Tegucigalpa in a statement disclosed that military movements on the Guatemalan border had threatened the life of the joint boundary dispute conference which is now seeking a solution of the problem. The status quo ante was restored, however, and the conference resumed its work.

MRS. WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, widow of the "Commoner," died of arthritis in Los Angeles at the age of sixty-eight years.

Other deaths of the week included those of Stephen T. Matlan, former director of the national parks system; James Dahlman, mayor of Omaha; George La Mair, well known comedian; D. A. Beedy, one of the veteran brokers of Wall Street, and Vincent Baker, one of the most successful of British peers.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So if it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Needless Suffering

The next time a headache makes you stay at home—

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—

Remember Bayer Aspirin! For there is scarcely any pain it cannot relieve, and relieves promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, and the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might so easily be checked; to neuritis, neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Bayer Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

For your own protection, buy the genuine. Bayer is safe. It's always the same. It never depresses the heart, so use it as often as needed; but the cause of any pain can be treated only by a doctor.

A New Lincoln Memorial

PROPOSED LINCOLN MEMORIAL IN SPENCER COUNTY, IND.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

FOURTEEN states in the Union and some thirty cities have Lincoln memorials of one sort or another. Kentucky, which gave him birth, has one of the most imposing—the magnificent temple at Hodgenville, where is enshrined the rude log cabin in which he was born on February 12, 1809.

NANCY HANKS LINCOLN'S GRAVE

Indiana and Illinois in the perpetuation of Lincoln's life and labors preparatory to his great destiny. It also honors the memory of the pioneer mother who gave him to the world.

The story of that pioneer mother is one of the most appealing in all American history. "A backwoods madonna," Dr. William E. Barton calls her and in his book, "The Women Lincoln Loved," published by an Indiana publishing company, Bobbs-Merrill of Indianapolis, he gives this graphic word picture of her life, and her death, in the state to which is given the privilege of caring for her grave:

Southern Indiana was then a wild region, and the settlements back of the Ohio river were few and sparse. There were at first no regular church services, no physicians, no schools.

For two years Nancy Hanks Lincoln dwelt in Indiana, and saw some approach to comfort in the conditions of her home. Gradually the cleared area of land and "deadening" around the cabin widened, and the acreage of corn increased.

Three years ago, on Mother's day, the executive committee of the union held memorial services at the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln and pledged itself to the patriotic task. On that occasion, an aviator zooming low over the grave and cabin site, dropped this message:

TO THE MANES OF NANCY HANKS LINCOLN

The men and women of today are here beside your grave. Among the guarding trees, to make their vow, your name Shall never die. And to their praise, add our tribute, from the sky. We are the artificers of the past, whose handicraft Has gained the praise of men. With stone and clay, With brush and pen, we wrought, to leave expressions of the truth we found.

The memorial will include the spot where the Lincoln cabin stood and the grave where his mother lies buried. It is intended that it shall in all respects typify the pioneer days when Lincoln was a youth. The plans of Frederick Law Olmstead, landscape architect of Brookline, Mass., which have been adopted, include the complete restoration of the area with appropriate markers, a magnificent memorial hall and the pioneer atmosphere of native trees and shrubbery, with a small body of water and a clearing.

The proposed national memorial will mark the three states of Kentucky, Inon the seventh day after she was taken sick. The mother knew that she was going to die. She was very weak, and the children leaned over her while she gave her last messages. Pining her feeble hand on Abe's head, she told him to be kind and good to his father and sister.

Doctor Barton then tells how Abraham assisted his father in sawing out the planks from which he made the coffin, how they buried her on the hill beside her foster-parents and how no funeral sermon was preached over her grave until months later, when Rev. David Elkis came that way and conducted services.

Then came the word of blessing, and Thomas Lincoln took the hands of his two weeping children and led them back to his desolate home. The feet of millions of pilgrims have walked and will walk that path. They will stand within the granite temple that now enshrines the log walls within which, at Hodgenville, the maternal pain of Nancy Hanks gave to the world her son Abraham; and they will tread reverently through the lofty aisles of the State park at Centerville, where a massive granite stone now marks the spot which Abraham Lincoln in his boyhood watered with his tears.

To him, as he looked back upon it from the standpoint of later experience, it seemed her life had been a tragedy. But we are not sure that she so regarded it. She had sad experiences, and times of depression, but she had lived and learned and loved. She had known the joys of wifehood and motherhood. She had never suffered hunger or neglect. Always there were those who cared for her and for whom she cared.

Though the world has acclaimed Abraham Lincoln as one of the greatest men who ever lived, they were simple people, this mother and this son. So the simplicity of his character is stressed by the architect, Thomas Hibben of Indianapolis, in his design for the main building of the proposed Lincoln memorial.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK ALL RIGHT

By CHARLES M. SCHWAB, Steel Magnate.

I HAVE never felt more optimistic than I do today about the future of business. In the fifty years that I have builded steel mills I have never builded a mill that met the demands on it that followed. With that in mind, who wouldn't be optimistic? This recent speculative wave that has hit the country has brought losses only to those people who thought they were rich. We of the factories lost nothing, for we still have wealth in the bricks and mortar and machines of our factories.

Business in the United States is going to grow just as surely and just as fast in the future as it has in the past. In the steel industry alone we have a background that should inspire us. From 1,000,000 tons in 1879 to 57,000,000 in 1929, or two-thirds of the world's output is a record worthy of study. I have the greatest confidence that the industry of today will follow the path and the pace that have been outlined for it. Any business that is conducted a little better than the other fellow's is bound to succeed.

Real prosperity means prosperity, happiness and good times for the masses of the people. The average daily wage scale, excluding salaries of employees of the gigantic Bethlehem Steel corporation, the board of directors of which I am chairman, is slightly more than $7 a day. The highest possible wages lead to and indicate well-being of the masses.

COLLEGE MEN RANK HIGH

By DR. JOHN M. THOMAS, President Rutgers University.

I am an optimist on America because of what I know concerning the quality of the young manhood of the nation. By and large they are clean, manly and honorable. They will tell the truth, almost all of them even in a tight place. They are neither yellow, nor red, nor even pink. They have much to learn, but they are learning it faster than any generation of any people on record. They prefer hard games to easy ones, difficult jobs to soft snaps. They will attend to the work that needs doing and the problems that need solving fully as well—and I honestly believe a little better—than we of the older generation have attended to ours.

The college student of today has a pretty hard time of it, for he is asked to continue the preparatory stage of life at an age when his parents were out in the world and when his grandfathers in most cases had families.

It is hard to be always getting ready to do something by and by. It takes a good deal of patience and grit to stick at it through the long years of preparation necessary for superior service in this complex world. In youth it is the itch to get away and to get at something practical and real. Parents may well be patient, sympathetic and encouraging. Don't blame the boy for being restless and unappreciative of his opportunities. College is probably the first thing he has undertaken; challenge him to make a success of it.

CHILDREN VICTIMS OF DIVORCE

By DISTRICT JUDGE CHARLES C. SACKMANN, Denver.

Divorce has caused more violations of the law by youths than any other one cause. During the last year more than half of the serious offenses considered in my court involved men under twenty-five. Most of them were on trial for aggravated robbery and grand larceny.

After a couple is divorced, the children are often sent to stay with relatives or, perhaps, with either the father or mother. The child is neglected. He plunges out "on his own" to make his own future.

There was a time when it was a disgrace to be divorced. Now people pride themselves in this achievement—with no thought to the effect upon the children of their marriage. In these cases the children suffer from the loss of either the care, spiritual advice and example of a good mother or the stern discipline, companionship, counsel and restraining hand of a good father.

When divorce enters the horizon of a child he loses one or the other, or both of these heritages to which he is entitled. The child then becomes an easier victim of any criminal instinct he may have.

LEAGUE'S WORST DECADE ENDED

By SIR ERIC DRUMMOND, Secretary League of Nations.

While it is impossible to predict, and it is unwise to prophesy, I am inclined to expect that the League of Nations' next decade will mainly be occupied with a careful development along lines which are laid down already or which are projected. He who expects sensational movements is likely to be disappointed. He who recognizes that vast labor must be expended to change trails now scarcely blazed into traveled highways of international intercourse, is viewing the future of the League with sober realism.

There is no reason to suppose that constitutional readjustments of the League are at an end, but it is unlikely that they will henceforward occur as often as in the early years.

The League's first decade, in other words, has been to a large extent one of establishment, not altogether free from experiment. In the period to follow, the good will of the peoples and the co-operation of their leaders being assumed, this early planting should bring forth immediately bountiful harvests of mutual benefits to every community of the human race.

YOUTH NEEDS HOME CONTROL

By DR. SAMUEL S. DRURY, Rector St. Paul's School, New York.

Both home and school seem to capitulate in the presence of youth bent upon a good time, falsely so called. Schoolmasters shake their heads and parents wring their hands and young people do as they please. The modern American summer resort becomes a place to be avoided and the Christmas holiday is a period of dread. Is it not time for parents to reassert their control and for schools to aid the home in maintaining standards of sensible behavior, not for nine months per annum but for twelves?

Concerning "retreats" in the country, I ask, "Is this right? Ought family life be disrupted? Would not corporate insistence by home and school reclaim for youth the happy opportunity to stay young in the precious formative years from fourteen to eighteen? Rejoice, young man, in thy youth, should be the motto. We are a long time old."

Desperate Wives

have been known to boil their husbands' pipes in lye. This kills the lingering authority of over-strong tobacco, but good-bye pipe! Well, it's time those husbands discovered Sir Walter Raleigh's favorite smoking mixture. It's a blend of choice tobaccos mellowed to a surpassing mildness and flavor, and wrapped in gold foil to keep it fresh. And fragrant? Wives positively love it.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today, this same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore

This world does not feel very bitter toward those who are trying to reform it only by persuasion.

You don't need to employ a trained nurse to nurse a grievance.

FEEL GOOD?

Most ailments start from poor circulation (constipation or semi-constipation). Intestinal poisons not vitiated by waste matter cause health and make life miserable. Tonight try DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPsin—all vegetable corrective—not an ordinary laxative. See how it will aid in restoring your appetite and rid you of that heavy, lumpy, poorly feeling.

Spring Opening That Means Much to Carrizozo

Spring is not a great way away from us, and with it will come the finishing of the Carrizozo - Socorro Highway, which will be completed about April 1, according to T. G. Brown, Project Engineer. People from the east, contemplating trips to California and other states along the coast have been awaiting with much interest, the finishing of this highway, as it will not only shorten the trip, but will give a more direct route without annoying detours and dangerous mountain passes where so many accidents have happened in the past. Ours will be a clear, straight route, most of which will be at the level. The highway will be free from low, marshy portions, such as is common to most highways. There will be few mountains to travel over, and those will be mere hills, compared with those in other sections of the west, where tourists have to travel.

With these advantages, which will mean so much to tourists, Chambers of Commerce along the route should be quick to take advantage of the opportunity to make the facts known to those interested in a shorter and safer route to the coast. Aside from the above facts, there are many things along the route that will appeal to tourists, as the traveling portion are not simply out to rush over the country as fast as possible, but they want to see some things of interest as they travel.

In this, we have the old county seat of Lincoln County, where so many things have happened in the past, such as the doling of Billy the Kid, the Lincoln County War and other things which will interest the easterners. Then we have the Malpais with its hidden mysteries of which there is no record, even from the earliest Spanish settlers.

To the north, while a little out of the way, we have the Gran Quivira, the ancient city where ruins and relics would be of added interest to sight-seers, and after crossing the Malpais and through the canyon beyond, they may see the "Jornada del Muerto" or (Journey of Death) where many early Spanish expeditions met death from thirst and starvation. Then, on to the Rio Grande, where the ancient towns of San Antonio, Socorro and other places with early histories, will make the trip to the coast, both comfortable and alluring. The coming springtime will be the time to advertise the new highway—Will somebody, say something? These columns are open for suggestions.

TELEPHONE CABLE LINES GROW FAST

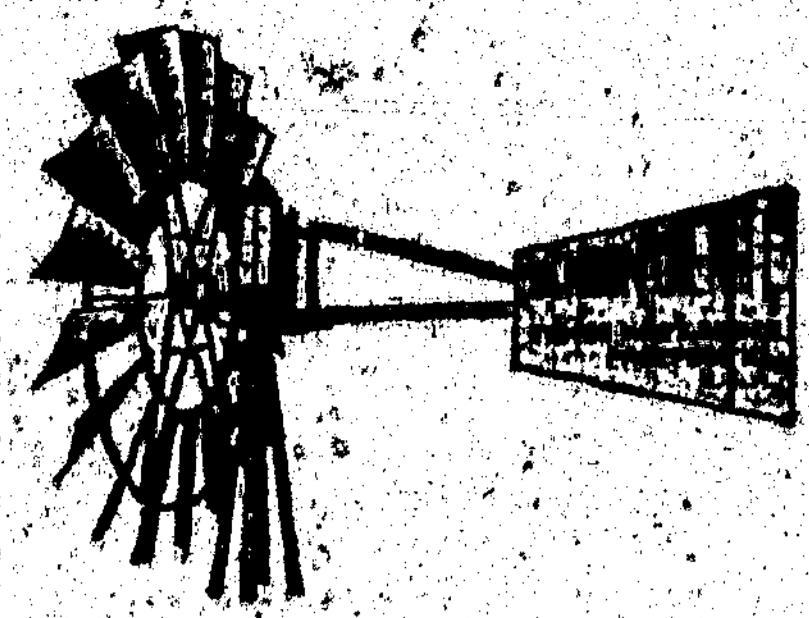

Pulling Telephone Cable into Trenchway through Manhole

EVERY year sees large additions to the underground telephone cables of the Bell System; at the close of 1922, there were nearly 50 million miles of telephone wire and more than three million miles of bell wire in underground cables in the System. Large increases have been made also in the aerial cable plant and at the close of 1922, there were more than 12,000,000 miles of aerial cable and more than 1,000,000 miles of bell wire in aerial cables.

WOMEN KNIT AND SEW FOR RED CROSS RELIEF

Volunteers Aid Through Motor and Canteen Corps—Send Gifts to Service Men.

Recalling the days of the World War, many women still make pajamas and other hospital garments, many knit sweaters, and more than 2,500, 000 surgical dressings were rolled by volunteer workers for the American Red Cross Chapters all over the nation, in the year just closed. The hospital garments are given to veterans and the surgical dressings go to civilian or Veterans' Bureau hospitals, or wherever needed. Many Chapters also maintain well stocked stores of surgical dressings and medicines, in order to be prepared should a disaster strike their communities. Volunteer workers make children's clothing and linens which are distributed in times of major catastrophes. The Motor Corps of Red Cross women and the Canteen Service, also, are active during the World War and are maintained by many Red Cross Chapters.

The above picture shows a sectional view of Samson "Oil-Rite" Windmill illustrating principle of Pump, also location of Four Timken Roller Bearings

The AUTOMATIC OILING SYSTEM and lubrication of the various parts is accomplished as follows: The oil is poured into the gear case, which submerges the lower part of the double gears, including the wrist pins, when at the bottom of stroke. The rotation of the gears carries the oil up and floods the pistons, and the oil running down over the inside of the gears floods the gear shaft. The trough which is part of the hub of wheel head, maintains a level that submerges the lower part of both front and rear Timken bearings, and the surplus oil is returned to the gear case through a passage in the main frame extension. A felt oil retaining washer and paper gasket prevent any oil from working out around the wheel shaft.

AUXILIARY OIL RUMP

One of the outstanding features of the SAMSON "OIL-RITE" is the extreme simplicity, efficiency, and practicability of the pump.

The main frame on the Oil-Rite mill forms a reservoir that holds a sufficient amount of oil to lubricate the mill for one year. A sheet metal helmet completely encloses the reservoir and covers all working parts thus eliminating waste and making it dirt, rain, sleet and snow proof. No water can get in to flood the oil, no dust can blow in to grind out the bearings. This construction prevents squeaks, rattles and gear howling brought about by insufficient lubrication, all of which is avoided in the automatically oiled "OIL-RITE" mill. The ball bearing turn table, the constant supply of oil always flooding the moving parts and the Timken roller bearings insure the owner the "OIL-RITE" mill will pump water in the slightest breeze.

Luis, Prop.

To The Good People of Lincoln and Socorro Counties, N. M.

In these two communications in order to give a full understanding of the whole transaction. You can mislead as well by concealing a fact as in mis-stating one.

I also stated near the beginning of this letter that both these communications addressed to the Secretary of the Interior contained statements that were untrue and misleading.

For instance the first ground for protest as contained in the first communication which was signed by W. R. Lovelace says: "Within the area embraced in the grazing lands applied for by Mr. Harvey are many persons with established ranches; about sixteen watering places, consisting mostly of drilled wells, and ranges covering approximately 200 sections, upon which approximately 50,000 sheep and cattle are grazed during the greater portion of the year by the respective owners."

And in the concluding paragraph of said Lovelace letter we find this language: "While Mr. C. M. Harvey, or the Ancho Sheep Company, has approximately 134 sections on his own range from which to select his lands, and not interfere with the ranges of the above citizens."

In other words, Mr. Lovelace says that embraced within my selection are ranches of parties who will be injured, consisting of more than 200 sections of land.

And in the last paragraph the statement is made that Harvey has within his own range 134 sections of public domain where he might have made his selection.

The real facts are that I have approximately 60 sections of public domain in my range and that I have included all of these in this selection. The further facts are that my total selection only included approximately 166 sections counting my own, so it is impossible for the area to include more than 200 sections.

In this same first ground for protest the impression is left that "16 watering places consisting mostly of drilled wells," are included within this area applied for by me. The truth is that only four wells are included, two belonging to the writer of the letter, Mr. Lovelace; one to Mr. Gallacher and one to the Red Canyon Sheep Company.

Again in the Lovelace letter, on the first page near the bottom appears this statement: "Should such an exchange as applied for by Mr. Harvey be permitted, it would, in effect ruin the ranch of each and all of us and cause us to lose the ranches which we have been engaged for so many years in establishing."

And with one paragraph intervening, then comes the following, which shows the owner first, water, sections, livestock and class:

W. R. Lovelace, 2 wells, 50 sections, 11,000 sheep, 375 cattle; Red Canyon Sheep Co., 3 wells, 80 sections, 13,000 sheep; Wm. W. Gallacher & Co., 2 reservoirs and 1 well, 24 sections, 3,500 sheep, 600 cattle; Jimmy Cooper, 1 well (reservoir), 9 sections, 1,800 sheep; Frank Maxwell, 2 wells, 1 tank, 21 sections, 2,500 sheep, 300 cattle; Estanislao Belio, 1 well, 10 sections, 2,000 sheep, 80 cattle; P. M. Melton & Sons, 2 ground tanks reservoir, 1 well, 17 sections, 2,800 sheep, 50 cattle; H. O. Bursum, 1 well, 1 tank, 14 sections, 2,000 sheep. Total: 12 wells, 6 tanks, 220 sections, 88,600 sheep, 1,355 cattle.

In other words the impression is sought to be left that all these gentlemen will be ruined; that all their ranches are to be taken after a lifetime of labor; that they will have nothing left and the sympathy of the public is sought by this statement. The truth is as follows with reference to each party taken separately:

1. As to Mr. W. R. Lovelace: In addition to the ranch mentioned in the table herein Mr. Lovelace also has eight other ranches and will still continue to have the free use of approximately 150 sections of public domain left in these other eight ranches to which his livestock can be moved without damage. As a matter of fact he runs his sheep on the ranch involved in this deal for only about four months in the year.

Mr. Lovelace has a fenced ranch within the area selected by me and this ranch includes about 46 sections and two wells. Of this fenced ranch approximately 30 sections are included in my selection. The two wells are each approximately 150 feet in depth, one of same being in section 13, township 4 south, range 3 east and the other in section 29, township 3 south, range 9 east. Within this fenced ranch Mr. Lovelace pays taxes on approximately two sections, maybe a little bit more; in other words, out of 46 sections within the enclosure he pays taxes on only two together with improvements. The total valuation given by him in his assessment of the land being $1346.20 and of all improvements $844.00. This is the only land and improvements involved in my selection belonging to Mr. Lovelace and Mr. Lovelace has been using forty-four sections of the government land under fence excluding everybody else for a period of more than ten years without the payment of any taxes or any rent save and except the taxes on approximately two sections.

With reference to his rights and the protest, he now makes, that no one else should have the right to come in because of his improvement of the land and the development of water, I desire to state that I am the present owner of the two original wells in that section of the country, the Ancho headquarters well and the B. French headquarters well. They are approximately fifteen miles apart with five miles of pipe line between and they were here long before any other were drilled and the original owners enjoyed the use of them and controlled the public domain between and surrounding them, without regard to the previously acquired rights (if any rights existed) of the owners of these two wells, Mr. Lovelace, also the Meltons and Mr. Gallacher sank or acquired wells and appropriated the range which was formerly covered by these original wells. In other words, they were guilty and are still guilty of doing the things they now claim I am trying to do.

As further showing the attitude of unfairness on the part of Mr. Lovelace, about ten years ago he ran a fence to within approximately one-half mile of the J. B. French east well thereby cutting Mr. French off from the range that he had long enjoyed and fencing in one school section that Mr. French had leased and used for years. It seems if he had desired to be fair and do the right thing he would at least have conceded the school section and one-half of the range between himself and Mr. French to Mr. French, but instead he ran his fence, as above stated to within approximately one-half mile. Their two wells were about four miles apart.

As has been stated repeatedly in this letter, Mr. Lovelace will lose nothing that he really owns, for I have offered and am willing to pay a reasonable value for all improvements on the land within the area selected, that the owners care to dispose of. The only loss that Mr. Lovelace will sustain will be of something that he has never owned but has enjoyed for many years without payment therefor.

2. The Red Canyon Sheep Company, so the statement says and the impression is sought to be left, has 3 wells and 80 sections within the area of my selection. The facts are that the Red Canyon Sheep Company together with Messrs. Bursum, Cooper and Gallacher, are enjoying and have enjoyed for many years the free use of public domain consisting of considerably more than 200 sections and that the only improvements on any part of the same included within my selection is 1 shallow well approximately 80 feet deep on 160 acres owned by the Red Canyon Sheep Company and 1 surface tank. They will have more than 100 sections of open unfenced public domain left in this range and in addition each of them are using large quantities of public domain on their other ranches. The Red Canyon Sheep Co. has 4 ranches in all and pays taxes on all land, together with improvements and farm products with a total value of $3775. On the land included within the area of my selection, as stated above, is only 1 well approximately 80 feet deep on 160 acres and 1 surface tank and it is impossible to say how much valuation they pay taxes on.

3. Wm. H. Gallacher & Company have 1 well and 1 tank within the area selected by me, and as stated with reference to the Red Canyon people the range enjoyed by them together with Messrs. Bursum, Cooper and the Red Canyon Sheep Co. take in about 75 sections of my selection, leaving him together with them still more than 100 sections of public domain. For the well and the tank as stated with reference to all others, I am willing to pay a reasonable value. And with reference to Mr. Gallacher I desire to state further that he pays taxes on only 1320 acres and improvements of $1000.00 within this area and that he still has 2 other ranches and a very large range and some public domain to which he can move his livestock without sacrifice or injury and, in connection with Mr. Gallacher, I desire to state that with his co-operation a trade can be worked out which would prove beneficial to him.

Referring to the next one who it is claimed will be injured, to wit: Mr. Jimmy Cooper, I desire to state that Mr. Cooper is the user of the same range as the Red Canyon Company and Messrs. Gallacher and Bursum, that, of all this range consisting of more than 200 sections of public domain, more than 100 sections will still be left. Mr. Cooper pays no taxes on any land or any improvements situated within the area of my selection. In addition, Mr. Cooper has a forest permit, one well and one tank and large part of the public domain outside this selection. And as stated above he has enjoyed this for many years without the payment of any taxes or any remuneration therefor.

4. With reference to Mr. Frank Maxwell, another one who it is claimed will be injured, the facts are that Mr. Maxwell has approximately 75 sections of forest range leased and about 15 sections of public domain and other land outside the area selected by me but adjoining this selection. He has four wells, a fenced range all outside my selection and will not be injured but on the other hand, will be greatly benefited if this deal goes through.

5. Mr. Estanislao Belio has 2 wells and 25 sections of public domain open range outside of the area of my selection and will not be injured if this deal goes through.

6. P. M. Melton & Sons have no land within the area selected by me, pay no taxes on anything within the said area and have no improvements. The nearest well they have to any land in the selection is 5 1/2 miles from said selection. They have a dry well in section 32, township 3 south, range 11 east about the center on the south line but said well has no water and has not been used for years. They also have a surface tank in section 15, township 3 south, range 10 east worth less than $200.00 and as stated above they pay no taxes on any land or improvements or water within the area of my selection.

Mr. Melton has no fenced ranch and the public domain he is using, he has taken from others who have prior improvements and prior rights. And my selection will not take one foot of ground to which he is entitled and will not take one dollar's worth of improvements.

7. Mr. H. O. Bursum is listed as one who will lose if this deal is consummated. It is stated and the impression is left that he will lose one well, one tank and 14 sections. As stated above the facts are that the Red Canyon Sheep Co., Gallacher, Cooper and Bursum together are enjoying the use of more than 200 sections of public domain open range for which they have never paid one penny. Mr. Bursum does not pay one dollar taxes on any land or on any improvements within this selection. He also has selection of State Lands chosen as to prevent anybody from the south and west from entering upon and using a very large part of the public domain, which he and the others above mentioned have used for so long. Instead of having one well and one tank within the area he has no improvements and except for the loss of the use of the 75 sections which he has been using together with the Red Canyon Sheep Co., Gallacher and Cooper for many years he will lose nothing. And an investigation will disclose that there is a very great part of the public domain which he is still using without payment therefor to which he can move his livestock.

And as been stated elsewhere in this communication, nobody will lose anything that they own if they are willing to accept a fair price to be fixed as indicated and except the loss of the use of something they have never owned.

Again in the second communication which has been signed by many of the good citizens of Socorro and Lincoln Counties—

"If the application of Mr. C. M. Harvey is approved, the most of these persons would be injuriously affected; in many instances their watering places confiscated, which would mean a confiscation of the ranches used by them, and a sacrifice of their holding which they have spent the great part of their lives to establish. Most, if not all, of these ranches have been established for a long number of years and at great expense in money and work upon the part of the owners, all of whom have suffered in the past years from severe drouths which this country has experienced; the watering places alone on these ranches running in cost from ten to twenty thousand dollars.

"We are reliably informed that the application applied for by Mr. Harvey, in many instances, surrounds privately owned watering places, with the object in view of controlling the range, and that if his application is approved it would not only confiscate the watering places of the ranch owners but ruin their ranches, and would amount to a confiscation of not only their ranch holding but of a sacrifice of their livestock."

I wonder how many of you good people knew that with no legal obligation on my part to do so I have offered and now propose to pay a reasonable value for every well, tank and other improvement on any land coming within the area of my selection. I wonder how many of you have thought of the fact that if the contention of the present owners is right the government could never dispose of its public domain to advantage because it has already been "confiscated" by putting down a well or building a tank on a little strip of land or appropriating a little dab of water somewhere. I wonder how many of you thought, when you signed your names to the above statement that you were advocating letting a few citizens at the expense of the many by building a tank or putting down a well, confiscate hundreds of thousands of acres of the people's land without payment of one penny.

If the government cannot trade this land now and get something it needs and wants, will the time ever come when it can dispose of it? Title of this public domain is in the government—it can do as it pleases with the land so far as it is legal. It can let a few men appropriate it and use it a life-time and grow rich on it at the expense of the many, without payment of rent or taxes, or it can trade it for something of value that it needs and wants and thereby make it producing by placing it upon the tax rolls.

A party acquires rights to the vast public domain by reason of sinking a well on a small acreage and then claiming the whole country, and paying taxes on only the small acreage and improvements, it would be cheaper not to own or contract or lease and the government and the people have lost all their rights by permitting a settler to go on public land and build a tank. The law never intended such a thing and justice does not demand any such thing, but that is the position of the parties protesting here.

Is the government trying to confiscate the wells, tanks and improvements these parties own, when they are to be paid a reasonable value, or is the shoe on the other foot and are these owners trying to confiscate a great body of public land without paying anything therefor? If their argument is good now that the government cannot sell or trade that which it owns, because it will deprive them of that which they do not own and thereby ruin them, then it will be good forever and they can never be touched and are in a better position than if they owned the land, because if they owned it, they would have to pay taxes.

In the last paragraph of the second communication quoted above is this statement, "If his (Mr. Harvey's) application is approved, it would not only confiscate the watering places of the ranch owners, but ruin their ranches and would amount to a confiscation of not only their ranch holdings, but a sacrifice of their livestock." When you signed this protest did you know how many other ranches these men owned and how much more public domain they were using in these ranches to which their livestock could be transferred, instead of being sacrificed?

Of the parties mentioned whose ranches it is claimed will be confiscated and their stock sacrificed, Only Three are within the area of my selection and they will be paid for their improvements and wells and tanks if they are willing to sell for a reasonable price, and the only loss they will sustain is the loss of that which they never owned. The parties referred to are Mr. W. R. Lovelace, Mr. Gallacher, and the Red Canyon Sheep Company and each of them, as shown above, will still have and be using enough of the public domain to care for all their livestock.

This exchange is clearly in the public interest and an impartial investigation will bear out this fact. In both the communications herein referred to there is a request that a careful examination be given this matter by the office of the Secretary of the Interior. In this request I wish to join and I ask you who have signed the protest against the consummation of the exchange join me in the further request that the best interests of the people of the State and County be allowed to control instead of the political influence of the few men who have profited for so many years at the expense of the many.

Very respectfully,
C. M. HARVEY.

Business Institutes Use the Plan of Getting People to Think Rather Than Merely to Learn.

There is one general principle at the basis of all good teaching and it is that a person learns more readily by assimilating the experiences which he himself encounters than in any other way, says Harold Stoner, National Educational Director of the American Institute of Banking. This institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association through which 35,000 bank men and women are receiving scientific instruction in their chosen business.

"The most advanced people in teaching today are emphasizing the importance of activity on the part of the student," he says. "In the school-room of former days we often heard such phrases as, 'Be still,' 'Learn by heart,' 'Don't do that,' 'What does the book say?' The newer education asks, 'What do you think?' 'What was your reaction to that experiment?' 'What did you discover?' 'What reasons have you for answer?'"

The New School Calls for Action "The 'expressing' school is taking the place of the repeating and listening school. The classroom is becoming an open forum, a studio of self-expression, a place of mental growth. The modern concepts of education are personal experimentation, individual investigation, critical discussion, and creative self-expression. The pupil really learns only as he is able to assimilate the new meanings of facts and principles with his previous experiences. Activities therefore constitute the pivotal force around which are grouped the new factors in education. The primary responsibility of the teacher is to furnish a constant stream of activities which will afford the stimulating urge to mental growth.

"Education is a process of experiencing, and the program of the institute is so arranged as to give the greatest opportunity to gain by such experience. Through this we develop the art of thinking. Thinking has been described as the ability to handle experience and to bring it to bear on a problem. Effective thinking arises when we are presented with the choice of conduct. Our previous experiences become helpful as we marshal them and bring them to bear upon the matter of our choice."

The students in the American Institute of Banking by reason of the fact that they continue to go on about their employment in banks while taking the bank's association's study courses have an opportunity to combine learning with practical thinking and action.

Blazing Radio Trails in Maine

Engineers Combine Camp Life and Most Modern Methods of Experimentation in Transatlantic Telephone Research.

By J. O. PERRINE

THE transatlantic radio telephone is a connecting link between twenty million telephones in North America and seven million telephones in Europe. Eighteen nations can now talk to one another.

Reducing the Effects of Static
The success which has characterized this service, begun in January, 1927, is the result of many factors. One of the most important is the reduction of static interference. The electric waves which carry the voice across the Atlantic from Rocky Point, Long Island, to Cupar, Scotland, and also those which carry the returning voice from Rugby, England, to Houlton, Maine, are subject to the mutilating effects of this arch enemy of radio reception. The atmosphere is the seat of continual and fairly violent electrical disturbances. A radio receiver brings in a large amount of clicks and crashes familiar to listeners of broadcast programs. The telephone and radio engineer's fundamental obstacle is not distance alone, as one might think, but a combination of distance with this ever present disturbing agent, static. For many years it has been the dream of inventors to create a device which, attached to a radio receiver, would eliminate these noises. It would have taken an optimistic dreamer to conceive of cutting down the effects of static 20,000 times, but this is just what is now being done as compared with early receiving systems of less than a decade ago. This improvement has come about with the application of two simple principles. The first of these is the proper location for the receiving system, and the second is directional receiving.

Measurements disclosed that the severity of static in Maine was considerably less than in New York City. By locating the antenna in Maine, an improvement was obtained equivalent to increasing the power of the English transmitting station some fifty times. One might say the static was reduced fifty times.

Directional Antennas

A greater advantage, however, was obtained by using a special kind of antenna. The word "antenna" means "feeler." Various insects and animals are equipped with slender feelers which are called "antennae" by the natural scientist. In a similar manner the wire system which is sensitive to incoming radio waves is aptly called an "antenna." Radio antennas vary in their sensitivity to waves coming from different directions. A vertical wire antenna shows no preference for waves coming from a particular direction. Loop antennas are more sensitive to waves coming from directions in the plane of the loop. These loops, therefore, offer possibilities as radio compasses, and today ships at sea can be located by them. Radio beacons guide airplanes by use of the same principle.

Another type of antenna consists of a wire line about as long as one or more wave lengths of the radio waves to be received. For this reason it is called the wave antenna. It looks like a telephone line, but is specially designed for radio. For waves which come from either side it possesses poor receptivity. For waves which approach it endwise from one direction it possesses a high degree of receptivity.

To determine experimentally the varying amount of receptivity of such an antenna—that is, to get the "feel" of the antenna—an interesting set of experiments was made during the summer of 1927 in the vicinity of Houlton, Maine. A portable radio transmitter on a motor truck, with its batteries, motors, generators, vacuum tubes, coils and condensers, sent out test signals from twenty-two towns on a fifty-mile radius circle.

At each of the twenty-two locations the group of young engineers pitched their tents, prepared their meals and slept under the starry skies, as did the early surveyors of railroad days of long ago. When the mast to support their temporary antenna had been erected and the radio transmitter was properly functioning, tests could begin.

Since the Houlton antennas were being used daily for commercial transatlantic service, hours of test had to be arranged which were not characteristic of engineers, but were appropriate for fishermen and hunters. At 3:30 A. M., just when the sun was rising in the east, the tests began and continued until 6:30 A. M. Again, in the evening at 5 o'clock, tests were conducted one hour until 6 o'clock.

While the portable radio transmitter was sending out its signals, the measuring apparatus in Houlton was, of course, picking up the signals and measuring their strength.

It was found by the above experiments that the antennas did possess the high degree of receptivity predicted for signals coming from England, and lower degree of receptivity for signals coming from other directions. Fortunately, in Maine, static waves come from directions behind the antenna whose length lies in the direction toward England. The reduction of static interference, as revealed by the measurements taken in the summer of 1927, was most satisfactory, since it meant that by use of these antennas, as compared with loop antennas, transmission would be improved as much as if the radio transmitter power had been increased by 400 times.

The two improvements, therefore, resulting from the use of directive wave antennas and location in Maine, where the static is not so severe, represent respectively an equivalent of 400 and 50 times in power increase. Together, this means a 20,000 fold improvement which is obtained in the receiver now operating in Houlton, Maine, over that of operating a loop antenna near New York City. Since the transmitter in Rugby, England, has about 200 kilowatts of power, it may be said that the unobtrusive little receiving plant in Maine is as fruitful in results as a giant transmitting station 20,000 times 200, or 4,000,000 kilowatts power. It is a veritable radio David, more potent than any Goliath transmitting station which it would be feasible to construct.

THIRTY YEARS AT SWITCHBOARD

Mrs. Harriet G. Daley, Chief Operator at Capitol, Washington, D. C.

WHEN the first switchboard serving fifty-one stations was installed in the Capitol at Washington, D. C., in 1898, Mrs. Harriet J. Daley was the first and only operator. Mrs. Daley is now Chief Operator, and in the thirty years since the first switchboard was installed she has watched the little board grow, first to a eleven-position board, and in 1926, to a new eighteen-position board, which requires the services of twenty-seven operators. In those thirty years, Mrs. Daley has trained practically all the operators that have handled calls over the Capitol's switchboard, and it is with great pride she tells of every one of them having been in service for at least two or three years, and some for ten years or longer. Incidentally, she has seen the service over this switchboard grow until now the office is large enough to serve a city of 15,000 people twenty-four hours a day.

WHAT EDITORS SAY OF TELEPHONE

A single telephone, with a thousand, some service; a million of them and civilization prefers its cars; 18,000,000, modern civilization with its new concept of time and distance.

New York City. The city's primary advantage was the fact that within the city limits a new living was called a "radio" city.

—Boston Evening Transcript.

Most of Wall Street's business is done over the telephone.

average brokerage firm probably does more than 75 per cent of its business in this way, and profits it too, for where a man gives an order or asks a question over the telephone he is apt to be quicker than going through the same motions on the spot. There are few errors made over the telephone, so far as the broker is concerned.

If a railroad map of the country is a study in lines what must a telephone map look like? There are thousands of places reached by the speaking wires that are entirely off any railroad line, and even isolated from highways. There are many reasons why the telephone is the marvel of the age.

Frigidaire Facts

There are now 1,800,000 Frigidaires in use, more than all other makes of electric refrigerators combined, according to word received from the factory at Dayton, Ohio, by F. A. English, local Frigidaire dealer. Frigidaire business in 1929 showed an increase of 25% over the preceding year, according to an optimistic message to dealers everywhere from E. G. Biechler, president and general manager, which contained the above announcement. "One year ago," reads Mr. Biechler, "you expressed the belief that the country would want more Frigidaire equipment in 1929 than it did the year before. You placed this increased demand at 25% more, in dollar volume. You were right in your opinion, for we have achieved this goal. "We are optimistic for 1930; we think our business will be still better in the coming year. Sales quotas have been increased.

Glencoe Woman's Club

Mrs. Sidney Bonnell was hostess to the Club, Feb. 1.
Mrs. J. R. Werner presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. V. Tully, who was in Alamogordo attending the State Federation Board Meeting. A very interesting report was given of Dr. Kent's visit to the Community upon the invitation of the Club, and it was moved to extend our sincere appreciation for his assistance in the interest of a new High School. Dr. Kent was entertained at the Bonnell ranch while here, and Mrs. B. D. Garner of Pecos served a six o'clock dinner for him the evening he spoke there, with Mrs. J. V. Tully as a guest also. The Librarian reported that the Artesia City Library gave the Club Library 90 books, for which we are very grateful. It was moved that Mrs. Geo. Coe, Chairman of the Public Welfare Department, buy a First Aid Kit for the Glencoe School. The next meeting will be Mar. 1, at the home of Mrs. H. J. Gottlieb with Mrs. Sidney Bonnell as leader of the program, "Better Homes."

It will cost a half million dollars.

Indian Chief Accuses Custer

Charges that the battle which ended in the famous Custer massacre was deliberately provoked by Gen. George A. Custer, were sworn to in Washington by Chief Iron White Man, one of the survivors of the famous battle. The chief's affidavit was made in connection with the filing of suits for $500,000 by members of the Sioux tribe as compensation for land lost as a result of Custer's invasion. The photograph shows Chief Iron White Man (left), who made the charges, and Chief Standing Bear.

UNCLE TOMMY, 118

Uncle Tommy Kemp of Poplar Bluff, Mo., is one hundred eighteen years old and is looking forward to his one hundred nineteenth birthday next September. He attributes his longevity to his philosophy of life, which he brought to Missouri with him from southern Tennessee seventy years ago—eat what you want, drink what you want, and do as you please so long as it does not intrude on the rights of your fellow man.

Going After Treasure of the Incas

Left to right: Robert C. Jackson of Detroit, Mich.; Albert V. Rowell, a descendant of the Incas of Peru, and Gideon A. Lacey, also of Detroit, photographed as they sailed for Peru, where they will seek the vast hidden wealth of the once powerful Incas. Rowell claims to have knowledge of the whereabouts of the wealth buried by the Incas during the conquest by Spain in the seventeenth century. Jackson and Lacey are backing the expedition, whose route is said to be a spot about twenty miles from Cuzco, Peru.

WARNINGS AND PROMISES

(TEMPERANCE LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 7:1-29 (Print vv. 1-15, 15-27).
GOLDEN TEXT—Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Obeying Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Keeping the Law of Christ.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Truth About Alcoholic Beverages.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Cutting Down the Corrupt Tree.

I. Concerning Censorious Judgments (vv. 1-12).
1. The sin and folly of (vv. 1-5). This prohibition should not be so construed as to forbid our making an estimate of the lives of those about us, for "by their fruits ye shall know them." Neither should it prevent us from administering rebuke to those who deserve it. It is not wrong to condemn the errors and faults of those who are in the way of sin. It does not mean that sin should go unrebuked until we ourselves are perfect. It rebukes readiness to blame others and to magnify their weakness and error.
2. The duty of discrimination in dealing out holy things (v. 6). The Gospel should be preached to all. We should turn from those who reject and treat with contempt the Gospel message.
3. Qualification for discrimination (vv. 7-12).
(1) A life of prayer (vv. 7-11). Only those are able to rightly divide the word of truth who live a life of prayer.
(2) A disposition to treat others as one would be treated (v. 12). It is not merely to refrain from doing injury, but positively to do for others that which we would desire to have done unto ourselves under similar circumstances. No man can live this rule unless he has been born from above and abides with Christ.

II. Entrance into the Kingdom Urged (vv. 13, 14). There are two ways only before each one—life and death, heaven and hell. The narrow gate is the way of life. While the gate is strait and the way narrow, it is an open gate and the only gate to life, and all are invited to enter. The gate which opens to every good thing in life is strait—restricted. The way of Jesus Christ is not the way of the crowd.
III. Warnings Against False Teachers (vv. 15-20).
1. Their real existence (v. 15). Ever since God has had a people, false prophets and teachers have appeared among them.
2. Their nature (v. 15).
(1) They are hypocritical. The devil does his most successful work by masquerading as an angel of light (II Cor. 11:14, 15). His ministers appear in this way and turn people from the narrow to the broad way. (2) They are destructive. This is suggested by their being ravening wolves. It is when the wolf is in sheep's clothing that it does its most destructive work. False teachers are doing their most deadly work while pretending to be loyal to the Bible and Jesus-Christ.
3. The unfailing test (vv. 16-19). "By their fruits ye shall know them." Every tree bears its own kind of fruit. One may search the universe in vain for an exception to this rule. It is equally true in the spiritual world—there is a vital connection between faith of heart and fruit of the life.
4. Their ultimate end (v. 19). Although God has infinite patience and bears long. He will see to it that this evil work does not go on forever.

IV. The Dangers of Empty Profession (vv. 21-23).
1. Merely calling Christ Lord will not answer for doing his will (v. 21).
2. One may do supernatural works and not be saved (vv. 22, 23). Not all supernatural worlds are divine. There is a supernatural world of evil. It is the business of every believer to test the Spirit (I John 4:1, 2).
3. Separation from God (v. 23). One may have been a Sunday school teacher or a minister and have performed many mighty works and yet hear from Christ the awful words, "I never knew you; depart from Me."
V. The One and Only Safe Way (vv. 24-29).
1. Hear the sayings of Christ (v. 24). To do this one must give attention to reading the Word of God.
2. Do what Christ commands (vv. 24-29). Hearing and doing the teachings of Christ is building upon solid rock. Hearing and not doing Christ's sayings is to build upon the sand.

Properly Protected If a man have Christ in his heart, heaven before his eyes, and only as much of temporal blessing as is just needful to carry him safely through life, then pain and sorrow have little to shoot at.—William Burns.
Faith By faith we understand that the world has been framed by the word of God, so that what is seen hath not been made out of things which do appear.—Epistle to the Hebrews.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

Up from the south at the break of morn,
Over the isaw by the south wind borne,
Steals like the dawn or a sweet perfume
Fragrant of summer with bird and bloom.
This is the month when the banks of snow
Gurgle in streams to the rivers below.
This is the month of the mating moon,
Brooding new life that shall wake in June.

Down on the shores of the southern stream
Wild birds are chanting the deathless theme,
Voices of black bird, of wren, and dove
Warble the song of nest and love,
Born by the breath of the southern breeze,
Soon they will brood in the northern trees,
Each one will croon, from his tree or vine,
Love-imbued lays to his Valentine.

Come, lonely heart, put your sorrows away—
This is the month of St. Valentine's day,
Why should you pine in your gloom apart—
No one to love you and call you sweetheart?
Catch in your bosom the spirit of Spring;
Come, join the chorus of lovers who sing,
Made in despair now in sadness repaid,
Waiting the call of St. Valentine.
—The Woodmen News.

Valentine Customs and Superstitions of Old

There were certain superstitions during early times which now seem entirely to have passed away. For instance, if a young girl, on the eve of St. Valentine day, went alone and waited until midnight on the porch of a church, then started for home, scattering hempseed on the way, it was believed she would see her own true love in a winding sheet raking the hempseed behind her. Why he was supposed to be seen in a winding sheet has not been explained.

Another superstition was most interesting. If a young girl got five bay leaves and pinned one on each of the four corners of her pillow, the remaining one to be placed in the center, and if that night her sweetheart appeared in her dreams they would be married before the end of the year.

It is written of one young lady of those times that she confessed, in order to make the charm more potent, to having boiled an egg perfectly hard, removed the yolk, filled the vacant place with salt and, upon going to bed, eaten the entire egg, salt, shell and all, without drinking or speaking to any one after she had finished the eating of it.

But the really, truly way to find out the name of your own true love was to write the name of all your admirers upon bits of paper, roll them up in clay, put them in a vessel of water and the first one to rise to the surface was surely the one.

The practice of sending comic valentines is a much later one. These caricatures which poked fun at people's personal appearance, their clothes and even the work in which they were engaged had their greatest popularity perhaps 40 or 50 years ago. Fortunately, they now seem to have lost their vogue. There is no doubt that many friendships were severed and enemies made because of these frequently offensive missives being sent with malice aforethought.

Meanwhile, the pretty valentines—all hearts, paper lace and cupid—seem to grow finer each year. Beautiful hand-painted cards and painted and beautifully decorated boxes for confections are sold in great numbers.

Not the least interesting of the present-day valentines are the various and numerous assortments of packages filled with all the paraphernalia ready to be assembled into lovely valentines which children love to prepare for their teachers, friends and family. As it has now become more a day for children than for grown-ups, these packages afford much pleasure to the sender and to the recipient.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is expelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take. Any drug store has the genuine, pre-criptional product.

"Right! Entirely right," agreed Joshua, taking the petition at last. "There ought to be a watchman outside. If there is, tell him I wish the governor to wait upon us. He may assure his excellency 'tis of supreme importance."

"Tis I who's to blame, Rot me, 'tis the truth! And—y-y-you know, you haven't any r-right to hate her. 'Tis I you hate. And what's the use of making party feeling more bitter than it is? Publish that list of signatures, arrest all the poor devils I tempted into the affair—and what will it bring you? A scandal that may wreck the country more surely than I planned to do it."

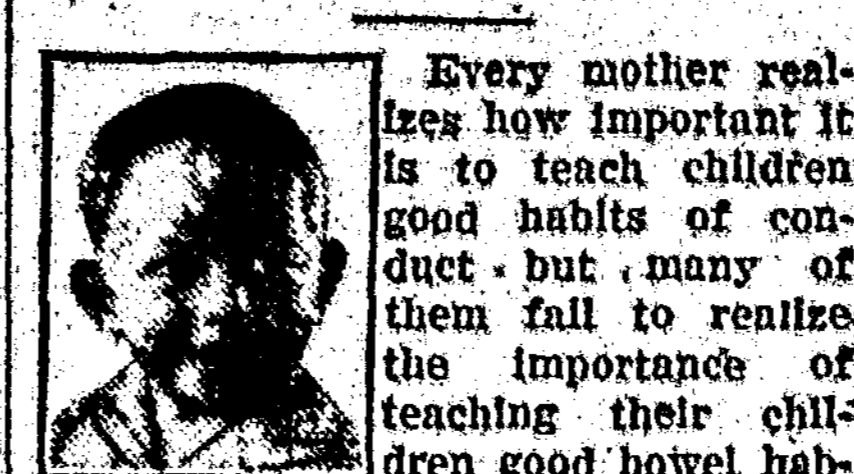

"Sorry, eh? Ouch, dammed Burns my fingers. Well, the thing's done." He hesitated as the last charred flakes of the deadly petition floated to the floor. "Sorry eh? 'Matter of fact, so am I. Hanged if—ah, no, no!—d-d if I can remember what it was all about."

"Need you care, Uncle Jos?" asked Cara, between laughter and weeping. "S'pose not, s'pose not, niece." Joshua admitted. "Still—"

"Oh, won't you two shake hands?" she begged. "Can't we be a family instead of enemies?" Her father, stepped forward promptly, and after a moment Joshua met him, arm outstretched.

"God bless you, Jos!" "Eh? Eh? Seem to have something in my eye. Mind those fingers, Ben."

Denver Boy is a Winner

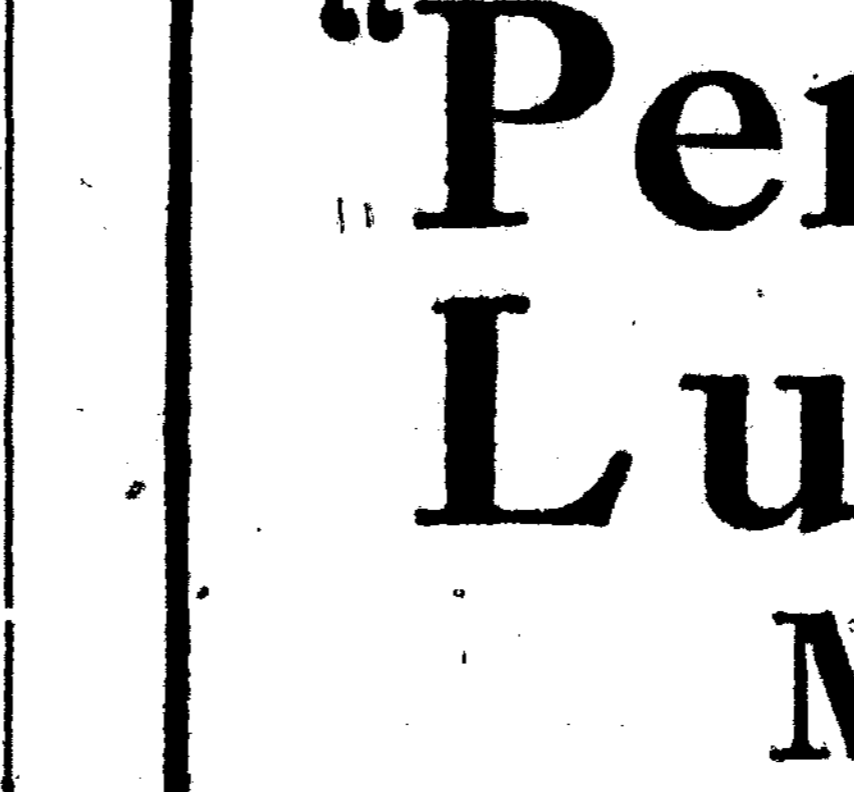

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct. But many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying wastes held too long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 8355 1/2 Wolff St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackle, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup."

Let's Go "Goin' to the fair?" "What fair?" "Paper says, 'Fair here today and tomorrow'."

Retain Your Good Looks

How frequently a woman thinks, "Am I still attractive?" How much thought and study she devotes to her looks!

DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION helps to preserve in a woman the charm and health of youth. It contains no harmful ingredient. This splendid herbal tonic is sold by all druggists in both fluid and tablet form.

Those who insist on "living their life in their own way" have no right to annoy others by it.

"Always in Good Humor" says Bill "and my Folks, too"

YOUNG BILL FREEMAN, Jr., of 707 South Street, Key West, Florida, has started in early telling the world his secret of health: "I don't know that I would have been the cause of divorce," writes Bill, through his mother, "but certainly the first three months of my life my mother was a nervous wreck, and so was I. I never saw father because he didn't like my disposition—and every day it was a fight at our house—either castor oil or an enema, and I was just about ready to quit home."

William A. Freeman, Jr., who licks the spoon in preparation for licking the world.

How simple it is, after all. No drugs, no medicines, no irritating cathartics, just simple and natural lubrication which our bodies need as much as any machine. Nujol is not absorbed by the body. It is non-fattening; it can form no habit; it cannot hurt the smallest baby. What it does is keep our bodies internally clean of the poisons we all have and which, unless they are swept away as regularly as clock work, give us headaches, make us feel sick, low in our minds, blue, down on the world.

"Penetrative Lubricity" MEANS 1. Freedom from Friction. 2. A "Carry-Over" Film by Metal Penetration. TO lubricate, an oil must decrease friction between metal surfaces. A motor oil does this by separating the metal surfaces, and theoretically keeping them separated under all operating conditions. It may amaze you to know that many oils frequently fail to do this.

This was in 1909 and the Danas lived in Judge Hewitt's log cabin during their stay in the birthplace of "Heart's Desire." The Telephone Girl sits in her chair and listens to voices from everywhere. She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news. She knows who is happy and who has the blues. She knows all the sorrows, she knows all the joys, she knows every girl who is chasing the boys. She knows all the troubles, she knows all the strife, she knows every man who quarrels with his wife; she knows every time one is out with the boys, and the excuses each fellow employs. She knows every woman who has a dark past, she knows every fellow who's inclined to be fat.

In fact there's a secret beneath each cute little curl of that quiet, demure looking telephone girl. If the telephone girl told all that she knows, she'd turn many friends into bitterest foes. She'd sow a small wind that'd soon be a gale; she'd engulf some in trouble and others in jail. She'd let go a story that, gaining in force, would cause half the wives to sue for divorce. She'd get all the churches mixed up in a fight, and turn many days into sorrowing night. In fact, she would keep the whole town in a stew, if she told but a tenth of the things that she knew. Say, reader, doesn't it make your head whirl when you think of what you owe to the telephone girl?—Exchange.
