Proposed Constitutional Amendment to be Submitted at the General Election November 4, 1930.

Pursuant to the provisions of Senate Joint Resolution No. 3, approved Feb. 26, 1929, as enacted by the Ninth Legislature of the State of New Mexico, the following constitutional amendment as provided by an act of Congress of the United States, is to be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of New Mexico at the General Election to be held November 4, 1930.

Mrs. E. A. Perrault, Secretary of State.

Constitutional Amendment No. 1 Proposing to amend Article XXI by adding the following section which shall be numbered Section 11.

Approved February 26, 1929. Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of New Mexico:

Whereas, The State of New Mexico is the owner of certain areas of land within the National Forests within said State and said lands are scattered throughout the Forests in small tracts and are not so located as to enable the State to administer them for timber purposes.

Whereas, there are large areas of land within the State now owned by the United States,

Whereas, an exchange by the State of its timbered lands for a larger area of grazing lands of equal value would secure to the state part of the remaining federal public domain for lease sale to private parties and thereby increase the taxable property in the State.

Now, Therefore, the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of New Mexico is hereby proposed to Article XXI by adding the following section which shall be numbered Section 11 thereof:

Section 11. This State and its people consent to the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved June 15, 1926, providing for such exchanges and the Governor and other State Officers mentioned in said Act are hereby authorized to execute the necessary instrument or instruments to effect the exchange of lands therein provided for with the Government of the United States: Provided, that in the determination of values of the lands now owned by the State of New Mexico, the value of the lands, the timber thereon and mineral rights pertaining thereto shall control the determination of value. The Legislature may enact laws for the carrying out of the provisions hereof in accordance herewith.

Persiguiendo las provisiones de la resolucio conjunta del Senado No. 3, por la Novena Legislatura de Nuevo Mexico, la siguiente enmienda constitucional, segun proveida por un acto del congreso de Estados Unidos, es sometida a los votantes calificados de Nuevo Mexico en la eleccion general el 4 de Nov., 1930.

Sra. E. A. Perrault, Secretaria del Estado.

Enmienda Constitucional No. 1 Proposiendo Enmendar el Artículo 21, de la Constitucion de Nuevo Mexico, anadiendole la Seccion I I.

Aprobado Febrero 26, 1929. Resuelto por la Legislatura de Nuevo Mexico:

Por cuanto, que el Estado de Nuevo Mexico es el dueño de ciertas areas de tierra dentro las florestas nacionales dentro dicho estado, y que dichas tierras estan desparramadas por todas las florestas en trochos pequenos y estando localizados de tal manera que se le dificulta al estado gerenciarlas para propositos de maderas.

Por cuanto, que hay areas grandes de tierra dentro del estado ahora pertenecientes a los Estados Unidos.

Por cuanto, que un canje hecho por el estado de sus tierras de bosque por areas mas grandes de terrenos de pasto de valores iguales aseguraria al estado parte del restante dominio publico para arrendamiento o venta a personas particulares y asi aumentaria la propiedad sujeta a contribuciones en el estado.

Ahora por lo tanto, la siguiente enmienda a la constitucion de Nuevo Mexico por esta se presenta al Artículo XXI anadiendo la siguiente seccion que sera numerada seccion I I de la misma:

Sec. II. El estado y su pueblo consenten a los previstos de la ley del congreso, aprobado Junio 15, 1926, que provee para tales canjes y el gobernador y los otros oficiales del estado mencionados en dicha ley son por esta facultados de emitir el documento o documentos necesarios para efectuar el canje de tierras prevenidas en el mismo con el gobierno de Estados Unidos; con tal que en la determinacion de los valores de las tierras ahora pertenecientes al estado, el valor de las maderas sobre las mismas y los derechos minerales que pertenecen a las mismas deberan controlar la determinacion de su valor. La legislatura podra redactar leyes para efectuar los previstos de esta resolucio de acuerdo con la misma.

Can I Learn to Fly?
by William R. Nelson

Up in the Air

IN THE air for the first lessons, the student is "following through" on the controls as his instructor puts the plane through "straight" flying maneuvers.

"Don't look at the controls," came through my earphones. "Watch out there on the wings and tail. See how little the control surfaces move each time we move the stick and rudder pedals. Keep a sharp lookout for other planes. Learn to pick them out against all backgrounds."

We were 1,500 feet up. My instructor pointed out the landmarks of the airport—a railroad, a brickyard, a large red building. Then he moved the stick backward slightly and we began to climb. Next the stick went forward to neutral and we leveled off. Next he pushed it forward and we "went over a hill" and began to lose altitude. A right turn, then one to the left, and then a message through the phones:

"Now you do it. I'll operate the rudder. Turn to the right."

I leaned the stick to the right three or four inches. The plane banked sharply, too sharply.

"Now bring the stick back to neutral," said my instructor.

Then as we leveled out he asked for a left turn. That, too, was so steep we seemed to be on our side. I leveled out again too quickly.

"Relax. Now pull back on the stick. Not too much. Now let go of the stick. Notice how the plane levels itself when you let go. Now push forward. Not too much. There!"

He shut the motor to idling and told me to pull the stick back as far as it would go. As I did so we shot skyward for a few feet, hovered for a second, then dropped downward. I felt the stick go forward, then come back slowly and as it did so something began to lift up under me.

"That was a stall," my instructor explained. "Now we are gliding. Note this angle of glide. At this angle we do not pick up nor lose speed."

After we leveled off again I was cautioned about keeping the wings level, the nose of the plane aimed at horizon, and watching my instruments.

"Fly to that road, turn to the right and follow it," came through the phones. "Keep the road on your right."

On the ground the road was straight. It was a corkscrew the way I flew it.

Turning and Leveling

Turns right and left, and level flight, were next taught. By instructions through the speaking tube connected to my helmet and by "deaf and dumb" signals, my instructor told me what to do.

Turns were taught at 2,000 feet, to which we climbed without word or signal. At that altitude he leveled off and wiggled the stick, the signal for me to take the controls.

"Relax. Look at your instruments occasionally. Enjoy the ride." Wait for my signals. You are in charge now," he said through the phones.

He had retarded the throttle as we leveled off at 2,000 feet. My tachometer read 1,450 revolutions a minute. The air was bumpy. Without warning the plane would drop suddenly. Then it would rise just as suddenly. At first those "bumps" bothered me. I soon learned to like them.

A jerk of my instructor's thumb over the right side signaled for a right turn. I moved the stick an inch or two to the right and we banked sharply to the right. Too sharply again. I moved the stick to the left of neutral and, as the plane came back to level, moved it to neutral.

A finger pointed skyward told me to bring the nose up. I had dropped it in the turn. I pulled the stick back an inch or two and the nose came up. Too much again. A downward movement of the finger said "bring it down," meaning the nose.

"Find the horizon and pick out some object on the fuselage ahead of you now while we are level that you can use as a sight," he advised. "To tell when the ship is level, look along your sights and if you see horizon you are level. If you see sky you are climbing. If you see ground you are diving."

Thirty minutes of right and left turn, straight flying, road following, and my instructor spoke again.

"You have the idea of turn now. You go into them too abruptly and you come out too fast. They should be made steadily and gracefully. I have been operating the rudder for you. Let me take the controls now."

He banked around for a look in all directions and cut the motor to idling for the glide to the field.

LEADER IN GERMANY

Sensational to a degree unequalled in German post-war politics is the sudden rise to leadership of Adolf Hitler, Austrian author of the Munich Putsch in 1920, who has become a political power of the first rank as a result of the Fascist landslide in the recent Reichstag general election. The party's power advanced from 12 to 107 seats. The Fascist party ranked second only to the Socialists in the official final totals and, with the Communists, who also advocate overthrow of the young German republic, has more backing than any other party excepting the Social Democrats.

CHAPTER X We Know That Man!

I snatched at the newspaper eagerly enough; there was that in Maythorne's manner which showed me that here was news of importance. I saw it at once—there it was, in big letters in the stop-press space.

"About half past four this afternoon Mr. Elithwaite, grocer of 233x Harrow road, having occasion to visit a yard at the back of his premises, in search for some crates stored amongst a quantity of allmular odds and ends, came across the dead body of a man which had evidently been dragged across the yard through the rear entrance and partly concealed by loose timber.

I laid the paper down and stared inquiringly at Maythorne. He slapped his hand heavily on the paragraph I had just read.

"Holt!" he exclaimed. "That's the chap who followed those three women away from Short's hotel the other night! A million to one on it!"

"You think so?" I said, incredulously. "But—there are lots of men who'd correspond to that description."

"That's the man! I'll lay anything!" he declared. "And this thing's getting more of a mystery than ever. Look at it—Mrs. Elphinstone, her daughter, and her maid, without a word to Elphinstone, suddenly clear out of Short's late-at-night. They are seen to be followed by a man who had previously inquired if the Elphinstones were staying at Short's. They never return, the women; from that moment to this—all this time having elapsed—seventy-two hours!—nothing whatever has been heard of them."

dale standing inside in conversation with the grocer, an excited and voluble person who was obviously retelling his story for the xth time. Corderdale nodded significantly as Maythorne advanced on them.

"Have you seen the man?" asked Maythorne. "We haven't, yet," replied Corderdale. "He's at the mortuary, of course. We'll go round there. Well," he continued, turning to the grocer, "we'll look in again when you've been to the mortuary, and perhaps you'll show us the premises where you found him?"

"Anything you please, Mr. Corderdale," replied the grocer, rubbing his hands. "Always glad to assist the police, sir. These gentlemen, I suppose, are in your line, too?"

"Look well!—see if you can identify him," whispered Maythorne. "But the identification did not come from the under hall porter."

"Newspaper reporter from our way," answered Manners. "Name of Bownas. I don't suppose you ever saw him when you went up there—his work was more to the other side of Gloucester. But Mr. Holt here knew him. That's Bownas, right enough?"

"A moment!" interrupted Maythorne. He turned on the under hall porter. "Don't make any mistake!" he said. "Is that the man who came to Short's hotel, and whom you afterward saw following Mrs. Elphinstone and her daughter and the maid? Look well at him, now!—be sure!"

"Oh, that's the man!" he exclaimed. "I knew him at once. There's no doubt about it!"

"What was he doing at Short's hotel?" suggested Maythorne. "That's more like it Manners! But that's obvious—he was after Mrs. Elphinstone. He followed her, too, when she went out. Where? Now, then, did she, and her two companions, come to this quarter of the town? If they did—why? And where are they?"

"Let's go back to the grocer's," said Corderdale. "We went out again into the gloomy road. The under hall porter, having done what was required of him was anxious to go back to the hotel. Maythorne sent him off in a taxicab; the rest of us returned to Elithwaite's shop. Maythorne and I walked side by side—at first in silence."

"What do you make of this, Maythorne?" I asked at last. "God knows!" he answered. "It seems evident that the poor fellow we've just seen followed the Elphinstones—Mrs. Elphinstone, of course!—to London, tracked them to the hotel, went after Mrs. Elphinstone when she went out that night, but—as to the rest—"

"Do you think he followed them—her?" I suggested. "If so, what could they want in this neighborhood?"

"Shabby and sordid enough for anything, hereabouts, isn't it?" he answered, with a shrug of his shoulders. "Again I say—who knows?—who knows anything? Let's have a look at the place where he was found, however—we may get some idea of something."

"Here's where I found him!" whispered Elithwaite in a half-awestruck whisper. "I wanted some planking out of this pile of old wood: I pulled some aside, and there was a man's arm! And then—well, then I found the rest. I saw signs of a struggle. But," he added, "some of your people that have been here already, Mr. Corderdale; they say that there are clear indications that he'd been dragged in here, across the yard, from the doo' there."

"What's outside that door and the wall?" asked Corderdale. "We all went to look. There was a narrow, stone-paved lane there, running from a side street between the backs of the Harrow road houses and those of some street or terrace set further back. It was fenced in by high walls, for all its length: there were only two feeble gas lamps to light it; it was dark, silent."

"One of your men says there are bloodstains on the stones—just there!" whispered the grocer. "Of course, you know, I never heard anything—and I've not heard, either, of anybody who did so far."

"We went back to the shop and stood discussing the matter and its probabilities for some little time. Then the grocer's telephone bell rang. We went to answer it, and looked round at us. "If one of you gentlemen, Mr. Maythorne," he said, "He's wanted."

"Maythorne crossed over and took up the receiver. A moment later, he too, turned on us. "From the under hall porter!" he exclaimed. "Mrs. Elphinstone and Miss Murchison are back!"

"I had been pretty much of a passive spectator and observer up to that point, but as soon as Maythorne made his startling announcement I leaped into action. I was half way to the shop door before his last word had left his lips; he himself was scarcely less rapid of movement and his hand was on my arm as I crossed the threshold."

"Where are you going?" he exclaimed. "Where? Short's, of course!" I answered. "Aren't you?" "To be sure!" he said. "But—a moment. These other two had better come, as well. And—a word with this grocer chap."

"I pulled some aside, and there was a man's arm!"

"I pulled some aside, and there was a man's arm!"

"of em! in a taxi. So I telephoned here to you, at once."

"Good!" answered Maythorne. "But—only Mrs. Elphinstone and Miss Murchison? Not the maid?"

"No, sir. Only the lady and her daughter. I think Mrs. Elphinstone's, (ll, sir. There's a doctor gone up."

Maythorne turned to the two policemen. But before he could say anything, a woman in the uniform of a professional nurse came hurrying round the corner and sped up the steps into the hotel.

"The doctor's evidently telephoned for a nurse," observed Maythorne. "Um!—we can't very well break in on illness."

But Corderdale shook his head and his face grew inflexible. "Illness or no illness, Mr. Maythorne," he said, "I'm going up! Things are a bit too thick, too serious. And there's the young lady. She'll know where her mother's been and where they've come from. And—where's that other woman, the maid? We'll go up, Manners."

Maythorne and I followed them. We went up to the floor on which the Elphinstones' suite of rooms was situated. At the door Corderdale paused and turned to me. "Mr. Holt knows the family," he said in a suggestive whisper. "Go in, Mr. Holt, and just see how the land lies! We don't want to intrude, you know, nor to make any bother, but we must have some explanation. Get the young lady to yourself and—"

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for October 5 ZACHARIAS AND ELISABETH: LIFE IN A PIOUS JEWISH HOME

LESSON TEXT—Luke 1:5-25. GOLDEN TEXT—And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless.

1. A Godly Husband and Wife (Luke, 1:5-7). The name Zacharias means "Jehovah hath remembered," and the name Elisabeth means "A covenant maker."

2. They were childless (v. 7). Through this godly couple were well mated and possessed the joy of the Lord in their souls, there was a real lack in their home. No home is quite ideal into which no child has come.

3. Characteristics of the child (vv. 15-17). (1) Shall be great in the sight of the Lord (v. 15). Though the people did not greatly esteem him, he was highly esteemed by the Lord.

4. Zacharias asking for a sign (vv. 18-23). Although the aged priest was earnestly praying for the salvation of Israel, the gracious promise of the angel which was the beginning of that salvation staggered his faith.

5. Zacharias praises God (v. 64). At this time God opened the mouth of Zacharias, and he uttered up praise to God.

6. Zacharias prophesying (Luke 1:67-80). 1. Praise God for fulfillment of the promise of salvation (vv. 67-75). This was according to covenant promise.

2. John to be called "The Prophet of the Highest" (vv. 76-79). He was to go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways.

The County Republican Ticket

Monday, at Capitan, the Republicans of Lincoln County, after working from 11 o'clock in the forenoon until 7 o'clock in the evening, placed in nomination a full county ticket composed of the following ladies and gentlemen:

Sheriff, J. E. Brady; Treasurer, R. A. Duran; Assessor, S. W. Kelsey; Co. School Supt., Mrs. Alice M. French; Clerk, S. E. Greisen; Commissioners, 1st district, Diego Salcido; 2nd, H. A. Mirabal; 3rd, Henry Lutz; Probate Judge, Elardo Chavez; Surveyor, A. H. Harvey; Representative, Hilario Max.

Of the above-named ticket, Mrs. French, Messrs. Greisen, Duran, Brady and Chavez have been re-nominated, and have just finished terms in their respective offices with flattering records, while the new nominees are of good timber with which to make officials that will, if elected, make as good records in office as those of whom we have just spoken and should be elected with good majorities.

Mr. Sam Kelsey, for Assessor, served the county as Sheriff for 4 years and gave excellent satisfaction, and as Assessor he will give the same good service as he did in the Sheriff's office.

Mr. Salcido, the popular candidate for Commissioner of the 1st District, has extensive stock interests in the Lower Valley. He was reared in this county, his interests are all here, and his election will mean much to the office to which he has been nominated.

Mr. Mirabal from the 2nd District is a man of high intelligence and excellent standing. For several years he has taught school in the county, is well known from one part of it to another. He is qualified for the office and should be elected by a substantial majority.

Mr. Henry Lutz (the man who d-o-e-s things) is the nominee from the 3rd District. He was once Mayor of Carrizozo, served on the tax commission, was a county treasurer for two terms, was the means of getting our sidewalks and is the man who got us the city water which we now enjoy. His long and active life in the county makes him an excellent candidate for commission or and he will serve the people within that capacity.

Hilario Max, candidate for Representative, is a young man of good qualities, reared and educated in this county and also taught school for a few terms. He is deserving of the support of the voters of Lincoln county.

The ticket as a whole, is worthy of public support.

STATE TAX MEN AND BANKERS IN ACCORD

Months of Negotiation Lead to Agreement on Changes Broadening Method of State or Local Taxation of National Banks.

NEW YORK—Months of conference and negotiation between an American Bankers Association special committee and the Committee of the Association of States on Bank Taxation have resulted in an agreement on a form of amendment to the Federal statute dealing with state or local taxation of national banks that "maintains the integrity of the protective principles of the section and is satisfactory to the commissioners' committee," says the American Bankers Association Journal. Thomas B. Paton, the organization's General Counsel, in making the announcement says that previously proposed amendments to the statute, which is known as Section 5219, have been opposed when it was felt their terms would enable any state to place banks in a tax class by themselves.

"The law as it stands today," Mr. Paton says, "permits state or local taxation of national banks or their shareholders in one or the other of the four following forms: the shareholders upon their shares,—a property tax; the shareholders upon their dividends,—a personal income tax; the bank upon its net income; the bank according to or measured by its net income. Only one form of tax can be imposed, except that the dividend tax may be combined with the third or fourth form if other corporations and shareholders are likewise taxed."

"The conditions permitted are: the tax on shares must be at no greater rate than on other competing moneyed capital; the income tax on shareholders must be at no greater rate than on net income from other moneyed capital; the tax on bank net income must be at no higher rate than on other financial corporations nor the highest rates on mercantile and manufacturing corporations doing business within the state; the tax measured by net bank income is subject to the same limitations as the tax on net income of the bank but may include 'net income from all sources.'"

States Seek Broader Law National banks and their shareholders are taxed in different states under a diversity of systems, he says. The U. S. Supreme Court has held that the low millage rate on intangible personal property is in violation of the present law where it results in national bank shares being taxed at a rate greater than that assessed upon competing moneyed capital. A number of states, unwilling to use the income methods permitted, had the alternative of either repealing the intangible tax laws or limiting taxation of national bank shares at the intangible rate. Therefore they sought a broadening of the permissive provisions.

Also, Mr. Paton points out, a Supreme Court decision held a state's excise tax on corporations invalid where it included income from Federal and local government bonds in the excise measure. This created doubt as to some state bank excise taxes.

Conferences have been held to reach some agreement which would protect the banks, satisfy the tax commissioners and avoid a contest in Congress," Mr. Paton says. "From the standpoint of the tax authorities, the main objectives have been an amendment which would permit certain states to retain their low rate tax upon intangibles and at the same time derive an adequate, but not excessive, revenue from national bank shares, and an amendment which would permit certain states to tax corporations on their net income, excluding income from tax-exempt, and at the same time derive the same revenue from the banks as heretofore. From the standpoint of the banks, it has been deemed imperative to maintain the protective principles of Section 5219.

The Changes Agreed On "In the proposed amendment the existing provision permitting taxation of bank shares no higher than the rate upon competing moneyed capital has been modified with respect to certain intangible tax states only by a provision under which, instead of the moneyed capital limitation, the rate shall not be greater than the rate upon the shares of other financial corporations, nor upon the net assets of individuals, partnerships or associations employed in the banking, loan or investment business, nor higher than the rate assessed upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations with head office in the state.

"Also an added fifth alternative permissive method, designated as a specific tax, permits a state, in place of an ad valorem tax on bank shares, to add together total dividends paid the preceding year and the increases in capital, surplus and undivided profits, less additions to capital or surplus paid in by stockholders, and to divide this total by the number of shares. The state may tax the shares based upon this amount, but not to exceed the rate on other corporations in proportion to their net profits.

"This method is designed for states which have heretofore taxed national banks upon their entire net income from all sources at a proportionate rate to that assessed upon business corporations. The amount which is the basis of the tax is the equivalent of the entire net income from all sources, but being assessed against the shareholder upon his property in the shares and not a tax upon the bank, it is not open to the objection as an indirect tax on exempt income."

Tomato and Cottage Cheese Make Tasty Sandwich

Cottage Cheese and Tomato Salad.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A substantial sand, with bread, crackers, rolls, biscuits, muffins, or toast, followed by a simple dessert, is ample for a hot weather luncheon. Iced tea or a fruit drink completes a meal that can be eaten either indoors or out, and that will be sufficiently attractive for guests.

The salad illustrated in the picture is appropriate for a luncheon of this kind. It consists of a mound of cottage cheese on lettuce leaves, surrounded by sections of tomato and topped with a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing. The lettuce should be washed thoroughly and crimped in the refrigerator for several hours in a clean cloth or paper bag. Cut each tomato into sections at the time you are ready to arrange the salad on individual plates. The following recipe for mayonnaise is from the bureau of economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Mayonnaise Dressing.

1 egg yolk 1/2 tsp salt
1/2 to 1 cup oil 1/2 tsp pepper
2 lbs lemon juice Paprika
or vinegar 1/2 tsp sugar

Mix the yolk. Add one tablespoonful of the acid, which may be either

Tomato Preserves Liked for Lunches and Supper

Haven't you often wondered just how the delicious preserves of little yellow, pear-shaped tomatoes were made? Here's a recipe from the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. You will find these preserves very acceptable for lunches and supper as an accompaniment to cream cheese and crackers.

8 lbs yellow, pear-shaped tomatoes sliced, with seeds removed
6 lbs sugar
1 1/2 quarts water 4 to 6 pieces ginger root

Cook the lemons until the skin is tender in one pint of water. Boil together the remaining water and sugar to make a syrup, and drop in the tomatoes, ginger root, and the cooked lemon rind and liquid. Boil until the tomatoes are somewhat clear and the syrup thick. Remove the scum and pour the preserves into hot sterilized glass jars. Seal and store in a cool dry place.

FAIRY TALE FOR THE CHILDREN WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I think I am to be congratulated more than any of you," said the egg beater in the kitchen.

"And why?" asked all the pots and pans as they creaked a little.

"Because," said the egg beater, "the reason is so simple. You can see for yourselves." And it turned around a little.

"Do tell us, we don't see," said the frying pan.

"Very well," said the egg beater. "I will tell you. In the first place—think of my name."

beater cross? But, I ask, am I cross?" And all the pots and pans creaked and said:

"No; you are not cross."

"Then," said the egg beater, "it only goes to show that my disposition is quite perfect.

"Even whipping and beating everything that comes my way does not make me cross."

"You have a fine disposition," they all agreed. "And you don't let your self be ruled by what you have to do. You might be cross and horrid and always blame it on the fact that you whip everything.

"Yes; you should be congratulated." The egg beater felt very happy, but the cheese grater was speaking now. "Listen to me," said the cheese grater, "and think of what my name means."

"What?" asked the others.

"It means I am greater than anything else. No other pot or tin pan is named by my name."

"Oh," chuckled the gravy spoon, a big, good-natured, easy-going spoon, "you don't understand at all."

"What don't I understand?" asked the cheese grater.

"You don't understand that your kind of a grater does not mean the same as a greater person or a greater object."

"Oh, no; none of us should become conceited. Let's all just be friendly, nice pots and pans and kitchen things."

And all the others creaked in agreement and thought this was a very good idea.

Two Classes of Canned Food Approved

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The housewife will have a choice of two classes of canned foods under the amendment to the federal food and drug act enacted by congress and just signed by the President, says W. G. Campbell, chief of the food and drug administration, United States Department of Agriculture.

This amendment, known as the "Canners' bill," authorizes the secretary of agriculture to promulgate from time to time reasonable standards of quality, condition, and fill of containers for each generic class, of canned food except meat and meat products and canned milk. Such standards are now being formulated by the department. The law also authorizes the secretary to prescribe a form of statement which will clearly differentiate substandard articles from those which meet the standards.

The value of this law to the housewife will be the assurance that the canned foods she purchases meet a definite standard established by a government agency. Mr. Campbell points out. The amendment will not constitute a bar to the manufacture and sale of wholesale canned foods of a quality lower than the standard, but such products must be labeled informatively so that if the housewife wishes a less expensive canned product she will be able to buy it with full knowledge of its character—presumably at a lower price—and with full assurance that it is a wholesome product and neither adulterated nor misbranded.

Distinguish Rayon From Silk by Burning Test

Rayon may be distinguished from silk or wool by the burning test, says Marion Weller of the home economics division of the University of Minnesota. Rayon burns as cotton burns, with a flash and the odor of burning paper, leaving a gray ash residue. Wool and silk burn slowly, the flame easily going out, the residue a black hard globule, and the odor like that of burning hair.

"Rayon is so much cheaper than silk that it is often taken for granted it need not be handled with as much care," says Miss Weller. "If the highest satisfaction is to be obtained, rayon fabrics should be laundered with the same care given to silk. There was a time when rayon would go to pieces or dissolve in water, but one of the recent improvements in its manufacture is in its 'washability.' As a result, one of the principal uses for rayon at the present time is in hosiery and underwear, both of which require frequent laundering.

"Rayon has found a permanent place in the fabric field and the consumer should learn to recognize its characteristics and uses."

Kitchen Is Cozy Place to Serve Meals; Saves Many Steps

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When the kitchen is very large, common sense dictates that some of the meals be eaten at one side of the room rather than that the homemaker should be obliged to take many extra steps to serve them all in the dining room. This was the usual way of living in most old-fashioned country homes where a roomy kitchen was the center of many household activities. It often had a sewing corner, a reading corner, a play place for the smallest children where their mother could watch them while she worked, and a corner or side where all but the most formal meals were served.

One reason for this sensible plan was, of course, the pleasant warmth given out by the kitchen stove in winter time. Probably more consideration was given to this point than to saving the mother, but she benefited, nevertheless. The chief mistake made in the old-fashioned many-purpose kitchen was likely to be in placing the meal table somewhere in the center of the room.

a farm home shows how attractive a dining corner in the kitchen may be if a little thought is given to it. The chairs and table did not originally belong together. They were made harmonious with gray colored paint. Simple curtains, suitable for kitchen surroundings, have been hung at the window.

Ready for a Meal in the Kitchen.

REVIVAL OF STIFF SILKS IS NOTED IN EVENING FASHIONS

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Stiff silks are coming into vogue again. Thus in the realm of fabrics as in all phases of the mode, old fashions are becoming new fashions. We are even going to use pile velvets again, not, however, to the exclusion of the filmy, sheer, transparent velvets which have captured the heart of the feminine world. As to satin, which has taken a new lease on life, it also shows a tendency to an increasing firmness of texture.

This favor for stiff, crisp silks is reflected in the many taffeta gowns which the couturo of Paris is creating for dine and dance wear, especially for the younger set. The pretty dress in the picture is typical of the quaint and youthful styling given to taffeta. It is an entrancing French model made more so in that the designer works the taffeta in two colors—pink and blue.

This favor for rich materials is having its effect on the styling of the new gowns or is it that the adoption of formal, classic and majestic "lines" demand the more elegant weaves? Be that as it may, formal dress is declaring an era of sophisticated simplicity in which richness of fabric is made the theme paramount.

It would almost seem as if the exquisitely simple styling which is so smartly in vogue for the evening mode is resolving itself into two distinct types—the quaint old-fashioned all-over-crepe for the youthful party frock, versus the stately and the classic for the more mature.

The former is bringing in such charming effects as the off-the-shoulder décolletage of mid-victorian days and full-all-around skirts whose hemlines are even all around. The new flowered taffetas and printed satins are "darling" made up in these "period" frocks.

As to majestic femininity it will be clad in sculptured gowns of Grecian inspiration. Rich materials will fall of their own weight in simple unbroken lines. Trimming will be conspicuous by its absence. The satin dress will appear to the eye utterly simple, but in actual construction, it will be a labyrinth of intricate seaming and expert fabric manipulation.

English Poet Laureate
We know of no prohibition which prevents the selection of a woman as poet laureate of England, says a writer in the Washington Star, except the fact that there is no precedent for such choice, and there probably is no woman whose work is sufficiently notable to make such a selection possible. In theory the choice is said to be made by the prime minister.

TESTED RECIPES THAT WILL BE LIKED BY THE FAMILY

By NELLIE MAXWELL

The world goes up and the world goes down
And the sunshine follows the rain,
And yesterday's anger and yesterday's frown
Can never come over again.
—Charles Kingsley.

Southern Splay Gingerbread.—Add two beaten eggs to three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, three-fourths cupful each of shortening and molasses, the shortening melted. Then add two and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of soda, two teaspoonfuls of ginger, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful each of cloves, nutmeg and baking powder. Mix and add one cupful of boiling water. Bake in a shallow pan or in individual pans. Served with whipped cream it makes a party dessert.

Tomato Juice Cocktail.—Strain canned tomatoes—you know the vitamins in tomatoes are still active in the cooked vegetable. Press the pulp lightly to extract all the juice. To three cupfuls of the pulp add the juice of half a lemon, one tablespoonful of sugar, a whiff of celery salt and paprika to taste, a little pepper and salt. Put into a shaker with half as much ice and shake vigorously. Serve in cocktail glasses with tiny sandwiches of whole wheat bread.

The Best Gingerbread.—Take one-half cupful of melted shortening—lard is good—one teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of ginger, one cupful of sugar and one cupful of molasses or scent teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in one cupful of boiling water. To three cupfuls of flour add the dry ingredients. Beat one egg, add the sugar, then all the other ingredients and mix well, add the boiling water in which the soda has been stirred at the last. Bake in a sheet or in gem pans. This is always good.

Potato Salad.—Take a pint of diced freshly cooked potatoes. Cook the potatoes with their jackets on, then peel them and cut into dice. Add a cupful of celery, a small chopped onion, salt and pepper to season and enough french dressing to moisten well—not enough to drain before finishing the salad. When ready to serve add a handful of blanched and shredded almonds and a diced cucumber. Add plenty of mayonnaise and serve.

Ginger Ale Julep.—Put one and a half cupfuls of granulated sugar into a pitcher, add the strained juice of six large lemons, stir until the sugar is dissolved. Chill on ice. Shake with cracked ice and chill well. Add one-half dozen bruised mint leaves, add two pint bottles of ginger ale and serve in glasses of ice. Garnish each glass with frosted mint. Dip sprays of mint into egg white thinned with a little water, then dip into powdered or finely granulated sugar.

Banana Bread Pudding.—Break three slices of bread into small pieces, pour over this two cupfuls of hot milk and one-half cupful of sugar; let it soak. Add two beaten egg whites. Slice three bananas into a pudding dish and pour over the mixture. Bake for half an hour. Serve hot with: Neapolitan Sauce.—Boil one-half cupful of sugar, one beaten egg, and cook until it coats the spoon. Flavor to taste, add one-half cupful of whipped cream when the mixture is chilled and serve cold.

Compote of Pears.—Take six pears, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one pint of cranberries and one cupful of water. Peel, core and quarter the pears. Cut up the cranberries, add water to cook, strain the juice and add the sugar. Boil, add the pears and cook them until tender but not broken; they should be a clear pink. Lift into a glass dish, boil the syrup until thick and pour around the pears. Serve with whipped cream.

General Lee Cake.—This is a fine sponge cake made as usual and baked in layers. Spread with the whites of two eggs beaten stiff, one pound of powdered sugar, the grated rind of one orange and the juice of one orange and one-half of a lemon. Spread on the cake before it is cold.

Ornamental Frosting.—Place in a double boiler the whites of two eggs, four tablespoonfuls of cold water; place over hot water and beat while heating until the frosting is stiff. Flavor with one-half tablespoonful of vanilla. This is an icing which may be used in a pastry tube to decorate cakes and fancy cookies.

Party Sandwich Rolls.—Use fresh bread. Cut slices thin as possible and remove the crust. Lay crisp lettuce leaves that have been dipped into mayonnaise on the slices. On top put shavings of boiled ham, roll up and fasten with a toothpick. Garnish with pickles and radishes.

Apple Pie.—Take a glass of apple jelly, dissolve and add lemon juice and sugar if needed. Chill and serve, adding iced water and a sprig of mint to each glass.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Philip La Follette Defeats Governor Kohler in the Wisconsin Primaries.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WHAT'S in a name? A great deal, up in Wisconsin, if the name happens to be La Follette. Philip F., second son of the founder of the dynasty and brother of Robert who holds the senatorial seat the father held for years, decided he wanted to be governor of the Badger state, so the Republicans in their primary refused to renominate Walter J. Kohler and gave the nomination to young Philip by a majority of about 110,000. Mr. Kohler has been admittedly an excellent chief executive and as a large employer of labor he is notably philanthropic; but he is a moderate conservative, is quite wealthy, and his name is not La Follette.

Politicians in Wisconsin held that, besides the great drawing power of the family name, a big factor in the La Follette landslide was the drive made for the factory vote, for Philip and his campaigners laid particular stress on unemployment, bringing in the economic situation in the country generally. In his factories at the town that bears his name Mr. Kohler has kept his full forces at work on full time throughout the period of depression, but Philip made capital out of the fact that Kohler in 1923 campaigned on the Hoover and prosperity keynote. The young man seems to have inherited much of his father's ability as a political orator and the labor vote went to him in imposing numbers. He carried 63 of the 71 counties, and the La Follette group nominated congressional candidates in nine of the eleven districts, gaining one seat.

La Follette is opposed by Charles E. Hammersley, Democratic nominee, but in Wisconsin Republican nomination is considered equivalent to election.

RESULTS of primaries and conventions in other states were evidently influenced by the unfavorable economic and employment conditions, the new tariff law and dissatisfaction of the farmers with the delays of the federal farm board. As for the prohibition question, the dregs had some changes to cheer, though leaders of the wets thought Tuesday was "really a very damp day." In Massachusetts William M. Butler, dry, obtained the Republican senatorial nomination, defeating Eben S. Draper, a wet; and the Democrats put up Marcus A. Coolidge, wet, for the senate. Delaware Democrats nominated Thomas F. Bayard, wet, to oppose Senator Daniel O. Hastings, renominate by the Republicans. The Republicans of Connecticut chose Lieut. Gov. E. E. Rogers, a dry, as their candidate for governor and adopted a platform calling for restoration of liquor control to the states. In November Mr. Rogers will be opposed by Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, the wet Democratic nominee.

Wets in the Republican party in New York didn't do so well as they had expected in the congressional primaries, but they did score some notable victories, and it was certain there would be a hot fight over the liquor question in the impending state convention. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, leading possibility for the gubernatorial nomination, created something of a sensation by resigning his office and declaring himself in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. Prohibition leaders said if he were nominated the state Republican dry vote would "just stay at home" on election day. The liquor question did not enter into the Democratic primary contests in the Empire state.

SENATOR NYE's committee on campaign expenditures wound up its hearings in Chicago with several hectic sessions in the course of which the chairman denied fully that the committee or its agents were in any way responsible for the tapping of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormack's telephone wires or for other espionage which she charges to their account. He therefore refused to listen formally to her accusations. However, photographs showing the wire tapping were shown the committee by T. B. Thompson, publisher of a Rockford newspaper which Mrs. McCormack controls, and he also managed to get into the record the charge that this was the work of the committee or its investigators, coupled with the warning that the incident would be kept in the public mind.

SENATOR HOOVER named three more men to be members of the new tariff board. They are Prof. John Lee Coulter of North Dakota, at present chief economist of the tariff commission, and E. B. Crossard, chairman of the outgoing board, Republicans; and Alfred P. Dennis of Maryland, Democrat.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi indicated that the Democrats would oppose confirmation of all three, as well as of Henry P. Fletcher, previously appointed chairman of the commission. He had nothing to say against Thomas Walker Page of Virginia, Democrat, also named some time ago.

SECRETARY of the Interior Wilbur went out to Nevada and formally inaugurated work on the $165,000,000 Boulder dam by driving a silver spike into a tie of the railroad that will be used to haul material. As he wielded the sledge he said: "I have the honor to name this dam after a great engineer, who really started this greatest project of all time—the Hoover dam." Officials from six Colorado river basin states—Nevada, California, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, and Wyoming—attended the ceremony.

GERMANY, and with it all the world, was startled by the remarkable victory won in the parliamentary elections by the so-called "Fascists," the reactionaries led by Adolf Hitler who organized the Bavarian "putsch" in 1923. When the votes were counted it was found that in the new reichstag of 570 deputies the Hitlerites had captured 107 seats, making them second only to the Socialists with 143. The Fascists had announced they favored a stern dictatorship, and many of them are really monarchists. For this reason it was suggested they might merge with Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalist party. Such a coalition would have 149 seats and could claim the task of forming a new ministry.

The present cabinet unanimously decided that Chancellor Bruening should keep office and present his program to the new reichstag which convenes on October 13. Bruening's Centrist party has only 63 seats and must rely on help from the Socialists and some of the many minor parties. President Von Hindenburg doesn't wish to let the Socialists form a cabinet. The Fascists announced they would adopt only legal means of obtaining places in the government.

There is no expectation of a revolutionary change in German foreign policies, but France was disturbed by the Fascist victory and Italy was somewhat elated. The French nationalists foresaw the end of the Locarno pact and of Briand's policy of conciliation with Germany. The Italians felt strengthened in their military and other disputes with France, and it was admitted generally that the result of the German elections might retard the disarmament parleys and prolong the unsettled condition in Europe.

GREAT BRITAIN has announced that on October 1 she will return the city and port of Weihaiwei to Chinese jurisdiction. Weihaiwei is in northeastern Shantung. It consists of Likung Island, a few uninhabited islets, and extensive mainland territory, the whole area being 235 square miles.

Before the China-Japan war of 1904-1905 Weihaiwei was a fortified naval port. The Japanese captured Weihaiwei and held the district until peace terms were arranged. In 1906, after Russia had seized Port Arthur, Great Britain obtained a lease of Weihaiwei and adjacent territory "for so long a period as Port Arthur shall remain in the occupation of Russia."

The Chinese and British governments have reached an agreement whereby $12,500,000 from the British share of the Boxer indemnity fund will be expended in completing the construction of the Canton and Hankow railway, a distance of about 300 miles.

GETTING down to business, the assembly of the League of Nations in plenary session adopted a resolution that a special committee should be named to study Briand's scheme for a federation of European states, and that non-members of the League be asked to assist in the parleys. The plan was thus removed from the agenda of the assembly for one year.

Guatemala, Norway and the Irish Free State were given seats in the council, but the request of China for a re-election to that body was turned down.

Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state, was elected to the World court to fill out the unexpired term of Charles Evans Hughes. Mr. Kellogg received 50 votes of the 47 cast. It is believed he will be chosen for the full term when the full bench is elected.

OFFICIAL announcements have been made that the United States, Great Britain and France would recognize the de facto government of Argentina. And the United States also has accorded recognition to the new regimes in Peru and Bolivia. Secretary of State Stimson said: "In reaching the conclusion to accord recognition to these three governments, the evidence has satisfied me that these provisional governments are de facto in control of their respective countries and that there is no active resistance to their rule. Each of the present governments has also made it clear that it is its intention to fulfill its respective international obligations and to hold in due course elections to regularize its status."

Yrigoyen, deposed president of Argentina, still held prisoner on a battleship, urged his followers to accept the situation peacefully, and the leaders of his party signed an agreement to co-operate with the provisional government in keeping peace and order.

Uruguay has severed diplomatic relations with Peru, charging the military junta in control at Lima with treaty violations and other offenses.

CANADA'S new government, seeking relief for unemployment and business depression, has put into effect high tariff protection against the whole world and the United States in particular. The new schedules went into effect immediately, but must be formally acted on by parliament. The major tariff increases in the bill are aimed against farm machinery, automobile parts, fresh meats, butter, gasoline, boots and shoes, iron and steel, cotton and woolen textiles, machinery and paper. The jettisoning of the late Liberal government's countervailing duties against America in favor of rigid duties of about the same proportions is but a forerunner, Premier Bennett said, to complete upward tariff revision next session.

LIEUT. HAROLD L. BROMLEY and Harold Gatty made their fourth attempt at a nonstop flight across the Pacific, starting in their big monoplane, City of Tacoma, from Japan. But they ran into dense fogs and high winds and had to turn back when an exhaust pipe broke. They landed safely at a village on the northeast point of the mainland of Japan, and have abandoned the project for this year.

Coste and Bellonte, the French transatlantic flyers, started out on a good-will tour that was to take them to dozens of important cities in the United States. Everywhere they were being received with great honors.

MILTON SILLS, one of the best of our screen actors and also a veteran of the legitimate stage, was stricken with heart disease while playing tennis and died in his home at Santa Monica.

Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, who will be remembered as the naval attaché of the German embassy in Washington during the first years of the World War, was killed in Germany by a fall from his horse. He was expelled by the American government for his propagandist activities.

Morrow's Name Linked

With That of Cortes

Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow has linked his name to that of Hernan Cortes, the famous Spanish captain who conquered Mexico in the name of her gracious majesty Isabella, Catholic queen of Spain. Cortes, charmed with the unparalleled climate of Cuernavaca, 50 miles south of Mexico City, ordered a castle built for himself in the early days of the sixteenth century. Morrow, 400 years later, equally captivated by the town of everlasting spring season, established his summer residence there and decided to have the Cortes castle decorated as a gift to the city.

The castle at present is the home of local authorities. Its turrets rise over red-tiled roofs of surried houses as a landmark and serve as an attraction for tourists. The walls are being decorated with richly colored frescoes by Diego Rivera, a world-known painter who has achieved notoriety for his Communist activities. Congress had to pass a bill permitting the decoration of the castle, one of the oldest buildings on the continent, and the ambassador paid $22,000 to Rivera for his work.

Official announcements have been made that the United States, Great Britain and France would recognize the de facto government of Argentina. And the United States also has accorded recognition to the new regimes in Peru and Bolivia. Secretary of State Stimson said: "In reaching the conclusion to accord recognition to these three governments, the evidence has satisfied me that these provisional governments are de facto in control of their respective countries and that there is no active resistance to their rule. Each of the present governments has also made it clear that it is its intention to fulfill its respective international obligations and to hold in due course elections to regularize its status."

Yrigoyen, deposed president of Argentina, still held prisoner on a battleship, urged his followers to accept the situation peacefully, and the leaders of his party signed an agreement to co-operate with the provisional government in keeping peace and order.

Uruguay has severed diplomatic relations with Peru, charging the military junta in control at Lima with treaty violations and other offenses.

CANADA'S new government, seeking relief for unemployment and business depression, has put into effect high tariff protection against the whole world and the United States in particular. The new schedules went into effect immediately, but must be formally acted on by parliament. The major tariff increases in the bill are aimed against farm machinery, automobile parts, fresh meats, butter, gasoline, boots and shoes, iron and steel, cotton and woolen textiles, machinery and paper. The jettisoning of the late Liberal government's countervailing duties against America in favor of rigid duties of about the same proportions is but a forerunner, Premier Bennett said, to complete upward tariff revision next session.

LIEUT. HAROLD L. BROMLEY and Harold Gatty made their fourth attempt at a nonstop flight across the Pacific, starting in their big monoplane, City of Tacoma, from Japan. But they ran into dense fogs and high winds and had to turn back when an exhaust pipe broke. They landed safely at a village on the northeast point of the mainland of Japan, and have abandoned the project for this year.

Coste and Bellonte, the French transatlantic flyers, started out on a good-will tour that was to take them to dozens of important cities in the United States. Everywhere they were being received with great honors.

MILTON SILLS, one of the best of our screen actors and also a veteran of the legitimate stage, was stricken with heart disease while playing tennis and died in his home at Santa Monica.

Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, who will be remembered as the naval attaché of the German embassy in Washington during the first years of the World War, was killed in Germany by a fall from his horse. He was expelled by the American government for his propagandist activities.

RESULTS of primaries and conventions in other states were evidently influenced by the unfavorable economic and employment conditions, the new tariff law and dissatisfaction of the farmers with the delays of the federal farm board. As for the prohibition question, the dregs had some changes to cheer, though leaders of the wets thought Tuesday was "really a very damp day." In Massachusetts William M. Butler, dry, obtained the Republican senatorial nomination, defeating Eben S. Draper, a wet; and the Democrats put up Marcus A. Coolidge, wet, for the senate. Delaware Democrats nominated Thomas F. Bayard, wet, to oppose Senator Daniel O. Hastings, renominate by the Republicans. The Republicans of Connecticut chose Lieut. Gov. E. E. Rogers, a dry, as their candidate for governor and adopted a platform calling for restoration of liquor control to the states. In November Mr. Rogers will be opposed by Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, the wet Democratic nominee.

Wets in the Republican party in New York didn't do so well as they had expected in the congressional primaries, but they did score some notable victories, and it was certain there would be a hot fight over the liquor question in the impending state convention. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, leading possibility for the gubernatorial nomination, created something of a sensation by resigning his office and declaring himself in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. Prohibition leaders said if he were nominated the state Republican dry vote would "just stay at home" on election day. The liquor question did not enter into the Democratic primary contests in the Empire state.

Written by Plutarch

"He calls a spade a spade," is one of the longest-lived remarks on record. It goes back to Plutarch, who 1,900 years ago wrote: "These Macedonians are a rude and clownish people, that call a spade a spade." And the same ancient biographer is responsible for that descriptive phrase, "He has one foot in the grave."—Golden Book Magazine.

Customer—And how much do I owe you for the extra oil?

"What oil?"

"The oil you left on the upholstery."—Judge.

Slightly Confused

"Poverty," said the cynical philosopher, "is no disgrace. On the contrary, it may be an honor."

"Yes," answered Mr. Duatin Stax; "I feel that way about it. But my tastes are so expensive I can't afford to be poor."

Attorney John E. Hall
Locates in Carrizozo

A new addition was added to Carrizozo's list of attorneys this week, when John E. Hall, came in with Mrs. Hall and daughter, Jeanne, rented one of the Prehm Apartments and arranged his office quarters in the old Lincoln State Bank building on Fourth Street.

Mr. Hall needs no introduction to the people of this county; he graduated from the high school at Dallas, Texas, came here with his parents in 1918, finished his education at the Northwestern University at Chicago, after which he attended the George Washington University Law School, from which institution he graduated with high honors. He served Lincoln County in the state legislature for two terms and came out a friend to people of all political faiths, an evidence of the fact that he was a real servant of the people, as a whole. His natural, friendly disposition, his thorough knowledge of his profession and his being so well known among our people, he has prospects for a bright future in the practice of law. To Mr. Hall and family, we extend the hand of welcome.

Billy the Kid

The motion picture of the life and activities of Billy the Kid will be shown at the Crystal Theatre, some time during November.

Only two towns in this section will have the showing of this All-Talking production, and arrangements will be made for day and night shows during the three days that the picture will be here, in order to take care of the many hundreds of people that are expected to attend from outside territory.

The picture is in the Special class and produced on an elaborate scale, with King Vidor, the man who has made more big pictures than any other director. The largest town ever reconstructed for a picture, was built for this picture. The town of Lincoln, as it was in the days of Billy the Kid, was reconstructed, and in detail.
