

LOCAL MENTION

Mrs. F. A. English, sons Don and Fred, and Miss Ella Brickley made a trip to Albuquerque the latter part of last week to visit the Misses Glenneth English and Ruth Brickley and incidentally to witness the football game between the University teams of New Mexico and Arizona. It was a good game, resulting in a tie, 7 to 7. They found the girls doing nicely and well satisfied with the 'U'.

Dr. F. S. Randles came in last week from Benson, Ariz., where he has been engaged in the mining business. Hearing of his coming, his old chum Fred (Shorty) Dawson came down from the Hills and the two celebrities have been running over old times they have enjoyed together.

Miss Elizabeth Such returned home last Saturday after a pleasant visit of two weeks with relatives at Lincoln.

When we read about so many Japs and Chinamen killed, we really shouldn't feel so badly until the next day, because the difference in time would make a man killed in Manchuria this afternoon, die tomorrow—Daily Observations in Roswell Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Edwards of Three Rivers were business visitors here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. English are in receipt of a letter from our old friend and former neighbor S. F. Miller, now a resident of Long Beach, Calif., in which, he said that Mrs. Miller was in ill health, being confined in a hospital. Their many friends here will be sorry to hear of their misfortune and hope for Mrs. Miller's speedy recovery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gallacher left for her old home in Sandusky, Ohio, where she will visit her brothers, sisters and old friends. Mrs. Gallacher will be absent until after the holiday season, we understand.

Miss Evelyn French was an Albuquerque visitor last Saturday, to witness the football game and also to visit friends.

Mrs. Conway Collins of Tucumcari, youngest daughter of Mrs. T. E. Armstrong, is visiting her mother and sister, Mrs. Elsie Paden this week.

Mrs. Jimmy O'Rourke of El Paso was a week-end guest of Mrs. T. E. Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hamilton and Miss Aileen Haley were here Sunday from El Paso, spending the day and returning to the border city Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance P. Smith and Mrs. George Donoho of Oscura were Carrizozo visitors Tuesday of this week, remaining over to see Walter Huston in "The Criminal Code" at the Lyric Theatre that night. While in town, they paid this office a pleasant call.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lee, Mrs. E. H. Sweet, Mrs. Bryce Duggar, the Misses Louise Sweet and Ella Ball spent Sunday in Albuquerque.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lealis and children were here from Capitan Tuesday.

OSCURA OBSERVATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, two sons and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scroggins were here Sunday from Tularosa visiting the Smiths.

Drs. Fowler, Thornton and C. H. Thornton left Tuesday for a visit to the Carlsbad Caverns and thence to El Paso where they will join Mrs. C. H. Thornton and daughter, Mrs. Moore, who went to that city Tuesday. They will spend a few days in El Paso before returning to their home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Turner returned from Albuquerque this week where they spent their honeymoon. Mrs. Turner, formerly Miss Harvel Taylor, will remain at the Taylor ranch, while her husband finishes his engineering course at the School of Mines at Socorro. On Jan. 1, 1932, they will leave for their new home in Rocky Mount, N. C.

Tom McDonald, sons Ross and Rube, Tom Bingham, Tom Parker and Cicero Green were here this week shipping their cattle and visiting home folks.

Three Rivers Store Burglarized

The store at Three Rivers was burglarized last Saturday night while the storekeeper, John Haven was in Tularosa attending the dance. The intruders carried away some groceries, overalls, shoes, 2 Winchester rifles and some Prince Albert tobacco. The loss is estimated at $200.00.

The Blaneys Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thornton, Dr. S. E. Thornton and Dr. J. W. Fowler of Chicago, Mrs. Moore and son of El Paso, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Burns of Three Rivers were dinner guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Blaney Sunday. After dinner, Dr. Blaney took the Chicago gentlemen for a ride over the Socorro Highway to view the country 'round about. As all other visitors say: "It is a wonderful sight."

Regional Conference of Nurses at Roswell

All county and school nurses of the following counties will attend the Regional Conference of Nurses at Roswell, Friday evening and Saturday: Lea, Otero, DeBaca, Eddy, Chavez and Lincoln counties. Miss Marie Brunk will represent Lincoln County.

Carrizozo Leads in Students Attending the University

Albuquerque—Carrizozo leads among the smaller towns of the state with a number of students enrolled from there in the University of New Mexico.

The university student body includes 7 residents of Carrizozo, including Frank James, who has just been initiated into the Sigma Chi fraternity; Glenneth English, Jane Spencer, Harvel Taylor of the I-X ranch, Mack Shaver, Alfred Lopez and Lola Ward.

Mrs. F. A. English, sons Don and Fred and Miss Ella Brickley attended the football game given by the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque last week.

Wm. J. Langston is doing some repair work on the old Rolland building on 4th street, occupied by the Carrizozo Meat Market.

The Silver Lining

Cheaper to Travel Than Stay at Home

Thanksgiving Day 'homecomings' throughout New Mexico and neighboring western states are to be made possible for thousands of persons through the re-establishment of a cent-a-mile roundtrip transportation fares on S.P. Lines for the holiday period, according to announcements today.

C. P. Huppertz, local agent for the railroad, made public plans for renewal of the famous 'dollar day' fares, announcing dates under which trips may be started as Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 24, 25 and 26, with a return limit of Dec. 3. These dates, Mr. Huppertz pointed out, are timed just prior to and including Thanksgiving Day, with ample time provided under the return limit for trips "back home," to distant points on the Southern Pacific lines.

Territory involved, according to Mr. Huppertz, includes the company's lines from El Paso to Portland and from San Francisco to Ogden, Salt Lake City included. Roundtrip tickets are to be sold, as in previous instances, on the basis of three-fifths the cost of the usual one-way fare. Tickets will be good on all trains, either coach or Pullman, Mr. Huppertz said.

Rainbow for Girls

The Carrizozo Order of the Rainbow for Girls held a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting last Friday evening, having as their guests members of the Masonic Fraternity and Eastern Star. Their beautiful work was exemplified; the rendition of which was well received by the large assemblage. Refreshments were served by the Rainbow Girls, under the direction of Helen Huppertz, Ardene McCammon and Katherine Kelt.

The Carrizozo-Capitan football game on Thanksgiving Day will start at 2:30 instead of 3:00.

Flossie R. Zumwalt, brother Gladney and cousin, Marion Skinner came up from Malaga, N. M., last Friday. At the time Flossie was here during the hunting season, Gladney went home with him, since which time he has been visiting relatives. Gladney remained at home, while Flossie and Marion left so as to be at school Monday morning.

Ben Holguin, clerk to Roadmaster J. B. Dinwiddie, Mrs. Holguin and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Vega were week-end visitors at Tularosa, returning home Sunday afternoon.

Methodist Sunday School Notes

A splendid corps of teachers is in charge of our Sunday School classes and every person should avail himself of the privilege the Sunday School offers.

Mrs. Zoe Glassmire entertained her Sunday School class at a party from 2 until 5 last Sunday afternoon.

The Baby Roll Department has an enrollment of about 20. Why not let us remember your baby's birthday and be otherwise interested in him?

Mrs. John L. Lawson begins the work of a Home Department in the next month. Those who are unable to attend Sunday School will find benefit and happiness in the Home Department. On last Friday night, the 'teen age boys' class was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tennis Bigelow. Games were played and a story hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Fred L. Boughner recently entertained her class of boys and girls at her home on Saturday afternoon. The children were very happy over their party.

A choir of approximately 12 contributed greatly to the evening service last Sunday night.

2,417 Pounds Weight

Decorah, Iowa, Nov. 16.—This community claims the distinction of having the largest rural mail carrier in the world, John L. Moore, who tips the scales at nearly 400 pounds. Despite his impressive girth, postman Moore has used for years and is still driving, a 1925 Chevrolet coach to cover his extensive route in and around Decorah. Commenting recently on the service given him by his faithful car, Mr. Moore said:

"My Chevrolet has traveled 106,000 miles up to Sept. 1. It has stopped 399,000 times for deliveries and has never refused to start. The operating expense and upkeep has been very small, and in spite of its age, I feel I can secure more miles on a gallon of gas than any other rural mail carrier in this territory, regardless of age or make of his car." Mr. Moore says the combined weight of himself and his Chevrolet, is 2,417 pounds.

Thomas Ninos, proprietor of the Star Cafe, is converting the large room in the rear of the cafe into a garage for his private use and the same will be finished the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Peaker, Mrs. Allen Lane and children, Mr. and Mrs. John Townsend and daughters, were down from White Oaks yesterday.

ANCHO NOTES

The Parker and Fitzgibbon families have recently arrived here from Wichita, Kansas, with a view of locating here.

Mrs. L. R. Standard is in Livingston on a business mission.

Bill Ham-is visiting relatives in Happy, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Frame spent the week-end in Roswell.

Ed Weathersbee and family and Webb Weathersbee came in last week from Oklahoma City. It is their intention to locate here.

R. M. Jones went to Tucumcari to report for duty with the Southern Pacific Company.

Mesdames Jane and Elizabeth Gallacher, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Will Gallacher and Joe R. Adams were guests at the Warden ranch last Saturday evening.

The Bridge Club was entertained last Wednesday night, Nov. 11, by Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hightower. A patriotic motif was used in tallies and other decorations which was very appropriate for Armistice Day. After the usual series of games, delicious refreshments were served. Next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Pruett.

The lovely R. E. P. Warden home was the scene for the very best club party of the year given Saturday afternoon, Nov. 14, by the losers in the penny contest which was held by the Woman's Club. Unique invitations were mailed to the winners and a few friends of the club.

The main diversion of the afternoon was Bunco which created a great deal of hilarity. Mrs. Grover Pruett was awarded first prize. The color scheme in green and white, club colors, was delightfully carried out in floral decorations, tallies and refreshments which consisted of sandwiches, jello with whipped cream, cake, coffee and cocoa.

The hostesses, under the leadership of Mrs. Bryan Hightower, were assisted by Mesdames Cooper Hightower, R. M. Jones and the Misses Warden. The winners left at 6 o'clock, assuring the hostesses that they were good losers and wonderful entertainers.

This office is in receipt of a nice letter from Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Squier, former residents of Carrizozo, but now residing in Spooner, Wisconsin, where Mr. Squier is proprietor of the Spooner Variety Store. Among other things of interest, they mentioned the fact that at this time last year everything was frozen up tight. This year they have enjoyed fine weather and are still making fishing trips. They said they were planning a visit to Carrizozo and would surprise us some of these days. They wish to be remembered to their many friends in this vicinity.

Johnno Wells and Chas. Cree were here the latter part of last week for the first time in many moons. They looked exceedingly well and spent their stay in conversing with old friends.

Miss Georgia Peckham entertained a number of her high school chums at her home last night after the class basketball game with dancing and refreshments.

Methodist Church

Ninety-eight in Sunday School last Sunday. That sounds like a bargain sale dollar, doesn't it? Just two more would have made a 100. We can make it. We ought to have a 100 every Sunday. Next Sunday in rally day. A special program is being prepared. Let's all be there. Special music, songs, grateful hearts and the Thanksgiving sermon at 11 o'clock. There ought to be many grateful hearts there pouring out gratitude to the Giver of every good and perfect gift. Surely we are not guilty of the sin of ingratitude. But the truth is that not more than one tenth of the people of Lincoln County are attending church. The Master must have been sad when He asked, "Where are the nine? Were there not ten lepers cleansed? Where are the nine?" Only one had come back to thank Him. Let us not be among the ungrateful nine next Sunday. Services again in the evening at seven-thirty.

Rally Day Program

Two special numbers by H. S. Orchestra; Flag Raising, Two Boys; Welcome, Jane Gallacher; Sing a Song of Rally Day, Mrs. Glassmire's Class; A Rally Day Prayer, Wilma Lorene Snow; 5-Minute Sermonette, The Rev. J. L. Lawson; Reading, Miss Sallie Margaret Eyrard; Violin solo, Special number; Dialogue (The Hope of Rally Day) Mrs. Walker's Class; Song, By the Sunday School.

Whiskers Will Fly

Washington, Nov. 18.—Growing concern was manifested today as the Manchurian trouble zone widened toward Russia.

The state department looked toward Paris with the earnest hope that a way would be found to settle the dispute by peaceful means.

State department officials would not comment on the capture of Taitshar by the Japanese forces but it was pointed out that the move brings Japan astride the Chinese eastern railway controlled jointly by China and Russia and thus threatens to involve the Soviet interest. This possibility was looked upon as exceedingly grave.

Secretary Simson, while not commenting on the latest developments, said in a statement that the position of the American government had not been changed, but that it was "earnestly hopeful" that the negotiations in Paris would be successful.

Don't forget the dance and barbecue at White Oaks tomorrow night, Nov. 21. Music by the "Gloom Chasers." Yeah!

Democrats Win Control of the Lower House in Next Congress—Roosevelt Defeats Smith in "Popularity Contest."

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

THERE is no longer any doubt as to which party will be in control of the house in the next congress. In Tuesday's elections the Democrats captured that somewhat dubious honor, and in consequence will elect the speaker. John N. Garner of Texas being their certain choice for the position. Able, experienced and popular, he will be a capable successor to the late Nick Longworth.

Five vacancies in the house were filled Tuesday, and the Republican upset came in the Eighth district of Michigan. There Michael J. Hart, Democrat, and advocate of prohibition modification, defeated V. O. Eldred, Republican. The Eighth is the district that sent Joseph W. Fordney to congress for many years, and no Democrat had won there since 1890. In Ohio J. B. Hollister, Republican, and Martin Sweeney, Democrat, were elected; Joseph Delaney, Democrat, was winner in New York's Seventh district; and Edward L. Stokes, Republican, was elected to succeed the late Representative G. R. Graham in the Second Pennsylvania district. These results made no change in the party line up.

The house make up now is: Democrats, 217; Republicans, 215; Farmer-Labor, 1. There are still two vacancies to be filled. One is in the Fifth New Jersey district and it is likely the Republicans will win there, but they will still have one vote less than the Democrats. The other vacancy, in New Hampshire, will not be filled until January 6 too late to affect the election of the speaker.

Democrats also scored heavily in New Jersey, where their candidate, A. Harry Moore, won the governorship over William Baird, Jr., after a bitterly fought battle into which both of them injected national politics, standing respectively, against and for the policies of the Hoover administration. Moore's victory amounted almost to a landslide, and his admirers, all very wet, at once put him forward as a desirable candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Without opposition, Martin Bennett, who is only forty years old, and a Democrat, was elected governor of Mississippi. On the basis of incomplete returns it appeared that Judge Hubby Laffan, Democrat, had won the governorship of Kentucky, defeating Mayor William B. Harrison of Louisville, Republican, by perhaps 50,000 votes.

NEW YORK state had an election of its own that was interesting for two reasons: First, it gave the voters an opportunity, apparently, to express their preference as between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Al Smith, for a constitutional amendment providing for reforestation of deserted farm lands was submitted, and it was warmly advocated by Roosevelt and as warmly condemned by Smith. The amendment was carried by a two to one vote, Tammany and the Republicans being in favor of it. This, according to political observers, put the governor definitely at the head of the Democratic party and relegated Smith to second place.

The New Yorkers also elected an assembly, and though Tammany swept New York city despite the charges of political corruption, the Republicans retain control of the legislature by ten votes.

MAYOR CERMAN of Chicago, with several other leaders of the Illinois Democracy paid a visit to New York that was held to be of considerable political significance. He was looking over the Democratic possibilities for the Presidency in that region. Roosevelt, Smith and Ritchie of Maryland, and he let the Democrats there know very plainly that the party in Chicago and Illinois would insist on a candidate who is wringing wet and not a puny-feather. In reply to a question, he said:

"If Governor Roosevelt was wet enough for Alfred E. Smith and wet enough for New York to be elected governor, he is wet enough for us."

In addition to Ritchie and Smith, he said, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri would qualify in that respect. Mr. Cerman, however, declared positively that the Illinois delegation in the convention would give its vote for the nomination of Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and asserted Lewis should be considered not only a "favorite son" but a strong figure in the party, who is entitled to the nomination. When Senator Lewis was told of all this in Chicago, he gave out a statement in which, though he is a decided wet, he said the economic issue of jobs and food comes before the liquor question. "I appreciate the constantly expressed indorsement of me by Mayor Cerman," said Senator Lewis, "but as to the political platform being only wet or dry, I have to say I am sure the mayor and myself recognize that in the present hour the American public is more concerned to know where many of its people will get something to eat before they consider what they shall have to drink.

"Also, it is more urgent at once to consider places of shelter for homeless families this winter than for places to enjoy a beverage. The prohibition question is one to go along with food, clothing, and homes for the needy millions, and with aiding the returning prosperity that is now on the way to our nation. These are the concerns altogether of the national democracy."

Which statement increases the esteem in which Senator Lewis is held by those who recognize his sound judgment in national matters.

JAPAN has warned Russia a second time about troop concentrations on the Manchurian frontier; China has informed the League of Nations that Japan is steadily extending its hold on Manchuria and shows no sign of complying with the league's demand for evacuation before November 10; and the Japanese forces continue their advance toward the zone of Russian influence, fighting battles with Chinese bandits and now and then bombarding a Chinese town. The League of Nations is worried, and no wonder.

The Moscow newspaper Izvestia charges that Japanese militarists "invented the fable" of possible Soviet interference in Manchuria in order to cover plans for an extension of their own occupation northward. The militarists hoped, the newspaper says, to "weaken the resistance of other imperialistic powers by the prospect of a conflict with the Soviet Union, a conflict much desired in Imperialist circles in Europe."

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY ADAMS finally took a hand in the controversy between President Hoover and the Navy league. Indeed, he took two hands, and there are those who declare he also put his foot in it. First Mr. Adams issued a statement in which he took a fall out of the Pacific organizations that have been asserting that the United States was spending too much on its navy—much more than Great Britain. With figures and facts he demonstrated the fallaciousness of this, and he rebuked those who had said it harshly. Adams said the observers in Washington, that shows there is a split between the President and the secretary.

Then Mr. Adams had several talks at the White House and gave forth another statement, very brief, expressing his "unqualified disapproval" of the personal attack on the commander in chief of the navy by President William Howard Gardner of the Navy league. He followed up this by telling the correspondents that he had no intention of resigning from the cabinet.

The White House announced that the committee to inquire into the accuracy of Mr. Gardner's assertions would consist of Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired; John Hays Hammond, famous engineer; Ernest Lee Jabucke, assistant secretary of the navy; Under-secretary of State William H. Castele and Eliot Wadsworth, former assistant secretary of the treasury. Messrs. Hammond, Wadsworth and Jabucke are members of the Navy league and these three as well as Mr. Castle are all close friends of the President. Mr. Hoover said the committee's investigations must be limited to "assertions of fact" by Mr. Gardner.

DELEGATES from the Chicago Board of Trade called on President Hoover and told him the business committee of the board had devised means to check bear raids in the grain markets. Silas Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who accompanied the group, said the President appeared satisfied with the steps being taken.

"The President asked us to come down and talk over this matter with him," Strawn said. "We have no quarrel with the President about it. Mr. Hoover did not criticize short selling. That sometimes is necessary and has to be. What he did criticize was bear raiding, and we assured him we had a machine that would turn over to combat this when necessary."

Recently wheat prices have been moving upward most gratifyingly, and the Chicagoans said everyone in the market was optimistic and glad to see the farmers benefiting. Arthur W. Cotton, the veteran and sometimes spectacular trader in grain, was reported to have made huge sums in the present bull movement.

GERMANY is preparing for negotiations with France to obtain a reduction of reparations, and as a powerful argument will cite her debts abroad. The Reichsbank and a bankers' committee has completed an investigation of these foreign debts and concludes that every cent that Germany makes through exports will be needed for at least ten years to pay interest on the amortized short and long term loans granted Germany by foreign countries.

Germany points out that this year, which is far above the average, she has earned a surplus of $600,000,000 of foreign currency through sales of goods abroad. This sum was swallowed entirely by interest due on money borrowed abroad, including interest and amortization on Dawes plan loans and Young plan loans.

REDUCTION of wage scales for railroad workers seems to be coming closer. As foremen, several roads cut salaries; and the officials of the American Railway association, leading rail executives of the nation, at their meeting in Chicago voluntarily reduced by 10 per cent their pay from the association, and then proceeded to discuss the wages of the workers on the roads.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, testifying before the special senate committee on the formation of a national economic council, declared the railroads would be able to build up reserves and thereby become a stabilizing force in supplying employment during the depression, if the recapture clause of the transportation act were eliminated. Without reserves, he said, the roads could not do much to mitigate the situation, but on the contrary were compelled to cut down their working forces.

Mr. Willard gave scant indorsement to a proposal by Senator Robert M. La Follette, chairman of the committee, to set up a national economic council with the object of advising business on co-ordination work. He added that he would oppose it, on a single measure if it would give a new government department the right to inquire minutely into every phase of a business.

CONSIDERABLY more than half the nations invited to the disarmament conference next February have accepted the bid of the League of Nations to take part in a one-year armament building holiday, but the league officials were uncertain whether the holiday was in effect because almost all the larger states had made reservations. However, it was asserted in Geneva that the primary purpose of the agreement was to create the proper "psychology" and that this had been accomplished. In Washington it was declared the holiday was in effect so far as the United States was concerned.

Despite the political upset in Great Britain, Arthur Henderson, former foreign secretary, says he will retain the chairmanship of the coming armament conference, holding that the fulfillment of his position began officially with his appointment by the league council, and he will vigorously oppose any postponement of the party.

THE British parliament was assembled for certain formalities, including the election of a speaker of the house—Edward Algernon Pittroy was given the job again—and then adjourned until November 10, when the session was to be formally opened by King George. Meanwhile Prime Minister MacDonald was busy selecting his cabinet. He found time, too, to receive Mahatma Gandhi and to put before that gentleman the utmost the government would grant India in the way of self-government. This was not made public but is known to be far short of the demands of the Nationalists of India.

On Wednesday King George received Gandhi in Buckingham palace, and though it was a state occasion, the Hindu leader insisted in wearing only his usual garb, a loin cloth and cloak.

HAILE SELASSIE I, king of kings of Ethiopia, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah, the elect of God and the light of the world—otherwise emperor of Abyssinia—celebrated the first anniversary of his coronation with a remarkable ceremony at Addis Ababa, his capital city. After attending religious services in the cathedral he rode through the streets in a magnificent coach that once belonged to former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to the open fields where a feast of raw meats was served to ten thousand warriors. His majesty then opened the two chambers of the legislative body created under the constitution which he proclaimed last July; and in the evening there was a display of American fireworks.

FOR several years a score of chemists have been working on a process of making synthetic rubber out of acetylene and salt and water, and the other day the American Chemical society in session in Akron was told the experiments were successful. It was stated that the substance is not a substitute for natural rubber but a supplement, and also that it may find uses in lines where real rubber is not suitable. Certain important differences from natural rubber are claimed. One is more resistance to swelling action of gasoline, kerosene, and other solvents. It is also more resistant to oxygen, ozone and some other chemical compounds which attack rubber.

STAGE COACH TALES

By E. C. TAYLOR

THE Gun Girl, a little more daring, perhaps, but not so quick on the trigger as the gun girls of the large cities today, made her appearance along the National pike as early as 1834. She was accompanied by four men, and it was only the courageous conduct of Samuel Luman, stage coach driver, that this highway girl and her highwaymen aides were repulsed.

Samuel Luman was one of the best known and best equipped drivers on the old National road. He was a giant in stature, and reputed to be fearless. He began driving a stage coach in 1832.

On August 12, 1834, his coach was waylaid in the mountains between Piney Grove and Frösburg, Md. It was night, and Luman's teams almost ran into a rude obstruction of logs, stumps and brush that had been placed across the road.

The spot was lonely, and surrounded by a thick growth of pine trees. Luman was unarmed, and the only gun among the passengers in the stage coach was an old brass pistol, which, however, was not brought into play.

As the stage coach reached the barrier across the road, one highwayman stepped forward, seized the bridle and ordered Luman to descend from his seat and surrender the mail and money the coach carried. Luman refused.

"What do you want?" he temporized. "We are traders," the highwayman answered.

"I have nothing to trade," said Luman. "I am satisfied with my trappings and not desirous of exchanging them."

The highwayman holding the lead team thereupon called out to one of his companions hidden in the trees by the roadside to shoot Luman.

The robber leveled his pistol at the stage coach driver and pulled the trigger. There was a snap, and Luman owed his life to the fact that the night air was damp and the powder would not explode.

While the highwayman holding the horses was turning the lead team around so that it faced the opposite direction from the stage coach, the girl called out from the darkness of the roadside, and ordered another highwayman to bind the driver.

One of the robbers mounted part way to the driver's seat, and wrapped the reins tightly around Luman's arm. Luman saw an advantage, and started violently lashing the highwayman with the ends of the reins. The beaten robber backed off, and as he did so, the horses still attached to the stage coach leaped forward, broke from the lead team, and leaped over the barricade on the road. The coach came within an ace of capsizing, but Luman's skill with the reins kept it on its wheels, and the coach and its passengers flew into Frösburg.

Luman told the authorities that the bandits he saw were all heavily disguised. He did not get a look at the gun girl or two of the highwaymen, with her who had remained in the dark shadows of the pine trees. The robber who held the bridles of the lead team, he said, wore a long dress like a Mother Hubbard, and the one who bound the reins around his arm wore a white vest, dark pantaloons and a black mask. They were never captured.

When the attack was first made on the stage coach, Luman told the passengers of the impending danger and asked their assistance, but they crouched in their seats and made no effort to help him or defend themselves.

They were all western merchants traveling east to buy goods, and between them they carried $300,000 in cash.

When they reached the Highland house in Frösburg, of which George Evans was proprietor, the grateful passengers took up a collection with which to reward the brave stage coach driver. It was so ludicrously small, though, Luman said later, that he indignantly refused it.

"They were a mean set," was his comment. Luman gave up driving stage coaches in 1839, and for several years after that interested himself in detective work and punishing robbers of the mail coaches that rattled along the National road.

His life was threatened so frequently, however, that finally Lucius W. Stockton, president of the National Road Stage company, feared for Luman's safety. Luman then moved east of Cumberland, where he continued his activities, and until recently lived in Unifonton, Pa.

Good Advice President Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, who recently declared that there is too much of the baroque Roman and too little of the simple Greek spirit in modern sport, was being praised by a group of writers at the Algonquin. "In my undergraduate days," a successful playwright said, "I wrote a great deal of poetry. Some of it got in the variety magazines, and some of it even got in the Century and Harper's."

Registration of motor vehicles in Arizona during the year to Oct. 1 totaled 113,718. E. M. Whitworth, superintendent of the motor vehicle division of the State Highway Department, has announced. Fees collected from the vehicles during that period totaled $553,475.50. In addition $10,303.20 was collected as fees on non-owner operator fees, duplicate registration cars and card holders.

Letterheads and envelopes made of a coated cotton cloth have been adopted as the official type of stationery for the executive offices of Governor George W. P. Hunt of Arizona. The governor used the first of the cotton letterheads in a mimeographed letter to heads of state departments, in which he suggested that all state officers use the new type stationery as a means of reducing the cotton surplus.

Ramey Patterson, big game hunter of Mayer, Ariz., owes his life for the third time to an inhalator squad of the Prescott volunteer fire department. Patterson was found gasping and fighting feebly for breath, but was soon restored. His condition was due to a collapsed condition of one lung and semi-congestion in the other. Last February the Prescott firemen saved Patterson's life on two occasions with the inhalator.

The Copper Queen smelter of the Phelps Dodge Corporation will be closed in Douglas, Ariz., as soon as ore now on hand has been used. Officials said, however, the Calumet and Arizona smelter, recently merged with the Phelps Dodge, will continue to operate at almost full capacity with a crew of approximately 450 men. Curtailment of operations, the officials said, "is necessary until an advance of the present money-losing price of copper."

The work of a department justice agent, J. A. Street, described by his superiors as a job accomplished by "patience and perseverance under most trying circumstances" resulted in the arrest at the White River Indian reservation of an Apache brave, Golley Seymour, after he had confessed to attacking and killing Miss Schermer, brilliant Columbia University student. Taken to the Gila county jail at Globe, Seymour was arraigned before United States Commissioner Dan R. Williams, who held him without bail for preliminary hearing Nov. 23.

Mrs. W. A. Welly is being held in Albuquerque, accused of the killing of C. C. Nelson in Albuquerque. Mrs. Welly has made no confession, nor any statement other than that her story will be told when the proper time comes.

Joyce Dean Long, 16 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Old of McNary, Ariz., was drowned in the Long home in a tub of water. The mother left the house for a few minutes to hang clothes on the line. When she returned the baby, who had fallen into the tub, was dead.

When TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—it is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name:

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 29 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—you can get Kruschen at any drug store in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

A Tale of the Beginning of New England

THE STORY

Robert Heathers and William Heydon, two escapees from the religious tyranny of England in 1634 for the New World. They are welcomed at Boston by Rev. Doctor Cotton and make acquaintance with Amos Todkill, veteran soldier and woodman. Heydon meets Elizabeth Brade, daughter of a leader in the colony and falls deeply in love. The young men settle down to the life of the colonists.

CHAPTER III—Continued

They had fish in plenty coming every week from the northern coast, and Todkill kept them supplied with venison and dried berries. They had a cow that was pastured in the common fields and a small stable. Moreover, the ships were bringing oatmeal and pitch and tallow and conserves of red roses and mithridate. They could also buy cornmeal for hasty pudding.

Through the autumn and early winter William and Robert were at work with Todkill and his men. When the snow came deep enough to clog their affairs, they broke camp in the forest and waited for better weather.

Every Sabbath they went to the crowded meeting house and sat on the stairs with a parcel of young boys. Constables, each with a black staff tipped with brass, were at its three doors to prevent people from coming out and dogs from going in. The dogs of Boston, abandoned by their masters and playmates, were depressed in spirit and went to howl with loneliness. The long prayer, the chapter and its exposition by Doctor Cotton, the sermon by the pastor, the psalm singing, the solemnity on many faces wearied the young and put them in dread of the Sabbath day, especially in severe weather with no heat in the meeting house. Our young men found the prisoners, who came under compulsion with armed guards, a diverting part of the congregation. Robert speaks in a letter of the stir when some "blubbing person" made a public confession.

Todkill and Blaxton came often to while away a winter afternoon with them. Bess came with her maid to bring them a wild goose—one of the two which her father had shot when the snow-laden drag was flying low. As she went away, Blaxton exclaimed: "What heavenly pulchritude is this!" "I hope that she will be my wife," said William.

"A lamp of virginity! And what a pretty redness of cheek and lip!" the old gentleman exclaimed. "Looking at her I regret my age. Counsel to the young is like giving mutton to a horse. You will both do well to marry, with the red blood of youth in you and a lusty young wife in the kitchen."

He told how a baronet had come ever with a comely paramour and been compelled to run for his life and find refuge among the savages.

"Neither hereditary nor wealth can prevail with the court if one is up for clucking. Will Shakespeare once said to me, speaking of the Puritans: 'There are those who think that because they are virtuous there should be no more cakes and ale.'" It reminded Todkill of the killing and boiling of a Puritan by "man eaters" of the wilderness.

Blaxton interrupted him, saying: "I make one remark. A Spaniard is that tough they hang him three days before he is boiled. If you have a Spaniard to be cooked I will listen, but if he be an Englishman I beg you to desist. It provokes me like a wringing of the nose. Turn some rascals or sing a heavy song if you will, but no more turling of the king's men."

It was after this talk that the young men decided to displace that "lusty young wife" in the kitchen, Mabel Hartley.

"Her face and form are too winning," said William. "We do not need a Venus in the kitchen. To be sure, she is a witch, but we are heathen and we want to live a few years yet."

In this they were of the same mind. They drew lots to decide which should dismiss her and the heavy task fell to William.

Mabel Hartley had served in the kitchen of the earl of Warwick. She had married one of his stablemen and come to America in the westward rush of 1632. Her husband had turned out to be a heavy drinking roysterer incapable of supporting a wife. He had found work in Newtown where he progressed in the downward way. She had left him there and come back to Boston. The young woman had agreeable manner and a face and form which many of higher birth had regarded with envy. She had hazel hair, eyes of the shade of a bluet in the meadow grass and a fair skin. Her cheeks glowed with color. Robert Heathers said in his diary that she was about five feet and six inches tall, straight as an arrow, and that "her plump breast and slender waist and angles would have filled the eye of old Pheidias. It is a pity that she was so thrown away. Henry VIII would have educated her and brought her to court."

William found her at work in the kitchen.

"Mrs. Hartley, I am sorry to have to tell you that you must find other employment," said he.

The young woman asked: "Have I not pleased you, sir?"

"Too well," he answered. "We are young and you are that pleasing to the eye it will make gossip if we keep you here. They tell us in Boston that we are all filled with corruption. There are moments when I can believe it. It is said, I hear, that you and Robert already know each other too well."

He smiled, but she flushed with anger.

"I would not have you think that I believe it," he went on. "You are no brabbling, limber-tongue sossie like most of the women who do kitchen work. You have a brain in your head. You have a comely face and figure. You know the town you live in as well as I do."

"Yes, I know you rich people. A woman who works is like your cattle. You do not care what happens to her."

"You are in error," he answered. "I do care. I shall try to find a place for you and until that is done we shall give you an allowance for food and lodging."

She left that day not in a good temper. The young men engaged a new maid, and Mabel lived with a poor family on the shore and came once a week in the evening for her allowance until she was suitably placed in the house of a reputable freeman.

William was often at the Brades' or with Lady Bess at the Winthrop's. The brown-bearded John Winthrop was a man of wealth, learning and dignity; his wife a lady with unusual graces. The atmosphere of affectionate devotion was in their home. Here was an example of married life not without its effect on the young of the parish.

"Youth is of perishable stuff," he said to the boy and girl. "We should ever be looking toward the future. Therefore, the mainstays of our commonwealth will be the school and the church. I look forward to a time in this land when education will not be regarded as the privilege of the few but as a duty which the state owes to every citizen."

William was often thinking of this vision of his wise friend. In May Winthrop was elected governor. The summer returned. The young men had resumed their task in the wilderness. Day and night they were going back and forth on the well-worn path of their clearings. Ships laden with men and women, with sheep, goats, horses and cattle had arrived. On every side one could hear the sound of saws and hammers. The colony was growing. It was at peace.

Friendly savages came in their feathered caps and blankets, and fantastic necklaces and bracelets, and traded and begged at the stores and stood about, silently gazing at the strange, hurried, restless doings of the white folks, and went away. They feared the strong hands of these pale-faced people, swift to punish or to help. No one feared them. The Indian menace had passed. Only the Pequots were in a bad temper, but they were far out and beyond the valley of the great fresh-water river in the west.

A ship, brought the long-desired letters. Roswell Brade, not easy to satisfy, was satisfied. William and Bess were preparing for their examination as candidates for baptism in the church. Meanwhile Robert had had a deep experience. The good fortunes of his friend in finding the stay and solace of an affection well placed had not been his.

At last he had hope of it. One day at Mrs. Winthrop's he had met Peggy Weld—a tall, light-hearted, red-checked blonde—lately arrived from England with her brother Henry. Her hair was beautiful. There was much talk of that wavy silken crown of red gold among the men and women of Boston. She had dark blue merry eyes. Her face was not so finely molded as that of the Lady Bess, but she was good to look upon. It was her love of fun—her gay manner and her talk—that chiefly pleased the boy Robert, although it shocked the good people of the parish. Soon the ladies began to chatter of her light carriage and to shake their heads.

"I'm pinked at last," the young man said to his friend William. "I'm not going to gaze at the moon and twitter. I could sing pretty but I have no perch to stand on. I have a rival in Jim Rosewell, who has been bossing the fortifications. He's a living Apollo. I may have to poison him."

"Bob, good luck to you," said William. "It's the thing I've been hoping for. She's got a brain in her head. Good family and all that! The type that stirs the blood in a man! She's a pearl."

"For the present she's just a sweet-voiced bird in the bush," Robert went on. "She's as wise as she is beautiful. She loves joy. She's a ray of sunlight in this gloomy parish. Lord! It's a land of long faces. I wonder why it makes a man solemn to get his soul saved. Peggy could be a help in the great problem of New Boston."

"What problem?" William asked.

"The dissipation of solemnity and keeping the grave out of conversation and in the cemetery where it belongs and hell in the hereafter. For my own part I simply refuse to be worried about my soul. For that reason, I will not join the church."

Robert was still a rebel. Next day he rode with Peggy to the clearings. On the way he said to her:

"Peggy, I couldn't make love in a saddle. One needs free hands and feet and proximity. He might want to run. I warn you that I have serious intentions. I'm a little worried about Rosewell. I'm to have a race with him. I ask for fair conditions."

The girl blushed as she answered: "This is a subject on which I cannot talk with you. I am engaged to Mr. Rosewell."

"It's a quick starter. I have had no chance to show you my pace."

"I can imagine what it would be," she said with a laugh. "You see, Jim Rosewell and I were friends in England."

"Well, permit me to say that I love you and that I do not surrender. I shall keep on loving you because I cannot help it. Not until I must will I bow my head to the deepest regret of my life and say that I wish you happiness and good luck with Rosewell."

Widely Used Quotations Too Frequently Garbled

Usually when we think we are quoting some thoughtful expression of the past, we are only misquoting. And the chances are we don't know whom we are misquoting!

The Golden Book Magazine supports the truth of this statement with a list of frequently misused quotations, all part of our everyday speech, some of which have been changed only by a word, but others of which have lost their original meanings entirely.

Today, for instance, we say: "All the world loves a lover." But Emerson said "All mankind loves a lover." We say: "Accidents happen in the best regulated families." What Dickens said was: "Accidents will occur in the best regulated families."

Cervantes in the Sixteenth century gave birth to the modern phrase, "Familiarity breeds contempt." But what he said was: "I find my familiarity with thee has bred contempt."

Island Dwellers
There are only two good ways to come to Stockholm. One is to approach slowly by the canal from Göteborg, and the other is to arrive by sea through the glorious channels between its 75 miles of islands. The rugged sea and landscapes of these rocky islets not only made artists happy, but many families of the city make their summer homes on an island, and the business men commute daily by launch to their work. Everybody has a yacht or some more modest craft and they spend nearly all day on the water.

ONLY ONE OF THEM HAS RIGHT TO SMILE

It's hard to tell whether the turkey is showing fright, or whether that funny look is an attempted emulation of the broad smile his capturer is wearing. But if it is a smile it won't last long—Thanksgiving day is at hand.

Day's True Spirit Not Ourselves Alone, Is Thanksgiving Motto.

Grow fat along with me
The best is yet to be,
The last of life for which the first was made;
The ax is in his hand,
Assassination's planned,
Stand pat, get fat, nor be afraid!

Poor vaunt of life, indeed,
Were Turk but made to feed
On corn alone; to seek, to find and feast,
When feasting ends, to howl
Is this the end of fowl?
Irks care the crop-full bird? No doubt
We'll soon be fleeced.

Rejoice we are allowed
To grow and yet be proud
To grace the festal board, be stuffed to burst,
Be turned upon the spit
Till we have browned a bit,
Then eaten up with one fell swoop,
That's worst.

So take and eat thy Turk,
Save carcass that may lurk
Amid the gray's lure; pick clean the bones.
Next day, pray eat us cold,
Then hash us in a mold,
Soup comes at last, thanks be, to hush
our moans!
—With Many Apologies to Browning.

Like the turkey and the epicureans, we are prone to eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die. We must have a particular day appointed in which to give thanks, lest we forget. We take so much for granted, accept all the good things of life without stopping to count our many blessings, or to name them one by one, as we were admonished in Sunday school so long ago.

We enjoy years and years of health, forgetting what a wonderful gift it is until illness lays us low. We accept our friends who strew our path with roses and cheer our way with kindness until one is gone, and we realize how much more we might have been to him. We think we love our children, but when they have all left the nest, how gladly would we have them back that we might show them how much more we could prove our love.

The editor of the Outlook, some years ago, expressed the true spirit of Thanksgiving so effectively that I quote him verbatim: "If the end of society is to produce the largest number of free human spirits, of generous human hearts, of strong human hands, of pure human homes, of noble human lives; if the liberation of serfs, the setting free of those in bondage, the care and reverence for the man as a man, the open door to the boy and girl whose feet are eager to climb, the breathing of the breath of life through a stagnant world, means progress toward the ultimate goal, then let us reverently thank God that we were born in an age and in a country in which it is our supreme good fortune not to be ministered unto but to minister."

"If we sto to return thanks," he goes on to say, "not for ourselves alone but for all men; not for work done, but for noble chances to work; not for a finished civilization, but for the greater civilization that may be developed; not for a few choice specialties, but for the opportunity for all men to lift themselves into the light; not for things which make for our own comfort, but for the things which make for the healing of the world; not for the life that has been lived, but for the boundless life that is to be, then let us thank God that he has given us, not things but chance of growth; not comfort but opportunity of service; not ease of spirit but the tolls of the unselfish life."—Indianapolis News.

THE condemned bird showed no signs of a breakdown, but rose early and ate a hearty breakfast.

Lesson for November 22

PAUL IN ROME

GOLDEN TEXT—I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 25:1-12; 26:16-31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in the Great City of the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Life-long Ambition Fulfilled.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Prisoner Proclaims the Gospel in Rome.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Ministry in the World's Capital.

1. Paul Appeals to Caesar (25:1-12). In order to appreciate this action on the part of Paul it is well to get a synthetic grasp of the experiences which forced him to make this appeal.

1. His trial before Felix (Acts 24). The officials of the Sanhedrin were represented by Tertullus, a Roman barrister. He brought a fourfold charge against Paul:

a. A pestilent fellow (v. 5).

b. An inciter of rebellion (v. 5).

c. The ringleader of a sect (v. 5).

d. A profaner of the temple (v. 6).

To this charge Paul replied in a clear, and dignified manner, setting forth the facts of his life, and demanded that his adversaries bring proof of their accusation. Felix was greatly moved by Paul's testimony concerning Christ, but postponed decision, expecting to receive a bribe from Paul.

2. Trial before Festus (25:12-26). Festus was the successor of Felix. Two years had elapsed, but the Jewish hatred had not abated. Paul's foes in Jerusalem sought to have him brought there for trial, intending to tie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus, willing to please the Jews, proposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial. For this Paul rebuked him, declaring that he very well knew that he was innocent. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice at the hands of Festus, he made use of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar. Festus was taken by surprise and found himself in an embarrassing position, as he was unable to explain to Caesar as to why an innocent man should go to Rome for trial.

3. Trial before Agrippa (25:13-26:32). This was occasioned by the visit to Festus of Agrippa and Bernice. Upon their arrival, Festus told them of his perplexity. Therefore, they expressed a desire to hear Paul. Paul gladly made his defense before them and appealed to them to accept Christ.

4. Paul's Journey to Rome (27:1-44). 1. The ship (v. 6). It was in a vessel of Alexandria sailing from Myra to Italy.

2. The company (vv. 2, 37). Two of Paul's friends, Aristarchus and Luke, were permitted to go with him. Besides these three there were 273 in the ship.

3. The storm (vv. 14-20). The ship made little headway on account of unfavorable winds. Paul advised that they winter in Fair Haven (vv. 9-12), but his advice was unheeded. In verses 14 to 20 we have a most graphic description of the storm. Tempestuous winds as well as soft breezes await God's faithful ones.

4. Paul's serene faith (vv. 21-26). God is as near to his faithful ones on a stormy sea as in the quietude of the home. "Paul was not only calm, but bade the people be of good cheer (v. 23). He promised them safety though the ship would go to pieces.

5. The ship's crew safe (vv. 27-43). All turned out as God had promised.

6. Paul's Ministry in Rome (Acts 28:15-31).

1. Welcomed by the brethren (v. 15). They met him at the Appii forum, a distance of about forty miles from Rome. This was the first time he was thus welcomed.

2. Paul's lenient treatment (v. 16). He was allowed to hire a house and live apart, being guarded by a soldier.

3. Conference with the leading Jews (vv. 17-22). He allowed himself only three days to rest. His object was to have a fair understanding with the Jews. He explained the reason for his being there. The result was that the Jews took neutral ground, but expressed a desire to hear what Paul could say in defense of a sect which was evil spoken against.

4. Paul expounding the kingdom of God and persuading concerning Jesus (vv. 23-31). He pointed out a real kingdom, the Messianic Kingdom, with the historic Jesus as the King. The kingdom to Paul meant a definite reign of a definite person, not merely an improved state of society. This he showed from the Scriptures. He went through the Old Testament, carefully showing the kingdom teaching to be in harmony with the law and the prophets.

5. Personal consecration.

There is also need of a clear understanding of what consecration means. It is not an indulgence in pious yearnings and amug phrases. It is the willingness to face facts squarely, to deny one's self in behalf of others, to give, to work with one's heart and soul that God's kingdom may come upon earth.

6. Pleasures Not Lasting.

The pleasures of sin are but for a season, but the punishment of unpardoned sin is everlasting.

How to train BABY'S BOWELS

Babies, bottle-fed or breast-fed, with any tendency to be constipated, would thrive if they received daily half a teaspoonful of this old family doctor's prescription for the bowels. That is one sure way to train tiny bowels to healthy regularity. To avoid the fretfulness, vomiting, crying, failure to gain, and other ills of constipated babies. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. For this, you have the word of a famous doctor. Forty-seven years of practice taught him just what babies need to keep their little bowels active, regular; keep little bodies plump and healthy. For Dr. Caldwell specialized in the treatment of women and little ones. He attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN A Doctor's Family Laxative

The Reason "I think I'll name my last story 'Bodmering.'" "Yes, then it's sure to come back."

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief. This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses. To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

The Array of Jars! "You can study chemistry?" "No, this is my wife's dressing table."—Wochenhaus (Essen).

Feeling Stale?

Few are free from the occasional constipation that comes from irregular eating and drinking habits. It is a common ailment and should be treated as such. A cup or two of Garfield Tea is a most effective and certain, completely harmless, pleasant, and safe remedy. At your nearest drug store.

GARFIELD TEA A Natural Laxative Drink

Miserable with Backache?

Heed Promptly Kidney and Bladder Irregularities. A nagging backache, with bladder irregularities and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling may warn of certain disordered kidney or bladder conditions. Users everywhere rely on Doan's Pills. This time-tested diuretic has been recommended for 50 years. Sold by all druggists.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

The New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association

Albuquerque, Nov. 18—The many important problems which will be discussed at the executive board meeting of The New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association to be held at State College near Las Cruces, Dec. 5, assures those in attendance that their time will be well and profitably spent.

Livestock and other organizations of the western states have been protesting the application of certain interests for a reduction in tariff on live cattle and word has been received that this application has been withdrawn. The livestock interests have been successful in preventing the 16% increase in freight rates on livestock. They have worked hard and faithfully during the past several years and have had a part in securing a reduction in freight rates on livestock from the western states. The cattlemen of the state must get behind their representative in Washington and urge Congress to enact legislation as early as possible, governing the public domain.

National advertising of beef could only be brought about by co-operation of organized livestock associations. This has been accomplished. Tuberculin testing of range herds is now being urged and the cattlemen at their meeting, Dec. 5, will have a chance to voice their views as to the necessity for this. It is only through organization that such matters as this above can be handled and the cattlemen feel that they have even had a chance to voice their opinions in matters of vital interest to them.

The New Mexico cattlemen have been asked to help in the erection of a permanent livestock and agricultural building in Chicago, to house their exhibits during the World's Fair in 1933, and to be used for exhibits of both livestock and agriculture in the future. This may be used to good advantage in showing those interested in the livestock industry that New Mexico produces cattle as good as any in the United States. This is one of the most important things confronting the New Mexico cattlemen today. All cattlemen should be interested in this meeting.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement down's get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a tickle, bad taste and your breath is foul. Acid often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1911 C. M. Co.

Ancho, New Mexico, nearest to land;
To Juan S. Martinez of Carrizozo,
N. M., Contestee:

You are hereby notified that Peter
M. Johnson, who gives Carrizozo, New Mexico, as his postoffice address, did on Oct. 5, 1931, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your homestead entry No. 038624, Ser-for all Section 13, Township 5 S., Range 10 E., N. M. P. M., and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Juan Martinez never established residence on the land; that the said

Juan Martinez never placed any improvements on the land.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken as confessed, and your said entry will be canceled without further right to be heard, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically responding to those allegations of contest, together with due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail.

You should state in your answer the name of the postoffice to which you de-

Former Bankers' Chief Finds
Much in Past Year to Inspire
Confidence in Financial Reliability

ROME C. STEPHENSON, retiring president of the American Bankers Association, declared in an address on the expiration of his term of office that, in travelling about among the banks from one end of the country to the other during the past year, he had "come out of it with a renewed faith in the strength of our banking structure and our banking situation, and a renewed faith particularly in the spirit and courage of the men in the banks that have enabled them to rise unconquered over difficulties such as we never had to face before, or to accept with fortitude misfortunes that were beyond human power to prevent."

When he reflected, he said, that the "entire human economic structure has been brought to the verge of ruin under the difficulties that have swept over not only the nation but the entire world, and that the results of events of this kind react with particular directness upon the stability of our banks, and yet how few have succumbed, we may well renew our confidence in the banks of America; when we think also of how many of our bankers have stood up under the stress and storms of these times and how relatively few of them have been proved wanting in the spirit of that have assailed them, we may well feel a sincere pride in our fellow bankers." He added:

"So I come out of this year of somber experiences not as a pessimist, but as an optimist—as one with a renewed faith and confidence in the spirit of his fellow men under overwhelming difficulties. And particularly do I come out of this year as a banker who is proud of his fellow bankers for the undaunted way in which they have met their part of the great test through which the times have put the nation.
I believe that this year has brought new honor to our banking traditions and our banking profession and has won for the banker new title to the faith and trust of all classes of his fellow citizens."

Our Representatives Have Lost Their Carpet

WHEN congress-meets in December the members of the houses of representatives will find that they can no longer throw their cigar and cigarette stubs on the carpet. There is no carpet now in their chamber. In the interests of economy and neatness it has been replaced with a rubber floor covering in delicate blue and buff hues, and our illustration shows the workmen putting this down.

MRS. PETER'S HEART NEARLY STOPS BEATING

LITTLE Mrs. Peter Rabbit sat in the dear Old Brier Patch anxiously looking over to the Green Forest. It was high time for Peter to be home. Already jolly bright Mr. Bun had begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, and all the little people who are abroad by day were about their business. Roughting the Hawk was sitting in the top of the big hickory tree where he could see all over the Green Meadows.

"Oh, dear," sighed little Mrs. Peter. "Peter should have been here a whole hour ago. Why will he be so careless and take such risks? If I knew how I worry I don't believe he would."

Just then she heard a sound that made her hop out to the very edge of the dear Old Brier Patch and took more anxiously than ever toward the heart almost stopped beating! There was Peter running as if almost tired to death and only a few feet behind him was Bowser the Hound! Peter was headed straight for the Old Brier Patch, and that meant that he had a long, open stretch to cross with no chance to hide or play tricks. He had just had to run faster than Bowser could or he never, never would get there.

And Peter wasn't running as he usually did. Oh, my, no! He was running as if something were the matter with him. It seemed as if every jump would be the last one.

"Run, Peter! Oh, run!" cried little Mrs. Peter. Just as if Peter could hear her.

But Peter couldn't hear her, and he didn't run any faster. What could be the matter with him? Bowser seemed to be at his very heels! Little Mrs. Peter shut her eyes. She couldn't bear to see the dreadful thing she felt sure was going to happen. She kept them shut just as long as she could, and then she just had to open them to see if Peter was still alive and running. Just as she looked a surprising thing happened. Peter, who by this time was half way to the Old Brier Patch, suddenly kicked up his heels and then how he did run! Lipperty-lipperty-lip, lipperty-lipperty-lip, came Peter and with every jump he left Bowser farther behind.

In a few minutes he had reached the dear old Brier Patch and had entered one of his private little paths under the friendly old brambles where flowerer could not follow him.

"Oh, Peter," cried little Mrs. Peter, hurrying to rub noses with him. "What was the matter? What happened? Are you almost dead? Do tell me, quick!"

Peter grinned. "I was just fooling Old Man Coyote," said he.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

BY HUGH HUTTON

THE KOREAN GIMF

"Gimf" is the ancient Korean word for the modern Chow Hog, a portly creature inhabiting the shores of the Yellow Sea. It skips up and down the beaches looking for turtles, which have become extremely rare in that country on account of the gimf's fondness for turtle soup. The Koreans prize the gimf highly for its ham and eggs, and are able to capture it easily by using mock turtles for decoys.

The gimf shown here is suspiciously examining what may be a turtle or a rock turtle. He has a fibert head, walnut body, and popcorn ears and spines. The legs and tail are cloves, while the feet are split navy beans. The turtle is a half-fibert head with a clove head, and feet and nose are made from birdseed.

DISHES WITHOUT MEAT

GETTING three meals a day every day in the year is no small amount of work, nor does it mean a small amount of thought and planning to maintain an adequate diet for those of all ages and conditions—the people who make up our families.

For those who must be sparing of meat the following dish will be one that will be enjoyed.

Stuffed Onions

Select large, over-sized onions—as many as there are persons to be served. Peel and pour boiling water over them. Remove the hearts, chop them fine and add to one and one-half cupsful of soft bread crumbs with one-half cupful of grated or chopped cheese, salt and pepper to taste. Fill the shells and top with a spoonful of buttered crumbs. Bake with a small amount of stock poured round them until tender and brown. Serve on rounds of buttered toast.

Nut and Cheese Roast

Cook two tablespoonsful of onion in one tablespoonful of butter, add one-fourth pound of rich grated cheese, one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of walnuts chopped, one cupful of milk, the juice of half a lemon, salt, pepper and paprika. Put into a baking dish and brown in a moderate oven.

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

HE PLAYS the tunes we used to hear

When old Tim Loss' barn was clear, His hay piled back, his rigs pulled out, And all the young folks all about Would gather for a country dance, To turn, and sashay, and advance, Now all those girls and boys are gone, But the old fiddler fiddles on.

As tenderly his cheek is laid On that old fiddle that he played As is a mother's on her child, The snow is high, the wind is wild, But he can see across the snow The lantern lights of long ago, And hear across the silence ring The laughter of the once so young.

And so is memory at the last, A queer old fiddler from the past Who sits beside some evening fire And plays the tunes that do not fire; The heart a fiddle, from whose strings There comes the music of old things, The sweeter things of sweeter days, When life, a gray old fiddler, plays, (©, 1931, Douglas Malloch.)—WNU Service.

for the children; they will enjoy them as well as most of the older ones:

Honey Popcorn Balls

Take one and one-fourth cupsful of corn syrup, three-fourths cupful of honey, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half tablespoonful of vinegar and cook until slightly brittle in cold water. Stir occasionally. Add the butter at the last and pour over three quarts of freshly popped corn lightly salted. Mix well and mold into balls at once.

Baked Corn Croquettes

Take one cupful of chopped cooked beef and one cupful of canned corn. Add cream enough to make moist and season to taste with salt and pepper. If not firm enough add a little thick white sauce to bind and a bit of grated cheese may be added for extra flavor. Shape, roll in crumbs and egg, then in crumbs again and bake in a moderate oven.

Poison Ivy Misnamed
The poison ivy, like several other plants with similar names, is not an ivy, but is merely called by that name because of its resemblance to the real ivy. Poison ivy belongs to the same family and genus as the sumacs and is a totally different plant from the English ivy.

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what if? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold." Every case of tonsillitis began with "just a sore throat!" It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

World's Tiniest Baby

Pretoria has what is believed to be the tiniest baby in the world. She was so small at birth that they did not weigh her in case the act of weighing might injure her. At fourteen days she weighed three pounds. She is kept wrapped up in cotton-wool and gets her nourishment through the absorption of olive oil, applied to the skin.

Odd, how some people born in a state have the dialect and intonation of that state and some don't.

Those who are the real sinners are not proud of it. In fact, they try to disguise it.

Old Mine to Reopen

The three-hundred-year-old copper mine at Sjangell in northernmost Lapland; soon will be reopened. Located close to the Norwegian border and far from the nearest railroad or highway, the mine has been hitherto inaccessible for economic exploitation. Now the mining company has applied for government permission to gain access to the mine through the Abisko national park.

Dan Cupid has his feelings while the task of gathering material for the Thanksgiving feast is temporarily forgotten.

Not All Americans Look on Day of Thanksgiving With the Pessimistic Eyes of Will Carleton

Will Carleton in his verses on "Captain Young's Thanksgiving," says:

Thanksgiving day, I fear,
If one the solemn truth must touch,
Is celebrated, not so much
To thank the Lord for blessings o'er
As for the sake of getting more.

It is the "festive" day on which Little Willie, on nearing the end of a bountiful meal, will sigh, "I've pretty near reached my bust measure." And dad will again wonder why Thanksgiving day doesn't follow Christmas so he can be thankful that both purse-bending days are over. It is also the season in which dogs and cats beat a tattoo on drumsticks with their teeth.

Truly, a man is old when he begins to fear mince pie. What this world needs is for some one to devise a plan whereby the bone of contention can be utilized like the Thanksgiving turkey for making hash and soup. But 'twas ever thus—these big Thanksgiving meals. Indeed, some 140 years ago the Thanksgiving menu of which George Washington partook at Mount Vernon consisted of:

- Concort of Fresh Fruit
- Oyster Soup
- (Mrs. John Marshall's recipe—black eye peas and Virginia ham knuckles added.)
- Roast turkey stuffed with wild rice, pulverized boiled chestnuts, artichokes, truffles, chicken olives and toasted bread crumbs, flavored with rosemary, sage and mother of thyme, larded with Virginia ham fat and basted with Madeira wine; served with bogberry sauce, fresh cauliflower and candied sweet potatoes.

Old Virginia mince pie, served in flames.

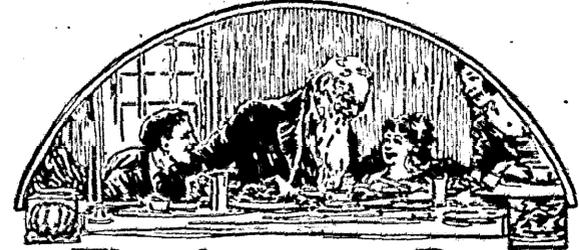

New Orleans old French market coffee.

Mmm! Those were the good old days! But, observes the Providence Bulletin:

The special blessings for the sake of which children and some adult persons celebrate Thanksgiving day are transitory at best. They center round the dinner table, "groganing with good things." But even if Will Carleton thinks that most of us regard such matters as these more seriously than the finer and nobler teachings of the day, surely many of us grace the occasion with the spirit of gratitude, for our "blessings," and endeavor to spread this spirit by providing for the comfort and happiness of some less fortunate household than ours at this one festival of the year.

It is a familiar-law of nature that the more we give the more we have. This may not be true of material possessions, but it is certainly true of the things of the spirit. If we increase the sum total of others' happiness we increase our own.

Anyhow, here's hoping you get the long end of the wish bone!—Pathfinder Magazine.

Thanksgiving Day

Ah! On Thanksgiving day, when from east and from west, From north and from south, come the pilgrim and guest, When the gray-haired New Englander sees round his board The old broken links of affection restored, When the care-worn man seeks his mother once more, And the worn matron smiles where the girl smiled before. . . . —John Greenleaf Whittier.

Thanksgiving Dinner in 1621 Hardly What Would Be Considered Much of a Special "Spread" Today

A modern, transplanted to Puritan New England, wouldn't give many thanks over Thanksgiving day dinner. He would find it pretty bad fare.

Cranberries were available in 1621, and wild turkey—if the head of the house was a good marksman. There were nut trees in the woods, and wild grapes. But the stock of perishable foodstuffs was meagre. Probably grain was to be had to supplement the small supply of Indian corn, but butter, milk and eggs were almost unheard of in Plymouth 310 years ago. Maybe they had potatoes in 1621, but if they did they came by ship.

out, because the food did not have the proper vitamin content.

"Palatability and quantity were in those days almost the sole guides to dietary adequacy," he says. "But families were large and, in spite of high mortality that would produce a scandal in health circles today, they managed to survive and gradually increase in numbers.

FROM time immemorial, the bringing in of the last sheaves of corn and the cutting of the last of the fruits of the land have been accompanied by feasting and all the outward expressions of joy and happiness. It is a time for reunion of families, for happy greetings, for the renewal of friendships and of general gaiety.

THANKSGIVING day is only our annual time for saying grace at the table of eternal goodness.—James M. Ludlow.

This Little Girl Got Well Quick

"Just after her third birthday, my little daughter, Connie, had a serious attack of intestinal flu," says Mrs. H. W. Turnage, 217 Cadwalder St., San Antonio, Texas. "It left her very weak and pale. Her bowels wouldn't act right, she had no appetite and nothing agreed with her. Our physician told us to give her some California Fig Syrup. It made her pick up right away, and now she is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for her wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable. For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows it gives satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

Astrologer's Game as Old as Science Itself

Some of the zodiac have always impressed the general public more than new developments in the field of relativity, which, according to Dr. Dirk Brouwer, of Yale university, is one of the reasons why early astronomers were forced to deal in hocus pocus in order to gain enough money for honest scientific investigations.

Astrologers batten on the public casting horoscopes supposedly based on scientific astronomical data, he said, are as old as science itself.

"Then, as now, the public was willing to give money to some one to peer into the future, but was less inclined to contribute to an earnest, scholarly study," he continued. "Kepler, one of the famous astronomers of the Seventeenth century, was also known as an astrologer, but we have strong reason to believe he had no patience with the role he was forced to play in order to obtain funds for astronomy."

Astronomers of today know that for the most part, the so-called astrological tables are entirely inaccurate. Doctor Brouwer declared. And even if they were correct there never had been any evidence to show a connection between phenomena in the heavens and the lives of men.

"What has happened," he said, "is this: Astrologers take some specific instance or several instances of events which have occurred when the stars were in a certain position. They then generalize on this basis. It would be just as inaccurate to try to reach a conclusion based on statistics by using only a part of the figures provided, except that the figures used would at least have some foundation in fact."

Reminder of Other Days: Newspapers seventy-five years old, including a copy of the New York Tribune when it was edited by Horace Greeley, were found as a foundation for wall paper when the paper was stripped from the walls of a house owned by Frank D. Kerr, near Newport, Ohio. A copy of the Marietta (Ohio) Register of 1873 also was found. It contained news of a "great business depression" which was sweeping the country.

Book Thief Sees the Light: Employees of the Muskegoe public library came to work recently to find 69 volumes, stolen in 1929 and 1930, piled at the outside return box. A letter accompanying the books said the author had "forsaken the ways of sin," and asked forgiveness.

Bees Carried to Work: Grazing the bees in the blooming heather to make up for the failure of the clover to blossom earlier in the summer was the novel device resorted to this year by farmers on the west coast of Sweden. The wet and cold spring stunted the clover but the heather bloomed profusely and at night the bees were transported in their hives to the ridges where it abounded.

Made Them Look Silly: A mph of college students in Waynesburg, Pa., attempted to "crash" a movie theater while celebrating a football victory. About 100 students got past the door, but the party lost its spontaneity when the president of the college came on the scene a short while later and personally paid the admission price for each student who got in. Love never figures out the cost.

Curiosity of Nature

The famous "ice mine" in Pennsylvania is located at Coudersport. It is located on a mountain side and mystifies scientists. The ice does not form from water but because of a peculiar mist coming through the openings, and the hotter the day the faster it forms, until huge ledges appear.

Federal soil experts say the Florida Everglades were formed over a period of 8,000 years through decay of vegetation. In dry weather the soil cracks open and fire starts easily to a great depth. Burned areas are rendered useless. Land destroyed in a fire some years ago today shows no sign of vegetation except dwarfed ragweeds.

Pigeons Spread News

Homing pigeons were used by the Greeks to carry the names of Olympic victors to various cities of Greece.

High School Notes

On Armistice Day, the football boys played the town team. The Hi held the town gang to a tie until Captain Clayton Hunt of the town team went over for a touch-down. They lined up again and went over for the extra point. The game ended 7 to 0 in favor of the town team. The Hi boys should not feel badly over losing the game, for Raymond Price of the town team has had three years of high school football and two years in college, while Hunt played two years with the navy crack eleven.

On Thursday, the Sophomores, under Miss Evrard, put on a portrayal of the "Shooting of Dan McGrew As It Actually Happened," accompanied by a reading of the same name by Frances Charles; a comic reading by Betty Joyce and a musical number by Vena Snow. The program as a whole was very good.

On Friday, the 13th, the boys went to Corona for a football game. Those wishing to go and see the game were excused from school, and besides the players' bus, 4 or 5 cars mudded it up to Corona to see our boys run up the score to that lucky number, 13, to Corona's 6. The boys beat Dexter at basketball last year 13 to 10, also on Friday, the 13th.

On Monday, the different clubs met and a Fencing Club was started. Some very lively times are to be looked forward to in this ancient sport of the Royalty of France. Three or four musketeers might even be turned out.

And speakers' day, Tuesday, came around again, bringing the Rev. Lawson. He spoke to us on "Hash" for about 30 minutes, at the end of which time we all wanted to pass our plates for more. As ever, his talk was most-delightful and helpful.

On Wednesday, the assembly was devoted to a sort of pep meeting, for the sole purpose of telling the boys that the town is behind them and that they should come out and practice hard for that game with Captain on Thanksgiving.

On Thursday and Friday evenings the girls will have their class B. E. tournament. Game 1 is between the Juniors and Sophomores. Game 2, Freshies and Seniors. Friday evening the winners will play and there will be a popolation game between

Famous Clockmaker

Seth Thomas was born at Wolcott, Conn. in 1785. He received a meager education and was apprenticed to a carpenter and joiner in New Haven. He learned clockmaking from Eli Terry, whose business he acquired in 1810. In 1813 Thomas purchased a factory in the western part of Plymouth, Mass., which was known as the "thriving village of Thomaston." His clocks, manufactured between 1813 and 1835, were largely shelf clocks, a few small mantle clocks and regulators. Thomas died in 1850. In 1872 the company began to make tower clocks.

The Changing Times

Things have changed. Women are more important than they were 30 years ago. There was then the classic story of the man who gave his wife a birthday present of half a dozen bars of laundry soap and a wringer. Recently a woman gave her husband, who is an indolent author, one thousand sheets of copy paper and a new typewriter ribbon.—New York Herald Tribune.

English Expression

The expression "So long" is an English provincialism which was introduced into the United States. J. Redding Ware in his "Passing of the English of the Victorian Era" speaks of the custom in England of adopting the words of foreigners resident there and Anglicizing them; and mentions as an instance the expression "So long," which he believes originated in the Whitechapel district of London, being a corruption of the Jewish "selah," a phrase which spread all over England.

Moths

A housewife who has had 15 years' experience living in hot climates says that a very effective moth exterminator is just ordinary black pepper. Miss Herring leads off with a Grade School Operetta—musical comedy, singing, dancing, using the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades. In all, something over 150 pupils will participate. The operetta will be divided into three groups: Group 1, consisting of about

Baptist Church

(L. D. Jordan, Pastor)
R. V. Shaw, Sunday School Supt.

Plans are under way for an "Every-Member Canvass" to be made during the week beginning on November 29, at which time we hope to have every member of the church, as well as friends and well-wishers enlist in the work of furthering the cause of the Master in this community during the coming year, by making a pledge to the financial support of the Church, and to all the causes fostered by the Southern Baptist Convention. These pledges will be divided up among the different causes: Local Expenses, State Missions, Home Missions, Foreign Missions, Ministerial Relief, Orphans' Home, etc.

But, after all, as Dr. J. C. Owen aptly says; "The winning of souls is the supreme objective of the Every-Member Canvass. Let us not forget that part of the program as we go about to enlist every Baptist in the State. God will abundantly bless us if we keep the right objective before us. Every redeemed soul should have a part in the pledges made to Kingdom causes this month and next. God pledged His son for us. He kept the pledge. He has pledged us that He will come again. He will keep that pledge, too. It is our business to carry this message to those who do not know Him and thus make His return more glorious."

MELLOWED A HUNDRED MILLION YEARS

While scaly monsters fought in PENNSYLVANIA

A HUNDRED million years ago in the Devonian Age, the world's richest crude oil was formed in the Bradford-Alleghany District of the Pennsylvania field. Today that crude—the highest priced of all Pennsylvania crudes—is being refined into Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil. De-waxed and freed from petroleum jelly at as low as 60° F. below zero, Sinclair Pennsylvania is the ideal year-around Pennsylvania grade motor oil! Ask the Sinclair dealer.
