by Arthur Brisbane Violet Rays Fight Disease Apples and Oranges Little Men Do Learn No Chemical Life

Doctor Lucas, one of the many able scientists employed by the telephone company, has perfected a "violet ray" microscope, expected to work wonders in the fight against disease, specifically in treatment of cancer and other malignant tumors.

A violet ray machine, using 10,000 volts, magnifies to an extent absolutely amazing, making the specimen examined "seem to jump through the lens."

Following a typhoid epidemic at Oviedo, in Spain, drinking fountains were closed and people ordered to drink only cider. In a week the epidemic vanished. Spaniards believe that apple juice kills disease germs.

Perhaps cutting off a bad water supply had more to do with it. But every human being would be the better for an apple a day at noon and an orange in the morning.

Some one should make a little cider press that could be used at the family table, to squeeze out the cider and give it to children with their noon meal, fresh from the apples.

If you have a darling pet parrot do not bury your nose or mouth in its pretty feathers or stroke the parrot and afterward put your hand to your mouth. Surgeon General Cummings of the national health board says parrots are bringing into the country a highly dangerous disease, easily contracted, often fatal. Several cases have occurred in Maryland.

At the royal wedding in Rome five foreign sovereigns, five rulers who had recently lost their jobs, and fifty-four other royalties looked on. Queens, princesses and princesses crowded the chapel.

The interesting moment came when Mussolini, Italy's dictator, entered and was saluted by all the royalties with the Fascist salute, the outstretched right arm.

Mussolini did not march with the royalty. But when they saw him and gave him that salute, angels, looking down, could easily identify the real ruler of Italy.

Doctor Heyl, physicist of the United States bureau of standards, says science will produce life artificially. "It is chemical, not supernatural," and there is "nothing occult in the processes of life."

Nothing occult, perhaps, but Professor Heyl will not produce life, not will any other physicist by chemical means. Things may be made to wiggle, but that will not be life.

This universe is a great trinity—matter, force and spirit or consciousness. No scientist will produce consciousness, possessing the potential ability to think. Chemicals can't do that.

A Mr. Morgan of California is returning from England with "overwhelming proof" that Bacon wrote the plays credited to Shakespeare.

On the way Mr. Morgan might read the critical study of Shakespeare by the Danish author, Brandes.

He says truly that whoever asserts that Bacon wrote Shakespeare simply proves that he, himself, has never in telligently read either Bacon or Shakespeare.

Shall New Mexico Have a State Chamber of Commerce?

Directors for the organization of a State Chamber of Commerce, seventeen in number, met in the dining room of the De Vargas Hotel at Santa Fe last Saturday morning. The session lasted from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., during which time, things concerning the good and welfare of the state as a whole were discussed and opinions exchanged. It was not deemed expedient at that meeting to effect a permanent organization until the industries of the state, such as the stockmen, wool growers and mining organizations, as well as the different industries as a whole, be consulted before such a move would be made, therefore, leaving it up to the people to express their wishes in the matter.

Following this agreement among the directors, a committee was appointed which represents the different portions of the state and this committee will present a list of objectives before the different business organizations and firms over the state, to get their views and if a willingness is found on a part of our interests to have a home state Chamber of Commerce, we will proceed along the line of permanent organization, after this committee turns in its report.

The directors all seemed to feel that as a state which is growing and has as many advantages to offer people from other states who are desirous of making changes, as this state does, we should have a State Chamber of Commerce which will bring these truths to the attention of prospectives who would even now, be within our borders, were they properly informed of our resources and many advantages. To do this, we should have a central body, known as a State Chamber of Commerce with the people of the state standing back of it in its future endeavors. We could then advertise the state in a proper manner by the means of circulars and our home broadcasting station, KOB at State College, which has been granted permission to increase to 20,000 watts. This wonderful broadcasting station which is the result of the untiring efforts of the immortal Dean Goddard, who lost his life in his efforts to make that station one of the best in the west and had about succeeded when a misstep into his beloved creation sent him into eternity. May we, the people of New Mexico imitate his example with our efforts and means to advance the interests of the state as a whole, in which Lincoln county will have her just share.

Shall we have a State Chamber of Commerce and fly our own kite, instead of hanging on to the tail of the kite of some other state, where we are getting small returns and no identification?

-Let New Mexico say.

Joint Installation and Banquet

Carrizozo Lodge No. 30 and Coalora Rebekah Lodge No. 15, I. O. O. F., held a public installation Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows Hall in the Masonic Temple Building, which was one of the best attended and most enjoyable of any event given in the hall for years. The installing officers were: A. J. Newsom, Deputy Grand Master of Alamogordo and Mrs. Zoe Glassmire of Carrizozo for the Rebekahs.

The installation was public and many friends of members of the order were present as guests of the I. O. O. F. After the installation, Mr. Newsom gave a short but interesting address on the aims, objects, benevolent features of the order and dwell on its origination and growth from the beginning up to the present time.

Following his address, the banquet table running the full length of the hall was laden with refreshments to which the assemblage sat down to a young turkey feast, with everything connected to make everybody feel at home. An abundance had been provided and although the assemblage was large, there was no lack of refreshments, although the table was filled the second time. The affair closed at about 11 o'clock, with everybody feeling like they had been at a big family party.

Those from out-of-town were: Messrs. Newsom, Anderson, Johnson and Dr. Cooper, Alamogordo; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Simer, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Montie Gardenhire, Mmes. S. E. Graisen and Seldon Burks, Captain; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bogle, Coyote. Miss Dorothy Dozier was at the piano during the installation ceremonies.

RADIO RUBE'S R-A-M-B-L-I-N-G-S

Monday night, a program of Spanish selections was given over the NBC network, during the Edison hour. This program mainly at the request of King Alfonso of Spain and the songs and instrumental numbers were decidedly different from what we have known. The program came in clear and strong and the announcer said that the same was being wafted over the ocean to King Alfonso.

Last Thursday night, KFI of Los Angeles, broadcasted the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, this being their turn—the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra broadcast in alternate weeks. The program was especially good.

You should hear the two blackface comedians, Honeyboy and Sassafras, heard over KSAT at Ft. Worth. They are extremely funny and sing manycoon songs full of mirth and melody. Their sayings are also new and the old jokes with whiskers several feet long are missing.

Marshall Beck, announcer at KOB, State College, who is to finish his course this year, sends word that permission has been granted KOB by the Federal Radio Commission to increase the power of that station from 10,000 to 20,000 watts.

Pon Henderson must have had a calling down by the Federal Radio Commission, for the last few nights he has been as mild as a day in June. If he keeps that up, we may expect him to be putting on the weekly Sunday School lesson 'muy pronto.' He only says "Hell" when he reads it in the telegrams. He is 'the stormy petrel' of radio broadcasting.

There is nothing so thrilling as to hear a band play a good lively march or an overture—it puts enthusiasm in one. Hear Goldman's 'Purcell band,' broadcast the first of the week over the NBC network, on Tuesday nights, I think. If you want a real treat, be sure to tune in on this band.

The programs each Sunday of WCCO, Minneapolis, featuring the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and sponsored by the National Banks of the city, is exceptionally good. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra is one of the country's best organizations.

The 'Praetorian Male Quartet' from KRFD, Dallas, Texas, on Wednesday nights is looked forward to with great interest. The quartet always has a novel and entertaining song, of unusual variety, to sing.

Billie Jones and Ernie Hare (the Interwoven Pair) are anxiously awaited on Friday night. Their cheerful introductory and closing song "Sox, Sox, We're Billie Jones and Ernie Hare," etc.

FORT STANTON NEWS

Miss Elizabeth Garrett, New Mexico's Song Bird and her Elizabeth Garrett Sextette, gave an enjoyable musical program on Tuesday, Jan. 7. This program was sponsored by the Seamen's Church Institute. A good attendance greeted the singer and her sextette and expressed appreciation of the concert and its visit to Fort Stanton.

Miss Catherine Kolkmeier is being transferred from Fort Stanton to the Marine Hospital at San Francisco and will leave soon for that place to enter on her duties.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Fagan and family made a trip to Carrizozo Tuesday and met Mrs. Ida Coover, mother of Mrs. Fagan, who came in for a visit with her daughter and family. Mrs. Coover resides at Long Beach, California.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Howson are the proud parents of a bouncing baby boy, born to them on Jan. 13. Mother and son are doing nicely and "daddy" is greatly elated.

The Seamen's Church Institute will sponsor a musical program on Jan. 24, in which the local musical talent will be represented. Mickey McNeff will entertain with several violin solos, with Mrs. Hendren at the piano. Mrs. Boyd will give a reading, and Mrs. Trout, who has favored us on several occasions before, is on the program with her whistling feature. Mrs. Hendren will give several piano solos, after which, refreshments will be served. This event will be looked forward to, with much interest by music lovers at the Fort.

The cold wave of the past few days holds Fort Stanton in its grip and makes the fireside a good place to spend the evenings. While it is cold here, we are more fortunate than our neighbors to the north who are under banks of snow and the thermometer away below zero. Our roads are good and are kept as clear as we could reasonably expect.

Commander, Department of New Mexico, American Legion, met with the local Post Wednesday night and discussed with a view of completing arrangements for the transportation of local Gold Star Mothers to the graves of their soldier dead overseas. The local Post wishes to ask the assistance of the public to the end that no Gold Star Mothers will be overlooked, as the government is anxious for them to make the trip and sponsor the same without one cent of expense. Therefore, if you know of a Gold Star Mother, who is not aware of this remarkable offer by the government, please co-operate with the local Post so that they may not be overlooked.

Footwear for Spring, Summer, 1930

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Recently several hundred men and women shoe stylists met to discuss trends in footwear for spring and summer, 1930. According to the program voted upon at this conference, here is what you will wear this spring and summer:

First of all, kid leather, "they say," will take the lead for all but evening and the sturdier type of sports shoes. Secondly, for Palm Beach and other southern resort wear, and for summer throughout the country the all-white and the trimmed white kid shoe will be very important.

There are many reasons for this "white" forecast. First, there is no doubt whatever that the sunnier mode will be at its peak in 1930, and nothing goes quite so well with the many sunnier tones as white shoes. Footwear of this class will be extremely simple, sometimes with pastel trims restricted to little more than piping or straps.

For general street, business, shopping and town wear, black was duly stressed; also interesting browns; also tropical tan and suntan beige with nautical and other shades of dark blue. There will be many pastel shades, too, as well as such novelties as subergine (eggplant), a dahlia tango; also greens and reds. The idea is for colorful shoes to carry out the theme of the ever popular costume ensemble.

With the stunning silk print frocks in the picture the hemlines of which are longer, yet not too long to effect and radical change, ensemble shoes give the finishing color touch. With their blue-and-white print crepe dresses the young woman standing wears navy pumps. This frock is cleverly styled with a unique jabot drape. The sash is drawn through a slot and ties at the right side, indicating a normal waistline.

Dark red enters into the color-study of the other silk gown and the one-strap shoes are of the same rich hue. For daytime wear one-strap shoes pictured, pumps, tie-effects, oxfords, and even sandals are included in the list of shoes-elect.

In the evening shoes, dyeable fabrics such as moire, satin crepe, and multi-color brocades are sponsored. It has become the custom among women of discriminating taste to buy evening slippers in white or near-white with a view to having them dyed to order.

And now for the climax in the story of color for shoes—it is said that men's shoes are also to be colorful, including dark red, dark blue and dark green.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

If doughnuts crack in cooking, try a little less baking powder in the recipe.

Use paper napkins instead of cheesecloth to strain fat that has been used for frying; it saves laundry.

Light-colored walls and woodwork help to make dark rooms light and they also make rooms appear larger.

Take the children shopping occasionally and give them some of the responsibility of selecting their own clothes.

To foster a love for reading in children, comfortable chairs of suitable size and correctly placed reading lights are great helps.

Furniture placed parallel or at right angles to the walls gives the room a more restful appearance than when rugs or furniture are on diagonal lines.

Rabbit Tastes Like Chicken

Young Domestic Rabbits Deliciously Cooked.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Was it chicken, or was it rabbit? The guests will have a hard time telling, until they examine the shape of the pieces. Your domestic rabbits, cooked in any of the ways young chickens are cooked, are very delicious. They may be eaten throughout the year, as they are not subject to the "open" and "closed" seasons. Domestic rabbits are raised in hutches, under sanitary, clean conditions, and fed rolled cereals, alfalfa hay, and leafy vegetables. The nature of their food makes the meat sweet, tender and excellently flavored. Just as with poultry or with various cuts of meat, young tender rabbits may be fried or baked, while the older ones require longer, slow cooking. The bureau of home economics has co-operated with the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture in trying different methods of cooking domestic rabbits, and has evolved a number of excellent recipes. Here is one for fried rabbit:

Fried Rabbit.

1 egg 1 young domestic rabbit
1/2 cup milk Fat
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup flour

Beat the egg, add the milk and the salt, and stir into the flour to form a smooth batter. Wipe the rabbit with a clean damp cloth and cut into pieces of the right size for serving. Dip each piece of rabbit into this batter and be sure that it is thoroughly coated. In an iron skillet heat well-flavored fat until it is hot enough to set the batter quickly. Brown the pieces of rabbit evenly, then reduce the heat, and cook at a lower temperature for 25 or 30 minutes, or until tender.

To each cup of gravy desired use 2 tablespoonfuls of the fat in which the rabbit was cooked and 1 1/2 tablespoonfuls of flour. Blend thoroughly, add 1 cupful milk. Cook until thickened. Add 1 tablespoonful of chopped parsley, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, and a dash of pepper. Serve around the rabbit or in a separate dish.

Chocolate-Coated Apples

Here's truly wholesome confection that is easily made with materials to be had almost anywhere. Be sure to use firm-fleshed, tart apples for good results. The recipe was originated by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

1 cup sugar 1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup honey 2 tart well-flavored apples
1/2 cup water

Prepare a syrup of the sugar, honey, water and salt by boiling for 2 or 3 minutes. Wash, core and pare the apples, cut into half-moon shaped pieces about half an inch thick, drop into the syrup, and cook rapidly until the apples are transparent and practically all the syrup has been absorbed. Lift onto waxed paper to dry. Cut up into small pieces some of the cake chocolate made especially for dipping candies. Put into a shallow dish over hot water to melt slightly, and stir with the fingers until the whole mass has melted. Dip the pieces of apple into the melted chocolate until well coated and place on waxed paper to dry, which requires only a short time when this method of coating is used. Pack the apple candies in layers between sheets of waxed paper.

to seasoned egg and water, roll in crumbs and pack in a dripping pan in which a little minced salt pork is fried out. Dot with butter or pork bits and brown in a hot oven. Serve garnished with small baking powder biscuits around the platter of meat and pour over a cream gravy made from the fat in the pan with added flour and milk.

Moisten chopped dates with orange juice, add a few chopped nuts and spread on buttered rounds of Boston brown bread. This will please the hungry children.

Something Good for the Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

May every soul that touches mine, be it the slightest contact, get there from some good, some little grace, one kindly thought, one aspiration yet unfulfilled, one bit of courage. For the darkening sky, one gleam of faith. To brave the thickening mists of life. One glimpse of brighter sky beyond the gathering mist. To make this life worth while and heaven a heritage. —The Outlook.

When one has a can of small beets and would like to change the serving of them, try the following:

Pickled Beets.—Remove the beets from the can and place in a scalded fruit jar. Put enough vinegar to cover the beets in a saucepan and for each cupful of vinegar add one tablespoonful of sugar, two cloves and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt. Simmer until the sugar is dissolved and pour over the beets. Close the jar and let stand for three or four days before serving. Anise seed is liked for flavor by many in place of cloves. If the vinegar is too acid, dilute it with water, to the ordinary acidity.

Deviled Peanut Sandwiches.—Mix one small can of deviled ham with one-third of a cupful of peanut butter, one-fourth cupful of mayonnaise, and a bit of salt. Spread on buttered slices of graham bread and serve with a hot drink of fruit juices or cocoa when the young folks come in from skating.

Swiss Date Sandwiches.—Mix equal quantities of chopped dates and nuts, moisten with mayonnaise. Spread canned swiss cheese on buttered whole wheat bread as thickly as desired, then cover with the date and nut mixture. Cover with a slice of buttered bread.

Orange Poultice Sauce.—Take a teaspoonful of bouillon extract, one cupful of water, to make stock. Season with pepper, paprika, one cupful of orange juice, two oranges, with a few slices of rind. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, cook until creamy, add the stock mixture, stirring all the while. Cook until thickened, remove from the fire and add one-half cupful of white grapes which have been skinned and seeded.

This is excellent with fish, poultry or game.

In the old dishes which our New England ancestors used daily we find a distinct cookery which is characteristic of the sturdy people of those days. We like to recall some of them and will find them most tasty and satisfying today.

Calves' Head Dinner.—Scrape and clean thoroughly a calf's head, removing the brains, tongue, eyes and gristle. Soak two hours in salted water. Boil head, tongue, heart and liver, after scalding, the liver added when the other meat is nearly done. Season with salt and pepper and savory herbs tied in muslin; these are added when they are put on to cook. When all is tender, serve the liver and tongue and heart sliced thinly; lay on the platter with pieces of the head meat and garnish with parsley. Accompany with a rich sauce made from the strained broth. The brains may be soaked after the membrane is removed; simmer ten minutes in water to which a little lemon juice and salt are added, then plunge into cold water; cut into bits and escallop with crumbs and butter Sunday Chicken.—Cut up a large fowl into serving sized pieces. # Children at the Table

In some homes it is the custom for the children to come to all the regular family meals, no matter how young they are. In others, children are given their meals at their own little table, either before the family eats or at the same time. The plan adopted must largely be determined by circumstances, and it need not be the same for all meals. Whichever way is easiest for the mother and best for the children should be chosen. In homes where the evening meal must be late or the noon meal hurried, the children will be better off if served earlier than the rest of the family. When children eat apart from adults there are fewer distractions and usually no questions to be answered about differences between their food and that of the grownups. If questions arise at the family table let the children know that they do not eat the same dishes that grownups eat just as they do not wear the same kind of clothes.

Children are observant, and will imitate what they see adults doing. Choosiness in foods is often the result of imitation. Father, mother, big sister and the rest share alike in their responsibility to set the example of enjoying carrots, spinach, or whatever the menu offers. The fewer the reminders to eat and the better the example set, the greater the result with observant children.

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture makes the suggestion that if the china, glass, and eating tools belong to the child personally and are always set out for him, much will be added to the interest of the meal. Have the china gay in pattern, and everything of good shape and weight for little hands to hold. A child's own table and chair will prove more comfortable, usually, than a high chair.

His may be attractive in color and may be put on. There may be a tray or an all cloth dolly at the child's place. The table, if possible, should be in a sunny room, the food should be good to look at as well as good to eat, and the mother should be calm and unhurried, ready for happy comradeship. The joy of accomplishment is so absorbing that the child who feeds himself seldom becomes a problem at meal time. A beginning can be made as young as 15 months, and with a little patience on the mother's part, over spilled food, and sensible protection of the clothing, the table and floor, the day of independence will soon be reached.

Fruit Juices in Roasts

One way of disposing of left-over fruit juices is in roasts of various kinds. Ham, beef or lamb roasts are much improved when this extra tart flavor is added in the cooking. Un-sweetened apple, plum or grape juice add a pleasing flavor, giving a taste that is different.

The Boy Adventurer and a Big City

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Now the boy adventurer was actually meeting a city. The city was not such as he would read about in a book—but the city had actually taken on the shape of a person and was talking to him.

The city told him she was one of the daughters of the world parents, Mother Earth and Father Atlas. And she told him that her name was London.

He looked at her face. "Yes, she was a good deal older, he should say, than New York, though he had never been any good about ages. But she didn't seem old at all. She looked strong and full of life and full of fun, too, and as though she could tell him so much.

"I can't have you sit on a skyscraper couch as American cities would," London continued, "but I thought maybe you would like my beloved river. You've no idea how much I love this river. Sometimes when I get so busy and so crowded and so hurried as all we cities do, I come down here for a little quiet. There are my parks which I keep so green and fresh but early in the morning and late in the afternoon I like to visit my river. I look over the bridges which go over this river. I think of all the jolly children in the world who have sub 'London Bridge Is Falling Down,' and you know I never minded that song."

"I played that sometimes when I was a kid," David said.

"Yes, I suppose you did," said London, "and when I think that London bridge carries more traffic than any other it does seem a great job. Some might think it a bit foolish but I have always said to myself that if children were having a good time let them have a good time.

"You can see my Parliament buildings from here where they talk about matters very serious such as what should be done about this and what should be done about that, and you know such questions are very hard to answer. So many people have different opinions. But I'm not going to talk about serious matters to you. I love to sit by my beloved Thames and hear the old clock strike. The hours have been piling up for so many years, and for so many years

"Cities Are Kind," Thought David.

I've been listening to them adding on to time, hour by hour, hour by hour. "I'd like you to visit my home—all around here is my home and I'm only second to New York in the number of people I've welcomed to my heart. At one time I was larger than New York. I'd like you to walk around my streets and I'd like you to see my old buildings and courtyards, and you could visit my zoo if you wished—we cities like zoo. We can't be set in the wide with our people's nature, and so we have to have some animals here.

"And I'd like you to think of my people."

London paused, and David said: "You have ever and ever so many people with you, haven't you?"

"Oh yes," said London, "but I should love to have you think not only of the people there are here now, but of the people who at one time or other have walked through my streets, who have come in on strange old ships from strange old lands and who have brought me so much that is odd and different.

"The exciting thing about it is that I never know when one of these people walking through my streets today may become famous, too."

"That's like New York," David said. "She told me how she welcomed people and loved to have them successful."

"Did she, indeed?" said London. "Of course she did! That is what we cities like, and when small towns and country places cannot or do not help people to become famous, who discourage them or laugh at them, we love to feel that they wander to us, and then, quietly, quietly, they begin to show what they can do.

"We let them hide away for a bit. We let them try—and try again. We're not watching them if they're second to say to them that if they're not immediately successful there isn't much hope for them."

"Cities are kind," David thought, and London seemed to read his thoughts for she smiled and said: "I'm so glad you think so. Maybe you've heard the humming going on?" "I heard it when I was coming to talk to you and I noticed it at first when you were talking. Yes, I still hear it."

"Oh, forget what I said," she cried, distressed. "Yet I meant well. 'Tis my fault that you have singled out James. Deny it not. Your ship was equipped to fight the Badger."

"Sure, ma'am." Again a complexity of passions tormented Fellowes. He wanted to be kind. He wanted to be cruel. He wanted to help. He wanted to hurt. The sweat stood in beads on his forehead, clammy as the sea mist that dripped from the spars. If he might take her in his arms, and comfort her! But no, cruelty would be more kind. "If I sink the Badger, I do a service for my country, which should be your country. If I happen to kill Captain Collishawe"—he made a pretense at a shrug—"why, I shall remove a dangerous enemy of my country—and the man who fogged me."

She regarded him with that small mournful look, her lips curved in pity. "And I have done this to you!" she said. "I should remember. But each time it hurts the same. I am so sorry, so very sorry! I've turned love into hate, and ruined two men's lives. Ah, and brought my father to the gallows! Isn't that sufficient? Oh, well, then, we'll go below. Anywhere! What does it matter? A few hours, a few days, a few months!"

Her father led her away, mumbling fustily, and Fellowes hurried forward to inspect Noggle's drag—anything to occupy him, to aid him to forget her. She was in love with Collishawe, of course. The letter—everything—her words, her humor, her palpable anxiety—proved it. D—n the Britisher, he must have swept her off her feet! But when? Before—that night? Or after?

He turned to Cuffee, his brain working simultaneously along parallel lines, to caution the negro to reduce his powder charges when the brig lost headway.

"I don't want to reach him yet. No use in telling him we have a twenty-four-pounder. Just tickle him up, Cuffee. Keep him hot after us."

And Cuffee laughed uproariously. "Yah, yah, yah, Mars'r Fellowes! Dat big fun. Oh, we fool him, Collishawe plenty too much."

Back on the poop straining anxiously through the mist, Fellowes recalled that last night on the True Bounty, a swish of skirts, a warm, pliant body pressed to his, the touch of soft lips.

CHAPTER XII

Battle

Long before evening the two vessels were visible to each other, the Centurion blocked clearly against the fading light in the east, the Badger a blurred tower of canvas in the radiance of the sunset.

The Badger gained slowly on the Centurion, and under cover of darkness the privateer cut herself free of the drag, shortening sail to maintain her position just out of range of Collishawe's twelve-pounders. The men off watch were sent to their hammocks, and those on duty bidden to lie down beside the guns. Fellowes, himself, endeavored to set an example by curbing his excitement, and toward midnight snatched a nap in one of the wardroom bunks.

An hour before sunrise Fellowes was awakened by a messenger from Breed, who had the watch. He came on deck to find the crew astir, the galley smoking busily. Cuffee was crouching over the Big Sarpent, removing yesterday's powder stains from its shaly barrel with a rag and polish.

Fellowes' first thought was to see to the feeding of his men. They were to have a hot meal and a special issue of grog. "And don't forget the prisoners, Mr. Breed. We may be hours at this job. Give them the same meal as the crew, and then stow them in the cabbieaters." Himself, he attended O'Shaughnessy to the cockpit. Cara opened the door in response to his knock.

"I am loath to disturb you, ma'am," he said; "but the doctor will be requiring his quarters soon, and I'd place you out of reach of shot."

She regarded him with the same pitying expression which had irked him the day before.

"Thank you," she answered quietly, "but if we may, sir, we'll stay here. Doctor O'Shaughnessy will require assistance."

"But you don't realize! Round-shot wounds are hideous. And grape!"

"I'd rather see the worst things than crouch below and imagine them. And I'm not one to faint and stew, Captain Fellowes."

"There's Mr. Inglepin," Fellowes suggested, "and your attendant?"

"I may be a fool," Ben Inglepin retorted tartly, "but I can wind a bandage or hold a basin—and I prefer anything to the darkness and stench of the orlop, which, I suppose, is where you'd put us."

"Tis safe, at least," asserted Fellowes, puzzled.

"Why, sir, if we must believe you, we are by no means safe, wherever we are."

Fellowes looked at the duenna, dark, fat, immutable, jetty eyes squinting from the folds of her mantilla.

Cara said quickly: "The senora can help, too. She will be much better for having something to do. Come, sir, do not sentence us to the hold! Your wounded will be more comfortable for what assistance we can render." She appealed to O'Shaughnessy. "You'll confirm me, won't you, doctor?"

The Irishman supported her gallantly.

"Tis short-handed, we are, captain, and with none but the stewards for dressers I'll be in a bad way."

It was a good argument, Fellowes admitted to himself. He owed his men every chance for life, and three extra helpers might turn the scale for the poor devils, whose bodies were maimed by the Badger's carronades.

"Very well," he agreed. "If you are certain 'twill not distress you. Once we are in action, you must remain here."

"You speak of being in action, Captain," the girl exclaimed. "How soon—will it be?"

"Within the hour," he answered curtly, and withdrew.

Ascending to the deck, he rehearsed in his memory the fearful expectation mirrored in her face. She knew what he planned for Collishawe, and dreaded it. Well, he'd give her ample to weep over. When he'd finished with the Englishman—

The Centurion, at Fellowes' direction, wore handsomely, and stood northeast-by-north of the Badger's tack. The Badger, apprehending the maneuver indicated the Yankee brig intended to come to close quarters, commenced to take in her mainsail and clew up her after canvas.

Fellowes studied their progress, as the interval of blue water diminished with the persistent attempt of the Badger to point up higher than the Centurion, and when he thought the range was right for the twenty-four-pounder he bailed Cuffee!

"Aho, gunner! We'll try the Long Tom."

Cuffee's first shot skipped the waves in front of the sloop-of-war's bow. The next ricocheted over the enemy, but the third was a clean hit forward of midships, and the Centurion's company raised a lusty cheer. Collishawe, undaunted, yawned to bring his chasers to bear, the twelve-pounder shot splashing up the water perhaps a quarter of a mile short of the target.

Cuffee fired a fourth time, and scored a hit in the waist.

"Come, come, lad, 'tis a spar I want," Fellowes called impatiently.

The next shot was an over, clean betwixt main and mizzenmasts, and Collishawe, apparently appreciating the weight of metal against him, came about once more, and stood down before the wind, bow-on, in an effort to close, so that his heavy broadside batteries could come into play. But Fellowes was alert.

"Steady all," the order came from the speaking trumpet. "Take him, Cuffee. Mr. Spencer, hold your fire until I bid you loose."

Working with frenzied speed, Cuffee had the Long Tom loaded and fired almost before Fellowes had finished speaking. The shot struck the Badger on a level with the cat-heads. A second shot drilled the hull under the starboard fore-chains, tossing a shower of splinters in air.

"Now, then, Mr. Spencer," Fellowes bailed the first lieutenant.

And the Badger's twelve-pounders roared as one. All but two or three missed, but Fellowes was sure one shot had whistled through the forestays and a second hit the hull. He was satisfied.

"We'll go about, Mr. Noggle," he bade the sailing master. "On the starboard tack."

It was time. As the Centurion wore, the Badger's chase guns swung their shot into the privateer's bulwarks with telling effect. When the confusion had abated Fellowes saw one man dead on his deck, and two others wounded. The Badger had teeth, and knew how to use them.

"Carry those men below," he ordered. "Bosun, where are your sand buckets?"

The Badger pegged away with her chasers, but the Centurion ran out of range quite easily and wore ship to give the Long Tom another chance. And an exultant yell greeted Cuffee's next performance—the main topmast of the sloop-of-war tumbled slowly from the riggs in a sprawling litter of spars and canvas. Momentarily helpless, the Badger flapped up into the wind, and Fellowes swooped nearer for the benefit of his twelve-pounders. The broadsides roared as fast as the gun crews could swab, load and fire.

But Collishawe was a seaman. Before the privateer could smash another stick, he had the wreckage cleared from his deck, and the Badger manageable—and Fellowes must sheer off to avoid those hard-battering carronades that would rend the brig to matchwood at close quarters.

A half-dozen more shots from the Long Tom, and the Badger's foremast, probably weakened by the hit in the chains, went overside in a clutter that dragged the sloop-of-war down by the head. Fellowes stood on, making use of the predicament to gain a position astern of her, but by some incredible effort, Collishawe was able to run both his long twelves aft, and in the face of a scorching fire from the Centurion's starboard battery, actually succeeded in shooting away the brig's fore-topmast, blighting the Big Sarpent, killing one of Cuffee's gun crew and drowning a pair of Sogher's marines.

Fellowes, coolly determined to take no unnecessary risks, promptly retired out of range, cleared the wreckage from his fore'st'le, and again ordered Cuffee to resume sharp shooting. The negro had warmed to his work, and the Long Tom hurled its shot into the crippled sloop-of-war with appalling regularity.

Fellowes called to Cuffee: "Take your time, gunner; but I want you to knock over another stick."

Cuffee's response was a clean hit in the Badger's mizzenmast, which broke midway to the top, and swamped the whole waist with its debris. The sloop-of-war broached to, all but helpless, while the Centurion heaved across her bows, broadside batteries flaming as she tacked back and forth, back and forth, the Long Tom adding its resonant voice to the sharper detonations of the twelve-pounders. The smoke was banked so densely around the privateer that the enemy was practically invisible; but an answering broadside roared from the sloop-of-war, and the Centurion quivered under the impact of the carronades' eighteen-pounder shot.

"Starboard your helm, Mr. Noggle," bailed Fellowes. "He's swung his head around."

Methods of Escaping From Tornado's Grasp

The old time "cyclone cellar" or outdoor cave has probably been the means of saving more lives from tornadoes than anything else and is still one of the best places of refuge ever contrived. The southwest corner of the basement of a frame house is almost as safe, especially if a person crouches close against the wall. Tornadoes nearly always approach from the south or west and flying debris or perhaps the house itself will be carried away, from the southwest corner. The basement of a brick or stone house is liable to be a death trap in a tornado, as brick or masonry walls are liable to collapse and tumble down anywhere.

A person caught in the open when a tornado approaches has a choice of lying down flat in a depression or of lying flat. Tornadoes travel across the country at a rate of thirty to sixty miles per hour, usually, and escape for a person in an automobile is simple if there are highways open. A person on foot directly in the path of such a storm should run toward the northwest, which is at right angles to the storm path and toward the side where the winds are least violent.—Kansas City Times.

Long Speakership Terms

Henry Clay was speaker of the house of representatives longer than any other man. He was elected six different times, although he did not serve out six full terms or congresses. He resigned the speakership twice. Joseph O. Cannon and Champ Clark each served as speaker of the house eight years.

Dorothy's Mother Proves Claim

Children don't ordinarily take to medicines but here's one that all of them love. Perhaps it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food. It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach. It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lax bowels quick, cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Western mother, Mrs. J. G. Moore, 119 Cliff Ave., San Antonio, Texas, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that's claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Dorothy. She was a bottle baby and very delicate. Her bowels were weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and it regulated her, quick. I have used it with her ever since for colds and every little set-back and her wonderful condition tells better than words how it helps."

Don't be imposed on. See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name, "California" so you'll get the genuine, famous for 50 years.

Why Seeker of Quiet Didn't Sign That Lease

He was a writer and he lived in New York city, and he needed quiet for his work.

That apartment hunting was a problem of manifold difficulties in those circumstances goes without saying.

He couldn't be near the "L"; he couldn't be on a street where there was heavy traffic; new building going on the same block with any apartment ruled that apartment out; and the necessity for paying only a moderate price added to the trouble.

The writer, beaming with satisfaction, was just about to sign a lease.

"And you know, mister," said the superintendent, no less pleased, "we furnish a radio free with every single apartment. And when they all get going around here nothing could be cheerfuller."—New York Sun.

From Fossil Leaf Beds

Leaves millions of years old which still hold all the colors of autumn have recently been found in the newly discovered fossil leaf beds of Wheeler county, central Oregon, by Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, paleobotanist of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. The perfect preservation of the coloring in the leaf impressions is attributed to minerals in the matrix. The fossil flora found in the region is millions of years older than was first surmised, Doctor Chaney says, and probably will throw interesting light on numerous extinct plant species that formed a semitropical jungle in the Mitchell area of primeval Oregon. Doctor Chaney found in volcanic shale an intact leaf, bearing virtually the appearance it did when it fell from a jungle tree millions of years ago. This leaf was carefully sealed in its matrix and will be sent to the University of California at Berkeley.

La Politesse

Martin Beck, the New York theater marketeer, said on his return from Europe:

"Prosperity is turning France's head. The French used to be the politeest people, now they're the rudest, the most overbearing."

"An American woman in Paris told a French butcher to cut her off two pounds of beef for a stew."

"He threw a lot of bones and scraps on the scales."

"Say, look here," the American woman protested, "you're giving me about a pound of bone."

"No, I ain't," said the butcher. "You're paying for it."

Just say to your grocer Red Cross Ball Blue when buying bluing. You will be more than repaid by the results. Once tried always used.—Adv.

Movies in Daylight

Enabling the showing of home movies in daylight without darkening the room, and allowing the taking of four pictures in the same space formerly occupied by one, thus reducing the cost of film, a new type of home-movie outfit has been developed, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The cost of film has been reduced about 75 per cent by an apparatus allowing pictures to be taken crosswise, as well as lengthwise, of the camera. The film is of standard width, but gives four vision impressions instead of one in the same space.

Old Wooden Bridge

The durability of wood is well illustrated by a covered bridge at Flat creek, Fulton county, New York. The bridge is 111 years old and in good state of preservation. It is reported by the Cross-Tie Bulletin in a recent issue. It is 230 feet long and spans the Sacandaga river.

"Oil-Rite" Windmill illustrating principle of Pump, also location of Four Timken Roller Bearings

The AUTOMATIC OILING SYSTEM and lubrication of the various parts is accomplished as follows: The oil is poured into the gear case, which submerges the lower part of the double gears, including the wrist pins when at the bottom of stroke.
The rotation of the gears carries the oil up and floods the pinions, and the oil running down over the inside of the gears floods the gear shaft. The trough which is part of the hub of wheel head, maintains a level that submerges the lower part of both front and rear Timken bearings, and the surplus oil is returned to the gear case through a passage in the main frame extension. A felt oil retaining washer and paper gasket prevent any oil from working out around the wheel shaft.

AUXILIARY OIL PUMP

One of the outstanding features of the SAMSON "OIL-RITE" is the extreme simplicity, efficiency, and practicability of the pump.

The main frame on the Oil-Rite mills forms a reservoir that holds a sufficient amount of oil to lubricate the mill for one year. A sheet metal helmet completely encloses the reservoir and covers all working parts thus eliminating waste and making it dirt, rain, sleet and snow proof. No water can get in to flood the oil, no dust can blow in to grind out the bearings.
This construction prevents squeaks, rattles and gear howling brought about by insufficient lubrication, all of which is avoided in the automatically oiled "OIL-RITE" mill. The ball bearing turn table, the constant supply of oil always flooding the moving parts and the Timken roller bearings insure the owner the "OIL-RITE" mill will pump water in the slightest breeze.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Prohibition Enforcement Is Still the Chief Topic in Washington.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PROHIBITION enforcement continued to be the dominant question in Washington, and the dry leaders in congress were especially vocal in the controversy. The most important development of the week was the statement by Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington that during conferences with members of the Hoover crime commission he had been glad to learn that the commission is unanimous in agreeing that its function is to devise the best means possible for enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment. Senator Jones averred that the commission holds that the wisdom or unwisdom of the amendment is not involved in its work.

This was held to be a severe blow to the hopes of the wets, though it is hard to see how the latter could have expected the commission to try to determine the practicability of prohibition. Senator Jones asserted that the dry phase of the commission's work should be completed by July 1 and warned that a clear and convincing showing of its need will have to be made before funds for prolonging the prohibition inquiry beyond that date are made available. As Jones is prospective chairman of the senate finance committee, he will be in a position to supervise funds asked for the commission's work.

The Washington senator continued: "I find that an important report has already been given to the President. It will be submitted to the congressional joint committee sought by the President as soon as created and ready for work. Other reports will be ready soon. All seem to view the industrial alcohol situation as the most difficult one to solve properly, as well as one of the most important phases of prohibition enforcement. In working this out the commission should abate no individual and no line of business."

Senator Borah of Idaho repeated his attacks on the present dry enforcement personnel, asserting that "practically open saloons" are to be found all over the land. "When I say this," he said, "I do not mean simply New York or Chicago. I mean to state a condition which prevails throughout the country. I do not assume that you can catch every bootlegger. But the open saloon, defiant, peralant disregard of the law, day after day and month after month, with no effort being made to stop it, calls for discussion."

Mr. Borah sent one or two letters to President Hoover, and though their contents were not made public it was understood the senator offered proof of his assertions, and it was indicated that if the administration did not make use of the information given he would lay his evidence before congress. Then came F. Scott McFride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, with a statement in which he took issue with Borah's charges.

"The prohibition department has been doing good work, but there are places where conditions can be bettered," McFride said. "These will be found and corrected. The Department of Justice has had some bad spots. Mr. Mitchell has been active in correcting these but the job has yet to be completed. The most hopeful sign about the situation is the fact that the legislative officers, as well as the administrative officers, including the President, are not shirking responsibility as has been true under some former commissions and the fact that in the Capital and all over the country enforcement is responding to official insatements."

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, the unrelenting foe of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, renewed his demands that President Hoover remove the secretary from his cabinet, and also declared that Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman and Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran should be dismissed.

COAST guardmen seeking to prevent the landing of liquor near Newport, R. I., opened fire on a rum running boat, the Black Duck, and killed three members of the crew. Their action was upheld by their superiors, but the incident serves to provide more ammunition for the enemies of the Eighteenth amendment.

In old Fanoull hall, Boston, the Liberal Civic league held a mass meeting that sent to President Hoover a message asking a searching investigation of the slayings by the coast guard, and after the meeting a mob attacked the coast guard station. Celebrants of New Year's eve in the larger cities found their activities were subjected to rather less interference by the enforcement officers than in recent years. The supply of intoxicating liquor seemed unlimited, though it is admitted most of it was synthetic with bogus labels.

THOUSANDS of Washingtonians and visitors to the National Capital attended the New Year's day reception held by President and Mrs. Hoover. Among the callers were the members of the cabinet, the handsomely garbed diplomatic corps, senators and representatives and many high officers of the army and navy. Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, and Lady Isabella were the first of the long line of diplomats to wish the Hoovers a happy New Year.

The chief justice and Mrs. Taft were missing from the White House reception for the first time in years, owing to the death of Charles P. Taft. Over in Berlin President von Hindenburg for the first time held a similar reception. The diplomats there disputed over the matter of precedence, for their dean is the ambassador from Russia and the representatives of the United States and other powers that have not recognized the Soviets naturally would not follow him. Finally it was agreed that the French ambassador, Do Margerie, should lead the way and present to the president the good wishes of the diplomats.

IF JOUETT SHOUSE, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, knows what he is talking about, we are not likely to have a new tariff act in the near future. He issued a statement in Lexington in which he said that either the coalition tariff measure, which attempts to carry out the promise of real tariff benefits for the farmers, will be enacted or there will be no tariff bill at all. "That latter," he said, "is the more probable outcome, which means that months and months of congressional sessions have been utterly wasted because of the effort to jam through a tariff revision that had no reason in economy or justifiable excuse at this time."

INDIA'S Nationalists under the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi have taken a bold step toward independence for their country. The national congress, with only six dissenting votes out of 2,000, adopted Gandhi's resolution for a middle course toward the objective. The resolution authorized the all-India congress committee, an executive body of about 300 members, to launch, whenever it thinks the time ripe, a program of civil disobedience to include non-payment of taxes and similar resistance to British rule. The Indian Liberal federation has accepted the British declaration of ultimate dominion status for India.

ALL British Samoa was stirred by an event that, while not bulking large in world affairs, was a real tragedy to the natives of those islands. Two white men who have championed the demands of the natives that they be treated by the New Zealand government as equals instead of subjects returned to Apia and the Samoans gathered to welcome them. The police tried to arrest one of the white men and a riot resulted. The police opened fire with machine guns, and nine men were killed, including Taimanua, high chief and an opposition leader. Western Samoa has been under mandate to New Zealand since 1920 and the natives are forced to pay heavy taxes for the support of a horde of useless officials, as well as being subjected to oppressive laws and regulations. The Mau, or native league, is trying to get New Zealand to give up its mandate, wishing the islands to be taken over by the United States and consolidated with Eastern Samoa. Of course the New Zealand government refuses to consider such a plan.

PRINCE CAROL seemingly is still trying to gain the throne of Rumania, and Italy is reported to have espoused his cause in a way that has aroused the anger of the Rumanians. Recently Signor Precoia, Italian minister to Bucharest, called at the Rumanian foreign office and informed it in the name of the Italian government that Italy considered it necessary to regularize the dynastic succession to the Rumanian throne and that Prince Carol should be recalled to Rumania and crowned king.

The Rumanians do not dare to make effectual protest against this interference in their internal affairs for they fear they would be isolated in their quarrel with Jugoslavia, which they and Italy regard as an enemy.

THERE was great rejoicing and celebration in China over the announcement of the Nationalist government that extraterritoriality was to be summarily ended on January 1. But the state council's mandate evidently was issued for home consumption and it had little or no effect in the treaty ports, where the foreign officials still declined to let their nationals be tried in native courts. Foreign Minister C. T. Wang said his government was prepared to consider and discuss, within a reasonable time, any representations made by foreign nations with reference to the Chinese decision to end the consular court system and assume legal jurisdiction over foreigners.

SENATOR FREDERICK M. SACKETT of Kentucky has been selected as ambassador to Germany. He was cruising in the West Indies when informed of this fact and that the German government had announced that his appointment was acceptable to it. Mr. Sackett started back to Washington at once, saying he would resign from the senate and soon be ready to leave for Berlin.

KENNETH HAWKS, movie director and sportsman, and nine other men engaged in the fitting of venture-scene air "shots," were huried to death in the Pacific ocean in two tangled, blazing monoplane off the Palos Verdes hills, 25 miles from Los Angeles. Eyewitnesses said that one of the two planes poised above the other and then, as if the pilot had lost his vision in the piercing rays of the setting sun, had darted down and struck the top of the lower plane. After a momentary shudder a wing broke and one of the planes exploded. The other plane, tangled in the debris of its blazing companion, became engulfed in flames and the two swept down to the depths of the ocean.

SCOTLAND'S worst tragedy of 1929 came just at the close of the year. A moving picture theater at Paisley was thronged with children attending a gala performance when fire broke out in the projection booth. Panic ensued, and within a few moments seventy little ones were dead and scores injured.

MOST noteworthy of the deaths of the week was that of Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati newspaper publisher and half-brother of William Howard Taft, former President and now chief justice of the United States Supreme court. Eighteen months ago Mr. Taft was stricken with pneumonia and he never had fully recovered. He had a distinguished career as a lawyer and publisher, served one term in congress and was prominent in state and civic affairs.

NEW YEAR'S day was Football day in California. In the great Rose Bowl at Pasadena the University of Southern California met the undefeated team from the University of Pittsburgh and fairly stomped it, winning by a score of 47 to 14. In San Francisco teams of star college players from the East and the West battled in a game for charity, the Northwestern scoring 9 points to 5 for their rivals.

District Judge Reed Hoffmann of New Mexico held that lease holders who convert their old oil leases under section 14 of the 1925 oil lease code are entitled to a new lease for a full five-year period. Judge Hoffmann, therefore, granted the mandamus sought by the Atlantic Oil and Producing Company to compel State Land Commissioner A. D. Crife to grant it a full five-year lease in place of its old lease and instead of a lease for the unexpired term only. Dr. Crife had held that section 14 entitled the holder to a new lease but only for the unexpired term.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

"Hello! Hello! How Much Does Happiness Cost?"

Only the price of learning a simple health rule, this smiling youngster finds!

"HAPPINESS just radiates from our baby since we began giving her—"

What was it that Mrs. Fred E. Schmitt of 2023 Stone Street, Falls City, Nebraska, discovered, which she could give to her baby that made her happy, well, strong and buoyant?

Not a medicine; not a drug of any kind; just harmless bodily lubrication. Only that, and nothing more. Mrs. Schmitt's discovery that little Barbara kept well when she was made regular as clock work is the same discovery as has been made by millions of other people, who are enjoying the happiness of health because they use Nujol.

Babies, old folks, people in the prime of life—all alike need to have the bodily poisons (we all have them) regularly cleaned out. Nujol just gently, naturally, normally lubricates the action of your body which needs lubrication as much as any other machine.

Please remember that Nujol contains no drugs; is non-fattening; is not absorbed in any way by the body; can form no habit; cannot hurt you, no matter how much you take. All it can do is keep you internally clean, and make you continually feel better. Colorless, tasteless as pure water, Nujol will make you see the bright side of life; it will help you to get the most out of your life; it will make you wake up in the morning feeling fit, and help you to do a good day's work with a smile.

Millions of people have discovered this fact—why don't you? You can buy Nujol in sealed packages at all drug stores. It costs but a few cents, and makes you feel like a million dollars. Get a bottle today and see how brimming beautiful health will boost your day's happiness.

A Stimulant Diuretic to the Kidneys

Students of University of Athens Do Some Rioting

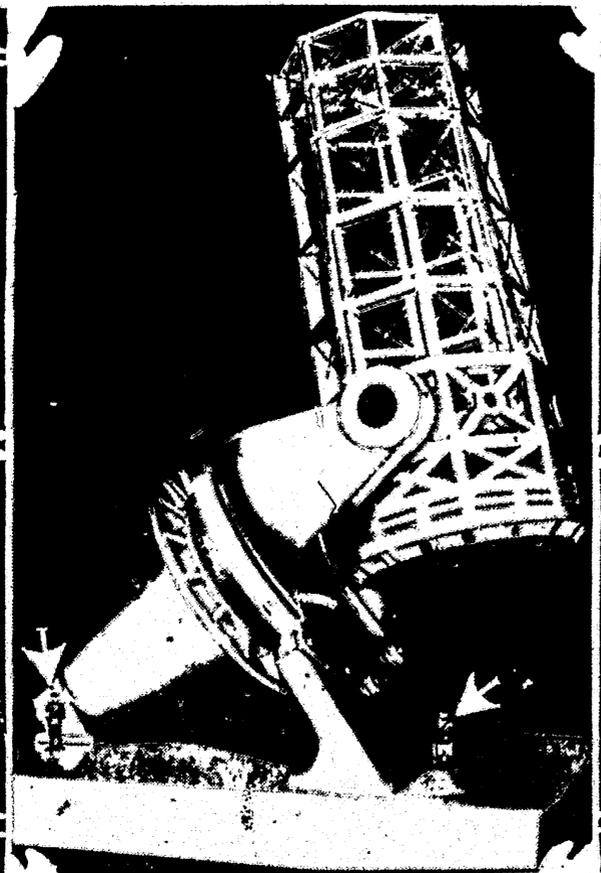

A band of students of the University of Athens, armed with clubs, staging a riot which was stopped only by the intervention of the police and a threat from the government to close the university for a year. Cablegrams didn't tell what it was all about.

Behind the Bars for Bootleg Boats

Shorn of all their glamor, these bootleggers' boats are shown as they were brought to an ignominious rout behind the bars. They are being held "prisoners" by the United States border patrol of Detroit. This is perhaps the only "boat jail" in America.

Largest Telescope Is Projected

Here is a rough model of the largest telescope, a reflecting eye penetrating into the reaches of space, that is to be built and put to work in southern California or Arizona. The mirror disk is to be 200 inches in diameter. Details of this epochal forward step in science have been prepared by Dr. George Ellery Hale, honorary director of Mt. Wilson Observatory and chairman of the observatory council of the California Institute of Technology. The human figures by the model give an idea of the size of the telescope.

TOLD IN A FEW LINES

Last year 5,500,000 tons of soy beans were produced in Manchuria. The Greek physician Hippocrates, writing in 450 B. C., warned against drinking iced waters in time of summer heat.

The chief mineral wealth of Vermont lies in its granite and marble quarries.

The steamer Prince Olav, formerly the British royal yacht Alexandra, will be placed in passenger service out of Miami, Fla., to the Bahamas and West Indies this winter.

SEEKS HIGHER POST

Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera, minister of Colombia in Washington, has announced that he is to be a candidate for the presidency of the republic in the elections that will take place during the first week of February.

INTERESTS SCIENCE

Miss Margaret F. MacIntyre of Plainfield, N. J., twenty-three years old, has been termed a "physiological celebrity" by scientists because she breathes only from three to five times a minute, while the average adult breathes 15 to 18 times a minute. No similar case has ever been heard of.

TAKE IT FROM DAD

By Frank H. Cheley

How to Get the Job You Want and Keep It

"Dad, we had a peach of a speaker at our assembly today, on the 'High Cost of Living.' Set us all to thinking that perhaps we aren't as industrious as we ought to be and that, as he said, 'killing time is suicide.' So, I'm looking for a job! But the trouble is, how's a fellow going to get the job he wants—and then keep it?"

Mr. Smithhough laughed outright, "Bob, I hope your streak of industry has come to stay. I think myself it's about time you began to cash some of your spare time both from the standpoint of learning to work, which is a very real accomplishment, as well as from the standpoint of financial return. College days are not so far away, and boy, they do take cash. Undoubtedly, one of the outstanding characteristics of successful men is that somewhere, sometime, they learned to work. These days we hear a good deal about 'lucky breaks' and 'pull' and all the rest but let me tell you one thing now; things in this world never just happen. There is always a reason for everything; so with successful accomplishment. It is not the result of lucky breaks; it is not a thing of chance except in the movies. It comes to men only because they work hard and intelligently for it and along legitimate lines.

"Now, as I understand it, you want to know what your prospects are; how to get a truly desirable job, and then how to keep it. Well, as you know, I have some rather definite convictions along those very lines and I don't mind in the least sharing them with you—not by way of advice, however, but by way of observations—then you go to it and try them out for yourself. However, let me say positively that it is tremendously important that you do some thinking about jobs in general before you set out to hunt one in particular. Bear in mind that it is the potentiality of your job which should make it attractive, not necessarily the pay check. What are you learning while you are earning is the important point. Many men pay mighty dearly for their pay checks in what they learn in bad morals and wrong attitudes.

"The second point I'd like to get fixed in your mind is that if possible there should be some definite connection between the work you seek and the thing you are aiming at doing ultimately. One would not be going to an engineering school to learn to become a doctor nor working in a hospital if he hoped to become a great mechanical engineer. There must be some consistency.

"The third point is this: Success and wealth are not one and the same thing. In past years we have had a perfect deluge of success literature and it has left an entirely wrong impression. Every normal man of course desires to make a good living—that is entirely legitimate, but let's make a good life first—useful, creative, in some realm and dedicated to the improvement of mankind. No other sort of a life is legitimate. Get a definite purpose established. Bob, and then set out to make school and job and reading and travel and friends and contacts all help you accomplish that purpose. Apparently your work is going to be some sort of human engineering—you enjoy people rather than things. You seem to be dominated with altruistic motives. So let's find a job that will cast you with folks; meeting people; serving people in some capacity rather than cleaning machinery or keeping books or driving a car. One of the cardinal principles of finding the right job and keeping it lies in finding work which interests you. Having found a job that fits into your scheme of things and that interests and challenges you, then give it the very best you have.

"Of course you will have to begin at the bottom. Don't expect to be made vice president of the concern in a week merely because you're good looking! Determination, loyalty, integrity and perseverance are the factors in holding a desirable job after you get one. The same staff it takes to get a desirable job it takes to hold one. "Never work for any man to whom you cannot be loyal, personally, and to the standards of his business as well. To be efficient you must maintain always your own self-respect. "Give full hours and an extra good measure always. The minute you begin working by the clock you join that vast army of folks who have no future in anything because they are 'getters' instead of 'givers.' Besides, the most common type of dishonesty today is 'stealing time.' When you make another contract with yourself to do better than is necessary, then you will love your work and your work will prosper amazingly.

"Now, Bob, about finding the job—that's up to you; a test of your own integrity and perseverance. "In other words, Dad, it's strictly up to me, eh—all I get from you is some sound advice and your moral support?"

"That's it, boy, what more do you want, being a Smithhough?"

Lesson for January 19

JESUS BEGINS HIS MINISTRY

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:12-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Chooses Some Helpers. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Begins His Ministry. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Began His Ministry. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Comprehensive Program of Jesus.

Jesus began His official work as Messiah at Jerusalem where He presented Himself to the men of the Jewish nation.

1. The King His Own Herald (vv. 12-17).

The news of the imprisonment of John the Baptist caused Jesus to forsake Judea and go into Galilee. The fate of John was accepted as foreshadowing His own. The rejection of the forerunner meant the rejection of the King, whose advent he proclaimed. Because of this He withdrew from the metropolis and went to the remote regions where His work would attract less attention.

2. To whom the proclamation was made (vv. 13-16).

It was to the people at Capernaum in fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy (61:1,2). These people were not blessed with such privileges as those in and around Jerusalem. Thus we see that the darkest and most corrupt of the provinces was getting the light first. In this we see a foreshadowing of the present age, when the gospel of the grace of God is being preached to the Gentiles.

3. His message (v. 17).

"Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." This is the early kingdom which John the Baptist and the Old Testament prophets proclaimed. It means the Messianic earth rule of Jesus Christ. It is for this we pray when we intelligently say, "Thy kingdom come." At that time the light will break forth which shall illumine the whole earth.

4. The King Calling to Himself Assistants (vv. 18-22).

1. His command of authority (vv. 18, 19).

He did not endeavor to persuade them, and He did not use arguments but issued the mandate. To command is the King's prerogative—not to argue or entreat.

2. The station of the servants called (vv. 19, 21).

They were men of lowly birth and occupation—fishermen. God chooses the foolish things of this world to confound the wise and the weak things to confound the things which are mighty (1 Cor. 1:20).

3. They were called to definite service (v. 19).

"I will make you fishers of men." He had previously called them to be disciples (John 1:36-42). He now called them to service. This call therefore was not the gospel call to sinners which is "believe on me," but the call to service of those who have already heeded His call to discipleship. The qualities which made for good fishers—patience, bravery to face the storm and the night, the perseverance which tolled all night though no fish were caught—would make for good fishers of men.

4. Their prompt obedience (vv. 20, 22).

They put their trust in Him who called, believing that He was able to supply their needs. There is no time for delay when the King commands.

5. The King's Triumphant Progress (vv. 23-25).

He went the whole round of Galilee, teaching the Scriptures, preaching the Gospel of the Kingdom, and healing all manner of diseases. He did a threefold work:

1. Teaching the Scriptures in the synagogues (v. 23).

The revelation of God needed to be explained. This is what He was doing in Nazareth (Luke 4:16-22). Such is the primary business of every minister.

2. Preaching the glad tidings of the kingdom (v. 23).

The King who was present and was heralding His own mission, was ready to establish His kingdom if they would have been willing to receive Him.

3. Healing all manner of diseases (vv. 23-25).

"His fame went throughout all Syria, and they brought unto Him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatic, and those that had the palsy; and He healed them."

What God Has to Tell Us

If we think no more of ourselves than we ought to think, if we seek not our own but others' welfare, if we are prepared to take all things as God's dealings with us, then we may have a chance of catching from time to time what God has to tell us.

Paying Toll to the Devil

Carrizozo boys will play Bowie HI of El Paso tonight, on the local court. This team played here last year and many remember what interesting game it was. Bowie is playing as good basketball as last year and undoubtedly this will be the best boys' game of the season.

Both of our teams will go to Capitan tomorrow night. The close rivalry between these teams will make the games very interesting. Give Carrizozo your support, for all will be hard games.

Weather Conditions

In the northern part of the country are to the effect that heavy snows prevail in the Corona locality and the thermometer has been hovering around the zero mark and several nights of last week, it dropped as low as 9 below. The snow fell to a depth of one foot in many places, but there was an absence of high winds, which will allow the snow to melt evenly and be of great benefit to the range and bean fields. It will be a grand and glorious feeling for the bean farmers and stockmen to have another season like the one of '29 with the abundance of beans and good fat condition of cattle and sheep.
