I. O. O. F. Mothers' Day Program

An audience that filled the Lyric Theatre to overflowing greeted the program given in honor of Mothers' Day, Wednesday evening. The program lasted from 8 to 9, after which three pictures were shown, the whole affair ending at about 10:30.

Every address, song, and in fact everything connected with the program was in honor of the wonderful mothers of our land. The speakers, all Oddfellows, spoke in concert to the fact that the foundation and principles of the order were such as had the loving approval of all good mothers. The solo by Miss Herringer and the duets by Misses Eyrard and Stover, Kimbrell and Cooper, were all tributes to Mother's loving kindness.

The committee composed of Messrs. D. U. Groce, Roy Shafer, Herman Kelt John E. Hall, A. L. Burke, saw that nothing was overlooked for the convenience of the public who were guests of the local lodge of Oddfellows. The affair as a whole, reflected credit on the fraternity. Prof. Groce graciously donated the services of his High School Orchestra. The Rebekahs were stationed over the theatre, acting as guards of honor throughout the program. The above named committee wishes to thank all who took part in the program.

A large number of the Fort people attended the Mothers' Day services at Lincoln last Sunday.

John Major and Capt. Fritz left last Friday for San Francisco, via El Paso.

Arvo Mahal, C. Blomberg, Waltanen, Navarret, O'Malley, left Saturday on an automobile trip with New York as a destination.

A rumor, which circulated like wild-fire and caused a great deal of excitement at the Fort, reported that the ape-man who several times long ago had scared and annoyed the nurses here, had again made his appearance in the neighborhood. It happened that some of the nurses were out horse-back riding in the hills between here and Capitan, when all of a sudden, high up in a tree, was a horrible gorilla-like beast with long hairy arms, looking down on them with lustful eyes. Screaming with horror, they hastened home and breathlessly reported their adventure. An armed posse was quickly organized and was shortly scouring the hills between the Fort and Capitan in search for the intruder - firmly determined to annihilate him by injections of lead poison.

Arriving at the place, described by the fair ones as the rendezvous of the monkey-beast, they encountered Fat Johnson, the electrician, busily engaged in repairing the telephone line. Upon the question if he had seen anybody in a certain tree nearby he answered that, as the line got tangled up in the branches of the tree, he had to climb up to get them loose. Very much disappointed with the solution of the mystery, the posse returned home.

Mrs. D. X. LaVallee entertained the Wednesday Bridge Club at her home Wednesday evening.

Roosevelt's First Rebuff in Primaries—Senate Committee Boosts Income Taxes—House Playing Havoc With Economy Bill.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

FOR the first time since he started out on his hunt for instructed delegates Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt met with a rebuff—two of them, in fact. In the Massachusetts primaries he expected to win eight or ten of the 39 delegates chosen for the Democratic Presidential convention, but Al Smith swept the state and added the entire delegation to his little bundle of votes.

More important because more unexpected was the result in Pennsylvania. The New York governor captured the greater part of that state's delegation, perhaps 40 out of 70 votes, but Smith made a much better showing than anyone had anticipated. Incomplete returns indicated he had carried 15 of the 67 counties, and his majority in Philadelphia was impressive.

Altogether, the leaders of the "stop Roosevelt" movement were considerably heartened by the outcome of these two primaries.

President Hoover was virtually assured of the 100 Republican delegates in the two states. In the Pennsylvania the Republican primary was made interesting by the contest between Senator James J. Davis and Gen. Smedley D. Butler. The famous marine was backed by Governor Pinchot and ran as a dry, but Davis, who had been converted to anti-prohibitionism through the influence of William S. Vare, Republican boss of the state, defeated the general by a plurality that approached 400,000. It was thought this might mean that the Pennsylvania delegation in the Republican convention would fight earnestly for a plank promising resubmission of the Eighteenth amendment. Mrs. Pinchot, the governor's wife, sought the Republican congressional nomination in the Fifteenth district, but was whipped by Congressman Louis T. McFadden, who some months ago attacked the administration's international finance policies and accused President Hoover of "selling out" to Europe.

RATHER unexpectedly, the jury in the Kahahawai murder case in Honolulu, after being out 48 hours, brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter against Lieut. Thomas H. Massie of the navy, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, his mother-in-law, and Seaman E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones. The jury recommended mercy for the defendants. The verdict means a sentence of one to ten years in Oahu prison. Notice of appeal was served by the defense.

The four defendants heard the finding of the jury bravely, but Mrs. Massie, for assaulting whom the slain man was under indictment, broke down and sobbed during the proceedings. Clarence Darrow, the veteran Chicago attorney who had made a remarkable attempt to win acquittal for the four, was grievously disappointed.

FIRST rejecting a proposal by Senator Couzens to boost surtaxes to the wartime maximum of 45 per cent, the Senate Finance committee voted an increase in all income tax rates above the levels written into the new revenue bill by that house.

The committee almost unanimously adopted a schedule presented by Senator Hawdon of Mississippi, the ranking Democrat, calling for a maximum surtax of 45 per cent instead of the 40 per cent figure carried in the House bill.

Normal income rates were boosted to 3 per cent on the first $4,000 income; 6 per cent on the next $4,000 and 9 per cent on the income above $8,000.

The present normal rates are 1%, 3 and 5 per cent. The house voted to increase these rates to 2, 4 and 7 per cent respectively.

By close votes the tariffs on imported oil and coal which the house added to the measure were struck out. The tax on automobiles was approved.

The house passed and sent to the President the tariff bill restoring to congress all power to alter import duties. The house also passed the $326,000,000 navy bill after refusing to cut the amount 10 per cent.

DETERMINED to get the $20,000,000 economy bill before the senate as quickly as possible, Majority Floor Leader Rainey decreed that the house should hold night sessions until the measure was disposed of.

Immediately a bipartisan insurgent coalition took charge and overrode the Democratic and Republican leadership. First thing it did was to knock out that provision of the rule limiting the number of amendments to the economy measure to forty, and then it started in to rip the bill to pieces. Its primary achievement in this line was the adoption of an amendment by Britten of Illinois exempting from the proposed 11 per cent pay reduction all federal employees with salaries up to and including $2,500. As framed by the committee the exemption ran to $1,000. The change took more than $50,000,000 out of the $200,000,000 the bill was supposed to effect in the annual cost of the federal government. The administration proposal that veterans' compensation be curtailed in the case of single men receiving a $1,500 income or married men with a $3,500 income, with $400 exemption for dependents, also was expected to bring a storm of protest on the house floor.

RICHMOND was full of governors and other dignitaries last week and was mighty busy in other respects. The events included the annual conference of state executives, the Washington bicentennial celebration, a celebration in honor of the landing of the first permanent colonists, a state music festival, dedication of the first monument to James Monroe in the state, and the opening to the public for the full week of 100 colonial homes and gardens.

The governors, thirty in number, after being received by Governor Pollard, helped to dedicate the Monroe statue at Ash Lawn. The chief address was delivered by Claude G. Bowers, eminent Democratic journalist and orator. The executive also took part in all the other ceremonies, besides holding their own four-day meet. On Wednesday they were addressed by President Hoover, who in one of his most important speeches presented the federal government's case to the states and asked for their fuller co-operation in settling national problems. Thursday evening the governors were entertained at dinner in the White House.

REPRESENTATIVE F. H. La Guardia of New York, leader of the bloc that defeated the sales tax proposition, provided the sensation of the week in the senate banking committee hearings on stock exchange methods. It was an exposure of alleged high pressure publicity methods, including even bribery, to manipulate prices on the New York Stock exchange, and the documents he offered in proof of his charges involved a number of financial writers formerly employed on New York papers. They were employed by brokerage houses, he said, to "bally-hoo" stocks and sent out misleading statements in order to promote stock purchases. In some cases he said extracts from newspaper articles inspired by high powered publicity methods were included by brokers in letters to customers.

Five pools in which stocks were manipulated, according to La Guardia, were cited by the New Yorker to back up his assertions. He said that high pressure methods had been utilized in the handling of pools in Indian Motorcycle stock, Savage Arms, Maxwell Motors, Pure Oil, Simms Petroleum, and Superior Oil. In all instances except the Indian Motorcycle stock, the pools operated back in 1924 and 1925.

Mr. La Guardia named A. Newton Plummer as the high pressure publicity man who had distributed $250,000 among newspaper men. This man, he said, operated under the title of publicity counsel and sometimes under the name of the Institute of Economic Research. Plummer is now under indictment for forging securities.

The committee in executive session decided to make a sweeping inquiry into the whole stock and bond selling as it affects the stock exchange, and this may last all summer. A steering committee of five was named by Chairman Norbeck to plan the investigation and line up witnesses. Senator Couzens of Michigan, one of the "progressives," is perhaps the leading member of this smaller body and will be a most important factor in the inquiry. Glass, Fletcher and Norbeck himself also are on the steering committee. Walcott of Connecticut, who initiated the inquiry, has been forced into a minor place by Norbeck.

SENATOR Huey P. Long of Louisiana broke out in violent revolt against the Democratic party and especially against its leader in the senate, Joe Robinson of Arkansas, because in the pending tax bill the rich were not being "soaked" as much as he desired. He accused the Democrats of taking orders from big business, practically renounced his membership in the party and shouted his resignation from all senate committees to which he had been appointed. Senator Robinson replied with dignity and withering sarcasm and the Republicans sat silently enjoying the affair.

JOHN N. WILLYS, ambassador to Poland, thinks he should return to the direction of his automobile manufacturing business. Therefore he came back to the country and last week called on President Hoover and arranged for his retirement from the diplomatic post in June. He said to the reporters: "I shall make immediate arrangements to move back to the United States in order that I may be on the ground to take care of my various interests here and particularly to be more active and helpful in my duties as chairman of the board of the Willys-Overland company."

GERMANY is especially grateful to President Hoover for his promotion of the moratorium on reparations and war debts, but there was no way in which this gratitude could be shown directly to the President. So Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett was chosen to be the recipient of an unusual honor—the bestowal of the degree of doctor of political science by the ancient and famous University of Tuebingen. This high honor was presented to the ambassador in an impressive ceremony in the presence of representatives of the German cabinet and many of south Germany's most distinguished men.

In its centuries of existence the University of Tuebingen has dispensed only a few honorary titles. But, as the rector said, because of his "great effort in alleviating economic problems the university concluded that the American ambassador did signal work in singling out some of the causes of the present difficulties," and decided to honor him.

REFERENDUM of the prohibition question under provisions of article five of the Eighteenth amendment was voted by Michigan Republicans in convention at Grand Rapids. The convention also voted indorsement of President Hoover. The platform was adopted practically unanimously after a riotous session on the floor, preceded by two hours of debate in the committee on resolutions. The committee refused a report on the soldiers' bonus question.

GEORGIA has a new senator, appointed by Gov. Richard B. Russell, Jr., to fill out part of the unexpired term of the late William J. Harris. The man selected is Maj. John S. Cohen, editor of the Atlanta Journal. He will serve until next November. The Harris term does not expire until 1937, and Governor Russell himself will be a candidate for the place in the general election in the fall.

Major Cohen, who has been Democratic national committee man from Georgia since 1924, is a member of a distinguished southern family. He joined the staff of the Journal in 1930 and was reporter, special Washington correspondent, and editorial writer. He was a correspondent and later an army officer in the Spanish-American war. His father was a Confederate officer.

NATIONAL Socialists, under the leadership of Adolf Hitler, scored a great victory in the Prussian elections, and won enough places in other parts of Germany to make them the strongest political party in four of the five states in the reich. But they still lack a clear majority to control any of them. In Bavaria they fell slightly behind.

In Prussia, where the fight was most bitter because of the theory that "whoever controls Prussia controls the reich," the Hitlerite forces garnered 162 seats against the nine they held heretofore. The coalition which makes up the present government also obtained 162 seats. The Communists also gained, now having 57 seats to their former 43. The Social Democrats were the heaviest losers.

It was announced that the Prussian government would resign on May 24 when the newly elected diet convenes, but will carry on until a new premier of the state is elected. Hitler is insisting that the Nazis should be given control, but there can be no definite decision as to the alignment of the parties until the middle of May, when the Catholic Centerists meet in Berlin for a caucus.

In the Austrian elections also the National Socialists scored heavy and widespread gains, but the control of the government remains in the hands of the Socialists and Christian Socialists. The Pan-German and Agrarian parties were practically wiped out by the Nazis. JAPAN opened a great drive in Manchuria to suppress the fast-growing revolt against the government of the puppet state of Manchoukuo, having previously warned the rest of the world to keep hands off. The rebel forces along the eastern lines of the Chinese Eastern railway and in the lower Sangan valley were estimated at 20,000, and there were more of them in other regions. Against all these large bodies of troops were started, the main force being commanded by Major General Mural.

No Snap for Members of U. S. Marine Band

Anyone who thinks a member of the United States Marine Band has a soft snap of it should take a trip to the Marine barracks and get a glimpse of the musicians at work. There's no chance for temperment in the daily routine of the Marine Band which is heard in the National 4-H club program of the National Farm and Home Hour on the first Saturday in each month. Rehearsals are serious occasions when every man is tuned up to concert pitch, for every member of the band understands the high expectations of the American public when the United States Marine Band appears in radio broadcasts.

Captain Taylor Branson, renowned leader of the band, wields the baton for the organization, and his able direction and intimate understanding of arrangements play a big part in the splendid performances. Besides the vigorous rehearsals, there are numerous engagements to be filled by the Marine Band which is in constant demand for diplomatic functions, civic and patriotic parades, White House concerts and the various governmental and social affairs that play a part in the daily life of the Nation's Capital.

Four of them have worked out inside the ropes. There's Ted Bergman, 200-pound Palooka of the act, who once in his varied life managed a New York gymnasium. . . . And heavyweight Ham Fisher, cartoonist-creator of the comic strip on which the act is based, who sparred in school, hobnobbed with all the fighters and still works out with them. . . . How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkle of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man." "To lose fat SAFELY and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any drugstore in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. All good druggists will be glad to supply you."

Log Finally Vanishes
A spruce log, 23 feet long and 14 feet in diameter, which was the butt-out of a tree that took 11 flat cars to carry, finally went down to the bay with a tide after being in the Columbia Box and Lumber company's mill pond at South Bend, Wash., for 20 years. The log could not be hauled into the head rig without tearing out part of the mill building. It finally was pushed into the current—a much scoured derelict.

Excessive Taxation Retarding Improvements

The taxing frenzy has certainly reached the limit when the owners of a large hotel in Chicago, wrecked the building to avoid the heavy taxes they had been compelled to pay for the existence of the structure, but this happened recently. The owners of the hotel concluded that in view of the excessive taxation, they would be saving money by doing away with the building, leaving nothing to the vacant lot on which to pay taxes.

This alarming piece of news is an evidence as to what extent the over increasing taxes on real estate improvements is going. As soon as a man builds or makes an improvement, giving labor its share of the benefit and the remainder to the community in which he lives, the assessment machine lines him heavily for his pains and makes him like it.

Col. Robert McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, in an address before the Chicago Better Business Bureau a few days ago, declared that since the war taxes had been taking not only a big slice of the national income, but a good share of the principal from which the income was derived.

"We thought taxes were being paid out of our earnings, when, as a matter of fact, tax collectors were dipping into our savings and capital," he said.

At a time when this discovery is being made, a tremendous new tax burden is levied on the country. When Congress gets through with the pending revenue measure, the people will be saddled with a bill of another $1,000,000,000 or more.

When profits, wages, salaries, rents and incomes of every description are falling, when values of all property are sliding downward, when 8,000,000 or more Americans are without employment, one of the heaviest tax increases in the history of the nation is being levied.

And the end is not in sight— from every nook and corner of the country comes the cry of excessive taxation. President Hoover, in one of his latest speeches, said that we must decrease taxation or go to the poorhouse.

What is true of the nation is true of the individual, state, county, city or town. Conditions in excessive taxation bear a close resemblance to that condition which went before the fall of Rome.

Paritans Are Still With Us

Recently in the city of Berne, Ind., a farmer was arrested for sowing wheat on Sunday. One of his neighbors found his religious sensibilities outraged and ordered his arrest. He was fined $12.50 for working quietly on his own farm. What a great world this would be if everyone would attend to his own business.

Tree Rings

If nature has kept a calendar of the centuries in tree rings, few humans know how to read the story accurately. Instead of a narrow growth-ring in a tree trunk indicating a dry summer, it may mean merely the aftermath of a cold winter or late spring frosts, which killed the buds and shortened the growing season.

Poison Ivy Misnamed

The poison ivy, like several other plants with similar names, is not an ivy, but is merely called by that name because of its resemblance to the real ivy. Poison ivy belongs to the same family and genus as the sumacs and is a totally different plant from the English ivy.

Famous Tower

Eiffel tower is a notable structure in Paris. It was built by Gustave Eiffel for the exposition of 1889. The designer, Gustave Eiffel, constructed it of iron lattice work, with three elevators giving access to the summit. It is 1,000 feet high. Eiffel tower has been used as a meteorological observation station and also for aerodynamic research. Since the World War it has also supported a wireless station.

Are We Created Unequal?

"The biological discoveries of a half-century or more," Prof. Harrison H. Hunt told the Eugenics Research Association, "have revealed that people, instead of being potentially equal at birth, vary enormously, and that such differences are often inherited; so one might say it is self-evident that men are created unequal."

The Scallop

The scallop shell, always one of the children's favorites at the beach, has appealed to man's artistic sense for centuries, for the scallop design appears in the coat of arms of many proud and ancient families. Unlike their relatives, the clams and oysters, scallops swim around freely by spasmodically opening and closing their two shells.

No other country in the world can offer such a continuous series of birth records, says a report of the study of Canada's vital statistics.

Uncle Sam's Westward March

Population Centers from 1790 to 1930

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

RECENTLY the name of the town of Linton, Ind., appeared in the headlines of newspapers in every part of the country and the reason was not because it had been the scene of some sensational crime, some event of political significance, some scientific discovery or other happening which for a brief moment throws the limelight on some little municipality. The reason was that the United States bureau of the census, having completed the compilation of certain statistics obtained by the 1930 census, announced that the center of population of the United States is near Linton, Ind.

As a matter of fact, this center is located at a point in Stockton township, Greene county, Ind., which is 2.9 miles northeast of Linton, 31 miles southeast by south of Terre Haute and 23.6 miles northeast by north of Vincennes. But since it is nearest Linton, that town received whatever distinction there accrues to being known as "the center of population" and it became the successor to another Indiana town, Whitehall, in holding that honor. For after the census of 1920 the center of population was designated as a point 1.9 miles west of Whitehall in Owen county and in the ten years from 1920 to 1930 it moved westward 23.5 miles to the point near Linton.

Now what is this center of population and how is it computed? Probably most of us have rather vague ideas about that and the chances are that such ideas are erroneous as well. For the thing we have in mind when we say center of population is probably what the census experts call the median point.

If you draw a line dividing the population of the United States into equal parts north and south, and another line dividing it equally east and west, then the point of intersection is the median point. In every one of the four quarters there will be the same number of people.

But the center of population, as used by the census bureau, is that point that may be considered the center of human gravity of the United States. The census bureau pictures the United States as a rigid level plane, and on it set 123,000,000-odd people each one weighing the same, irrespective of age, sex and other distinctions.

Then the center of population would be the point at which the plane most pivot in order to balance perfectly. Literally then the center might be described as the decennial pivot of the American population playing seesaw.

Obviously this point has no definite relationship with the geographical center or the numerical center of the population—because the lever-arm given western sections of the country offsets the weights of larger populations of the eastern sections, on this hypothetical teeter-totter.

The westward advance of the center of population by 23.5 miles since 1920 is the smallest registered in any census except two. In 1900 the advance was only 14.4 miles, and in 1920 it was down to 0.3 miles.

On the other hand, the southward advance of 7.6 miles, recorded in 1930, is far above the average. Indeed, it is a trifle more than the net southward movement since 1790; that is to say, the excess of southward mileage over northward.

The westward advance is a reflection of the development of the nation—the tremendous strides made by agriculture in the states west of the Mississippi; the development of the great oil industries in Texas and Oklahoma and other parts of the West; and the steady growth of industry in general in those areas. All these are in the picture. Oil, cattle, wheat, manufacturing, moving pictures, have all had, and still exert an important influence on the steady movement into the West.

A remarkable fact in the shifting of the center of population is the closeness with which throughout its westward path it has clung to the thirty-ninth parallel of latitude. Since 1790 it has progressed almost in a straight line, reaching its furthest point north 23 miles east of Baltimore in 1790 and its furthest south point in 1890 in Greene county, Indiana. Yet the span was only 21.4 miles. The greatest movement west was during the decade immediately preceding the Civil war, when the advance was 50.6 miles, while the least movement was in the decade from 1910 to 1920 when it was less than 10 miles. In the 140 years covered by the census records the advance has totaled 550 miles, an average of a little more than three miles annually, or about 1 1/2 miles a decade. That does not sound very big, but it means a lot in the development of the United States.

Reference was made previously to the high southward advance and the reason for the southward pull of the last 10 years is chiefly California—south as well as west—and Florida—south as well as east. The increases in the populations of Texas and Oklahoma may appear also to have had some influence, but the increases in Pennsylvania and New York probably offset that growth in the southwest.

If it be asked whether the California-Florida increase in population was greater than the growth in Michigan and the North Atlantic states; the answer is the technical definition of center of population given above.

An increase of 100,000 persons in Los Angeles, more than 2,500 miles from the old center of population in Indiana, would counterbalance an increase of 500,000 in Detroit, only a couple of hundred miles away.

One of the most interesting results of each decennial census is the graphic picture which the points of Uncle Sam's westward march across the continent. Here, in brief, is that picture over the period of 140 years from 1790, the date of the first census, to 1930, the date of the last one: From the 1790 position in Maryland the center moved, in ten years almost directly west to a point about 18 miles west of Baltimore, and from 1800 it continued its westward swing, dipping slightly to the south to a point in Virginia 40 miles northwest by west of Washington. In this decade it shifted 40 miles, the movement being due principally to the annexation of the territory of Louisiana.

In the next ten years, 1810 to 1820, it reached a point about 16 miles east of Moorfield in what is now the state of West Virginia. Here again there was a slight southward movement, which was due mainly to the increasing population of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. From 1820 to 1830 the movement continued west and south to a point about 10 miles west-southwest of Moorfield, this being the most decided movement to the south in any decade. The reason was the annexation of Florida and increasing settlements in the southwest, notably Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

From 1830 to 1840 the center continued west, but slightly changed its course to the north, reaching a point 18 miles south of Clarkburg, W. Va. During this decade population had increased rapidly in the prairie states and in the southern parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

From 1840 to 1850 it moved west and slightly north again, reaching a point about 23 miles southeast of Parkersburg, W. Va., the change of direction to the south being largely due to the annexation of Texas.

From 1850 to 1860 it moved west and slightly north, reaching a point 20 miles south by east of Chillicothe, Ohio, while from 1860 to 1870 it moved west and sharply north, reaching a point about 43 miles east by north of Cincinnati. This northward movement was due in part to the waste and destruction in the south consequent upon the Civil war, and in part to the fact that the census of 1870 was defective in its enumeration of the Southern people, especially of the newly enfranchised negro population.

In 1880 the center of population had returned south to nearly the latitude occupied in 1860, being in Kentucky, just south of the Ohio river, eight miles west by south of Cincinnati; but in 1890, owing to the great increase of population in the cities of the northwest, in the state of Washington, and also in New England, the center moved north to a point 20 miles east of Columbus, Ind.

During the decade from 1890 to 1900 it moved west to a point six miles southeast of Columbus, Ind., the great increase in the population of Indian Territory, Oklahoma, and Texas being largely offset by an increase in the population of the North Atlantic states.

In 1910 it was at the point where the parallel of latitude of 39 degrees 10 minutes 12 seconds N. intersects the meridian of longitude 50 degrees 32 minutes 20 seconds W., and for the first time in its history was located in a city—Bloomington, Ind. From 1900 to 1910 it moved 7 of a mile north and 39.9 miles west, the westward movement being nearly three times as great as from 1890 to 1900, but less than the westward movement for all previous decades, except between 1800 and 1810.

In the decade 1910 to 1920 it moved only 9.8 miles—the smallest movement it has ever shown, being only about one-fourth of the movement from 1900 to 1910. The center has been in Indiana for 40 years now and it is probable that it will still be in the possession of the Hoosiers in 1940, for the historic "banks of the Wabash," the eastern boundary of Indiana, are still 25 miles away and the center is not likely to go more than 25 miles westward in the next 10 years.

But if Indiana has a hold on "one center" which it eventually will have to relinquish, there is one state which has another "center" that it will never lose. That state is Kansas and it has permanent possession of the "geographical center of continental United States." For the United States Coast and Geodetic survey has determined that this center is located at Ogden on the Fort Riley reservation in Smith county, Kan. It is at a point which is 1,100 feet above sea level and is located in latitude 39 degrees, 50 minutes; longitude 98 degrees, 25 minutes, and a monument has been erected there to mark the spot.

How this geographical center was determined is described by officials of the survey as follows: "For a land area bounded by a true circle the center of the circle is the geographic center also; for an area bounded by a square or a rectangle the intersection of the diagonals is the true center; but for an irregular area the center is not so easily found. One method of finding it, a method sufficiently exact for all practical purposes, is to mount a map on the area on a piece of stiff paper or cardboard and then cut this paper or cardboard to the exact outline. The point at which this figure will exactly balance on a pencil or pin point, if left free to move, indicates the location of the geographic center." It was by this method that the survey not only found the geographical center of the United States as a whole but also that of each state.

Kansas also has permanent possession of another center which is of even more importance than its geographic center for it has aptly been called the "hub of the United States." Out in a cow pasture on the Meade ranch in Osborne county, Kansas, is a three-foot cube of concrete in which is set a metal plate on which a point is engraved. And this is the "dominant point," the "primary station," the "geodetic capital of America" the "king pin" of all United States map-making and surveying and from it is calculated the latitude and longitude of a fifth of the world's land surface, since both Canada and Mexico have adopted this point and its supporting systems as the "North American Datum."

It was established by the United States Coast and Geodetic survey in 1901 as the initial station for the vast network of surveys that was to be spread not only over the United States but over the entire continent. It was designated as the "primary station" after the coast and geodetic survey had employed intricate mathematical calculations in extending its "triangulation network" across the country and had shifted the rigid network of its measurements about very slight distances until the errors in longitude and latitude of all the various stations were brought to the least possible quantity. When the network was "pegged down," the "mother station" was established on the Meade ranch in north central Kansas.

"It would seem from a historic and scientific standpoint," says R. S. Patton, acting director of the coast and geodetic survey, "that the Meade ranch triangulation station is worthy of a monument at least as conspicuous and artistic as the one milestone in Washington which marks the beginning of the Lincoln highway."

POULTRY

KEEP RECORDS OF THE LAYING HENS

Only Way to Select Next Season's Breeders.

Each fall the large number of pullet eggs that grade out as peewees, with a resulting cut in price, are a source of much annoyance to many flock owners. About the only immediate action a poultryman can take to try to improve this condition is to feed well of a ration that is designed to maintain flesh as well as produce eggs.

In other words, under-sized birds are usually, though not always, the chief offenders. The feeding of a wet fleshing mash in addition to the regular laying ration may therefore be of considerable benefit. Such a mash may be one composed of equal parts of yellow cornmeal and ground rolled oats moistened with milk until it is crumbly. It should be fed once a day at the rate of two pounds per 100 birds.

However, steps can be taken that will result in more permanent improvement in the future. The pullets that lay the largest eggs right from the start should be banded and their number noted so that a little over a year from now they can be selected for the breeding pen. This means trapezing, as this is the only way in which this information can be obtained.

If trapez records as to egg weight are available on birds from which the coming season's breeders are to be selected, the use of such birds that lay large eggs—say, eggs that weigh from 24 to 28 ounces to the dozen—will go a long way towards eliminating the difficulty in the future with small eggs in a flock with consequent low prices for them.—Successful Farming.

Good Flock Management Brings Poultry Profits

The use of drugs in poultry flocks is limited. The drugs that are used are confined to the control of round worms. Most diseases have to be controlled by other means, advises Dr. E. L. Brunett of the New York state college of veterinary medicine.

When there are more deaths in the poultry flock than there should be, poultrymen are advised to consult the local veterinarian or the state poultry-disease laboratory. After the cause has been determined, drugs can be used with more confidence; until then, they are too much of a gamble. Until the chicken raiser finds that drugs are valuable agents it is best to concentrate upon preventive measures and good flock management, with approved feeding practices.

Early Birds Best

From a net profit standpoint it would seem best to hatch chicks this year early rather than late in the season, states Paul G. Riley, commercial poultryman. In most years the price for broilers is better from the early-hatched birds than from the later-hatched chicks. A difference of two or three cents in the original cost of the chick may be made up many times in the better price to be had from the finished chicks. The pullets from early-hatched chicks are the ones that produce eggs when eggs are high in price. Poultry profits for the good poultryman are always good in the last four months of the year because they have layers at work helping cash in on the good egg prices.—Prairie Farmer.

Increased Production

Increasing the number of high-producing hens as well as increasing the egg production per bird has been accomplished in an eight-year breeding for production trial at the poultry plant at North Dakota agricultural college.

For the year 1923-1924, seven pullets completed the season with an average production of 114 eggs. For the year 1930-1931, 55 pullets completed the period with an average production of 226 eggs. This is an increase of 98.2 per cent over the record of 1923-1924, and with nearly eight times as many birds. The trial was conducted with Rhode Island Reds.—Dakota Farmer.

Poultry Hints

- It is just as important that hens be given sufficient water as it is to feed them properly. An egg is two-thirds water and it must come from some place.
- The farmer who maintained his flock last year found his poultry a good source of ready cash income and a profitable crop when other prices and costs of raising poultry were considered.
- It is difficult to keep a brooder house dry when it is crowded. Moist litter helps spread disease.
- It takes approximately one-third as much feed to raise a pullet to laying age as that bird will consume during her first year.
- A flock of 175 White Leghorns owned by Mrs. Gillner Snowden of Oldham county, Kentucky, averaged 201 eggs each during 1931. These birds earned $302 above feed costs.

Mindy Hazelwood Fambrough

Mindy Hazelwood was born July 17, 1875, near San Antonio, Texas, and came to New Mexico in her early childhood, and died May 5, 1932, at the age of 56 years, 9 months and 18 days.

She was married to Sam Fambrough in 1896, and to this union there were born nine children, six of whom, Annie, William, Roy, Alex, Harvey and Harry, survive her. Besides her children, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Lou Hazelwood; three sisters, Mrs. John Dale of Ancho; Mrs. Fannie Ferguson and Mrs. Susie Johnson of Arizona; and two brothers, Bill and John Hazelwood.

Mindy Hazelwood had lived in the Ancho community for the past 25 years, and was held in very high esteem by all who knew her. One of her neighbors made the statement at the funeral that in all the years of his acquaintance with her, he had never heard an unkind word fall from her lips, neither had he ever heard an unkind word said about her. She was a loving, tender-hearted mother, a faithful friend, and a good neighbor. The high esteem in which she was held was attested by the large concourse of people who attended her funeral, as well as by the many and beautiful floral offerings.

Funeral services were conducted at Ancho Sunday morning, by the Rev. L. D. Jordan of Carrizozo, and interment was made in the Ancho cemetery.

A Sunrise Breakfast

The Grade Teachers of the Carrizozo School entertained the High School Teachers Tuesday morning at a "Sunrise Breakfast" near the Malpais, east of the Neighbauer ranch. The affair was somewhat dampened, as it rained that morning, but they had a nice time and a fine breakfast.

Boys Lost Close Game at Tularosa

The Carrizozo Ball Team went to Tularosa last Sunday and lost a heart-rendering game by a score of 7 to 6. A few miscues cost the boys the game. But aside from those, all the team played a fine brand of ball. Pat Dolan was in his usual good form and held the hard-bitting Tularosa crew well in check.

The team hopes to shake off the jinx next Sunday when they battle Corona on the local park. The boys have undergone some stiff workouts this week with the east side team and will be "fit as a fiddle" for their encounter with Corona. Come out, ball fans, and root for Carrizozo.

Spanish-American Team Beats Capitan

The Carrizozo Spanish-American Baseball Team went to Capitan last Sunday and trounced the "Capitanes" by a score of 11 to 8. The boys were in the lead all the time and would have held their opponents to a much lower score had it not been that they found it very difficult to judge fly balls due to the surrounding mountains and the roughness of the diamond. They fought hard and came home with the bacon. Joe Chavez, in rounding second on a hit, turned three somersaults and made third base via the crawling route, just beating the relay throw by a second. Lgeras and Lopez did some good moused duty and with their respective backstops, Montoya and St. John, deserve much credit for the win.

Capitan plays a return game here next Sunday, May 15, at 2:30. Come out and see a good game, as Capitan comes here intent on revenge. —By Attending Fan.

E. B. Bostian is ill this week.

Camp Malpais

Your attention is called to the ad now running in this paper of the Camp Malpais, B. Prior, prop. Mr. and Mrs. Prior have a wonderful place and that everyone should see in order to admire it. There are ten pebble-dashed adobe cabins in connection with the filling station and lunch room. These cabins have hot and cold water service and are modern in every respect. There are five cabins that have shower baths.

The Camp Malpais is situated directly on the Carrizozo-Socorro Highway and only four blocks from the business center. In the main building there is a neat and tidy dining room, where one may have meals and lunches served. The station is open day and night. This is one place among others of which Carrizozo should be justly proud. The proprietor invites the public to call and inspect Camp Malpais.

No matter what foot trouble you may have, it will be relieved for you at this Special Demonstration.

An expert will make Podo-graphic prints of your stockinged feet, which reveal their exact condition. He will show you what causes your pain; advise you in the proper selection of shoes to fit your feet stylishly and comfortably, and demonstrate on your own feet how the application of the proper Dr. Scholl's Appliance or Remedy will make you truly foot happy. All this without cost or obligation to you!

REMEMBER THE DATE!

Each visitor will receive a Free Sample of Dr. Scholl's Shoe-pads for Corns, and a valuable booklet on Care of the Feet.
