

WELCOME TO THE Lincoln County Fair!

ANCHO NOTES

The Woman's Club met Saturday at the home of Mrs. Price Miller. Roll call was "A School Lunch." This subject brought forth quite a discussion; it was agreed that it was much better to have one hot dish, if possible, than a cold lunch—also sweet milk and fresh fruit should be used.

The colonial quilt was drawn by Mrs. Warden. A floral wedding contest was much enjoyed, Mrs. S. J. Pruett winning the prize.

Delicious refreshments of chicken sandwiches, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee were served.

Mrs. C. C. Belknap is spending a few days in Capitan, visiting Mrs. George Titeworth.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Merrith and daughter of Los Angeles are visiting H. A. Beck.

George Straley, L. P. Hall, G. F. Pruett and Virgil Peters attended the convention at Capitan last Saturday.

Mrs. S. J. Pruett spent Wednesday at Duran.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Listen, girls, if you are anxious to get married, here's our advice—Get a position on the Carrizozo Telephone Exchange. "And How!"—we don't know. That will be your business, nevertheless, it has passed the joking period when we tell you that there have been 24 girls who have married out of Manager McQuillen's telephone exchange. Believe it or not—but we have the goods on 'em, and here they are: The Misses Edna Shaver, Lucy Brown, Emma Pängsten, Ivy Bingham, Elsie Armstrong, Vera Richard, Lena Harris, Corrine Hunt, Edna Gray, Carrie Roberts, Erva Adams, Lillian Johnson, Alma Roberts, Lola Highfill, Lena Highfill, Jessie Rustin, Cora Fraser, Pearl Harris, Elsa Farley, Lena Grumbles, Lea Kennedy, Carlotta Jones, Lalla Peck, Hattie Hunt.

When asked the question as to why so many former telephone operators were married from the local, one young lady said: "There is a little red spider underneath the switchboard and when he makes his appearance, someone gets married". So that must be the solution to the puzzle, at any rate, girls, let us offer this advice. If you don't want to get married, don't apply to manager McQuillen for a position on the local exchange, for if you do and you secure a 'sit', you might be the little red spider's next victim. Be careful—look before you leap!

Keep in mind the Jericho Club dance Saturday, Oct. 22.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Our football team was defeated by Roswell Saturday. We don't feel discouraged about it though, because it certainly was a fine game. The boys are practicing hard for the games during the Fair.

Last Wednesday night the Seniors entertained the Freshmen at a party. Games were played and everyone had a good time. It was what might be termed "a howling success."

The Home Economics classes are busy getting ready for the Fair. The fruit is all canned and ready to go on exhibit. The classes are sewing now.

Every Friday the advanced class bakes cakes for sale. Why don't you try one of our devil's food? They are so good that you'll be sure to order again.

Monday the Junior class had a weiner roast. The weather was just right for a bonfire and everybody enjoyed themselves immensely.

Tuesday the Freshmen gave a party in honor of the Seniors. It was a gay affair. Milk-nickels were served for refreshment. Quite an original idea.

—High School reporter.

Keeps on Improving

Mrs. Elizabeth Gallacher is having an up-to-date heating plant installed in her late purchase of the Wetmore Apartments, which she has named the Elizabeth Rooms.

The plant is being installed by F. A. English & Son of the Carrizozo Hardware Co.; the apartments up stairs, the Bakery and the Carrizozo Auto Co. below will all be heated by the same process. The new "Iron Man" (automatic stoker) will certainly do the work and we congratulate Mrs. Gallacher on her progressiveness.

Frank C. Rolland

Candidate for the State Senate on the Republican ticket from District No. 18, which contains the counties of Lincoln and Otero, came to this part of the country in the year of 1898 since which time he has resided in Alamogordo and for that period he has been in the drug business. Having resided here for so long, it makes him so well known that he hardly needs an introduction to our people.

Frank is a brother to our esteemed local druggist, Art Rolland, and is possessed of the same genial disposition, which makes his friends over both counties, legion.

The qualifications of this gentleman for the office, are 100 per cent, and if elected, he will give the two sister counties an ideal representative in the State Senate.

NOTICE

The regular meeting of the Woman's Club of Carrizozo will be held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Gallacher on the afternoon of Friday, Oct. 21. As this will be the Bi-Centennial meeting of the club, all members having colonial costumes will please wear the same in keeping with the spirit of the meeting. A good attendance is desired.

Mrs. Zoe Glassmire, President.
Miss Thelma White, Secretary.

The Spanish supper given at Navarro's Hall last Saturday night was quite a success, and the Sisters of Mercy, Mrs. Sabino Vidaurri and Father Brady wish to thank all those who assisted and patronized the same, and extend an invitation to future suppers.

Father Brady went to Socorro and Albuquerque last week on some business matters.

All Set for the Fourth Jericho Club Dance

The last three dances given by the Jericho Club have won such popularity that dance fans here and elsewhere over the County have been asking "When is the Jericho Club going to give another one?"

Here is the answer—On the night of October 22nd, the Jericho Club will entertain the amusement-loving public with the fourth dance of a series to be given at the Lutz Hall.

OK, dance fans, 'We'll be seein' you there!

New Livestock Journal

"The Western Live Stock," the best magazine we have seen for some time, reached our desk last week. It is very ably edited by D. F. Biggs & Son; contains 24 pages with numerous photo cuts appertaining to the ranching industry throughout the state. Carrizozo is well represented on the frontpiece, a photo of the pure-bred stock of young heifers from the Stokes Cattle Company adorns the front page. Also Carrizozo is represented by a large ad on one of the inside pages. It is published in Albuquerque, and Biggs & Son should be very highly commended on their endeavor.

Ladies' Republican Club Meets

The Republican Women met at the Lutz Hall Monday, Oct. 10 at 3 p. m., for the purpose of re-organizing. The following officers were elected—President—Mrs. J. V. Hobbie.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. L. E. Hunt.
Secretary—Mrs. M. J. Barnett.
Treasurer—Mrs. Josefa Vega.
Publicity Chairman—Miss Hazel Melaus.
Program Chairman—Mrs. Maude L. Blaney.
Refreshment Committee—Mesdames R. E. Lemon, J. Vega, J. M. Snyder.

Instructive and entertaining talks were given by Mr. A. L. Burke, editor of the Carrizozo Outlook and Mrs. Alice French, County School Superintendent.

Three visitors were present, Mrs. Fresquez of Arabela and Mrs. Wells of White Oaks, Mrs. Agnes St. John of Orogrande.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 17 at 3 p. m. at the Court House. An excellent program will be given and refreshments will be served.

All Republican women, not only of Carrizozo, but of Lincoln County are urged to attend.—Miss Hazel Melaus, Publicity Chairman.

Sheriff John E. Brady, candidate for Senator, 15th District, joined a party of Republican State candidates at Socorro Monday night.

LOCAL MENTION

Mrs. Rebecca Gonzales of Las Cruces came up last Saturday to attend the Republican Convention. Mrs. Gonzales is one of the early settlers of Lincoln county and resided here for many years. She is well informed on all matters of a political nature, and although a resident of Dona Ana County, she never fails to interest herself in affairs here. She was the wife of former Governor Geo. Curry in territorial days, and is well known over the state in general.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O. Tipton of Las Vegas, parents of Mrs. Jess Snyder, who have been visiting their daughter's family for several weeks, returned to their home Tuesday. On Sunday, they made a trip to Alamogordo, where they met their son from El Paso and his relatives from Kansas, who were his guests for a short while.

Mrs. G. A. Stebbins of Salina, Kansas, sister of Mrs. F. H. Johnson, is here and will visit for several weeks at the Johnson home.

C. L. White, mining man of Jicarilla, was a business visitor in town on Wednesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Paskson of Alamogordo were the guests of Yardmaster and Mrs. Jess M. Snyder last Saturday.

Lon Atkinson, T. M. DuBois and F. H. Armstrong of Corona were Carrizozo visitors Wednesday and made this office a friendly call. Come again, boys, the more, the merrier.

Barber Mike Brady was in Santa Fe recently, taking the State Barber's Examination.

G. B. Herron, a former Carrizozo boy, but now a resident of Bisbee, Arizona, went through here Saturday night enroute to the east. He said that Mr. and Mrs. Alex Adams were well and that Alex now topped the scales at about 200 pounds. When a resident of Carrizozo, Alex always dreaded a silent day, for he would say that it was always a good indication of the approach of a fierce sandstorm—but during a sandstorm, he was de-lighted, for nice weather was certain to follow, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jenkins of Corona were business visitors in Carrizozo Wednesday. When in the vicinity of the Jenkins it will pay you to call and see the fine race horses of which Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins are so justly proud. They are all pedigreed stock and will make some additional records on New Mexico race tracks this fall, which will be announced in this paper later.

LYRIC THEATRE

R. A. Walker, Owner

Thursday-Friday and Saturday—"Ladies of the Jury," an R K O picture. Also the new serial, "Danger Island," chapter 1. A mysterious, spooky play, "Day Nurse." Kid a under 12 Free Friday night.

Sunday-Monday and Tuesday—"Pocahontas Kid," a Tiffany picture. "Don't Give Up" and "Strange As It Seems."

Richard—Johnson

Last Saturday evening at the Methodist parsonage, with Rev. Lawson performing the ceremony, Roy Richard and Miss Lillian Johnson, both of Carrizozo, were united in marriage, the attendants being Mr. and Mrs. Tennis Bigelow.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Johnson; she was born and reared here and received her education in our schools. For the past three years she has been in the employ of the local telephone exchange and on the first of the present month, after the resignation of Mrs. Reeder, she was promoted to Chief Operator. Possessed of a natural, sunny disposition, she won the friendship of the people of our community. As a Lincoln County product, we have no better to offer.—That's that!

The groom is also a local product; being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richard. Like his estimable wife, Roy was born, reared here and received his education in our schools. After leaving school, he entered into business with his father in the Carrizozo Transfer & Storage Company, which firm also operates a truck service. Everybody knows Roy and Lillian, and to know them, is to share in their friendship. Therefore, we all, with one accord, wish them a world of happiness. O. K., Newlyweds!

Sanchez—Ybarra

Last Saturday morning, at the Chapel at San Patricio, Max Sanchez of Arabela and Miss Cruzita Ybarra were united in marriage by Father James Brady of Carrizozo. A large crowd consisting of relatives and friends was present at the nuptial mass and after the ceremony was performed, the newlyweds and attendants repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Gregorio Ybarra, where a wedding breakfast was served.

Now comes Senator Cutting, supposed to be a Republican, with his Democratic Aid Association called "Progressives," which is fusing with the Democrats wherever it can in order to weaken the Republican State Ticket. Ye Gods and little fishes—what a Republican!

SYNOPSIS

Roberta Antrim, beautiful Eastern society girl, who lives with her uncle, William B. Latham, known as "Crooked Bill," because of his amusing styness, receives a telegram from Jaime Miguel Higuene, owner of the Rancho Valle Verde, in Texas, informing her that her Uncle Tom Antrim has died, a violent death.

CHAPTER I—Continued

"He is also good-natured and easy-going, otherwise he would not bother himself with the probably thankless task of protecting the interests of a stranger—and an American at that. Probably he acted thus because I am a woman, which proves he is gallant and chivalrous."

"A sort of knight-errant," Crooked Bill murmured maliciously, and Hackett told him a look of displeasure. "Well, Mexicans, of whatever class, are very polite to a lady. They always make a great-to-do about women. The chances are this Higuene is an educated half-breed Aztec Indian. I wish he had informed us who killed Cock Robin. He merely says it was a crowman."

"I wonder if he got hurt?" Roberta murmured.

"Does it matter particularly?" For a reason he had not even tried to analyze, but which had been born of a subconscious resentment of the man who had made it possible to interject Jaime Miguel Higuene into Roberta Antrim's thoughts, Glenn Hackett spoke.

Ten thousand cunning lips peeped for an instant from Crooked Bill's old eyes. "No, he didn't get hurt—at least, not very badly."

"How do you know?" Hackett demanded, and Roberta looked at her uncle inquiringly. "I believe you know Jaime Higuene."

"I couldn't make an affidavit to that, Roberta. I cannot recall having met him or even heard of him, so help me!"

Just then the butler entered to announce dinner. "Better reconsider your decision and break bread with us," Crooked Bill urged their guest.

"Yes, do," Roberta pleaded.

"Thank you, I think I shall not." Then to the butler. "Harris, will you be good enough to get my hat and coat and telephone the garage for my car?"

When Glenn Hackett's car had rolled away down the driveway, Crooked Bill turned to his word. "Round two for little bright eyes. I'm placing my money on the red."

"Who," the girl demanded firmly, "is Jaime Miguel Higuene?"

"I don't know, honey. I can only suspect, and some day I'll verify my suspicions and tell you."

"Please tell me your suspicions now, there's a dear," and Roberta smiled her most coaxing smile and put her arms around Crooked Bill's neck.

"Ah," he murmured, "a man can struggle along under a mystery but it drives a woman crazy. I'll not tell you what I suspect and you are perfectly powerless to drag it out of me."

"For two cents," Roberta threatened, "I'd go down to Los Algodones and investigate Jaime Miguel Higuene personally."

"If you do you'll get the surprise of your sweet young life, my dear."

Roberta's brown eyes danced. Nobody knew better than Crooked Bill how she cherished surprises.

"I think I should go down to Uncle Tom's funeral," she suggested. "I'm the last of the Antrims and it would be rather indecent of me to permit strangers—and not very sympathetic strangers—and to bury him."

"Crooked Bill was always practical, even if mysterious. 'I wouldn't do that, honey. I'm afraid Uncle Tom won't keep until you get there. I have never heard of ice or undertakers in Los Algodones, and as for hermetically sealed coffins, there just aren't any. I have a friend down there, however, and I'll wire him to attend the obsequies and send flowers for you and a wreath of cactus for me."

"Why have you always disliked Uncle Tom, so?"

"Because you're his niece, not mine, and he's never showed the slightest interest in you, except to send you five dollars at Christmas and on your birthdays; because I staked the unholy wretch in the cow business and he sold out the cows, refused to pay the loan, went to Mexico where I couldn't collect and set up in the sheep business; because he was ornery from birth and looked it. Your father was not what I would call a mental giant, Roberta, but he was kind and amusing and on the square, whereas your Uncle Tom was a throwback, a black sheep."

"Every family has them," the girl defended.

"Well, honey, you haven't yours any more!"

The following evening Glenn Hackett, having recovered miraculously from his indisposition of the day before, called for dinner. "The bank gives the man Higuene most flattering recommendations, Mr. Latham," he announced. "He has plenty of cash and worldly assets and his record is clean. He is known as a man of honor and can be trusted implicitly."

"Crooked Bill nodded, as if this report was not a matter of surprise to him. Hackett resumed:

"I cannot go to Texas to attend to this matter of your, Roberta. It will be necessary to engage a lawyer down there to handle your affairs there, and I suppose Higuene can direct you to a good one. I imagine you will have to proceed to Los Algodones immediately."

"I shall start tomorrow," Roberta decided, and added maliciously; "I can hardly wait to meet that adorable Jaime Miguel Higuene!"

CHAPTER II

A Sabbath calm lay upon the hacienda of Don Jaime Miguel Higuene, lord of the Rancho Valle Verde, notwithstanding the fact that it was not Sunday. Don Jaime gazed out through the arched entrance of his patio toward the distant, blue, serrated hills where the United States of America ended and the Republic of Mexico began.

"I wonder," he thought, "what is going to become of the Higuene family."

The problem proving too much for him, Don Jaime did that which all of his race do with the utmost ease and without preliminary notice. He fell into a gentle slumber. And while he slept a man, on a honey-colored horse with a dark stripe running the length of his backbones rode up to the hacienda entrance, dismounted, and strode stiffly through the arched entrance and down the flower-bordered gravel walk to the veranda. Observing Don Jaime at peace in the arms of Morpheus, the stranger removed a full cartridge belt, with two pistols, and hung his armament on one of a row of huge spikes driven into the adobe wall of the house. Quietly he drew another chair alongside Don Jaime, and disposed his tired body in it.

Don Jaime murmured, without troubling to open his eyes. "Who the devil are you?"

"Wake up, you lazy greaser, and see," the visitor retorted.

"When you speak in your naturally loud, vulgar and irreverent tone of voice I recognize you. I do not have to look," Don Jaime spoke perfect English, but the faintest clipped accent denoted it was not his mother tongue. He added in Spanish: "Welcome to my poor house. It is yours, gringo."

"I don't want your poor house. All I desire is accommodation and food for my horse and myself until morning and—"

"Thou graceless one!" Don Jaime murmured drowsily but without offense. "But what else can one expect of a Texan—and particularly a Texas ranger? But what brings you here, my friend?"

"A desire to be neighborly and to offer a slight return for your many evidences of princely hospitality—that and a natural desire to enjoy it again. Since when did you go into the sheep business, Jimmy?"

Don Jaime's dark eyes opened widely and the hint of an ever-ready smile faded from his handsome features, leaving them unbelievably stern. "Where?" he demanded.

"About ten miles south of here, I came across country from San Ysidro and bumped into them on your range. About forty thousand of them, I should say, although I'm no judge of sheep in quantity. The brand is Circle A."

"Tom Antrim's outfit. Well, if he's only ten miles from here he's trespassing on my range. Thanks for the information, Ken. Feed is pretty scarce to the east of me and I suppose Tom Antrim got desperate. Yes, you have your uses, gringo."

"If you care to run into Los Algodones and swear to a warrant charging him and John Doe and Richard Roe and James Black and Thomas Green and say a dozen other off-color gents with trespassing, I'll pick those boys up and lodge them in the jug; and then you and your boys can run the sheep off in peace."

"I don't want to run them off in peace, Ken," Don Jaime replied languidly. "I've done that before and it doesn't work. They always come back. Sure you haven't got some other work to do tomorrow?"

"Now, look here, Jimmy," the ranger protested, "you listen to me. Tom Antrim's there to stay. So I'm going to hang around the neighborhood. He's got twenty herders with him and I noticed they all carried rifles."

"A man's house is his castle," said Don Jaime contemptuously, "and I presume that principle applies to the lands contiguous thereto. One has a right to defend his castle from unwarranted trespass, and I'm here to tell you, old head, I am very weary of Tom Antrim and his sheeps—I mean sheep. D—n it, will I never get over the habit of slipping on my pistols, like any Mexican! Three weeks ago the sheriff of this county arrested Tom Antrim and held him and his men long enough to permit me to drive his sheep off my range; and before I called the sheriff in I talked with Tom Antrim. I told him he must not come back again, because cef—I mean if he did—here Don Jaime shrugged eloquent shoulders—"well, I would not bother the sheriff to fight for my rights for me. No, by Santa Maria la Purisima! It is in the blood of the Higuene family to fight their own fights."

The ranger protested again. "I heard all about the famous def of yours to old Antrim, and I happen to know the old skunk don't take orders worth a cent. Yet, he knows you mean business. That's why his men are all armed. He expects a battle and he knows you'll lead your forces. Now, if you should get killed in the fracas, your executor would be the one to protest against his trespassing in the future. Who might your executor be?"

"The Federal Trust company of El Paso."

"Tom Antrim owes them a lot of money. In a dry year they might not be too anxious to discover that Antrim was invading your range—that is, not until they had gotten their money out of the old hog. Now I hardship, and three days without water will see his sheep dying by the thousand."

"You understand me, Jimmy? You provoke the fight but he shoots first. Then you clean up and clean up good, because that's the only way you're ever going to have peace. Antrim's fate will be a lesson to any other grass thief with designs on your range—and I don't think any jury in this country will convict you of murder, because Antrim and his men will have been clearly outside the law, you have a record for patient forbearance in the past, and I will be your witness to prove that you rode up to Antrim's camp unarmed and talked to him like a gentleman—sabe usted, amigo mio? A captain of rangers' testimony carries weight with a jury. Anyhow, it just isn't possible to convict a Higuene in his county. You have never killed anybody or invaded another's rights—and that old buzzard, Antrim, has never done anything else but."

"You are always," Don Jaime Miguel Higuene reiterated, "my very good friend. And you are as wise as a treeful of owls. You plot with all the consummate craft of my own people."

"Where the devil do you suppose I got my education, if not along the Rio Grande?" Ken Hobart retorted. He lit a cigar and looked out over the pleasant garden. "Gosh, you've got a nice place here, Jimmy. I wish I'd been as discriminating in the selection of my ancestors as you were."

Don Jaime laughed lightly. "Only a little while ago I was reflecting that I have not had opportunity to practice the discrimination evinced by my ancestors in the picking of wives, Friend Hobart," he replied. "If you would be lord of a rancho marry a lady who has one and doesn't know what to do with it. Fortunately, I possess these—I mean this—rancho, so I do not need the lady!"

"If you did, Jimmy, where the devil would you find her?"

"You have the delightful habit of placing your finger on the weak spot, my friend. Where, indeed, would I find a suitable wife? I am too busy with these—I mean this—rancho, and when once or twice a year I wander to the fleapots it is to be filled with amazement and fear of what would happen to me if I marry a modern girl."

"You have all of a Castilian's horror of a woman who believes she can take as good care of herself as any man can. I suppose you want a girl who will consent to dwell behind bars, take no exercise and stand for a fat old duenna tagging around behind her, not to see that she avoids romance but to make certain she doesn't act natural and seek it."

"You are wrong, my friend. I am quite modern but a bit old-fashioned, too. I have been in love many times but only in love with love. I must think long and carefully before asking any woman to share this life with me. Here, she would be lonely. She would look from this hacienda to the horizon and see—cattle. She would look back and see—me. One grows weary of scenery. She would come to regard me as a jailer, not a husband. So I must be careful."

"Well, when you meet the girl you truly fall desperately in love with, and she reciprocates your passion—"

"She," quoth Don Jaime Miguel Higuene solemnly, "shall be the mother of my children."

"Where? Here?"

"Where she will, my friend," Don Jaime replied with simple sincerity.

"Then, Jimmy," said Ken Hobart, "I hope, for purely selfish reasons, you'll meet your fate before long and that she'll refuse to marry you until she sells this ranch and moves to Houston or Dallas or San Antonio or—"

"The Higuene men do not take orders from women," Don Jaime interrupted. "And this rancho will never be sold. Four generations of my family have owned it and fought for it. I love it."

"Well, if she asks it, you'll buy her a town house and live there with her part of the year, will you not?"

"Asking is not ordering or delivering ultimatums—"

"Ultimata, Jimmy," the ranger corrected him, mischievously.

"At any rate," Don Jaime resumed, like you, Jimmy, and I don't want to see you get killed. Besides, if you kick up a row and don't get yourself killed, you make work for me and my men. Myself, I'm a man of peace. Consequently it occurred to me—"

"You want me to give him another chance—to appear weak and vacillating by talking to that Antrim again?" Don Jaime charged instantly.

"Thank God, my blood is the cool blood of an Anglo-Saxon ancestry. If I had your hot corpuscles, Friend Jimmy, I never would have risen to be a captain in the Texas rangers. I'd have been killed as a private. Now, you listen to me, because I have no interest at all in Antrim. I have, however, a sympathetic interest in you and your broad acres. You plan to go over yonder and start something. All wrong, old son, all wrong. You take a ranger's advice and let the other fellow draw first. Then beat him to the draw."

"You are always my good friend," murmured Don Jaime gratefully.

"Now, listen, Jimmy," Ken Hobart continued. "Tomorrow I shall make it my business to drop in to that sheep camp for luncheon. A little later you will ride up, alone and unarmed, I'll report to Antrim that you're bent on an argument, but not in the smoke; and he'll go out to talk to you, because I shall advise it strongly. When he does you give him final warning in language most becoming to a Hidalgo of your proud ancestry. He'll think you're weak and afraid and of course he'll disregard the warning. . . ."

"Well, having warned him, you ride back home, gather your gang together and take possession of the water-holes where Antrim must, of necessity, water his sheep tonight. Don't let him water them. He'll fight for the water, rather than back-track with his flock over ground that's been eaten over, only to find your men guarding the water-holes in that direction, too. A sheep can't stand such

Statistics Provide New Pastime for Fat Folks

Are you fat or lean? In either case you will appreciate these valuable statistics revealed by a magazine writer regarding adipose tissue, says the Detroit News. New fat added to the frame naturally has to be nourished by the extension of blood vessels. And a pound of fat, says a writer, requires small vessels totaling 5-6 of a mile in length. When a man puts on 50 pounds he interlaces his system with 20 miles of new capillaries, veins and arteries. This fact supplies a very amusing pastime for persons addicted to laying things out to rest, and is supposed to explain why fat folks are so contented and jolly. Every evening, as their weight increases, they can sit by the fire and, after doing the crossword puzzle, lay a fresh supply of capillaries end to end. Or, when losing weight, they can remove them end from end. It keeps the mind innocently and pleasantly occupied, and makes for happiness and good citizenship. Beware of us fellows with the lean and hungry look. Such men are dangerous.

Large Gold Nugget
The National museum has a record showing that the largest gold nugget found in California was found in the Monumental mine, in Sierra county, and weighed 1,206 troy ounces.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, 1933, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 16

THE HOME AND THE COMING GENERATION

Genesis 18:17-19; Deuteronomy 6:4-9; I Samuel 1:24-28; Mark 10:13-16; II Timothy 1:5, 6.

GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it. Proverbs 22:6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Timothy's Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Honoring God in Our Homes.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Helping to Make Our Homes Better.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Home Ideals for Today and Tomorrow.

1. The Home Which Is to Be (Gen. 18:17-19).

The particular home in mind here is Abraham's. He was not only to become the head of a home, in the ordinary sense, but also the head of a nation through which particular blessings should come to the whole world.

1. Abraham to be the head of the home (v. 18). The husband is the head according to divine arrangement. How blessed it is when the lawful head of the home recognizes his responsibility, and in the fear of God seeks to discharge it.

2. Abraham's responsibility for instruction of his family (v. 19). God was about to destroy Sodom. The interests of humanity were at stake in the judgment upon this wicked city. It was God's purpose that Abraham should teach his descendants as to God's purpose through them. It is a father's solemn responsibility to teach his children the purpose and ways of God so that they may in turn take their place and become a blessing to the world.

11. God's Word, the Foundation of the Home (Deut. 6:4-9).

The home has a vital teaching function. The child develops slowly. It remains in the home for a long time, to give an opportunity to be taught the things of God. To teach God's Word to the children is a solemn obligation imposed upon parents.

1. The central truth to be taught (vv. 4, 5).

a. The unity of God (v. 4). This fundamental truth should be lodged in the mind of the child in its tender years.

b. Man's supreme obligation to God (v. 5). It is to love God supremely—heart, soul, and mind.

2. How the truth of God is to be kept alive (vv. 6-9).

a. It is to be diligently taught to the children (v. 7). This is a responsibility that dare not be delegated even to the Sunday school and church.

b. It should be talked of to the children everywhere and under all circumstances (v. 7). Impressions will thus be made upon the mind which cannot be effaced.

c. It is to be bound upon the hands and placed as frontlets between the eyes (v. 8).

d. It is to be written upon the posts of the house (v. 9).

111. Children Should Be Dedicated to the Lord (I Sam. 1:24-28).

The union of man and woman in holy marriage is for the propagation of the race. Parents have a solemn responsibility and should esteem it a great privilege to give their children to the Lord. The example of Hannah in giving Samuel to the Lord should encourage all parents to follow her example. According to her vow, she took Samuel to the sanctuary and gave him over to the priest, to assist in the ministry in the Lord's house.

1V. Jesus' Attitude Toward Children (Mark 10:13-16).

1. Mothers desired that Jesus might touch their children (v. 13). Doubtless they had witnessed the healing power of His touch and coveted it for their children. All Christian parents want their children to come into contact with Jesus Christ.

2. The disciples rebuke (v. 13). Thinking the children were too insignificant to engage Jesus' attention, they rebuked the mothers for bringing them to him.

3. Jesus' reply (v. 14). He declared that of such is the kingdom. Therefore, the children have a right in the presence of the King.

4. Jesus blessed the little children (v. 16). He took them up in his arms and blessed them. Christianity is peculiarly favorable to children.

V. The Godly Home (II Tim. 1:5, 6).

Timothy's wise and faithful mother and grandmother carefully nurtured him in God's Word. He knew the Scriptures from childhood through their training. His faith came to him not through laws of heredity but through the careful teaching of God's Word. The factors involved were godly ancestors, a Christian home, and diligent study of the Scriptures.

Porto Rico Devastated by a Hurricane—Gandhi's Fast Ends in Victory—De Valera Tells League of Nations What Ails It.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

ONCE again the "storm of San Eusebio" came out of the southern Atlantic ocean on the feast day of that saint and swept across Porto Rico as it did in 1923, leaving a terrible trail of death and destruction. For hours the hurricane raged, tearing down buildings, ruining the coffee and fruit crops and killing and maiming the people of the unhappy island. Gov. James R. Beverley thought the dead would number well over two hundred and the injured more than a thousand. The property damage has not been estimated but it certainly will run into many millions of dollars. Broken communication lines and roads blocked by debris made the gathering of accurate information slow. Before reaching Porto Rico the storm struck the Virgin Islands, killing 15 persons, sinking many vessels and wrecking buildings. Later it hit Haiti and Santo Domingo.

Most of the fatalities in Porto Rico were in the country districts, for the authorities of San Juan, forewarned, placed many hundreds of the residents in the solidly built schools and churches. The property losses in the city, however, were heavy, especially on the ocean front. Governor Beverley was prompt in starting relief machinery. He formed an emergency committee and placed ample insular funds in its hands. By his order the police impressed into service prisoners in all the jails, letting them work without guards at clearing the roads and streets and reopening communication facilities. The governor of course reported the conditions immediately to Washington and the Red Cross ordered its chief supply officer to the island and sent a destroyer with medical supplies.

MATILMA GANDHI'S "fast unto death" won a striking victory for the little old Hindu holy man, for the caste Hindus and the untouchables, hurrying to save his life, agreed upon a compromise electoral plan that was fairly satisfactory to Gandhi. It was hastily accepted by Prime Minister MacDonald and the British cabinet, and thereupon the mahatmas broke his fast with a few sips of a lime concoction. For more than six days he had partaken of nothing but water with salt or soda in it, and the physicians at Yeravda jail said he could not have survived much longer.

The compromise plan provides that 143 seats in provincial legislatures be held by the depressed classes and that a percentage of seats in the central legislature be reserved for them. It also provides a system of primary elections. These special features are to end after ten years. In accepting this plan, the British government pointed out that some details still remained under consideration. The official statement said this did not imply opposition by the government.

Gandhi, though born a caste Hindu, has been making his fight for the depressed classes, and it is possible that his victory may lead to revolutionary changes in their treatment. However, some authorities declare that the gulf between the four castes and the untouchables is of too many generations' standing to be wiped out in a day or two, even by the ukase of religious leaders.

WHEN the League of Nations assembly opened its thirteenth annual session in Geneva, Eamon de Valera, President of the Irish Free State, was in the chair as president of the league council, and he took the opportunity to tell what he thought of the league and its failures. He spoke with out restraint, telling his gloomy hearers that the league had lost the world's confidence because it had not boldly tackled the major problems that came before it, notably the situation in the Far East and the question of disarmament.

"People are complaining that the league is devoting its activity to matters of secondly interest while vital international problems of the day are being shelved or ignored," he concluded. "People are saying that equality of states does not apply here in things that matter."

"People are becoming impatient at the apparently meager face-saving results of successive league conferences and meetings. They are inquiring whether these conferences justify the burden of contributions to the league's budget. Finally there is the suspicion that little more than lip service is paid to the fundamental principles on which the league was founded."

"There is a suspicion that action by the league in the economic sphere is paralyzed by pressure of powerful national interests and that if a hand is raised against the covenant sufficiently strong it can smite with impunity."

This last obvious allusion to Japanese controlled Manchuria was followed by a warning that the only way to silence criticism of the league is "to show unmistakably that the covenant is a solemn pact of obligations which no state will find it possible to ignore."

Disarmament, he also declared, was a flop and a bluff. The Lausanne conference on reparations, he admitted, was a mild success, but he made it clear it was not the fault of the league.

Nicholas Politis of Greece was elected as the president of the assembly. What that body would find to do was uncertain. The reception and discussion of the league's commission on Manchuria already had been postponed for at least two weeks at the behest of Japan, and the statesmen were not agreed even upon the establishment of disarmament, financial and economic commissions.

To make matters worse, the steadfast refusal of Germany to take part in the sessions of the disarmament conference effectually stopped up that august international body for the time being. The steering committee in a quarrelsome secret meeting considered the demand of Arthur Henderson for immediate convocation of the general conference and then announced it had adjourned until October 10.

DEMOCRATS now are in control of the United States senate, outnumbering the Republicans by one. This comes about through the appointment of Walter Walker by Gov. William H. Adams of Colorado to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Charles W. Waterman. So the upper house now has 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite. There was uncertainty as to whether the new man would serve in the lame duck session of congress or only until a successor to Waterman is elected November 8.

BOTH the Republicans and the Democrats professed to have high hopes of carrying Iowa in the Presidential election, but their claims are unsettled by the announcement of Senator Smith W. Brookhart that he will be in the race for the senate as the nominee of the "progressive" party, expecting to draw support from both the major parties. His decision came three months after his defeat in the Republican primary by Henry Field. He admittedly has a large following among the Iowa Republicans, especially in the rural districts. The Democrats had expected that Brookhart would follow the example of his brother progressive Republican, Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, and come out flatly for Franklin D. Roosevelt for President.

JOEY SHOUSE, former executive chairman of the Democratic national committee, gave the California Democrats a shock by the announcement that Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, of which he is president, would support Tallant Tubbs, Republican nominee for senator from that state, rather than William G. McAduo, the Democratic choice. Shouse said that McAduo had not made his position clear on the prohibition question. He stated also that the association feared the cause of prohibition repeal might be retarded or embarrassed by the election of McAduo. It therefore urged, he said, that California advocates of prohibition repeal vote for Tubbs.

FOES of President Machado of Cuba reopened their campaign of assassination, their victim being Dr. Clemente Bello, president of the senate, leader of the Liberal party and the man slated to succeed Machado as the head of the government. Seven men in an automobile fired five volleys from a machine gun at Bello as he was leaving his home, and he was struck and killed by eleven bullets. His chauffeur also was mortally wounded. Within a few hours alleged government agents had retailed by slaying three prominent oppositionists, Dr. Ricardo Arango, and Representative Gonzalo de Andrade and his two brothers. A fourth leader of the Conservatives, Dr. Miguel Aguilar, was fatally wounded.

NOTABLE among the deaths of the week was that of John Sharp Williams, former senator from Mississippi. He was seventy-eight years old and had been ill for months. Williams was known for his scholarship and his biting satirical political oratory.

PRESIDENT HOOVER appointed Representative Charles R. Crisp of Georgia as a member of the tariff commission to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lincoln Dixon of Indiana. Crisp was defeated for the senatorship nomination in the Democratic primary and so is classed as a lame duck. However, his appointment will not be criticized because of his long and able services in the house.

HOW to arrange the financing by the Reconstruction Finance corporation of the sale of 15,000,000 or more bushels of northwestern wheat to China has been taking the attention of President Hoover and the interested federal agencies. Negotiations have been opened with China and though the final arrangements had not been made, it was said in Shanghai that the deal was practically assured. It involves about $9,000,000 in gold.

The grain involved in the proposal would come from producers of the Northwest on whom shipping costs have borne heavily. The relief act authorized the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans for financing foreign sales of surplus agricultural products where they "cannot be financed in the normal course of commerce" and where they will not "affect adversely the world markets for such products."

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S famous trowel is being put to use quite often these days. The latest occasion was the laying of the cornerstone of the new $10,000,000 post office building on Pennsylvania avenue. With Mrs. Hoover an interested spectator and hundreds of others gathered about, Mr. Hoover wielded the tool that the Father of his Country used in laying the cornerstone of the Capitol in 1793. He slapped on the mortar and the stone was swung into place, a real mason tested the block with his level and pronounced it truly laid. Postmaster General Brown told the crowd that the day was the one hundred and forty-third anniversary of the founding of the postal service, Senator Smith spoke briefly, and the President then delivered an address dwelling on the function of the postal service in the making of the nation.

FIVE eminent citizens have agreed to act as a commission which will "survey the transportation situation in this country" and report such recommendations for relief and betterment as may appear wise to them. The commission is sponsored by the National Association of Mutual Banks, and the announcement of its creation was made by Walter Bennett, New York banker, on behalf of the association. Calvin Coolidge, former President, is chairman of the commission, and the other members are Bernard M. Baruch, financier and railway director; Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York; Clark Howell, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, and Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester company and former chairman of the farm board.

The commission is the result of mobilization of virtually every bank, insurance company, and major business association in the country for a concerted effort to convince congress of the imperative necessity of immediate legislation to protect the financial foundations of the railroad industry. Its survey will include all the transportation facilities of the nation, including buses, trucks, pipe lines and other carriers, as well as the railways.

REPRESENTATIVES of the Railway Labor Executives' association called on President Hoover, asking administration intervention in the matter of the proposed railway wage reductions which they opposed "at a time when there are some hopeful signs that the depression may have run its course." Mr. Hoover also talked with railway presidents and secretary of labor Doak, and the latter then issued a statement that the President felt it was desirable that the question should be deferred until the end of the year, since the present wage agreement does not expire until February 1.

GREAT BRITAIN'S national government, formed last October to meet the financial crisis, experienced its first break when three of the most important Liberal and Labor members of MacDonald's cabinet resigned. Their action followed a disagreement over the tariff proposals approved at the recent empire conference in Ottawa. The ministers who quit, stating these proposals were incompatible with their free trade principles, were Viscount Snowden of Ickornshaw, lord privy seal, former leader of the Labor party, and Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary for Scotland.

Sir John Gilmour was moved from minister of agriculture to home secretary and his former portfolio was given to Maj. Walter Elliot. Sir Godfrey Collins took Sinclair's place. The Simon Liberals in the house still support MacDonald.

NOTE among the deaths of the week was that of John Sharp Williams, former senator from Mississippi. He was seventy-eight years old and had been ill for months. Williams was known for his scholarship and his biting satirical political oratory.

PRESIDENT HOOVER appointed Representative Charles R. Crisp of Georgia as a member of the tariff commission to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lincoln Dixon of Indiana. Crisp was defeated for the senatorship nomination in the Democratic primary and so is classed as a lame duck. However, his appointment will not be criticized because of his long and able services in the house.

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

Scientific Advice for the Short in Stature

News for short men. Do not despair, for you may yet add a cubit to your stature, if you but follow the right path. Height, says Dr. Carroll E. Palmer, increases slightly in the receding individual. The increase varies with height and sex, and is somewhat greater in men than in women.

The observed extension was sometimes as much as one inch. Doctor Palmer came upon this odd phenomenon in the course of an investigation at Johns Hopkins for the purpose of finding a basis of comparison between the height tables of infants.

Museum of Sounds

An "audible museum" or a museum of sounds has been organized in Berlin under the direction of the ministry of posts. Here there is a gigantic collection of phonographic records representing calls, music and characteristic noises of all kinds. This includes the wail of the Korean, the merry song of the Rumanian tailor, the whoop of the American cowboy and the lingering call of the Spanish night watchman. There are also records of the voices of many distinguished persons.

County Republican Convention

The Republican Convention assembled last Saturday morning at the County Court House and was called to order by J. B. French, Chairman of the Republican County Central Committee.

The Convention selected for its temporary Chairman, A. L. Burke, and Mrs. R. E. Fresquez acted as Secretary. The various committees were then appointed after which the Convention listened to able addresses from the state candidates, Frank Westfield, candidate for Attorney General; H. T. Gardner, candidate for State Treasurer; Mrs. Edna Rousseau, candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction; W. A. Sutherland, candidate for District Attorney, third judicial district and Judge Mann of Albuquerque, who is touring the state in the interest of the Republican ticket.

The Convention then adjourned until 2 p. m., when the different committees reported and the convention got down to business.

The report of the committee on permanent organization recommended that the temporary organization be made permanent; the committee on resolutions followed with a report lauding the National administration and commended President Hoover for his acts of patriotism and his gallant stand in defense of the people's interests in the worldwide depression. The reports of the committees being adopted, the convention proceeded to the nominations of the various county offices, as follows:

Sheriff, Pete Johnson
Clerk, Ernest Key
Assessor, T. M. DuBois
Treasurer, R. E. Fresquez
Probate Judge, Leopoldo Gonzales

County School Superintendent, Eva Rose
County Commissioner, First District, Diego Salcido
Second District, Lupe Gabaldon

Third District, Samuel Bigger
County Surveyor, A. H. Harvey
Representative for Lincoln County, S. E. Grelson.

Mrs. Geo. Titaworth resigned as Vice Chairman of the Republican County Central Committee and Mrs. Maude L. Blaney was elected to fill the vacancy.

Iced Coffee Becoming Popular Summer Drink

Because of its refreshing and invigorating qualities, iced coffee is becoming more popular every summer. If properly made, it is a delightful beverage.

Freshly made, steaming hot coffee should be poured into glasses filled with cracked ice, and either served clear or with cream and sugar. To compensate for the dilution caused by the melting ice, the coffee should be made a little stronger than usual, about 1 1/2 tablespoons per cup suiting the average taste.

Coffee, because of its general appeal, also is being used in countless recipes, for the making of mousses, cakes, gelatins, salads and desserts.

Doubtless due to these varied new uses, as well as its increasing popularity as an all-year-round beverage in America, coffee consumption in the United States last year was 14.7 pounds per capita, the highest figure in history. Practically all of the coffee consumed in this country is grown in South America. More than one-fourth of the coffee imported for domestic consumption is grown in Colombia, which is the world's largest quantity producer of grades known as "milds," and ranks second in point of total production.

The sweetest coffees are grown on mountain sides at altitudes ranging between 2,500 and 6,000 feet above sea level. The topography of Colombia is ideal for coffee raising, because the country is crossed by three ranges of the Andean mountain system, on the slopes of which thousands of small plantations produce the world's sweetest grades.

Mirages Seen No More
Certain parts of Kansas were formerly noted for the number of mirages to be encountered there at rather frequent intervals, but in recent years these interesting sky pictures have disappeared and the reason is said to rest in the fact that the state has been largely planted with wheat and the lack of variety in the landscape gives no opportunity for the formation of a mirage.

Cookies for Ever-Hungry Youngsters

Home-made Goodies Delight Kiddies

SCHOOL days again! And hungry youngsters racing home and asking for "something good" to eat. If the cookie jar is kept well filled, mother will have no difficulty in satisfying the children, because these little cakes are substantial enough to satisfy the between-meal craving and still so light they will not spoil the appetite for regular meals.
While even plain cookies will appeal to nearly all children, try giving them something with a flavor they like. Cut the cookies in interesting shapes, such as stars, diamonds, and little animals! Or decorate the tops of plain cookies with some nuts, raisins, or small colored candies, and listen to the shouts of delight.
Add these to the school lunch, too, and watch the interest of the youngsters in that rather difficult meal.

Chocolate Drop Cookies
2 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
dash of salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, well beaten
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup walnut meats, broken
Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together twice. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and nuts. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 7 minutes. Frost with chocolate butter frosting if desired. Makes 30 cookies.

Hondo, N. M., White Oaks, N. M., nearest land:

To Claude Gonca of Capitan, N. M., Contestee:

You are hereby notified that Alvin Harcrow who gives Capitan, N. M., as his postoffice address, did on August 1, 1932, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Homestead Entry No. 039244, Serial No. 039244, made Dec. 1, 1928, for E<sub>1</sub>SE<sub>1</sub>; SE<sub>1</sub>NE<sub>1</sub>; Sec. 20; W<sub>1</sub>SW<sub>1</sub>; NE<sub>1</sub>SW<sub>1</sub>; W<sub>1</sub>SE<sub>1</sub>; SE<sub>1</sub>SE<sub>1</sub>; Sec. 29; SW<sub>1</sub>SW<sub>1</sub>; Sec. 28; W<sub>1</sub>W<sub>1</sub>; SE<sub>1</sub>NW<sub>1</sub>; SE<sub>1</sub>SW<sub>1</sub>; Sec. 33, Twp. 5 S., Range 15 E., N. M. P. M., and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Claude Gonca has gone away from said land and left it; been away for two years that I know of and witnesses can testify that he has never established residence on the land; never made any attempt to comply with the requirements in order to obtain title to this land.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken as confessed; and your said entry will be canceled without further right to be heard, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically responding to these allegations of contest, together with due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail.

You should state in your answer the name of the postoffice to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.

PEYTON RANDOLPH OF VIRGINIA, PRESIDENT, FIRST CONTINENTAL CONGRESS
SERIOUS business was now at hand. Washington was elected to attend the First Continental Congress at Philadelphia in 1774. The Congress was held in Carpenter's Hall, and Peyton Randolph, an intimate friend of Washington's, was chosen president. The man of Revolutionary destiny was always alert-but said little.

RICHARD HENRY LEE
ON the night before his departure, Washington gave a dinner at Mount Vernon to his traveling guests, Edmund Pendleton and Patrick Henry. Richard Henry Lee followed later. As the guests were ready to mount, Mrs. Washington said she hoped they would be firm. "I know George will," Benjamin Franklin's mission to London for an honorable peace was of no avail and war like temper was increasing.

Mother gives credit to Eagle Brand

Little Rose Marie Haggerty of Pueblo, Colo., at 1 year, 7 months.

"WE STARTED our baby on Eagle Brand at three months," writes Mrs. W. F. Haggerty, 1016 Carterette Ave., Pueblo, Colo., "and she is perfect now. She has won in three baby shows, and I think Eagle Brand ought to have the credit. She is 1 year, 8 months old now, and has never been sick, not even a cold—and I will send our family doctor's statement if you wish."

"The texture of her skin is just like velvet. I sure have praised Eagle Brand, for I think it has made her beautiful."

"The other day, I was visiting at the hospital and one of the men called a doctor to see her and he asked was she bottle fed and when I told him Eagle Brand, he said, 'Well, Eagle Brand ought to see her' so that is why I am sending the picture."

If your baby is not thriving on his present food we suggest that you and your doctor consider Eagle Brand. Send for free booklet. The new and complete edition of "Baby's Welfare" contains practical feeding information and suggestions for supplementary foods—orange juice, cereals, cod-liver oil, etc.—advised by doctors.

POULTRY

BREED FLOCK ABLE TO RESIST TYPHOID

Possibility Demonstrated by Experiments.

Six years' selection and breeding of chickens that are resistant to fowl typhoid has reduced the percentage of dead chicks, inoculated with the disease germs, from 93.8 per cent in the first generation down to 9.4 per cent in the fifth generation, while the losses in non-resistant flocks used for comparison ranged from 93.2 per cent down to 85 per cent in the same number of years and generations. W. V. Lambert of Iowa State college reported to the international genetics conference at Cornell university.

In the experiment, Doctor Lambert inoculated seven-day-old chicks with the fowl typhoid germ and selected breeding stock from the chicks whose families gave the highest resistance. Some inbreeding was done. Records of mortality, kept until the chicks were twenty-one days old, showed that most of the chicks which failed to survive from the selected strains died on the eighth day after inoculation, and most of the chicks from the unselected flock died on the fifth day after inoculation.

Observations of 1,503 chicks of four different breeds, and from two strains of a single breed, showed these mortality percentages: White Leghorn, 87.7; White Plymouth Rock, 79.7; White Wyandotte, 93.4, and Rhode Island Red, 94.4. The differences, according to Doctor Lambert, probably represent strain resistance rather than breed resistance.

Crosses between the selected and unselected stock show that the male as well as the female transmits resistance to the disease. Back-crosses, he says, indicate that more than one factor is responsible for developing resistance and that continued investigation is necessary to establish the genetic behavior of these disease-resistant factors.

Proper Treatment for Worm-Infested Turkeys

There are over forty kinds of worms that are found in fowls of various kinds and five or six that are found in turkeys. They are usually picked up in embryonic stages by birds that eat their feed off the ground and are kept year after year on the same range or in the same yards. All droppings from affected birds should be gathered and burned or mixed with quicklime and buried. Sick birds should be isolated, in the first place. For tapeworms it is recommended to mix in the feed one teaspoonful of powdered pomegranate root bark for every 50 birds. It is advisable to follow the treatment with a dose of castor oil, one or two teaspoonfuls for each bird. Powdered Arca nut may be given if convenient and is said to be equally effective, though it is too severe for some birds. Male fern also is effective in doses of 15 to 30 drops per bird in liquid extract form. Oil of turpentine is an excellent remedy for all kinds of worms that infest the digestive canal. Santonin is another worm remedy that can be given in feed. Powdered tobacco or stevia cut fine can be used with good results where a milder remedy is desired, and tobacco stems are often used in pigeons' nests to keep lice away.

Poultry Notes

Increase the green feed for hens laying pale-yolked eggs.

Don't keep anything that is not worth feeding, but feed anything that is worth keeping.

Cleanliness and sanitation are the most important factors in raising chicks successfully, if the chicks are free from disease to start with and the proper feed is available.

Recent studies indicate that larger amounts of mash and milk in the poultry feed ration improve the grade, increase the weight, and thus increase the net return to the grower.

Among the minerals that should be found in a balanced ration are: common salt, oyster shell, limestone, clamshell, bone, rock phosphate and phosphatic limestone.

Milk is an excellent drink for chickens. Besides providing some protein, it also supplies minerals and a certain quantity of lactic acid.

Prospects for a larger poultry crop for market this fall and winter are indicated.

It is believed that a hen requires 75 per cent of what she consumes for her bodily needs.

Rape is quite commonly fed to laying pullets as a green feed. Rape has a tendency to darken the yolks of the eggs and make them look orange in color.

It is important that the pens have a regular supply of grit and oyster shell, the latter to provide materials for shells.

No. 21 Redouble of a Take-Out Double

WHEN your partner's original bid of one has been doubled, you may sometimes be justified in answering the opponent with a redouble. Such a redouble signals to your partner that you hold the remaining balance of honor strength and that your side is in a position to exact a profitable penalty because the fourth hand must be practically a blank.

The announcement of strength conveyed by such a redouble is never based on distributional tricks or on assistance for the suit partner, has named. It has to do solely with a holding of exceptional honor strength, at least 3 honor-tricks. When you have 3 honor-tricks and can account for at least 2 1/2 in your partner's hand, (the 2 1/2 required for his original bid) it becomes apparent that the 3 honor-tricks shown by the doubler must be practically the only strength which his side possesses. In the main, redoubles of this type work to best advantage only after partner has opened with a no trump, and of course they are most profitable when the opponents happen to be vulnerable.

Rebidding After Making a Take-Out Double

When you have forced your partner's bid with a take-out double, unless his response is higher than necessary, regard it with extreme pessimism. Keep in mind that his bid, being merely a compulsory response to your own double, means nothing at all. As you have no means of knowing whether or not your partner's response was made on strength just short of a jump response or on a "bust," you are usually in a dilemma after receiving a minimum response to your take-out double. It is unsafe with a really strong hand to pass such a response, and equally unsafe to raise it unless reasonably sure of your ground. To give even one raise after a partner's minimum response to your take-out double, you should have exceptional trump support with about 5 assisting tricks—6 is a better margin of safety when vulnerable.

When Your Partner Has Been Doubled

When your partner's suit bid has been over-called with a take-out double by the next opponent, if you have normal trump expectancy with a total of four or more assisting tricks, give the maximum raise which your hand affords.

A thoroughly sound bid at no trumps, or in some other suit, can of course be shown. But do not venture a weak take-out, which might be doubled and fare badly in this position. If your partner's bid was at no-trump and you hold about 2 1/2 honor-tricks, your best recourse lies in a redouble, as previously explained.

When a player has made a bid which has been doubled by the adversary on his left, passed by his partner and by the next adversary (for a penalty) he can, if in serious difficulties, send out an S O S to his partner. This call for help is made with a redouble, which his partner must never read as a strength signal but as a cry: "Rescue me from this predicament."

The rescue redouble is seldom used when a player has opened with a suit bid, but is often resorted to by a no trump bidder to call for his partner's help. The partner should bid his best suit.

Penalty Doubles

It is most important that the penalty double should never be confused with the take-out double, because the latter calls on the partner of the doubler to make a bid, whereas the former says:

"Partner, leave me in. I am sure that I can set the bid or I should not have doubled. We will collect extra penalty points for every trick that our opponent falls short of his contract."

Rarely should you interfere with your partner when he makes a penalty double. Remember that a bid of more than one no trump can never be doubled except for a penalty, but that a suit bid of one or two may be doubled for a take-out.

There is but one type of penalty double which the less experienced player should use with any degree of latitude. This is what is known as a "free" double. The free double occurs when an opponent's bid, if successful, would give him the game whether or not it was doubled.

Because a bid is rated as "free," however, is no reason why it should be rashly or injudiciously doubled. On a doubtful double of any bid, the percentage is against you owing to the increase of trick values. When the outcome is a close question remember that the odds are greatly in favor of the bidder should he redouble.

To safeguard the doubler, the forcing system provides the two trick rule: Any penalty double must be based on the expectation of setting the opponent two tricks.

Denver Boy is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying waste held too long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc. It gives them a hearty appetite, regulates their stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. For over fifty years, leading physicians have prescribed it for half-sick, bilious, constipated children. More than 4 million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 3835 1/2 Wolff St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackie, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup. It fixed him up quick, gave him a good appetite, made him sleep fine and he's been gaining in weight right along since the first few days, taking it."

To avoid inferior imitations of California Fig Syrup, always look for the word "California" on the carton.

Hit Wood
Don Bradman, the Australian cricket champion now playing in America, tells this one: At a village match in England the local butcher was battling when a ball bumped up and hit him on the head, from which the wicket keeper made a catch.

"Out!" yelled the umpire.

"But it's off my head, not my bat," protested the player.

"I don't know where it 'it you,'" responded the umpire, "but I know the sound of wood, so hout you go."

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

A lady from Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat, too."

To take off fat—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen—Salts—in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.

Peter B. Kyne

Peter B. Kyne needs no introduction to any American reader. His stories are in demand by editors of every popular periodical and magazine in the nation, and he is a contributor to most of them. Aside from his work as a writer he has had an interesting career from which he gleaned many experiences, the incidents of which have been used in much of his writings. He was born in San Francisco in 1880, and married in Des Moines, Iowa, in 1910. In his youth he worked as a clerk in a general merchandise store, then held jobs in a wholesale lumber company and in a shipping concern. He quit mercantile lines to become a newspaper reporter, and followed that line for some years both before and after his enlistment in the regular army in 1908. As a member of Company I, Fourteenth United States Infantry, he served throughout the period of the war with Spain and was with his regiment when it was a part of the third expedition to the Philippine Islands. During the World war he was a captain in the One Hundred and Forty-Fourth field artillery. As a writer he has produced a long list of "best sellers," including such unusually popular works as the "Cappy Rick" stories, "Webster—Man's Man," "The Valley of the Giants," "Green Pan Pirate," and "Jim the Conqueror," which is to appear serially in our columns.

"I dislike winter," says a local man recently. "The only thing I can say about cold weather is that Radio reception is excellent."

We notice in one of the daily papers where Calvin Coeldige and Al Smith have their pictures taken side by side. Q-u-a-r bedfellows!
