Have You a Copy of This "Rare Old Newspaper"?

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

SOME day when you are rummaging through an old trunk in the attic or examining that bunch of old papers left you by your father or grandfather and you come across a newspaper which is yellowed with age, don't become too excited if you discover that it's a copy of the Ulster County Gazette for January 4, 1800, and that it contains an account of the funeral of George Washington. And don't report the discovery of this "rare old newspaper" to the editor of the local paper and expect him to write something about it for his paper, nor ask him to find out for you how much it's worth. If you do, you're pretty likely to be disappointed. For the chances of its being a "genuine, original Ulster County Gazette" are approximately one in a million. If it should be, however, you could name your own price and probably get it. If, as it's approximately 1,000,000 to 1 that it is, your copy is one of the innumerable reproductions of that famous old newspaper, then it's worth from ten to twenty-five cents as a curiosity and no more.

This edition of the Ulster County Gazette has been called "the most famous of all American historical ghosts" and it has taken nearly a century to lay that ghost. It is true that there once was such a paper, that it was established May 5, 1793, at Kingston, N. Y., by Samuel Freer and his son, Samuel S. Freer, both staunch Federalists in the early days of the Republic, and that in the edition of January 4, 1800, it did devote a large amount of space to the account of Washington's funeral. But the Ulster County Gazette went out of existence in 1822 and of the total edition (probably not more than 500 copies) for that date most of them went the way of any newspaper after it has been read. A few probably were saved by those who are accustomed to preserve newspapers containing an account of an important historical event but even these copies seem to have disappeared eventually.

How then to account for the thousands of "reproductions" or "reprints" which have flooded the country and which many possessors believe to be "originals"? As a matter of fact, the making of reproductions began as far back as 1823. According to the best evidence obtainable, reprints of the January 4, 1800, edition were issued from the shop of the People's Advocate, published in Kingston by Samuel S. Freer (who had started that paper in 1824), as a quarter century memorial to Washington and were first offered for sale on July 4, 1824. In 1848 another edition of reprints was issued in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the paper and again in 1850—the fiftieth year after Washington's death.

Other reprints probably appeared during the fifties and sixties but the real flood began in 1870. In that year the Centennial exposition in Philadelphia revived interest in the Revolution, in Washington and in American history, in general, and there were several reprints of the famous Ulster County Gazette by printers who saw a chance in this to make some extra money and who turned out tens of thousands of copies. One of them, a certain Walter Gillies, is said to have had the contract for supplying them for sale on the exposition grounds and more than 100,000 copies were sold at five cents each. In fact they were distributed as souvenirs of the exposition by the armful. So if your father or your grandfather or any other member of your family attended the Centennial exposition that year, the chances are that the copy of the Gazette which you have just found in that old trunk was one of the Gillies reprints.

The issuing of reproductions did not end in 1870, however. It has been going on steadily ever since and as recently as 1928 an edition was printed for an American Legion post in Missouri to be sold to other Legion posts at 12 1/2 cents each or to the public at 25 cents each. So famous had the Ulster County Gazette and its many reprints become that years ago efforts were made to learn if there was in existence anywhere a genuine, original copy of the paper. Naturally, hundreds of copies were produced as originals but all of them were soon proved to be reproductions. Finally authorities on the subject were ready to declare that "not a single genuine, original copy of the Ulster County Gazette for January 4, 1800, is now in existence."

And then the impossible happened! In November, 1930, the Library of Congress received an inquiry regarding three issues of the Gazette—December 23, 1799, and January 4 and January 11, 1800. Several years previous to that time Clarence S. Brigham of the American Antiquarian society had been told of the existence of three original issues of the Gazette but had been unable to locate them. The dates of these were the same as the dates on those reported to the Library of Congress. The Library of Congress knew of this and was not slow in putting two and two together. The result was that it secured from their owner, Mrs. Mary Crawford Lydon, descendant of Peter Decker, a Revolutionary soldier who lived in Ulster county near Kingston, the three originals and they are now in the national library. So at last a famous historical ghost was laid and it was proved that there WAS an original Ulster County Gazette for January 4, 1800, in existence.

And now as to the method of telling an "original" from a "reproduction." There is one simple test. Look at the second line of the heading and see whether or not there is a comma after the word "County." If there is none, that copy of the paper is probably an original. A genuine copy must also have the following reading for page one, column four, line one: "Command the town; and notwithstanding." Other qualifications, according to a circular issued by the Library of Congress, to prove that the copy is an original are as follows:

1. It should be printed on the paper used in 1800, hand made from rags, soft, pliable and rough in texture.
2. The paper should have no watermarks throughout, slender parallel lines 1 1/8 to 1 3/16 inches apart.
3. Title in italic capitals should measure 6 15-16 inches in length.
4. Print should show the blurred edges of hand inked, hand press work.
5. The second column on page 1 should measure 2 7/8 inches in width between rules, and 1 1/2 inches in length.
6. The old style "s" should appear frequently in the words "Published," and "Ulster" in the heading and in the words "President," "House," "Representatives," and many more in the text.
7. The last line of page 1, column 1, should

- 1.—Front page of the only known genuine original copy of the January 4, 1800, issue of the Ulster County Gazette. Now in the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.
- 2.—Page three of the same issue.
- 3.—Examples of the reprints of the Ulster County Gazette.

read "liberal execution of the treaty of amity."

8. One full-length mourning slug should appear on page 2; and 2 full-length slugs on page 3.

9. Moulding rules should be used between columns and across top and bottom and along outer edge of pages 2 and 3.

10. The "Last Notice" on page 3, column 2, concerns "the estate of Johannes Jansen," and should be signed by "Johannis I. Jansen." The word "deceased" is spelled "Decceased," the second "c" being out of line.

Thanks to the innumerable reproductions of the January 4, 1800, issue of the Gazette, most people are familiar with the account of Washington's funeral which appeared in that issue. But the issue of December 23, 1799 is fully as interesting as the more famous issue, for in it is found the announcement of his death as it first reached the people of Kingston. It contains extracts from two letters from Alexandria, dated December 15, the day after his death, giving the details of Washington's last hours and the preparations for his funeral. "We are close to our houses and act as we should do if one of our family had departed. The bells are to toll until he is buried, which will not be until Wednesday or Thursday." "As a mark of respect to him all business will be suspended here tomorrow; and it will stand recorded forever hereafter, as a day of mourning."

The news story itself reads as follows: ON Monday last, the inhabitants of this town, received the mournful information of the death of GENERAL WASHINGTON. On this unhappy event sensations of grief and sorrow pervaded every countenance.

In order to pay their last homage of respect for that great and good man, the reformed Dutch Church was dressed in mourning, and the bell thereof muffled and tolled from twelve to one o'clock for several days. Yesterday being the anniversary of St. John the Evangelist, the members of Livingston Lodge, convened together and celebrated the day in a manner highly interesting to their hearts. Guided by the sacred flame of brotherly love, they adjourned after taking an affectionate parting from each other.

They all had mourning bands in consequence of the melancholy news of the death of their illustrious Brother and beloved Chief, GEORGE WASHINGTON.

"Lucile is the Happiest Girl"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Western mother, Mrs. H. J. Stoll, Valley P. O., Nebraska, says: "My little daughter, Roma Lucile, was constipated from babyhood. I became worried about her and decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in the West."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is limited, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

October Gold

Santa Fe New Mexican:

The glowing banners of the spens are far flung and vivid in the Santa Fe range, seeming to vibrate ever so little in the lullent air. In Santa Fe, the bright orange candles of the tall popars warm the frosty morning like a flame.

The beacons heliograph from far mountain peak in the golden sunshine, flashing back and forth from Takoma of the Jemez to the Three Sisters of the Truchas. Along the tumbled Sangre de Cristo to Taos and into the region of the Spanish Peaks of the north, the blue and aspen gold alternate in masses of intense color, with a t though the crimson of the oaks has faded into russet of November.

Across the great valley from Taos and Red River, the fluttering golden pennons on the Cumbr signal back to the sunrise. In the depths of the Conjos where the spruce and the fir and not the aspens, form the contrast; the walls are blanketed with a solid cloth of gold.

From the Cumbr crest, one can see the steep marching battlements of the La Plata and the San Juan, break out against the crystal sky and the Sleeping Ute slumbers under a golden coverlet. Be that horizon ever so far, still comes the faint gleam of October's gold across the dancing midea.

Down across the Navajo country of still, trance-like unreality sails ever on and on like that of the Ancient Mariner, a goblin ship of stone, charting its course by giant rock fingers-thrust up, far off on either hand through the desert sea; sailing on and on toward other shining beacons, calling from the western horizon on the Zuni; drawing near in new glory is the White Mountains standing on their thousand foot pedestals beyond Springer-ville.

Flanking the long winding valleys of the San Franciscos of New Mexico the succeeding blue promontories are painted like a kaleidoscope; a tiny three-pointed pyramid in the incalculable distance is the San Francisco of Arizona etched by a celestial goldsmith against the skyline.

The quivering gold flacks the Datils to the southeast and blazes like fairy upholstery on the monstrous domes and scarps of the hulking Mogollons.

It gives a golden lining to the valley of the Gila. It splashes with brightness the sombre Black Range whose peaks can see the haunting decorations of Sierra Blanca, the Captains and the golden splashes of the Sacramentos. There are drops of it amid the stone organ pipes that look down on Las Cruces; it glows again in full splendor on the San Mateo, the Magdalena, the Manzano; on the sloping back and sculptured front of Oku, the turtles, which looks down on Albuquerque on one hand and northward to Gloria Peak and to the Santa Fe Range again, behind whose walls, the Pecos is a gold-

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sore and sunk and the world looks dumb, don't swallow a lot of pills, mineral water, oil, laxative or anything else and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere moment's doze's get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this fails to do so, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels and poisons up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. After often breaks out in eruptions. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. Buy a bottle of Little Liver Pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Twenty a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

en labyrinth. So what, may we ask, is the lure of golden streets compared to the golden earthly heaven of New Mexico mountains in October.

Economy in Can Chicken
 Mineral Wells, Tex.—6 cents a pound was the market value of 15 White Rock roosters, averaging 8 pounds apiece, owned by Mrs. R. L. Banks of Sturdivant community in Palo Pinto county, who decided they were worth more as a food and canned the lot. According to the report of Miss Jane Boykin, home agent, the result was 10 No. 2 cans of chicken soup, scrapple and meat worth $81.50. The difference between that and the $7.90 they would have sold for, is a profit of $74.60 to repay Mrs. Banks for her trouble.

Mother's Cook Book

How many a man, has dated a new era in his life from the reading of a book. The book exists for us, a chance which will explain our miracles and reveal new ones. The at present unutterable things we may find somewhere uttered. These questions which disturb and puzzle and confound us, have in their turn occurred to all wise men; not one has been omitted; and each has answered them, according to his ability, by his words and his life.—Henry Thoreau.

QUICK DESSERT

WHEN nothing seems available for a quick dessert, are crumbled cookies or bits of cake, adding nuts and a few finely cut dates. Serve with Caramel Nut Sauce.

Melt four tablespoons of butter in a saucepan, and one and one-fourth cups of brown sugar and two-thirds of a cup of corn syrup, boil to a very soft ball stage or to 230 degrees F. Add three-fourths of a cup of evaporated milk and one-half cup of pecan meats. The nuts may be omitted when they are used in the pudding itself.

Cookies for picnics should be of the durable variety, which packs well. Bake them any time and pack in a box that may be carried right along to the picnic. These are a kind that will be liked:

Orange Bread.

Mix and sift three cups of flour, six teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, then add one egg beaten, one and one-half cups of milk, three-fourths cup of sugar, one-half cup of candied orange peel chopped fine, with the juice and thin rind of an orange. Chop the rind.

Lemon Sirup.

Add the juice of six lemons to the grated rind of one, four cups of sugar and two cups of water. Boil together for ten minutes, cool bottle and place in the ice chest. When serving use one to three tablespoons of the sirup with chilled ice and cold water. This is ever ready lemonade.

Energy Salad.

Arrange three leaves of lettuce on a salad plate, add three dates, one tablespoon of raisins, three tablespoons of cottage cheese, three almonds and three pecans with one slice of pineapple. With bread and butter or hard crackers, this makes a good luncheon with any fruit juice for a drink except grape fruit juice. (Copyright) - Western Newspaper Union.

What Do We Care?

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH. WHAT do you care if skies are gray? Even the best ones get that way. What do you care if gold takes wings? Even the rich man's does such things. What do you care if plans go wrong? Maybe you thought 'em all along. What do you care (and you do, no doubt). What is all of the care about? What do you care the most of all? It isn't winter, it can't be fall. What do you care in your heart of hearts? It can't be money, when that departs. What do you care when you care a lot? Not if you have your way or not. What do you care, and I know you do, just as long as I care for you? What do you care? For I believe just as much, though the rest deceives. What do you care? Not much endure, But whatever I have is yours. What do you care? You care for me, And I for you, as it's plain to see. So it's all right here, and it's all right there, So whatever happens, what do we care? (Copyright) - WNU Service.

Cardiac Vigor Affected by Pleasure and Pain

The heart is called by Dr. Charles Flessinger "the signal bell of the emotions." It responds to the least nervous shock, breaks into sudden palpitation, slows up, and resumes its normal rhythm. But it does not always react in the same way. Its behavior varies according to whether it is affected by an exciting emotion or by a depressing one. Joy, pleasure, agreeable events, act in one way; deception, anguish, grief, or pain have entirely opposite effects. There is no better tonic for the heart than pleasure. Under its influence an affected heart may regain health, or at least may recover from its past injuries; a heart moved by happy feelings beats more quickly and powerfully. Professor Merklen tells a story of a missionary, suffering from dilation of the heart, who recovered completely when he heard of the conversion of a group of Chinese. His delight had worked a miracle. The inverse is no less true. Any depressive emotion acts to diminish cardiac vigor. Persons have been known whose hearts responded to each onset of ill-fortune. This action may be powerful enough to bring on syncope, or even sudden death. But such cases are fortunately exceptional. Cases of gamblers who have died at the baccarat table in the course of an exciting game have been several times reported, though rare. Patients who suffer from attacks of angina may also succumb in the course of quarrels or discussions. They do not even cry out, but faint, and never revive. If the "don'ts" showered on children are some of them silly, they will think they all are.

Don't seek, friends—make 'em; and the way to do that is to sacrifice yourself to some degree.

AFTER 40 bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders. Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them. "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ill-effects for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headache, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

A boy will either leave the door open or slam it. It takes years to overcome this.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER RABBIT THINKS THINGS OVER

PETER RABBIT sat looking over his shoulder mournfully. He was looking at that funny little tail of his, which, since Old Man Coyote had pulled a tuft of hair out of the middle of it, looked funnier than ever. You know that tail always has worried Peter. If Peter ever is envious it is when he sees some one with a beautiful tail. It was bad enough to have nothing but a little white bunch for a tail, and now to have that torn and ragged—oh dear! Peter felt so badly that he almost forgot to be thankful that it was only his tail and not his himself that Old Man Coyote had got hold of. But Peter isn't the kind to worry for very long over things that cannot be helped. "The hair will grow out again and then my tail such as it is, will be as good as ever. Besides, when I am sitting on it no one can see it," thought he.

So he stopped worrying about his tail and began to think over the warning Old Man Coyote had given him.

"He says I've got to get him a fat goose to make up for the one I cheated him out of by waking Honker and his followers over there in the pond of Paddy the Beaver or else I never will get back to the dear Old Briar Patch," thought Peter. "He knows very well that I couldn't get him a fat goose if I would and that I wouldn't if I could. It's just his way of telling me that he is bound to get even with me and that he's made up his mind to catch me. Probably he's hiding somewhere along the way to the dear Old Briar Patch this very minute."

"Now, if it were Teddy Fox, I wouldn't mind so much. But Old Man Coyote is so very smart and clever that I'll have to use all my wits to keep out of his way. I could fool Teddy, but I'm not so sure about Old Man Coyote. He knows I can't stay here forever. There isn't enough to eat in this old bramble-tangle. And he knows, too, that I will want to get back to Mrs. Peter. She'll be worried most to death. Peter, you've certainly got yourself into a peck of trouble this night. It won't be safe for you to poke your nose outside of this bramble-tangle tonight, that's sure. But you're glad you saved those geese even if it did get you into a heap of trouble. Now you've got to think of some way to get out of it.

So Peter made himself as comfortable as possible and settled down to do some hard thinking. The little stars looked down on him and winked and twinkled, which was their way of trying to tell him to keep his courage up. And so the night passed. The little stars winked themselves out and disappeared. The Black Shadows retreated deeper and deeper into the Green Forest until at last the first Jolly Little Sunbeam came stealing along and crept into the old bramble-tangle and kissed Peter on the nose. Day had come and still he had thought of no plan to get safely back to the dear Old Briar Patch. It was time he was there now and little Mrs. Peter would begin to worry.

"Perhaps," thought Peter, "Old Man Coyote was just trying to scare me. Usually he spends the day in his house up in the Old Pasture. But you never can tell what he'll do. I wish I had wings and could fly. I wish—hello! What's Sammy Jay making such a fuss about?"

Peter pricked up his ears and listened. Finally there came to him the harsh voice of Sammy Jay. "Thief! Thief! Thief!" screamed Sammy, and his voice came from over near the edge of the Green Forest. Peter sighed.

"I guess there is nothing to do but to stay right there," he muttered. "Sammy has found Old Man Coyote hiding over there. I know it just as well as if I were there and could see him with my own eyes. Sammy always screams that way when he sees Old Man Coyote. I guess he did mean what he said after all."

Beige Is Now Combined With Different Colors

Now that beige has come back into fashion, there are any number of ways of achieving the most effective results by combining it with different colors. Recently an extremely smart tailored suit of beige wool was completed by a black hat, black bag and black shoes, with stockings of beige and a plaid scarf of beige and black. The whole costume had infinite distinction. (Copyright) - WNU Service.

RADIO QUEEN

Harriet Lee, blond and stately, was the choice of the judges in the third annual search for the most beautiful radio artist in America, held in connection with the radio-electric world's fair. Miss Lee's mellow contralto voice has been featured on programs over the Columbia network for the two years.

Elaborate Fad of a Wealthy Western Man

PROBABLY the most complete miniature village in the United States, this tiny settlement near Denver is a source of much pleasure to its owner and builder, George Turner, millionaire business man of Denver. Several years' time and a large amount of money were spent in bringing the Lakonian village to completion. It includes beautiful little lakes spanned by bridges, a complete municipal lighting system, miniature residences, stores, buildings, barber shop, gas station, a railroad station, and most of the other establishments to be found in a flourishing town. The buildings are all from four to six feet in height.

President Hoover's Financial Restoration Plan Approved by Congress Leaders—Senator Morrow's Death Loss to Nation.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

FOLLOWING a series of conferences with bankers, business men and economists, President Hoover called to the White House the leading members of the senate and House, both Republican and Democratic and laid before them a comprehensive plan to stabilize the domestic banking situation and relieve the depression. In general his project received the approval of his hearers, and he then announced it to the people of the country, asking their full support.

Briefly summarized, what the President proposes is:

Creation of a corporation by private bankers, with capital of $500,000,000, to take up the "frozen" paper of insolvent banks and other financial institutions and otherwise to give elasticity to the financial situation. He said $150,000,000 of the stock already had been subscribed.

Liberalization of the rediscount limitations by which the reserve board is now prevented from accepting certain classes of securities.

Expansion of the federal land bank system to provide further credit accommodations for the farmers.

Mr. Hoover also told the congressmen assembled that he planned to discuss with Premier Laval of France, when the latter comes to Washington, the possibilities of an extension of the international moratorium. This was the only thing that brought forth any decided objection from the lawmakers. Some of them said the time for this had not yet arrived.

The President said the congress leaders had agreed, regardless of party, to put through the legislation that might be needed to make his plan effective, and it was not thought a special session would be necessary. If the privately financed institution fails to restore business confidence, he said, he would recommend the formation of a federal financed corporation—similar in character and purpose to the War Finance corporation of World War days.

DEATH, sudden and unexpected, came to Dwight W. Morrow in his home at Englewood, N. J., and the United States lost one of its best and most useful citizens. The new senator from New Jersey was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage as he slept, and passed away without regaining consciousness. He was fifty-eight years old, and while he had accomplished a great deal in his too short life, it was the general belief that he was, as Ambassador

Sen. Morrow.

Dawes said, "at the threshold of a great career of public usefulness." At Senator Morrow's deathbed were Mrs. Morrow, her daughter, Elizabeth, and a few other relatives. Another daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, is in China with her husband. Mr. Morrow sent the Lindberghs a cablegram announcing the death. The youngest daughter, Miss Constance Morrow, was away at Smith college, and the senator's son, Dwight W. Morrow, Jr., was at Amherst.

Born in West Virginia and educated at Amherst, Mr. Morrow went through Columbia law school and was successful in the practice of law. Coming into contact with big financiers, he was made a partner in the great banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. He gave the government eminent service during the war, and afterward was made ambassador to Mexico. In this post he displayed remarkable skill as a diplomat, settling in a few months controversies that had long been the cause of extreme ill feeling between the American and Mexican governments. While he was ambassador his daughter was married to Colonel Lindbergh.

Giving up the Mexican post, Mr. Morrow announced his candidacy for the senate, and it was characteristic of his straightforwardness that he at the same time declared himself in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. His victory at the polls was no surprise, for the people of his state held him in high regard. Indeed, all the nation liked, and admired him, and he was considered Presidential timber, though his name might not have been presented to the Republican convention of 1932.

Last year Mr. Morrow was one of the leading members of the American delegation to the London naval conference, and the foreign statesmen who met him then heard of his death with deep sorrow. President Hoover's statement, on hearing the sad news, was:

"The country has suffered a great loss in the death of Senator Morrow. His loyal and generous character as a neighbor and a friend; his public spirit as a citizen; his service during the war; his accomplishments as ambassador to Mexico; his unique contribution to the success of the London naval conference—are the record of that sort of American who makes our country great."

WHEN the American Federation of Labor opened its annual convention in Vancouver, B. C., President William Green lost no time in setting before it and before the nation the serious conditions that exist. He warned industry that "revolutions in the past grew out of distress and hunger," and demanded that another point be added to the bill of rights—the right to work. He insisted that standards of life and living must be maintained at a high level and that the policy of cutting wages was all wrong.

Recommendations of the executive council, contained in its annual report, included the following:

President Hoover should call a national conference of employers and labor to discuss how all workers may share in available employment.

Immediate inauguration of the five-day week and the shorter work day.

The wage structure and wage standards should be maintained.

A guarantee that all now employed shall be assured their positions and that work be shared equitably by all through spreading working hours.

Prohibition of child labor.

Stabilization of industry, especially those seasonal in character, by carrying on improvements during slack periods.

Application of a more scientific plan of industrial production, so that a stable balance may be maintained in order that production may be carried on systematically over longer periods of time.

While not liking the dote, the council said there must be either work or unemployment insurance.

On the question of modification of the Volstead act the executive council again expressed itself as favoring 2.75 per cent beer.

LATIN America launched a strong attack on the tariff policy of the United States immediately after the opening of the Pan-American commercial congress in Washington. Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, was in the chair, and both he and Silas H. Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, tried to head off the tariff discussion, but without success. The issue was raised at once by the Cuban delegation and its proposal that there be a two years' truce on customs increases was backed by the representatives of several other countries.

At the same time the Argentine delegation filed in behalf of one of its members, Luis Fiore, representing the Buenos Aires Chamber of Commerce, a bitter indictment of American protectionism. Señor Fiore charged that the United States with its tariff barriers "is largely to blame for the present evil situation" of the world economically. Following the example of the United States, or seeking reprisal, other nations had adopted a protectionist program with disastrous results on trade, he said.

Chairman Lamont blamed the World War for the economic situation. The more direct factors, he said, were overproduction, overspeculation, artificial price stabilization efforts and unwise budgetary practices, and he urged each country to correct its own mistakes.

SPEAKING of armaments, Senator Claude A. Swanson of Virginia has just put forward a proposition so simple that it sounds foolish—and perhaps it is. His plan is that President Hoover arrange for a naval building holiday with the other great naval powers, which would be all right except that the holiday is to be observed by all of them except the United States. Briefly, he wants the other powers almost to stop building naval vessels until America can gradually and slowly increase its fleet up to the limits of the London pact and modernize its new outranged battleships.

"It is incumbent upon the United States to submit a definite proposal for a naval holiday," Senator Swanson said. "It seems to me we can properly do this and submit a proposal in which we can obtain security and at the same time practice economy. The United States is at present, under the terms of the London conference, in agreement with Great Britain for equality in naval power and in an agreement with Japan for a substantial ratio of five for the United States, and three for Japan."

POPE PIUS XI, in an encyclical entitled "Nova Impendet," appeals to "all those of Christian faith and love" to join in a crusade of charity and succor to forestall the evils of unemployment and distress during the coming winter.

The encyclical bears the date of October 2, which, on the church calendar, is the feast of the guardian angels, the protectors of children. The pope lamented particularly that innocent children should suffer from the poverty and hardships in the present economic and financial crisis.

The pontiff's letter dealt with three aspects of international affairs—first, the economic crisis; secondly, unemployment, and thirdly, the race for armaments. He appealed particularly against the rivalry of nations in the matter of armaments, admonishing them against increasing them by enormous expenditures "which might otherwise go to relieve distress."

REPRESENTATIVE LA GUARDIA, Republican, of New York, announced that he proposed to introduce in the forthcoming session of congress a tax revision bill which would assure the treasury $750,000,000 additional annual income. Mr. La Guardia said this sum would be raised principally through increased taxes in the higher income brackets and inheritance and gift taxes, and the imposition of a 10 per cent tax on automobiles, exclusive of trucks, busses and taxicabs, also on airplanes and yachts.

TOWARD the end of the week the District of Columbia grand jury started on an investigation of the charges that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Ada L. Burroughs conspired to violate the federal corrupt practices act during the last Presidential campaign. Miss Burroughs was treasurer of the anti-Smith committee in Virginia, which was headed by the bishop. United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover is directing the inquiry, and he says the charges against the two resulted from their alleged failure to file a proper report of certain campaign expenditures with the clerk of the house of representatives, as required by law.

The 1928 Presidential campaign activities of the Virginia clergyman are still under investigation by the state campaign funds investigation committee headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye.

FIRST nonstop airplane flight from Japan to the United States was made by Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., the young Americans who flew across the Atlantic and then on to Japan, where they were arrested and fined for flying over and photographing fortifications. Starting from Samushiro beach and dropping their landing gear, they took the course over Dutch Harbor and down the coast to Seattle. But they didn't stop there. Instead they circled Mt. Rainier three times and flew on to Wenatchee, Wash., the home of Pangborn's mother, and there made a perilous landing in the dust. The little capital of the apple country went wild over the boys, and a representative of the Japanese paper Asahi handed them a check for $25,000, the prize for which they were trying.

FRANCE is sending, as its representative at the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary fête at Yorktown, Va., one of its most distinguished soldiers, Marshal Henri Petain, the hero of Verdun. The cruisers Duquesne and Suffren are bringing him and his party and will arrive at Yorktown on October 15. In the group are the marquis de Grasse, the marquis de Rochambeau, General D'Orlone, the duc de Noailles and M. Xavier de Rochambeau, all of whom are descendants of Washington's French comrades in arms in 1781.

"I go without official instructions," Marshal Petain said before embarking, "but I shall not be at a loss for subjects to talk about in America. I imagine General Pershing and our World War comrades who will meet us at Yorktown will talk to us about those French soldiers who fought with Washington under the orders of La Fayette, Rochambeau, and De Grasse. For my part I intend to reply by talking about the American soldiers who fought in France in 1917."

PARLIAMENT was prorogued on Thursday and a call was issued for a general election to take place October 27. Prime Minister MacDonald's national government decided not to resign but to go before the electors as constituted. The campaign already is under way. Many of the Liberals pledged their support to MacDonald.

Julius Curtius resigned as foreign minister to Germany because of the attacks of the Nationalists due to his failure to bring about the Austro-German customs union. Next day the entire cabinet resigned and Chancellor Brüning was instructed by President Von Hindenburg to form a new government with enlarged powers.

How Lindbergh's Father Found "Man" in His Son

Charles A. Lindbergh's father discovered "the man" in his son when they went fishing for the first time, according to the story of "The Lindberghs" in McCall's Magazine. Charles was twelve years old.

They started from Lake Itasca and for two weeks were alone on the river and lakes in northern Minnesota. They were two men who cooked their meals together over a fire in the open and slept out. When they returned Congressman Lindbergh said:

"That trip with Charles was one of the happiest times in my whole life. I learned to know my boy in those two weeks as I had never known him before. I found the man in him. He has good stuff and will stick. He stood up under the discomforts of that trip as I never expected he would. A good experience, that was, for both of us."

that Stays Up in Your Motor and Never Drains Away

Almost half of all motor wear takes place while you're starting your car! And it's in the starting period that oils not germ processed fail to protect your motor. They lubricate your motor after it starts... but they drain away when your car is idle, leaving vital working parts unlubricated while you're starting.

Germ Processed Oil gives you safe lubrication not only after your motor starts but during the starting period! For only Germ Processed Oil has penetrative lubricity... the ability to cling to, penetrate and combine with metal surfaces. A "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down starting wear and makes

New Advertising Manager for Chevrolet

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 20 - Appointment of R. H. Crocker as Advertising Manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., succeeding R. K. White, who has been transferred to the Oakland division of the General Motors Co. in a sales capacity, was announced here by H. J. Kilinger, vice-president and general sales manager for Chevrolet.

Promotion of Mr. Crocker, who was formerly assistant advertising manager, places the administration of Chevrolet's large annual advertising budget in the hands of a man eminently qualified by personal experience for the post.

Starting on the Detroit News during school vacations, his entire career has been spent in various phases of advertising or sales promotional work, with such well known national organizations as the Burroughs Adding Machine Co., the old Chalmers Motor Car Co., where as advertising manager, he administered the first million dollar budget in the automobile industry; the Federal Motor Truck Co., and the Campbell-Ewald advertising agency, from which post he joined Chevrolet as assistant advertising manager little more than a year ago.

His successor as assistant is W. G. Byers, formerly sales promotion manager of Chevrolet's region at Cincinnati. Both posts were filled according to Chevrolet's established policy of promoting men within the organization.

Hi School News

Hi School Reporter: The most interesting thing pertaining to the school is the Lincoln County Fair of the week-end.

Carrizozo won the track cup, and that by a very large margin. The track boys worked very hard and won or placed in every event they entered.

They were ably supported by the girls' track team, coached by Miss Stover. In fact, the cup could hardly have been ours without them. They won first place in everything they entered, except the basketball throw.

The girls lost the basketball game Friday night to Capitan, but they would undoubtedly have won if Katherine Kelt and Mary Lewis had not fouled out. These two made up for it the best they could by yelling like everything for those left to work for G. H. S.

On Saturday, the boys played that football game to which they have long looked forward with Capitan, and beat them, 12 to 0.

It was a hard game and several of the boys got knocked out and skinned up, especially Red Snell, who has quite an ornamented mug this week. Red played a great game, and got up from his entanglement with as pep and more fight than ever.

The boys have never been scored against yet, in the three games which they have played, having 'skunked' Coronad, Weed and Capitan successively.
