Vaccination Against Smallpox

In 1920, New Mexico had 316 cases of smallpox. In that year, a law was passed, which read as follows: "It shall be unlawful for any child to attend school or for any teacher to allow such a child within any schoolhouse, not vaccinated. Any person who shall refuse or neglect to have his or her children vaccinated according to the law, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than $10, or more than $100; imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding 100 days." Due to this wise law, there were only 82 cases in 1929, but why should there be any?

Heretofore, the county has had no adequate means of enforcing this law, but now, with a full time County Nurse, we hope to see that the law is carried out, not because it is a law, but because it protects the health of the County.

We are very anxious to see that all children enter school in the fall with a successful vaccination or a certificate from the doctor. For those people who cannot take their children to a doctor, the Nurse will be glad to do this treatment in the schools as the Nurse makes her spring visits. Do not wait until summer! The vaccination may not take the first time; your child may enter school with a sore arm, and any fever or discomfort he may have will be increased by the hot weather. Also, vaccine is difficult to carry in summer, as it spoils in heat.

A nominal fee will be charged for any vaccinations that may have to be done in the schools, during the fall. Let us all cooperate and prepare our children for school in the fall.

A Washington—Lincoln Birthday Party

On the evening of February 11, following the regular monthly business meeting of the Methodist Woman's Missionary Society, a 7 o'clock dinner party was enjoyed in the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shafer. The husbands of the missionary ladies and other men, were guests. In the receiving line were Mesdames Martha Washington, Betty Ross, Dolly Madison, John Quincy Adams, Samantha Lee, and Jefferson Davis. These were all staid and decorous ladies, nevertheless, Dolly Madison was heard plainly to whisper, as one of the guests passed her, "John, did you feed the baby?" and there was a faint sound suspiciously like a giggle which passed down the line of beautiful matrons. Besides the ladies who played their parts with grace and precision, there were many other reminders of Colonial Days. Following the dinner the evening was given over to unrestrained merriment. And the Colonial Dames were transformed, in speech and manner, at least, into modern flappers. The music was good and all had a good time.

S. P. Announces One-Cent Fare

Slashing fares to approximately one cent a mile in a special effort to promote travel, the Southern Pacific Company today announced plans for a novel experiment in so-called "dollar day" transportation.

Just as merchandise prices are put in the interest of shopping activity, so the railroad has arranged to offer a full line of round trip travel bargains over its Pacific Lines on two successive Fridays, Feb. 20 and 27, according to C. P. Huppertz, Agent for the railroad in this city.

The "dollar day" sales, featuring "100 miles for $1.00" will provide for transportation on all trains, both coach and Pullman, Mr. Huppertz stated. Return limit has been fixed at Tuesday midnight, following the day of sale. In further explanation of the extraordinary offering, which is something entirely new in rail travel merchandising, Mr. Huppertz said, "Southern Pacific Dollar Day sales in rail fares will simply attempt to apply to railroading the principles which have been so successful in the field of general merchandising. To match the reductions now being made by merchants, we have authorized exceptional cuts in rail fares, bringing travel costs down to a new low level for the special occasion. This for example will provide a trip between Carrizozo and El Paso for $3.15, whereas the regular fare is $5.19 for one way. It is our belief that travel bargains will prove just as acceptable as merchandise bargains and that the public will find them especially useful in making business and pleasure trips at this time of the year."

The round trip authorized for the special sale is three-fifths of the regular one-way fare; it was pointed out.

Mrs. C. F. M. Stone

It was a tremendous undertaking, but one of which to be proud, even though it left the Club in debt. The reporter feels the ladies should be highly commended for their efforts in getting it through. The local school board gave assistance which was greatly appreciated.

The Boyhood of Famous Americans

Ralph Modjeski
Few of us are fortunate enough to make our early dreams come true. But Ralph Modjeski has done so. The world's foremost bridge builder, holder of the John Fritz gold medal, the highest honor that the engineers of the United States can confer on a member of their profession, dreamed, as a lad of fifteen, of becoming a great engineer. He sacrificed one career that held high promise and overcame an initial failure to achieve his ambition.

This genius in the construction field was born in Cracow, Poland, in 1861. He was the son of Mme. Helena Modjeska, famous tragedienne. His father was a director of theatrical companies. As a lad he traveled with his parents through the country sections. Often the troupe made its journey in wagons.

It was hard but an enjoyable and instructive life. Young Ralph, like so many children of theatrical folks, was a juvenile actor of ability. He played children's roles in either German or Polish in his father's companies. He was taught by tutors while traveling about the country. He didn't enter school until he was over nine. Then he took up his studies in Cracow. There he became a piano pupil of Kazimir Hofmann, father of Josef Hofmann. Young Modjeski possessed such high musical talent that friends of the family were certain he would become as famous a pianist as his mother was on the dramatic stage.

But when Madame Modjeska came to this country in 1870 and brought her son with her, Ralph was thinking of other things than music. While he did not neglect his piano practice, he was beginning to think in terms of construction and to dream his dreams of becoming an engineer. The artist in music was making way for the artist in steel.

The newcomers to America lived in Hoboken for a time because expenses were less there. Then they went to California and bought a farm. They knew nothing of agriculture. Their savings dwindled fast. Their first income from the venture was obtained when Ralph lassoed a neighbor's calf that had gone astray. His reward amounted to three dollars.

Madame Modjeska learned English. She made her American debut in San Francisco to which she and Ralph moved. There he, too, quickly learned the language of his adopted land. All the while his mother insisted that he continue with his music. He practiced much while he was acting as advance agent for Madame Modjeska on her first tour of the United States in the year 1877.

But his dreams were becoming more insistent. While he liked the life of travel, the atmosphere of the theater, the company of artists, there was something lacking. His own career as a musician seemed promising enough yet he finally cast it aside to take up the profession of engineering.

He sailed for France in 1878 to study for the entrance examinations to the famous Ecole des Ponts et Chaussées (School of Bridges and Roads). He worked hard on his books. Still he failed in the examinations and didn't qualify for entrance. It was a bitter disappointment to the youngster.

Out of that failure grew a determination to conquer the task he had set for himself. He stuck to his books, definitely deciding to pass up a musical career for that of engineering—one of the hardest and most exacting of the professions. His perseverance was rewarded. When next he tried the examinations he stood forth on the list. Before the end of the year he reached the top of his class in scholarship. He maintained that standing throughout his course.

Graduating with honors from the Ecole des Ponts et Chaussées, he was a marked young man in the engineering profession from the outset of his career as a bridge builder. He has lived up to his early promise and today is rated as one of the greatest engineers in the world.

It is estimated that Ralph Modjeski had been the directing genius back of almost $200,000,000 worth of bridges. The structures he has designed span mighty rivers in many parts of the world.

The Ambassador bridge, connecting Michigan and Ontario, Canada, the greatest suspension bridge in the world, is a monument to his ability. He built the Delaware River bridge, supervised part of the construction of the Manhattan bridge and the Quebec bridge over the St. Lawrence. With these and many other great structures to his credit, Ralph Modjeski has accomplished what so many of us fail to do. He has, indeed, made his dreams come true to the great benefit of the traveling public.

Idea Worked!

Wise mothers find the things that keep children contented, well, happy. Most of them have found they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. Wm. Charleston, 903 Gilmore Ave., Kansas City, Kans., is typical. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with Annie and Billy all their lives. Whenever they're constipated or bilious it has them comfortable, happy, in a jiffy. Their wonderful condition proves my idea works."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels need help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by it; a child's appetite and digestion are improved.

The Political Wheels of Washington

Washington, Feb. 11 Mr. Raskob's disclaimer that he owns the Democratic party is being followed by an attempt to collect enough money from Democratic supporters to pay the Raskob mortgage of approximately $600,000.

Political sages being of the opinion that the Raskob ownership may work against the party's chances in 1932, a survey is being made by a New York concern to determine the feasibility of a drive at this time to pay off the party debt.

The Democratic party is indebted personally to Mr. Raskob to the tune of $200,000 and another $400,000 is owed to the County Trust Co., of New York, with which Mr. Raskob and Gov. Alfred E. Smith are closely associated.

There are many in Washington and elsewhere who doubt that the proposed drive to redeem the Democratic party will be launched and there are others who are very dubious regarding the success of such a drive should one be undertaken.

The firm which has undertaken the preliminary work -- the study of possibilities -- is experienced in this type of endeavor and if the campaign is actually begun it will mean that the chances of success are considered to be good by this organization.

In the meantime the affair is being conducted without publicity. If it should be determined that because of business conditions or for other reasons the scheme is not feasible, all negotiations will be dropped and no more will be said about ransoming the Democratic party.

This section had a nice rain the first of the week of about five hours duration. It was not a heavy downpour, but was a steady soaking which was just in time to help the young grass which is beginning to spring up on the ranges. Incoming ranchmen wore broad smiles which spoke louder than words, as rain, right now, means a whole lot.

21--Control of the Club.

As early as possible the beginner at golf should get the feeling of complete control over the club from the beginning to the end of the swing. This control centers in the left hand. There is little danger of using too hard a grip with the left hand. The right is an entirely different matter. A good rule is to grip with the left hand up to the point of feeling full control of the club and short of the point where the grip has a tendency to stiffen the left wrist. At no time must the grip of the right hand interfere with this feeling in the left hand, and especially avoid any tendency for the right hand to take control. That always can be avoided by loosening the grip of the right hand until it merely holds its place on the shaft. It will get into action without any thought and when it should, just before the club connects with the ball.

Very often, especially in cool weather, the surface of the ordinary leather grips becomes so hard and smooth that the club twists in the hand, no matter how tight the grip. If no other means is at hand, scrape the leather with a knife blade until the surface is rough enough to provide friction. In warm weather enough suction usually can be produced by giving the leather a coat of sweet oil. If this is insufficient, dental wax, enough for a small ball of which can be obtained from any dentist, is the best. Failing this, one can use any of the patented preparations, though most of them are ineffective in cool weather. If other means fail, one can have his leather grips turned inside out or use one of the commercial rough leather or rubber grips. There is plenty of choice. Try any or all of them and suit yourself as to the grip you want, but do not end your search until you find a surface that is rough enough or which can be made to furnish enough suction to have the club apparently cling closely to the hand. In the open tournament at Skokie there was a barbed wire fence just back of the seventeenth tee. A considerable percentage of the professionals, perhaps half of them, rubbed their leather grips against one of the bars to roughen up the leather before driving.

"The Mystery of the Sealed Trunk"

It was an odd, little old leather trunk and its contents — thousands of sheets of paper, covered with apparently meaningless figures — seemed so promising, that Rhoda McFarland sealed it up and consigned it to a closet. There it rested for several years. But all of a sudden that trunk became an object of importance and the central property of a plot which caused Rhoda to leave her friends, take a position as a stenographer in the city, and attempt to hide her identity under an assumed name. And the possession of the trunk brought other experiences into her life—romance, adventures and acquaintance with oddly assorted persons, some good, some not so good, and others just queer; among them a handsome young man who—but you must read the story yourself. The new Ford is an economical car
to own and drive

Low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation mean a distinct saving to every purchaser

THE NEW FORD is a splendid car to own and drive because of its attractive lines and colors, safety, comfort, speed, reliability and long life.

There are, in addition, three other features of importance to every far-seeing automobile owner... low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

During the life of the car, the day-by-day economy of owning a Ford will amount to considerably more than the saving on the first cost. You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

The reasons for this economy are simplicity of design, high quality of materials and care in manufacturing and assembling. Many vital parts are made to limits of one one-thousandth of an inch. Some to three ten-thousandths of an inch. Throughout, the new Ford is an outstanding example of fine craftsmanship in automobile engineering.

The more you see of the new Ford—the more you talk to Ford owners and experienced mechanics—the more certain you become of this fact. . . . It brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

LOW PRICES OF FORD CARS
$430 to $630

F. O. N. Dealer, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tires extra at small cost. You can buy a Ford for a small down payment on a convenient financing plan. See your Ford dealer for details.

Prints Foretell Coming of Spring

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Long before the first robin there are signs of spring clearly visible to the fashion wise. Even now the signs are many, such as for instance the bright silk frocks, both print and plain which in their refreshingly new colors, foretell the coming of spring.

Advanced spring messages bequeath gay prints printed on the bias for a new and glamorizing look and smart in jackets, blouses, scarfs and skirts to ensemble with a contrasting plain color. Tints achieve fresh importance as touches of bright accent on a dark dress (see gown pictured), or in jacket suits and ensembles for later wear without a coat. Sophisticated two-color prints have the design simulated in a single color on a contrasting background.

All signs point to a blue season, and

Hints for Housekeepers

Hot cranberry sauce is good with waffles on wintry mornings.

Plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables in the diet aids the family's appetite.

Now that the eggs and milk are relatively cheap, they can be used economically in the low-cost diet.

A broom placed just outside the door and used for brushing snow from the feet saves work for the housewife.

Because only a little food value is lost in the drying process dried fruits are a satisfactory addition to the winter diet.

The stout woman should emphasize vertical lines in her clothes and not wear colors that will make her conspicuous.

To stimulate a love of reading in the child, see that he has a comfortable chair of suitable size and a good light beside it.

The majority is wicked.—Blas.

The purplish tones of navy, such as fleet blue and pilot blue, will be in the lead. Other tones all the way to the palest watery tints of aqua blue and aqua marine will appear as accents or entire dresses to contrast with dark coats.

There are two important groups in silk weaves for spring—the crepes and the heavy sheers. The French couturiers favor canton faille crepes for morning and town wear because frocks of these heavy crepes look well under a coat for early spring, and with a fur piece or scarf later on.

Every wise wardrobe will have at least one dress of heavy sheer crepe. These luxurious weaves combine the supple grace of a sheer fabric with the flattering depth of color which is generally associated with heavy silk crepe-antane, a triple flat chiffon, and crepe canta, a triple crepe of the georgette type, are examples of this trend to thick sheer weaves with a mat surface.

An early spring costume of monotone crepe from the showings of a Paris couturier is here illustrated. Polka dot crepe edged with little pleated ruffles lends a bright note of color in the scarf and under blouse, the entire displaying an entirely new silhouette. These narrow pleatings are ever so smart and they are lavished on spring frocks.

Sandman Story for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The fairies went to different parts of the woods and some went to the park in the cities, and whispered to the snow which was falling fast:

"Now you know, old snow, that you can be very, very cold if you want to be.

"You know, too, that you can be really quite warm if you will only fall where you will be a shelter from Mr. North Wind.

"Mr. North Wind, we know, is never warm. He is always tearing around so much himself and blowing and raging so much that he just keeps warm himself and is too busy to think about others.

"But we will tell you what to do, old snow.

"Here, in the woods, you fall around the trees. Don't cover up the holes and hollows where the rabbits can get shelter, but fall around the hollows so the rabbits can crawl in and get nice and warm.

"Then fall in just that way around the homes of the little squirrels, and the homes of the birds who have come too early, or of the little sparrows who have such a long winter trying to keep warm.

"In the cities watch the trees where the little birds go, and be very careful, oh, so careful, not to cover up the holes.

"Fall so you will make a big strong fort where the little animals can creep inside."

Now the snow decided it would do just as the fairies had asked. It fell steadily all day.

Snow banks, snow drifts, everywhere there was snow. The trees were heavy with it, the ground was covered deep with it. Little boys and girls who had put away their sleds until next winter brought them out and began sliding down the hills as quickly as they could.

But the little birds and the little animals couldn't get warm sliding down hill.

They couldn't get warm like grown-ups who could wear heavy coats and wraps.

They couldn't get warm as horses could who had kind masters to put rugs over them as they waited in the streets.

As soon as the little creatures felt Mr. North Wind and saw that it was beginning to snow, they trembled and shook all over.

They thought that they would feel the cold so much after the warm weather.

But to their great surprise, they didn't feel cold at all! They found all the little holes and hollows protected from the snow.

At first they went inside, always

Training the Children in Use of Money

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A very simple method of starting children in the use of their allowances is that employed by social service agencies in dealing with foreign or illiterate families. It consists of several envelopes—preferably stout manila for durability—one for each kind of expenditure. Two would be enough for a child at first, one marked "To spend" and one "To save for something nice."

Many parents give their children a few pennies each week when they are as young as four or five years old. When a child has learned to make change, to add or subtract amounts, and can be sent to the store, he is old enough to have some money of his own to handle. The envelope system is a help until he can write his "accounts" down in a book. Then he should be taught gradually how to find out what he has spent and what is left, how to save for definite purchases greatly desired for himself or for gifts, and ultimately how to manage larger sums which include personal money and money for definite uses such as "school," "car fare" and "lunches." A child who is old enough to ride on street cars alone is ready for a notebook system of accounts.

As the number and kind of expenses increase, the bureau of home economics does not consider the envelope system satisfactory. It necessitates keeping more money on hand than is desirable. It provides no permanent classified record on which future estimates can be made. It is confusing because in order to make change money is borrowed from one envelope for another.

By the time a boy or girl is in the last grammar grade or ready for high school, a clothing allowance may be added and its use taught. This is a good time to introduce a checkbook. If the local bank does not handle accounts for minors, checks may be drawn on the parent up to the amount of the allowance and all transactions made as businesslike as possible. Poorly chosen purchases will occur from time to time, but after a little experience the student trained in this way can be trusted away from home at college to handle funds intelligently.

Browned Toast Rings With Creamed Fowl

Toast rings, besides using up stale bread, offer an attractive way of serving creamed fowl, fish and vegetables. The filling for the rings may be prepared separately and the bread rings toasted just before serving.

Cut as many circles from thick slices of bread as there are persons to be served.

Using a cutter about an inch smaller or a large grapefruit corer, cut out the centers.

Brown the rings thus prepared either in a toaster, under a broiler flame, or in a pan containing a little hot butter or substitute.

Types of Manikins

"Mannequin" or "manikin" literally means a little man. Sometimes the term is applied to a dwarf or very small person, but more often it refers to the lay models used by artists, tailors and dressmakers. Models of the human body used to demonstrate the physiological relationship of the various organs are also called manikins.—Exchange.

Iceland Sagas

The Flateyjarbok is a collection of sagas, once preserved in the island of Flatey, Iceland, but now in the Royal library in Copenhagen. It was written in 1380-1396 by two priests of Iceland and is one of the main sources for the belief that the Norsemen discovered America.

Curtains for the Short Windows

Problem of Arranging Curtains Nicely Met.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is sometimes a problem to curtain short windows in a small living room successfully, especially if there are bookcases or radiators under any of the windows. One fixture or bulk in place more or less determines the length of all the curtains in the room. The problem has been pleasingly met in this living room photographed by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. Both glass curtains and side draperies are carried to the lower edge of the window casing, but the over-drapes are slightly looped back to make the effect less severe. The inner edge of these draperies is kept as straight as possible, paralleling the vertical lines of the window.

Vertical lines are made to predominate to give height to the room, not only in the curtains themselves, but also through the up-and-down edges of the books, the straight caudectior, and even the sections of the radiator under the second window.

The walls of the room are of plain creamy tan paper, so it is suitable to introduce some color and pattern in the curtains. Rayon damask was selected for the overdraperies, and sheer marguerite for the glass curtains. The latter are made with a casing for the rod and a one-inch heading. Fullness in the water curtains is laid in plain pleats and attached to the rod by means of hooks on the upper side. One advantage of making the glass curtains as long as the other pair, reaching below the window sill, is that they do not blow out so readily when the window is open.

Good Things for the Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

A haze on the far horizon, An infinite, tender sky, The ripe, rich tints of the corn-field, And the wild geese sailing high; And all over the lowland and upland The blaze of the golden-rod; Some of us call it Nature, And some of us call it—God. —William Carruth.

The following are a few meat dishes which are prepared in ways that are different:

Braised Mutton.—Take three pounds of the breast of mutton—shoulder or loin may be used. Remove the surplus fat and cut the meat into strips. Lay four slices of bacon in a casserole, add the meat and brown well on all sides. Cover the meat with sliced lemon and four morsels of bacon. Add one small onion sliced thin, three carrots sliced, one cupful of celery sliced. Pour over one cupful of soup stock and add salt and pepper. Cover closely and bake two and one-half hours. Tomato with a half teaspoonful of sugar may be substituted for the soup stock.

Braised Oxtails.—Wash thoroughly three oxtails cut into pieces. Dredge with flour and brown in the fat to which a slice of onion has been added. Add two cupfuls of tomatoes and water to cover, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, four whole cloves and a few grains of mace. Simmer for three hours closely covered. Remove the oxtails, thicken the gravy and serve with the gravy poured over the oxtails. More salt will be needed to season the meat during the cooking.

Tripe Roll.—For those who are fond of tripe this recipe will be welcome: Take two pounds of tripe in one piece (boiled). Boil, wash and season four large potatoes, add a tablespoonful of chopped onion, two cupfuls of soft bread crumbs, one-half of a green pepper chopped, one pint of chopped, one teaspoonful of salt and pepper and paprika to taste. Mix this mixture and spread over the tripe, roll tightly and tie with string. Roll in melted fat and flour and lay on strips of bacon. Bake for an hour in a hot oven and serve in slices with tomato sauce.

Rice Waffles.—Sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Work into this three-fourths of a cupful of cold boiled rice. Add the well beaten egg yolk mixed with one and one-half cupfuls of milk and two tablespoonfuls of shortening or oil. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white and bake on a hot waffle iron.

Rose Salad.—Take apples after coring and peeling and simmer in a little syrup to which a handful of red cinnamon candies have been added. When tender remove, fill the centers with nuts and raisins, place on lettuce and serve with a good cream dressing. (© 1931 Western Newspaper Union.)

This Woman in 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat. Here's a letter written October 21, 1925, by Mrs. Fred Harringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America. 'I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 200 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 75 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.'

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Mr. Ziegler Goes East On Purchasing Trip

Albert Ziegler of Ziegler Brothers General Store left Saturday for eastern points, where he will make purchases for his stock of goods for spring and summer trade. Quite to the contrary from what a great many merchants are doing, buying scantily on account of the depression, Mr. Ziegler will not by any means curtail his buying from that of former years, but if anything, he will place orders in excess of when business was better, as a general thing, from what it has been of late, but he leads others in being of an optimistic mind and realizes that the bottom of the depression has been reached and from now on we will be coming up the ladder, in which he displays his usual wisdom. In buying in large quantities he gets the benefit of better prices on the best grade of goods in ladies' wearing apparel and gent's furnishings and the saving which results from all this, he gives his patrons the benefit in the way of lower prices. The new goods will begin to arrive soon and will be seen in his display windows.

Preaching at Capitan

next Sunday at 11 a. m. Sunday School at 10. Let us hope that the weather, roads and our health will permit a good attendance. Do you believe the account of the creation of the world as found in the book of Genesis? Read it and read any of the scientific theories you may have and come and let us reason together Sunday morning. The pastor can't find any essential difference in the accounts of scientific men and that of Moses. Can you? And do you believe that there was a universal flood, mentioned in the Bible as the flood which came in the time of Noah? Well, we'll take that up later. But next Sunday morning let us see what we believe about Creation. Never mind about the monkey — he's up a tree.
