To Terrify Terrorists.
Another Attempt to Kill
For Gold Star Mothers
Women Spend 53 Billions

Los Angeles, Calif.—The shooting of the Mexican president, his wife and another, none killed, fortunately, will mean drastic action in Mexico. No nation will tolerate, even in civilized times, a campaign for the control of government by murder. Back of the young hand that fired the shots there stands in the shadow some murderous organization, relying on terror and using servile tools for its purpose.

Ortiz Rubio and the powerful Fortes Gil, former president, now Rubio's secretary of the interior, will find a way to terrify the terrorists.

Before the would-be murderer shot him, Ortiz Rubio, in his brief inauguration address, had promised that all classes of Mexicans "should enjoy the privilege of being classed as men." Those familiar with conditions under which Mexico's lower classes have lived, and with the attitude toward them of the upper classes, will know what that means to the Mexican under dog.

Congress votes more than $5,000,000 that "gold star" mothers may visit their sons' graves in France. Of 11,000 mothers entitled to go, 6,000 have expressed a desire to go. Many cannot go, because of duties at home. Others, perhaps, dread the sorrowful shock. To those that do not go, congress should pay in cash the pro rata amount that it would cost to send them, about $1,000. No other course would be fair.

Texas has an "anti-chain store association" to drive and keep out chain stores owned outside the state. The governor and other high officials are said to indorse the association, which seeks to protect thousands of small merchants, driven to the wall by chain-store efficiency and economy.

Another attempted murder among our Latin-American friends. An attempt, fortunately a failure, is made on the life of Mello Vianna, vice president of Brazil. As in the recent Mexican outrage, the man attacked was making a political address and the would-be murderer was moved by political hatreds. Only harsh severity can meet such an assassination epidemic.

Richard Stewart, rug merchant of Warren, Ohio, is in jail. Judge Perry found him guilty of molesting a woman. Stewart offers an excuse as old as Adam: "The woman led me on." In jail Stewart refuses to eat. It would have been fortunate for Adam, and for us, but bad for the clothing business, had Adam likewise refused to eat.

Charles Evans Hughes returns to the Supreme court as chief justice, at President Hoover's request. In him the people have a brilliantly able man, worthy to take Mr. Taft's place. And from Mr. Hughes' acceptance of the position you learn that honor and opportunity to be useful are more important than financial profit. Mr. Hughes gives up a private law practice worth more than $500,000 a year for the small salary and great opportunity of the Supreme bench.

Chicago's Retail Advertising Institute is told that American women spend every year fifty-three billion dollars.

A million is a great deal. A thousand millions is a very great deal. Fifty-three thousand millions spent by the women in this country is an extraordinary amount of money.

The rich, in this happy land, very happy for some, are richer than they ever were. The Treasury department tells you there were 486 Americans in 1928 with annual incomes above $1,000,000. The total on which they paid income tax was one thousand and seventy-three millions.

And, as you know, this represents only a fraction of the really big incomes. There are men with incomes above one hundred millions each. Their money is in great corporations. The latter re-invest their earnings and hand stock dividends instead of cash to the big controlling stockholders. On such dividends, in accordance with Supreme court decisions, the really rich men pay no income tax.

One man, with much more than a hundred millions income, paid, as shown in reports once published, only six millions income tax. Without the stock dividend device he would have paid forty millions at least. A lot of salary earners and professional men pass up the difference.

The Corona-Albuquerque basketball game played Saturday night on an Albuquerque court, was not lacking in thrills. The score was tied 6 times and at the final whistle, stood 17-17, but the extra 2 minutes gave Albuquerque one goal, making the score 19-17. Numerous substitutions by the other side did not noticeably affect the game which was one of the hardest for Albuquerque this season. More than 12 people from Corona drove over to see the game.

FORT STANTON NEWS

R. S. Fagan, Mrs. Fagan, daughter Betty, Mrs. Coover, Mrs. Fagan's mother and Miss Charlotte Rice were Carrizozo visitors Wednesday.

Saturday afternoon, the Fort Stanton Sunday School held a picnic on the Bonito picnic grounds. Mmes. Burleson and Coover acted as hostesses, assisted by Mmes. Hendren and Fagan. Games were played and refreshments served during the afternoon and an enjoyable time was had by all.

One of the best basketball games ever played in this section was played last week-end, the Littlemac team from Muscatine, Iowa, meeting the Fort team. The Iowa team showed several college stars, each one being an exceptional basketball shooter. The visitors started off with a rush, taking the locals off their feet and leading at the half. Our boys got together during the intermission and evolved a system that solved the attack of the visitors and immediately the game took on a different hue. Werner was injected into the game at guard and with this brawny young giant in there, he was able to rough it with all of them, stopping several shots by clever guarding. Parker began getting the range then and with Evans and Traylor warming up on the team work, the Fort team started functioning and with only a minute and a half to play Parker looped in the winning basket from the side of the court and the game ended 23-21 in favor of Stanton. One of the largest crowds of the season turned out for the game. The Iowa team was one of the cleanest playing teams appearing around here and it is hoped they will come again.

Many local fans journeyed over to see the Tularosa-Capitan games last Friday night. The Capitan girls were too much for the Tularosa girls, winning by a big margin. The boys did not fare so well, losing a closely played game. After the games the Hi School gave a dance for the visitors and several of the Fort boys performed with the orchestra. Henry Hobbs taking a leading part with his saxophone.

Masons Hold Monster Communication

In answer to the call in last week's Outlook, one of the biggest Masonic communications was held Wednesday night, when three candidates received the Third Degree of Masonry. The work began at 4:30 in the afternoon and lasted until 6:30, when the Masons met at the Carrizozo Eating House, where a delicious banquet was served, supervised by the genial hostess, Mrs. E. H. Sweet and daughter Louise.

After the banquet, the assemblage which filled the dining room, returned to the Masonic Temple and the unfinished labor was taken up and continued until the stroke of "low twelve." Aside from the attendance of local Masons, a goodly number were present from out-of-town, as follows: A. R. Allen, J. E. Hight, J. A. Elrod, R. L. Nations, C. R. Young, J. H. Lucas, L. R. Richards, Sr., L. R. Richards, Jr., Vaughn; G. S. Hoover, J. A. Brubaker, C. V. Koogler, P. R. Phillips, Ed Kellar, Perry Sears, Capitan; W. Gould, D. RADIO RUBE'S R-A-M-B-L-I-N-G-S

With the coming of springtime, along comes Old Man Static, nosing around to see how much trouble and confusion he can stir up. You will tune in on some station and settle down to enjoy a nice musical program, when the reception will begin to snuffla, snort and create all kinds of 'dido's.' It will be ever thus, until the day comes when the telephone companies become strong enough to take over the radio and run it over the wires, or some unforeseen invention will be devised to do away with this trouble—but the great wizard, Thomas A. Edison says, the static, like the poor, we will always have with us. But you can avoid a lot of this trouble by rambling over the different stations until you get out of the storm belt and then you'll have clear sailing.

Some funny things are heard over the radio, when you are rambling about -- for instance, the Fort Stanton boys tell about a seafaring play that was sent over the National Broadcasting Company's stations one night this week. During the play, something happened which greatly surprised the Captain, who yelled out—"Bless my Rudder."

Last Sunday night, Feb. 9th, came a real musical feast from station WLW at Cincinnati. The Cincinnati Symphony orchestra played, and among the numbers heard were the "Queen of Sheba" march by Guonod; "Triumphal March" from Verdi's opera "Aida"; "Festival Overture" and "Tit's Serenade" for French Horn and flute. There was no disturbance during the program and the music was so sweet and sublime, that it seemed to be wafted from some little white ship on an endless sea, over peaceful waters. The Cincinnati Symphony orchestra is heard every Sunday evening over WLW.

A little nonsense, now and then, is relished by the best of men, sang a bard of ye olden time and so it is with us at the present time. Amos n' Andy still continue to amuse people and especially so one night this week, after Amos had about made up his mind that Ruby Taylor was about to forsake him. Amos in tears, was something different from his usual manner and the stunt was funny in the extreme.

We have heard of all kinds of widows, but the radio widow is the latest. In a certain town, a wife sued for divorce on the grounds that her husband paid no attention to anything else about the house except the radio. He would let the furnace go out, sit and listen in when it was 20 below zero, when there was plenty of coal in the cellar. He refused to come to his meals and his conduct became so annoying that she was forced to resort to extreme measures. It is said that the radio dealers in that city, offered to advance the head of the family with funds to fight the case.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haven were here from Three Rivers Wednesday evening. John attending the Masonic meeting.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Naval Parley Getting Down to Business—Spain's Dictator Resigns.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MOVING slowly and not very surely toward their goal, the delegates to the five power naval conference in London spent another week mainly in private conversations designed to develop national programs some radio addresses and one plenary session. The correspondents made such a fuss about being excluded that room was provided for a number of them at the session and the others "listened in" by microphone.

At the meeting on Thursday the delegates told something about the program they had made toward an agreement on preliminaries. Prime Minister MacDonald had had talks with the French, Italian and Japanese, and Dino Grandi of Italy had been pressed to agree that Mussolini's proposal for the immediate establishment of ratios should be enounced later. Explanation was given by Mr. Gibson of the Franco-American compromise between global tonnage and category theories of measurement of fleet strengths which was alluded to in these columns last week. The agreement is based on a maximum of transfer tonnage yearly from one category to another, and it was understood that a percentage of one-sixth of the total of any category might be accepted as the amount of tonnage possible to transfer. The matter was referred to a steering committee on motion of Mr. Stimson.

Mr. MacDonald opened the session by stating that its main purpose was to consider the agenda. He explained that there had been wide exchanges of opinion and declared "gratifying progress" had been made.

The questions proposed by the French were: First, the system of global tonnage and the French transitional proposal; second, what classifications are to be adopted; and, third, the transfer of tonnage and the conditions to be applied to such a transfer under the British system of limitation by categories.

Italy proposed that the determination of ratios should be the first step and that the determination of levels of total tonnage of the various nations should then follow.

After adjournment Mr. MacDonald, who is chairman, told the correspondents: "I think we are now within measurable distance of solving the problem which up to now has not been soluble. Mind, I do not say that we are agreed as yet, but I think the steering committee will report agreement. The differences between us are so small that were you to put a candle to them, you could see through the wall of controversy." MacDonald emphasized, however, that Great Britain could not accept the global tonnage theory as now presented, saying: "There would be continued competition within categories."

IN A radio address to British and American hearers Mr. Stimson indicated that the American delegation had decided that the five-year extension of the present battleship building holiday would be the principal result of the conference. It seemed as if he had abandoned the program for cruiser reduction which was desired by President Hoover. The objectives of the United States, as outlined by Mr. Stimson, were summarized thus: 1. Parity between the British and American navies in "power and efficiency."

2. A reduction of the battleship building programs of all naval powers by postponing the five-year replacement of present capital ships, provided for by the Washington treaty.

3. Ending the rivalry in cruiser and destroyer building by limitation of the number and tonnage of these classes of surface craft.

4. Abolition of submarines, or, in any event, the reduction of their number, and prohibition of their ruthless use against merchant ships.

might be alarmed by stories of crises and of the danger that the interests of the United States were being sacrificed, the secretary of state concluded: "The members of the American delegation here in one capacity or another went through the great war. Most of us have had to study national defense in the course of our official duties. We are united in believing that our national defense, our national interests, and our prospects will continue; peace and prosperity can best be served by naval limitation and its consequent good will.

"In the belief that the same agreement, which holds out such prospects, for us holds equal prospects for the other nations here, we go at our task with the assurance of the support of the people of these five great nations."

ONE of the interesting points brought out by conversations among the experts attached to the various delegations is that France and Italy must have warships large enough to store wine casks for the crews, and the extra displacement and greater tonnage required for this purpose is something to be considered, especially in regard to the smaller submarines and the torpedo boats. There were many social entertainments for the delegates during the week, and these were never without their diplomatic importance. Some of the Americans spent the week-end at Warren House, Stansmore, the handsome country place tened by Mr. Stimson. It was announced that all the delegates would meet the duke and duchess of York at a banquet and reception on February 19, to be given by the marquis and marchioness of Londonderry. Tuxes and full evening dress will be worn by the women, and court dress of black satin-knee-length and silk stockings will adorn the gentlemen.

GEN. PRIMO DE RIVERA, for six years premier and dictator of Spain, resigned last week under virtual compulsion, and the country at once went into spasms that, it was thought, might ultimately result in the abolition of the monarchy. The dictator had put up to the chief officers of the army and navy the question of his resignation and their decision being against him, he stepped down. King Alfonso gave the job of premier to Gen. Damazo Berenguer, chief of his military household and inveterate enemy of de Rivera, and two days later Berenguer announced his cabinet, to which he took the portfolio of minister of war as well as premier.

Even before he had formed the new government the forces in opposition to Berenguer were gathering in Madrid. De Rivera, evidently believing a dictator might be down without being out, took the leadership of the Patriotic Union against his successor, and there were indications that the old charges against Berenguer in connection with the Moroccan disaster of eight years ago would be revived. There were riotous demonstrations by students and republicans which were suppressed by the troops. It was made plain that General Berenguer would rule with an iron hand until the government is firmly established. One of his first acts was the establishment of strict censorship. He announced that parliament by elections and the constitution of 1876 would be re-established. Dispatches from Madrid said it was certain Berenguer had the support of King Alfonso and the conservative leaders, but that the danger of a revolution was not exaggerated. Primo de Rivera was quoted as saying Spain still needed a dictator and that he would "continue to serve the country and give my life if necessary."

CARL BEN EISELSON, arctic aviator, and Earl Bortand, his mechanic, perished on the coast of Siberia about ninety miles east of North Cape. The wreckage of their plane was found by Elnor Crosson and Gilliam and was easily identified. At this writing searching parties are still trying to find the bodies of the unfortunate flyers. Eiselson and Bortand were engaged in transporting passengers and furs from an icebound steamer. Their plane evidently crashed when traveling at high speed and the disaster was believed to be due to a faulty altimeter on which Eiselson relied when a snowstorm wiped out his visibility.

SENATOR ROBINSON of Indiana, the only regular Republican on the senate's lobbying committee, was foiled in his attempt to show a connection between Senator King of Utah, Democrat, and the German dye trust. It was brought out before the committee that contributions to King's campaign fund were made by Herman A. Metz, American agent of the German monopoly, but when put on the stand Metz developed a conveniently faulty memory and said he had kept no record of those contributions. He admitted he sent a check for $1,000 to King in 1923 because he was interested in the campaign of his friend Al Smith. This check, King had asserted, was not cashed and was torn up by him. Metz is an official of the American I. G., a subsidiary of the German concern. He denounced as monstrous the idea that the American company was organized to control the dye and chemical industry here until American competition could be smothered and the German interests come into the open. The low tariff members of the committee treated the dyestuff man with great consideration, but Chairman Caraway was so rough with A. L. Fubel, secretary of the American Tariff League, that they almost came to blows.

WEST members of congress were elated by the announcement that the house judiciary committee would hold public hearings on measures to repeal the Eighteenth amendment, starting February 12. There isn't the slightest chance that any of the bills for repeal or modification will get through the house, which is overwhelmingly dry, but the opponents of prohibition in its present form will have a chance to present their arguments and facts and figures. The drys will have the same opportunity. The wet measures before the committee include the Cochran resolution to repeal the Eighteenth amendment; the La Guardia resolution proposing an amendment to restore liquor control to the states; the Sabbath, Igoe and Chaney resolutions to repeal the Volstead act; the Cochran resolution to permit 3 per cent wine and beer; and the Norton resolution calling for a national referendum on the Eighteenth amendment.

Attorney General Mitchell, in a letter to the expenditure committee of the house, gave notice that the employees of the Department of Justice must be dry by practice and profession, and that candidates for appointment must measure up to this. "I believe," he wrote, "that no man who makes a practice of drinking intoxicating liquor, or who has definite or pronounced views in opposition to prohibition, belongs in any post having directly to do with the prosecution of cases under the national prohibition act. It seems to me that such men had better seek positions in some other branch of the government or a private occupation."

CHAIRMAN LEGGE of the federal farm board and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, speaking over the radio, strongly urged farmers to hold down the production of surplus crops in order to help in the work of restoring their prosperity. Both speakers called attention to the outlook report of the Department of Agriculture, just issued, predicting little if any increase in farm commodity prices during 1930 if overproduction continues.

Messrs. Hyde and Legge then called on President Hoover and told him that Eastern life insurance companies are complicating the farm situation by curtailing purchase of farm mortgages in the Mississippi valley states. Unless this policy on the part of life insurance companies is changed, Mr. Hyde told the President, large scale foreclosures of farm land are certain to result.

NOTABLES taken by death during the week included Bishop Charles F. Anderson of Chicago, primate of the Episcopal church of America; Miss Sunny Dutton, Honorary Grand opera prima donna; Dr. Harry E. Hatcher, president emeritus of the University of Michigan; Mrs. Rebecca L. Follen of Georgia, the only woman ever to hold a seat in the United States senate; Rear Admiral W. W. Kimball and Thomas Swenson and Gen. David S. Gordon and Harry Taylor.

JESUS HEALING AND HELPING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 8:1-34. GOLDEN TEXT—Himself took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Healing and Helping. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Healing and Helping. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Friend of the Needy. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

I. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:1-4). 1. The dreadful disease (v. 2). Leprosy, the most loathsome and hopeless disease known, in the Jewish ritual, was regarded as a symbol of sin. As leprosy was incurable by man, so only the divine physician could cure sin.

2. The leper's faith (v. 2). His cry was most pitiable, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but not certain that He was willing to heal him.

3. Jesus' power (v. 3). He put forth His hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease depart, and instantly the man was cleansed.

II. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:5-13). 1. The disease (v. 6). The victim of paralysis is helpless and disqualified for service.

2. The centurion's humility (v. 8). He first sent the Jewish elders and then his friends (Luke 7:2, 6), because he felt his unworthiness. The case of this servant was so grave that his master brushed aside his timidity and personally appealed to Jesus.

3. The centurion's faith (vv. 8, 9). He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word, his servant would be healed.

4. The wonderful power of Jesus (v. 10). He did not need even to see the helpless man, but only to speak the word and it was done.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-law (8:14, 15). She was sick of a fever. Jesus was invited into Peter's home to heal this woman. Upon entering the home He touched the hand of the patient and the fever left her, and she arose and ministered unto them.

IV. Jesus Casts Out Demons (8:28-34). After stilling the tempest, Jesus crossed to the other side of the sea into heathen territory.

1. Met by two men possessed by demons (v. 28). These men were in a desperate condition (see Mark 5:1-7 and Luke 8:27). So fierce were they that no one could safely pass that way. They wore no raiment and no chains were strong enough to hold them.

2. What they knew about Christ (v. 29). They knew that He was the Son of God and that He had come to destroy the devil and his work. Among the demons there is no doubt as to the deity of Jesus Christ and as to the judgment to come.

3. Christ's power to deliver from the devil (v. 30-32). The demons quailed before Him, not daring to dispute His power.

V. Jesus Heals a Woman With an Issue of Blood (9:20-22). 1. Her helpless condition (v. 20). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years, not only from the disease, but at the hands of the physicians (Mark 5:20).

2. Her faith (v. 21). Her faith was so strong that she believed contact with the Master's garment would secure needed help.

3. Her confession (v. 21, cf. Luke 8:47). She thought secretly to get the blessing, but Jesus perceived that virtue had gone out from Him, and had her make a public confession.

4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 22). He told her that it was her faith, not her touch that saved her.

VI. Jesus Opening the Eyes of Two Blind Men (9:27-31). 1. Their persistence of faith (v. 28). These poor men had heard of the wonderful works of Jesus and desired to be healed.

2. The intelligence of faith (v. 27). They cried unto Him as the Son of David, which showed that they recognized Him as the promised Messiah. The prophet had foretold such to be the works of Messiah (Isa. 29:18; 35:5; 42:7).

3. The challenge of faith (v. 28). In reply to His challenge, they gave Him a definite answer.

4. The triumph of faith (vv. 29, 30). Their faith brought them into touch with the Lord of life who revealed His power by opening their eyes.

Makes Life Sweeter

Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia! When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose. No household should be without it. Phillips is the genuine, prescription product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Study Oat Culture. Oats rank third in importance of cereals produced in this country, but in attention they are somewhat near the bottom of the list. Oats have been more or less taken for granted, with the result that the crop has frequently been found unprofitable.

A greater study of the oat and its possibilities is being carried on by the Department of Agriculture, particularly in relation to varieties and better methods of culture. Much has already been accomplished, and the department is ready to advise with farmers on how to better the returns.—Washington Star.

Good Things for the Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

When over the fair fame of friend or foe

Instead
Of words of blame, or proof of

Let something good be said.
—Riley.

Most of us think of molasses as an old-fashioned sirup which was used in grandmother's day to sweeten the ginger bread, cookies and juicy pies, that gave an aroma to her pantry which we never forget.

However, molasses goes back much farther than grandmother's pantry, for our Puritan grandparents used molasses in all their cookery, and the full molasses keg was a large part of the food equipment. It was eaten with mush and cereals, on griddle cakes and all kinds of bread, sweetened dried apple pies, baked ham, cakes and puddings, as there was no sugar in those days, such as we commonly use now.

The children enjoyed the molasses candy pulls in those days just as they do today.

Molasses being the product of the South, has its delectable dishes which have been handed down to us from generation to generation. The following are a few worth keeping, as they are choice:

Louisiana Pudding.—Take one-half cupful of well washed rice, four cupfuls of milk, one-half cupful of raisins, one-half cupful of New Orleans molasses, one-half teaspoonful of each of cinnamon and salt. Mix well and bake two and one-half hours, stirring often during the first hour of baking. On the last stirring add two tablespoonfuls of butter.

Southern Waffles.—Sift one pint of flour, with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, then add one and one-fourth cupfuls of milk, two eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, mix and beat well, then add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Add more milk if the batter seems too thick. Serve with New Orleans molasses.

Croole Sauce.—Cook one cupful of molasses and two tablespoonfuls of butter together for five minutes. Take from the fire and add the juice of two lemons. Serve as a sauce for cottage pudding.

Serve crushed peanut brittle over ice cream, it adds to the flavor and is most appetizing.

Glorified Rice.—Whip one cupful of cream, add a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Just before serving, toss two cupfuls of boiled rice into the cream mixture and serve topped with a teaspoonful of raspberry or other fruit jam for each serving.

Ginger Waldorf Salad.—Fold together one cupful each of diced tart apple celery, one-half cupful of broken nut meats, one-half cupful of mayonnaise and one-fourth cupful of candied ginger. Marinate with french dressing and rub each salad leaf with a cut clove of garlic. Serve at once after adding the nuts.

Cheese Sticks.—Slice six slices of bread and dip into melted butter, then into grated parmesan cheese. Toast on both sides and serve after draining on a paper. Nice with a lettuce salad.

Lobster Newburg.—Put three tablespoonfuls of butter into the blazer of chafing dish or in a saucepan, add one cupful of mushrooms, cook five minutes; add four tablespoonfuls of flour and a pint of milk. Add one and one-half cupfuls of lobster meat or shrimps or crabs. Mix two egg yolks with a little of the sauce and stir into the lobster. Cook just long enough to set the eggs. Season with lemon juice, a bit of nutmeg, cayenne pepper and salt.

Oxtails en Casserole.—Cut the tails in sections and cook in boiling water to cover; cook five minutes, then drain, dredge with flour, fry in fat with a small minced onion. Season well, place in a casserole with two cupfuls of strained tomato juice, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and one finely minced carrot. Cover and cook in a slow oven three and one-half hours, adding more water as needed. Ten minutes before serving add a cupful of cooked peas. Add flour to thicken if needed, and serve the gravy with the meat.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A few sound apples placed in the cake box will help keep the fruit cake moist.

Sponging with ammonia and pressing will often remove the shine from woolen clothes.

Oatmeal cookies made with molasses are more wholesome for the children than rich cakes or puddings.

Both ice and food are saved if the ice compartment of the refrigerator is kept filled, and with ice only.

How to Avoid Cockroaches

Treating Kitchen to Eradicate Roaches.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Next to flies, cockroaches are the commonest and most offensive of household insect pests. There are four kinds often found in houses and, also, frequently seen in heated office buildings, especially when employees bring lunches, and are not very careful not to scatter crumbs. The small roaches known as Croton bugs are likely to give the housewife the most trouble. Farmers' Bulletin 658-D describes the various species of roaches and suggests a number of effective ways of dealing with them. One treatment that can be used to get rid of any species is by poisoning, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

When you see a roach scuttling across the sink or the kitchen floor, others are likely to be hiding somewhere near. These insects come where they can get food materials, and they will eat almost anything. The first step, therefore, is to exercise scrupulous care not to leave a crumb of any sort of food where it will attract roaches. Even the odor of foods they like will bring roaches by the hundred to explore your kitchen and pantry. Keep staples in insect proof containers in the pantry, and perishable foods in the refrigerator.

The next step is to dust all places where roaches are likely to hide, with commercial sodium fluoride. Sprinkle it behind the sink, around the drain board, and along the base board, which is a favorite runway because fragments of food lodge there, often unnoticed. Discover where they congregate and hide and dust the retreat with the powder. In the illustration two girls are treating the home economics classroom to eradicate roaches. One of these girls is dusting sodium fluoride around the school sink, and the other is washing the sink to free it from grease on which roaches feed. The fluoride, which is a powder, may be used pure or mixed with an equal quantity of flour or gypsum. A dust gun will help to get it well scattered, but is not essential. The first effect of the powder is to make the roaches come out of their hiding places. After a few hours, many of them will have become paralyzed or have died and may be swept up and burned. In 24 hours, if the dusting and cleaning has been thorough, all the roaches will have been destroyed.

Keep food out of bureau and other drawers at home and out of desk drawers in the classroom or office. Fill any cracks where roaches might hide with plaster of paris, putty, or some other crack filler.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, also you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of good water.

FAMILY DOCTOR MADE MILLIONS OF FRIENDS

Fifteen years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became famous for a single prescription, which now, after forty years, is still making friends.

Today Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people never think of using anything else when they're constipated, headachy, bilious, feverish or weak; when breath is bad, tongue coated, or they're suffering from nausea, gas, or lack of appetite or energy.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made today according to the original formula, from herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant-tasting; thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

The Evening Story for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"The keepers are great," said Mr. Wart Hog. "They feed me so I have a great deal of use for them."

"Don't talk like that," said the peccary—a member of the wild pig family—"it's not good form."

"Oh, gracious," said the wart hog, "who cares for good form? I'm sure I don't. And I don't think you think such a great deal of it, either, not from things I've noticed."

Now the peccary knew that that was doubtless very true, so he did not try to argue any longer.

"I came from the tropics," said the

"As it is, I have distinction. I'm so ugly that I fascinate people. They gaze and gaze and gaze at me, and they say to each other:

"Did you ever, in all your born days, see such an ugly creature?"

"And you like that?" asked Mr. Peccary.

"To be sure," said Mr. Wart Hog. "I feel as if I did things thoroughly, not half way."

"I'm thoroughly ugly—just as ugly as can be—the ugliest creature anyone can see."

"Of all the things to boast about!" said Mr. Peccary. "That is quite the strangest."

"Well, I'm naturally contented," said Mr. Wart Hog. "I like to lie in the sun and sleep, and then wake up and have something to eat."

"It's an ideal existence, perfectly ideal. And I am proud that I take the lead in ugliness."

"Most people," said Mr. Peccary, "like to take the lead in beauty, but not in ugliness."

"I am not 'most people,'" said Mr. Wart Hog. "I am the wart hog."

"I have white crooked horns. They are queer. My snout hangs down in a most peculiar fashion. I am very much wrinkled and I have a few ugly hairs. I'm truly an ugly specimen."

"I'm interesting looking," said Mr. Peccary. "I'm rather bushy, like a porcupine. I have a snout like a pig's but not such a snout."

"I have a small, dainty under lip, and my coat is black and gray."

"My home is in the tropics, as I said before, and I'm a great addition to the zoo. I'm rare."

But Mr. Wart Hog had gone to sleep. It was one of his great pleasures.

MAKE THE MEALS CHEERFUL

If you would make your family meals pleasant and appetizing, help the members of the family to have cheerful conversation with one another by having each person bring a joke or a funny story to the table each day—father and mother included. Each tells his story or joke in turn, the one who has told his best the day before being the first to tell his. The jokes will start the meal and the conversation and will make the time spent with the entire family together more pleasant. Cheerfulness and good fellowship at meals greatly aid digestion.

HOW TO COOK PORK CUTS

The newer knowledge of meat cookery has now been applied to fresh pork cuts as part of the extensive research on meats under way in the United States Department of Agriculture. In the laboratories of the bureau of home economics of the department, specialists of the bureau have cooked all the standard cuts of fresh pork, and the methods which were considered most satisfactory are reported in a new, illustrated Department of Agriculture leaflet, Leaflet No. 45-L, "Pork in preferred ways." The leaflet gives recipes for roasts, chops, and a number of appetizing dishes which will be new to many people—stuffed rib chops with apples, pork chop sucy, sausage and fried pineapple, and roast stuffed spareribs, and others. The leaflet recommends the use of the roast meat thermometer, to insure that the meat is well done to the center. The open pan and rack for all tender roasts, and quick searing of the surface followed by low, even heat for all cuts, are recommended. The leaflet and also leaflets on cooking beef and lamb previously issued, may be obtained from the office of Information, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., as long as there is a supply available for free distribution.

"Oh, very well," said Mr. Wart Hog, "but the sun is out today and I'm feeling pretty sleepy."

"Is that a hint?" asked Mr. Peccary. "Take it any way you like," said Mr. Wart Hog. "I must admit, though, that I do like to sleep."

"Really, when I stop to think of it," said the peccary, "you are the ugliest creature I have ever seen."

To Make Ox-Tail Soup

One of the less known but very delicious meats you can buy in most markets during the winter months is an "ox-tail." It is, of course, the tail of any beef animal. Restaurant chefs and other successful cooks have long known the fine flavor of the meat that clings to the vertebral bones in the tail, and have blended this flavor with that of various vegetables in making soup stocks and stews. The cartilage which is intermingled with the muscle or meat fiber has a very acceptable jelly-like texture, and gives the broth a good body. In fact, if any of the soup is strained and put away overnight it will be well jellied the next day so that it may be used as cold jellied soup.

To be truly tender and delicious an ox-tail must be simmered for quite a long time, usually 3 or 4 hours. When the meat is tender the bones will separate. It is then time to add the vegetables, cooking them 10 or 15 minutes in the liquor with the meat. Lemon and parsley, added at serving time, are among the flavors blended with ox-tail. An ox-tail soup or stew is so substantial and nutritious that with crisp toasted rolls or oven-dried bread it is enough for the main course. To round out the menu serve something tart, such as a grapefruit salad, and for dessert a rice or tapioca pudding, since there is relatively little potato or other starchy material in the ox-tail blend.

The following recipe is endorsed by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture:

Ox-Tail Soup.
1 ox-tail 1 tsp. Worcester-
2 1/2 quarts water shire or other
4 carrots, diced seasoning
2 turnips, diced Salt and pepper
2 onions, sliced to taste
1 large potato, 1/2 lbs. parsley, diced 1/2 lbs. chopped fine
2 lbs. butter slices of lemon

Wash the ox-tail, cut it in short lengths, and brown it in its own fat. Cook the onions in the butter, add to the meat with 2 1/2 quarts of water, and simmer for 3 or 4 hours, or until the meat is tender. Then add the diced carrots, turnips, and potato, and cook for 10 or 15 minutes longer, or until the vegetables are done. Add the seasonings. Serve at once and garnish each plate with a thin slice of lemon and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

If you would rather serve the ox-tail as a stew, drain off the broth and measure as much as you will need for the gravy. For each pint of broth allow 2 tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with cold water to a smooth paste. Cook until thickened, add the meat and vegetables, and reheat. Serve the stew also with a garnish of lemon and chopped parsley. Soup or stew are equally tasty and wholesome.

Straw-and-Felt Hats for Spring

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

We are emerging from a sleep of brainless, trimless hats into an era bright with promise of millinery as feminine and as flattering, as gay color, wider brims, more trimming, and intricate handwork can make it. Of course, the transition will not take place all at once, although the southern resort styles already give a fair idea of that which is to be in the way of picturesque brims and exotic straws.

However, the millinery modes which interest the majority of women at this time of the year are those "flat hats," which, while they convey a message of spring, are eminently correct to wear with winter coats if necessary. The most noticeable trend in the initial hats for spring, is the working of straw and felt together in ways interesting and unusual. The straws employed are as supple and fabriclike as the felts with which they are used. Such linenlike straws as baku, ball-bunt and panamaque, are featured. For northern wear, browns, navies, reds, black and other dark tones are most numerous. For southern climates, the same styles manipulated after the manner of the three straw-and-felt types sketched in the accompanying illustration, are reproduced in alluring light colors, such as haze pink, linen, blue and sea green.

Note in the two hats pictured at the top of this group and the model centered to the left, how the straw is worked in designful insets. Sometimes lace straw is interwoven in place of the more tailored linenlike straws. For the most part the straw and felt are an accurate color match, although contrast is also often successfully played up.

Prominent also in the spring display are all-over embroidered and stitched taffeta hats in delightful new spring colorings. Emphasis placed on gray taffeta models is accounted for in that gray accessories are said to be very smart with spring suits and ensembles of contrasting color. Two stitched and embroidered taffeta models are sketched in the group shown herewith. The hat centered to the right has a folded back narrow ex, while the shape below straws a decidedly off-the-face effect.

Would Prevent Hiring of Illegal Entrants

Washington, D. C.—A bill providing a penalty for those consciously employing aliens who have effected an illegal entrance into this country has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. Wright Patman of Texas.

Such legislation will discourage aliens from seeking illegal entry. Mr. Patman believes, in addition to prompting these aliens already here to surrender, return home and thereby qualify for an opportunity to re-enter it legally.

"Our Government, through the Farm Board and the Agricultural Department, is telling the farmers to avoid over production next year," he added, "yet at the same time, our government permits immigrants to come into this country without restriction as to number, to engage in agricultural pursuits and to take the jobs of American laborers who must turn to the farm as a means of supporting themselves and their families."

"A high tariff is proposed and levied on foreign-made goods on the theory that our makers should not be compelled to compete with the cheap labor in factories abroad."

The same principle and reasoning that exclude or tax foreign goods will support the theory that foreign laborers should not be allowed to enter our country in competition to American labor, and especially is this true when there is so much unemployment as there is now."

Los Angeles, Calif.—In Orleans, Augustine Agogue, twenty-seven years old, who killed her mother to get the mother's farm, was sentenced to death. In accordance with the Napoleonic code, seeking to humiliate and punish more severely those that murder their parents, Augustine will walk barefoot to the guillotine.

Interesting historical contrast between her death and that of Joan of Arc, the maid of Orleans. One walks to the guillotine barefoot for murdering her mother. The other walked barefoot to the stake, burned alive for saving her country.

In New York a dwarf only four feet high, Peter Arata, is sentenced to death for murder.

The modern "automatic" pistol makes it easy for Peter to kill. In ancient days when men fought with clubs, maces and swords, he would only have been a jester, too much to murder.

Mostly a small nation, as such as Hungary or Holland, or Switzerland, in these days of flying machines and poison gas might be the most efficient international killer in the murder game of war.

Conditions change. A five-pound baby taken up in an airplane might release a poison gas bomb that would kill 500,000 in a big city.

REFERS TO NEW RED-COVERED BUSINESS DIRECTORY FINDS NUMBER AND PLACES CALL

*CALL WAS COMPLETED AS QUICKLY AS LOCAL CALL — DECIDES BUSINESS DIRECTORY IS HANDY REFERENCE — RESOLVES TO USE IT OFTEN.

Long Distance is both direct and inexpensive. Most calls are now completed while you hold the line—almost as fast as local calls. Telephone numbers of all business subscribers in Arizona, New Mexico, and El Paso, Texas, are included in the new red-covered business directory delivered last month.

Various Long Distance station-to-station day rates were again reduced January 1—the fourth reduction in a little more than three years. "Station-to-station" designates those calls on which you will talk with anyone at the called telephone. Evening and night rates were not affected by the reduction.

The above picture shows a sectional view of Samson "Oil-Rite" Windmill illustrating principle of Pump, also location of Four Timken Roller Bearings.

The AUTOMATIC OILING SYSTEM and lubrication of the various parts is accomplished as follows: The oil is poured into the gear case, which submerges the lower part of the double gears, including the wrist pins when at the bottom of stroke. The rotation of the gears carries the oil up and floods the pistons, and the oil running down over the inside of the gears feeds the gear shaft. The trough which is part of the hub of wheel head, maintains a level that submerges the lower part of both front and rear Timken bearings, and the surplus oil is returned to the gear case through a passage in the main frame extension. A felt oil retaining washer and paper gasket prevent any oil from working out around the wheel shaft.

AUXILIARY OIL PUMP

One of the outstanding features of the SAMSON "OIL-RITE" is the extreme simplicity, efficiency, and practicability of the pump.

The main frame on the Oil-Rite mills forms a reservoir that holds a sufficient amount of oil to lubricate the mill for one year. A sheet metal helmet completely encloses the reservoir and covers all working parts thus eliminating waste and making it dirt, rain, sleet and snow proof. No water can get in to flood the oil, no dust can blow in to grind out the bearings. This construction prevents squeaks, rattles and gear howling brought about by insufficient lubrication, all of which is avoided in the automatically oiled "OIL-RITE" mill. The ball bearing turn table, the constant supply of oil always flooding the moving parts and the Timken roller bearings insure the owner the "OIL-RITE" mill will pump water in the slightest breeze.

Greater Beauty - Finer Performance

Never has a Chevrolet car won greater praise for its appearance than the new Chevrolet Six. Its new Fisher bodies reveal in every detail the artistry that has made the Fisher name famous throughout the motor car world. In beauty of line and color, in balance and harmony of design, they represent one of the greatest style triumphs in Fisher history. Upholsteries are richer and more durable. The instrument panel carries a new and more attractive grouping of the control instruments. Seats are wider and deeper. In fact, not a single feature has been overlooked that would add to the comfort and convenience of both driver and passengers.

TAKE IT FROM DAD

By Frank H. Cheley

Cigarette Smoking

Bob came down to breakfast late and obviously a bit out of sorts. Mother looked at Dad and Dad looked at mother, as much as to say, "What's wrong now?" "Bob, your clothes smell mighty smoky this morning," said mother, good naturedly. "Thought you went to a party, not to a smoker, last night."

"All one, and the same thing now, mother," said Bob. "And take it from me, its heck to be the only different guy at the show. I'm keeping my promise to you, but, say, do you really think it was fair to exact that promise from me just because I've always made good on my agreements with you. Honestly, I'd rather stay home than be the only dude present every time, who has promised his mamma."

There was just a bit of sarcasm in the boy's tone in spite of himself. Father Smithhough scowled noticeably. "My boy, I'm sure mother will release you from that promise now. Such promises are necessary and desirable with children who cannot think or reason for themselves. They are not desirable for young men of your age. I know exactly what the social pressure is, I've been through it myself, my boy, and after I faced it squarely, and thought the thing through for myself, I stuck by my promise, only from then on it was to myself. Now, I thoroughly enjoy being different. Why join the herd? Why, if I'd let my conduct be determined by what 'everybody's doing,' you'd be ashamed to own me as dad."

"Oh, I know, Dad, but you're a Puritan. You would like to be different just as you always enjoy being the minority, but its so deucedly uncomfortable and makes you so conspicuous. Even the girls make fun of me. I'm no angel-child, and I hate to pose as one. I can't, for the life of me see why it is all right for men to smoke cigarettes, but that it is terribly bad for boys."

"Bob," said Dad, with a good-natured smile, "the most difficult aspect of the whole question of conduct is this matter of conformity. Life seems organized to reduce itself to the commonplace. The cigarette has become social custom. Men of prominence on every hand, and women, too, as you well know, have accepted the edict just the same as they do fashions in clothes and fashions in speech and fashions in reading, and one of the great questions of the day really is, is it right for adults who are truly interested in youth to do anything that youth may not copy, for we know that a large part of a boy's essential education comes from imitating."

"Now, son, because I fully realized that we must sometime face this question again, and because I knew of your great admiration for the coaching ability and reputation of Gilmore Doble, who for eleven years never lost a game, I clipped this from a paper sometime ago and slipped it into my card case."

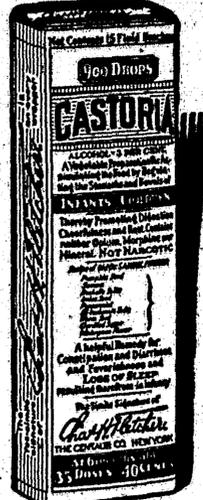

"Probably Gilmore Doble knows a good deal about what makes a boy strong and alert, and what causes him to be a failure. This is the special message he sends to you: 'It has been my experience that the use of tobacco, more particularly cigarettes, by boys under the age of twenty-one, is especially detrimental. I think there are two special reasons why tobacco should not be used by growing boys. First, tobacco is much more detrimental to the youth than the adult. It has a greater influence over the physical and mental activities of the boy, at the time in life when the resources of the mental and physical powers are taxed by the growth and general expansion, and cannot so well withstand the additional impediment of taking care of poisons and the derangement of the nervous system resulting from the smoking habit. Invariably this is evidenced by lack of youthful bloom, mental alertness and physical efficiency. Second, I find it almost invariably the rule that the smoking habit, when formed in early youth, takes a much more powerful hold on its victim and gradually increases its influence until finally it has created an inveterate smoker. Every boy who is ambitious to reach and retain the highest degree of physical and mental manhood, can, to a great extent, insure himself by abstaining from the use of tobacco in his early life.'"

"Now, so much for that. My second reason is even more fundamental. My greatest objection to the cigarette is that it is typical of a whole range of personal indulgences. What were we saying the other day about citizenship and loyalty? The greatest loyalty in the world is loyalty to the best that's in you. Smoking cigarettes is a compromise with yourself on what you know is not the best that's in you, and it is the entering wedge of personal indulgence."

"From this morning on, Bob, you are free. No promise binds you. You are a big intelligent boy. If you can't think and reason now, you never will."

"And now it's harder than ever," said Bob with a gulp. "But I'll think it through. Mother, you bet I'll keep that card that are in my overcoat pocket, will you?"

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as its tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Communist Candidate Foster in one of his New York addresses attacked war. He said: "They talk of the glory of war. The armchair heroes, I mean, talk of it in the trenches it's different. The glory of war! The trenches, the real fighting, knock 'em out of glory."

Practical Johnny "Now, Johnny, what do you think a land flowing with milk and honey would be like?" "Sticky!"

A COLD

As soon as you realize you've taken cold—take some tablets of Bayer Aspirin. Almost before your head can stuff-up, you feel your cold is conquered. Those aches and pains you felt coming on will soon subside. Relief is almost instantaneous! Even if your cold has gained headway, and your temples throb and your very bones ache, these tablets will bring prompt relief. It is better, of course, to take Bayer Aspirin at the very first sneeze or cough—it will head-off the cold and spare you much discomfort. Get the genuine, with proven directions for colds and headaches; neuralgia, neuritis, sore throat, and many important uses.

BAYER ASPIRIN

New England Land Idle We have millions of idle acres in New Hampshire and in all New England says the forestry primer of the American Tree association. The foresters will tell you this is fitted only for forest growing, but it is idle, doing nothing. There can be no prosperity for long where there is idleness, whether it be the idleness of man or of land.

Most Forests in Russia Russia has the most extensive forests. Next comes the British empire, third Brazil, and fourth, the United States, says the American Tree association. These countries together have within their borders nearly two-thirds of the forest land of the world. The remaining third is divided among more than fifty nations.

A leader knows when to sidestep. Life is worth living, if one doesn't expect too much out of it.

5218 Happy People Give up Their Secret

JUST suppose you could get 5000 joyously happy people together in one big hall and could ask them what made them all so full of pep. Suppose, strangely enough, that all of them had discovered the same way to be happy. You would feel that here, if anywhere in the world, was the secret of how to get joy out of life. This is just what has happened during the last few weeks. We knew there were millions of people who had found the secret of happiness in the same way, and we asked them in one or two small announcements in the magazines and newspapers to tell us their story. Letters came to us from practically all over the globe. All of them said "The secret of happiness is health." How to get this health? The way that all of these people had discovered was not some magic medicine, not some powerful drug, not some difficult course of training, but only a simple, harmless, natural method. It was to keep the body internally clean, sweeping its natural poisons away each day, regularly as clock work—by the use of Nujol. These people had made a great discovery. They had found out that Nujol contains no drugs; that it is as tasteless and colorless as pure water; pleasant to take and forms no habit; that it cannot hurt you, no matter how much you take; that it is non-fattening; not absorbed by the body;

They have found the way to Eminent, Zealful Health, and the Joy that goes with it that it is only the internal lubrication your body needs, just like any other machine. It sounds like a fairy tale, doesn't it, to be well and happy so easily? Well, all you need to do to find out if these people have made a real discovery is to get a bottle of Nujol today at any drug store and take it for two weeks. It costs but a few cents and it makes you feel like a million dollars. The sure way to happiness is through health.

Girl at the Top in Health Test

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana Allgire, 610 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bonnie B. is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her rosy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since babyhood to keep her bowels active, during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal.

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

"I still don't understand," said Fellowes, shaking his head. "You were a nun, anyway?" "Sorra a nun. Unless ye call me nun that was housekeeper for the Irish Nuns at Lisbon, and that same by token Mother Seraphina that was born Margaret Gilhooley, third daughter to our Squire Gilhooley at the Reeks in County Donegal, would have me come wid her when she tuk the vell for a bit av company and blanchardin by times she wasn't prayin'. But that was before I got me growth or me appetite, an' shure, says she, I'd ate the convent out av its funds if I went on. But was I a stomach above nuns' fare?"

"So you left the convent for Miss Inglepin's service?" "That I did, and maany's the time I've been down on me two stinbones, thankin' the blessed saints that sint a folne, lovely, young lady the like av her—"

"But didn't she know you were Irish?" Fellowes interrupted, his suspicions reawakened. The duenna eyed him shrewdly. "Not she! 'Twas a Portuguese she wanted. One that knew the way av the country, and Mother Seraphina says, says she, me young tiddy wouldn't be satisfied wid—"

"Was that honest?" "And why not?" snapped the attendant. "How was a chit of a girrl to know what was better for her? And I'll thank ye nor to miscall me, that's been a good friend to ye, for all yer black scowls, and murtherin' rages, and the blood ye've spilt on the right hand and the left."

"I'm sorry," Fellowes apologized, genuinely bewildered. "But you mustn't blame me—" "Arrah, and 'tis nobody else I'll blame, and me young laddy aettin' wid the salt tears on her cheeks, all for the way ye m'handled her, wan minito for kissin' and the next for hangin'! Think shame to yerself, sorr, that have spread misery wid yer hate, and won't see love when it comes in yer path, but turn yer back on it, and go off to seek God knows phwat!"

She paused to catch her breath, perhaps to give him an opportunity to answer, but he was speechless, fumbling for comprehension of her words. "Ah, as shure as me name's Mary McCarthy, that was housekeeper to the Irish Nuns, and for hunger sint out to wait on the swatest young tiddy alive, 'tis ye are the fool av the world!" The beady, black eyes assumed a sympathy at odds with the spirit of the declaration. "God forgive ye, sorr," she went on softly, "do ye have to be told 'tis just yerself she loves?"

"I'm afraid you don't know what you're talking about," Fellowes protested unsteadily. "Miss Inglepin was very fond of Captain Collishawe. He deserved her affection. That's why I feel so bad over his death."

"Oh, my glory," exclaimed Mary McCarthy. "'Tis a babe in arms ye are! Ain't ye got the sines to know she turned down poor Capt'n Collishawe for yerself? That was why she made such a todo over him—and to her credit. A kind, gentle lamb wouldn't do a hurrt to any man, which is more nor the best av them deserve!"

The four men stared at him in a complex of humors, but Cara cried out spiritedly: "That she shan't be, and I care not who'd persecute her. Besides, 'tis ridiculous, Mr. Sopher. The poor creature has no English."

"Yet we all heard her speak," Governor Tompkins pointed out temperately. "She speaks English as well as any of our excellency," Fellowes interjected; "but there's no great mystery to it. She was in need of employment; she was told Miss Inglepin would accept only a Portuguese; and lest she should lose her place she pretended ignorance of English. She abandoned her ruse because—because she had her mistress' happiness at heart."

He looked straight at Cara, and after a moment of indecision she let her eyes meet his. "I owe a debt to Mary McCarthy," Fellowes added gently. "She showed me what I was too blind to see."

The answering light that shone in Cara's face drew him forward a step before he could check himself. "Lumph," granted the governor. "I must get back to Government house. You might come with me, Joshua."

"Mind if I come, too?" asked Ben. "Glad to have you," answered Joshua, linking arms with him. In the doorway his excellency paused, and seized hold of Sopher's shoulder. "You, too," he commanded. "But, your excellency, I am on duty in charge of Captain Fellowes' escort, and—"

"You come along as Fellowes' attorney," advised the governor. "Hell Here, Rekindled for Him, Was the Subtle Glamor That Had Lured Him From Penaha to Lisbon."

not require assistance here or I miss my guess." The door closed behind the four, and as if the click of the latch had been a signal Cara rose from her chair. Her eyes were brown pools, flecked with star-glint, and it seemed to Fellowes that he was sinking gradually, gratefully, into the infinite mystery of their depths. Here, rekindled for him, was the subtle glamor that had lured him from Penaha to Lisbon, and from Lisbon aboard the True Bounty, its embers glowing roster with every breath he drew. He leaned toward her, and suddenly—she was in his arms, her lips lifted frankly to his.

"Forgive me," he whispered. "Ah, dearest—" her fingers stroked his lacerated back—"I have your stripes to answer for, however innocent I was."

"They're but scars," he protested. "So they're not scars on your memory," she murmured, and nestled closer.

CHAPTER XVI Mrs. Rhodes Makes Up Her Mind "Easy, Pete! Whion, thar, Paul!" Jeff Riggle caught the thong of his whip around the butt, and climbed creakily down from his seat, as the Widow Rhodes emerged from the side door of the General Armstrong into the spring twilight of the inn yard.

"Huh! I'll thank ye not to be coup'in' me with an outlandish furriner the shape of a bar' of salt pork!" "Shure," drawled Jeff, "but ye kin say this for a fat woman. She ain't so short in her temper."

"Any woman 'ud be short-tempered with a light-mouthed nunny had'n' more'n floss talk on his tongue! Oil along, dol! Who else come with Squire?" "Nimrod Sopher. The rest o' the Babylon fellers stayed into the city. Spends' prize money."

"They would," the widow observed grimly. "Anyone else?" "That mahog'ny-colored feller, Tom, n' his atgerman—only he ain't Tom's nigger no more 'cause Squire Fellowes—or mebbe 'twas Miss Fellowes—it's kinder hard to make out how they done it—bought him off o' Tom."

Mrs. Rhodes' eye brightened visibly. "Do tell!" she cried. "Why thair! Tom must have a heap o' money, Jeff."

"But money don't never do a sailor no good," asserted Jeff. "And the best of 'em air uneasy fellers, alius up 'n' away, jest when ye figger ye got 'em tied down."

"I'd like to see the man, sailor or no, could git away from me, short o' the Heavenly trump," commented the widow. "Waall, naow, if 'twore me, thar wouldn't be no need to keep him from gittin' away," propounded Jeff. "I had it on my mind quite a time, M'randy, to talk things over with ye. "Save yer breath," advised Mrs. Rhodes. "Did ye hear 'naow much prize money Tom got?"

Jeff's response was unintelligible, and he turned to the task of unharassing his team; but the widow reached out a lean arm, and grasped him to 'ber. "None o' that with me, Jeff Riggle," she ordered. "Answer my question. "Had'd I know? Ask him yer self."

"As if ye didn't worm into every bit o' news along the road," she scoffed. "Naow much?" "After a hopeless wriggle, Jeff answered unilently: "They do say squire give Tom all his share o' the prize money."

"Squire's share? Glory be! But haow much?" "Four-five thousand dollars." Her arm fell beside her. "Land's sake! All that money for a nigger-man?" "Squire 'n' M's' Fellowes air purty fond o' Cuffee."

"Oh, Cuffee's a good nigger! But—All that for him! I vum! And Tom innocent as a cradle babe!" Her head sank in reflection, while Jeff regarded her more anxiously than before. "I got a ter'ble hunger, M'randy," he said. "Naow 'baout a snack to eat?"

But relief is surprisingly complete, natural and safe when this soothing, cooling, healing ointment is applied generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy, jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Father of Many Honored Chinkaldy, ninety-five-year-old forest keeper at Eskilstorh, Turkey, who has 50 children and grandchildren as well as many sons-in-law and daughters-in-law living under one roof, has been given a money grant by the government. Chinkaldy is known as "the terror of the jackals." He started to work at 12 and is still bright, robust and vigorous. His memory is good, but he cannot remember the names of all his progeny.

Coined New Word Add rheology to your vocabulary. It is the name of a new branch of science, the science of slow. Chemists and physicists interested in why and how paints, lacquers, oils and other plastic substances deform and flow gathered at the United States bureau of standards in Washington recently and christened the new science by organizing the Society of Rheology.—Kansas City Star.

H. S. Basketball Notes

The local teams played Tularosa here Saturday night. The games started at 7:30, the girls playing first. At the end of the first quarter our girls held a 15-2 score. Before the quarter was over Katherine Kelt took Georgia Peckham's place in center, Georgia not being able to play because of a strained back she received a few days before. At the end of the half Carrizozo was still ahead. Shortly after the beginning of the 2nd half Georgia took Evelyn's place forwarding, later to be replaced by Helen Huppertz and Evelyn went to center in place of Katherine. In the last quarter, with Carrizozo still holding a good score, Katherine replaced Mary Romero and Mary Lewis took Marguerite's place. This was Mary Lewis' and Helen's first game and did very well. Margie Rolland was high point girl and she, together with Evelyn played good team work. Carrizozo won 21-18.

The boys had their usual lineup except Hazen Davis taking Dorace's place. Both teams had trouble finding the baskets, but our boys' luck changed in the 2nd half, winning the game 20-18. Mose was high point man; Florentino was the star on the defensive, playing good team work with Tom Brown, and Brooks relieved Mose in the last quarter.

The teams will meet Alamo Saturday, Feb. 15, at 7 instead of 7:30, as a courtesy to the Woman's Club, who are giving a card party and dance after the games.

"Fadeout" Eliminated

Evidence of the manner in which the automobile manufacturer is furthering the cause of safety by eliminating the hazard of mechanical mishaps is shown by the many safety features incorporated in the new '30 Chevrolet.

Notable among the safety devices in the car are the Chevrolet-designed internal brakes which are new in their field. Many a motorist has had the unnerving experience of descending a long mountain grade to find his brakes becoming less effective the farther he descends—a failure known technically as "fadeout" and due to heat generated between the brake shoe and drum which warps the shoe and lessens the contact of the brake lining with the drum. The hotter the brakes get, the less efficient they become.

Tests on the General Motors Proving Ground show that fadeout has been eliminated in the new Chevrolet brake by a method of construction known as the "articulated shoe type," which compensates for heat distortion, and assures uniform braking facilities under all conditions of temperature. The wear on the brake lining also is uniform, and assures far greater service out of a set of linings than the old type brakes.

Test Chevrolets on the proving ground have obtained as high as 23,000 miles on a set of linings. It is pointed out that the average motorist will obtain considerably greater mileage in view of the severe driving to which test cars are put. Further tests show the brake will stop a car traveling 30 miles per hour in two and two-tenths seconds.
