Don't Sell Wheat Short
Federal Control of Power
Memories Fade

Smallpox Also Marches

Uncle Sam buying wheat at a price above world market and storing it helps wheat growers of other countries, although that is not his intention.

What the wheat situation will be next July, nobody can guess. Wise gamblers will refrain from selling short. Uncle Sam's pocketbook is back of wheat prices in the United States, a new kind of "corner."

Flour has reached its low price since the World War, $3.00 a barrel, compared with $7.30 a year ago, and $18 a barrel, the peak price in war time. Good news for housewives. Bad news for farmers.

Senator Couzens introduces a bill to regulate production, transmission and distribution of all classes of power in interstate commerce.

He would let government supervise rates, and securities issued by holding companies.

Some say the people should have no control of power and its distribution, although power in national life comes next to food, water and air.

The people at least might supervise sales of securities. One company issued more than 20,000,000 shares of stock based on odds and ends of power companies. Foolish investors bought the pieces of paper, at a price exceeding fifteen hundred million dollars for the whole collection.

William Howard Taft, chief justice of the Supreme court, President of the United States, secretary of war, rode to his grave in Arlington cemetery on a gun carriage, the first United States President to be buried there.

A military funeral was, perhaps, not what he would have suggested, but he was entitled to it as former secretary of war and commander in chief of the army and navy.

Before burial the body of the late chief justice lay in state for three hours in the Capitol, on a catafalque upon which had lain the coffins of Presidents Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding.

New Lincoln stands out in that, or any list. How soon men become unimportant and are forgotten! Lincoln never.

Ominous and threatening for India is the beginning of Mahatma Gandhi's campaign of "no violence, but refusal to obey" against the British.

Gandhi and his followers march in protest to make salt tax-free, and smallpox marches with them.

Three are dead, 22 prostrated by disease. The British have made a desperate fight against the various plagues in India, smallpox included, with the natives fighting against them.

It has never been possible to prevent natives bathing in the filthy Ganges, occasionally swallowing water upon which corpses are set afloat.

Under British rule the population of India has increased by 100,000,000. It would soon diminish under native rule, with the aid of smallpox and other plagues.

There is plenty of money in this country, the difficulty is to get it.

Secretary Mellon needs $50,000,000 for Uncle Sam.

The public offers to buy twelve hundred and ninety-one million dollars' worth of treasury certificates. There is plenty of water in the oceans, lakes and rivers. The trouble is to get it on dry soil that needs it.

All doctors and parents will be interested in news of a "meningitis carrier," a nineteen-year-old youth, Wilham Fekker, in the reformatory for boys at Boonville, Mo.

Five superintendents and inmates with whom he came in contact died of meningitis, showing how easily the deadly disease may be contracted.

From Devil's Lake, N. D., comes the sad story of Sioux Indians that drank anti-freeze mixture for the sake of its alcohol.

It was the wrong kind.

This small item of news interests managers and stockholders of railroad and steamship lines.

An airplane driven by a Diesel engine flew from Detroit to Miami in ten hours fifteen minutes without stopping, with Chief Engineer Woolson of the Packard company and Walter Lee, pilot.

And the trip cost for fuel $8.50.

Boys' Basketball Team

returned from Albuquerque, after competing in the State Tournament, Sunday afternoon. The boys played their first game Friday at 11 a. m. with Tucumcari. All the boys played very well, Fay and Mose being the outstanding players of the game. Carrizozo won 23-19. They played their next game at 3 p. m. with Artesia. This game was a little faster and Carrizozo managed to keep ahead in the first half 13-6. In the 2nd half Artesia made 3 goals, and after that they seemed to be especially lucky with their field goals and at the end of the game the score stood 22-16 in Artesia's favor. This being a one game elimination, Carrizozo was eliminated from the tournament, so were 7 other teams, that day.

Other interesting games were, Marual-Newton, the score being tied 32-32 at the end and having to play an extra 2 minute period. Newton won 36-34. Clovis beat Roswell 23-21. St. Michaels lost to Albuquerque 15-23.

The final game was between Albuquerque and Clovis and naturally, was the most interesting game of all, it being the deciding game for the State Championship which Clovis won with a score of 22 to 12.

The Carrizozo boys wish to express their appreciation and thanks to the committee who collected the funds and to the people of Carrizozo for their splendid support and financial backing during the season.

FORT STANTON NEWS

The Girls' Glee Club from New Mexico A. & M. College appeared at the Amusement Hall Saturday afternoon and gave a concert which was appreciated by a large audience. We are always glad to see the students from the college each year when they come to entertain us.

Dr. S. R. King was an El Paso visitor last week-end.

On Tuesday evening the residents of the Parade enjoyed a chicken gumbo dinner at the Community House. All report a wonderful feast and an excellent time.

Geo. Rodusky, from Fresland, Pa., died on March 18th.

Charlotte Rice has received her new Ford Sedan, a battleship gray, and is now engaged in learning the art of driving.

E. F. Olds of Alamogordo, the contractor installing the new fire protection system here, now has a full force at work digging the ditches for the pipe.

Mickey McNeff has just returned from a week's visit in El Paso. While there, he broadcast from station KTSM on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Dr. Haire led a party through the Fort cave the other evening and reports hearing growls and grunts down in the recesses, which he was unable to explain.

T. B. Kincheloe, a former employee here, was a week-end visitor from El Paso and greeted his old friends.

Daniel Kusanovich left for Washington last week, accompanying patient Smack, who was transferred there.

On Monday and Tuesday the Fort was visited by a few returning blasts from old man Winter, some snow falling and lots of cold winds.

The baseball club has been organized and is looking forward to a very successful season. The field is being reconditioned and when finished will be one of the fastest diamonds in the country. We have secured the services of several good players and fully expect to have some real baseball games. Among the new men are, Rutherford, pitcher and Hemphill, infielder. These boys have been playing in class "D" leagues for the past two years and can deliver the goods. Our schedule, though not completed, calls for games with Roswell, Artesia, Corona, Alamo, Tularosa and service teams from Fort Bliss. We'll have one of the fastest teams in the country and we hope the fans will give us their full support.—H. H. Walton, manager.

MASS MEETING Monday Night

In response to the call issued by the Board of Trustees of the Village, a good representative gathering was present Monday night at Community Hall to select a ticket for the election to be held at the office of the village clerk on Tuesday, April 1st.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor McQuillen, E. M. Brickley being chosen as chairman of the meeting and Prof. Helm, secretary. Nominations being in order for the selection of candidates for the offices of Mayor and Board of Trustees, Mr. McQuillen was nominated and no other name being mentioned, the present incumbent was nominated by acclamation. Following this action, a motion was made that the old council, composed of Messrs. Ziegler, Miller, Kelley, and the place made vacant by L. J. Adams, who has gone from the town and now residing at Tucumcari, be filled by the name of A. C. Snow. The motion was carried and therefore, the following named gentlemen compose the ticket: Mayor, G. T. McQuillen; Trustees, Albert Ziegler, T. E. Kelley, S. F. Miller and A. C. Snow. Dr. Shaver was unanimously chosen as treasurer, which completed the ticket.

That the old Council has the confidence of the people, was shown by many talks made on the floor complimentary to the officials, in which prominent mention was made of the time they had put in to improve the town, chief among which was the erection of the Trustees' building, planting trees and seeding the ground, besides paying close attention to seeing that the streets were kept in good condition, all of which required valuable time taken from their business duties and on the whole, their work, which they did with pleasure and with no solicitation of applause from the public, showed itself in having no opposition to re-nomination. Mr. Snow, the new nominee, is a public-spirited citizen, owns property here and will work in close harmony with other members of the council for the betterment and beauty of Carrizozo. He will be found strong for the right thing and it goes without saying, that he will perform his part in the council along with the older members, all of whom have the best wishes of the Outlook.

Mesdames

Elizabeth Gallacher, F. H. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson's sister, Mrs. Stebbins, spent a few days in El Paso this week.

CRYSTAL THEATRE

T. J. Pittman, Mgr.

Friday—All—Negro Cast in King Vidor's "Hallelujah," Saturday and Sunday—Mary Nolan in "Shanghai Lady."

Monday-Tuesday—Clara Bow in "The Saturday Night Kid."

Wednesday-Thursday—The Duncan Sisters in "It's a Great Life."

Mrs. F. H. Johnson

entertained the Carrizozo Bridge Club at her home Saturday afternoon. After the bridge game the hostess served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ed Harris arrived home yesterday from El Paso, where Mrs. Harris went to meet her husband, who had been in Chihuahua, Mexico, on a cattle buying trip.

A Delegation

from the local Chapter O. E. S., composed of Meadames F. A. English, R. E. Lemon, J. E. Green, Miss Ella Brickley and E. M. Brickley are attending Grand Lodge at Clayton this week.

The Misses

Reatha Melton and Merle Gilbert of Ancho came through here last Saturday, on their way to Alamogordo, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Melton, after which they went on to El Paso and visited old Juarez before returning home.

R. L. (Rich) Hust

was in yesterday from Nogal attending to some business matters and while here, we learned that he had purchased what is known as the "picnic grove" from Mrs. Chas. LeBaron and will sell or lease portions of this beauty spot to those wishing summer homes near Carrizozo. He has already rented one portion of the grove and others are making applications. Here will be a chance to have a cool summer home with plenty of trees and water and within 30 minutes drive from Carrizozo. The business or professional man may have a summer home in picnic grove where his family may spend the day among the trees and mountains, while the head of the family goes to town, transacts his business and returns in the evening. See Mr. Hust if you are interested.

Mrs. B. A. Dudley

of the Western Union, is on a two weeks' vacation and J. W. Gargan, relief operator with headquarters at Denver, is relieving Mrs. Dudley during her vacation.

Mrs. Ernest Dingwall spent Sunday at El Paso, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Dingwall, returning home on No. 11 Sunday evening.

Mrs. L. A. Boone

proprietress of the Buena Vista Hotel at Capitan, was a business visitor here Monday. Mrs. Boone said that business in general, is picking up nicely in our neighboring town, as spring approaches.

Mrs. Jimmy Lee

and son Jimmy, Jr., have returned to their home in El Paso, after a visit with Mrs. E. H. Sweet and daughter Louise of the Carrizozo Eating House.

RADIO RUBE'S R-A-M-B-L-I-N-G-S

"Cheerio" comes over W. O. A. I. station, San Antonio, Tex., every morning from 6:30 to 7 with his usual amount of goodwill. This humanitarian, who refuses to divulge his name, is some wealthy gentleman, who uses a certain portion of his means to gather data on the ages of the oldest people in the country, as near as he can, and ascertains their birthdays, keeps data on the same and as they come, he has his audience to greet them with a concentrated wish, speaking a word of good cheer to each of them. There is no advertising connected with his work and he stands all the expense of the broadcasting.

Amos 'n' Andy are coming out in keeping with the springtime, as evidenced on Wednesday night when they began to paper the taxicab office. In spite of the warnings of the Kingfish, Amos got on the ladder with a bucket of paste, and in his attempt to hang the first roll of paper on the ceiling, he knocked the bucket over, and Andy got the full benefit of its contents, the bucket falling over his head, giving him a paste bath, while the new dog barked—and Andy raved. These inimitable black-face comedians are on the air at 9:30 every night except Sunday, over the National Broadcasting Company's network.

The attack on chain stores started by Wm. Henderson at Shreveport, La., is gaining ground by leaps and bounds. In Texas, they are making it a political issue and it seems that the candidates who are opposing the chain stores are having the best of the argument. Wednesday night, Sen. Mayfield broadcasted a speech from San Antonio, in which he made one of the most bitter attacks on that system, we have ever heard. He said that chain stores were coming in and reaping where the home merchant had sown and not only that, they were driving the local and home merchant out of existence. He warned the people against the system and admonished his hearers to stand by the local merchants who have always stood by and helped to build the home town. It was a wonderful speech and was an appeal to the home-loving spirit.

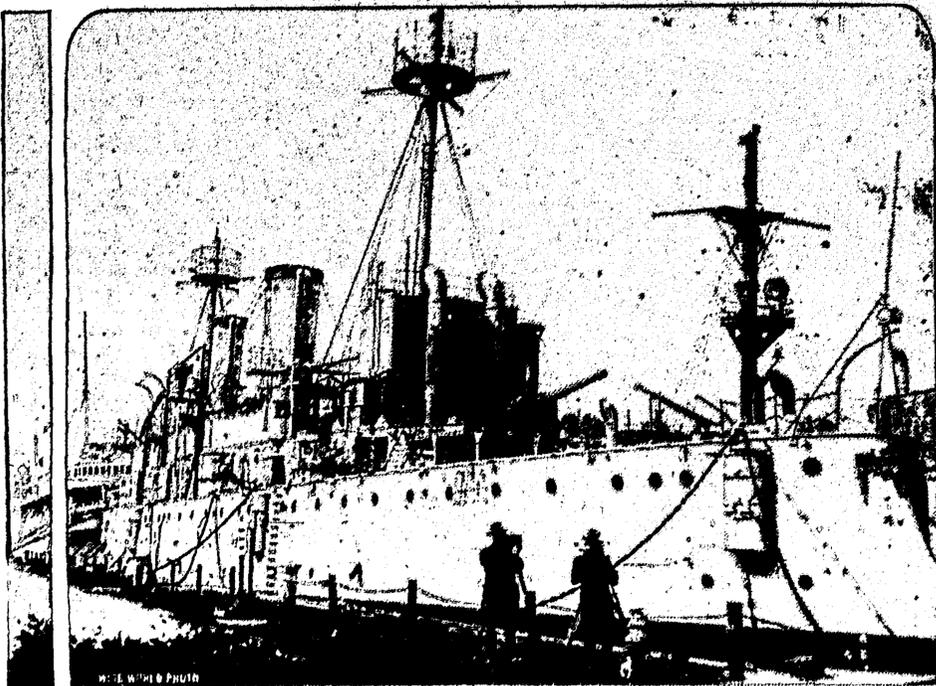

Olive Palmer, a close rival to Galli-Curci in her tone effects, pleased her radio audience with her excellent singing during the Palmolive hour.

She claims to be a direct descendant of Edgar Allen Poe and has inherited something of the talent of Poe in composing lyrics and setting them to music. Miss Palmer began her career as a singer at Louisville, Ky., when at the age of five years and has worked her way up the ladder of fame by earnest efforts. She has a beautiful voice, which to hear once, will be ever remembered.

Lesson for March 23

JESUS TEACHING AND HEALING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 12:13-16:12. (Print Matthew 12:21-23).
GOLDEN TEXT—Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Kindness to a Stranger.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Kindness to a Stranger.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Faith that Wins.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Faith Tested and Triumphant.

The material embraced in this section of Scripture is too abundant to attempt to cover in one lesson, therefore selection should be made in keeping with the lesson topic.

I. Without Honor in One's Own Country (13:54-58).

Jesus shared the common fate of men—unacknowledged in His own country. Even His own brothers did not believe on Him till after His resurrection (John 7:3-8; cf. Acts 1:14). Familiarity has a paralyzing effect, and at times breeds contempt. Because of unbelief only a limited work could be done there.

II. Jesus Healing the Multitude (14:13, 14).

1. He retired to the desert (v. 13). The news of the cruel death of John the Baptist brought grief to the Master's heart, and He withdrew to a place of quietness to commune with His Father. The best thing to do in time of sorrow is to flee into the presence of God. Jesus accepted John's death as typical of His own.
2. Followed by the people (v. 13). He could not be concealed. The people's interest was such that they followed Him on foot. Where Jesus is, the multitude gathers.

3. Jesus healing the sick (v. 14).

Although the rulers had broken with Him, He did not abandon His work. He continued to preach and work for the good of those who would hear. Though desperate and hopeless cases were brought to Him, nothing was found too hard for Him. The people's great need excited His sympathy. He is just the same today.

III. Jesus Healing the Daughter of the Woman at Canaan (Matt. 15:21-31).

The first twenty-one verses of this chapter should be considered in connection with this topic. The force of the lesson can only be seen in contrast with the failure of the people. Verses 1-20 represent the apostasy of Israel and her rejection of the Savior. In sharp contrast, we see in the healing of this woman, salvation typically going forth to the Gentiles.

1. The mother's awful distress (vv. 21, 22).

Her daughter was grievously vexed with a devil. The sufferings of the mother were perhaps as intense as those of the child. This Gentile woman had doubtless heard of the fame of Jesus. His power to heal had come to her notice and many times she longed for Him to come her way that her daughter might be healed. Now that He was in her neighborhood she came straightway to Him. Let parents be encouraged to bring their children to Jesus, even though they be demon-possessed.

2. The woman's fervent appeal for help (vv. 22-25).

She fell at His feet and pled for mercy. She besought Him to cast the devil out. Her appeal may be considered as a model prayer.
(1) She was sincere and earnest.
(2) The prayer was brief and definite.
(3) It was personal and humble.
(4) It was believing and persistent.

3. The woman's faith rewarded (vv. 25-28).

(1) The Lord's apparent refusal (v. 23). He answered her not a word. The reason for His silence was that He was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This woman was a stranger to the Covenant people. Her appeal was on the wrong basis. She addressed Him as the Son of David, which only a child of the kingdom had a right to do. She must come in the right way. (2) The woman's quick response (vv. 23-27). As soon as she perceived the difficulty, she worshiped Him as Lord and cried for help. While only the faintest could approach Him as the Son of David, all could come to Him and own Him as Lord. She willingly took her place as a Gentile "dog," recognizing that salvation is of the Jews. (3) The glorious issue of her faith (v. 28). She received more than she asked. Her daughter was healed at once and the instruction she received was worth much to her. She goes down in history with the Savior's commendation of her faith.

Life Needs a Good Pattern

Remember how swiftly the shuttle flies and how a broken thread may mar the fabric. Remember that without a good pattern, all weaving is for no purpose; take much thought, therefore, as to the pattern of a good life and be greatly instructed by that life which is the exemplar for us all.—Gordon Green Adams.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take. Any drug store has the genuine, prescription product.

Denver Mother Tells Story

Nature controls all the functions of our digestive organs except one. We have control over that, and it's the function that causes the most trouble.

See that your children form regular bowel habits, and at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or constipation, give them a little California Fig Syrup. It regulates the bowels and stomach and gives those organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to. It helps build up and strengthen pale, listless, underweight children. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it's purely vegetable, so you can give it as often as your child's appetite lags or he seems feverish, cross or fretful.

Leading physicians have endorsed it for 50 years, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows how mothers depend on it. A Western mother, Mrs. B. W. Stewart, 4112 Raritan St., Denver, Colorado, says: "Raymond was terribly pulled down by constipation. He got weak, fretful and cross, had no appetite or energy and food seemed to sour in his stomach. California Fig Syrup had him romping and playing again in just a few days, and soon he was back to normal weight, looking better than he had looked in months."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. The mark of the genuine is the word "California" on the carton.

"How'd he get up here, Sam?" I questioned.

"Did you have a passenger up from Hattail, yesterday, John?" Hand asked.

Sam spoke, before John could answer. "Son," he said, "did you, by any chance, as a favor to one of the girls, bring that skunk here yesterday?"

"I did not, dad."

"He got here, then, as I've said all along. Horseback, across the deserts. And he murdered the girl. By G—d, he'll hang for it. If it takes my last dollar. He killed Chad, too, as much as if he'd shot him down. We aren't overlooking a couple of murders, 'out here on the Desert Moon. Not right yet. She went out to meet him yesterday, I tell you. She brought him into the house, for some purpose; through the back way and up into the attic."

"Without anybody seeing or hearing them?" Hubert Hand questioned.

"Nobody was looking for sleeping, as I remember, I tell you, he killed her there on the stairs, and he made his get-away—"

"If you think that," I said, "Why aren't you out hunting him?"

"H—l!" Sam exploded. "Why ain't I out hunting last night's lightning? The girl had been dead any way two or three hours—more likely longer, when we found her. He had that head start on us. He's gone. He went straight across the deserts. H—l bent for Sunday. He'll need food. He'll need water, worse. I've telegraphed to every town within two hundred miles of here. They are watching. I've phoned every ranch. I've kept that phone hot for six solid hours. I've got posies at every water-hole."

"Listen, Sam," I said. "Unless after he murdered her, he walked downstairs, with none of us seeing or hearing him, and into the living room or the kitchen, and put the key in my pocket, Cannexiano is not the guilty man."

The telephone bell rang. Hubert Hand and John followed Sam into the living room. I stayed where I was. I had to have a minute to think. The ashes on the bag? The key in my pocket? Sam?

If Sam, I thought, had found it necessary to murder Gabrielle Cannexiano, he had probably done it to keep something worse from happening. Sickened at myself, for that thought, I found another way of thinking, not much better.

It did seem to me, remembering the pipe ashes on top of the bag, that Sam must have been there on the stairs at some time after she had been murdered and before I had found her. He must, then, be keeping some secret concerning the murder. It did look as if, considering his talk, he must be shielding the murderer, with every ounce of his horse-sense and ingenuity, both of which he had in plenty. But whom would he shield to that extent? Chad, alive or dead? No, Martha? Yes. But Martha could not have done it. John? Not unless there was something to it that none of us dreamed of. Hubert Hand, or Mrs. Ricker? No, Danny? I thought not. Myself? I couldn't be sure.

The man came back into the kitchen. Sam looked ten years older than he had looked ten minutes before.

"It was San Quentin," he said to me. "Cannexiano was positively not released from there until nine o'clock yesterday morning."

"That," I said, "lets him out."

"And," Hubert Hand said, "lets every man-jack of us here on the place, in."

Hubert was too strong for Sam. "Well in," he quoted, with a groan.

CHAPTER VII

A Confession.

The sheriff, the coroner, the undertaker, a newspaper reporter, and another man that the coroner had brought along for a jurymen, drove up to the ranch at five o'clock that morning. Sam and the sheriff had been friends for thirty years. Sam's money had paid for the coroner's medical education. They, and the others, were mighty sorry to have to bother us at all, and their sole aim was to make as little trouble as possible.

They interviewed each one of us, alone, but pleasantly and informally, in the dining room; each one, that is, but Danny—the coroner, visiting her as a doctor, said it would never do to pester her, in the state she was in—and Martha, who was still asleep, and whom they said it was no use to wake. They kept each of us about ten minutes. They brought in the verdict of died by his own hand, for Chad; and, murdered by person or persons unknown for Gaby. They left, on tiptoe, holding their hats in their hands clear to the end of the driveway.

The sheriff left, I am all but certain, with the strong conviction that I had committed the murder, and with the resolution that he would not do Sam an ill turn by depriving him of a good cook. The coroner, and the others, except the reporter, were sure, I think, that one of us was guilty; but were thankful to goodness that they had not found out which one.

The undertaker did not leave with the others. He was preparing the bodies to take them to Telko; there to wait the instructions that we could not give until after we had gotten in touch, if possible, with Chad's people, and had come to a decision about Gaby's burial place.

All the Nevada newspaper accounts made much of the fact that the fiend, who had committed the terrible murder on the Desert Moon ranch, had made a complete escape, without leaving any clues of any sort.

No clues! Lands alive! The place was positively cluttered with clues; and most of them about as useful, in the end, as clutter generally is.

I asked Sam about the contents of Gaby's beaded bag.

"It is all on the table in her room," he said, "where I put it for the coroner's jury. You can go and see. But, first, read this. It was tucked inside her dress. The undertaker found it, and gave it to me. I dread giving it to Danny."

He handed me a folded sheet of paper. I opened it and read:

"Danny dear: If you ever read

Hot Weather and Star Sirius Unjustly Linked

Dog days is the name given by the ancients to the hottest and most unwholesome part of the year, lasting from July 3 to August 11. The name comes from the star Sirius, the great dog which follows the mighty hunter Orion through the heavens.

The Greeks early noticed that at that season Sirius, which is the brightest star in the heavens, rose just before the sun. Consequently the star was held responsible for droughts and plagues which were most frequent during its period of early rising. The Romans named this period the Dies Caniculares, a name which comes down to us as the dog days. Roman writers tell of dogs sacrificed to appease the wrath of the "Syrian star" who "barks from afar, and with his sultry breath infects the sky."

Modern meteorology points out, however, that poor Sirius is a victim of coincidence. He has nothing at all to do with the weather. The science

Much Lead Reclaimed

It begins to appear almost as if industry can use its lead and have it at the same time. Reclamation of waste lead, through the recovery of old lead pipe, battery plates, lead lining of acid vats and other such sources, has increased year by year. Until, during 1927, according to Bureau of Mines figures, the total weight of the recovered metal, which can be reprocessed and used as new, was 41 per cent of the production of new metal for the year, which seems to be eliminating waste with a vengeance.

life explanation is that heat in a way follows the sun, just as the hottest part of the day is not high noon but an hour or two later. In the same way the hottest part of the summer is not midsummer, but slightly later than the solstice.

Aviators' Dangers

The evenness of air while flying varies with the temperature. If the air is warm, or what is called thin air, it is difficult to gain altitude. In cold or dense air it is easy to gain altitude. The air over cities is warmer than over the surrounding country. It is when a flyer approaches warmer air that the plane has a tendency to lose altitude. In some places a change from cold to warm air is very abrupt. This is known as an air pocket, or bumpy air.

A School-Furpose Land

The Continental congress, in its last ordinance of May, 1786, dedicated from the public lands which lay west of the Thirteen Colonies for No. 16 of every township to "the maintenance of public schools within the said township." The policy of giving public lands for education has been continued and lands and scrip have been granted to a total of 117,244,519 acres, an area nearly equivalent to that of the German republic.

The New Forest in England, with its 66,000 acres, is the largest in that country.

member thinking that, if I did not open them, the dizziness would sweep me off into unconsciousness. I opened them. I saw, there on the red carpet of the steps, something that shocked my reeling senses into sanity. Dropped all over the bright beaded bag, lying there, were the burned tobacco and the ashes from Sam's pipe.

All of my horror concentrated into a frantic desire to get those ashes cleared away so that no one else could see them. I shook them from the bag to the carpet. I brushed them from the carpet into my handkerchief. Just as I got to my feet from my knees, Chad came up.

"Call the others," I said. "Gaby is here—murdered."

I stuffed the handkerchief filled with ashes into my pocket, and, for the first and last time in my life, I fainted dead away.

The next thing that I knew I was lying on my back listening to someone screaming, above the voices of Sam and Mrs. Ricker. I realized that those awful sounds were coming from my own throat. I tried to stop them; but I could not. I put my hands to my throat to make it stop the noise. Sam's voice came, clear and strong then—real, like a light in the dark.

I sat straight up. The screams ceased. "What," I managed, "is the matter?"

"Everything on God's earth, that could be," Sam answered. "But here, Mary. Drink this. Get some sleep. Nothing to be done, now. We'll need you, tomorrow."

He shook a powder into my mouth. Mrs. Ricker held a glass of water to my lips.

When I opened my eyes again, it was gray dawn. I saw that I was in Mrs. Ricker's room. She was sitting by the window sitting. I watched her for a full minute before memory seized me, and I cried out with the pain of it.

"Sh-h-h," she warned me, in a whisper. "You'll wake Martha. She is asleep here on the couch."

I felt in my pocket. The ball of handkerchief was still there. I went into the hall bathroom, washed my face and hands, and drained the last crumb of tobacco down with the water out of the washbowl. I washed the handkerchief, scoured the bowl, and went back to Mrs. Ricker's room.

As I opened the door, she again warned me against waking Martha.

"Was the shock too much for her?" I asked, going and standing beside Mrs. Ricker so that we might talk in whispers.

"I didn't allow her to go upstairs. She followed Chad out of the house and saw him about himself. He died within ten minutes. It was terrible for Martha. I had to hold her, while Sam gave her a narcotic."

"No, no," I protested. "What—what are you saying? Not Chad? What was it you said about Chad—"

"He walked out and shot himself, through the head."

I rushed out of the room, away from her. I staggered down the stairs into the kitchen.

Sam, Hubert Hand, and John all jumped up from their chairs and started toward me. John reached me first, and put an arm around me.

"Chad—" I began, but I couldn't get any further.

"There, there, Mary. Pour her some coffee, dad. Quick! Here, sit here. Turn on that fan, Hand. Get some water—"

"No, no, Tell me, Mrs. Ricker said—it isn't true. It—it can't be true. Not our Chad—"

Sam answered, gruffly, to keep the choke out of his voice. "It is a damn shame, Mary; but, it is true. The boy shot himself, not fifteen minutes after we found her. 'Wait,' he went on quickly, 'before you think anything, I want to tell you what I have told the others. It is God's truth. That poor boy is as innocent of any connection with the murder as I am.'"

"What," I moaned, "are we going to do?"

"We are going to do a lot, Mary," Sam said. "We are going to keep Chad's name clean. Sure," in answer to my protest, "we all know. But, just the same, I'm mighty thankful

SYNOPSIS

Sam Stanley, wealthy owner of the Desert Moon ranch, informs his housekeeper, Mary Magin, that his former wife's twin daughters, Danielle and Gabrielle, are coming to the ranch to live, their mother being dead and their father, Daniel Cannexiano, who has been the cause of Sam's divorcing his wife, in the penitentiary. Sam's adopted boy, John, has grown to manhood, and a girl, Martha, weak-minded, and Mrs. Ollie Ricker, Martha's nurse, Hubert Hand and Chadwick Caulfield are the other members of the household. The girls arrive, John becomes engaged to Danielle, Gabrielle seeks to win John from her sister, and her actions when she receives a letter from France mysteriously is soon to be released from the penitentiary. Gabrielle, with Caulfield, goes into the garden. Danielle, from upstairs, calls to her sister. Caulfield comes back alone. In a few minutes Danielle comes into the living room.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

"Then you don't deny—" Hubert Hand began Sam, who has enough candor for John and himself both, when necessary, broke in.

"John doesn't have to deny anything, Marcus will be in the office now, waiting for Twenty-one. Phone down. Phone's handy. Ask him whether he's flagged Twenty today, for a passenger, or whether he is going to flag Twenty-one."

Hubert went straight to the telephone. From his end of the conversation, we could tell that Twenty had not stopped, and that no one was waiting for Twenty-one. He looked foolish, when he turned from the telephone, and said, "Take it all back, John. My mistake."

Sam looked, mighty serious. "Well," he drawled, "I don't know but what as good a plan as any would be for us all to go out and have a look around for her—"

"Oh! Danny exclaimed, sharply. "Uncle Sam, you do think that she has met with some mishap?"

"I think," Sam said, "that she has met with another machine and ridden off in it. But, better safe than sorry; then we'll be fine and fit for the fireworks. Eh, Martha?"

Martha, who had been drowsy all during supper, was half asleep on theavenport, and did not answer.

Sam's first plan, after he and Hubert had made a quick ride to the cabin and back with no sight of Gaby, was for the two of us to go down the road in the sedan. Fortunately, he decided at the last minute to have John come with us to drive. Danny came along with John. Chad and Hubert Hand were to scout around the place on their ponies. Mrs. Ricker stayed at home with Martha.

We drove to the highway before we turned around. We had come back about a mile, when the wind came howling up, blowing the sand and dust in thick clouds, jerking and snapping the sage and the greasewood, chasing and bounding the tumbleweed balls.

One of my principles is, that if you made the ranch before the storm broke, and, just as we reached the front porch, the rain came pouring down as if all the sky were the nipple of a big faucet and someone had turned it on, full force.

"This will bring her in," Sam said, as we ran up the steps. "She'll be there, high and dry, when we get in." She was not. Chad and Hubert Hand had come in, and they acted as if, since we had set out to get news of Gaby, it was a wonder we had not done it. Martha was sobbing because she could not have the fireworks.

Sam went and touched a match to the fire ready to be started in the fireplace. I ran upstairs and closed the bedroom windows. I had come downstairs, ready to take my rest, when I remembered the attic, with all its windows wide open to the drenching rain.

My corns had been hurting me all day; so, Chad being handy, I asked him to go and close the attic. He went up the stairs, and almost at once came back to the head of them to call down that the attic door was locked.

John drove fast; but we barely ask a man to do anything about the house for you, you do it twice your self. I thought, again, how true that was, as I went on my aching feet up the stairs to prove to him that the door was not locked, never had been locked, and, likely, never would be.

It was locked. Chad walked off, saying that he would see whether some one downstairs had locked it and had the key, or, if not, whether he could find another key to fit it.

I stood there waiting. I put my hand in my pocket for my handkerchief. There was a key. It fitted the lock. I opened the door.

About half way up the steps, Gaby was lying in a puddle of pink wrap. I spoke to her. She did not answer. I ran up the steps and put an arm around her, trying to lift her. Her head rolled to one side. I saw her throat. It was a saffron color, with great blue black bruises at its base. I touched her swollen face. It was cold.

For an instant, my only sensation was one of violent nausea. I tried to vomit. My throat had closed. I came back down the steps, for I

Owner's Service Policy

Detroit—The Chevrolet Motor Company today announces a new and broader service policy. Any Chevrolet owner, experiencing defective workmanship or material on a Chevrolet car under the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty, is invited to call upon any authorized Chevrolet dealer in the United States or Canada where work will be done at no cost to him.

The plan, known as the Owner's Service Policy, is now in effect in the 10,000 authorized Chevrolet service stations in the United States, operating under the general supervision of 52 Chevrolet branch offices.

The new policy takes the form of a written agreement given the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the new car is delivered. It puts down in plain, understandable language, the greater service protection to which every Chevrolet owner is now entitled. Briefly, it offers the following provisions—

1. Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage. This includes checking and adjusting the brakes, tappets, timing, generator, carburetor, clutch pedal and steering gear; tightening all motor bolts; tightening all motor bolts; testing and filling the battery and checking the oil level in the transmission and rear axle. The dealer assumes no responsibility for previous adjustments when they have been made in service stations other than his own.

3. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every thousand miles thereafter as long as the car is in operation.

4. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective, either in workmanship or in material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty, provided such parts and labor are not required because of accident or mechanical abuse. This includes both parts and labor. This provision will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States.

A NEW

SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

The above picture shows a sectional view of Samson "Oil-Rite" Windmill illustrating principle of Pump, also location of Four Timken Roller Bearings

The AUTOMATIC OILING SYSTEM and lubrication of the various parts is accomplished as follows: The oil is poured into the gear case, which submerges the lower part of the double gears, including the wrist pins when at the bottom of stroke. The rotation of the gears carries the oil up and floods the pinions, and the oil running down over the inside of the gears floods the gear shaft. The trough which is part of the hub of wheel head, maintains a level that submerges the lower part of both front and rear Timken bearings, and the surplus oil is returned to the gear case through a passage in the main frame extension. A felt oil retaining washer and paper gasket prevent any oil from working out around the wheel shaft.

AUXILIARY OIL PUMP

One of the outstanding features of the SAMSON "OIL-RITE" is the extreme simplicity, efficiency, and practicability of the pump.

The main frame on the Oil-Rite mill forms a reservoir that holds a sufficient amount of oil to lubricate the mill for one year. A sheet-metal helmet completely encloses the reservoir and covers all working parts thus eliminating waste and making it dirt, rain, sleet and snow proof. No water can get in to flood the oil, no dust can blow in to grind out the bearings. This construction prevents squeaks, rattles and gear howling brought about by insufficient lubrication, all of which is avoided in the automatically oiled "OIL-RITE" mill. The ball bearing turn table, the constant supply of oil always flooding the moving parts and the Timken roller bearings insure the owner the "OIL-RITE" mill will pump water in the slightest breeze.

For any BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow.

very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician. All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

"Well, no he is, partner, no he is," said the crooked dealer. "You just try him on a plate of fried chicken and see!"

TAKE IT FROM DAD

By Frank H. Cheley

Traveling With the Wrong Crowd

"Dad, I need to have a chat with you," said Bob in kindly affectionate tones as Mr. Smith—though came into the living room, his arm loaded with papers and arranged his big chair under the reading lamp.

"Yes, kid, what's on your chest now? Hope you aren't broke again?"

"No, Dad, got money but I wanted to talk to you about a little incident that occurred at school today."

Mr. Pringle, the principal, seems to have taken an uncommon interest in me this semester. Every time he meets me in the hall he slaps me on the back and says, 'How goes it?' Well, yesterday he called me into his little private office and said, 'Bob, I've had my eye on you for some time now and I want to make a suggestion. I think you're traveling with the wrong crowd.' Why, Dad, he knocked the pins right out from under me but he did it so nicely I couldn't get mad. Now, what I want to know, Dad, is how can a fellow know that he isn't traveling with the right crowd? Bill and Harry and Chub have all been here many times. You know them most as well as I do. They aren't particularly bad are they? Just because they're a bit noisy and collegiate doesn't stamp them as undesirable?"

Dad waited for more but evidently Bob had 'shot his wad' as he would have said.

"Pringle is a very competent man, Bob, well thought of throughout the city, a real educator, interested beyond his mere job. His suggestions on any point would be worthy of a careful consideration. I've said to your mother several times that I thought Bill and Harry were 'light-weights.' Evidently Pringle thinks so, too."

"Bob, we were talking the other day about law. Do you recollect how many there were in every realm of life and how much progress after all was just a record of our having discovered new laws and understanding old ones and more nearly aligning our lives in harmony with fundamental laws?"

"Yes, Dad, I do, but what's that got to do with the gang?"

"A very great deal and here is how. There is a law, a most fascinating thing, which establishes the fact that all forms of life, from the lowest up, thrown together intimately under the influence of the same environment, tend decidedly to become alike. In other words Bob, a fundamental law of life says you tend to become like the thing with which you intimately associate."

"Boys gang as naturally as bees hive or sheep flock, and having ganged more or less spontaneously; the law of association begins to work and the individual units in the group begin an elaborate process of give and take in every realm of life. Group opinions begin to form; group attitudes to every conceivable thing begin to shape themselves without the group scarcely being conscious of it. Group opinions and group attitudes soon determine group actions and then 'oo have results, for Bob, to a great degree we are what we do."

"The fellow who plays clean and fair is a good sport. The fellow who cheats and takes unfair advantage is a poor sport. The boy whose manners of acting is gentle and thoughtful of others is a gentleman."

"Let's see further. If you wish to become a great sprinter who do you train with, a coach with a wooden leg who never ran a race? Or suppose you wish to become a great violinist, with whom do you study, a trap drummer? Great athletes become like their coaches, musicians like their masters and so the marvelous process goes on and on and on."

"Of course it is possible for a person by determination and sheer will power to resist the influence of the group and stand upon his own but the tendency under such circumstances is for him to withdraw from the group in which he is not congenial and gravitate to a group with interests like his own. So while it is true that you can modify the law of association in a way, yet ultimately tend to become like the group with which you intimately live."

"Undesirable associations account for more crime than any other single fact."

"If your principal, who is friendly to you, who sees you every day and feels your influence in the school, says to you, 'Bob, you're traveling with the wrong crowd,' then your associations are beginning to show. He knows that you are capable of better things. He expects more of you than he is getting by way of a positive stand on moral principles."

"But, Dad, can't one boy reform a gang?"

"Ha, ha, my boy, that is the alibi that keeps many a boy from stepping up forward—a false loyalty again. No you will not reform your gang. Bob, very rarely it ever. If your gang influence is not of the best, get into one that is. Have all the advantage of a lift, and none of the disadvantages of a drag."

CURE FOR PAROLE EVILS

By PROF. E. W. BURGESS, University of Chicago.

A SCIENTIFIC board of pardons and paroles, entirely divorced from politics, would be an important element in crime solution. Our present parole activities ought to be raised from a so-called "common sense" basis to a scientific level. Until that is done there isn't much hope of real progress being made toward the reform of the criminal or crime prevention. People fail to realize that crime is an acute social ill, requiring the services of an expert diagnostician and specialist in treatment, the same as a person afflicted with a baffling disease. Imagine having the surgical staff of a hospital composed of political appointees, no matter how good their intentions or how great their zeal. Yet that is what we do in determining the fate of criminals, whose mental or emotional ailments may be as diversified as the hundreds of patients within a hospital.

The best plan for a scientific board of pardons would call for nine specialists, serving for nine years in rotation, one new appointment being made each year as one expired, classified as follows: psychiatrist, sociologist, educator, industrial educator, criminal lawyer, representative of organized labor, and three outstanding socially minded citizens.

The present agitation about the simultaneous release of 600 gunmen might be unwarranted under such a circumstance, as the judgment of such a board would be the warrant that in 99 cases out of 100 the release would be justified and the convict would go straight.

Science has about reached the point where it can predict human conduct and if applied to the problem of pardon and parole it would almost unfaillingly register whether it is safe or not to release a convicted man.

WOMAN OF TODAY FINE MOTHER

By JEANETTE C. BRILL, Brooklyn Magistrate.

Notwithstanding that the woman of today is criticized on all sides, she makes the finest mother of all the ages. As a mother, she is better equipped educationally and physically. She has experienced manifold contact with the world, which gives her a deeper understanding of the relationships of family life.

Woman has learned the value of training as an asset to happy home life. She has come to understand food and its value, money and its buying power, labor saving devices and the thriftiness of living within an income and saving for a rainy day. She learns all this through courses offered in colleges, schools and home making centers. Where the woman or girl of today refuses to take advantage of this learning we find her sooner or later in the family court.

In throwing off the yoke of subservience, women have gained proportionately in spiritual satisfaction.

It is just as stylish to marry now and have children as it was when I was a young girl. The young woman, who is making her way in business and does not hesitate to marry a man who has not sufficient income to support a home, is a wife in the true sense of the word. Such a woman is inspiring and is aiding materially in building a home.

WOMAN JURIST HAS WON PLACE

By JUSTICE FLORENCE E. ALLEN, Ohio Supreme Court.

Women barristers cannot assume the myriad responsibilities of their profession without suffering penalties in the loss of their private lives. But women lawyers experience tremendous compensation in having the sympathy of their countrywomen behind them. A sense of the increasing fairness of men, too, is most apparent.

The slight hostility I found upon first being elected to the Common Pleas court in Ohio, soon faded away. In this marvelous age women stand equipped to work with men as their intellectual equals. Society stands forth in this age as a mechanical giant, yet we are aware that the great social forces of America have not been co-ordinated. Who is better equipped to lead the way here than the man or woman trained in law to untangle the puzzle of the human equation?

The failure of many states in various governmental problems is that they have slipped back into that Old world way of thinking that the office belongs to the officer rather than to the people from whom the office comes.

NEW SUNDAY-SCHOOL PROGRAM

By EVELYN SPICKARD, Religious Educator (Episcopal).

Stories of Jonah and the whale, Moses and the burning bush, and the seven plagues of the Israelites, which used to make children sit in open-mouthed wonder, no longer hold a place of importance in the modern Sunday school. In the place of these old half-mythical stories are more reliable lessons taken from the New Testament and the lives of the boys and girls themselves. We are trying to make religion a part of the child's life, instead of a side issue based on improbable happenings.

The findings of educational psychology are being utilized in the modern Sunday school, just as in the week-day school. We are attempting to make the school child-centered instead of teacher-centered. We now believe that practices in religious thought and life is needed if "skill" in the sense of familiarity, is to be acquired. Our present program fosters this.

The new movement is part of the tendency toward a liberal interpretation of religion, instead of the old fundamentalist viewpoint. Science, including psychology, has done much to bring about this advance.

RELIGION IN THE SCHOOLS

By DR. ISRAEL GOLDSTEIN, Congregation B'nal Jesuric, New York.

I would urge the shortening of the public school day by an hour and the substitution during that time of religious instruction. The naturalistic tendency in modern education tends to make the child a happier personality, free from inhibitions and repressions. The new system of education promises to produce a healthy, happy but heartless race.

As long as the public school is a secular school the church should have a more adequate opportunity to bring into the life of the child the influence of religious education, which is admittedly an important

YOU HAVE A DOCTOR'S WORD FOR THIS LAXATIVE

In 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he saw the harm in harsh purgatives for constipation and began to search for something harmless to the sensitive bowels.

Out of his experience was born a famous prescription. He wrote it thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, feverishness, nausea, gas, poor appetite, and such disorders, are relieved by the prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original effective and harmless formula. All drugstores have it.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

President Hoover's First Year Is Both Praised and Attacked.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

WHETHER Herbert Hoover's first year as President is to be considered successful depends largely on the political bias and economic convictions of the one who does the considering. The varying views on the matter were expressed in the senate by Senator Simon D. Fess of Ohio, speaking for the administration party, and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, speaking for the opposition.

Senator Fess especially praised the President's efforts to combat business depression, saying: "I regard the handling of the economic forces that were playing toward disaster by the President as the most outstanding accomplishment in the history of the government of which I have any knowledge on economic lines." He said he was not entirely sure that it was possible to avoid the cycles in business in which a high business level is followed by a depression. "If it can be done," continued the Ohio senator, "we have the leadership in the White House that will do it; for the President has been working on the problem eight years."

In dealing with other features of the administration record during the year Senator Fess discussed farm relief, the tariff, the naval armament conference, other international questions, and prohibition.

Senator Harrison said he wished to congratulate Senator Fess "on his audacity and nerve in speaking explanations of the mischievements of the administration during the last year."

"If the failure to solve big problems is an achievement, then this administration for the last year is a success," said Senator Harrison. "If dissatisfied farmers of the land is an achievement, then this administration is a success. If dissatisfied labor is an achievement, then this administration is a success. If indecision upon the part of a President is an achievement, then President Hoover's first year is a great success."

UNEMPLOYMENT is of course one of the immediate concerns of the government and furnishes ammunition for the opponents of the administration.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, following a cabinet meeting at which the industrial situation was discussed, asserted that as a result of the President's activities unemployment has been held to less than one-half that of previous financial crashes. Other administration leaders expressed confidence that unemployment would be materially relieved within the next few weeks through the federal agencies called into action by the President.

Senator Wagner of New York, Democrat, has introduced a bill for stabilization of industry by construction of public works and the prevention of unemployment in periods of business depression, and appropriating $150,000,000 for these purposes. Secretary Davis opposes the measure, holding it is unnecessary and provides methods too cumbersome for its use.

OPONENTS of our prohibition laws closed their case before the house judiciary committee on Tuesday with the statements of a number of witnesses, the best known of whom were Breckenridge Long, former assistant secretary of state, and Dr. Stewart Paton, psychiatrist of Johns Hopkins. Three women also took the stand, Mrs. Robert W. Lovett of Boston, Mrs. Cortlandt Nicoll of New York and Mrs. Carroll Miller of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Lovett sounded the keynote of the testimony of all three with a declaration that the anti-prohibition women are seeking the same objectives as the dry women, namely, protection of children, a decrease in crime, and abolition of the commercialized liquor traffic.

the increase by leaps and bounds, and an illicit liquor traffic infinitely worse than the open saloon."

Mrs. Miller struck out at the W. C. T. U., which, she asserted, is corrupting legislative bodies with its political tactics.

Next day the dries began the introduction of testimony with the first of some fifty witnesses from all parts of the country and from all walks of life. They led off with Samuel Crowther, a writer who has been gathering information on the liquor question for a magazine; Edward Keating, former congressman from Colorado; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the World's Christian Endeavor union, and Henry M. Johnson, Louisville lawyer.

Mr. Crowther said he had asked Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford to attend the hearing but they were unable to do so. However, both sent telegrams warmly endorsing prohibition and the Eighteenth amendment.

It is noteworthy that so far most of the dries emphasize especially the economic benefits the country has derived from prohibition, while most of the wets dwell particularly on the alleged break down of morals resulting from it.

NOT at all to the surprise of those conversant with the grain trade, conditions in the grain market became such that the federal farm board found it necessary to modify its activities in bolstering up wheat prices through the Grain Stabilization corporation and the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

The change in policy, as announced by Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board, consists in abandonment of the arbitrary loan price basis established by the board last fall. No more grain will be bought on that basis. Mr. Legge said, though loans will be made to co-operatives on the present crop until July 1. Prices for wheat during the week were unsettled and generally lower.

Later Mr. Legge was quoted as declaring that a real embargo against shipping wheat from farms to terminal markets will be put into effect unless farmers hold their stocks until storage facilities become available. He said the board is endeavoring to avoid such drastic measures during the present grain emergency, but that if railroads are unable to unload cars of grain at terminals an embargo would become imperative.

Officials of twenty-five grain and other farm commodity exchanges held a secret meeting in Chicago and gave out the word that so far as they were concerned the verbal warfare with the farm board was ended.

"We have decided to shut up and get back to business as best we can under the situation, despite what politicians and governmental spokesmen may say or do," said one of the Chicagoans who attended the conference. The general opinion of the meeting was reported to be that the grain trade was satisfied with the modified policy announced by the federal farm board, withdrawing the fixed prices for wheat being paid to co-operatives only.

SECRETARY OF STATE STIMSON sprung a surprise on the world with a statement in London that the United States is willing to reduce its naval armament by more than 200,000 tons, if the fleets of the other naval powers are reduced accordingly. He said this in reply to reports that the naval conference was likely to result in an increase instead of a reduction in the tonnage of the navies of the world, and said his plan seemed to be acceptable to America and Great Britain.

France was still holding up the proceedings of the conference although Premier Tardieu obtained a good majority in the chamber of deputies. The French continue to demand a tonnage of at least 700,000 tons. If they are given this, Italy demands the same total. But Great Britain's fixed policy is to have a navy as large as those of any two continental powers, and to have 1,400,000 tons she must add 200,000 tons to the figure on which the agreement with the United States is based. That in a nutshell is the situation, though there are many complicating side features.

The subcommittee of the conference to which was referred Mr. Stimson's resolution on the limitation and "humanizing" of submarines reported it could do nothing until the French delegates resumed their part in the negotiations. Premier Tardieu sent Briand, Dumesnil and others over to London Thursday and went himself on Saturday, so there was a prospect of progress.

MR. HOOVER'S commission to investigate conditions in Haiti is getting an earful—several of them, indeed. Immediately after its arrival in Port-au-Prince some twelve hundred native women prayed in public for an end of American occupation and then paraded through the streets past the headquarters of the commission, voicing an appeal for the "liberation" of Haiti. On succeeding days the commissioners heard prominent leaders of the Nationalists denounce Gen. John H. Russell, the American high commissioner, as "virtually a dictator whose puppet is President Borno. They demand a free election of a president and one of them said: "If the council of state dares to elect a president on April 15 instead of permitting a popular election, United States machine guns will sink all Haitians in blood." They still want the United States to help them in the sanitary service, but insist all other American activities should be abolished. Some asked that the commission supervise the election, but Chairman Forbes told them this was impossible.

The Dominican Republic has quieted down after the resignation of President Vasquez and the installation of Gen. Rafael Urena, leader of the insurgent movement, as provisional head of the government.

THURSDAY was denominated "International unemployment day" by the Moscow Communists and parades and other demonstrations by the unemployed were held in many cities in Europe and America. In some places there were bloody encounters with the police and in others there was no disorder worth mentioning.

Among the activities of the Communists should be recorded the investigation and management of a rebellion of 14,000 high school pupils in Manila. They struck nominally because of alleged insults by a woman teacher, and the Reds incited them to sanguinary encounters with the police.

ALFRED VON TIRPITZ, who was a lord high admiral of the German navy during the World war and father of his country's submarine warfare, died in Ebenhausen of bronchitis at the age of eighty-one years.

Cablegrams from Japan told of the death in Kobe of Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, president emeritus of Yale university. He succumbed to pneumonia at the age of seventy-three years. Doctor Hadley was educated in Yale and Berlin universities and joined the faculty of his alma mater in 1870. Twenty years later he was elected to the presidency, retiring in 1921. He was considered one of the world's leading economists.

Other deaths included those of D. H. Lawrence, noted English novelist and poet, and Viscount Herbert Gladstone, youngest son of William E. Gladstone.

OIL, lumber and sugar combined in the senate last week and brought about a vote of 47 to 39 in favor of an increase in the duty on Cuban sugar from 1.75 to 2 cents per pound. Nine senators, most of whom are interested in either oil or lumber, switched their votes, and the resulting combination smashed the Democratic-Italian Republican coalition that has been having its own way in formulating the senate's tariff bill. During the exciting debate Senator Caraway and others charged that a deal had been entered into, and there were warnings that the oil, lumber and sugar trade would be made a campaign issue. The house bill increased the rate on Cuban sugar to 2.4 cents per pound, so an increase in this duty is virtually certain when the senate and house conferees fix up the final draft of the measure.

JOHN NORTH WILLYS of Toledo, Ohio, automobile manufacturer, is the new American ambassador to Poland. His name was submitted to Warsaw for approval, which it received, and the appointment was then announced by President Hoover. The senate had no objection to the selection.

"First Aid—Home

Remedy Week" Coming
The Good Samaritan is pictured as "The First First Aid" in the national reminder which has been sent to druggists all over America, announcing the 9th anniversary of "First Aid—Home Remedy Week," fixed for March 16-23.

The idea of an advertising-merchandising one-year drive (held with spring house cleaning was given to the drug world by Sterling Products, Incorporated, in 1922. Preparedness for meeting accident or sudden illness is emphasized as a sensible and reasonable sales plan which serves to alleviate needless suffering and undoubtedly save life.

The National Association of Retail Druggists sponsored this ad-sales plan and later added Pharmacy Week as an autumn festival for intensive advertising and salesmanship in the drug world.

The National Wholesale Druggists Association and the National Association of Drug Clerks have joined the N. A. R. D. in establishing these festivals of selling as Spring and Autumn fixtures for the welfare of humanity.

"Fill That Medicine Chest Now" is the slogan of "First Aid—Home Remedy Week," and has been from the beginning. It was Dr. William F. Weiss, himself a graduate from the ranks of retail druggists, who first saw the value of "First Aid—Home Remedy Week," and wherever live-wire druggists have co-operated by showing a window filled with suggestive first aids for both accident or illness, and using their home newspaper advertising space, they have added cheerfully to their March business.

Wonderful Vital Force in Every Work of Art

Art does not exist for education. What we call art is a fragment of life that has miraculously survived the centuries. Whose life no one can say with certainty, nor how it came here. For in art, as in procreation, life is the first and only essential. Whose life is no matter, the life of the artist, the life of the people that made the artist, the life of the natural forces that is the people. The only thing that matters is the intensity of the life and our awareness of it.

The true function of a museum of art is nothing less than to make us aware of that life, tear down the veil that time and changing manners conspire to interpose between art and us, and bring us into immediate contact with the immense vital forces that in every great work of art lie imprisoned.

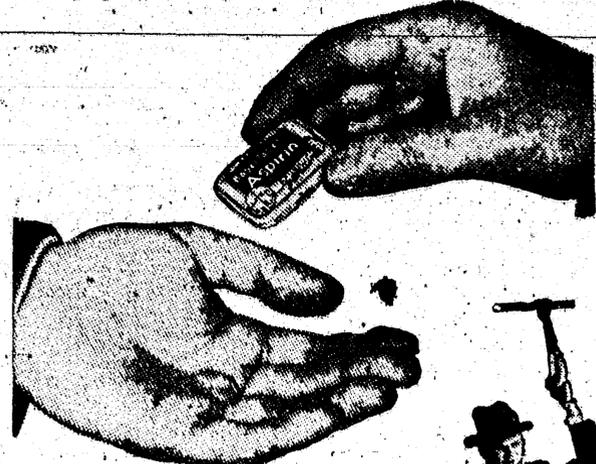

—Guy Eglington in Creative Art.

Needless Pain!

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain.

Lots of suffering is, indeed, quite needless. Headaches, for example. They come without warning, but one can always be prepared. Bayer Aspirin tablets bring immediate relief. Keep a bottle at the office. Carry the small tin in your pocket. Then you won't have to hunt a drugstore, or wait till you get home.

And don't think Bayer Aspirin is only good for headaches, sore throats, and colds. Read the proven directions for relieving neuralgic, neuritic, rheumatic, and other aches and pains. Remembering, of course, that the quick comfort from these tablets is not a cure; for any continued pain, see a doctor.

Bayer Aspirin is genuine. Protect yourself by looking for that name. Always the same. Always safe. Never hurts the heart.

WHEN WILL YOU BEGIN USING THIS NEW OIL?

It is being rumored (and truthfully) that no other American motor oil has been so speedily accepted by motorists. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil has smashed all precedents by its amazing reception... And this oil is as unusual as its introduction. Its superiorities are so apparent, that even before its announcement was well under way, literally thousands of new users were appearing at Red Triangle stations.

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

Its name seems to intrigue motorists and much conversation has dwelt on the Germ Process, and the whys and wherefores... the story is this: Under exclusive Conoco-owned patent rights, a precious oily essence is added to a superbly fine paraffin base oil. This essence is lacking in all other oils, including the one you are now using. The Germ Process makes possible the metal-penetrating safety factor that we call "penetrative lubricity." And this oil, at all on the market, provides a safer, more positive motor protection, from the time you start the motor until you turn off the ignition. So... when will you begin using this new oil?... at the sign of the Red Triangle.

New Departure in Delco-Light

The General Motors Corporation has entered the domestic gas field and gas service will be available shortly for every home in this vicinity, even if remote from city gas mains, it was announced today by F. A. English, local Delco-Light and Frigidaire dealer. Announcement of an amazing new General Motors invention which produces a gas with an intense cooking flame, was received by Mr. English in a special dispatch from the executive offices of the Delco-Light Company, subsidiary of General Motors.

The machine bears the trade name of "Delcogas." Factory production has started and in a few weeks, "Delcogas" will be distributed nationally. A widespread program of advertising and sales will be launched as soon as distribution gets under way in order to make the product available in this community and other sections of the country.

The machine consists of a "Delcogas" compressor and a tank, containing a special liquid gas distilled from natural gas. The tank is buried outside the user's home. Operation of the compressor converts the liquid gas into a vapor gas containing the same quick-heating elements found in natural or artificial gas in the city. This vapor is carried to the gas range, water heater, radiant heater or similar appliance in the home, and burns with an intense blue flame.
