

CRYSTAL THEATRE

T. J. Pittman, Mgr.

Friday—V a n and Scheck in a Baseball story, with six song hits, "They Learned About Women."

Saturday—Sunday—Ken Maynard in a western, "Lucky Larkin."

Monday—Tuesday—Wednesday—Jean Eagle and Frederick Marsh in "Jealousy."

Thursday—Friday—Rex Lease, Dorothy Gulliver and Slim Summerville in a story of the U. S. Cavalry, "Troopers Three."

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Porter

and little son Jack were here from Corona Wednesday. Mr. Porter is one of Corona's bean boosters and also a booster for the bean pool of that vicinity. The recent hail storm that swept that part of the county, did no harm to his bean farm, but the Bryan boys, not a great distance from him, lost all of their beans so that they must re-plant. The hail also tore a corrugated metal roof from their home.

Mrs. M. J. Frey

daughters, Carmi, Gertrude, Winifred and Dora of San Antonio, Texas, are here for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Frey's father, conductor John Miller and conductor and Mrs. D. D. Tiffany. While here, they will be taken to the mountain resorts and will see the Bonito Dam, the work on which project is going ahead at a rapid rate.

Harry Ryberg

was here from Corona Monday and said that the Corona country was getting a fine lot of moisture. Harry has just purchased another tract of land and continues to broaden out. He has 40 acres in beans this year and this, together with his stock, will keep him busy. He was accompanied by G. W. Latta, from whom he bought the land.

More Fords Sold

The Carrizozo Auto Co., delivered new cars to the following parties during the past week: Louise Sweet, Town Sedan; Bill Mendenhall, Tudor Sedan; A. N. Rannels, Town Sedan; Murray Zumwalt, Sport Roadster; Leandro Vega, Town Sedan. Six used cars were also sold this week.

Baptist Church

There will be no services next Sunday on account of Rev. Rowland being absent from town. Sunday School will be held at the usual hour.

Aims to Retire

With reference to his ad on page 8 of this paper, M. Doering is going to retire from business as soon as he can sell his present stock, find a buyer for it, and a tenant for the building.

The Hail Storm at Nogal

Tuesday, was severe. Hail fell to the depth of 1½ inches and the hail stones were so large that many young chickens were killed; young beans and other vegetables were cut to pieces by the wind and hail.

LOCAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lalone

for many years residents of this place, but now residing at Sierra Madre, Calif., announce the coming marriage of their daughter, Josephine Lalone, to S. Van Winkle of Los Angeles, the event to occur on Wednesday, June 25, at the Sierra Madre Congregational Church. After the wedding, the young couple will go to the Catalina Islands for their honeymoon.

The Lalone family will be remembered by their many Lincoln county friends, and as we all knew Miss Josephine and the entire family for many years, the best wishes of the people of her old home in New Mexico will be extended to the couple for their future welfare and happiness.

Mrs. T. E. Welch

mother, Mrs. Northrup and brother-in-law Kenneth Welch, came in last Friday from Emporia, Kans., where they went on June 10 with the remains of the late T. E. Welch, who was accidentally shot at his ranch Friday, May 30. Mrs. Northrup and Mr. Welch will remain for an indefinite period, Mr. Welch overseeing matters at the Patos Mountain ranch near White Oaks. Kenneth was down from the ranch Wednesday and told about the funeral, which he said was largely attended by friends of the family and the services conducted by the local Masonic lodge of Hartford, where the deceased held his membership. Other wings of the Masonic order, such as the Chapter, Shrine and also the American Legion, attended in bodies.

W. W. Stadman

of whom we made mention last week as going to San Bernardino, Calif., to attend the funeral of his father, A. Stadman, arrived there before other children of the family, who arrived later on, the funeral being held Saturday, June 14, and the services were conducted by Rev. Golder I. Lawrence of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of San Bernardino and the remains interred in Mountain View cemetery.

Mr. Stadman is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nettie Stadman, four sons, Arthur J., of San Bernardino, Walter W., of Roswell, N. M., Prof. Charles of Woodriver, Ill., and Major Claud E., of Fort Sill, Okla., all of whom were present at the funeral. The Stadman family of Roswell, for years residents of Carrizozo, have the sympathy of their many friends here.

Dr. Broadus

filled his appointment here this week and reported business exceptionally good. He left Wednesday night to fill his appointment at Alamogordo yesterday. Dr. Broadus will be here on the Third Tuesday of each month, hereafter.

D. M. Purcell

G. C. Moore and G. D. Council were here Tuesday in the interest of the coming Fourth of July Celebration at Fort Stanton. The boys have always had successful celebrations on the national holiday, but the one this year promises to far exceed that which has been given before.

Dance

given at the Community Hall Saturday night, June 28 Sponsored by the Golf Club — Music by the "Gloom Chasers" who, together with his brother, Joe, now deceased, resided on their ranch 7 miles east of town for the past 40 years, suddenly disappeared and up to recently no one could account as to his whereabouts. Since losing his brother, the ranch became weary for George, and at the present time, we understand, he finds himself once more and may be forever, in his mother country, Italy.

John George

Mrs. Glen McCoy

of Carlsbad will stop over for a short visit with the Roy Shafer family the first of next week, on her return trip from California.

A. S. Deane

and Henry Morris of Lincoln, were business visitors here yesterday. Mr. Deane has one of the finest ranches in the lower valley.

B. B. Williams and family of Roswell will be week-end guests of the Roy Shafer family.

Warden Maxwell

son of Frank Maxwell, prominent wool-grower of this district, will be here in a short time from Wardenville, W. Va., to spend his vacation. Warden writes his father that he will make the trip traveling by airplane through the day and by train at night. He is still waiting anxiously for the time to arrive for his start and writes that he will be glad to be home and "shoot coyotes." In his letter, he gives the time of his start and gives a schedule of every train and airplane service he will have on the trip. Come on, Warden, there'll be plenty of coyotes left for you to shoot!

Two Attempts at Robbery

Sunday morning at 4 o'clock, as usual, an attempt was made to break and enter Ziegler Bros. Store, but the attempt was sidetracked by the arrival of Fred Baldonado, who was on his rounds calling the trainmen for the early trains and passed in the rear of the store. The robber had an ax with which he was trying to pry off the door casings and a crowbar to assist in his work, but he dropped both and ran with Fred close on his heels. The chase continued as far as Johnson's hospital, when the robber got too fast for Fred and he gave up the chase.

On the same night, Mrs. J. B. French was awakened by a noise and going into the parlor, she saw a man on the front porch with a flashlight. He fled when Mrs. French turned on the lights. Fortunately, no entrance was made at either place.

Mrs. L. A. Boone

was a business visitor from Capitan Thursday.

C. D. Mayer

returned Wednesday from El Paso where he had been visiting his son, P. W. Mayer and family.

BASEBALL!

Last Sunday at Duran, our boys allowed Duran to run in 7 scores up to the 5th inning and we still held the goose egg, but after that they shut Duran out entirely and made 5 runs, which was good playing. Duran will be here Sunday and we are going to beat them and we don't mean probably, either.

The team needs money to finish paying for the uniforms and some other expenses which will have to be defrayed and plans are being made to give a dance at Community Hall shortly which will be a home affair, pure and simple. The "Gloom Chasers," local orchestra will furnish the music and a good time is guaranteed to everybody.

As the boys are in need of money, let's see just what we can raise on the coming occasion. Although we have won no games up to the present time, the season is still young. We have good material and misfortune in one way and another, has been the cause of our defeats, but the boys are practicing up in good shape and by next Sunday we will be in a position to show the visitors a good run for their trouble. Everybody turn in and help the boys by attending the game and offering encouragement to home talent.

At a meeting of those interested in the game, Raymond Lackland was elected as manager of the team. The new score cards are ready and at the game next Sunday, each person paying the price of 35c, will be given a score card. Now is the time to get behind the new manager and boost for Carrizozo. Let the slogan for next Sunday be, "Beat Duran."

Harry Gallacher Injured

Yesterday afternoon while at work on a windmill at the Chupadero Mesa ranch, northwest of here, Harry Gallacher and Allen Lane were victims in an accident which caused Mr. Gallacher to be injured by having three ribs broken. The X-Ray examination revealed no other injuries aside from those mentioned above.

They had been repairing the windmill and selecting a quiet spot for the work, were placing the last bolt, when Mr. Wm. Gallacher, owner of the ranch and who was working on the ground, observed an enormous whirlwind coming swiftly in that direction from the highland. He called to the men but they could not hear him. The whirlwind struck violently and set the wheel in motion, carrying the two men with it and as it made its first revolution, Mr. Gallacher was thrown to the ground and into a pile of iron pipes and boards, a distance of 45 feet.

He was brought to the Johnson hospital, where the extent of his injuries were determined. In the fall, his head struck first, but fortunately, he has but a bad bruise on one of his cheeks. Mr. Lane grabbed the platform as he came over with the wheel and saved himself, escaping with but a few minor bruises.

Carrizozo Woman's Club will hold a special meeting on June 27, at 3 p. m., at the Community Hall, for the purpose of installing the secretary, treasurer and parliamentarian, and reconsidering the purchase of the year books.

FORT STANTON NEWS

The Fort boys trimmed the Joyce Pruitt ball team of Roswell 20 to 12, last Sunday. The fast Corona team is scheduled to play Stanton next Sunday at the Fort. We hope that Carrizozo fans will come over and lend us their support.

The new tennis court is proving very popular and affording much interest to fans on the side line who are unable to play.

Mr. Boyd returned from a week's fishing trip on the Red River in northern New Mexico, where he reports fishing good.

Dave Parker and Bert Minter returned from a fishing trip to Elephant Butte Dam.

Dr. and Mrs. Reid are spending a short vacation fishing at Elephant Butte Dam. Doctor takes his outdoor motor along on which he goes up to where fish are plentiful.

Dell Dickey and Miss Converse motored to Roswell last week in their new car, accompanied by Mr. Fagan and daughter Virginia.

Dan Kuslanovich and James Smith motored to El Paso last week, returning Friday.

Dan Savage of Roswell sponsored a very enjoyable evening of music at the Chapel of Our Redeemer, Sunday. We have had some very enjoyable music from Roswell of late and several of our friends have indicated their willingness to come again. Although there are many radios at the hospital, we always have an appreciative audience to greet these artists.

Mr. Sund of Las Vegas returned to his home last week after spending an enjoyable vacation with his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Spickelmire.

Dr. D. B. Newell left for Washington, D. C., Friday for a conference with the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service. The doctor expects to return this week.

Henry Korback, one of our industrious patients has constructed a new building and is installing a new pressing machine. He has demonstrated his ability to do first class work and with this outfit he expects to improve the service very much.

Friends of Miss Jerry Foley surprised her Wednesday evening with a Linen Shower. Miss Foley has resigned as nurse and is preparing for her approaching wedding to Dr. Sam R. King, who also resigned from the hospital staff and will enter private practice with Dr. F. D. Garrett of El Paso on July 1. We are sorry to have Dr. King leave us, but like all young ambitious men he expects to improve his present position. We extend our best wishes to the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Eastes and Master Junior Aldridge of Indianapolis and Miss Elaine Eastes of Travers City, Mich., are expected for an extended visit with Dr. and Mrs. Westhafer, arriving Wednesday.

Mrs. Robert Farris has been quite ill, but is improving nicely.

Dr. Westhafer, Wm. Hale, Red Merrill, family and Max Faget picnicked at Nogal Lake Sunday afternoon and report fishing on the bum, or not so good.

Plans are under way for another big celebration at the Fort on July 4th. The program includes: Concessions on grounds, Barbecue and Lunch, Rodeo, Baseball game and a Big Fire-

The Mazaroff Mystery

by J. S. FLETCHER
Illustrations by IRWIN MYERS

(C) by Alfred A. Knopf, Inc.
W. N. U. Service

The most casual eye would pick out Salim Mazaroff as a notable figure, a man of affairs, who rightfully claimed the attention of the multitude; yet there was a gentleness about him, a democracy of manner, which reserved him a pinnacle above his fellows but made him one of them. There was an element of mystery about him, too, but it was not the sort to produce suspicion, but rather, of the type to intrigue and invite a friendly interest.

Being so obviously a real man and so affable and open-handed, he was about the last person in the world one would think of as likely to have created powerful enemies or of being the object of a sinister pursuit and revenge. Why should anyone wish to do harm to this able, generous and thoroughly likable individual?

Facts being as they were and no dark chapters in his life even hinted at, it became all the more strange that such things as afterward developed should have befallen him; that he should have become the center of a mystery that was cunning, cruel and baffling.

This is a typical J. S. Fletcher story of the purple variety. This author's popularity rests upon the fact that he always has an entertaining tale to tell and tells it ably. His people are always human and he never loses track of the many threads in his mystery or fails to work out his puzzles satisfactorily.

CHAPTER I Mr. Mazaroff

It was Dick Harker who first put me in touch with the man whose mysterious murder, while in my company, formed the basis of what came to be famous in three continents as the Mazaroff affair. Harker and I were old schoolfellows; we entered the army together as subalterns; we were in the same battalion throughout the great war; we were wounded on the same day, and in the same scrap—a fortnight before the armistice; we were sent to the same home hospital and were eventually discharged from it at the same time, each unfit for any further military service, but fortunately in possession of our full complement of limbs. Harker walked into my rooms one morning while I was still at breakfast, and slung down a copy of the Times, indicating a blue-pencilled advertisement in the "Personal" column.

Mr. Mazaroff and I spent a couple of hours over that lunch and our cigars and coffee.

"You've no fixed plan?" I inquired. "No more than that we'll just get into my car and go north," he answered. "Stopping where we like and and we'll be right as rain. Come by five o'clock. That'll suit you? Good! And now we'll just go down and take a bit of lunch together."

Mr. Mazaroff and I spent a couple of hours over that lunch and our cigars and coffee. He proved himself a knowing and generous host, and a great talker. His talk was worth listening to. I soon discovered that he had seen many strange places and peoples; without giving me any definite information about himself or his pursuits, he let me know that he had traveled extensively in various out-of-the-way parts of Asia and Africa. Presently I left him and went away to make ready for our journey; at five o'clock I was back at the hotel with my luggage, and by a quarter past we were off.

We followed out Mazaroff's line of going as far as we liked, and stopping where and when we chose. It was difficult to get him away from towns like Stamford and Grantham—at York, after a preliminary inspection of the old city, he announced his intention of staying a week; we stopped ten days.

All the way north, he was never tired of drawing me out about the war, and my own doings in it. It was of no use to profess that one had forgotten; he would have the whole tale. And for all the youngsters who had done their bit he professed an admiration which was akin to veritable hero worship.

"We got on together splendidly—he was an excellent, a fatherly and brotherly companion. At the end of a month he and I were inseparable. We had then, run into the crisp October weather of the north, and were on the southern edge of Northumberland. There, after consulting his map, he gave his chauffeur orders to cut across country, north by west, making by way of Hexham and Wark for the wild lands beyond, and for a particular place marked on the chart as the Woodcock Inn on Marrasdale moor.

When, rounding a heather-clad bluff that sloped sharply down to our track, we came in sight of the Woodcock Inn, I was amazed to think that a hostelry should be found in such a desert. It stood, a gaunt gray mass of stone, on the edge of a great moor ringed about by high hills—a veritable solitude as one could see eyes on. Beyond it there was not a sign of human life or habitation.

"What an extraordinary place for an inn!" I exclaimed as we moved nearer. "What custom can they get there?"

"I know this country," Mazaroff said. "Used to come here when I was a youngster. And though it's true there isn't a sign of life about us except what's signified by the old inn yonder, it's not such a desert as it looks at first sight. There's nothing on the moor—Marrasdale moor—but you'll observe that there's valleys cutting in between the hills that run down to its edge? Well, there's villages in those valleys, and farmsteads, too, and more than one sizable country house. I mind them all well enough, lad, though it's more years than I care to estimate since I set eyes on them!"

"There'll be people you remember," I suggested, "and who'll remember you?"

"Not after all these years!" he answered quickly. "And between you and me and the post, Holt, I've no wish to remember people, nor—more particularly—to be remembered by anybody. I don't want it to be known that I'm other than a complete stranger to the place."

I was wondering why he should be so mysterious about this, when we drew up at the door of the inn.

There was a plain board sign over the wide, open door, unadorned save for a faded painting of a woodcock flying across a moorland scene. Beneath it, in tarnished gilt letters appeared the words: "The Woodcock Inn by James Musgrave."

I fancied I detected renewed interest in the expression of Mr. Mazaroff's face during this explanation. But he was a good hand at concealing his thoughts, and he turned and waved his hand toward the wide prospect before us.

"So Mr. Elphinstone of Marrasdale tower owns most of what we see?" he suggested.

"Well, not what you might call most, sir," replied Musgrave. Those moors to the south and east, sir, High Cap moors, they belong to a London gentleman, Mr. Verner Courthouse, a banker. He's got a shooting box right in the middle of 'em—High Cap lodge they call it—and he's there now, with a small shooting party.

With occasional bits of gossip of this sort, out first evening at the Woodcock went off very pleasantly. I wondered what we were going to do with ourselves next day in so solitary a place. But Mr. Mazaroff, it seemed, had notions of his own, which he promptly explained on coming down to breakfast.

"Take my shovel out, Mike, I've forgotten it!"

But friend Michael knew Pat of old, and refused to be caught by such a trick. So he rabbed the message off and substituted one of his own:

"Take it out yourself. I've never seen it."—London Answers.

Quantity of Amber Found in Baltic Basin

Amber has been mined for hundreds of years in the so-called blue earth of the Baltic basin. It is classified as a fossil resin and geologists believe that several species of pines have had a part in the formation of the amber of the Baltic basin.

Pieces of amber are torn from the sea floor and cast up by the waves. They are collected at ebb tide by searchers who sometimes wade into the sea and with nets attached to long poles drag to the beach the seaweed containing entangled masses of amber. Dredges have also been used.

Lithuanian raw amber is the property of the government. Each finder has to deliver the pieces to administrators of the state's central depots of amber. Failure to do so leads to a charge of embezzlement.

Amber has found its greatest use in the fashioning of ornaments. Artisans who make necklaces, bracelets and brooches turn the amber on a lathe and polish it with whiting and water, or with stones and oil, the final luster being imparted by friction with flannel.—New York Times.

Terms of Contempt

"Wop" is shortened from "wapparoosa," a Sicilian localism for a good-for-nothing fellow.

Pat O'Hara and Mike Murphy (who strangely enough, were Irishmen) had taken jobs at a colliery. Pat one morning broke his shovel when he was down in the mine. He was too lazy, however, to take it to the surface with him, so he left it for his friend, writing on it in chalk:

"Take my shovel out, Mike, I've forgotten it!"

But friend Michael knew Pat of old, and refused to be caught by such a trick. So he rabbed the message off and substituted one of his own:

"Take it out yourself. I've never seen it."—London Answers.

Lesson for June 22 THE RISEN LORD AND THE GREAT COMMISSION

GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore and teach all nations.

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:1-20.

PHIMARY TOPIC—Carrying on Jesus' Work.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Marching Orders.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Marching Orders.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Great Commission.

1. The Empty Sepulchre (vv. 1-7).

1. The earthquake (vv. 1-4). This occurred when the glorious angel descended from heaven to roll the stone away from the tomb. This work of the angel was not to allow Jesus to escape, but to show that the tomb was empty. Christ needed not even the help of the angel, for He came forth from the grave by His own power as the seal of His atoning work on the cross (Rom. 1:4). The open tomb and the angel sitting upon the stone with calm dignity, is a graphic picture of Christ's triumph over the devil, and the terror of the keepers is a sample of what all of Christ's enemies shall one day experience when He comes in glory to reign as King.

2. The angel's message to the women (vv. 5-7).

(1) Fear not (v. 5). While the enemies had occasion to fear, these women who loved the Lord received good news from the empty tomb. The empty tomb puts an end forever to all doubts and fears. Let every teacher endeavor to show the greatness of the fact that the tomb was empty, for it shows that we have a living Christ. The resurrection of Christ should be the major theme of those who give out the Christian message. (2) "Come, see" (v. 6). The angel told the women that the Lord had risen and invited them to see the place where He lay. The Lord made special effort to convince the disciples of the reality of His resurrection. He remained with them for forty days, giving them many "infallible proofs." (3) "Go quickly" (v. 7). Having seen for themselves, their responsibility was to go and tell the message. Experience is necessary before testimony. They were to go quickly to the disciples with the message, assured that the Lord would go before and meet them.

3. The Risen Lord Meets the Women (vv. 8-10).

The women quickly obeyed the command of the angel, and were running to bring word to the disciples. Jesus met them on the way. Those who have an experimental knowledge of Christ should go speedily to tell others of it. When they saw Jesus—that He was really the Lord—they worshiped Him.

4. Paying Money to Circulate a Lie (vv. 11-15).

That Jesus arose from the dead could not be denied even by the Sadducees. They saw only one way out of the difficulty; that was to bribe the keepers to tell a lie. They had paid money for His betrayal—now they paid more money to circulate a lie about His resurrection. This shows the wonderful power that money has over the lives and consciences of men. It not only induces people to lie, but it even muzzles the mouths of some teachers and preachers.

5. The King's Great Commission (vv. 16-20).

1. The royal authority (v. 18). By virtue of His divine authority, He issued this command to the disciples. In order to prepare them for the reception of this command, He declared unto them that all power in heaven and earth had been given unto Him.

2. The commission itself (vv. 19, 20).

It consists of three parts. (1) Go teach all nations. This is the first and primary business of the disciple. This command has been issued to all disciples by the risen and mighty Lord. (2) Baptize them in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Those who have become disciples of the Lord should receive the rite which signifies that relationship to Him. (3) Teach them to observe all of Christ's commandments (v. 20). Those who have become Christ's disciples should be taught conformity to His will.

3. The available power (v. 2).

Those who obey Christ in carrying out this commission shall enjoy His abiding presence.

Prayer the Golden Key

Prayer is a golden key which should open the morning and lock up the evening.—Bishop Hopkins.

Making Short Cuts

There are plenty of cuts across corners that one can make in life, in education, in business, in politics, in religion. But there is really no short cut to any promised land.—Edgar Whittaker Work, U. D.

Should Have Jesus With Us

What lessons the sea teaches us. It is calm like life at times, then stormy, also like life, causing shipwrecks. If we sail life's sea, we should have Jesus with us in the ship.—Morris Maria.

SCENIC PLAYGROUNDS OF AMERICA

By G. M. KILBOURN

An American Switzerland

A HETCH-HETCHY dam in Yosemite National Park, California, is stationed probably the only ranger-naturalist in the national park system who needs to know waterworks, hydroelectric, and earthen embankment statistics as a part of his "nature-guiding" duties.

For Hetch-Hetchy lake, in addition to being part of the park, and a magnificent part of it, is also a portion of the city water and power system of San Francisco, and the automobile road which brings most of the visitors ends abruptly at the big dam built a few years back to create the seven-mile lake. Questions, therefore, apply to the construction project as well as to the upland surrounding it.

Years ago John Muir and others found Hetch-Hetchy valley a worthy rival of the main Yosemite valley, whose granite walls and long, filmy waterfalls are world-famous. And submersion of the Hetch-Hetchy floor, while of course burying the trails and bringing traffic to a halt, has only increased the grandeur of the site by adding the charm of a lakeland to the sternness and dignity of the 3,000-foot walls. Rigid protection of the water-source of course limits the availability of the lake for sightseeing purposes; but if a scenic launch service is ever made available on Hetch-Hetchy, there'll be a boat-river worth crossing the continent to take. And for the present, the view from the dam alone is one that's hard to leave.

The lake also acts as an ally of trail lovers and fishermen, as against the "skim-it-and-run" wanderers who help to swell the park's annual visitor count to nearly half a million, or nearly twice that of any other national playground. Almost a third of the park lies north of Hetch-Hetchy and of the Tuolumne (pronounced Twolumme) river of which it is formed. This northern upland has been a favorite camping and hiking ground of the Sierra club of the state for many years, but is still little known to the vacationing public at large. However, "it is a wilderness of wonderful charm and deserves to harbor a thousand camps," as the official park bulletin explains.

Lakes and streams of these northern canyons were stocked years ago with rainbow and eastern brook trout. Construction of the waterworks project interrupted too easy access by fisherman, and now the region has reached the "come and get us" stage where the angler who takes the trouble to get there may find himself in a fisherman's heaven as well as a scenic paradise.

The upper portion of the Tuolumne valley, at the far eastern edge of the park, is not only a favorite camping and climbing region, but is also reached by automobile, by the highly scenic Tioga road. This road climbs out of the main Yosemite valley at its western end, passes the Tuolumne grove of sequoia trees, crosses to the glacier-burnished granite domes of the eastern uplands, and winds down from Tioga pass to Mono lake and the Nevada boundary through a steep and forbidding but highly scenic canyon. The Tioga road was built in 1881, by Chinese labor, to a gold mine east of the park; the mine "went broke," but national park tourists are still riding on the road.

Not Original With Kaiser

The phrase "Place in the sun" was used by the former emperor of Germany, William II, on June 18, 1901, in an address at Hamburg while referring to Germany's acquisition of the Chinese harbor at Kiaochow and other valuable commercial concessions in China. The idea was expressed many years before, however. Pascal, who lived from 1623 to 1662, in his "Les Pensees" said: "That dog of mine, said those poor children; that place in the sun is mine; such is the beginning and type of 'usurpation' throughout the earth."

Culture by the Bottle

A newly married couple that moved into a nearby suburban community, were very snooty. They had so much money and they put on so much "dog" that everyone whispered the husband was a retired bootlegger.

The town was looked them over and then remarked:

"The only thing cultured about them is their acidophilus milk."—New York Sun.

"Glad to see you," he said, almost vaguely.

New York City's population has increased tenfold since 1860.

Senator Bratton Could 'Just Die' for Our Stockmen

It has been said and word has been received from Washington to the effect that Senator Bratton was heartily in favor of the Tariff Bill which has just gone to the President for his signature, of at least, that portion of it which will effect stockmen of the west, especially those of New Mexico, but when the votes were cast, we find that Senator Bratton voted directly against it.

In the last issue of this paper, we stated that the tariff bill would do away with the duty heretofore imposed on the shipping of cattle to and from the Mexico pastures.

This is one clause of the bill, alone would, it seems to us, be of such amount of interest to a representative of the state, that it would receive strong consideration from him, and though he felt that he could not support the measure in full, he might explain to the stockmen of his home state why it was that he cast his vote against their interests, therefore we will be awaiting an explanation of his vote, because he has said, he was decidedly in favor of the stockmen's interests.

STATE TIMBER SALE LINCOLN COUNTY
 Sale No. 2424

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions of law and the regulations of the State Land Office, the Commissioner of Public Lands, will on the 2nd day of September, 1930, at 9 o'clock a. m., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Carrizozo, county seat of Lincoln County, New Mexico, offer for sale to the highest and best bidder all of the merchantable dead timber, standing and down, and all of the live timber marked for cutting on the S1/2 Section 34, Township 10 South, Range 18 East, Lincoln County, New Mexico, estimated to be ninety-five thousand (95,000) feet, board measure, available for cutting.

No bid will be accepted for less than $3.50 per thousand feet, board measure, and the successful bidder at time of sale will be required to pay the expenses of sale and to deposit on the purchase price not less than One Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($150.00). The balance of the purchase price will be payable as the cutting proceeds and as called for by the Commissioner of Public Lands.

Cutting will be required to be completed on or before July 1st, 1931, unless extension be granted for good cause shown. All operations under this sale will be conducted in conformity with a written contract to be entered into with the State of New Mexico, by the successful bidder, a copy of which will be furnished upon application and the sale will be administered by the United States Forest Service, in accordance with the existing co-operative agreement.

After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 300 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Ferrans Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration, and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Renault races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Andes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

Boys Like Belts on Their Clothes

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
In the effort to do away with some of the usual complicated fastenings on small boys' suits, clothing specialists of the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture have eliminated several types of belts and are suggesting improvements in others. The belts that had to be put through a succession of loops around the waist, some of them out of reach in back, were especially aggravating. This type of belt had to be pulled out and put back whenever the trousers were unfastened.

A Practical Belt.

Nevertheless, having a belt of some sort may be a very real pleasure to some small boys. They will not be very critical about the construction of it, just so it is a belt. The bureau has designed a very satisfactory and used at first with buttons always in the same place, so that the child will learn to manipulate every button without aid. Later on variations and changes in style may be introduced. The blouse of this suit has a very simple one-button opening. The set-in sleeves clear the elbows and are loose enough to permit all normal activity. A flat collar facing and sleeve finish matches the trousers.

Another Way to Serve Eggplant

Here's an eggplant recipe from the bureau of home economics which may be new to those who have always fried this vegetable.

1 large eggplant, 1 quart canned
1 lb. butter or other fat or chopped raw
1 green pepper, 2 tap. salt
1 chopped pepper
1 small onion, 1 cup bread
chopped crumbs

Parse the eggplant and cut it into small, even pieces. Melt 2 tablespoons of the fat in a skillet, add the green pepper and onion, and cook for a few minutes. Add the tomatoes, eggplant, salt, and pepper, cook for ten minutes and place the mixture in a shallow greased baking dish. Melt the remaining fat in a skillet, stir in the bread crumbs, and sprinkle the crumbs over the eggplant. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes, or until the eggplant is tender and the crumbs are browned.

Evening Fairy Tale for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The button bush flowers aren't like the big buttons one sees in a work box. So, really, there is no special reason for such a name. Each button bush plant has a great, great many flowers upon it and each one of these flowers is filled with the most delicious honey.

There was going to be a banquet that day, and the banquet table was to be the bush.

It was being held in the swamp where the bush grew. Perhaps you could say that the many, many flowers on the button bush looked a little bit like very small buttons, but anyway each of these flowers was filled with the most delicious honey.

"When is the banquet to begin?" asked one little flower.

"In a very short time," said the Button Bush.

"Patience, though, little flowers. The guests will come soon."

"Who are the guests to be?" asked the flowers.

"All the little insects of the swamp," said the Button Bush.

"Oh, goodie!" they said. "It will be a great and magnificent banquet, a great and gay banquet."

And they all looked very happy.

At last the guests began to arrive, and once they had started to come it seemed as though they would never stop.

Of course, they held banquets every day in the swamp, and many times a day, but this was a very special banquet.

One little insect was seated upon the edge of a tiny button bush flower. "Will you tell me a secret?" asked the insect.

"What is it?" asked the flower.

"Ah, it's a secret you all have; but if you will tell me I will promise to tell only my friends and companions, the insects."

"You don't mind if we know. We're all such friends."

"What secret have we that you

Guests Began to Arrive.

want to know?" asked the little flower.

"Ah, my one, shy one, you know," said the insect.

The flower moved a little in the breeze. "Have another good sip of honey and I will tell you," said the flower.

"That's an easy command to obey," said the insect.

"We are very, very shy," said the flower. "Yes, all the flowers on each of the button bush flowers are so shy that they want to keep away from people."

"We have been told we would make lovely garden flowers and that people would admire us."

"They say we are so fragrant and sweet and that we are pretty to look at."

"All of which is true," said the insect, making a low bow, and taking another little sip of honey.

"But somehow we love the swamps best. They are so quiet. People don't come to the swamps so much, and we are so shy. People are nice, we haven't a doubt, but we like to be off by ourselves, and so we always grow in the swamps where there are no houses, but where there are lots of insects."

"We like insects. They enjoy our delicious honey—for we can't help boasting a little of our honey, which every tiny flower has, and we like to give our honey to the insects."

"We help them and they help us. We all love each other. The insects come to us because they hear of our rare honey and because we are so fragrant that they are drawn to us."

"But, little insects, do not feel sad if the world doesn't see us, and because the world can't share with you our fragrance."

"We are shy, we have always been shy, and we will always be shy."

"But the people in the world outside the swamps have many beautiful things to look at and enjoy and we want to help along the swamps which aren't always so nice."

"And we love to give banquets. Yes, little insect, the button bush and the insect family are great friends when they meet in a good old out-of-the-way swamp!"

Wide Brims Chic for Summer

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

As to the right hat for the right occasion than a wide brimmed black Milan, none other comes nearer to registering 100 per cent perfect. Wherefore the revival of broad-brim fine black Milans for summer will be hailed with delight by the majority of women.

The beauty about these flattering big brims of fine, finer, finest Milan straw is that they top flatter, summery chiffons and other frocks as back to the almost forgotten cart-wheel types.

That very handsome drooping brim, first in the picture, with its modish shallow crown which has white roses posed at the back, combines the ultra-new coarse straw with fine Milan in its making.

Another black Milan mushroom-brim model is shown to the right. It is trimmed with pink velvet ribbon. If any color is smarter combined with black than white, that color is pink, turquoise, or light blue following next in order.

The Milan down in the left-hand corner is made in sections which are fagoted together by hand. Quite a considerable fagoting is being employed by the milliner both in connection with straw and with fabric. The little bow at the side on the hat portrayed is of straw.

Lacy straws distinguish the two other models shown. The dressy chapeau in the center has a fancy straw crown, a network of black and white horsehair forming the brim. A band and underbrim bow of black velvet completes this model.

Natural colored crocheted Tuscan straw is mounted on a black horsehair cloche for the concluding hat.

CAUSE OF CRACKS IN FLOOR

Cracks in a new well laid floor are the result of a change in moisture content within the wood itself. This change is due to improper preliminary seasoning; improper storage conditions at the mill or retail yard; delivery of the flooring during wet weather or before the masonry or plaster walls are dry; or it may be due to the absorption of moisture from the air within the building either before or after the flooring is laid. The use of the heating plant may be advisable, says the United States forest service, to maintain a temperature that will prevent excessive humidity in the building from the time the flooring is delivered until the house is occupied.

Hints About Good Things to Eat

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"If you think you are beaten you are; if you think you dare not, you don't; if you like to win, but you think you can't, it's almost a cinch you won't."

In the spring and early summer green foods—fresh vegetables and fruit—are more appealing than more complicated foods. There are some roughage foods that are needed all the year round and an occasional use of bran in food, or, taken in water as a drink, will keep the elimination good. For the children the bran may be given in small cakes, cookies and macaroons.

Bran Date Muffins.—Break two eggs into a mixing bowl and beat with an egg beater for two minutes; add two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth cupful of sugar and one-fourth cupful of softened shortening. Add two teaspoonfuls of baking powder to one cupful of flour, add one cupful of bran, one-half cupful each of dates cut fine, and one-half cupful of nutmeats cut fine. Mix all as usual and beat well. Bake in well greased muffin pans for twenty-five minutes.

Liver Sandwiches.—Rub cooked liver white hot through a sieve, season with salt and pepper and mix with three-fourths the amount of thinly sliced olives. Spread on buttered rye bread.

Calif's Liver Sandwich Spread.—Rub cooked liver with hard-cooked eggs through a sieve, being to one pound of liver three hard-cooked eggs. Add one grated onion, salt and pepper to season. Mix well and spread on buttered bread. A layer of thinly sliced sour pickle will add to the sandwich.

This is the reason for the sandwich. The following will be helpful in preparing your lunch baskets or sandwiches for the porch or garden parties:

Emergency Sandwich.—Put six sweet pickles through the food chopper, also five hard-cooked eggs. Cream two tablespoonfuls of peanut butter with one of prepared mustard and add the pickle and eggs with salt and pepper to taste. Add a dash of vinegar to thin the mixture and a bit of paprika for added seasoning. Spread on whole wheat or rye bread.

Sardine Sandwich.—Take one cupful of minced sardines, one-half cupful of stuffed olives chopped, one teaspoonful of scraped onion, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and three tablespoonfuls of cream. Mix and spread on buttered brown bread.

Lebster and Celery Sandwich.—Mince fine the meat of a fresh boiled lobster. Moisten with heavy mayonnaise, add a dash of cayenne and two teaspoonfuls of minced white celery leaves. Spread on rounds of bread and decorate with a stuffed olive. These are served open, or they may be covered with another slice of bread and use the stuffed olives minced.

Egg and Chutney Sandwich.—Mash six hard-cooked egg yolks as desired and chop the whites fine. Mix enough chutney with the yolks to make a spreading paste and spread on thin slices of buttered bread. Sprinkle with the finely chopped whites and lay a very tender lettuce leaf on all. Cover with another slice of buttered bread.

Pineapple and Tuna Fish Sandwich.—Take one can of tuna fish and flake, add salt and pepper and two tablespoonfuls of chopped pickle, add French dressing to soften and then add three-fourths of a cupful of drained crushed pineapple. Spread on buttered bread.

Salmon with Lemon Juice mixed in a paste and spread on bread, or light salmon with a good boiled salad dressing spread on buttered rye bread make most satisfying sandwiches.

Some Facts About Vitamins

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Our knowledge about vitamins has been undergoing constant expansion. It is still far from complete. First came recognition of the fact that in natural food materials there existed, in minute quantities, certain substances other than proteins, fats, carbohydrates and salts, which appeared to be essential for normal nutrition. Further investigation showed that these substances, or vitamins, also prevented various pathological conditions or "deficiency diseases." Early in the work these separate vitamins were identified, and called A, B, and C. Each one had functions peculiar to itself. Several years later two more vitamins, D and E, were discovered. Operatively recently it has been found that another vitamin, named G, occurs in a great many foods which are also rich in vitamin B. The identification of vitamin G was obscured for a long time because of the parallel occurrence of the functions of the two vitamins.

Several Common Sources of Vitamin B.
Vitamin B. prevents beriberi, while vitamin G prevents pellagra. An abundance of both vitamins is essential for growth and well-being at all ages, but particularly necessary for nursing mothers and young children. As both occur to a large extent in the same foods and in a very wide variety of foods, a varied diet containing fruits and vegetables will usually be satisfactory in respect to these two factors. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests the following foods as good sources of vitamin B: Asparagus, beans, fresh and dried, brains, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cowpeas, egg yolk, fish roe, grapefruit, kidney, lemons, lentils, whole grain products, lettuce, liver, milk, nuts, skins, onions, oranges, parsley, parsnips, peas, potatoes, pineapple, rutabaga, spinach and other green vegetables. With as long a list from which to choose, the diet may be pleasingly varied and yet always meet the requirements for an abundance of vitamin B.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Congress Overrides Hoover Veto of Spanish War Pension Measure.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PRESIDENT HOOVER is not having a pleasant time with a congress whose mind is to a considerable extent fixed on the chances of re-election next fall. The majority in both houses is Republican but it isn't always "administration," especially when being so might cost some votes at the polls.

This condition was illustrated last week when congress overrode the President's veto of the Spanish war veterans' pension bill. In re-passing the measure the senate voted 61 to 13 against Hoover, and those for the bill included 23 Republicans, 32 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor member. Only 14 members of the lower house, all Republicans, voted to uphold the veto, with 293 against it.

Vetoing any pension bill is painful for a President, and in this case Mr. Hoover displayed courage. His three objections to the measure were held by the press of the country for the most part to be well taken. The provisions he opposed are the reduction of the service period upon which pension claims may be made for disabilities of a non-service nature from 90 to 70 days; and that venereal diseases, drug habits or alcoholism, contracted at any time in the life of the veteran, shall constitute disabilities entitling the sufferer to a pension. He also contended that need should be an element of valid claim.

The enthusiasm with which both senate and house passed the bill over the veto is strongly reminiscent of the time when the Grand Army of the Republic was strong enough numerically to obtain from congress any legislation it desired.

WHAT will happen to the London naval treaty in the senate is still a matter of conjecture. Senators Watson and Moses last week urged the President to postpone the consideration of the pact until after the autumn elections, but he insisted on his plan to call a special session of the senate immediately after the adjournment of congress. This despite the warning from the two leaders that if the discussion proved to be protracted the senate might adjourn the special session and throw the whole question over to the winter session. Next day Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas submitted to Mr. Hoover a plan that seemed to impress him.

The Kansas senator thought that the wisest strategy would be to bring the treaty before the senate at the present session, immediately following the passage of the rivers and harbors bill, but before the veterans' legislation is taken up. There has been much talk of the difficulty of keeping a quorum of the senate on hand to discuss the treaty, but Mr. Allen opined that few senators would dare go home before the veterans' bill comes up. Altogether, the effect of the situation, thought Senator Allen, would be to expedite the disposition of the treaty.

It was disclosed at the Navy department that contracts for the construction of the new aircraft carrier and two fleet submarines slated to be let before July 1 will not be awarded until after the senate has acted on the treaty. According to Secretary of the Navy Adams, contracts for no more warships will be let this fiscal year.

CERTAIN citizens who have been bedagged, embarrassed and distressed by the persistent proings of congressional investigating committees probably cheered—in private—for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., last week. That militant chairman of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist church, South, and official of the Anti-Saloon league, challenged the authority of the senate lobby committee to investigate his political activities in the campaign of 1924, refused to reply to its questions in that connection and denied its implied threats to punish him for contempt, as others have been punished in similar circumstances.

Cannon was willing to tell a lot about his work as a lobbyist, "using the word in its legitimate sense," in behalf of prohibition legislation, but, as he stated to the press afterward, he insisted "that this singling out of myself and of the Virginia anti-Smith Democrats because we fought the wet Tammany candidate is a deliberate, intolerable infringement upon the rights of independent citizens against a repetition of the independent action of 1923."

The bishop also told the press much about the disposal of money contributed by E. C. Jameson of New York for the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia—information he had refused to give the committee.

Senator Caraway, chairman of the committee, who was in Arkansas at the time, issued a statement upholding the bishop's stand and denying that the committee had a right to inquire into Cannon's political activities. The investigation was being conducted by Senators Walsh of Montana and Blaine of Wisconsin.

On Thursday Bishop Cannon repeated his refusal to answer the committee's questions, and then coolly walked out of the room without waiting to be excused. He was done, he said, unless the committee wished to subpoena him.

"If the bishop's defiance yesterday was not contempt, and I think it was, his action today is certainly a clear case of contempt," declared Walsh, whose opinion was echoed by a number of senators. The contumacy of Cannon probably will be reported to the senate with a request for contempt proceedings.

ONE more step in the President's dry enforcement program was taken when the house, by a vote of 215 to 117, passed the Wickerham bill designed to relieve congestion in the federal courts by eliminating jury trials in minor prohibition cases.

If it becomes law the measure will radically revise the federal court procedure in criminal cases extant for more than a hundred years. It provides that defendants charged with "petty offenses" shall first be given a hearing before a United States commissioner whose recommendations shall go to the District judge for final disposal. The accused will be given a jury trial only if he demands it in a specified manner and time limit.

The house also adopted bills supplemental to the juryless trial measure, one of them defining as "petty offenses" all crimes involving a jail sentence of less than six months or a fine of less than $500, and another amending the Jones act to make the manufacture, transportation or sale of less than one gallon of liquor a "petty offense."

The Democratic party of Pennsylvania is now officially wet. The state committee, which was reorganized at Harrisburg, adopted a platform that recommends the repeal of the state enforcement act and the Volstead act and removal of the Eighteenth amendment from the federal Constitution.

THE French chamber of deputies opened its summer session last week, with the opposition members ready with a flock of interpellations. Among the things they wanted the government to explain were the naval treaty, the serious Red revolt against French rule in Indo-China, national security and an oil scandal that has involved prominent officials. It was predicted in Paris that the Tardieu cabinet would not survive the summer.

IF THERE is a naval building race between France and Italy, the blame must rest with France, according to Foreign Secretary Dino Grandi of Italy. In a speech before the senate Grandi said that last month in Geneva he proposed to Aristide Briand that the two nations suspend their naval construction program for 1930 and that the French foreign minister refused to consider the proposition. The senate thereupon approved the government's policy of augmenting the Italian navy. Several of the senators declared the Mediterranean would be the theater of the next European war. Recently Premier Tardieu announced that the French would expend large sums for fortifications in the Alps. In reply, Senator Ricci of Italy urged the continued strengthening of the Italian frontier defenses in that region. Three questions divide France and Italy today, continued Senator Ricci. They are, first, control of the Adriatic; second, the status of Italians in Tunis, and third, the southern frontier of Libya. He repeated the oft heard charges that France was pouring arms and military supplies into Jugoslav ports.

GREAT BRITAIN was called upon to defend her regime in Palestine when the mandates commission of the League of Nations met in Geneva. Numerous complaints had been made of the British regulations, especially one curbing for a time the immigration of Jews to the Holy Land. T. Drummond Shiels, under secretary of state for colonies, declared that immigration was restricted only pending the receipt of an additional report and recommendations from Sir John Hope Simpson, who is now making a new survey of Palestine.

PUTTING a stop to the raids on the salt works, the rainy season came to the aid of the British in India. But the campaign of the Nationalists, though checked, has not ceased to function. The Gandhi followers and all the rest of them are now concentrating on tax resistance, which will be more serious than salt raids.

On the northwest frontier, where the Reds and wild tribesmen are giving a lot of trouble, British troops occupied several villages and took command of the situation, shelling the positions of the rebels in the hills.

TERRIFIC fighting was reported to be going on along the Yellow river between the Chinese Nationalist armies and the northern rebels, with the final results in doubt. Dispatches told of victories claimed by first one side and then the other. The outcome of this conflict may settle the fate of the Nanking government. Late in the week messages received in Shanghai said the northern troops had crossed the Yellow river sixty miles east of Tainan, broken the Nationalist lines and reached the Tainan-Tsingtao railway line in the vicinity of Chowtsun. The Nationalists also lost the important city of Chanhsia, capital of Henan province, to a crowd of rebels and bandits called the Red army.

Apparently the Russians have given up hope of results from the Moscow conference between China and Russia on the Chinese Eastern railroad and have reverted to direct action along the frontier of northern Manchuria. The Nationalist government charges the Soviets have raided the town of Taiheho in Chinese territory opposite Blagoveshchensk and carried away a number of Chinese and also a large amount of farming machinery.

CARRYING twenty-two passengers and a large cargo of freight and mail, the Graf Zeppelin left Lakehurst, N. J., Monday night for the return trip to Friedrichshafen. She had a pleasant and swift passage across the Atlantic until she neared the coast of Portugal, where a storm and heavy winds were encountered.

It is hoped that the Zeppelin will be in Chicago late in August as one of the attractions at the national air races to be held there.

W. CAMERON FORBES, Boston banker and former governor general of the Philippines, has been tentatively selected as the new ambassador to Japan, according to information learned in administration circles. Mr. Forbes, a close friend of President Hoover, served as chairman of the special commission which recently completed a survey and report on the American administration of affairs in Haiti.

IN RECOGNITION of his "outstanding contributions in the many fields of human service," the Louis Livingstone Seaman gold medal was presented to President Hoover by the American Museum of Safety. The award of the medal was decided upon before Mr. Hoover's nomination for the Presidency but the formal presentation was delayed.

FAMILY DOCTOR MADE MILLIONS OF FRIENDS

Fifteen years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became famous for a single prescription which, now, after forty years, is still making friends.

Today Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people never think of using anything else when they're constipated, headachy, bilious, feverish or weak; when breath is bad, tongue coated, or they're suffering from nausea, gas, or lack of appetite or energy.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made today according to the original formula, from herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant-tasting; thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

Burns' Portrait Found
A Raeburn portrait of Robert Burns, painted in 1803 and lost for more than a century, is reported to have been found recently by a miner's wife in Larkhall, Scotland. The picture, said to be a striking likeness of Burns, is a canvas 27 by 23 inches inside the frame and carries an indistinct signature which experts believe to be that of Raeburn. It was "picked up for a few shillings," according to a Glasgow newspaper, in a second-hand furniture shop.

There is no law against fishing on Sunday in New Mexico. It is well; we have too many laws anyway. There are 6 other days in the week besides Sunday and fish are no respecters of days. They will bite one day as well as another and good to eat any day, especially, Friday. We can go to church any day, but the fishermen of Gallies went to church on the Sabbath Day.

Wouldn't it be better to crowd the House of the Lord on His day rather than to crowd the fishing streams? Too many fishermen spoil the fishing. The pastor hereby offers his services to fish, out bait, or eat fish for all, and on any day except Sunday. Now let all fishers, and this goes for selfish and other Sunday amusement seekers as well, for sake not the assembling of themselves in the House of the Lord on Sundays. The pastor is broadminded. Patronal Feast Notes

On Monday and Tuesday, June 9 and 11, the parish of Saint Rita celebrated for the first time the solemnity of its Patronal Feast with 14 priests in attendance from New Mexico and Texas.

On Monday evening, Solemn Vespers were chanted by the regular choir under the direction of Sister M. Domitilla of St. Rita's school, and by the priests in the sanctuary. Father Canova was the celebrant, assisted by Father Stoffel as deacon and Father Francis, O. S. M., as sub-deacon.

Tuesday morning, the Solemn Mass was celebrated by Father Stoffel; the deacon was Father Francis, O. S. M., and the sub-deacon, Father Calkins, O. S. M. Father Johnson, S. J., preached the sermon in English. The sermon in Spanish was delivered by Father Canova.

Following the procession of the Mass, the pastor presented diplomas to this year's graduates from the parochial school.

Benediction with the Blessed Sacrament concluded the religious observance of the solemnity. (Contributed.)
