Mrs. Jane Moore

The funeral of Mrs. Jane Moore, aged 79, mother of Mrs. Ed Harris, who died last Friday morning, was held Saturday afternoon at the Harris home with Rev. Rowland, Baptist pastor preaching the sermon and Mrs. Mae English, Worthy Matron of the O. E. S., administering the burial rites of that chapter. The services were beautiful and impressive, after which, the remains were taken to the local cemetery for interment.

Mrs. Moore was born near Dallas, Tex., Dec. 10, 1850, where she lived until about 6 years ago when she came to El Paso, since which time she had divided her time between that city and Carrizozo. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Burreuse, El Paso; Mrs. Harris, Carrizozo, and two sons, Charles Campbell, Venus, Texas and C.W. Moore of Amarillo to mourn her loss. She was an ardent Christian lady and one of those wonderful mothers we have all loved, read about, dreamed about and had the experience of their tender love and affection. To the survivors of this estimable lady, this community extends its sympathy.

Messrs Walker and Pittman have returned from Pecos, Tex., where they went to see and hear in operation one of the Sound Systems being considered for the Crystal Theatre. They report finding the system in use there giving as near perfect programs as any systems being used in this section of the country, and after being used almost a year. There have been some improvements made since that particular set was made, and we will be benefitted by them, insuring Carrizozo Talking Pictures as good, if not better than most houses in this section that have been wired for some time.

The Crystal Theatre is operated for your entertainment, and don't forget to patronize the silent program until the coming of the "Talkies" which will be in early part of June.

Mechanical Changes Not Necessary

"The Model A Ford car, during the last two years has demonstrated its power, speed, comfort and dependability," said Mr. Shafer of the Carrizozo Auto Company, yesterday. "Essentially, the Ford is an automobile that does not need periodic re-designing," said Mr. Shafer. This does not mean that there are not improvements from time to time.—There are, but these improvements are incorporated as they are developed and the public is immediately benefitted by them."

"For instance, in the new body types recently introduced, rustless steel is used in the exposed metal parts and a strip of this non-tarnishing metal has been inserted between the hood and the cowl. This is the first time rustless steel has been utilized in the less expensive cars. This policy of incorporating improvements as they are developed, obviates the necessity of issuing annual models," said Mr. Shafer.

Old buildings and fences have been replaced and the estate undergone a complete renovation.

One would not know the present Picacho, so complete is the change the town has undergone since the Pruitt Brothers have purchased the estate. A new golf course is about completed which will have no rival in the state. This is a natural course of eighteen holes and will soon be open to the public. Mr. Pruitt reports a notice of the opening which will be published shortly. The hotel and dining room is now running to capacity and a most cordial welcome awaits all visitors to Picacho, the eastern gateway to the playground spots of Lincoln County. Mr. Pruitt is planning a modern combination of a model farm and dude ranch which will materialize as time permits.

Mother's Day

New Laundry for Carrizozo

Chas. Joyce will open a laundry at his residence next door to the old Spence home on north main street. He has installed 2 electric washing machines, an electric ironing machine and other up-to-date equipment such as is had at all first-class laundries. There will be no reason after this, for anyone to send laundry away from town, when they may have it done at home and in first-class condition. Laundry will be called for and delivered to all points in Carrizozo, and as this will meet with a long-standing need, we commend him on his venture and wish him the highest measure of success. The place will be open for business about May 20. His phone number is 50.

Census Enumerators

have completed their work, but in some cases where they failed to separate ranch holdings from town and city property, segregation must be made before the reports are turned in. This necessitated making out of a new list, but the task was not difficult. Mrs. J. V. Hobbie, enumerator for Carrizozo, covered the ground in the most accurate manner and those who she failed to interview on account of being away from home, made returns when they came back. Mrs. Hobbie wishes to thank the people for their kindness and co-operation in assisting her with the desired information. The work was well done and we congratulate Mrs. Hobbie.

Mrs. George Benson

Corona Beats Carrizozo

The Corona baseball team invaded Carrizozo Sunday and got away with a 7 to 1 victory over Florencio Vega's Town Team. Moas Lewis saved the team from a goose egg when he tripled in the 7th, to score on the next man's fielder's choice. That, aside from Jordan's clean single to short center, was all the damage the locals could do with the stick off the Corona pitcher's delivery. The Coronites are a good, clean sportsmen and we surely are anxious to have them come again. Carrizozo will give them a return game at Corona next Sunday, May 11.

NOTE—The Carrizozo Spanish-American club would like a date with Corona in the near future, the first game to be played in Carrizozo and the return game at Corona. NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Mr. Stimson Returning With Naval Treaty—Fight on It Due in Senate.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
SECRETARY OF STATE STIMSON and his colleagues in the London naval conference called for the United States Wednesday bringing with them a certified copy of the naval treaty which the senate will soon be asked to accept or reject. The treaty was signed on Tuesday by the representatives of the five powers concerned, the ceremony taking place at the final plenary session of the conference in the Queen Anne drawing room of St. James' palace. Prime Minister MacDonald, Mr. Stimson, Aristide Briand, Reijiro Wakanaiki and Admiral Soriano all spoke at some length and then affixed their signatures to the momentous document. The conference was adjourned, with the way left open for its resumption when and if France and Italy can be brought into the full treaty by diplomatic negotiations.

Though the results of the three months of work in London fell far short of the hopes of those who sponsored the party, they are by no means small. The treaty, though signed by all five powers, is in the main a three power pact between the United States, Great Britain and Japan by which those nations agree to limit the tonnage of all classes of fighting ships. America is to scrap three battleships, England five, and Japan one. The sections of the treaty adhered to by France and Italy provide for a five-year holiday in battleship building, prescribe rules of submarine warfare and relate to less important phases of disarmament. The compromises reached between the French global and the British and American categorical methods of limiting tonnage was omitted from the document but will be transmitted to the League of Nations for use by its preparatory committee on disarmament.

That the treaty would not have an easy time getting through the senate was assured when the plans of Senator Hale of Maine, chairman of the naval affairs committee, became known. He is leading the opposition and in his first attack on the pact will charge that its ratification will not give the United States parity in naval ships with Great Britain during the life of the pact. He also will attack the treaty on the ground that its provisions allowing Japan an increase in cruiser, submarine, and destroyer ratio will weaken the American naval position in the Far East and lower this country's prestige in the Orient.

It was said Mr. Hale found many admirals of the navy were hostile to the treaty mainly because of limitations placed on American building of 8-inch gun cruisers and the increase in the Japanese ratios. Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Robinson of Arkansas, are expected to lead the fight in behalf of ratification of the pact.

REBUTTAL evidence by the vote was heard by the house judiciary committee, the principal witnesses being Pierre S. du Pont, millionaire chemical and munitions manufacturer; Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the Twenty-sixth division, A. E. F.; Miss Elizabeth Harris, representing the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and Dr. Clarence F. Buck, secretary of the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction league. Mr. du Pont presented arguments and statements designed to refute the claim of the drys that the country's prosperity in recent years has been due mainly or in any marked degree to prohibition. General Edwards bitterly attacked the prohibitionists for putting through the Eighteenth amendment while the soldiers were overseas, told the bad results of drying up the military reservations as a preliminary experiment and gave facts and figures showing the peaceful behavior of the American troops in France where they were permitted to drink wines and beer. Declaring that "temperance" was his objective in coming from his farm in Westwood, Mass., to talk to the committee, he described prohibition as "the most intemperate thing that exists."

BEFORE another committee, that of the senate on lobbying, the liquor issue also was dominant. Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, had been summoned to tell of the activities of the officials of that organization, and he proved a very lively witness. In his first day's testimony he predicted the development of a new national party made up of the wet elements of both the Republican and Democratic parties, the platform for which already has been written by Dr. Samuel H. Church, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology. He said Pierre du Pont has ignored the proposal and has said the new party will be successful. As for lobbying, Mr. Curran freely admitted his association took part in the campaigns in Wisconsin and Illinois for repeal of the state liquor laws, but said he didn't see what that had to do with "lobbying in and around Washington," which is the subject of the committee's inquiry and of which he declared the association had not been guilty.

Next day Senator Robinson of Indiana came to bat with sensational charges that Curran's association had "lobbed" with members of the United States Supreme Court. He produced letters written by T. W. Phillips, Jr., Republican gubernatorial aspirant in Pennsylvania and a director of the association, to Justice Stone and the late Justice Sanford, and denounced them as "the most amazing thing I ever heard of."

Three hundred delegates representing the hundred thousand members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform held a conference in Cleveland, Ohio. A platform calling for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment was adopted, and Mrs. Charles Sablin of New York, founder of the organization, was elected its first president.

POSTAL substitution leases are about to be investigated by a special senate committee, and at least one of them already is being probed by the federal trade commission. It is predicted that the inquiries will turn up a scandal rivaling the Teapot Dome affair. Rumors involve the names of high post office and other government officials in an alleged conspiracy that is said to have mulcted the government of millions of dollars and taken the life savings of thousands of innocent investors throughout the country.

NOMINATION of Judge Parker of North Carolina to be an associate justice of the Supreme court was rejected by the senate judiciary committee, and the matter goes to the floor of the senate. The vote to report adversely on the nomination was 10 to 6. The negro issue caused the defection of three administration Republicans and the opposition of organized labor accounted for the votes of the radicals of the committee.

THREE hundred and eighteen inmates of the Ohio state penitentiary at Columbus lost their lives in one of the worst holocausts of recent years, and the pity of it is that not one of them need have died if the cell doors had been unlocked promptly. At least, that is the statement of A. R. Nice, fire chief of Columbus. Where the blame is to be placed will be determined by an official inquiry.

ers in the country, was terribly overcrowded; in addition, the buildings were poorly constructed and not fire-proofed.

COLONEL LINDBERGH, accompanied by his wife, put himself on the front page again by a record-breaking flight from Los Angeles to New York in his new Lockheed Sirius low wing monoplane. With one stop at Wichita for refueling, the Lindys made the trip in 14 hours, 45 minutes and 32 seconds. The flight was unique in that it was made at altitudes ranging from 14,000 to 15,500 feet, the colonel's idea being to demonstrate that express and passenger plane service can be greatly speeded up if the planes fly in the higher reaches where the air is thinner and the resistance less. Mrs. Lindbergh shared the honors with her husband, for she acted as navigator throughout the flight and at times handled the controls.

AMONG the victims of airplane accidents were two noted men. Count Henri de la Vaulx of Paris, president of the International Aeronautical federation, and three companions were electrocuted at Jersey City when their plane ran into a power cable in a fog. Maj. Lionel M. Woolson, army air reserve, chief aeronautical engineer of the Packard Motor company and inventor of the Packard Diesel aircraft engine, and two companions were killed near Attica when their Diesel motored plane crashed into a hillside during a blinding snowstorm. They were taking the plane to New York for exhibition in the aircraft show. Major Woolson designed the motor used by Commander Rogers in his flight to Honolulu, the X-type motor for Lieut. Al Williams' racing plane two years ago and the engines of the navy dirigible Shenandoah.

WITH Gates W. McGarrath of New York as president, Leon Fraser as deputy president and Pierre Quenay as general manager, the bank for international settlements at Basel, Switzerland, was fully organized and ready for work. The directorate decided that the issue of shares of stock of the bank should take place on the eighth day after ratification of the Young plan by Great Britain and Italy. On that day the new scheme of handling German reparations becomes officially operative. The directors decided to enter into trust agreements with Hungary, Bulgaria, and Czechoslovakia to handle the collection of their reparations. Mr. McGarrath was empowered to open banking accounts whenever he pleases if the local and central banks do not object.

CHICAGO is really trying to rid itself of the gangsters who infest the city and who have given it such a notorious reputation. Last week the Chicago crime commission listed the 23 men whom it considers the worst of the lot, labeling them "public enemies" and asking the police to treat them accordingly. Police Commissioner Russell promised that he would co-operate in harassing them and that they would be arrested whenever they appeared on the streets. There was no news in the list. Every one of the men named is notorious and his misdeeds well known to all readers of the Chicago newspapers. If the crime commission could see its way to printing the names of the corrupt politicians and disreputable lawyers with whose protection and aid the gangsters operate, the crime situation in Chicago might be cleared up more speedily.

REVOLT of the Nationalists of India against British rule is becoming more serious daily, and has passed beyond the "passive resistance" advocated by Mahatma Gandhi. There have been bloody riots in various quarters, and at Calcutta the insurgents raided the arsenal. The authorities now are making free use of the military forces and many natives have been killed as well as some soldiers. The revolt has spread over the entire Indian peninsula, outbreaks being reported in Karachi, on the Arabian sea; Chittagong near Burma; Bombay, a thousand miles southwest; Calcutta and Madras, and late last week at Peshawar, on the northwest front.

Seeing Big League BASEBALL

By BILLY EVANS
Sports writer, Big League Umpire and General Manager of the Cleveland Indians

Umpires are human and make mistakes. In my long career I know of only one umpire who always insisted that he never made a mistake in his life. He was the late Silk O'Loughlin, one of the most colorful arbiters that ever graced the game. O'Loughlin was one of the few umpires who had drawing powers at the gate. The fans liked to see him in action. His famous "Strike Tuh," will live forever "Tuh" has become an accepted substitute for two in every-day life aside from baseball. O'Loughlin had a remarkable voice and he was proud of it. All umpires have their sensitive points; Silk was mighty fussy about his vocal chords. Well I do recall the remark made by a certain star to Silk one afternoon when he was suffering a trifle from hoarseness. The star, who was a pitcher, was disagreeing with O'Loughlin most of the afternoon on his judgment of balls and strikes. Silk was peeved. After he called one that particularly displeased the pitcher, that worthy person said to O'Loughlin:

"If I was you, Silk, I would see one of the best throat specialists in the city just as soon as the game is over."

"Why are you so interested in my throat trouble?"

"Simply, because, if you ever lose your voice you are through as an umpire, it's your only asset." Silk was furious and in the next inning, anxious to chase the fresh person, he seized an incident that really didn't merit ejection from the game but, nevertheless sent the player to the showers. Anyway, like all stories, it went the rounds of the league. Any time a player for any reason wanted to depart from the game, he made unkind remarks about Silk's voice being his only asset as an umpire.

Sometimes I doubted it but never was I able to get Silk to admit that he might have been wrong. Often I would try to josh him along by telling him I thought he missed a certain play, that I would never mention it to anyone if he admitted it, but I always failed in my efforts to pin O'Loughlin down to the fact that possibly he might sometimes have been wrong.

O'Loughlin was Irish. It is hardly necessary to state that fact; his name is sufficient. Never will I forget the delight Silk took in one of his favorite ejaculations to protesting players. As the Claneys, McCarthys, O'Neills and Burkes would cluster around Silk and tell him how blind he was, he would listen for a time and then with a wave of his arm that meant trouble would shout:

"Get out of here. Never missed one in my life. Too late to start now. The pope for religion, O'Loughlin for baseball, both infallible."

That remark always drew the ire of the players, but they went on their way because they knew that was the final ultimatum before chasing them to the showers. That was his favorite line for handling ball players of Irish extraction.

If after some decision Silk perceived that among the players protesting his ruling were men bearing the name of Schmidt, Mueller, Schneider and others of German extraction, he would listen for a time in evident disgust and then, having heard enough, he would invariably say:

"If you fellows are not back in your position when I reach the plate, all of you are through for the day. There isn't any use of being Dutch if you're not dumb." The Schmidts, Muellers and Schneiders didn't like that expression, but they knew it was Silk's final ultimatum and that they had better be on their way.

In handling out his line of repartee, Silk didn't overlook a thing. If a player had a certain outstanding fault, he never failed to remind him of it. When some athletes with a poor batting average would strenuously protest to a strike, he would usually squeak the young man thusly:

"So I kicked the one, eh? Well you sure have your nerve kicking on anything I do. I happened to be looking at the batting averages this morning and you ain't hitting your weight. Get in there and hit; the pitcher is supposed to be the one feeling you, not me."

New Clues.

When it came to helping in the kitchen, that girl was more help in five minutes than Belle, Sadie and Goldie, all three of them together, had been in half a day.

I tried to think whether there was any way a person could get upstairs without coming through the house. We had no fire escapes.

Since Gaby had been killed on the attic stairway, and since all who knew about that sort of thing agreed that she had been dead at least two hours when we found her, she must have returned to the house sometime between four and five o'clock, and have stolen upstairs with none of us seeing her.

I remembered, again, her strange, mad actions immediately after she had received the code letter. I remembered how she had looked in the hall that day, when I had told John that I thought I had seen the ghost of Sin.

I have said before, and I say again, I knew that Danielle Canneziano had not murdered her sister. But I knew, too, that if she had some reason, some better reason than I could conceive, for keeping quiet, for not telling everything she knew, Danny was capable of so doing.

There was Chad's suicide and his confession. It could be possible that he had killed himself because he had loved Gaby. But that would not account for his confession to the crime.

I remembered my conversation with Hubert Hand in the hall that morning. What was it that he had thought I had overheard in the cabin and had bribed me not to tell? It was reasonable enough to suppose that, at that time, he had hoped to keep his entire story, his prison records, his reason for coming to the Desert Moon, his relations with Mrs. Bicker and Martha, a secret; just as I had hoped to keep the fact of finding Sam's pipe ashes, a secret.

Sam's pipe ashes, again. If someone had put them there, in an effort to implicate Sam, it would have had to be someone who knew Sam's ways. My thoughts were off again. You can't, I told myself, get ahead of a following shadow by running away from it.

You have to turn and face it, before you can go the other way. I faced it. John. He had left the ranch at two o'clock. He could easily have gotten back by four, or shortly after. Suppose that he had left the machine down the road, quite far down the road in the spot where the tire tracks showed that the machine had been stopped and started again, the spot where we thought he had changed a tire? He could have climbed the fence, taken a short cut to the house, and gotten here in half or three quarters of an hour.

John. He had left the ranch at two o'clock. He could easily have gotten back by four, or shortly after. Suppose that he had left the machine down the road, quite far down the road in the spot where the tire tracks showed that the machine had been stopped and started again, the spot where we thought he had changed a tire? He could have climbed the fence, taken a short cut to the house, and gotten here in half or three quarters of an hour.

I had not realized how deeply I had been thinking, dawdling over my work in consequence, until I saw that Miss MacDonald had taken up the pork chops, and had them in the warming-oven, and was making gravy, as smooth and tasty looking pan-gravy as I ever saw.

"Good lands!" I said. "I've certainly come to one conclusion." "It is a little early for conclusions, isn't it?" she asked.

"Please—" she began; but, for once, I got the best of her.

"My conclusion is," I said, "that, by hook or crook, Sam Stanley has got to get me some efficient help in this house. When I think of what I've put up with, all these years in the way of help, and then see the way you pitch in, it makes me mad all over."

"I wish," she said, "that I might drop this case, right now, and stay here for all time, and be your assistant and a thoroughly domestic person, and forget that there were crimes and criminals in the world."

"Maybe," I said, eagerly, but knowing of course that it was too good to come true, "when you've finished with this case, you could do that. You'd be one of our family, and Sam would pay—well, I guess anything you'd care to ask."

"No," she smiled, "it is tempting—now. But that desire of mine to give up my profession is a phase that I always pass through at the beginning of each difficult case. In a few days, when I begin to get hold of something, and when things begin to take shape, all my love of the work will return. It is only at first, when I seem to be in a maze of mystery, like this, that I get so discouraged. I always do it, right at first; and I always think that here is the case of which I am going to make an absolute failure."

"Have you ever failed on a case?" I asked.

"Indeed I have, on several. It is queer, though; in each case that has been a failure, it has seemed that the solution was written plainly from the start. It was—written; all wrong. Judging from that, I should be unusually successful in this case."

Poor girl, no wonder that she was discouraged. She has given me leave, now that it is all over, to use any of her notes that I care to use in the writing of this story.

"Far be it from Lynn MacDonald," she said, when I asked her about using the notes, "to refuse advertisement of one of her banner cases. My rivals will say that I succeeded in this because, as often happens, my luck stood by me. But you and I, we understand about luck, don't we, Mary?"

"If you aren't afraid," I said, "that your notes may give away some of the secrets of that lack of success, so that your rivals will be able to lay their hands on some of the same brand?"

She laughed. "I never write down a secret. That is a safe enough rule for an honest person, who plans to remain honest. For a dishonest person, or for one who contemplates any sort of evil, or admits the possibility of such a course, the safe rule would be: 'Never, under any circumstances, put pen or pencil to paper.'"

As Sam would say, "It is a poor rule that won't work both ways."

The notes that Miss MacDonald had made, before this conversation of ours, that day in the kitchen, and on the evening of that same day, July eleventh, are as follows:

July 7. Saw body in crematory late tonight. Cause of death—strangulation. Probably work of an expert. Look for Japanese on ranch. Broken fingers on right hand. Beautiful, costly gown, lingerie, etc., indicating wealth and good taste.

July 8. Rose, my assistant, who has shadowed twin sister, reports nothing verging on suspicion. She attended services at crematory. Evidence of genuine grief. Returned to hotel. One telegram sent to Desert Moon ranch. Received no company. Mailed no letters. Did no shopping.

I received telegram from Desert Moon ranch engaging me on case. Explicit directions concerning train probably due to inconvenience of meeting trains in rural community, and not due to a desire to have me on the same train with Miss C. However, note.

Telephoned to coroner and undertaker, requesting them to give me conference in Telko. Also, had coroner verify list of names, as published

"Good Lands!" I said, "I've Certainly Come to One Conclusion."

In "Examiner" of all persons present on ranch at time of murder. Note—absence of all ranch employees at the time. Note—extreme reluctance of both coroner and undertaker to give information, or to meet me in Telko.

July 9. Spent day in shadowing Miss C. myself. Her observations, as usual, excellent.

Rose's research through back files of Nevada papers provided following information:

Samuel Stanley, ranch owner. Very wealthy. Exemplary character. High standing throughout state of Nevada. Philanthropic.

John Stanley, adopted son of S. Stanley. Distinguished himself on University of Nevada football team, 1916, 1917. Enlisted in air service for war, 1917. Mother's field when armistice was declared.

Hubert Hand. Winner of chess tournament held in Reno, 1914, 1915. Mrs. Ollie Ricker. No report.

Chadwick Caulfield. No report, except mention as guest at Desert Moon ranch.

Mary Magin. No report.

Danielle Canneziano. No report, except mention of her arrival with slater, Gabrielle, at ranch last May.

Inspection of Miss C's room in hotel after she had turned in her key revealed no clue. Unusually neat and orderly person. Wastebaskets empty. Newspapers folded on table. Magazine, "Ladies Home Journal" on table. No heavy perfume. Hotel soap unwrapped. Fastidious. Silver dollar left on table for chambermaid.

Rose reports: Miss C. went from hotel to Ferry building in taxicab. Crossed alone on ferry. Spoke to no one. Boarded train at eight thirty o'clock and went at once to her berth.

July 10. Afternoon. Breakfasted with Miss C. this morning. No conversation. All the evidences of good breeding.

Had conference with coroner and undertaker. Think that they strongly suspect John Stanley because of their repeated efforts to keep me from sharing the suspicion.

Information gained from them: Girl murdered on attic stairway. Position of body and marks on throat prove an attack from the rear. Members of household declare that rigor was complete when body was discovered at eight o'clock the night of the fourth of July. Amateur testimony, however. If fact, death must have occurred at least three hours before discovery of body.

July 10. Night. Allowed sudden "hunch" to betray reason and common sense. Usual silly mistake at beginning of case. Set a trap to catch hawk. Got caught myself. Luckily, no harm done. Met members of household. First impressions, before hearing history of case other than gained from newspapers, coroner and undertaker:

Danielle Canneziano. Impressions previously noted sustained. Charming, lovable character. Innocent. Samuel Stanley. Honest. Likable. Kindly. There is a slight chance that he might be involved, unwittingly. He is not stupid; but, decidedly, he is not clever.

Mary Magin. Intelligent. Imaginative. Honest. Innocent.

John Stanley. Too handsome, but unconvicted. Bashful. Likable. Judgment suspended.

Hubert Hand. Egotistic. Clever. Judgment suspended.

Ollie Ricker. Life has treated her badly. She has put on armor against it. Stupid. Perhaps silly. Judgment suspended.

Daniel Canneziano. Criminal type. Alibi proves him not guilty of the murder, but he is probably involved. Why did he come here?

July 11. Evening. Heard case history today from Mr. S. and Mrs. M.

Tempted to destroy all first impressions as recorded. Remember, however, the value of mistaken impressions is usually important.

Multiplicity of clues most amazing in my entire experience. Would seem to indicate that many of them are false clues.

Most important clues: 1. John's unnecessary errand. Length of time gone. 2. Victim's evident fear as she walked through room. Unusual costume for short walk on the place.

3. Miss C's calling after her sister. 4. Caulfield's suicide and confessional note. (Probably most important of all clues.) 5. Victim's note to Danielle Canneziano. Proof of her fear.

6. Death of Martha Stanley. Missing box containing sleeping powders. 7. Canneziano's presence on the ranch.

Clues of less importance: 1. Contents of beaded bag: Empty purse, missing bill-fold, crumpled handkerchief, broken cigarette holder, note from Hubert Hand, cigarette case with two cigarettes missing, empty matchbox.

2. Code letter. 3. Pipe ashes on rug and carpet. Not necessarily Mr. Stanley's. Probably fixed false New.

4. Tattling shuttle. (Doubtful.) Clues of most importance: 1. Entire story concerning the money from robbery being hidden on Desert Moon ranch.

2. Victim's peculiar actions after receiving code letter. Quarrel with Mr. Stanley.

3. Mrs. Ricker's story. Her reason for telling it. Did she believe it? 4. Mrs. Magin's desire to remove pipe ashes.

5. Miss C's reluctance to tell of them. Her final complete confession of her suspicions concerning Mr. Stanley.

6. Hubert Hand's unnecessary confession concerning his past life.

Clues of least importance: 1. O. Caulfield's powers of ventriloquism. Probably greatly overrated by members of household.

2. Playing of radio between two and four o'clock that afternoon.

3. Martha's reference to a surprise in which she and Chadwick Caulfield were involved. Possibly untrue.

4. Mrs. Magin's evident antagonism toward the victim.

5. Mr. Stanley's prompt action in locking the attic door and his refusal to have the body touched until the arrival of coroner.

6. Reason for victim's having given bracelet to Martha Stanley at that time?

Negatives: 1. No clues of any sort discoverable in victim's room. 2. No clues of any sort discoverable in attic.

out by Mary Magin, cook and housekeeper. She has done hers in better form, and she has included a few things that I left out. But, most of the included things were unknown to me at the time I made my list. Many of the other included things did not amount to shucks. For instance, we have no dogs on the ranch because the dogs in northeastern Nevada have a habit of running out and associating with rabid coyotes, contracting rabies, coming home and biting whoever is conveniently to hand. For instance—but never mind. As I said before, poor girl, no wonder she was discouraged.

As indicated by her notes for July eleventh, on that afternoon Miss MacDonald had cleaned the attic, thoroughly, and had found nothing to pay her for her trouble. Keeping me in the dark, as she had, I supposed, when she said early next morning that she wanted to clean the living room, that she had got "at least a hat full of clues from the attic."

Land knows, the way I had been neglecting things, the living room was badly in need of a good cleaning. I wanted her to allow me to help her, but she would not. It was luck that I happened to come in with the floor wax just as she was looking at something that she had dug out of the ashes in the fireplace.

"What's that?" I questioned. "I believe," she answered, "that it is the missing key to the attic door."

She got up, shook out her skirts, and went straight upstairs. I trailed along. I stood by and watched her while she fitted the blackened key into the lock. It turned both ways, as smoothly as you please.

Without bothering to say anything to me, she went up and down the hall, trying the key in the locks of the other doors. It fitted none of them. She went downstairs again, with me trailing after her, and tried the key in all the locks downstairs. It fitted none of them, either.

"Do you know," she asked, showing at last that she was conscious of my presence, which I was beginning to doubt, "when you last had a fire in that fireplace?"

I thought a minute, and then told her on the night of the fourth of July, during the storm.

"Do you remember who kindled the fire?" "It had been fixed there, ready for the match, for weeks. Things have gone to rack and ruin here lately; but I always used to see to it that the fire was set in the fireplace, ready to light when needed."

"Do you happen to know who applied the match to the fire that night?" "Sam did."

"But surely, even though the rain had come up, a fire on the fourth of July could not have been necessary?" "We don't have fires here when they are necessary," I told her. "We have them when they are possible without absolute suffocation. Half a pint of rain is plenty of excuse for Sam to light a fire at any time, even if he has to open all the doors and windows to cool off."

What I was saying was the honest truth; but I had a mean feeling that she didn't believe me.

Right here, with apologies to Miss MacDonald and others of her profession, I want to say that if they would just remember that nine times out of ten a person who pretends to be telling the truth is telling it, it would save them a lot of mistakes, and a lot of worry. The man who spends his time biting his money to see whether or not it is genuine doesn't, usually, have much of it to bite; to say nothing of the wear and tear on his own teeth, which would be considerable.

I was standing by the living room windows, trying to keep my temper down, with some such consoling thoughts as these, when I saw a car drive up and the coroner and the undertaker getting out of it.

I told Miss MacDonald the news, and asked her what in the world she supposed they were coming here for, at this time in the morning.

"I needed to see them again," she answered. "Mr. Stanley telephoned to them last evening."

Aerial Studio for Africa Built especially for the photographing of an area of 63,000 square miles in northern Rhodesia, an airplane is soon to be put into commission. The machine is literally an aerial photographic studio. It can be flown at a height of 20,000 feet and remain at this altitude for seven and one-half hours while the pilot and photographer map the country below. As most of the flights will be over a wild country the plane has two engines so that if one fails the other will carry the machine to safety.

Human Emotion Based on Electric Current?

Is love simply the result of electrical attraction? Is the human body an electric battery and our life, energy, and vitality dependent on how strong a current we create?

A doctor has stirred up tremendous discussion by declaring that chemical activity in the cells of the human body produces electricity, that this electricity maintains the life process, and that lack of it finally causes death.

He believes the human current has a great influence over all our emotions, including love, and thinks this may explain why certain people are attracted to one another, or vice versa.

A famous electrical expert says: "We have never isolated this current, and the laws of electrophysiology are not well known, but we have many proofs that this current exists. The body produces electricity in a score of different ways. At every muscular contraction or irritation of a nervous center there are vibrations that liberate this mysterious power.

"The least movement of a muscle produces electricity. For every heart beat there is a corresponding oscillation of the galvanometer needle."

Mysterious Crows Crows which talk have been found near Weeneey in Natal. Their remarks are libelous. They say to the natives of the district: "There will be no rain; you have killed your chief." They have started a first class scandal about the death of Muzucifaloo, once chief of the Manna, who died of dropsy. The natives are flocking from all the surrounding districts to hear them. The key to the mystery, suggests a Natal paper, is the fact that the crows only speak when a certain head boy is present. There is nothing to prove that they have been corrupted by a Maritzburg parrot.

Condensed Milk According to Hunziker's "Condensed Milk and Milk Powder," sweetened condensed milk was first made by Gall Borden at Walcottville, Conn., in 1856. The factory failed, but was later re-established at Wausau, N. Y., in 1860. Unsweetened evaporated milk was first made commercially in 1883 by the Heirich Milk Condensing company at Highland, Ill.

The Crime of Ohio

Post, Burlington, Iowa:

The state of Ohio committed a dreadful act of inhumanity when it crowded 4300 convicts into cell houses having a normal capacity for only 1500. This was a far more serious crime than the majority of these convicts had been guilty of. We recall a statement of the Attorney General of the United States made recently, that 85% of all convictions obtained in Federal Courts are for violations of two Statutes—the Prohibition Act and the Mann Act. But for these two laws the prisons and jails of the country would be well nigh empty.

In the Ohio holocaust over 800 men were burned to death or suffocated in the cells. The prison seems to have been without any organization that might certainly effect their prompt rescue. The keys couldn't be found, or something was wrong, so they died the terrible deaths as above noted.

All over the land prisons and jails are overcrowded with hapless victims of our times of laws. We conclude and freely say that our whole system of criminal jurisprudence is wrong. The person who violates what are considered reasonable, salutary and apparently necessary laws, enacted by publicists mistakenly for the conservation of society, is mentally ill or deranged, and his place is in an observation and treatment hospital, and not in a prison cell. The day is approaching when all prisons will be spoken of in the same terms of condemnation and horror that are now applied to the instruments of torture employed by Thomas Torquemado five hundred years ago, and that are exposed in the museums of today.

Chevrolets Used to Combat Fruit Fly

Renewed vigor in the Government's co-operative battle with the farmer against crop insects was promised for this month with the delivery of a fleet of Chevrolet Sedan Deliveries to Western Division of the department of Agriculture.

This particular fleet is to be used in the campaign against the corn borer and is to concentrate its work in West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Similar fleets, enlisted in the war against the fruit fly, boll weevil, etc., are in operation in all parts of the United States. Every car in the fleet recently delivered is a standard Chevrolet six, with sedan delivery body, in which equipment essential to a successful pursuit of the Government's war is transported. As the cars left the Fiat plant of the Chevrolet Motor Co., they were packed through the streets of that city with the national banner fluttering from either side.

ing for the 'war' in which they were soon to take part.

Selection of Chevrolets for this work was made by the Government because of their dependability and economy of operation in transferring activities from one 'battle sector' to another, it was explained.

CYNIC OFFERS NOTHING NEW

By REV. DR. BROWN, Dena Emeritus Yale Divinity School.

ACYNIC never grows up. His mind simply shrivels. If it is easy for a man to blow out his brains with a pistol, it is just as easy for him to do it with a lot of foolish ideas. The "seat of the scornful" is merely an asylum for the diseased mind. A man can learn nothing if he already thinks he knows it all. What good does the cynic do to those around him? He has no future; at least he won't look into it. And he scoffs at those about him who do.

Humanism is platitudinous and a contradiction of terms. The Golden Rule is all right as far as it goes, but the human mind needs something more than that for a rule to conduct.

The materialist assails the intangible feature of religion. It is admittedly hard to face the inexorability of nature. It is hard to face the decline of the human body by death. It is divinely hard. In this difficulty we are offered a challenge to our faith. But the idle, the flippant and the cynical have nothing to offer.

In the development of cynicism today the youth of twenty-two has solved all his problems and has nothing to live for. At twelve the youth has found out all about his parents. At eighteen he has solved the question of morality. At twenty he has found that the structure of government and society is all wrong. At twenty-one he has learned that marriage is a failure and at twenty-four he has nothing to look forward to.

Those who sit in the seats of the scornful today do not really occupy seats, or even benches, but they fill whole stadiums, worshipping something that can do them no good. The cynic cuts himself off from God. He divests himself of reverence and respect mentally in a way that would cause the police to arrest him if he did it physically. Not only does he fail to profit from his thoughts himself, but he is harmful to those around him.

NEED OF CULTURAL EDUCATION

By REV. J. W. R. MAGUIRE, President St. Victor College.

The college of liberal arts has not received such generous support as the universities where technical and professional knowledge is acquired, and I would make a plea for greater generosity on the part of those interested in education toward the colleges of liberal arts.

It is inequitable and unjust that institutions which seek to enlighten 875,000 of the 1,000,000 students enrolled in colleges and universities of the United States should be in possession of only one-half of the endowment funds in the country and the 125,000 should be the beneficiaries of the other half.

The college of liberal arts must be released from the hampering bondage of poverty so that, freed from mere material considerations, it may serve the cause of truth, of goodness, of beauty and of right human life. If the college of liberal arts is allowed to fail, culture and civilization will be imperiled. Its future, however, is assured, for its importance and its needs have only to be presented to the people of the United States to receive willing, spontaneous and generous support.

ERA OF PROSPERITY LOOMING

By LORD ROTHERMERE, English Newspaper Publisher.

The United States is due for another march along the road of sustained industrial development and progressive prosperity. It has triumphantly survived last fall's stock market crash.

The nation as a whole has, and is entitled to have, unshakable confidence in its enduring prosperity. That prosperity is based upon an abundant supply of the principal raw materials within America's own borders. The development of these is carried on by a fortunate alliance of extremely high executive capacity with the most intelligent, hard working, and ambitious labor in the world. The United States possesses every asset that makes a nation rich. In equally abundant measure, she has the men, the money, the materials, and the markets.

During my recent stay in New York I heard the personal views of a half dozen great industrial leaders of the United States, and found each of those men completely confident that the next two years will see the United States once more establishing new peaks in every branch of national activity.

CHANGE IN GRADUATION METHOD

By ROBERT MAYNARD HUTCHINS, President Chicago University.

I would base college graduation on proved mental capacity rather than on grade points. The experiments of the collegiate division should center on the business of getting the student started on his education. Normally an individual might stay there two years. On the other hand, he might spend one or three years in the collegiate section. At the conclusion of this period he should enter the university as distinguished from the collegiate program.

In the university his object should be to begin the study of some division of knowledge that is of particular interest to him, and which he is qualified to deal with. This program also should be flexible; he should go as fast as his abilities permit. In those studies in which he chooses to specialize he should have a minimum of instruction, and should put forth a maximum of independent effort. In those which he merely wants to know about he should be lectured en masse by the best lecturers to be obtained.

NEED FOR SEX EDUCATION

By RABBI ABRAHAM NOWAK, Cleveland.

Failing to recognize marriage as a task is one of the fundamental failings of marriage today. Marriage is not an end; it is only the beginning. Marriage is the forging together of two souls, the linking one to another of two hearts and the blending into harmony of two minds.

Nothing is more destructive to the ship of matrimony than the winds of competition in the home, resulting in storms for mastery, superiority and domination. It is undoubtedly the product of the age we are living in. We are all being trained for personal competition and we forget that there is no place for competition in love and marriage. Man and wife must give, and in giving they must realize that they do not lose anything.

She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote: "My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "it's the little daily dose that takes off the fat." Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by that Kruschen feeling of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

K-R-O KILLS RATS ONLY

Very Bad

Senator Simmons, the political leader of North Carolina, told a story at a New Born luncheon.

"Yes," he said, "even good news is bad when it is told about that type of man. For instance, a minister said to a little boy one day:

"Well, son, is your father working now?"

"Yes, oh, yes, sir," said the little boy.

"That's good news. That's very good news indeed. How long has he been working?"

"Two months."

"And what's he doing?"

"Three months."

Makes Life Sweeter

Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose. No household should be without it.

Phillips is the genuine, prescription product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

PHILLIPS Milk of Magnesia

Origin of Mothers' Day

Bricard's "The First Step"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ALTHOUGH the official observance of the second Sunday in May as Mother's day is regarded as a modern custom, it is in reality a revival of one of the oldest feasts celebrated by mankind. For the gifts of flowers, candy and the like which we send on Mother's day correspond to the ancient simnel cake, a feature of "Mothering day" of the early Britons. On Mothering day all young persons away from home visited their parents, taking along gifts of sweet confections of honey in the form of simnel cakes. Still farther back in antiquity the people of Asia Minor held a feast early in May to worship Rhea, "the Great Mother of the Gods," and this feast later became the feast of Hilaria, an annual event on the Ides of March in Greece and Rome.

Just how much these ancient rites contributed to the modern celebration of Mother's day it is impossible to say, for there is some dispute as to the origin of the idea which resulted finally in setting aside the second Sunday of May for honoring the mothers of the nation. No less than four cities in as many different states claim that honor for one of their citizens. Up in Albion, N. Y., they will tell you that it originated there and offer the following facts in support of that statement:

George M. Pullman dedicated a home on the St. Lawrence river to "Father and Mother." This was opened for a large family reunion in August, 1858. In 1894 a church was built by Mr. Pullman in Albion, in memory of his parents. He put a great deal of thought, sentiment and time into both buildings—the home and the church.

These two things and the manner in which the work was done made such an impression upon the people at Albion that at the first anniversary of the mother's passing on it was decided to call the Sunday nearest that date "Mother's day," and they voted that hereafter, in that church, it should be an annual event.

No one at that time had any thought of how far-reaching this observance would become, or that it would so appeal to all lovers of mothers as the yearly celebration has now shown.

Down in Henderson, Ky., they claim the honor for Mary Towles Sasseen Wilson. Born and reared in this little city, on the south bank of the Ohio river, in the 60s, she labored earnestly to have April 20, her mother's natal day, observed in the schools in the manner in which the day is now celebrated.

In 1898 Miss Sasseen, then a school teacher, published a book setting forth her ideas, aims and objects, dedicating the volume to her mother, with a hope for national recognition.

She traveled extensively and addressed various educational meetings throughout the country in her effort to have the day observed in the schools. It was in the little Center street school of Henderson that the first observance of Mother's day was held by Miss Sasseen, and in 1894 she succeeded in having it celebrated in the public schools of Springfield, Ohio. In 1899 she became a candidate for superintendent of public instruction of Kentucky, and it was then generally discussed over the state that she had first conceived the plan of celebrating Mother's day.

Mary Towles Sasseen married Judge Marshall Wilson of Florida, and gave her life to the cause of motherhood when her first child was born.

Still another claimant to the honor is Indianapolis, Ind., which comes forth with a citizen who, it says, is the "father of Mother's day." Recently Representative Louis Ludlow of Indiana in a speech on "The Origin of Mother's Day" put forward the Indianapolis citizen's claim to the honor. His speech, as reported in the Congressional Record, follows:

Mr. Speaker, one of the most blessed of all anniversaries is Mother's day. The very name of this anniversary makes a thousand bells to tinkle in our recollection. It sends us back to first principles and revives all of the hallowed memories of childhood. It brings before the vision of every one of us the sweetest face we have ever known; we see her smiles and tears and once more hear her sing her lullabies. It makes our hearts throb and our voices choke as we recall the unfathomable devotion of "mother," how she toiled and suffered and the privations she endured that we might be fed and clothed and trained to do the part of honest and upright citizens in the varied activities of life.

It is to me a source of special pride that the city which I have the honor to represent in the congress of the United States was the birthplace of Mother's day. A silver-tongued orator of Indiana—Frank E. Hering—first coined the sacred phrase which is now recurrently heard around the world. The Order of Eagles, of which he has long been an outstanding leader, took up the slogan; and giving expression to the mother love that is in the hearts of all of us, it has striven worthily and accomplished a great deal, toward throwing the encircling arms of love and protection around the poor and aged mothers of the land.

A most interesting account of the origin of Mother's day is contained in an editorial that appeared in the Indianapolis Times on February 7, 1930. Mr. Boyd Gurley, the author of the editorial, is a patriotic and brilliant newspaper man who in 1928 was awarded the Pulitzer gold-medal prize in competition with all of the editors of America for the most distinguished public service rendered by the newspaper profession during that year. The editorial in the Indianapolis Times is as follows:

A REAL ANNIVERSARY
This city has many anniversaries which it celebrates in pride and thankfulness, the birthdays of those who served the nation and humanity well, of soldiers and of statesmen who won glory and gratitude, of poets who wrote songs that are immortal, authors whose messages remain for the ages.

Today is a different sort of anniversary. It is the birthday anniversary of an idea which became an impulse; an impulse that became a great movement.

On the evening of February 7, 1904, the English Opera House was crowded. Those who assembled belonged to the lodge of Eagles.

The speaker was a young professor from Notre Dame, notable chiefly as being the first Protestant to hold such a position in that university. Otto de Lese had found him at South Bend and been impressed by his oratorical charm.

He did not suspect that the event was to make history.

It was on that night that Frank E. Hering, in a burst of oratory, traced all the goodness of men to mother love, all the advancement of civilization to the sacrifices of motherhood, all the hopes of the future to the influence of mothers.

He urged that in every "Eagles" lodge one day be set aside each year in which men would remember their mothers, and in that memory lift themselves from sordid thought to higher planes of action.

The idea caught and held attention. It was an appeal to something fundamental. It tapped the wells of all inspiration.

So it happened that in many Eagles' lodges, long before Mother's day became a national institution, programs each year were held to honor the mothers of men. The idea that found expression in the English theater had become a movement.

When, a few years ago, the American War Mothers became interested in tracing the origin of this national anniversary they searched the records. Others claimed recognition to this honor. But the War Mothers, one of the few bodies chartered by congress, decided that Frank E. Hering was the real "father of Mother's Day."

Last fall they sent a committee to his home in South Bend to pin upon his breast their medal of honor, awarded to but three others, all from military life. His is the only award to a civilian.

much of its sorrow and leave it only its glory.

It is well to remember anniversaries, especially of imperishable ideas. It is also well for Indianapolis to remember in pride that with her other contributions to progress and civilization it furnished the birthplace for a better idea from which has come better things for all.

The fourth city which claims the honor of having given to the nation this red-letter day on its calendar is Philadelphia. The Quaker city points out that the movement, which resulted in congress passing a joint resolution authorizing a Mother's day and in President Wilson issuing a special proclamation designating a Sunday in May as the date, thus giving the observance the official sanction of the government of the United States, was started there in 1908 by one of its daughters, Miss Anna Jarvis.

Miss Jarvis' mother, who died in 1907, had been active in the work of the church and Sunday school of a small town in Virginia. On the anniversary of her death the pastor asked the daughter to arrange for a special service in the church where her mother had been a leading spirit. In complying with the request she began to realize the growing lack of tender consideration of absent mothers on the part of children who had left the home roof and strayed out into the world, each with a different interest.

Miss Jarvis talked the matter over with a friend, saying she would like to have one day of the year set aside, especially dedicated to the "best little mother in the world." Through the influence of this friend and others who had become interested, the first observance of the day was held May 10, 1908, in Philadelphia, with special services in all the Sunday schools in the city.

So popular was the idea with the people that Miss Jarvis became even more interested and began a widespread publicity of the event. She wrote letters or interviewed people in all walks of life for a proper observance of the day. By the time another anniversary had come around many individuals and organizations observed the second Sunday in May with appropriate ceremonies "in honor of the best mother who ever lived." As a result not only the entire nation, but many foreign countries, observe this day with appropriate ceremonies.

Pennsylvania was the first to make it a state holiday. This was in 1913. In the same year the mayor of Boston set an example of giving a free picnic in a park when all mothers and their children were given a big dinner by the business men of the city. The object was "to give a day of rest and recreation to mothers who have not had a summer vacation away from the city, and who get few opportunities to do so."

On May 10, 1913, a resolution passed by the senate and house of representatives to make the second Sunday in May a national holiday, "dedicated to the memory of the best mother in the world, your mother." President Wilson was authorized and requested to issue a proclamation to display United States flags on all government buildings in celebration of the day. It is said that when President Wilson signed the proclamation, he turned to William Jennings Bryan, his secretary of state, and said: "Bryan, that's the finest thing this congress has done. God bless the mothers."

Each year the idea grew more and more popular, until in a few years there was scarcely a small church or an organization throughout the land that did not make some observance of the day. And then came the World war, and it was during this time that the day was more universally observed than at any previous time. Boys in France were requested to write their mothers on that day, and so great was the response that shipload after shipload of letters landed at the port of New York to be distributed all over the nation to mothers whose sons had "gone across."

At the beginning the slogan adopted was, as it still is, "In honor of the best mother who ever lived," and the badge was then the white carnation. It is said that this flower was chosen because it was the favorite flower of a President, famous for his devotion to his mother—William McKinley, who habitually wore a white carnation in her honor.

Lesson for May 11

JESUS ACCLAIMED AS KING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Hosanna to the son of David; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Children's Praise Song.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Hailing Jesus as King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Christ Our King.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Making Christ Our King.

1. The Preparation (vv. 1-6).
1. The sending of the disciples for the ass (vv. 1-3).
Christ told them just where to go to find it and how to answer the inquiry of the one who owned it. This shows how perfectly Jesus knows our ways. The providing of the animal was not man's plan, but according to Christ's foreknowledge.

2. The fulfillment of prophecy (vv. 4, 5).

Some five hundred years before this, Zechariah had made this prediction (Zech. 9:9). Christ's coming in this way was in exact fulfillment of Zechariah's prediction. This is highly instructive to those who would understand as yet unfulfilled prophecy. If the predictions of His first coming were thus literally fulfilled, there is no alternative but to believe that those of His second coming will likewise be literally fulfilled.

3. The obedience of the disciples (v. 6).
The request may have seemed strange and unreasonable, but they obeyed.

11. The Entrance of the King (vv. 7-11).

1. The disciples put their garments upon the ass and set the Lord thereon (v. 7).
This act showed that they recognized Him as their King (II Kings 9:13).

2. The multitude (vv. 8, 9).
Some spread their garments in the way; others who had no garments to spare, cut down branches and did the same with them.

3. The city awakened (vv. 10, 11).
It was a stirring time, but a more stirring time is to come. This will be when the Lord comes in power and glory.

111. The King Rejected (vv. 12-16).
The immediate occasion of this rejection was the cleansing of the temple. To sell oxen and sheep and doves was legitimate, as well as to exchange money in doing it, but doing it for gain was wrong. As soon as the spirit of avarice enters, the house of prayer becomes a den of thieves.

1V. The Nation Rejected by the King (vv. 17-46).

Having shown their unwillingness to receive Christ as King when officially presented to them, Christ now turns from them and makes known their awful condition in the following parables:

1. The barren fig tree cursed (vv. 17-22).

It was on the morrow after his official presentation as He was returning from Jerusalem that Jesus observed the unfruitful fig tree. The barren fig tree is a type of Israel. With its leaves, it gave a show of life, but being destitute of fruit, it had no right to cumber the ground.

2. The parable of the two sons (vv. 23-32).

Both sons were told by the father to work in the vineyard. The one refused outright to obey, but afterwards repented and went. The other pretended a willingness to obey, but in reality did not. The first one represents the publicans and harlots. The second the proud and self-righteous Pharisees—priests and elders.

3. The parable of the householder (vv. 30-40).

(1) This was God Himself, (2) The vineyard. This means Israel (Isa. 5:1-7, Jer. 2:21, Ps. 80:9). The Lord went to particular pains to gather out this nation and make it separate, bestowing peculiar favors upon it. This vineyard so well kept and provided for, did not bear fruit. (3) The husbandmen. These were the spiritual guides—the rulers and teachers of Israel. (4) The servants were sent for the fruit of the vineyard. These were the various prophets whom God sent to the nation. They were beaten and killed. (5) The Lord Jesus Christ, God's only and beloved Son, came into their midst. They knew Him to be the Son, but did not show Him reverence. They not only rejected the kingdom, but the King who was the Son.

Look at a great life, and you will find a great will behind it. But it is not self-will; it is a will attuned to that of God. Therefore it goes forward on the road of victory.—Young People.

Believing in God

Old and young can take this family laxative; free trial bottle!

The next time you or the children need a laxative, try this famous doctor's prescription which aids the bowels without doing any harm. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, containing pure senna and laxative herbs, is effective in a gentle and helpful way. Its action is thorough, but it never weakens the bowels. It stimulates muscular action and is thus actually good for the system. So remember Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin when coated tongue, fetid breath, headaches, nausea, jaded appetite or biliousness tells the need of a thorough cleansing. Druggists keep it in big bottles, or write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle.

Humility is useful in taking the scolding mood out of anyone.

If a man has a nervous wife he has no need for an alarm clock.

When BABIES are upset

Baby life and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Mothers' Day Services

Next Sunday is Mothers' Day. It will be observed in the Methodist Church at 11 a. m. Mothers' Day is a holy institution. On this day we do special honor to our mothers. What better time, and in what better place than on the Lord's Day and in His house, to honor our mothers and our mothers' God? We cannot honor the one without the other. He who said, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God," said also, "Honor thy father and thy mother." There are those of us who are still in the home with our mothers; some of us are separated from them by long miles, and there are others whose mothers await their coming.
Let us thank God for the mothers who remain to bless us with their presence, and for the hallowed memory of those who await us in the Home of the Soul. Be at this service Sunday morning. Special music, special songs and special sermon. We are a flower for your mother--a gay-colored one if she is living; a white one to honor her memory. If she is away, write her a letter, tell her you love her and that you are going to church to honor her.
