Miss Tunstall, one of our beautiful nurses, is the proud owner of a 1932 Plymouth sedan, purchased at Roswell.

Miss Daisey Cotey left Tuesday for Monterey, Mexico, in response to a message that her sister was seriously ill there.

Again the "Stanton Braves" triumphed in victory; this time over Hagerman by a 10 to 5 score. The game was much enjoyed, especially by grandstand spectators, judging from the alternating applause and Bronx cheers, the latter being executed by expert cheer leaders.

Last Monday noon, while the Craft Shop was closed, some daring second story man forced the rear door and ransacked the place and looted the safe, getting away with a small amount of cash. Evidently, the yegg is of the very shrewd and experienced criminal type, according to statements from Inspector John Gow of Scotland Yard, who fortunately happens to be at this station and willingly yielded to the numerous requests to lend his ability and experience as a sleuth hound in criminology. Although the clues left at the scene of the crime are very meager to the eyes of layman, Inspector Gow feels confident that he will get his man before long.

Roy's Grocery Robbed

Last Saturday night when so many of our people were attending the dance at Lutz Hall, robbers broke a window in Skinner's Grocery and entered, and according to Roy's statement, carried away between $75 and $100 worth of groceries. Police, so far have failed to find a clue to the robbery.

Estanislaw Bello, the smiling wool-grower and father-in-law, Lorenzo Casaus, were here Monday from the Claunch country, attending to some business matters. Mr. Casaus is an old printer and has worked on different Spanish-American papers over the state, but of late years, he has been in the stock business.

Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Luckey returned Tuesday from Iola, Kansas, where they journeyed about two weeks ago on account of the death of Mr. Luckey's father. On their return trip, they were accompanied by their nephew, Lawrence Oxender, who will visit with his aunt and uncle for a short while.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gallacher, the new owner of the Wetmore Apartments has had the entire building re-painted and it presents a striking appearance. In painting the east side, the painters completely covered the Carrizozo Bakery sign which caused some to think that our bakery would have to move, but such is not the case. They will occupy the lower floor, where you may still buy the home products without patronizing out-of-town bread houses.

The East-Siders postponed their game of ball with Alamogordo last Sunday, but will go to Alamo next Sunday and will try to do to them what Lincoln couldn't — beat 'em. Lell St. John has bolstered up the team with Tony (Skeeter) Perea and Manuel Chavez of the Carrizozo Ball Team.

"The Revelers"

Those who attended the Jericho Club Dance at Lutz Hall last Saturday night, and danced to the music of the above-named dance band, have another opportunity tomorrow night when "The Revelers" will give their dance at White Oaks. They will give their dance on one of the best, s-m-o-o-t-h, hard maple floors in the state. They invite you to follow them to the birthplace of "Heart's Desire."

The kids over town have no reason to complain of the heat. They come to the courthouse cement tank, as thick as bees, for their daily dip. One dad reprimanded his kid and told him that if he did not stay away from that tank, Sheriff Brady would lock him up in jail. The boy gave the old gentleman the horse laugh with an Oh, Yeah! and said: "Johnny tosses nickels into the tank and then tells us to go after 'em."

Fred and Vidal Silva were here Tuesday from the Tucson mountains. The boys returned recently from Las Vegas where they went to take their sister Susie to enroll in the Normal for the summer term.

The fire whistle at the local station startled the populace Wednesday morning, but after all, there was nothing to be startled about, for it was only for practice stunts by the combined forces of the town and the railroad forces. The equipment was brought out and fire tests made over town. We were glad of one thing—we heard the old whistle again and thought it was quitting time.

Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., held a special communication at Masonic Temple Wednesday night for the purpose of conferring the Entered Apprentice degree on one candidate and other matters of a special nature were disposed of.

The Carrizozo Business Men's Club met at the regular six o'clock dinner in the dining room of the Carrizozo Eating House Wednesday evening. After dinner, various matters of interest were discussed. There were twenty-one present.

Harry Gallacher, the genial Chairman of the Jericho Club, was in Carrizozo from his ranch on the Chupadero Mesa last Saturday night, seein' that things were all bueno for the "Hello, Jerry!" dance given that night.

The Gage brothers, Jim and Dave with three more boys from Midland, Texas, came in last night in a gilded car which bore a resemblance to one of Solomon's chariots, and was coupled to a truck bearing food and bedding. They went on to the Jicarilla mountains on a prospecting tour, after paying their respects to Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Stokes at the ranch of the Stokes Cattle Company. Jim Gage assisted Dewey and T. J. on their last round-up.

A Faithful Follower

Jericho Club Dance

The dance given by the Jericho Club at Lutz Hall last Saturday night was one of the best given in Carrizozo for a long time, according to the undivided opinion of the many patrons who engaged in the merriment. Dancing began at 9 o'clock and lasted until the midnight hour. Lemonade was served to the dancers throughout the evening. "The Revelers" won new laurels on their dance music; the Jericho Club was complimented on the good manner in which the dance was conducted, and the merry salutation, "Hello, Jerry!" When are you going to give another one?" was heard on every hand.

Tear Gas or Somethin' Like It Scatters Revivalists

A revival of some sort has been under progress for the past few days at Nogal and on Tuesday night, while the meeting was going on, some person hurled a burning bunch of something closely resembling tear gas through the window and into the assemblage of worshippers. One man grabbed the burning mass and threw it out the door, but the damage had been done and it is said, that several were overcome by the gassy fumes, much like tear gas, although tear gas is a liquid.

Sheriff Brady was notified and with deputy Pete Johnson hurried to the scene, but by that time, the guilty parties had escaped and no clue could be found as to their whereabouts; neither could the officers find anyone who had seen the party or parties who committed the offense. An unburnt piece of the stuff which caused the trouble was found, brought here and given to Dr. Johnson, who has sent the same to Albuquerque to be analyzed.

Weather Man High-Hats Us

Aside from a very light shower now and then through the week, we have had no relief from the excessive heat which has prevailed over the Tularosa basin. Big clouds have been coming up from the east in the form of thunder-puffs, but these have only made faces at us and passed on. At this writing, Thursday afternoon, it is somewhat cloudy, but not dangerous. No rain birds are soaring over us. But let's not be discouraged; the rain will soon come.

Later—we take it all back; we had a nice rain last night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rockwell and son Warren of Capitan were Carrizozo visitors last Saturday.

Who'll be "Miss Lincoln County?"

David Dallas, above, managing director of the "Queen of the West" revue at Roswell, is in Carrizozo directing the Pageant of Fashions and Beauty revue, which will be presented at the Lyric Theatre tonight and tomorrow night. The revue is being sponsored by twenty-one business firms which appear in the ad on page 8 of this paper.

The winner of the revue will be selected by out-of-town judges, on poise, figure, personality and beauty, and will represent Lincoln County in the Inter-state contest at Roswell, August 4-5. The winner there will be given a free trip to Hollywood and the Olympic Games. A rehearsal will be staged at the theatre Friday morning and all models are requested to attend. Each model will receive a free week's pass to the show, according to Mr. Dallas.

'Can't Drink Ourselves Into Prosperity'

At the meeting of the Bernalillo County Republican Women's Club held July 19, former Governor R. C. Dillon hit the nail on the head, we think, when he stated to the lady and gentlemen guests at a luncheon: "I do not believe that we can either tax ourselves or drink ourselves into prosperity. I have never known a man to drink himself into prosperity, but I have known many to drink themselves into poverty."—Think it over before you vote.

Mrs. J. S. Cook, sons Tommy and Everett of White Oaks attended the dance given by the Jericho Club last Saturday night.

Mrs. John Townsend and daughters, Mrs. Percy Welch and Dean Curbello attended the "Hello, Jerry!" dance last Saturday night.

House Passes Relief Bill in Face of Veto Threat by the President—Bingham's Beer Rider Seems Blocked—Plans for Campaign.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WITH the aid of 35 Republican members the Democrats put through the house the compromise emergency relief bill carrying $2,122,000,000 as revised by the conferees and containing provisions that President Hoover had plainly indicated would lead him to veto the measure. Chief of these is a clause empowering the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans to individuals and municipalities unable to obtain funds from normal banking facilities. Speaker Garner had insisted on the retention of this provision for the "benefit of the masses," and Mr. Hoover had been equally insistent on its exclusion, asserting it made the government a pawn broker and would jeopardize the credit of the nation.

Speaker Garner

The bitter controversy between President and speaker followed two futile conferences at the White House. Mr. Garner violently attacked Mr. Hoover on the floor of the house and Mr. Hoover retorted with a scorching statement placing all the blame for the disagreement on the shoulders of the speaker.

As the bill went to the senate following a flurry of debate shot through with politics and peppered with attacks on Speaker Garner as "obstinate willed" and "demagogic," it provided for increasing the capitalization and borrowing power of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from $2,000,000,000 to $3,750,000,000. It also carried in addition $322,000,000 for public works construction to be financed by the treasury.

Of the $1,750,000,000 turned over to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation all but $300,000,000 is set aside for loans. Part is to be loaned directly to individuals and cities on such security as they can command. The balance is to be loaned to states, cities, public and private agencies, corporations and various sorts of organizations to build toll bridges, waterworks, tennents and other projects of what is termed a self-liquidating nature.

TWO American aviators, James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, undertaking to set a new record for flight around the world, flew from Harbor Grace across the Atlantic ocean in record time, making their first stop at Berlin. Thence they hurried on toward Moscow, but were forced down 50 miles from Minsk. Their plane was wrecked.

SENATOR BINGHAM'S effort to force a vote in the senate on the legalization of beer was not getting along very well. He sought to attach the proposition to the home loan bank bill as a rider, but the dyes came to the front strongly, and at least delayed matters by precipitating a long debate on the bank bill itself. This measure was amended in a way that left it no longer a pet-bill of the administration, but at the same time fixed it so wets who had disliked it could vote for it. Bingham admitted the chances for his rider were slim.

In the house the wet Republicans tried without success to force the hand of Speaker Garner, insisting that he have brought out for action one of the bills for legalization of beer that have been introduced.

The attitude of the Democrats in congress seemed to be that they should not be called on to carry out the Volstead act modification clause of their national program until after the country has had a chance to vote on the proposition in November. Anyhow, they do not intend that the Republicans shall get credit, if any, for restoring beer to the people.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S campaign for re-election is to be conducted from Chicago, according to the statement of Everett Sanders of Indiana, the new chairman of the Republican national committee. He went to Chicago and engaged headquarters rooms on the sixth floor of the Palmer house, and said he expected to spend most of his time there. He added that of course there would be considerable activity directed from Washington and he would often be in New York. He continued:

"Henry Allen, the former governor of Kansas, will be in charge of the publicity. Mrs. Ella Yost of West Virginia is to continue in charge of the women's activities. And I hope that Robert Lucas, who has been in charge of the executive work, and Ray Benjamin of California, who has been of material assistance, will continue their services with the committee."

There was no such certainty of location in connection with the Democratic organization. James A. Farley, New York state chairman and Roosevelt pre-convention manager, who has been elected chairman of the Democratic national committee, has indicated a tendency to favor New York as the center of operations.

ALFRED E. SMITH settled all doubts as to his intentions when he issued a statement that he would support the Democratic candidates, platform and party. He said he had received many letters urging him to run independently for President on the Democratic platform but regarded such a course as impracticable and impossible.

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES CURTIS and Speaker Garner, who hopes to succeed "Charley," both expect to do a lot of speaking throughout the West for their respective tickets. Indeed, the heavy work of the campaign will fall to them, for President Hoover will make only a few speeches in large cities and Gov. Franklin Roosevelt probably will not often depart from Albany.

Mr. Curtis said in Washington: "I expect to do a lot of campaigning this fall and would be glad to meet Mr. Garner on the stump." Mr. Garner said little of his plans except that as soon as congress adjourned he would go to his ranch home near Uvalde, Texas, for a rest. Both these gentlemen are seasoned campaigners, familiar especially with the West and the South. And both of them like the old style of oratory, with plenty of gestures and language that appeals to the "common people."

DOWN in North Carolina the wets scored a decided victory in the defeat of Senator Cameron Morrison, veteran leader of the dyes, in the Democratic run-off primary, which is equivalent to an election. The senator was swamped, losing by more than 100,000 votes to Robert R. Reynolds. The winner, who campaigned as an advocate of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, received the largest majority ever given a candidate in that state. He is forty-seven years old and practices law in Asheville.

J. C. B. Ehringhaus of Elizabeth City won the nomination for governor.

ONE after another the insurgent Republicans of the senate are turning toward Roosevelt and the Democratic ticket. Norris of Nebraska was the first to announce himself and Francis of North Dakota came next. Both declared they would support the New York governor in his campaign against President Hoover. Then came Hiram Johnson of California with a statement in which he gave high praise to Roosevelt's acceptance speech as "the most important speech of the day." He also lauded the Democratic nominee's airplane journey to Chicago as a commendable change in national political custom.

Although Senator Johnson declined to say whether he will openly support Governor Roosevelt in the campaign, his statement left little doubt that he prefers the Democratic nominee to President Hoover.

MEETING in convention in Indianapolis, the Prohibition party decided it wanted Senator Borah as its Presidential candidate and so informed him. His reply was non-committal as to his acceptance but advised the party to nominate someone else and then leave the door open for withdrawal of its candidates if an amalgamation of all dry groups is arranged at the coming conference in Washington.

Therefore the convention nominated William D. Uphaw, former congressman from Georgia, for President and Frank S. Regan of Rockford, Ill., for Vice President.

BY COMBINING the Liberty, Farmer-Labor, Progressive and Socialist parties, the Monetary league and the Farmers' union, the New Liberty party was formed at a convention held in Kansas City, Mo. Frank Webb of San Francisco was nominated for President, and Andrew Nordskog of Los Angeles, for Vice President, both being named by acclamation, though "General" Jacob S. Coxey of Ohio, also was offered as a candidate. Roland Bruner of Kansas City, the chairman, called a meeting of the national committee in Kansas City August 30.

WITHOUT having accomplished anything of importance, the disarmament conference at Geneva prepared to adjourn until next autumn. Its final act was to be the issuance of a statement prepared by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, lauding President Hoover's proposals for reduction of armaments by one-third and setting forth certain points in them on which the various delegations were approximately agreed. It also said some phases of the plan would require considerable time for study by the powers concerned.

Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, and Ambassador Naldony of Germany expressed dissatisfaction with the procedure, declaring they could find no points on which the conference really was agreed.

COL. FREDERICK POPE, a New Yorker, acting alone and in a private capacity, is trying to bring about formal recognition of the Soviet Russian government by the United States. Dispatches from Moscow say he presented to Soviet officials a suggestion that the United States send an unofficial commissioner to Russia as a preliminary to negotiations for establishment of normal relations. He gave, it was learned, an account of "satisfactory" conversations he had held on the subject in certain quarters in Washington just before he sailed for Russia late last May.

Pope is expected to return to the United States this month, and the prospect was that he would renew his conversations here.

GREAT BRITAIN and the Irish Free State are at each other's throats over the matter of the defaulted Irish land annuities. On motion of J. H. Thomas, secretary of state for dominions, the house of commons passed a resolution empowering the government to impose a retaliatory tariff on Irish imports up to 100 per cent as a means of collecting the annuities. The special duties act was then put on its way through J. H. Thomas's parliament, though it was opposed by George Lansbury, Labor leader.

President De Valera of the Free State has demanded that the dispute be referred to an international tribunal for arbitration, but the British government insists it must be handled by an empire tribunal. As Sir Thomas says, Great Britain could never permit foreigners to arbitrate a domestic dispute.

The land annuities, amounting to approximately $11,000,000 a year, were set up by the Anglo-Irish treaty of 1921 and were intended to reimburse landholders, mostly British, for land purchased for parceling to tenant farmers.

DINO GRANDI, Italian foreign minister, and Premier Herriot of France both gave utterance to declarations that greatly disturbed the conference on reparations and war debts in Lausanne. First Grandi made a demand for complete cancellation of all European post-war financial obligations. Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Britain flatly refused Grandi's demand that the slate be wiped clean. Great Britain, he said, cannot cancel debts due to her unless the United States does likewise.

Grandi precipitated the discussion by asking Premier MacDonald to agree never to demand renewal of war debt payments by Italy, in line with the policy he had outlined as the ideal of Premier Benito Mussolini.

MacDonald replied politely but firmly that Great Britain is bound by the Balfour declaration, which sets forth that Britain shall ask her debtors only as much as she needs to pay her own war debts. While she has to continue payment of her own debts, he said, Britain cannot agree to wiping the international slate clean.

Then Premier Herriot came forward with the flat assertion that either the United States must revise the war debt schedules or Germany must continue to pay reparations under the Young plan. At the same time Germany continued to stick tightly to its contention that it can no longer meet the Young plan payments.

Herriot's declaration was made at the end of a day of negotiations which led nowhere. It was given to the press in explanation of why France demands a safeguarding clause, protecting its reparation income in case America remains adamant on the debts, in any agreement negotiated.

Chancellor Von Papen has proposed that Germany pay about $600,000,000 in a flat sum on condition that the war guilt clause be removed from the treaty of Versailles and that Germany be permitted equality of armament. It was the impression in Lausanne that Von Papen attached to the conditions even more importance than to fixing the amount Germany might be called on to pay. Herriot, however, declined to consider them at all.

MacDonald, as the week closed, was trying hard to bring accord between France and Germany.

FIRST-CHOICE or SECOND-choice

Which tire will you buy at the same low price?

Why do you suppose that Goodyear Tires lead all others in public preference by better than two to one? Why do you suppose that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind—and have for 17 years? These tires must be FIRST-CHOICE because they're better. They must outsell all other tires in the world because they outrun them on the road. On a straight quality basis, then, it certainly looks like common sense to buy FIRST-CHOICE tires. Which brings up the question, "how about price?"

Most of the best things on the market naturally cost more than the second-raters. But here's the amazing fact about tires: You can get the safety, the quality, the extra life and trouble-free mileage of the world's greatest tire at no extra cost. Think that over when someone tries to high-pressure you into buying an unknown or doubtful bargain. Just ask him this simple question: "Why should I pay good money for any second-choice tire when FIRST-CHOICE costs no more?"

VILLAGE HAS HAD ITS DAY OF GLORY

Old Tadoussac Now Quiet Summer Resort.

The oldest white settlement in America, and once the center of the American fur trade, the quiet little French Canadian village of Tadoussac, on the lower St. Lawrence river, is today a quiet Canadian summer resort.

Nestling among the foothills of the blue-capped Laurentian mountains at the junction of the St. Lawrence and Saguenay rivers, the village itself is still living in the past, the natural beauty of its surroundings and the quaintness of its people attracting each summer a large number of holiday-makers who are seeking to leave behind the rush and bustle of modern life.

Woven around Tadoussac is a long and romantic history. Here Jacques Cartier, the first explorer of New France, landed in the summer of 1535, and there are numerous tales of visits by those fierce sea rovers, the Vikings, at a much earlier date. Tadoussac, with its natural protected harbor, was long used as a whaling station by the Basques and Bretons, who were the first to form a settlement there, and it was in 1599 that the first house in Canada was built.

At the opening of the century, Tadoussac became the center of the fur trading industry, which extended as far as Labrador and Hudson Bay.

Woman's Chief Charms

Not to Be Purchased

The mouth is a photograph of the disposition. Someone has said that we are not responsible for the disposition we are born with, but we are responsible for the one that we die with. It is the same with the mouth. The sweetness and kissableness and dearness of a baby's mouth are not dependent on the shape or size. Baby's mouth is sweet because his soul is sweet. No brand of lipstick, nor any artist in its use, can camouflage a sour mouth and make even a casual observer believe it is sweet.

Then there is the eye, which the contents of the vanity case cannot change. "The eye is the window of the soul." You can buy something that will lengthen the fringe on the curtains to your soul-windows, you can change the cut of the lambrequins above, but you can't keep people from looking in sometimes, unless you pull the shades down altogether and put yourself in darkness. No vanity case, not even a whole drug store or beauty shop, can make attractive the windows out of which looks a quarrelsome, envious soul. Keep sweet within, if you want to get full value from your vanity case. —Nellie S. Russell in the Farm Journal.

Unbelievers Challenged

It is said that a woman's voice can be heard by a man in a balloon at a height of two miles, while he cannot hear a male voice above one mile. Care to test it?—London Tit-Bits.

Governor Sterling's Joke

Gov. Ross Sterling tells this one with a chuckle: "I had been visiting the Imperial prison farm, near Houston. They furnished me with a car and an efficient driver to return to Houston. "If it will not make you too late, I wish you would drive me on to the Bay." (Sterling's summer home), I said. "Certainly, sir." "You will have enough time?" "Oh, yes, sir, I have seven years."

Species of Hawks That Are Friends of Farmer

The saying, "the only good hawk is a dead hawk," has been proven false by modern biological studies. Some hawks, of course, prey at times on poultry and valuable game birds. Many, however, live mainly on rodents, insects, and other destructive forms of wild life.

It is not easy to distinguish between the harmful and harmless species of hawks, that in itself being good reason for erring, if at all, on the side of protection. In general, say biologists of the United States Department of Agriculture, harmless hawks have broad wings and wide, fan-shaped tails, and the harmful ones have relatively long tails and rounded wings. Study of the appearance and habits of the hawks in any section should enable farmers and sportsmen to tell which are likely to visit the chicken yard and which will confine themselves largely to feeding on injurious animals, and thus be useful.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

Why Need We Fear?

(From the Labor World)
So, why should we swap horses in the middle of the stream, at a time when the tide is turning and prosperity may be just around the corner? What great corporation would change its president when the corporation was in the midst of solving its problems? Much false philosophy and many false nostrums have gone before congress, but who has put his foot on them? Herbert Hoover, of course. He has stopped reckless taxation. He has reduced government expenditures. The truth is, the president is the most constructive statesman in Washington. The worm has turned and the thinking people of the United States are beginning to see that Hoover is a worthwhile leader.

This became more and more apparent during the dying days of the present congress, when he took the bull by the horns. Every American citizen should read carefully the last paragraph of the president's recent address to the United States senate. It is true that the nation needs unity. It needs optimism, and it needs solidarity, and this democracy has the capacity, the courage and the will to save itself in this emergency. We will drive the depression away. All we need is helpfulness and cooperation with the president and the courage with which we fought the war. The president has fought a good fight; he deserves our sympathy and cooperation. He will be reelected president of the United States, just as sure as the sun rises tomorrow morning. Let's make the slogan of this campaign, "A Fair Deal for President Hoover." He will lead the grand old party of accomplishments to certain victory next November.

Washington went through his Valley Forge; Abraham Lincoln went through his Appomattox. So will President Hoover, with a united Republican party and fair deal from the people, whose president he is.

Republic is a Large Producer of Emeralds, Platinum, Gold, Oil and Coffee.

One thousand miles south from the tip of Florida is a treasure land, covering an area about the size of the State of Texas, which is rapidly coming into prominence in the world of commerce.

This "El Dorado" is the Republic of Colombia, South America. Within its boundaries—the Atlantic ocean, on the north; Ecuador, Peru and Brazil, on the south; Venezuela and Brazil, on the east, and the Pacific ocean on the west—there are nearly a half million square miles of fertile land productive of not only a great variety of food products, but of gems and minerals of incalculable quantity and value as well.

Colombia ranks first in world production of emeralds; second of platinum; third of bananas; is the largest South American producer of gold, and is one of the largest prospective oil producers of the world. It also raises large quantities of tobacco, rubber, sugar cane, cotton, wheat, rice, plantain, peaches—in fact, all the crops common to both the temperate and tropic zones. Cattle raising is an important industry of the republic, there now being more than 7,500,000 head on its spacious ranges.

Coffee Leading Product.
The most outstanding product of the country, however, is coffee. Colombia is the second largest coffee-producing nation, and its coffees are recognized as the finest in the world. That these coffees are rapidly gaining popularity in the United States is evidenced by the fact that Colombian exports of its famed grade, known as "mild," is

Lightning Reveals Mirage

As a thunderstorm raged on the edge of the Sahara desert recently, members of an exploring party saw, during a flash of lightning, a range of mountains outlined against the sky. The phenomenon was repeated on another evening under almost identical conditions. As the nearest range in that direction was the Atlas mountains, 600 miles away, the explorers concluded that the lightning had produced a mirage.

Tabby Overlooked

The word "cat" is not mentioned in the Bible, and the name appears only once in the Apocrypha, although we know cats dwelt comfortably in Egypt more than 2,000 years ago.

SYNOPSIS

Ragged and starving, a boy of about sixteen is found in the woods of a camping party, having fled from his brutal father, but Morrison, Ted, and in clean clothes, the boy Shad (Shirley) is sent to Canton, with a letter to Colonel Blake. The colonel, his wife, and their young daughter Ruth, are impressed by the boy's manner. He goes to work in Amity Dam, and becomes friendly with a youth of his age, "Bony," and Bumpy Brown, tinker, village character. But Morrison, determined to take his son back to his own dissolute life, is overruled by Colonel Blake, the district attorney, and his father passes out of Shad's life. A girl young and pretty, comes to Brown's shack, inquiring for him. Shad applies himself diligently to his neglected education. Love for Ruth Blake takes a strong hold on his heart. In an attack made on the Perry family, Oscar Perry, the father, is fatally shot, and his daughter Mrs. Doolittle, wife of Cyrus Doolittle, prominent citizen, seriously wounded. Circumstantial evidence points to Bumpy Brown as the assassin. He is arrested. The friendship between Shad and Ruth Blake kindles into love. Colonel Blake arranges for the youth to take up the study of law under his guidance. New evidence points to Robert Royce as the possible murderer of Oscar Perry. Bumpy Brown is released on bail.

"I do everything just as the woman used to," he said. "I know it pleases her."

Bumpy and Shad sat down in the lamplight by the table. The room was warm and cozy. They began to talk of the great theme of the countryside. Bumpy said: "I ain't goin' to ask no questions, but I can't help wonderin' what now idee the district attorney has got in his mind. He had evidence enough to hang me. Why didn't he go ahead? I've lived about long enough."

"He is an honest man. He could maybe satisfy the people by hanging you, but he has got to satisfy himself."

"I believe it. He is an honest man. I wonder what tree his mind has lit on."

Shad was quick to answer. "I don't know, but I wonder what tree your mind has lit on. I am not here to be a spy. I am your friend."

Bumpy held out his hand. "Put 'er there," he said. "I'm certain no man ever had a better friend."

A silence followed. Shad broke it by saying: "Some one must have put those cartridges in your jacket. Some one threw that revolver into the river here in front of your house."

Bumpy arose from his chair and got a drink of water. Coming back to his chair he said: "It makes me mad. I could raise hell, but I'm in a fix where I got to keep still an' I'm a-goin' to die without a whimper but I won't talk. Don't ask me no questions an' don't tell what I've said. There's a God in Heaven. He'll have to settle this matter."

There was a moment of silence in which they heard only the whistling of the wind and the ticking of the clock. Shad had brought books with him to read and study. Among them was Dickens' delightful story of Great Expectations. He proposed that he read it aloud.

"Go ahead," said Bumpy. "I'll be like old times. The woman used to read to me every night."

The boy began reading and the evening passed in a kind of magic spell. The clock struck eleven. Shad put down the book.

Bumpy let down a platform hinged upon the wall with folding legs on its outer corners. On this he put a small mattress and made a bed for the boy. He made up the lounge for himself, covered the bird's cage with a shawl, laid some hardwood sticks on the fire, bolted the door and put out the lights. Soon they were both asleep.

In the morning they left a warm fire in the stove to keep Dick comfortable and walked to Amity Dam.

"I guess I'd be more comfortable at home but I might as well know, first as last, what the People think of Brown," Bumpy said as they started.

They found in the little village a chilly atmosphere in no way related to the weather. The children on their way to school followed them toward the store, whispering and staring curiously at the old man. A little snow, now melting, had fallen in the night. Two small boys across the street began to jeer and pelt him with snowballs. Shad and Bumpy mounted the steps in front of Smithers' store and entered. Mr. Smithers stood behind the desk at the end of the west counter. He shook hands with the boy, saying:

"Shad, I'm glad to see you, but I'd rather you wouldn't bring this man here."

"Why not?" Shad asked. "He's been released. I think that the district attorney has concluded that he isn't guilty."

"That may be," said the mild Mr. Smithers in a gentle tone. "I don't want to argue with you. We have our own opinions here. We who live near the scene of the murder ought to know something about it."

"We who have been working on the case ought to know something about it," Shad answered. "But I see that this is no place for Mr. Brown to be in. If you'll let him sit down on a little while, till this crowd of boys and girls have gone to school, I'll take him away."

"All right, take Mr. Brown down to the cellar," said Smithers in a lady-like tone as he wrung his hands. "There was a note of irony in the words, 'Mr. Brown.' He added: "When you go please take him out by the backway."

There was a stern look in Bumpy's eyes when Shad led him down the dusty stairs to sit by the kerosene tank in the gloomy cellar.

"It's putty bad, ain't it?" said the old man as he wiped his eyes and blew his nose with his red handkerchief. "Them children are a kind of a weather-vane. G-d I guess there's nobody that loves children as I do."

"It's bad but don't worry. There's a God in Heaven," the boy answered. "I'll come for you soon."

He returned to the store and bought his provisions and hurried up to Miss Spenlow's. They sat down together in the parlor. He told her of Bumpy's release and of what had happened on the street and in Smithers' store.

"It's an outrage," she declared. "You don't think he's guilty, do you?"

"I know he isn't guilty."

"Poor man! Everybody here will have it that he's guilty except Doctor Gorse and me. We have our own ideas. What will Bumpy Brown do? I have always been sorry for him in spite of his being such a drunkard."

"He Was a Good Story Teller. The Boys Liked Him."

"He doesn't drink any more."

"So Bony says, and I'm dreadful glad to hear you say it. He can't earn a living. There's such a feeling around here. There's almost nobody that would have him in the house. Poor creature! Perhaps I could get him into the Home for the Friendless."

"It will not be necessary. He'll be cared for. We shall know the truth before long and these fools will all be ashamed of themselves."

"I wish that I had time to tell you of the wonderful work that the Home for the Friendless is doing. Did you hear that Lydia Benson had asked me to be chairman of the infant committee?"

"Yes, I forgot to congratulate you."

"It's a wicked world," said Miss Spenlow. "I never dreamed how perfectly dreadful it was until I got into this work."

Shad smiled. He began to suspect that the great Miss Lydia Benson had had a somewhat humorous motive in making the appointment.

"I want you to go an' take that poor old man out of that horrid cellar and bring him here," said Miss Spenlow. "I'll go over and tell Doctor Gorse that you'll be here soon. He wants to see you."

The beloved doctor was at the little boarding house when Shad returned with Bumpy. The doctor greeted them with the grave, dignified and gentle courtesy for which he was famous. He turned to Miss Spenlow and said:

"I would like to talk privately with young Mr. Morrison. Perhaps you will take Brown into the dining room and close the door for a few minutes."

When he and Shad were alone the doctor said:

"The district attorney is not yet in the central current of the singular stream of events which has engaged his attention. There is one episode of which he may not have learned."

"On the fifth of November a stranger arrived in Ashfield. He was a brawny man about six feet tall, with a freckled face and large and prominent ears. He registered at the Westminister hotel as Donald Algyre from Winchester Springs, Ontario. When he arrived he wore a broad-brimmed hat. Later he wore a Scotch cap that has a parted crown and ribbons at the base, like those worn much in rural Canada. He seemed to have no business. He had money. He spent it freely in the bar-rooms. He drank with all their cheerful habits—the horsemen, the sports, the roustabouts. He had traveled much. He had been a cowboy in the wild West. He was a good story-teller. The boys liked him.

"Some one discovered that he carried a big revolver in his hip pocket. He went into the woods for a hunt with Royce. There Royce tells of seeing him throw a silver quarter in the air and shoot a hole in it with his revolver before it came down."

"Now in the early evening of the tenth of November he was seen in a canoe on the river. Roger Wingate, a patient of mine, and his young son, passed near him in a boat. The time was a quarter of seven or nearly that. It was rather dark. The boy had his father's dark lantern. He opened it suddenly and flung its light on the stranger. Here was unmistakably the man known as Algyre. Wingate had met him. He spoke but got no answer. Now the point at which they met was nearly opposite Brown's cove. Wingate thought nothing of the incident. It seemed to have no relation to the murder."

Shad was quick to say: "That man couldn't have got to Doolittle's house by seven o'clock."

"It would have been impossible. No suspicion of that ever entered the mind of my patient. He had forgotten the matter until the excitement of yesterday in Ashfield had begun to spread."

"What excitement?" Shad asked.

"Oh, you have not heard of it?"

"No, I left Canton early and was with Bumpy at his shack all yesterday and got here less than an hour ago."

"Well, a while back I had written to a classmate of mine at McGill university, who is in practice at Winchester Springs, Ontario. I had framed a theory and I wanted to learn what he knew about Donald Algyre. He answered promptly. No man of the name and description I had given was known in that village or in the country surrounding it. The genial stranger had vanished from our neighboring village. I was mystified. Detectives from Chicago arrived in Ashfield on the noon train yesterday. They were looking for the man described in this document."

He drew from his pocket a small poster containing a half-tone photograph and the following announcement:

"Reward of $5,000
"For information which will lead to the arrest of the famous bandit and bank robber, Reuben Smith alias John O'Brien alias Percival Roberts alias and lately Donald Algyre of whom this is a photograph. He is about six feet tall. He has large, bony hands and rather broad shoulders. His face is freckled, his hair red, his ears large and prominent. When last seen he was dressed in a dark and rather shabby suit. He wore a Canadian Scotch cap. Address communications to the police of your own town or to
"Allan Pinkerton,
"Chicago, Ill."

It will be remembered that Shad and Bony had seen the man so well described in the poster, sitting with Royce, Anderson and others at the Westminister hotel in the evening of the day of their successful hunt for the hats and the handkerchief. The boy read the words of Mr. Pinkerton with deep interest. A thought flashed in upon him.

He asked: "Do you know when this man was last seen in Ashfield?"

The doctor answered: "It is well known that his last appearance there was about seven o'clock in the evening of December 1. A telegram had been delivered to him that evening. He paid his bill. Royce ate supper with him. In a long ulster and yarn mittens he went out of the front door of the hotel with his two bags. The bellboy offered to help him but he said, 'No, thank you.' The door closed and he was gone. He had vanished. It would seem that no one got a glimpse of him after that. It is supposed that, somewhere near, a wagon was waiting for him."

"I think that I saw his hand and arm that night," said Shad.

He told the doctor of the singular event in Colonel Blake's office on the night of December 1.

"This is interesting," said the doctor gravely.

"But who was the woman in the buggy?" Shad asked.

LANGUAGE CLEW TO ALL PAST HISTORY

Why Archeological Work Is Important.

To some it may seem foolish for a man to spend weeks and months recording the peculiarities of speech of an aged Indian who recalls a language which will vanish completely with that person's death. That language is completely forgotten. The descendants of those who used it are now speaking English or Spanish. To the uninitiated, it is the mere recording of useless gibberish.

Yet the American Council of Learned Societies reports with pride that one research worker has nearly completed records of the Southern Caddoan language, that another is piecing together a record of the nearly vanished Mohican dialect of the Eastern Algonquins and that still another has found that a handful of Indians in Oregon still speak the Cayuse language, which it was thought vanished 50 years ago.

Such work is more than a pastime or a hobby. To archeologists and others interested in America's past it is of vital importance. Native languages form one of the most reliable means of tracing movements in prehistoric America. Pottery, weapons, jewelry, basketry, design and architecture all are clues to events in that forgotten past. But language is a thread running through them all.

Ancient America, the two continents, had no fewer than 150 languages, each fundamentally different from the others in grammar, vocabulary and phonetics. Most of them had dialects. Some even had separate forms for the use of men and women. How complex this was and how great an aid it can be to the delver in pre-history may be realized by remembering that Europe and Asia combined have only about 25 language stocks.

In tracing the movements of ancient Americans, scientists can make uncannily accurate guesses from evidence they dig from ruined villages.

But there are many open links. Occasionally the student of native languages can close those links. Whether the pottery shards show it or not, if one-time inhabitants of Idaho moved to Pennsylvania, the languages will show it, if the languages can be studied. If the language of the Mound Builders of Ohio were available for study, for instance, it might reveal similarities to the language of the Mayans and the Aztecs to prove a relationship which many archeologists have suspected but have never been able to prove.

This interest in Indian languages is not new. The Spanish priests gathered Indian words in Mexico as early as 1571. Roger Williams studied Indian languages in New England in the 1630's. John Elliot prepared his famous "Indian Grammar Begun" in 1603. Thomas Jefferson in 1791 made an effort to rescue vanishing Indian tongues and when he sent Lewis and Clark to the Pacific he told them to study Indian languages. But only in recent years have scientists taken up the task in earnest as a phase of archeology.

Teddy Bear Sanctuary
Koalas, known colloquially as "native bears," real live teddy bears in soft, plush-like fur, have lately become the object of special solicitude, both official and private, in Australia. For several generations nobody paid any attention to them, for they were so numerous that they never occurred to Australians that they could ever become scarce. But a highly fatal epidemic got started among them some years ago, killing them by thousands. Shooting koalas is now forbidden. Even more promising is the setting aside of well-supervised sanctuary areas, where not only these attractive marsupials but also other interesting but threatened native animals and plants have a chance for their lives.

What kind of food builds a 100% BABY?

READ WHAT 50 BABIES TAUGHT TWO SCIENTISTS

OF COURSE, you want your baby to be a rosy, healthy baby . . . taking his food contentedly . . . putting on his ounces regularly.

Yet you're hoping even more, perhaps, that he's building now for future health. Building hard bones, good teeth, strong muscles, sound nerves—to make him fit and fine in the years to come.

When mother's milk fails, can any other food build such a baby? . . . Read of a recent scientific test.

World-famous clinic makes feeding test

Recently, two baby specialists made a test with 50 average infants. Into these babies' bottles—month after month—went a food famous for 75 years as a baby builder. Millions of healthy citizens are living testimonials of its benefits. Yet never before had such a thorough, modern test of this food been made.

This food was . . . Eagle Brand Milk. Throughout the test, it was the only milk these babies received. The usual supplementary foods* were used.

And how those babies were studied! X-ray pictures of bones were taken. Tooth formation was watched. Blood counts were made. Weights and heights were charted. And at last came the report.

By every known test, these babies showed themselves splendidly nourished. This simple diet—Eagle Brand, with the usual supplementary foods*—had proved itself equal to the building of a 100% baby.

If you cannot nurse your baby, try Eagle Brand. Next to mother's milk, it is the easiest form of milk in the world to digest. Mail coupon for new free booklet on all phases of baby care.

*The usual supplementary foods (used with any milk diet) are orange or tomato juice, and cod-liver oil or other source of the anti-rachitic vitamin D.

Points scientists look for in judging a baby

- * Well-shaped head; sound teeth in well-formed jaw.
- * Strong back.
- * Firm flesh.
- * Straight legs.

No Law Forbidding the Holding of Two Offices

It would not be illegal or unconstitutional for a person to fill two posts in the President's cabinet at the same time, says Pathfinder Magazine. In fact, during the early days of the Republic, it was not uncommon for a cabinet officer to act temporarily as head of an executive department other than his own. For instance, James Monroe served for a time in President Madison's cabinet as both secretary of war and secretary of state. John Marshall was chief justice of the Supreme court and secretary of state at the same time. He was secretary of state under President Adams when he was appointed chief justice and the President authorized him to continue his duties as secretary of state until Jefferson's inauguration a month later. That is the only time that the two highest appellate offices of the federal government have been filled by one man at the same time. Legally Marshall could have drawn salaries for both positions, but he refused to accept more than one and his salary as secretary of state remained unpaid.

Short Night
It was Willie's first ride in a railway train, and the succession of wonders reduced him to a state of continuous astonishment. The train rounded a slight bend and, with a shriek of its whistle, plunged into a tunnel.

There were gasps of surprise from the corner where Willie was. Suddenly the train rushed into broad daylight again, and a small voice was heard in wonder.

"It's tomorrow!" exclaimed the small boy.—Christian Register.

Lesson for July 24

THE DELIVERANCE AT THE RED SEA

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 14:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation.—Exodus 15:2.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Walking Through the Sea.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Dry Path Through the Sea.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Israel Won Freedom.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How God Helps His People.

I. Israel in Straitened Circumstances (vv. 1-12).

1. Going out of the land of Egypt (13:18). The tenth stroke from the strong hand of the Almighty made Pharaoh willing to let Israel go. The tenth turn of the screw of Omnipotence brought him to time. The Israelites went out from Egypt on their way to the promised land with a high hand. The way of the wilderness was a longer route, but it had many valuable lessons for them. By this way they escaped the experiences of war which would have come to them at the hand of the Philistines, but they learned the crookedness and perverseness of their own hearts (Deut. 8:12).

2. Hemmed in (vv. 1-3). At the Lord's direction they turned from their first course and were made to face a great difficulty. The Red sea was before them and mountains on either side. However, they should have been encouraged because the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light. He took not away the pillar of cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night (13:21, 22).

3. Pursued by Pharaoh (vv. 4-12). The stricken Egyptians had now recovered from their sorrow, and perceiving the straitened circumstances of the Israelites they interpreted this to mean that Moses was unable to lead them out of their difficulty. Therefore they went in pursuit, hoping yet to prevent their leaving the country.

4. The Miraculous Escape of the Israelites (vv. 13-22).

There seems to have been a twofold object in leading them in to this particular place.

1. To strengthen the faith of the people. To be delivered from such circumstances would impress upon them anew the reality of the love and power of God. The people, as usual, displayed their unbelief, and even cursed Moses for leading them out of Egypt. Moses replied to their murmurs by saying, "Fear ye not, stand still and see the salvation of the Lord." Standing still in such a trial is faith taking hold on God's promises. God said, "Wherefore criest thou unto me? Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." Having had his definite promise, to have prayed longer would have been unbelief. They were to go forward a step at a time without raising any question as to the outcome, for from the source from which came the command, came the power to obey. The presence of the Lord was adapted to their needs as they went forward. When the situation was such that the Lord's leadership was not necessary, the cloud passed to the rear and held the enemy at bay. The presence of God had a double effect—darkness and confusion to the enemy, and light and guidance to his people.

2. To lay a snare for the overthrow of the Egyptians. Those who will not heed the warning judgments of God may be allowed to go to their destruction under the presumption that the Almighty is helping them.

III. The Overthrow of the Egyptians (vv. 23-27).

Having seen the Israelites go across the sea dryshod, Pharaoh and his people madly pursued them. They insanely thought that they in their unbelief could follow in the wake of God's children. The Lord looked forth from the cloud and wrought confusion among the Egyptians. He not only looked upon them but took off their chariot wheels which caused them to realize that God was fighting against them. He then directed Moses to stretch forth his rod and bring destruction upon the Egyptians.

IV. The Song of Triumph (15:1-21).
Standing on the other shore of the Red sea they could fittingly sing the song of triumph because of their miraculous deliverance and the overwhelming defeat of the Egyptians. They attributed it all to God. In a glad coming day, a similar but much larger company will sing the same song with an important addition, namely, the "Song of the Lamb" (Rev. 15:3).

GEMS OF THOUGHT

The question of duty is one of the most serious. On that pivot swings both usefulness and destiny.

We spend too much time ringing the doorbells of earth, and not enough the doorbell of heaven.—Quoted by Hanna.

The purpose firm is equal to the deed. Who does the best his circumstance allows, does well, acts nobly. Angels could do no more.—Young.

Modern Contract Bridge
By Lella Hattersley

Responding to Partner's Original Suit Bid of One

THE basis of all successful cooperative bidding depends upon partners thinking in terms of "our hand" instead of "my hand." When your partner makes a bid, listen to him and try to visualize his holding. Register a mental picture of it, see how it fits with yours. Hear everything the opponents have to say, and then endeavor to cooperate with your partner in arriving at the declaration that would be made if each could see the other's cards.

When contemplating a raise of his partner's bid suit, the supporting hand counts:

- First—Trump length and honors.
- Second—Long-cards and honor-tricks in side suits.
- Third—Ruffing tricks produced by short suits.

The most vital question in considering a suit raise is whether or not your hand contains the normal number of trumps expected by your partner. Before counting your raising-tricks, look to your trumps and remember that you must not raise your partner's original bid of one or two unless you hold at least four small trumps or three headed by an ace, or a king, or a queen.

The reason for this stringent rule is apparent when you realize that your partner's hand may contain no more than four trumps. If, in spite of the fact that you lack trump support, you encourage your partner to go on with his suit bid, he may end by playing a high contract, with the opponents disastrously in control of the trump situation. Holding good support for your partner in honor-tricks, but a deficiency in trumps, your recourse lies in a take-out, never in a raise.

When your partner, without assistance, rebids his trump suit, you may if holding justifiable values raise him with three small trumps or two with an honor as good as a queen. In short, one trump less than the usual normal expectancy is sufficient to raise a rebid suit.

If your partner, unassisted, rebids as high as three odd, or makes an opening bid of three or more, practically no trump support is needed for a raise; nor is it necessary to consider trump support when raising a partner's jump-overcall of three after an opponent's bid.

The trump length and honors are valued thus:

Trumps	Tricks
Three small or less	0
Four small	1/4
Five small	1
Six small	2
Add for ace or a king	1
Add for queen	1/2, sometimes 1

(A queen is counted as one trick when necessary to complete the count of a hand for a raise or a takeout)

In side suits which have not been mentioned by an opponent, high cards and length are valued the same way in the assisting hand as in the hand of the initial bidder, that is by honor-trick values and length values.

But if an adversary has bid, a shift must be made in estimating the value of guarded honors and tenaces in his suit according to whether you are over or under the adverse bid.

When holding four or more trumps, the ability to trump side suits is a tremendous asset in the dummy hand. In an assisting hand which holds four trumps, the ability to ruff a suit from the first lead is worth at least three tricks; a singleton is worth two tricks, and a doubleton one. With fewer trumps these short suit values are proportionately reduced, as will be seen from the following table.

Holding 2 short suits, only one, the shortest, should be counted	With 3 cards in trump suit	With 4 or more in trump suit
A doubleton (a two-card side-suit)	1/2 trick	1 trick
A singleton (one card of a suit)	1 trick	2 tricks
A void (not any cards of a suit)	2 tricks	3 tricks

Brook Farm Experiment

The Brook Farm Institute of Agriculture and Education was composed of a stock company of nearly 70 members. The organization had a farm of 200 acres at West Roxbury, Mass. Among the members were: George Ripley, Charles A. Dana, George William Curtis, Margaret Fuller and Nathaniel Hawthorne. Among their frequent visitors were: Ralph Waldo Emerson, Theodore Parker and Bronson Alcott. The experiment lasted from 1841 to 1846. The Brook farm was a failure, but it was important in intellectual results. Waning enthusiasm and a disastrous fire hastened its dissolution in 1856.

Every Red Triangle Station is a COURTESY Station

A completeness of service unequalled in the oil industry is yours at every Conoco station. When we say "service" we don't mean just gasoline, oil, water and air. Those things are to be expected. The service you find at Conoco stations goes much further.

It includes windshield and rear window wiping, accurate road information, package checking, sports, hotel and camp information for travelers, free road maps . . . and many other helps that are yours as a result of every Conoco man's sincere desire to aid you.

Conoco service men are chosen for their willingness to give friendly service and are trained to expertness. More than half of their time is given to free service . . . gladly . . . cheerfully. Their courtesy and readiness to help; the many unusual services they render regularly; make every Conoco Red Triangle station a Courtesy Station.

Man Still Gropes Vainly for Truth

I told a philosopher once that all the other philosophers would have to go out of business if one of them should happen to discover the truth. It is true that we have acquired a great deal of material knowledge in recent years, but so far as knowledge of the truth itself is concerned, I cannot see that we are any nearer to it now than our less imaginative ancestors were when they cracked each other's skulls with stone hatchets.

It is easy, and just now rather fashionable, to say that there is no soul, but we do not know whether there is a soul or not. If a man is a materialist, or mechanist, or what ever he likes to call himself, I can see for him no escape from belief in a futility so prolonged and complicated and diabolical and preposterous as to be worse than absurd; and as I do not know that such a tragic absurdity is not a fact, I can only know my native inability to believe that it is one.

There is nothing in the thought of annihilation that frightens me; for it would be, at the worst, nothing more terrible than going to sleep at the end of a long day, whether a pleasant or a painful one, or both. But if life is only what it appears to be, no amount of improvement or enlightenment will ever compensate or atone for what it has inflicted and endured in ages past, or for what it is inflicting and enduring today.—Edwin Arlington Robinson in Red Book.

Farm Waste Worth Fortune

Raw material enough to make several times the quantity of paper, fiber board, acetic acid, alcohols, acetone and charcoal required by the country is represented in the annual waste of 200,000,000 tons of grain straw and stalks.

New Target Gives Score

Marksmen may learn their scores instantly from a target recently invented in Germany. When a bullet hits a numbered ring its corresponding number appears automatically at the side of the target. The rings are of steel and a standard paper target is placed over them. Numbers run from 10, indicating a bull's eye, down to 1, on the outer ring.

Feels Stronger Than Ever

Just to prove to any doubtful man or woman that Kruschen Salts is the SAFE way to reduce—let us take the letter of Mr. F. J. Fritz of Cincinnati, Ohio, recently received.

He writes: "I've tried extreme dieting, setting up exercises with very little results—but the results from Kruschen are almost incredible. In 3 months I reduced from 265 to 179 pounds and feel stronger than ever—no more wheezing or gasping for breath—friends say I look 100% better."

Bear in mind, you fat man, that there is danger in too much fat—try the safe way to reduce—one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—cut down on fatty meats and sweets—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—get it at any drugstore in the world.

Mountainair 10; Carrizozo 6

Our ball team traveled to Mountainair last Sunday for a tussle of baseball, and up to the proverbial lucky seventh inning, Carrizozo had another victory well annexed to their string of games won this season. But that inning rolled around and when some of the boys faltered a bit, coupled with a homerun from the willow of one of the bean raisers, with all stations occupied, Mountainair took the lead and never let up until the game was theirs. The boys did not come home disheartened, nevertheless, and next Sunday they play Corona at Corona. As many of the fans who can, should go along with the team and help them get the cured pork.

Keep in mind also that Tularosa's strongest team comes to Carrizozo on Sunday, July 31, to try and hand our boys the worst defeat they have ever suffered. We predict a hard-fought game.

Mrs. Simon Chavez

Last Saturday afternoon at about two-thirty o'clock, Mrs. Simon Chavez, whose health had been on the decline for the past two months, passed away at her home on the east side. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon and interment made in the local cemetery.

Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss, two children; her father, Juan Pacheco; four sisters and two brothers. The friends of the surviving relatives extend to them their heartfelt sympathy.

Her condition was such that at times her life hung in the balance, but she regained her strength and was able to be taken home with her parents last Sunday. Kathryn will recover, but it will be slow, after such a trying ordeal. Let us have hope.

Lincoln News

Postmaster E. H. Miranda accompanied the local baseball team to Alamo Sunday and witnessed one of the best games of the season between Lincoln and Alamogordo. Alamo scored four runs in the second inning and Lincoln got three in the 4th, which was the final score. Both teams settled down after these two innings and played real ball. The Alamo boys are good, clean sports and they can wear a smile in defeat as well as in victory. We hope to have more games with this team in the future. The team expects to go to Fort Stanton Sunday, although arrangements have not been concluded.

Mrs. J. M. Penfield, son Edward and daughter Joan left Tuesday for Santa Fe to meet Miss Ruth Lydia, who is returning home after spending a week at Jemez Springs with the Spencers and Sagers.

Vicente Gutierrez received word last week from Mountainair to the effect that his grandfather, Guillermo Uderos, had been killed by lightning while out in a pasture fetching some horses. Mr. Uderos resided here and at Lincoln for many years, and leaves to mourn his death two daughters, several grandchildren and a number of step-children.
