Livestock Activity

W. R. Lovelace was here Monday on a return trip from Alamogordo, where he transacted some stock business. Mr. Lovelace said that livestock in general made an advance movement during the month of October and Alfred Hunter, cattle inspector, in his report for Otero and Lincoln counties said: Cattle shipped during the month, 3,013; mules, to Memphis, 280; cattle to Kansas, were: W. R. Lovelace sold 142 yearling steers at $5.85; 10 heifers averaging 472 pounds, at $4.85 and 182 heifers at $4.60. E. F. Haakins, & Son sold 5 carloads of mixed stock, the yearlings topping the market at $5.25 for stocker steers. M. D. Atkinson sold 352 one and two year-old steers weighing from 500 to 700 pounds.—31 carloads of stock cattle were shipped from here yesterday to eastern markets, the other shipments mentioned above, being from Corona.

How Soon We Forget

Home-Coming Reveals Unwelcome Visitor

Last Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Renick, the Model Cleaners, attended the "Gloom Chasers" opening dance at the Lutz Hall, and on their return home, they found the glass in the front door broken, and a chair being used for a step, proved that some intruder had entered their place of business. They entered and to their surprise, they found that a wayfarer had not only entered, but had gone to bed in the best bed in the house.

In that room, Mr. Renick had all of his money and also his gun, which made him timid about entering with all the odds against him, so he called up Sheriff Brady and Night Marshal Lutz. They came, woke the wayfarer, and demanded an explanation. He answered by saying: "This is room No. 4 and is paid for; go 'way and let me alone."

He proved to be a wandering invalid. He had but one shoe, the bare foot being badly swollen and infected.

The hobo was taken to jail and released the next morning. In his demented condition, he imagined himself at a hotel. The money had not been disturbed, the gun was in its proper place, and all the Renicks are out in the bedclothing in which the tramp was enjoying peaceful dreams.

In Honor of Husband's Birthday

Last Saturday evening, Mrs. Morgan Lovelace entertained at a birthday party in honor of Morgan's (?) birthday. The affair was a five-table bridge party, there being twenty guests present. After bridge, the hostess served dainty refreshments.

Carrizozo Woman's Club

The regular meeting of the Carrizozo Woman's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Morgan Lovelace Friday, Nov. 20, at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Albert Ziegler to Entertain Bridge Club

Mrs. Albert Ziegler will entertain the Carrizozo Bridge Club at her home Saturday afternoon.

E. C. Trieb, Lessee of the Lyric Theatre, was here Tuesday from Roswell, accompanied by G. Earnest, who first managed the theatre after Mr. Trieb assumed charge. After remaining here for the day, they left for Alamogordo and Tularosa on business matters. They came back Wednesday and went on to Roswell.

In Honor of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McCourt

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Sager entertained at the Carrizozo Eating House Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McCourt of Hermosa Beach, Cal., with a six-table bridge party. Mrs. W. C. McDonald and Mrs. T. A. Spencer were the prize-winners. A delightful luncheon was served after the bridge game. Guests numbered twenty-five.

To Give Entertainment

At the regular meeting of Carrizozo Lodge No. 30, I. O. O. F., it was decided to hold a social luncheon and smoker after the next business meeting on Tuesday night, Nov. 17. It was also decided to give another of the free entertainments in honor of Coalora Lodge, Order of Rebekahs, I. O. O. F., and their families and close friends, in the near future.

At this entertainment, their will be a musical program and addresses, and will terminate with an elaborate luncheon.

The date of the affair will be announced later.

Miss Charlotte Rice, Mrs. J. M. Penfield and mother, Mrs. Tompkins, were here from Lincoln Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. F. H. Johnson and Miss Marie Brunk were week-end visitors at El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCourt, who arrived here last Friday for a short visit with Mrs. W. C. McDonald and other relatives, left for their home in Hermosa Beach, California, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lemon, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Blaney, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ben S. Burns of Three Rivers and Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Bloss of El Paso, spent a pleasant afternoon at a picnic in the Nogal Canyon last Sunday.

Died at Hershey, Ill.

On Oct. 24, A. T. Anderson, who resided for about 8 years at Parsons, when employed by the Parsons Mining Co., died at his home in Hershey, Ill. Having lived here for so long a period of time, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson made many friends over the county who will be sorry to learn of his passing. He leaves a wife and one daughter to mourn his loss, to whom the friends of the family in this section will extend their sympathy.

Roy Aubrey has leased the J. R. Adams Pool & Billiard Hall.

ANCHO NOTES

Rev. Jordan of Carrizozo held services here last Sunday.

Miss Mary Louise Hall spent last week at Capitán visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kile were in El Paso last Sunday.

The L. D. Standard family arrived here last week from Lovington and will make their home on the Sowder ranch.

J. F. Barker is here from San Angelo, Texas.

Mmes. Henderson, Warden and Frame motored to Santa Fe to attend the teachers' convention, returning late Saturday evening.

Pete Frame has recently purchased a Chevrolet truck. He has contracted for a considerable amount of freighting.

Elvin Harkey, who has been acting as agent at Mosquero for the past month, has returned home. During his absence, Mrs. Harkey and children spent the time with her mother at Alto.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Pruet went to Duran to enjoy the local talent of that little place in a Negro minstrel show. Both Mr. and Mrs. Marion Pruet took parts in the performance.

The Woman's Club was entertained by Mrs. Kile, Saturday, Nov. 7. Owing to a mixup on the date, the attendance was not as large as usual, about twelve members being present. Guests were: Misses Caldwell and Mayben. During the roll call which was answered by ghost stories, the room was darkened which gave a ghost-like weirdness to the tales. Business matters were quickly dispatched and word study interestingly discussed under the leadership of Mrs. Bullard.

Two tables decorated in the fall colors of orange and yellow set forth seasonable refreshments of doughnuts and sweet cider. Yellow satin ribbons ran from each place to a centerpiece made from pumpkin shells filled with red apples which concealed slips bearing a fortune for each guest. Nut cups and candles further carried out the color scheme. Mrs. Price Miller will be club hostess Nov. 21st.

Mrs. John Dale, daughter Effie and George Straley were Carrizozo business visitors Monday. E. W. Shelton made a trip to Clovis last week.

NOGAL NEWS

There are a few cattle buyers in the community now buying up a few head of fat cattle.

Jesse May has commenced the erection of his new residence.

There are a few men camping on or near the New Road Project, waiting for work to start.

The local showers are delaying the hay bailing in this district.

The Placer Mines are still working in this district, finding a few nuggets and colors of the golden metal.

The Nogal School is giving a pie supper on Nov. 25th for the benefit of the pupils' Christmas candy fund. Everybody is invited to attend.

Mrs. A. B. Zumwalt was down from Nogal yesterday, doing some shopping and visiting Mrs. Murray Zumwalt and the new grandson at the hospital.

LYRIC THEATRE

Talking Pictures at their Best

Thursday-Friday-Saturday—"Africa Speaks" The strangest romance ever filmed. Two-part Comedy. News Reel. Also Chapter 8 of "The Phantom of the West."

Sunday-Monday-Tuesday—Walter Huston in "The Criminal Code." As Sensational as the great stage success. Greater on the screen. An outstanding Talkie.

Coming—Thursday-Friday-Saturday—Eddie Quillan in "Sweepstakes." The year's big Races on the world's largest track. Thrilling! Suspense! Action!!!

High School Notes

From Wednesday afternoon until Monday morning the teachers enjoyed themselves in Santa Fe and the students rambled around at will for four whole days, Monday morning everyone with one or two exceptions was back and ready for a week's study. The teachers all report a very nice time and are anxious, seemingly, to be off again. This will probably be our last vacation before Thanksgiving, as we had school Armistice Day.

We see that Elmer Catt is back with us again, after a visit since last Tuesday on Tex Austin's dude ranch, 30 miles east of Santa Fe. Elmer reports a grand time and plenty of good-looking girls, even if the dude season is almost over.

Mrs. Hobbie has kindly donated about 90 copies of the Saturday Evening Post to the library and the school as a whole wishes to thank her. We are sure that many will profit by reading these magazines.

"Whizzer" Lewis is absent this week working for the Stokes Cattle Co., but we see the curly-headed rascal once in a while.

Mary Bell, who started school two weeks ago, and swelled the ranks of the Seniors, reports that she is enjoying her work very much and is glad to be back in our schools once more.

Dorothy Dozier gave a party for the Seniors last Thursday and all report a fine time. Dancing was the main thing of the evening and delicious refreshments were served.

Rev. Jordan came over Tuesday morning and delivered a worth while address on the significance of Nov. 11. This is the second time Rev. Jordan has addressed us and we hope to hear from him often during the year.

Mr. Groce has received the names of the Music Contest numbers and the members of the different musical organizations are anxious to get started on them and practice them until they may be rendered so as to bear all competitors in the contest in the spring.

We want everybody who can, to attend the Carrizozo-Corona football game Friday, the 18th. Universally supposed to be an unlucky date, but as there are two teams for the bad luck to fall on, we feel sure that Corona will be beaten.

There is to be a grade school operetta Dec. 12, assisted by the High School Orchestra, and all are practicing for this occasion.

The school is very grateful to Mrs. McCammon for the donation of a large and valuable collection of books. Our library is still below requirements and we greatly appreciate books from friends of our school.—H. S. Reporter.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Echoes of the Hoover-Laval Conference—Tremendous Victory of British Conservatives—Japan Doesn't Weaken in Manchurian Affair.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PREMIER LAVAL has sailed back home happy in the belief that his conversations with President Hoover accomplished a great deal toward settling world problems. And Mr. Hoover and his aids presumably are equally satisfied. Others, in America and Europe, are doubtful. However, deductions from the rather vague statement issued by the President and the premier are that the real achievements of the conference are these:

Co-operation between the United States and France on the economic and financial remedies necessary to end worldwide depression; recognition of the fact that Germany may find it necessary to call for re-examination of its capacity to pay reparations, as provided by the Young plan, in lieu of extension of the Hoover moratorium; maintenance of the gold standard and a stabilization of exchange rates through the medium of international monetary conferences, if necessary; an end of the drive on the dollar, so far as French holders thereof are concerned, and an excellent understanding of the political problems which underlie such questions as disarmament.

Senator Borah's projection of himself and his opinions into the discussions will be a subject of excited speculation for some time to come. Whether or not he tried to steal the spotlight, he almost succeeded in doing just that when he bluntly told the French correspondents that the Versailles peace treaty would have to be revised, especially in regard to the Polish corridor and the division of Hungary, and that the United States would not enter into any security pact. In later conversations with M. Laval and with Tuzys Pillsbortz, the minister from Poland, Mr. Borah stuck to his pronouncements though he admitted considerable ignorance of conditions in central Europe. M. Laval treated the chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations with politeness, but the French newspapers dismissed his suggestions as childish.

MANY of the Berlin papers called the party in Washington a failure, but German statesmen unofficially expressed their satisfaction because President Hoover advised Europe it must get together and arrive at a definite agreement, not only on reparations, but on war debts plan. He did not, it was remarked, address himself to France and Germany alone. It was said that Germany fears that the country might be placed at the mercy of France if the Washington parties failed to accomplish a joint solution had proved unwarranted, and that the problems are now before Europe as a whole. Berlin feels that an international conference on war debts and reparations must be called quickly.

Germany derived further satisfaction from the visit to Berlin of Dino Grandi, foreign minister of Italy. The Italian pledged his country to help Germany in the task of overcoming its present great difficulties, and the Berlin officials also believe that the forthcoming trip of Signor Grandi to Washington will further clarify the situation and redound to the benefit of Germany.

GREAT BRITAIN went to the polls and gave the Nationalist government of Ramsay MacDonald a most astonishing victory. The Labor party was almost wiped out so far as parliamentary membership goes, and the Conservatives are in full control. Though at this writing the returns are not quite complete, it is known that every member of the cabinet is re-elected except Sir William Jowett, attorney general, who lost to another Conservative candidate, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden, who was not a candidate. The success of Prime Minister MacDonald himself at Seaham Harbor was in doubt for a time, but he won by a good majority. Among the victors were Lady Nancy Astor and Viscount Boredale, son of Earl Beatty.

Labor party leaders who went down in defeat included Arthur Henderson, Ben Tillett, Ben Turner, John Clynes and Margaret Bondfield. They and other prominent Laborites will be provided with seats later through the resignation of members representing safe constituencies. Sir Oswald Mosley, wealthy leader of the new party, was a poor third in his district. The triumph of the Conservatives is so tremendous that it may prove embarrassing and result in the downfall of Prime Minister MacDonald. The Tories have such a huge majority that they probably will take over the control of the government. In that case it is expected they will undertake to pass protective tariff legislation, though Stanley Baldwin and other Conservative leaders have been rather noncommittal on that subject.

RADICAL Republican congressmen, eight in number, have served notice on the regular Republicans that they will not co-operate with the latter in the organization of the new house unless their demands for agricultural and unemployment relief are given consideration. These La Follette followers, according to their newspaper in Madison, are to hold a meeting within a few weeks and have invited the attendance of radical representatives from other states, namely: Philip D. Swing, California; E. H. Campbell, Iowa; Florello La Guardia, New York; James H. Sinclair, North Dakota; O. B. Lovette, Tennessee, and Paul J. Kvale, Minnesota.

DEMOCRATIC financial experts in the senate are proposing the creation of a $2,000,000,000 pool for the government for immediate redistribution of frozen real estate securities and other slow paper in the hands of banks. The plan was put forward by Senator Bulkeley of Ohio, who called it a corollary of the Hoover emergency economic program. He urged that it should be carried out through an established government agency rather than a new one, and suggested the federal land bank. His idea is that the government should float bonds to raise the huge sum, believing that such an issue would do a lot in drawing currency out of hoarding.

Senator Glass of Virginia, who is spokesman for the Democrats on banking matters, gave the Bulkeley plan his approval. Both these senators are on the banking subcommittee now engaged in drafting new legislation. They have declared their opposition to any tampering with the federal reserve system in the effort to get the organization to re-count new paper to meet the emergency.

CONTROVERSY over the administration's naval economy program reached the acrimonious stage. William Howard Gardner, president of the Navy league, a civilian organization, gave out a statement attacking the President's navy construction policies and accusing Mr. Hoover of "abysmal ignorance" of the reasons why navies are maintained. The President retorted with the announcement that he would appoint a committee to investigate the charges made by Gardner, declaring they were full of untruths and misstatements and that at the conclusion of the inquiry he would expect a public apology from Gardner.

SECRETARY OF WAR HURLEY, on his return to Washington, reported to President Hoover what he learned in the Philippines, and immediately thereafter Mr. Hoover announced that in his opinion independence for the islands at this time, without assurances of economic stability, would lead to disaster. He knows, however, that a large group in congress, perhaps a majority in each house, is ready to vote for independence, so he is getting ready to offer a new policy for the islands that he hopes will head off such legislation. This policy provides for American cooperation in giving the Philippines economic and governmental stability. The methods to be presented in the President's message at the opening of congress in December. He wishes to foster the establishment of efficient self-government and to promote the development of foreign markets for the products of the islands.

ENGLAND'S troubles in Cyprus continued, although troops were hastily brought to the island by plane from Egypt and warships were concentrated there. The unrest was reported to be spreading to Malta. The Cypriotes want their island turned over to Greece and the Maltese apparently seek union with Italy. The governor of Cyprus, Sir Ronald Storrie, whose official residence in Nikosia was burned by the rioters, reported later that the situation in the island's towns was easier except in Kyrenia, where mobs tried to tear down the British flag and hoist the flag of Greece. In some other places the natives fought the troops and burned customs buildings. The bishop of Kyrenia was among those arrested.

It is not at all surprising to learn that the Third International is blamed for the outbreaks in Cyprus and the unrest in Malta. The colonial office in London has known for some time that the Communists were working in those islands through the British branch of the League Against Imperialism, and it was discovered the other day that the Communists had planned to blow up the immense naval and private stores of oil in Cyprus. It was also learned that Maltese organizations have called on their merchants scattered throughout the Mediterranean to join in a boycott of British goods.

ONE must admire the nerve and steady persistency of Japan even if her rights and motives are questionable. As the Manchurian affair stands now, the Japanese are ready to fight China if that is necessary to enforce their demands, though they profess only peaceful intentions; they have defied the League of Nations, refusing to listen to the order of the league council that they withdraw their troops in Manchuria to the railway zone before November 16, when the council will reassemble; they commanded the Chinese government to repair at once a river bridge which was damaged by bombs from their own planes; and now they have sent, through Foreign Minister Shidehara, a "friendly warning" to the Soviet Russian government urging that Russian troop demonstrations on the Manchurian-Siberian border be discontinued. Baron Shidehara told Moscow he was deeply concerned over these military movements and that they were causing an unpleasant effect on both Chinese and Japanese soldiers.

Chinese reports to the Japanese consul at Tientsin indicate that between 20,000 and 30,000 Russian troops are concentrated in the vicinity of Pogranitchnaya, or Sushen, north of Vladivostok, and also west of Manchou on another front. The Nanking government has hopes that Russian pressure on the Manchurian border may act as a check on Japan, but realizes that China would be worse off if Russia should strengthen its grip along the Chinese Eastern railway at Chinese expense. Japanese dispatches from Harbin said the Russians had sent arms and ammunition to the Amur army of Chinese and Mongols that is supposed to be aiming at establishing Amur as an independent state.

When the league council meets Japan will lay before it, as part of its case, a list of treaties which it contends China has failed to respect. Tokyo refuses to consider the proposal to refer these pacts to the Hague peace court, holding there is no difficulty in their interpretation.

OVER in Jugoslavia they are going to have an important election on November 8, and it may result in the curbing of the royal power. Recently Peter Zivovitch, lieutenant general of the royal guard and a popular figure in the country, became premier. Now he has been compelled to resign his commission in the army to conform to the king's bidding that he place himself as a civilian at the head of the government party list in the election. Some political observers see in the king's action a subtle move to deprive Zivovitch of his great strength.

SUBSCRIPTIONS to the half billion dollar private pool formed according to the President's proposals have been coming in so plentifully from all parts of the country that its managers informed the President it was about to put the credit-extension plan into operation by helping banks turn their good but frozen assets into cash for business purposes.

Hopeful of buoyant results from the plan, the administration has dropped for the time being its contemplated action for strengthening railroad bonds. One reason for this is the belief of officials that no such move should be made while the railroads still are considering the interstate commerce commission's proposal that they pool revenue from specific rate increases to aid weaker roads.

AL CAPONE, who was sentenced to eleven years in prison and fined $50,000 by Federal Judge Wilkerson in Chicago for income tax fraud, is to remain in the county jail, there until the United States Court of Appeals passes on his case. He hoped to be released on bail, but this the appeals court refused, though it decreed that he should not be sent to Leavenworth immediately, as Judge Wilkerson preferred.

Philip D'Andrea, Capone's bodyguard during the trial, was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Wilkerson on the charge of contempt of court. He was found to be carrying a revolver into the courtroom, and the judge considered him a part of the hoodlum organization that tried to intimidate the government's witnesses.

PROMINENT men who passed away during the week included Ronald W. Boyden, American member of the world court at The Hague; John M. Bowman, president of a great hotel corporation, and Charles A. Conlisky, owner of the Chicago American league baseball club. PRESIDENT GUIGIARI of Paraguay was forced out of office by outbreaks of his opponents, led by students, and the presidency was taken over by Vice President Havana. (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

STAGE COACH TALES

By E. C. TAYLOR

The Bandit's Nemesis
JAMES CURRY was the most noted of all the stage coach drivers on the old Baraboo-Kilbourn line when Wisconsin was little more than a wilderness and the roads were quagmires and rough, rocky trails through the forests.

Tall and fearless, Curry's word was law along the stage line, and his fearlessness and the respect in which the new inhabitants of the country held him proved the undoing of one of the most desperate bandits and gunmen in the old Northwest. Curry's stretch of the road was miles of sandy trail north of Baraboo. He drove coaches over this route from 1860 until the Chicago & North Western railroad extended its line from Kilbourn to Baraboo in 1871. During the last nine years of this period he owned the stage coach line, but continued to drive through the "bad" section.

In the late 60's the entire countryside lived in fear of Pat Wildrick, one of the most noted bandits in the history of the American frontier. Pat was leader of a band of lawless men who stooped to any crime to do his bidding. Baraboo was already a thriving community, and the railroad line ran to Kilbourn. Curry's stage coach line made its chief revenue by carrying money from the railroad at Kilbourn to towns along the route, but principally to the bank at Baraboo. The people trusted Curry so greatly that they never thought of having their packages of money insured, and many a farmer or housewife would turn money over to him after stopping his coach along the road, and have him pay their bills, or buy things for them at Kilbourn or Baraboo.

Curry received 50 cents for each $1,000 cash he transported across the country. One night he was handed $12,000 to be carried to the Terrell Thomas bank at Baraboo. Just as he was leaving two strangers crawled into the stage coach, sat in the rear seats and conversed in whispers. As the stage crossed the river and entered a section thick with pine woods, the two strangers continued to talk in low tones.

Curry recalled that Pat Wildrick and his gang some time before had attacked S. S. Gates and his wife near the same spot, and while the authorities were hunting Pat, a pal of the bandit chief had murdered Gates at this same spot on the road. Curry whipped up his horses, fully convinced that besides the $12,000 in cash he was carrying two of Pat's bandit gang. He expected to be attacked at any moment.

Arriving at Baraboo, Curry breathed a sigh of relief. There he learned that the two strangers were law-abiding persons, who talked low as a matter of habit. The entire countryside was uneasy when Pat was at large, and Curry was constantly on the lookout for the bandit.

Pat once escaped from the Baraboo jail, and poses searched the woods for miles around for him. As Curry drove his stage coach peacefully along the road near Oechner park, he spied the bandit leader hiding in the woods. He drove along for a short distance as though nothing unusual happened, until he met some of the posse. He called to them, and led them back to Pat's hiding place. The bandit was speedily recaptured. As Pat was hurried back to the Baraboo jail, he shouted to Curry:

"Young man, I'll see you later." The Irish bandit had a habit of keeping his word, and Curry and all of Baraboo knew what he meant by saying he would "see him later."

Curry was wary thereafter, but the Irish bandit must have realized that it would be dangerous for him to attack the stage coach driver, as Curry was well guarded constantly from the day of the threat by friends who liked the driver. At any rate, Curry was the one man in the whole countryside whom Pat did not dare raise a hand against.

Pat's career ended soon after that, at the end of a rope in the hands of a mob at Portage, Wis. (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Married-School Teachers
The Office of Education says that there are no state laws prohibiting married women from teaching in the public schools. In a recent survey made by the National Education association, of 1,533 cities having a population of over 2,000, of the number reported, 39 per cent employ married women teachers. Twenty-nine per cent of the cities require a woman to stop teaching as soon as she marries, while 23 per cent require that the woman resign at the end of the year if she marries during the year.

Planetary Distances
The planet whose orbit is nearest that of the earth is Venus. The mean distances of the several planets from the sun are as follows, in millions of miles: Mercury 36, Venus 67.2, Earth 93, Mars 141.5, Jupiter 483.3, Saturn 961. Uranus 1,782.5, Neptune 2,796.4. Our satellite the moon is our nearest neighbor in space, her average distance from us being 238,000 miles. The moon's volume is about 1-80th and her mass about 1-31st that of the earth.

Better Varieties of Fruit Needed

Experiment Station Head Tells of Problems of Growers.

Dr. U. P. Hedrick, director of the New York state experiment station and for many years in charge of the station's fruit investigations, when asked by the American Agriculturist to name some of the important problems confronting the fruit grower, stated that in his opinion economic problems were the most pressing but also more and better varieties of fruit should be grown and better utilization made of culls.

Citing the need for legislation to put agriculture on the same economic basis as industry and for development of marketing facilities and the reduction of unprofitable acreages in fruit, Dr. Hedrick said in part, "Too few varieties of the several fruits are grown. Of the many kinds that might be grown in one fruit region or another in the several regions, we now find on the markets but a half-dozen varieties of apples, two or three kinds of pears, the Elberta peach, the Montmorency cherry, the Concord grape, and so on. Were more sorts grown with different flavors and colors and for different seasons and purposes, fruit growing would be greatly stimulated.

"Then, too, there are too few good sorts of any fruit. The introduction of new and better kinds of fruit in the years to come will have a great influence in rehabilitating fruit growing. Also, there are too many culls, and too few ways of using culls. Perhaps 50 per cent of the fruit produced in America goes to waste from preventable causes, such as insect pests, poor orchard management, etc. There will always be culls and poor fruits, but the percentage need not be nearly so large as it is, and better means must be found for using cull fruits."

Remember These Points When Storing Apples

The following suggestions are given by a Wisconsin horticulturist on keeping apples:

First, properly ripened fruit that is to be kept during the winter should be hand picked. Apples should not be overmature when picked as they keep better if they are firm but still mature.

Second, handle the fruit with care, no bruises and punctures cause decay. Only sound apples, free from disease, should be selected.

Third, apples should not be stored in bins. Bushel baskets and the common apple box are more satisfactory for storage than the larger containers.

Fourth, as soon as the fruit has been picked and placed in baskets, it should be set where it will be shaded and yet protected from the rain. The north side of building is often used. Apples may remain outdoors until time of hard frosts, at which time they should be removed to the cellar for winter storage.

Fifth, the cellar should be cool, kept as near 32 degrees Fahrenheit as possible. It should also be dry and ventilated at night. A false slatted floor should be laid so that air may circulate underneath the apples. If the cellar has a concrete floor, it should be sprinkled frequently so that the apples do not shrivel.—Michigan Farmer.

Importance of Pruning

Pruning is one of the most important of all orchard operations. Greater success in orchard work can be accomplished by proper pruning, and perhaps more damage done by injudicious cutting of fruit trees, than by any other orchard practice. The basis of all pruning is closely allied to the fundamental principles of plant growth; the practices of pruning are governed by climate, kind of fruit, and the particular purpose for which the fruit is grown. The objects in pruning are to develop a strong, well-proportioned tree; to modify its shape and growth to meet natural, local conditions; to satisfy economic requirements, such as cultivation, spraying, and harvesting; to influence production and the character of the fruit; and, to maintain the full vigor and health of the tree.

Imported Seeds Colored

Color, dominant in the commercial world today, is used for the protection of the American farmer in determining the origin of imported alfalfa seed, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Federal law requires coloring of all imported alfalfa seed. This coloring enables the purchaser to determine at a glance the origin of the seed. Alfalfa seed from South America must be stained 10 per cent orange-red. That from Africa and Turkestan must be stained 10 per cent red, and that from Canada 1 per cent iridescent violet. All other imported seed must be stained 1 per cent green.

Clover Yield Shows Value

Fifty plots of sweet clover were laid out under different treatments of commercial fertilizers, barayard manure and limestone by F. E. Wilson, Okmulgee county, Oklahoma. The soil was sour and infertile before he made the test, which was in co-operation with his county agent. The sweet clover made a good growth on all plots treated with lime and phosphate. These receiving fertilizer in addition to the limestone made the heaviest growth.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. The particles of seed skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, freckles, tan, and wrinkles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. You look years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles use one ounce. Mercolized Wax is designed in one-half pint glass, at drug stores.

COMFORT FOR COLICKY BABIES

... THROUGH CASTORIA'S GENTLE REGULATION

The best way to prevent colic, doctors say, is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste. But remember this: a tiny baby's tender little organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged. This is just the time Castoria can help most. Castoria, you know, is made specially for babies and children. It is a pure vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. For years it has helped mothers through trying times with colicky babies and children suffering with digestive upsets, colds and fever. Keep genuine Castoria on hand, with the name:

Beetle Largest Insect?
In wing expanse alone the moth Erebos acripinna, with a spread of 11 inches, is the largest insect known today. If size is to be gauged by bulk combined with body length, the beetle Macrodontia cervicornis, which ranges up to 6 inches in length, is perhaps the largest known.

Drink Away that heavy, drowsy feeling!

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form. This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

A Candle in the Wilderness

A Tale of the Beginning of New England

by IRVING BACHELLER

THE STORY

Robert Heathers and William Heydon, to escape secular and religious tyranny, leave England in 1634 for the New world.

Robert sat opposite William, between Margaret Winthrop and a comely but commonplace girl.

William answered: "If I am, it is a kind of illness of which I would to God there were no cure."

The young men sat and looked at each other and laughed.

The final scene in this little comedy of youth, old as human joy, came a week later after a supper party at Mrs. Winthrop's.

Robert sat opposite William, between Margaret Winthrop and a comely but commonplace girl.

The Girl Said: "You May Write but I—Am Not Afflicted With Dim Eyes and the Ignorance of Age."

As she spoke she turned to him with a look of interest.

"I think that I will not tell you," she sighed and looked into his eyes, saying: "You get me burning with curiosity and then throw cold water on me."

The young man looked at her. His passion broke its fetters of restraint.

When Jefferson imported the French sculptor, Jean Houdon, in 1784, to execute a statue of Washington, there existed the opinion that the author of the Declaration had better stick to statecraft.

the wooling of a snail—even a young and winsome snail."

She answered with a laugh: "I think it would be a dull affair."

"Then why should I imitate it? Have I not what our Will has called 'the bounding pulse of youth'?"

She felt her wrist, saying: "I think that mine needs more stimulation."

"There was an invitation in her eyes, and he tried to kiss her but she resisted him."

As William arose to go she added: "Consider the humble snail. He never hurries."

"The lucky snail has no clock. It is late in Boston. Even now I must argue with the constable."

At the door she whispered: "Come back to me after you have seen my father whatsoever he may say."

She stood close to him looking into his eyes. He embraced her and their lips met.

Then she said in a whisper: "You thief! Now go home and forget all about this, if you can."

"If you can," he said to himself as he went away. "What a pretty bit of impudence!"

CHAPTER III

Robert's Love-Affair and the Social Earthquake in New Boston

William had his talk with Mr. Brade. The man was kind and favorably disposed but firm as a rock.

"I set you a hard task, but it is one to test your worthiness," said he. "You shall be welcome to our home as often as you wish to enter it."

William gave his word and kept it. Still it was impossible that no progress should be made in that affair.

William came to the house and returned to his home and no word of love was spoken, but youth has its way of speaking without words.

The young man bought a pair of Flemish mares and, on the approval of the court, some two thousand acres of land an hour or so from the neck, a part of which had been burned over.

"I came in the hope of finding Mr. Brade here," he began. "William and I grew up together. I am quite a rogue. He is the most innocent creature I have ever known, and the most generous. It is unnecessary to keep these young people waiting for the slow ships. I could not wait, Madam, one look in a pair of eyes like those of your daughter and my promise would be forgotten. William is different. You could search the world and find no higher type of gentleman. I came to say this, and having said it, and more even than I intended to say, I shall go."

When he was gone Bess turned to her mother saying: "A gallant, fascinating, beautiful man!"

"I fear that he is a subtle rogue of a man," her mother answered. "You have not learned wisdom. You have a glowing eye for every handsome young buck that comes along."

While Robert was, like most young gentlemen of the time, a bit of a rogue and deeply impressed by the girl's beauty, this verdict was too severe. It would seem that many women of the colony entertained suspicions of young men who were handsome and unattached, especially if they were of the gentry and lately arrived.

Wild rumors often followed them on the wings of the wind. There was little reading, but that which the Bible afforded. News went by word of mouth. Therefore, the tongues of the ladies were well developed. However, it must be said that Robert had been moved by the best of motives in his errand.

Their house was finished and furnished—a neat, simple wooden structure of five rooms with a "lean-to" for a kitchen. William and Robert were living in it. A well-born, elderly lady of the parish, one Margaret Hooper, recommended by Doctor Cotton, was their housekeeper. A comely young Englishwoman of about thirty, whose husband worked in Newtown, came every day to do their cooking and milking, going home at night. Her name was Mabel Hartley.

L'Enfant's Grave

The body of L'Enfant, who helped plan the city of Washington, lies in Arlington cemetery. Pierre Charles L'Enfant was born in Paris August 2, 1755, and died at Chillum Castle manor, Prince Georges county, Maryland, June 14, 1825.

FARM POULTRY

KEEPING TAB ON AGES OF CHICKS

Good Reasons Why Matter Is Important.

The question may arise in the minds of some as to why it is necessary to be able to tell the differences in ages of pullets.

The answer is that when it is time to put the pullets in the laying house, there are some that are not worth keeping. These should be sorted out, and it is well to keep all of the same age and development by themselves.

The earliest maturing pullets are usually the best ones. If pullets of all ages are allowed to run together on range, it will be impossible to tell the difference between the slow-developing ones of the earlier hatches and the fast-growing ones of the later hatches.

Unless pedigree hatching and breeding are done and all chicks banded, such pullets cannot easily be told apart. They can easily be marked by too punching or alighting the webs between the toes.

Poultry House Litter

Carrier Has Advantage

In some of the newer commercial poultry houses a litter carrier and track has been installed to great advantage. The track is supported from the rafters just in front of the dropping boards.

The track may be extended through the house if the doors between units are arranged properly. At the end, or at both ends the track can be extended to allow the carrier to be dumped into a manure spreader.

This system greatly reduces the labor of cleaning the house. One great advantage of the large flock is the fact that labor-saving equipment can be installed with profit, permitting one man to care for many birds with a minimum of labor.—Exchange.

Care of Ducks

When duck eggs are hatched in an incubator, the temperature should be 102 degrees during the first week. For the remainder of the hatch, it should be held as near as possible to 103 degrees. The thermometer bulb should be placed level with the top of the duck eggs.

During the last ten days of the hatch the eggs can be sprinkled daily with water which is close to machine temperature. The eggs will usually begin to pip the 26th day and the machine should be closed. But if molting appears lacking and the ducklings are having trouble in emerging, it may be best to open the machine and add moisture. If possible, you should obtain the incubator instructions for hatching ducklings in the type of machine you are using.

The best results can be obtained by following any special instructions advised by the manufacturer.

Poultry Hints

The fact that the poultry industry can expand or contract rapidly with conditions makes it a stable one.

Artificial light for poultry merely makes a normal condition during an abnormal time and is not a forcing process, if used with reasonable judgment.

The careful division of pullets into laying units makes their management and feeding in laying flocks during the pullet year easier, more economical, and more exact.

A poultry man who continuously selects his breeding hens from the late molting group in his flock, may expect a higher egg production during the late summer and early fall.

Thoroughly repair, clean, and disinfect all laying houses before the pullets are confined to winter quarters.

Many poultrymen find that night lighting of baby chicks increases the growth since the chicks eat and drink at night.

Do not scald your squabs before picking for market. Learn to dry-pick, they have a much better appearance two or three days later than birds that were scalded before picking.

Bacillary white diarrhea of chicks can be controlled by testing breeding hens and eliminating the germ carriers.

Culling should be a continuous process, starting at the time chicks are received from the hatchery and extending over the entire laying period.

Principal defects of eggs delivered to candling stations which materially affect their sales value are dirt, yellow yolks, murky whites, shrinkage, beat, looseness and poor shells.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 15 PAUL IN JERUSALEM

GOLDEN TEXT—For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:17-23:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in Trouble. JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in Trouble. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul Faces His Enemies. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Bearing Testimony in the Holy City.

I. Paul's Vow (21:17-20).

Upon Paul's arrival at Jerusalem representatives of the church there gave him a cordial reception. In order that the brethren in Jerusalem might graciously receive him, it was proposed to him by the elders that he take a Jewish vow to prove that he was in no way opposed to the law. They recognized that such an act would in no way compromise or involve the Gentile brethren. Nor did it compromise his own principle of action; namely, to the Jews he became a Jew and to the Gentiles a Gentile, all things to all men in order to gain them for Christ.

II. Paul's Arrest (21:27-40).

How Paul's arrest conciliated the Christian Jews we are not told, but it enraged the unbefriending Jews, causing them to resort to mob law. These maddened Jews seized Paul, dragged him from the temple and beat him mercilessly, intending to put him to death. He was rescued from the mob by the Roman guard. In order to protect him from the murderous frenzy of the mob, the soldiers lifted him upon their shoulders and bore him up the stairs. Paul kept himself under control and politely asked permission of the captain to speak to the people.

When he addressed him in Greek and mentioned his Roman citizenship, the captain granted his request.

III. Paul's Defense (22:1-27).

Paul's chief concern was not his own safety. He used this last opportunity to witness unto them of Christ.

1. His claim for a rightful hearing (vv. 1-3).

a. His birth (v. 3). He was a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city of no mean reputation.

b. His education (v. 3). He was educated under the tutelage of Gamaliel, and instructed according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers.

c. His zeal (v. 3). He was as zealous toward God as the Jews who were trying to destroy him.

2. His former attitude toward Jesus (vv. 4, 5). "I persecuted this way unto the death."

3. How his attitude was changed (vv. 6-10). This change of attitude was brought about by the intervention of the Lord. While on his way to Damascus with authority to bind the Christians at Jerusalem, he was smitten to the ground by a light from heaven, and the voice of the Lord said, "Why persecutest thou me?" When Paul inquired as to what he was to do, he was told to go into Damascus where he would receive instructions. Ananias was sent to him by the Lord for this purpose.

4. The Lord commissioned him to go to the Gentiles (vv. 17, 21). It was not of his own will that he preached to the Gentiles but by the Lord's direct commission.

IV. Paul before the Sanhedrin (23:1-10).

The Roman officer in order to learn why Paul was arrested commanded the chief council to assemble and brought Paul before them. This shows that there was an effort made by the Romans to give justice to Paul.

1. Paul's earnest look at the council (vv. 1, 2). This was a solicitation of their honor to give him a fair hearing, and also a look of conscious integrity and unflinching courage.

2. Paul's stern rebuke of the head of the council. "God shall smite thee, thou whitened wall." Paul shows that he had the highest respect for the office, but the man now occupying it was not worthy of it.

3. Paul's appeal to the Pharisees (vv. 6-10). Seeing that he could not get a fair hearing, and perceiving that the body before him was made up of Pharisees and Sadducees, he appealed to the Pharisees, for his preaching had something in common with their belief.

V. The Lord Stood by Paul (v. 11). He was in great need of grace. He may have begun to question the wisdom of his going to Jerusalem, but the Lord assured him that his course was right.

VI. The Conspiracy to Kill Paul (vv. 18-22).

More than forty men banded together for the purpose of getting Paul out of the way.

The Divine Presence

Of the reality of fellowship with God every religious man is assured. Religion implies such a fellowship of love and grace on the part of God. How such a consciousness brings strength and comfort to a human heart let every one who knows the power of salvation attest.

Wool Week

Insistent demand from buyers that products from the nation's farms and ranges be used in place of inferior synthetic substitutes is responsible for revival in the use of mohair as a lining for men's suits and for furniture covering. It is revealed by a survey by the National Wool Marketing Corporation.

Swinging away from allowing clothiers to offer good quality clothes with cheapened, inferior linings as substitutes for mohair has been the aim of buyers who are returning to wearing values rather than 'cheaper' materials. At the same time, the individual who demands mohair for suit linings in his clothing is taking part in the great campaign to use farm produce in place of the synthetic materials and fabrics, the National points out.

Swinging away from allowing clothiers to offer good quality clothes with cheapened, inferior linings as substitutes for mohair has been the aim of buyers who are returning to wearing values rather than 'cheaper' materials. At the same time, the individual who demands mohair for suit linings in his clothing is taking part in the great campaign to use farm produce in place of the synthetic materials and fabrics, the National points out.

Buyers who champion the cause of American producers of mohair, cite the great need that every buyer should be certain his suit is mohair-lined to be assured of quality.

Individuals demanding that their merchants sell them this quality material rather than the substitute are benefitting the general mohair industry and at the same time got more for their money at less than actual cost, it is pointed out.

Manufacturers of mohair materials have improved their fabrics greatly in the past few years and by extensive tests and better weaving. The quality of goat and kid hair has become better, due to constant breeding up of the flocks in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon and Missouri, principal mohair producing states.

Fleeces in 1930 averaged 4.3 pounds, compared to 3.6 pounds in 1920, showing that better length, more even texture and uniform quality of the hard-wearing fibres has been increased.

Business Good at Roswell

The decided upturn in business conditions over the nation was reflected in business here Saturday, according to a survey of local merchants made Monday morning. They declared that Saturday was the best Saturday they had had for several months. There were more people in town Saturday than has been the rule for several months. Local merchants are confident that the turn has come and that better days are ahead for Roswell and all of southeastern New Mexico.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rinin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels, gas builds up your stomach. You have a tick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Believe It or Not—On Halloween night, a certain hombre was hired to guard a property against the pranks played by children on Halloween night, and just about sunset he made his appearance on the scene, "armed to the teeth." The kids gave him the horse-laugh and the next morning, the edifice which he was supposed to keep an eye on, was facing earthward. Moral—Kids are labeled "Fragile," "Handle With Care," and not with a foot-long pistol.

Ancho, New Mexico, nearest to land;
To Juan S. Martinez of Carrizozo,
N. M., Contestee:
You are hereby notified that Peter
M. Johnson, who gives Carrizozo, New Mexico, as his postoffice address, did on Oct. 5, 1931, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your homestead entry No. 038624, Serial No. 038624, made Aug. 10, 1928, for all Section 19, Township 5 S., Range 10 E., N. M. P. M., and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Juan Martinez never established residence on the land; that the said
Juan Martinez never placed any improvements on the land.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken as confessed, and your said entry will be canceled without further right to be heard, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically responding to these allegations of contest, together with due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant

RED CROSS RELIEF IN
79 DISASTERS IN YEAR
Forest Fires, Plagues, Storms,
Earthquakes, as Well as Drought, Call for Help.

The forest fires which have raged in Idaho and other western sections this year have presented a serious disaster—one of a number, in addition to the enormous drought relief problems, which have been met by the American Red Cross relief forces.

Suffering, faith and courage are contained in a story coming from the Priest River section in Idaho, told by a volunteer Red Cross worker as follows:

"Picture a happy little homestead near the banks of Priest river in northern Idaho. While father, with a little son tagging at his heels, is out tending crops and adding to the clearing, mother is at home making preparations for another arrival. Then comes the fire demon, sweeping all in its path. While father fights to protect his little home, the stork announces its arrival.

"Mother and baby are bundled in a quilt and loaded on a truck for the race through the flaming forest. Father drives the truck and the little boy sits at his mother's side, brushing away the sparks which fall like rain upon the improvised litter."

To the Red Cross worker, the mother expressed her anxiety to return to the hills to rehabilitate the little homestead. All they possessed was lost in the forest fires. The Red Cross aided all of the families and is working to help them rebuild their homes.

Altogether seventy-nine disasters called for Red Cross help and money during the year just closed. Aside from the drought, which required services of volunteer workers numbering more than 80,000, and a drought relief fund of more than $18,000,000 of which $5,000,000 came from the national Red Cross treasury, help was given in 23 fires, 13 tornadoes, eight storms and eight floods, six forest fires, four earthquakes and four mine explosions;
three typhoons and three epidemics,
two cloudbursts, and one each hurricane, mine cave-in and railroad accident.

Aside from a major catastrophe,
such as the drought, when the whole

Have Your Plane Licensed Before You Fly

ORDERS have been issued by the Department of Commerce that no one shall be permitted to operate an airplane unless the plane has been licensed by that department. In this way it is hoped the number of accidents may be greatly decreased. The officials of various states are doing their best to enforce this ruling. Our photograph shows Lieut. T. M. Hughes of the New York state police who is stationed at Roosevelt field to warn pilots against flying unlicensed planes. About November 1 he will begin making arrests, and the penalty is $100 fine or 90 days in jail.

So Bowser ran harder than ever and the Green Forest rang with his great voice, so that everybody within hearing knew that there was an exciting chase going on. Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow hurried over to watch it, and when they saw how close to Peter Bowser was, and that Peter wasn't trying a single trick, but seemed to be having the hardest work to keep out of Bowser's reach, they, too, were sure that something was the matter with Peter.

"He's trying to reach the Old Bryer Patch, and he'll never get there in the world!" cried Sammy Jay. "He's all out of breath now, and he hasn't reached the edge of the Green Forest yet. I never expected to see the day when Bowser the Hound would catch Peter Rabbit, but he's going to do it this time or my name isn't Sammy Jay."

Chic Evening Dress

This lovely evening dress is of wine colored flat crepe. The two pleated shoulder straps on the right and the one on the left give the dress a unique touch. The belt is pleated at waist and forms a bow in back with long streamers. The skirt is a gored and circular effect.

Make your children

STURDY

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil builds and protects the bodies of growing youngsters, infants, and expectant mothers. Doctors find it gives them a wealth of Vitamin A for correct growth, as well as Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin" so essential in building strong, healthy bones and teeth. Valuable calcium salts are also in it, and its pleasant flavor makes Scott's Emulsion easy for children to take. Good for adults, too! Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, H. F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

Look for Scott's Emulsion's "Rommage of the Sea" every Sunday at 1:30 p. m. over Stations KLF Los Angeles, KOIN Portland, KPRO San Francisco, KOL Seattle, KY Toronto and KRCY Chicago.

Atoms Take Journeys

Atoms, even the heavy atoms of lead, are wanderers. Prof. J. G. von Hevesy of the University of Freiburg in Breisgau, Germany, has been investigating their properties. Lead atoms are constantly in motion, even in solid metal, he believes. In an alloy of lead and gold, at a temperature half again as high as that of boiling water, the atoms wander through a space of a hundredth of a cubic inch in a day. When there is nothing but lead in the lump, however, moving about is not nearly so easy; in pure lead an atom can migrate in one day through a space of one to two ten-billionths of a cubic inch.

How easy it is for a man to think of the right excuse at the wrong time.

Easy Pleasant Way To Lose Fat

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—then get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

After that you'll want to walk around and say to your friends,—"One 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat person's money."

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts.

The lawyer's best friend is the man who makes his own will.

Good Health Is Your Natural State

But you can't expect to enjoy good health if you are allowing disease germs to accumulate and multiply somewhere in your system. Coughs, colds, bronchitis, tonsillitis, rheumatism and often neuritis are the work of disease organisms which must be attacked and destroyed if good health is to be restored. These and many other more serious types of infection may be controlled and good health restored by chemically destroying the germs, using B. & M., The Penetrating Germicide, to stop the bacterial poisoning. The B. & M. treatment is unlike any other—quick and positive in action. Your druggist should have B. & M. in stock. If he fails to supply you promptly, send us his name and $1.25 and we will mail you a full-size bottle. Helpful booklet free on request. F. E. Rollins Co., 53 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. (Adv.)

Britain's New Embassy

Located on a four-acre tract, the new British embassy at Washington is a gigantic, rambling structure of Queen Anne and Georgian design. The conception of Sir Edwin Lutyens, it has been carried out in fisher brick—a dull, parti-colored brick—and limestone. Variety and beauty of design characterize the building. There are 67 rooms, 23 with baths, as well as several showers, and a swimming pool in the back garden near the tennis courts. There are two nurseries, rooms for maids, footmen and chauffeurs, and there are libraries, sitting rooms, a drawing room, a long dining room and the ball room.

Familiar

On the arrival of two relatives whom Mary Jane had not seen for some time, her mother inquired: "Don't you know these visitors, Mary Jane?"

The child stilled them and, observing that one was extremely tall while the other was short, she replied:

"Is it Mutt and Jeff?"

The Ficker

"Have you and your wife selected a new car yet?" "No, she hasn't."

ACID STOMACH

EXCESS is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless, and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts. Be sure to get the genuine.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

BOWSER WONDERS WHAT AILS PETER

How now, how! Here is where I got you! Thump, thump, thump! I will never let you! IF UNC' BILLY FORSUM thought Peter Rabbit crazy when he ran out from the safety of the bramble-tangle in the Green Forest right under the very nose of Bowser the Hound, Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow hurried over to watch the chase.

you may be sure that Bowser thought the same thing. He had tried his very best to frighten Peter, and Peter had merely sat there and laughed at him. Then Peter suddenly hopped out right in front of him and Bowser was so surprised that for a minute he quite lost his voice and simply stared to the most stupid way. Peter hopped along a few steps and then thumped the ground, which was his way of saying "Catch me if you can!" "Of course I'll catch you!" roared Bowser. He didn't really believe he would, for he had chased Peter often enough to know that Peter was full of smart tricks, but he wanted to scare Peter, and then perhaps he liked to boast a little, too. Pretty soon he began to think that he really might catch Peter this time. You see usually Peter kept so far ahead of him that he only got a glimpse of him now and then and followed him by keeping his wonderful nose in Peter's tracks, but this time Peter kept only a little way ahead and in plain sight all the time, so that Bowser could follow him without depending on his nose at all. Sometimes Peter would let him get so close that it seemed as if he would surely catch him in the next jump, but somehow he never did.

Bowser was puzzled. There was no doubt about that. Peter wasn't doing any of the things he usually did. He didn't run in a single circle. He didn't once try to mix his trail. He didn't take a single long side jump to break his trail and make Bowser waste time in hunting for it. In fact he didn't play the game at all the way he usually did. You see Bowser had become so used to hunting Peter and never catching him that he had come to look at it as a game, and he knew that Peter looked at it the same way. Right down in his heart Bowser didn't want to catch Peter so much as he tried to make himself think he did. You see if he should catch Peter why that would put an end to these games.

But this time it began to look as if he really might catch him. Peter was running as if he were lame. "Something is the matter with him," thought Bowser. "As sure as I can wag my tail something ails Peter Rabbit. He isn't running right. What under the sun made him come out of that bramble-tangle when he knew that he was perfectly safe there? And why didn't he run into that hollow log we just passed? I couldn't have got him there and he knows it. He must have lost his senses. He must be crazy. Well, if he doesn't know enough to take care of himself it is no fault of mine. It is every one for himself in the Green Forest and Peter can't expect me to let him go after the way he has teased me and fooled me and made fun of me in the past."

What a Real Hailstorm Can Do

THIS is the Methodist church at Hayville, Mo., after hailstones as large as baseballs and blown by a 60 mile gale had demolished the sides of buildings which were exposed directly to the wind. Weather boarding was smashed, windows broken and shingles torn off.

the food chopper, mix with the berries. Roll the thin yellow rind of four large oranges in water to cover until the rind is tender, then chop fine. Put all the ingredients into a saucepan with ten cupsful of sugar, the pulp and juice of five large oranges. Heat slowly and cook until reduced to a jam.

Cranberry Frappe.

Roll one quart of berries (add two cupsful of water) for ten minutes. Strain through a coarse cloth, add two cupsful of sugar, stirring until it is well dissolved. Add the strained juice of two lemons and freeze to a mush.

Cranberry Drink.

Put one cupful of cranberries on to cook with a little water. Boil two quarts of water with three tablespoonfuls of oatmeal and the peel of half a lemon for ten minutes. Now add the strained cranberry juice and sweeten to taste, boil twenty minutes, then cool and add one cupful of orange juice, strain and serve.

Cranberry Bavarian Cream.

Whip a pint of double cream until stiff, add one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of gelatin which has been softened in water and liquidized over hot water. Mix with the cranberries, strained and sweetened, to which four tablespoonfuls of marshmallow sirup has been added. Fill the molds and pack in ice and salt for four hours.

SOMEWHERE BETWEEN

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

All things must be tempered. The wind from the sea is warmed by the sunlight; the shade of the tree makes cooler the summer; whatever God sends is tempered a little before the day ends. And so must a mortal, in dealing with men. Mix mercy with justice, forgetting again. The sisters who stumble, the brothers who fall, As God has so often forgiven us all.

If others offend you, be stern, if you must. And yet, in the heat of the quarrel, be just.

Yes, speak and yet listen, and argue yet hear; The fool is all shouting, the wise give ear. The wrath of the righteous, if wrathful, is wrong; The kind are the noble, the quiet the strong. All things must be tempered—the wind from the sea, And anger, whatever the quarrel may be.

For justice with mercy a monarch adorns; We man is all error, no rose is all thorns. And firmness with fairness, whoever offend, Whatever the quarrel, the matter may mend.

Yes, ruling with reason, and judging, yet just, The heart, not the mind, we may really trust. All things must be tempered—the truth will be seen. Met this side nor that side, but somewhere between.

USES OF CRANBERRIES

THE cranberry keeps better than any other berry because it has in its own composition an acid which is a preservative—sallylic acid. As this acid acts upon metals care should be taken to cook the berries in porcelain-lined or aluminum dishes—never in tin.

Fresh Cranberry Conserve. Take two cupsful each of cranberries put through the meat chopper, add the same amount of apples, one cupful of sugar and one-fourth cupful of pecan meats slightly broken. Let stand until the next day to season. This will keep for weeks in a cool place.

Cranberry Conserve. Wash five pounds of carefully picked over berries, chop them coarsely. Put two pounds of seeded raisins through

MANCHURIA

Station on the South Manchurian Railway.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

It is an unusual year in which Manchuria does not produce an upset in Far Eastern affairs. In 1929 there was friction between Chinese and Russians over the management of the Chinese Eastern railway of northern Manchuria—friction that brought a threat of war. Now Manchuria is the scene of grave difficulties between Japanese and Chinese, and again a railway is at the bottom of the trouble. This time it is the South Manchuria railway, owned and operated by a Japanese corporation. In a struggle centering around the railroad property near Mukden, capital of Manchuria, both Chinese and Japanese lives have been lost.

The world has grown to expect excitement from Manchuria; for in that country, as in Egypt and Mexico, it seems that drama never dies. From Hierabots, before Columbus was born, rode a Mongol horde to conquer Asia and harass Europe.

From here, scaling the Great Wall which timid Chinese had raised against them, came giant Manchus to oust the Ming and found a new dynasty at Peking (Peking).

Crossing the sea in clumsy junks 1,200 years ago, the same bold Manchus took tiger and leopard skins, ermine, and wild ginseng to trade with Japan for silks and brocades. Later, when the near-world empire of Kublai Khan rolled from the Yalu to the Danube, a Mongol fleet of a thousand ships sailed against the shoguns, only to be smashed by "God's Wind" on the coast of Kyushu.

Here, through turbulent years, three ancient empires met—the Bear, the Dragon, and the Rising Sun. Their struggles shook the earth. Korea succumbed, absorbed by the Rising Sun; the Dragon mothered Manchuria. War mangled the Bear, and to the north rose an evanescent Far Eastern republic.

Two Great Events.

Yet in all its repertoire of high adventure—political, martial, and economic—two events loom largest in the stirring story of Manchuria. They sway not only the destiny of ancient Manchuria itself, but they affect the fortunes and the future of Japan, China, and Russia. These events are the coming of the Russian-built railways, and the immigration of millions of Chinese farmers. In the last three decades these forces, railways, and immigrants, have jumped Manchuria ahead by 1,000 years—moved her from a region of feudal lords, bandits, and nomad herdsmen to a land of huge trade and agriculture. In many aspects strangely like part of the American West.

So swiftly these changes have come that very often old and new still clash in oddly visual violence. Thus now, across South Manchuria, you may ride a crack train, smooth, shiny, and fast as any Broadway limited or Frisco flyer—a solid train it is, of American pullmans, drawn by a big Baldwin locomotive made in Philadelphia—yet from its observation car you may see peasants pushing wheelbarrows with sails on them—a type of vehicle old in China when Confucius was a baby. Steam shovels made in Milwaukee are moving mountains; Yankee tractors, jerking a fleet of plows, scurry across the virgin plains, past walled hamlets where yellow men scratch garden patches with wooden hoes, as old Bible times.

Developed by the Railway.

As early as 1639 Russia, of course, had found her way to the Amur. By 1860 she had acquired the vast Maritime province, a veritable empire, stretching from the Ussuri river to the Sea of Japan and comprising an area as big as Mexico. Across this domain, in the 1890's, she was pushing her great Trans-Siberian railway to strike the sea at Vladivostok. But, as the map shows, the original Siberian road, to reach Vladivostok over Russian territory, had to run a roundabout course along the Amur valley and via Khabarovsk.

Six hundred miles would be saved if the Russians could build directly from Chita, on the Siberian road, straight southeast across Manchuria to rejoin the Trans-Siberian system near Pogranichnaya.

On the heels, then, of her friendly gesture in 1905, when Russia aided China to regain the area lost to Japan at Shimonoeki, the Bear asked the Dragon for the right to build a railway across Manchuria; and, by agreement signed September 8, 1906, that concession was granted. From it dates the rise of modern Manchuria.

That line and that original branch of it, now called the South Manchuria railway, with the economic rights they carried, were to do for Manchuria what the Union Pacific did for the American West. Like magic, these new railways were to turn a wild, thinly peopled nomad land into a modern Canaan, a granary of the East, drawing new settlers at the rate of anywhere from 300,000 to 1,000,000 in a single year.

Because of its conspicuous importance and its vast influence on migration, industry, and agriculture, it is worth while to review the development of this railway and of its extension, the South Manchuria railway. All over the civilized world, newspaper readers know this famous line now as the Chinese Eastern railway. By the terms of the original agreement, signed between China and the Russo-Chinese bank (later the Russo-Asiatic bank), it was to be a joint enterprise. The czar's engineers built it and the Russians had charge of its shops, maintenance, and technical operations; but Chinese were supposed to share equally with Russian directors in its general management. When completed, in June, 1903, it had cost in excess of $200,000,000. Of this cost, China, supplied about $5,000,000 and shared, proportionately, in its profits.

Towns Became Busy Cities.

When finished, the main line of the Chinese Eastern ran from its terminus at Manchuria, on the north-west border of Manchuria, to Pogranichnaya, on the eastern boundary. From Harbin, now a busy, important city and then a mere fishing village on the Sungari river, a branch line was dropped south to Dalny, now Dairen, on the Bay of Korea. Most of this section, or that part from Changchun south to Dairen, is now known as the South Manchurian railway.

Dalny was literally a magic city. Built quickly, by imperial command, it was the talk of the Far East. On this barren, then empty, point of rocks, engineers, architects, and workers of the czar spent millions of rubles to build wharves, streets, business blocks, and houses for a population yet to come. A magnificent vision, that—the vision of a great seaport, terminus of a 5,405-mile railway tying Europe to the Orient.

How observers laughed, at this amazing spectacle—vast trainloads of tools, food, tents, work animals, scrapers, and building material being dumped on a rocky shore of faraway Asia to build a city where there were no people! Yet today Dalny, Dairen, is the second or third most important seaport on all the China coast! In Manchuria something is always happening!

It happened again in 1904, when Japan fought Russia. One saw the holes in the armored sides of escaping Russian battleships—holes big enough to lead cows through, holes made by Togo's guns in Tsushima strait. Port Arthur, the impregnable, fell; ancient Mukden echoed and shook under the heaviest gunfire Asia had ever known.

Kuropatkin lost—and President Roosevelt mediated. In the peace conference at Portsmouth, N. H., Russia ceded to Japan her lease on the Liaoting peninsula and possession on the South Manchuria railway as far north as Changchun. China confirmed this and later extended Japan's lease for a period of 25 years.

But in Manchuria drama never dies. Tragedy, stark and terrible, stalked across the East when Imperial Russia collapsed. Refugees by the thousands, fleeing the horrors of postwar political chaos in Siberia, came east to beg, borrow, or starve in neutral Manchurian towns.

After Russia's Collapse.

In this chaos the Allies took over the operation of the Chinese Eastern railway. From their base at Vladivostok they needed it to move men and supplies. An American engineer, famous for his work on the Panama canal, was in charge. Later, the newly formed Soviet government took Imperial Russia's old place as partner with the Chinese. In 1924, by a new treaty, China enjoyed an equal share with the Soviets in the profits of the railway. It was agreed, too, that China should govern the railway zone, inhabited now by many thousands of whites, and that each nation in the compact should refrain from propaganda against the other's social and political systems.

That, stripped of details, is the brief story of the now famous Chinese Eastern railway up to June 11, 1929, when it was seized by the Chinese, its Russian personnel arrested, causing clouds of war once more to loom over this stage of so many historic struggles. This threat of war was later removed when Chinese and Russians again agreed to a joint management of the railway.

Neal's Mother Has Right Idea

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, hilly, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children. That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmlessly the bowels of babies and children are cleansed, regulated, given tone and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Western mother, Mrs. Neal M. Todd, 1701 West 27th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., says: "When my son, Neal, was three years old he began having constipation. I decided to give him California Fig Syrup and in a few days he was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all his colds or little upset spells. It always stops his trouble quick, strengthens him, makes him eat."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name and see that the carton bears the word "California." Then you'll get the genuine.

Clockmakers Celebrate

British clockmakers celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of Charles II's grant of their charter of incorporation as "Master, Wardens and Fellowship of the Art of Mystery of Clockmaking of the City of London."

Why is it a mother always expects her son to turn out better than his father did.

Wild Life Just Outside

Gay Capital of Italy

Although Rome has been a center of civilization for 2,500 years, it still lies just a few hours' train ride from one of the most rugged and wildest districts on earth, the province of Abruzzi.

Bears and wolves are still to be found wandering through the forests of this mountainous section, and shepherds are accustomed to encounters with them. Now it has been decided to stock the national park of Abruzzi with some of these animals before, if ever, they become completely extinct. Within a few weeks the director has had presented to him a chamois, which was rescued from a river into which it had jumped to escape from a wolf, and a baby bear, which was found wandering helplessly about after its mother had made a wild attack on a flock of sheep.

Shepherds are joining enthusiastically in the work of collecting fauna, and now, instead of shooting every wild animal, they hastily call the director of the park for help in capturing it.

Placing the Blame

President Patterson of the National Cash Register company criticized Russia on his return from Europe.

"Stalin," he said, "blames foreign capitalism for the want and misery Russia is undergoing now. Stalin is like Mrs. Johnson."

"Who broke your mantel mirror, Mrs. Johnson?" said a neighbor.

"My hubby, dear," said Mrs. Johnson. "He ducked."

According to Papa

Teacher—Name the Seven Wonders of the world.

Johany—I don't know but one of them, and that was papa when he was a boy.

In This Modern Day

"Dining in a restaurant? Where is your wife?"

"Broadcasting cookery hints."

A man says "I shall" and a woman "I will."

"FATIGUE?"

I just postpone it!

"No, I don't have 'nerves.' You can't have them, and hold this sort of position. My head used to throb around three o'clock, and certain days, of course, were worse than others."

"Then I learned to rely on Bayer Aspirin." The sure cure for any headache is rest. But sometimes we must postpone it. That's when Bayer Aspirin saves the day. Two tablets, and the nagging pain is gone until you are home. And once you are comfortable, the pain seldom returns.

Keep Bayer Aspirin handy. Don't put it away, or put off taking it. Fighting a headache to finish the day may be heroic, but it is also a little foolish. So is sacrificing a night's sleep because you've an annoying cold, or irritated throat, or grumbling tooth, or neuritis. These tablets always relieve. They don't depress the heart, and may be taken freely. That is medical opinion. It is a fact established by the last twenty years of medical practice.

The only caution to be observed is when you are buying aspirin. Bayer is genuine. Tablets with the Bayer cross are safe.

To Classify Blood Stains Classification of blood stains is being made by a German expert as an aid in crime detection. He believes that eventually the stains on the clothing of a suspect may be classified so that it quickly will be matched with that of the victim. While courts have recognized blood stains were made by human blood or not, there has been no test which will accurately determine the blood group of stains which have thoroughly dried. The expert believes he will supply this deficiency.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Elsa Charles, chief clerk and assistant at the local post-office, assumed her duties this week, after being ill of late.

Commissioner Diego Salcido was here Monday, attending the Commissioners' meeting. Diego, like others of the board, is always on the job.

Shirley Phipps is in Santa Fe this week, attending the federal court as a juror.

BORN—On Monday morning, November 9, to Mr. and Mrs. Murray Zumwalt, a boy. Mother and son are doing nicely.

Barney L. Luck of Alto and J. A. Brubaker of Capitan were business visitors here Monday.

The Board of County Commissioners met last Saturday and after transacting some important business, adjourned until Dec. 1. All members of the Board were present.

The first dance given for several years at Lutz Hall was given by the "Gloom Chasers" last Saturday night. A good sized crowd attended and the music was pronounced of the very best. There will be dances given at Lutz Hall all through the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Peaker were down from their home near White Oaks Monday. Mrs. Peaker is visiting among her friends, while Mr. Peaker transacted some business. They returned home in the afternoon.

Attorney John E. Hall spent Monday in Albuquerque, attending to professional business and returned Tuesday.

Quite a number of people from over the county are in the Magdalena country at present, picking pinons. Those who have returned, said that the hills were thickly settled with people from all over the state, and even some from as far as California.

Liah Leslie at the Carrizozo Meat Market has resumed the handling of Baby Beef and fresh meats of all kinds. He also serves chili, hamburger sandwiches and hot dogs which you may get by stopping at the window, if you choose. It's always open. Got 'em H-O-T!

Well Driller Gilbert has lately finished drilling a well on the ranch land near Lucy belonging to Miss Lahoma Bigelow. This was the second attempt, the first being made by another driller, who gave it up after having struck rock at the depth of 20 feet. Gilbert took the job, drilled through 75 feet of rock and brought in one of the best flowing wells in Torrance County. The owner would recommend him to anyone wanting first-class returns from well drilling.

A steady, soaking rain began to fall Sunday afternoon and continued until about 10 o'clock that night. As far as can be learned, it covered most of the territory for a distance of twenty-five miles around us. In conversation with our stockmen, they said that the rain did more harm than good, should cold weather set in. The rain, they said, softened the soil and gave the cold a chance to freeze the roots of the grass and killing it from spring growth.

The Bell Truck Line is the name of the new transfer and truck line now running between here and El Paso and delivering freight to all points on the route. The Bell Truck Line is operated by Mr. Ralph Bennett, who first introduced the truck business on this line. See the ad in this issue.

Died at Rabenton

Last Saturday afternoon at his ranch home near Rabenton, Margarito Ramirez passed away after having been bed-ridden for almost a year. Mr. Ramirez, a pioneer of Tularosa, had made his home in Lincoln County for the past 16 years, most of which time he resided in Carrizozo where he made many warm friends, all of whom were sad to learn of his demise. The funeral was held at Rabenton Monday and attended by many friends. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife; three daughters, Meadames Leandro Vega, Silas Gonzales, Manuel Rico, and two sons, Mariano and Maximiliano. Friends of the family extend their deepest sympathy.

In New Quarters

Prehm's Bargain House is in new quarters, having moved to stand recently vacated by the Carrizozo Hardware Company. The change was made for the reason which caused Mr. English to purchase the Lutz Building, namely, that of having more room to display goods. In the old stand, there was not a sufficient amount of space to display goods and besides, the present location being on the corner instead of the middle of the block, makes the business stand more desirable in every way.

Commissioner Sidney Jones, Mrs. Jones and little daughter Lucille were here from Corona Saturday, Mr. Jones attending a meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, while Mrs. Jones did some shopping and visited Carrizozo friends.

H. S. Hunter says in the El Paso Times—

Speaking of roads, "Buck" Wilson is in town from Mountainair. He is urging the advantages of going from here to Santa Fe by way of Carrizozo, Gran Quivera, Mountainair and Albuquerque.

"It will save 25 miles between El Paso and Albuquerque, and give a scenically and historically interesting country to go through after you reach Gran Quivera," he said. "There's a little bad road between Carrizozo and the Gran Quivera, cutting across a corner of Socorro county. It needs Federal Aid."

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Shaw and son Melbourne made a trip to Belen last Saturday, stayed over Sunday with Mrs. Shaw's parents and returned accompanied by Mrs. Shaw's aunt, Mrs. Nora L. Martin of Jacksonville, Florida, who is visiting the folks here and at Belen. She will remain until the holiday season is over.

John Dale and son Jim were here Wednesday morning from Ancho and went on to Capitan on a business trip.

Prof. D. U. Groce, superintendent of the Carrizozo schools, is recovering from his recent accident, although he limps a little bit.

Miss Jane Spencer and Frank James came in Monday from the State University at Albuquerque and are spending the week-end with the home folks.

Rich Hust and A. E. Helms were business visitors from Nogal, yesterday.

Thirteen Years Ago

Thirteen years ago last Wednesday, Lincoln County rejoiced with the rest of the world, for that fall day marked the end of that bitter conflict between nations, and the home-coming of loved ones, who by the mighty hand of fate had gone through the abominable horrors of war, and were to return home to their mothers. With the exception of Benjamin I. Berry, who was killed in action, our other heroes who took active part in the big fight and came back, although some of them wearing the scars of battle, are: Pete Johnson, M. C. St. John and Wm. Gallacher, Carrizozo; Morgan Reilly, El Paso; Henry Lutz, Roswell; Mr. Lindley, Lincoln, and Austin Wooten of Tucson, Arizona. Modest boys—never say much about their bitter experiences.

Bonnell a Friend to Deer

Bert J. Bonnell is nursing back to health a 10-point buck which he found recently near his ranch on the Ruidoso with a broken right front leg which had been penetrated by a bullet.

Bonnell roped the buck and brought the animal to his ranch where he was placed in a pen and the broken leg was splintered and bandaged.

Mr. Bonnell believes the buck will fully recover and will be as good as ever shortly. Mr. Bonnell said the animal was in bad physical condition when captured and evidently had been without either food and water for many days.—Roswell Record.

The dance at the Lutz Hall Saturday night furnished a lot of business for the barber shop on Alamogordo avenue, keeping Snow and Peck busy until a late hour. People like to 'slick up' before they go to a dance, you know.

County Clerk and Mrs. S. E. Greisen have moved into the residence formerly occupied by the George Young family on Alamogordo Avenue. Vincent Reil is having a garage and fuel house erected in the premises for the use of his tenants.

Baptist Church

Getting Ready For Church Service.—Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick reminded his Sunday morning hearers not long since that if they had said that morning on starting out that they were going to church service, they were mistaken. "This is not church service," he said emphatically. "Church service begins tomorrow morning at seven o'clock. This is getting-ready for it—for church service is a fight out there amid the din and dust of business, a fight for a Christian world." Some men think getting ready for church service is putting on hat and gloves and reading the Sunday paper while waiting for her to put on hers. Real church service—well, when the churches really get the service idea into the heads and hearts of their members, mighty things will be brought to pass.

Missionary Society

met in regular monthly session at the home of Mrs. Brack Sloan on Wednesday afternoon. About 35 were in attendance. Discussion of routine business, the election of officers and a short devotional took place.

Mrs. W. W. Walker succeeds Mrs. Boughner as president, the latter having declined the office for another year. Mrs. Boughner has served the society as president for the past two years in which time the membership has doubled itself, the society has become "Connectional" and has adopted modern and interesting routine methods of work and business.

It is needless to say that all this took place largely because of Mrs. Boughner's ceaseless efforts, combined with her recognized executive ability, and it is with real regret that the Society sees her relinquish her office.

The new office rooms above the Carrizozo Hardware Co. in the Lutz building is about ready for the tenant, attorney John E. Hall. If you need his professional services, you can't help seeing his sign for its in all the windows and that is a polite invitation to come up.

James Anderson and little daughter, Betty Jane were here the latter part of last week from Fort Stanton and made this office a pleasant call.

Meadames Nellie Branum, R. E. Lemon and Oscar Clouse, were guests of Mrs. W. C. Headren at her home in Fort Stanton last Friday.

Methodist Church

86 in Sunday School in Carrizozo last Sunday. An interesting program followed the lesson period. Regular preaching service at Capitan next Sunday morning and in Carrizozo at 7:30 in the evening. A lady remarked the other evening that it seems wrong not to spend at least one hour with the Lord in His house on His day. I think she's right. Don't you?

The New Mexico Light & Power Co. has purchased a new, one and one-half ton Ford truck from the Carrizozo Auto Co. and Albert Snow is so proud of it, that he high-hats everybody as he comes rarin' down the street.
