

LOCAL MENTION

The courteous, smiling Judge Harry Owens is on the bench at the District Court this week in the absence of Judge Freuger, who is now in Minneapolis, with his mother, who is very ill. Judge Owens can smile as well in giving a person a lifetime sentence as when he sets you free, so you can't tell what he'll do by that natural smile.

T. J. Simer was in Carrizozo Wednesday night from Capitan, coming through 25 miles during a sandstorm to attend the 118th observance of the I. O. O. F.

Al Hunter, Norris and Ed Cadwallader were here from Alamogordo Monday interesting in some court matters coming up before this term.

George Skinner of Portales came in Monday morning on his way to California, to bring back a load of oranges. Wanting a companion for the trip, he asked his cousin, Gordon Skinner, who gladly consented to accompany him. They left shortly before noon on Monday and will return in two weeks.

Rev. Ed Smith, the rector of the Episcopal Church at Fort Stanton, was in Carrizozo Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kelley and Mrs. C. M. Prior made a trip to El Paso Saturday, staying over and returning home Sunday evening.

The Nickles sisters, Margaret and Dorothy, who have been quite ill for the past few weeks, are reported to be gaining slowly. Margaret won the Declamatory Contest for Lincoln County and attended the District Contest. Having no competitor, she was eligible to enter the state contest, but her continued illness prevented her from attending that event which took place at Santa Fe last Saturday. Dorothy will be Valedictorian of the 8th Grade Class Commencement exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hendren of Fort Stanton spent Sunday with the T. E. Kelley family.

J. A. Brubaker, who has been confined in the Johnson Hospital for several weeks with pneumonia, was taken to his home in Capitan Monday.

Mothers' Day Program May 11

As mentioned in an article in this paper last week, a Mothers' Day observance will be held on Wednesday evening at the Lyric Theatre under the auspices of Carrizozo Lodge No. 80, I. O. O. F., with Prof. D. U. Groce of the Carrizozo Schools in charge of same.

There will be music both instrumental and vocal, with Attorney John E. Hall delivering the principal address of the evening. A picture will be shown, all of which will be free to the public.

A box will be erected at the entrance of the theatre, where the public may, if so desired, drop charitable donations, and such contributions will be turned over to the municipal relief committee of which Mayor George T. McQuillen is Chairman.

The program in full will appear next week. You are invited.

ANCHO NOTES

Mrs. Bryan Hightower entertained with a unique bridge party Friday, April 15. As soon as all the members arrived, they were told the deuces were running wild. The fun was on and everyone was busy looking for deuces, each deuce found being counted 100 points on the bridge scores. After a few hands were played, the hostess announced an earthquake was about to take place, and all players were told to exchange score cards. The playing proceeded until a second shock when the cards were returned to their original owners. A delicious salad course with cake and coffee were served. After a most pleasant evening, the guests departed at a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Miller are the proud parents of an eight-pound baby boy, born April 23.

The Nick family left Thursday for Oklahoma, where they will make their future home.

Charles Goss returned Sunday from El Paso, where he went in the interest of the wood yard now being established there by the Goss Brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Lynn returned overland to Dill, Okla., last week.

The Ellis boys gave a dance Saturday night at the Schoolhouse. Pie and coffee were served.

Mrs. S. J. Pruett entertained a few ladies at Bridge Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Pruett will be hostess to the Ancho Bridge Club Friday evening, May 6.

The Ancho Woman's Club has failed to have a meeting for a couple of months, due to inclement weather and sickness among the members. For the same reasons, no Delegates attended the District meeting at Alamogordo, though several had planned on making the trip. The next meeting will be with Mrs. S. J. Pruett, Saturday, May 7.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Jones and P. M. Bailey of El Paso were guests of the Warden and Hightower families last week, and attended the dance at the schoolhouse Saturday night.

Mmes. Warden and Hightower made a trip to Carrizozo Monday, the 25th. Mrs. Warden attended to school matters before the County Board.

A letter received from Mrs. Frame, now in San Francisco, announces that she expects to return to Ancho for a prolonged stay about July 1. Mr. Frame, now on his vacation in San Francisco, will return to Ancho about May 10, after spending a few days at Monahans visiting his mother and at Odessa where his son Paul is railroad agent for the T. & P.

The S. J. Pruett family and Mrs. Belknap were Carrizozo visitors last Sunday evening, to see Will Rogers in "Ambassador Bill" at the local theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Pruett and Grover Pruett, who have claims in the Jicarilla district, attended a meeting of the miners' at the Jicarilla schoolhouse last Friday night. Mr. L. P. Hall and daughter Miss Louise were also present.

Clean-Up Time

Jicarilla Jots

The Jicarilla mining district is being settled rapidly by miners and locators coming every day. Last October there were 11 people residing here. There are around 150 at present.

Floyd Ellis and associates have their equipment in operation and report that they are getting along nicely.

Mr. Rice and associates have just completed their Lolly Washer System, it being the only one in the Jicarillas, and are now ready to operate on a very large scale. They would be in operation now had it not been for the cold spell which froze the water pipes. Mr. Rice is located in Warner's Gulch and is a very prosperous and experimental miner, having followed the game for years in South America, United States, Canada and Alaska. His associates are Messrs. Metz, Pitt and Bolt.

Charles White and associates, O. B. Crawford and Walter Nemity are located in West Gulch and report that they are now ready to operate and have a very promising outlay.

Orbery and Gene Crawford have started digging on their claims, and will soon be able to report as to their findings.

Harmon Crawford and Mr. Howards have moved to their new home in Warner's Gulch.

Mr. Baton, of the El Paso Smelters Co., is a new locator in West Gulch.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hall and daughter Mary Louise of Ancho attended our meeting Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dodson have located in the Jicarillas and are associated with Hayden Brown and Lee Ritter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wade and Miss Katherine Dennis made a business trip to Roswell Monday.

E. L. Ozanne, old-timer here, is confined to his home with a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ritter spent a week in Roswell on business. They returned accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dodson, who formerly operated the Orchard Camp service station at Roswell.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connor of Roswell spent Saturday and Sunday here visiting Mr. O'Connor's brother, Hugh, at Hoe-craddle Gulch.

Messrs. Franklin and Baird, who have been mining in Mexico, are looking for lode property in the Jicarillas.

Messrs. Price, Barker and Crouch made a business trip to Carrizozo Monday.

The Ancho school children are

Nogal Nuggets (Lenora I. Cochran)

J. L. Gatewood and A. B. Helms made a business trip to Sierra County the first of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Long and mother visited the J. Cochran family Sunday.

The dance last Saturday was a "fighting" success.

Arthur May visited relatives in Nogal last week.

Webb Zumwalt and family were here from California last week visiting relatives.

Maynard Hust, who has been visiting his uncle and aunt in Nogal, has returned to his home in Las Cruces.

"Jinks" Graven made a business trip to Roswell the early part of the week.

Cap Henley, an old-timer around here, was in Nogal Monday.

Sears Crockett, rancher from across the Malpais, was greeting old friends in Nogal Monday.

Benefit Dance

There will be a big dance at Community Hall tomorrow night, April 30, for the benefit of the Carrizozo High School Athletic Association. Music will be furnished by the "Sunshine Serenaders," and admission will be 75c to dancers and 25c to spectators.

The association's fund is very low at present, and the people are asked to please attend this dance and help revive the fund.

Johnno Wells spent last Sunday with his Carrizozo friends. Johnno has a nice ranch near Fort Sumner, but remembers us now and then with a much-appreciated visit. Johnno will be better remembered as Ted Wells, the western movie star.

planning a picnic in the Jicarillas soon. We cordially invite them and have appointed a reception committee to show them the process of washing gold in placer mining.

FORT STANTON NEWS

Professor Eustace L. Furlong of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, was a visitor here on business of exploring the Fort cave. He was accompanied by Ronald Reith, who acted as guide. Only a few fossils of prehistoric animals were found, as the search was checked by a rise of the subterranean river. On Sunday, Reith, for the first time revealed the location of the other entrance, when he directed Rev. Smith and the professor to the place. Reith and Prof. Furlong went down thru the narrow opening, but Rev. Smith could not squeeze himself in and had to wait outside until they returned.

An accident which could have proved fatal happened one night last week to Perry Hightower, when he, using a small kerosene lamp for illumination, tried to fill the gas tank on his car. The tank blew up with a terrific explosion, setting fire to the wheel rear of the car. Perry's old pal, Willie (Chihuahua) Hansen, who was an eye witness, relates how Perry, with his hair ablaze, threw buckets of water on the sputtering fire and finally put it out. Willie hurried to the rescue and extinguished the flames which enveloped his friend.

Many Fort people are regularly attending the dances at Ruidoso and all look for a great season there this summer.

It is rumored that a secret sect exists in that vicinity, with a large membership, who are united by a common attachment to the worship of a deity in the ancient Roman mythology named Bacchus. During one of their secret ceremonies, your correspondent, in search for news, managed to crash the gate disguised as a bootlegger. "Mingling with the crowd he was approached by one of the brothers who offered him a swig from a flask containing a liquid used by the sect as a sacramental wine, called "Mountain Dew," which he politely refused, knowing that the product has not as yet been endorsed and recommended by physicians, like Fleishman's yeast and Lucky Strike cigarettes.

"Mountain Dew" is often erroneously and confusedly referred to by the vulgar name "Moonshine," which is an inferior imitation of the former product and does not come up to the high standards of mind soothing, joy inspiring and strength giving qualities which characterizes the former and besides that it leaves one with a terrible headache. Efforts have been made to persuade Dr. Nelson of the Fort to endorse it as a medical tonic, but he is rather skeptical because the free sample sent him by the dealer exploded when he got too close to it with his cigar.

Lloyd Hulbert of Lincoln put in a portion of this week here, being on the petit jury. He was released Wednesday and returned home late in the afternoon. Lloyd operates a school truck in the lower valley and during his three years of service, he has never been late but once, and that was due to a mishap to his truck which only occasioned a slight delay. Mr. Hulbert was a member of the County Board of Commissioners a few years ago.

Mesdames Barry and James of Fort Stanton were visitors in town last Saturday.

WHITE OAKS NOTES

The storm of last week prevented the regular meeting of the Friday Night Club.

Due to the death of Miss Gertrude Leslie, the social scheduled for next Friday has been cancelled.

Miss Minnie Schale has returned to El Paso after visiting her sister, Mrs. W. Van Schoyck. Tommy Cook attended the I. O. O. F. meeting at Carrizozo Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gage have returned from Corona where they visited Mrs. Gage's mother.

Music at the funeral services of Gertrude Leslie was furnished by the Misses Evrard and Herringa with Miss Melas at the organ. Obituary on page 8 of this paper.

Rolland-Corn

Jano Spencer came in Saturday from the State University, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Poe Corn, Mrs. Corn being the former Miss Margie Rolland, and this statement calls for an explanation. On September 15, 1931, Miss Rolland and Mr. Corn were united in marriage, but both being students of the University, the wedding was to be kept a secret until the term was out, but the secret is out now and their friends are pleasantly surprised.

The new Mrs. Corn is a native of Lincoln County, born and reared here and graduated from our High School with the highest of honors, after which she entered the University at Albuquerque and is just ending her second term. She is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rolland of Rolland's Drug Store and her friends in this community are legion. Possessed of a natural, friendly disposition and many becoming accomplishments, Mr. Corn has secured one of the principal prizes of Carrizozo.

The groom is a native of Roswell. He graduated from High School and like his esteemed wife, entered the University where aside from his studies, he has been the leading football star for the seasons of 1930-31-32 and graduates with a B. A. Degree.

As to where the young couple will reside after the "U" term is ended, we are not informed at the present time, but presumably, it will be at Roswell. The Outlook joins with the many friends of both parties in wishing them the best of everything.

Estanislao Belio, the smiling woolgrower from the Gran Quivera country, was a business visitor here Wednesday. He said he would begin the lambing season in dead earnest about May 5.

COOKING FOR INVALIDS

NEARLY every home maker at some time in her life finds it necessary to cook for and prepare food for a convalescent who cannot eat the food prepared for the family.

The returning strength and good health of the invalid depends in a large measure on the food which he eats and assimilates. His appetite should be tempted.

Custard should be velvety as cream if it is to be served; one that is overcooked and separated into whey should be eaten by some other member of the family and a fresh one prepared for the one who is ill.

For the person who is ill in bed, the meal time should be the joyous time of the day, an oasis in the monotony of the long day.

It is worth while to bring to bear upon this matter all the artistic ingenuity one possesses, as variety and element of surprise and making the tray and all food appealing to the eye, are most important.

Never serve an invalid pie or pudding which is rich and not easy of digestion. Pastry is for those who are well and able to digest it. One may purchase small cartons of junket tablets, of various flavors or the plain ones. Add, after dissolving in a tablespoonful of water to milk that has been warmed, flavor and sweeten and pour into a pretty cup or sherbet glass to stiffen. If cream is allowed, a spoonful will top the junket when served. Have all such foods nicely chilled and garnished.

A LITTLE WHILE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A LONG, long time is soon a little while, And every footstep makes a shorter mile. If we would think in days instead of years, Yes, even minutes as each day appears.

No time would then be long, or journey far, Whatever are our days, how few they are! So step by step I try to walk my way, Accept my sorrow, and with joy be gay.

Each day is shorter as the sun ascends, And never yet a journey but it ends. I try to live each minute more and more, Climb hills when I come to them, not before.

And so each mile has roses here and there; Then, if the journey's long, I do not care. And so each minute has some beauty in, Some treasure that I need not wait to win.

Wait not for tardy time some gift to give— How much there is in life if life we live!

Red Fox Destroys Many Farm Pests

Cats may get the glory, but the red fox is the mouser par excellence, his capacity for field mice and other noxious rodents apparently knows no limits, according to Prof. W. J. Hamilton, Jr., of Cornell University, who has studied the contents of the stomachs of nearly 1,000 fox-bearing animals to learn their feeding habits.

The fox is fond of fruits, and eats many berries during the summer and fall months. As winter approaches, his diet is restricted largely to mice and rabbits, both of which are serious farm pests. Woodchucks become prey for foxes when they emerge from their winter's sleep. Reynard plays havoc with the young woodchucks, and the baby foxes grow fast on such a diet.

Professor Hamilton says protective measures will be necessary if the red fox is to survive for future generations. It would seem only fair to protect the fox when the mother is with young. The fox is one of the finest game animals and furnishes many citizens sport and profit yearly. He more than atones for the few birds he kills by his year-round destruction of mice and other rodents.

Steam Ore Process

The discovery of a new process of extracting valuable minerals from worthless rock without the labor and expense of first pulverizing the entire ore is announced by Chief Engineer R. S. Pigeon's Nest Blew In

A citizen of Lewiston, Maine, keeps the window of his bedroom open all the time. Going up to bed one night he was astonished to see a heap of what appeared to be rubbish on the smooth counterpane of his bed. Looking more closely he saw that the mess of straw and sticks was really a nest, a pigeon's nest. But there was more to it than that. There was an egg in the nest.

Where Does She Get Her "Pep?"

SHE doesn't look seventy. Nor is that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy!

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, simply sluggish. But why endure a condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a family doctor's prescription. So, if you're tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell the druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a bit of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your lazy liver is again active, and your bowels are poison-free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon strengthened out when they get this prescriptional preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous, and absolutely free from constipation.

Lifelong Warfare

on Insect Pests

Award of the Copper gold medal "for distinguished service to agriculture," carrying an honorarium of $5,000, has been made to Dr. L. O. Howard, a government bug expert who, on a small official salary, has waged a lifelong battle against insect pests.

"He has made a great contribution to the present and future happiness of the American people," says the Woman's Home Companion in its announcement of the award. "He has for years been fighting the greatest of all wars—the war against insects. Insects, as he has shown, steal two billion dollars a year from us. They nullify the labor of a million men. They reached their development a millions of years ago. We are the newcomers on earth and our foot-told is not yet sure. Doctor Howard believes that it is still possible that in some distant future the last living thing on the expiring earth may be a bug feeding on the last bit of plant life. Thus far, indeed, the insects have held their own against us. But we cannot doubt that mankind will eventually win."

Skillful Railroad

A thrilling race between the fore and hind quarters of a freight train took place on a steep gradient near London, England, after the train broke in two. The engineer, fearing that the last half would crash into the front part and derail it, immediately put on speed, and for four miles there followed a breath-taking race to prevent a crash. Finally, the derailed cars came to a standstill on a level part of the track and the engine backed and hooked them on again.

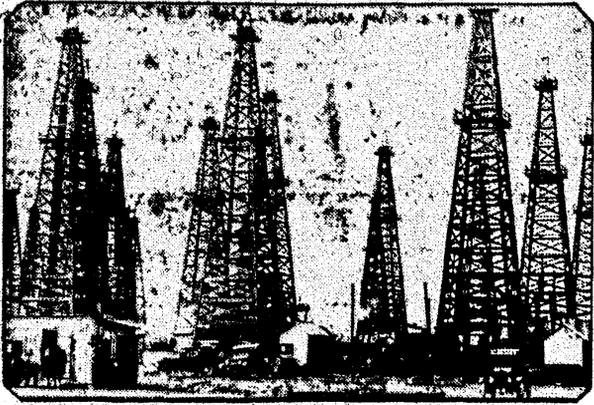

For 100 Health

There is something vibrant and magnetic about the truly healthy man or woman, who is satisfied and contented with life. That "something" attracts people. Wins confidence. Arouses and holds affection. This vitality and enthusiasm of youth are priceless. Guard them with Fellows' Syrup, the fine old tonic which doctors recommend. It restores and strengthens. Improves appetite. You sleep better and feel better. Your vigor and endurance return. For just one week, try Fellows' Syrup, which you can get at your druggist. The results will amaze and delight you.

FELLOWS' SYRUP

Texas Goes Forward

Group of Oil Wells in Texas.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.)

WHILE scientists are penetrating the black depths of caves in Texas to trace the lives of their early occupants—among America's oldest inhabitants—the Lone Star state swiftly marches in the opposite direction toward modern progress.

Texas is so big! So big that some one said the people of El Paso jeer at those of Galveston as being effete pasterners. In terms of people, area, animals, crops, and natural wealth she is so big and her regional interests are so diverse that she has outgrown her very constitution, as a boy outgrows his pants. Laws good for east Texas may be bad for west Texas. States policies agreeable to the natives on the lower Rio Grande may cause grief and pain to those hundreds of miles away in the vast Panhandle.

Merely to confound the newcomer, the native himself takes delight in mentioning casually that his state could swallow up more than 213 Rhode Islands and have a large area left over and that it is farther from El Paso to Beaumont than it is from New York to Chicago. Her governor rules more territory than any king or premier of Europe has in the continental limits of his country, Russia alone excepted. Were Texas as densely settled as Massachusetts, she'd have more than 131,000,000 people. In Texas more native Americans, starting only with hard hands, strong wills, and great energy, have built up a vast, rich and powerful commonwealth.

The human tide to Texas, so far, has been steady, but never in any sense a great migration. When Stephen F. Austin founded his famous colony on the banks of the Brazos, a little more than 100 years ago, the Texas population, including Mexicans and Indians, was probably not more than 8,000 or 10,000. In the next quarter of a century the state had only 100,000 white inhabitants and 35,000 slaves. Not till railroads began to spread, in the seventies, was its growth at all rapid. In the last 20 years it has gained more than 2,000,000.

From the Middle Western states, since 1920, more than 100,000 people have come each year to settle in Texas. Of these immigrants, 80 per cent have settled in towns and cities. The remaining 14 per cent, going to the country, have put close to 2,000,000 acres of new land into crops. Since the end of the World war, it is estimated that probably 600,000 people have settled on new farms in the vast Panhandle region.

Less Than Half Cultivated.
The enormous agricultural potentiality of Texas is shown by the fact that, although less than half of her arable land has been put under cultivation, yet in a good year she produces a billion-dollar crop.

More than a billion dollars' worth of oil has been produced in Texas in five years and the state probably has more lignite, or brown coal, than the whole famous Ruhr region of Germany. Her deposits run into billions of tons. No one knows how much. Her industrial population, though long of minor consequence, is now increasing fast.

With her abundant oil, gas lignite, iron ore, and other minerals, the resulting gradual increase of trade and industry is bound to bring substantial growth to certain Texas cities.

On the maps of the United States used by the general staff at Washington certain little flags are flying. They indicate the strategic cities of America, such as New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and San Antonio, Texas. Besides its place on the map, among the things which give a city strategic importance are safe and adequate food and fuel, in easy reach, and ample transport. In these respects San Antonio, as well as Houston and Dallas, is well supplied.

To a singular degree, east Texas, with her oil, lignite, and other minerals, her lumber, her excellent means of transport, and her easy access to vast meat, grain and natural gas supplies, is a strategic spot whereon it is easy to visualize a great southwestern city.

Already Houston is conspicuous. It is the greatest spot-cotton market in the world. On its ship canal it has huge storage for export oil and grain—grain sent from Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska for Liverpool and Europe. Fed by 17 railroads and served by numerous steamship and tanker lines, it trades with the world. Its destiny is one of large possibilities.

Bigger and Better Cattle.
In all the kaleidoscopic industrial transitions that are sweeping so much of our South and West, nothing has changed more completely than the Texas cattle ranches. Today the original high-speed Texas longhorn, that streak of hoofs, horns and yellow hide that used to run with the deer and wild mustangs, is practically extinct. Yet, in his time, he was the basis of vast fortunes.

With the banished longhorn there also passed from this wild-cattle arena most of those rollicking, hard-riding, quick-shooting heroes whose names still live in the old cowboy ballads. When barbed wire was invented, romance and adventure died—on the Texas plains. Freedom was no more.

As to Texas, the climatic, geographic, floral fact remains that she is still the biggest natural cow pasture in the United States. At this very minute millions of bulky bovines are quietly feeding and fattening inside the wire fences of Texas.

Bigger and better meat-bearing animals—that is the modern Texas cowboy's slogan. Gradually building up the herds—no yearly models but constantly improved. To get a husky, fever-resisting beast for the low coast lands, the canny Texans have crossed their native cattle with the great humped Brahmins of India. In good years the Fort Worth market alone will receive more than 1,000,000 cattle, as well as, perhaps, 1,250,000 calves, sheep, and hogs.

Measured in dollars and cents, Texas cotton is above cattle. Cotton, in Texas, is above everything. But nothing is above cattle in the sentiments and memories of Texans. To keep alive and spread the fame of Texas cow kingdoms, 32 historic cattle brands have been carved on the walls of Garrison hall, newest building on the campus of the state university. When Cabeza de Vaca crossed Texas in 1535 the Indians gave him garments of cotton. From the few plants of those early days there has developed a production of astounding magnitude. At times Texas' crop has amounted to more than 40 per cent of all cotton grown in the United States. In the record year, 1920, it reached the amazing total of 5,530,531 600-pound bales.

Taking a leaf from the book of North Carolina, Texas is beginning to build up her most obvious industry, the cotton mill. She enjoys three of the most vital factors for their profitable operation: adequate labor, cotton "at the gate of the cotton patch," and fuel for power.

Developing Its Resources.
Like North Carolina, also, Texas is settling about methodically to make the most of all her natural gifts. The newly formed Society for the Scientific Development of Texas Natural Resources is just what its name implies.

Vast as many resources of Texas are known to be, further surveys must yet be made to determine the best local industrial use of the many mineral deposits which exist. Already the annual mineral production, exclusive of oil, is valued at $70,000,000. Take potash. A thorough survey of the Texas deposits may reveal enough of these salts to make the United States forever independent of the present French-German potash monopoly.

Texas produces $50,000,000 of net surplus wealth each year. It is the aim of the Scientific society, by publishing freely the results of its surveys, to add this home capital in the development of mining and industry.

Texas, never a territory, entered the Union on her own terms. Shrewdly, she kept title to her own public lands. Half this vast domain she gave to her schools. Her university received more than two million acres. Oil found on these lands has made the University of Texas very rich.

Hosts of Americans have seen Texas from the windows of transcontinental trains. To such train riders it seems largely a flat, dry, almost treeless country. That's the fault of men who located the railroads. Parts of Texas, like the great barrancas of the Panhandle, or the Santa Helena gorge in Brewster county, are wild and picturesque. Cross-country train trippers killing time at bridge between Kansas City and Los Angeles, see nothing of these rougher, wilder regions. Likewise, by hundreds of miles, they miss the verdant, fruitful, subtropic Gulf coast, with its palms and beaches, its pleasure resorts, and its busy, growing tourist-traffic. From all over the Middle West increasing numbers of visitors go now each winter to Galveston, Corpus Christi, and other Gulf towns.

Farther south and along the Rio Grande, between Laredo and Brownsville, has developed rapidly a vegetable and citrus-growing region of wealth and importance.

WILL BE ISOLATED IN CANADIAN NORTH

Lonely Year Scheduled for Scientific Party.

Great Britain's share in next year's celebration of the jubilee of the Polar year will mean the isolation of a small party of scientific observers for about a year at a station in the north of Canada. During those winter months they will have no contact with the outside world. They are unlikely even to be in wireless communication. Their only transport will be dog sledges and their only chance of getting fresh food will depend on the success with which they can use the snow and ice for the purpose of refrigeration.

The party will go to their lonely post on the most northerly arm of the Great Slave lake as soon as the ice breaks up at the end of June. They will reach the settlement of Fort Rae in time to make preparations and do some bartering with the Indians before the winter settles down again on this wild country and the Indians go off once more on the trail for the pelts by which they make a living. Some of them may drift back to the settlement again toward Christmas time and may have moose and caribou flesh to barter for flour or implements. If that can be kept fresh by burying it in the snow the party's rations will be the more varied and nutritious, but if the cold storage is unsatisfactory they will have to content themselves with tinned goods. They will be living in an Indian reserve and will therefore not be at liberty to shoot the only animals which might serve as food.

This settlement is little farther north than the Shetlands, yet it is one of the coldest places in the world. In the winter it is not unusual to find from 100 to 110 degrees of frost. Fort Rae is a very primitive settlement. It consists of a Hudson's Bay trader, one rival trader who is an Assyrian and another who is a Russian, one Canadian mounted policeman, and a Roman Catholic missionary. It is open to the rest of the world for about six weeks from the beginning of July, and even then it cannot be reached by any regular transport service.

Just the Scallops

The B family was enjoying a turkey dinner with all the "trimmings" and, of course, scalloped oysters were included. When they were passed to Kathleen, she was asked whether she would like to have some scalloped oysters. She replied:

"Well, I don't care for the oysters, but I will have some of the scallops."

A man who has enough work to do, so that every day there is come let over, ought to be happy, but he seldom knows it.

Marine Band to Play Our Favorite Songs

Eight numbers, favorites that have been harmonized by song lovers all over America, have been chosen by the United States Marine Band for the broadcast over an NBC-WJZ network during the National 4-H club program Saturday, May 7. Grouped together under the title of "America's Favorite Songs," the numbers will be played by the famous musical organization, and the story of each will be told by R. A. Turner, central states 4-H club leader.

Topping the list, there's that favorite of many years and many states, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." Its melodic tones by the Marine band will indicate the beginning of the sixth program of the series on "Learning to Know America's Music."

The happy homes and charms of another state, Kentucky, are depicted in the second number, "My Old Kentucky Home," which will be followed with "I'll Take You Home, Kathleen."

Two famous classics, "O Promise Me" and "The Rosary," are next included in the list of America's favorites. Following these, the Marine band will play the sweet harmonious melody of "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

"A Perfect Day" and "On the Road to Mandalay" complete the numbers which will be played for the enjoy-

Franklin "Wonder Man" of Eighteenth Century

Biographers have written about Franklin an American. Professor Fay presents not only the American but also the man of the world—the first bourgeois in the world. Search the annals of the Eighteenth century from beginning to end in every corner of the world; nowhere will you find such a figure. Franklin's accomplishments are simply astounding. He did not live in an age of special ization. He was a master of many trades.

He was at once the leading journalist in America, printer and publisher of a far-famed almanac, internationally known scientist, inventor of the first wood-burning stove and a dozen other comfort-giving and useful appliances, the best swimmer in America, founder of the first public library in America, founder of the University of Pennsylvania and various learned societies, diplomat par excellence, master propagandist and pamphleteer, early advocate of world peace, Constitution maker, politician, philosopher—and a man among men. —Baltimore Sun.

To every mother who can't nurse her baby... NEWS!

When a mother's milk fails, nothing is more important than this—to be sure that the food that goes into her baby's bottle gives him just what he needs to make him rosy and healthy now, and build him a firm foundation for future health.

Test made with fifty babies
Recently, two physicians—specialists in baby diet—conducted a test with fifty average babies, to throw new light on this subject. The food tested is one unique infant feeding history. Next to mother's milk, it has raised more babies than any other food in the world. Over a period of 75 years, it has given millions their start in life. Throughout America, there are healthy babies, children, grown-ups, to prove the value of this amazingly digestible food. Yet never before had scientists put this famous food—Eagle Brand Milk—to such a thorough, controlled, scientific test. What would such a test reveal?

Simple diet proves builder of 100% babies

For months, the two physicians fed those fifty babies on Eagle Brand—checking with closest care every detail of their health and growth. Bone structure was studied with the X-ray. Tooth development was watched. Weight and height were periodically recorded. Blood tests were made... And those fifty Eagle Brand babies, judged by every known test, proved themselves splendidly nourished. This simple diet—Eagle Brand, with merely the usual supplementary foods—had proved equal to the building of a 100% baby. Now, science joins the millions of mothers who say, "We have our proof that Eagle Brand Milk is a truly valuable and effective food for a baby." If you cannot nurse your baby, try Eagle Brand. Easy to prepare—merely add boiled water. Always pure, safe, free from dangerous germs. Keeps indefinitely in any climate. Simple feeding directions are on the label.

*The usual supplementary foods, of course, are orange or tomato juice, and cod-liver oil or other source of the anti-rachitic Vitamin D.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

What Have the Democrats to Offer?

Back biting, snarling, criticizing, blaming and ridiculing—that sums up the whole campaign propaganda of the Democratic party. In the three years of depression—world wide in its effect—the Democratic party has offered nothing. It has been too intent on finding fault with the President to set forth any principles or suggestions which would be of help to the country. It has harped continually on the great number of people out of work, yet it has offered no remedy to help the situation.

There may have been isolated Democratic leaders offering concrete suggestions, but the party as a whole has been too intent on damning the administration to think in a constructive and helpful manner.

Now, if that is the situation at a time when the country needs every ounce of constructive help to bring about better material conditions for the people, how would the election of a fault finding, snarling, ridiculing and self centered Democratic help conditions?

This much is true. The Republican party has gone through nearly four years of depression. It has attempted by every conceivable means to alleviate the business depression.

Pres. Hoover has worked untiringly. He has shouldered the burden, taken the blame. He has been harshly and severely criticized. Newspaper men have ridiculed him. It has been our experience that many newspaper men have an idea that a man in public life should have no privacy at all; and we suppose because the President doesn't slap a few newspaper men on the back, and ask them to have a drink with him, and invite to dinner, the President is a 'poor sport.'

The trouble in our country, in so far as constituted authority is concerned, is that the daily newspapers primarily have created a scornful opinion of most of our public officials, starting with the President.

Carping and criticizing will do no good. Business is bad. What can we do to offset the depression or to bring back business?

Two ways are open. Shall we re-elect the administration, Pres. Hoover, who has grappled with this stupendous task for four years, and who apparently is slowly but surely bringing us back to better days?

Or shall we turn over the burden of government to the Democratic party, hungry for political pelf, void of constructive legislation, and powerless to give to the people of the country any greater advantage than that which lies at the hands of the Republican party?

The answer is simple.

ADD A LUXURIOUS TOUCH TO YOUR FOOD ECONOMIES

To count our pennies, to keep food budgets down, and yet to provide tempting fare—that is real kitchen art.

That is why chocolate's popularity never wanes. For chocolate gives the simplest, most economical dessert a touch of luxury.

Let chocolate work its magic with such old standbys as rice or bread pudding, and your family will give three cheers for your most economical dishes.

Chocolate Bread Pudding.
¾ squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces
2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
Add chocolate to milk in double boiler; heat. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Combine sugar, salt, eggs. Add chocolate mixture gradually, stirring vigorously. Add vanilla. Place bread in greased baking dish. Pour mixture over it. Place dish in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 to 60 minutes, or until pudding is firm. Serve hot with hard sauce, or cold with cream. Serves 6.

Berkshire Pudding
¾ squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces
2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups ¼-inch cubes stale bread
Add chocolate to milk in double boiler; heat. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Combine sugar, salt, eggs. Add chocolate mixture gradually, stirring vigorously. Add vanilla. Place bread in greased baking dish. Pour mixture over it. Place dish in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 to 60 minutes, or until pudding is firm. Serve hot with hard sauce, or cold with cream. Serves 6.

Chocolate Fruit Pudding
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces
1½ tablespoons granulated gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup dates, seeded and finely cut
¼ cup walnut meats, broken
1 teaspoon vanilla
Add chocolate to milk; heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Soak gelatin in cold water, add sugar and salt; mix well. Add to chocolate mixture; stir until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Strain. Chill until slightly thickened, stirring occasionally. Add fruit, nuts, vanilla. Beat well; turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with sweetened whipped cream. Serves 8.
Serve this dessert the next time you have company—they will win compliments from your guests.

Senate to Rewrite Revenue Bill—Lindberghs Still Hope Despite Double-Crossing—April Market Crash Cost Six Billion Dollars.

The senate will rewrite the billion-dollar tax bill passed by the house, Chairman Reed Smoot of the senate finance committee announced. After a long delay in getting down to business on the budget balancing measure, action at last appears in sight.

Many of the so-called rich provisions of the tax bill may be eliminated in the upper house's revision.

Smoot's announcement followed a bitter partisan debate in the senate committee.

For nearly two hours, Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Senator Harrison, Mississippi Democrat, sparred for political advantage over the revenue measure.

Harrison thought to have Mills submit a tax program which could be labeled an administration bill. Mills declared that the treasury sticks to its original recommendations presented to the house ways and means committee and rejected.

Mills promised to submit to the committee two new proposals, minor modifications in the treasury's first program. These, he indicated, would be for lower taxes on home consumption of gas and electricity, and for a tax on work and mail.

He also told Harrison he would point out specific flaws in the house tax bill and suggest corrections. This action, he warned, could not be considered as offering a treasury program because the treasury is bitterly opposed to the house bill.

The general manufacturers' sales tax so carried in the bill reported by the ways and means committee is acceptable to the treasury, Mills reiterated. He suggested that the treasury would like to have the committee accept a 1 1/2 per cent manufacturers' sales tax, estimated to yield $350,000,000.

Mills was optimistic over the federal economy drive saying a minimum appropriations slash of $200,000,000 is "definitely in sight" in conference between the president and the house economy committee.

The night of April 2 in a lonely corner of St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx.

No word has come from the criminals, however, since the money was paid.

In order that Doctor Condon can pursue his efforts to recover the baby free of official interference, representatives of Colonel Lindbergh have requested Bronx officials not to question him. They agreed to heed the request.

A new and puzzling angle was injected into the mystery when dispatches from London quoted an article in the Daily Mail that some of the ransom bills had been found in the British capital.

Colonel Schwarzkopp revealed that efforts to trace the ransom bills had not provided a clue. A woman was questioned for several hours in Manhattan in the belief that it was she who tendered one of the bills in payment for purchases in a Greenwich (Conn.) bakeshop Monday night. But she finally was released with apologies.

PLANS for retaining the full fighting strength of the United States fleet in the Pacific, while conditions remain unsettled in the Far East, are being considered by administration officials. At present the scouting, as well as the battle force, is operating in Pacific waters. Orders, however, call for the return of the scouting fleet with its big eight inch gun cruisers in May. It is expected these orders will be canceled.

The State department, it is reported, notified Navy department officials that if practicable it would like to have the scouting force retained in the Pacific following the Hawaiian and west coast maneuvers which were concluded several weeks ago. The understanding is that the State department officials took the position that maintenance of the fleet at its full strength in Pacific waters would have a beneficial effect on the far eastern situation.

THE battle over immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus flared in both houses of congress Tuesday as the house ways and means committee began hearings to determine whether the public should be asked to assume an additional two billion four hundred million dollar cash burden to enable the World War veterans to cash their adjusted compensation certificates.

The advocates of legislation permitting veterans to cash in their bonus certificates at once disclosed that they hope to float the bonus law through congress as "a prosperity measure" rather than as simply a bill to advance veterans upwards of two billions in cash. Spokesmen for the bonus law asserted its passage would start the United States back toward prosperity by increasing money in circulation, boosting prices and reducing the value of the dollar.

Shortly after the bonus advocates had had their say the movement for full payment of the bonus was assailed in three quarters. Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Dem., Ark.), senate Democratic leader, issued a statement in which he asserted that payment of the adjusted compensation certificates would produce harmful results. Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey (Dem., Ill.), and Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep., N. Y.), also attacked the bonus laws.

JUSTICE PIERCE BUTLER of the United States Supreme court handed down a decision that throws a further safeguard around the American home against unlawful searches and seizures. The decision affirmed the circuit court's decision that the prohibition agents who raided, on a mere arrest warrant, the New York premises of Daniel M. Lefkowitz and Pauline Paris, used by them as headquarters for receiving bootleg liquor orders, and then took possession of all the papers and documents in the room, were not legally justified in so doing. The Supreme court holds the arrest of Lefkowitz was properly made, but says:

"There is nothing in the record to support the claim that at the time of the arrest the offense for which the warrant was issued or any other crime was being committed in the presence of the officers. The mere soliciting of orders from the room in connection with the other uses alleged in the complaint is not sufficient to constitute the maintenance of a nuisance thereon."

PRESIDENT HOOVER and Governor Roosevelt won favor of the electorate in primary elections and conventions in five states.

In Illinois, although the delegates to the state convention are uncommitted it is believed that a majority of those chosen favor the President. For governor, Judge Henry Horner of Chicago won the Democratic nomination, while the Republicans chose former Gov. Len Small.

In Nebraska's preferential primary, Governor Roosevelt was the winner for the Democratic nomination by a substantial margin. The slate of Republican delegates favors President Hoover, whose name did not appear on the preferential ballot.

The prospects of both President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt were strengthened by the action of three state conventions.

In Missouri the Republican convention instructed the entire state delegation of 45 to vote for Hoover.

The Florida Republican convention pledged nine delegates at large to Hoover. District meetings gave him four more and two other district delegates remain to be chosen.

Kentucky's entire Democratic delegation of 20 was instructed by the state convention for Governor Roosevelt to vote for him as long as his name is before the national convention.

FRANCE does not take a fancy to the American proposals for disarmament as presented by Hugh S. Gibson, the American representative.

Premier Andre Tardieu of France, representing his government, bitterly assailed the plans at the Geneva conference.

Mr. Gibson proposed that tanks, big guns and gases be abolished in the interests of security, but he made no mention of battleships, "the most obvious aggressive weapon," said M. Tardieu. Abolition of certain types of aggressive arms will not necessarily provide security, he said, but might, on the contrary, be disadvantageous to an invaded country. The only means to security, he declared, is common action against an aggressor.

This was generally accepted as a restatement of the French proposal for placing offensive forces at the disposal of the League of Nations.

In any case, the premier reminded the conference, this disarmament meeting is under the auspices of the League of Nations, and he suggested that members of the League keep this in mind.

Mr. Gibson's proposals were in line with plans worked out by Norman H. Davis in conference with President Hoover and Secretary Hines.

Who Was Who?

By Louise M. Comstock.

CALAMITY JANE

SHE started in life as Martha Jane Canary. That was in Missouri in 1852. Over her grave stands a monument which bears the name "Mrs. Jane Burke." That monument is in Deadwood, S. D., where her life ended in 1903. In between those dates is the history of one of the most famous—or notorious—women in frontier history—Calamity Jane, a woman of many husbands and many names, a woman who frequently dressed in men's clothes and held her own with men in men's work in gold camps, in railroad construction camps, in wagon trains and freighters' outfits, in the rough life and dangerous work of taming the wilderness.

Why the "Calamity Jane"? One legend says she saved the life of an army officer during a fight with Indians, and as she carried him safely out of danger he remarked "Jane, you're a wonderful little woman to have around in times of calamity. From now on your name's 'Calamity Jane.'" But that has been proved to be pure myth. For the real reason, take your pick of these (any one or several will do as well as any other): "because she carried guns and was given to inviting calamity"; "because she suffered several buggy-smashing accidents in Cheyenne, Wyo., and was considered unlucky"; "because she bashed the heads of men who displeased her and always brought calamity with her into a camp"; "because of her bedraggled and notoriously down-at-the-heels appearance when returning from her trail expeditions or in liquor"; "because her lovers, sometimes mis-called husbands, developed habits of dying violently."

LIGHTNIN' BILL JONES

TO MOST of us "Lightnin' Bill Jones" lives as Frank Bacon who carried that role in the play "Lightnin'" through a spectacular run of three full years in New York, or as Will Rogers who recently brought it further glory in the talkies, or as any of the hundreds of stock company actors who have shambled and phlozophized through the popular part on neighborhood stages since.

But "Lightnin'" had a real self quite outside of the play he inspired. His name, it has recently been revealed by the Nebraska state department of publicity, was William Wallace Kennedy, "Wall" for short, who lived some sixty years ago in Brownville, Neb. In the early nineties Kennedy left Nebraska and located at Napa, Calif., where he became jailer and guard of a chain gang assigned to general duties about town. "Wall" was a great teller of good yarns, many of which the county clerk wrote up for publication in the local newspaper, among them the story of driving bees across the plains.

The editor of the newspaper was Frank Bacon, who recognized the merit of the stories, conceived out of them the character of their teller and built up about him the framework of his play. "Lightnin'" was published in 1918 under the co-authorship of Winchell Smith and Frank Bacon.

CAPPY RICKS

EVEN as Cappy Ricks, hero of the book by that name and of its sequel "Cappy Ricks Retires," both by Peter B. Kyne, Capt. Robert Dollar enjoyed little more excitement and fame than he has found in real life. His is one of the most romantic stories in the annals of modern commerce, an up-to-date conquest of the Pacific, won with steamships and business sagacity rather than the galleons and broadswords of the past.

Captain Dollar is one of a fast disappearing tribe, sturdy, hard-working capitalists with first-hand training in mining or lumber camps, on the western plains or on shipboard, who in the 80s and 90s rose to take commanding positions in the commercial world. Dollar rose from a lumber camp, where he started in as camp cook, became a pioneer in transpacific trade and in a period of some thirty years has built up a transportation system which is one of the most famous, if not the largest, in the world. "Don't wait for your ship to come in," he used to say. "Just keep sendin' 'em out. They'll come in all right as long as you keep sendin' 'em out." In 1901 Captain Dollar sent his first ship out to the Orient, laden with lumber and brought back in it a cargo of silk and spice, rice and tea. He thus practically opened the stumbling Orient to American trade, which has increased some 300 per cent since that time.

Today a multimillionaire and the best-known American east of the Suez, Captain Dollar resides in San Rafael, Calif., where he lives frugally and personally conducts family religious services daily in his own home.

Famous Painting

"The First Thanksgiving in America" was painted by Jean Leon Gerome Ferris of Philadelphia. It is one of his series of more than 70 subjects from American history, housed in Congress hall, Philadelphia, in a gallery built for that purpose in 1917 by the city of Philadelphia.

Bids for construction work on 19.5 miles of the Winslow-Holbrook highway have been called for. The proposals will be opened April 21. The work begins approximately eleven miles east of Winslow and extends easterly toward Holbrook. It consists of grading, draining and placing of subgrade stabilizer. The project is to be completed by December 31.

Twenty-four hunters of the U. S. Biological Survey killed 215 predatory animals in March, according to a monthly report just released by the bureau. Of this number 152 were coyotes, twenty-nine bobcats, five lions, one wolf and twenty-eight porcupines and miscellaneous animals. J. V. Rutledge was high man for the month with eighteen coyotes and one bobcat to his credit.

President Hoover was urged to take the initiative in advocating legislation that would impose a tariff on copper in a petition, signed by governors of twelve states, mailed to him by Gov. George W. P. Hunt of Arizona. The petition was drafted by the Arizona tariff commission and sent to various governors by the Arizona executive. Those signing it included Governor Sellsman of New Mexico.

If House Resolution No. 1, introduced in a speech before congress by Wright Patman of Texas on Feb. 18 becomes a law veterans of the World War in Gila county will receive $527,582.16, according to a copy of a Congressional record received. If all the adjusted service certificates were paid in cash, it was pointed out by Mr. Patman, it would mean $2,260,000,000 would be necessary.

The Welfare Division of Phoenix, Ariz., which operates on funds supplied by the Community Chest, cares for an average of one hundred and fifty needy families, or about 500 persons, a month. Richard Whitney

The senate banking committee was advised by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, that stock and bond values had depreciated at least six billion dollars during the April collapse in security values.

Testifying as the principal witness in the committee's investigation of short selling on the stock exchange, Mr. Whitney said that the drop in securities values had been as drastic during the past week as during any other period of the depression. He came carried in an estimate by a committee member that stock market and bond issues from the peak of high prices in 1929 had dropped $43,000,000,000.

Mr. Whitney's estimates were made at the conclusion of the second day of the committee's attempt to pin responsibility for recent stock market losses upon the activities of Wall Street bears engaged in short selling operations. At the conclusion of the day's hearing the investigation was adjourned until Monday, when Mr. Whitney is expected to complete before the committee a plain record of the short sales during the last week together with a list of the prominent bears who have been on the short side of the market.

Mr. Whitney vigorously denied that short sales had anything to do with the recent drop in securities values, asserting that widespread liquidation and unsettling business developments rather than bear raids were responsible for the drop. He asserted, and produced figures to prove his point, that during the first week of the April decline, the reduction in stock prices was accompanied by a decline in the short interest or short sales.

In response to questions, Mr. Whitney said he thought between fifteen and twenty million persons were trading on the stock market when the crash came in 1929.

PRESIDENT PAUL VON HINDENBERG

President Paul von Hindenburg was re-elected president of Germany in the run-off election by an overwhelming majority. He issued a proclamation accepting the election and thanked the German people for their renewed expressions of confidence. He pledged himself "to continue to serve my fatherland and folk with all my power."

"True to my oath, I will continue to fulfill my duty of remaining above all parties with justice dominant, and with a fixed desire to help our fatherland to freedom and equality externally, and to unity and progress at home," he said.

The eighty-four-year-old president again urgently appealed to the German people to unite.

"I implore all German men and women, whether they voted for or against me, to cease their wranglings and close their ranks," he said.

"Again, as seven years ago, I appeal to the entire German people to cooperate. It is necessary to unite all powers in order to surmount the present confusion and distress. Only by standing together are we strong enough to master our fate. Therefore, in unity, let us go forward with God."

ADOLF HITLER has been ordered by the German government to disband his army of 400,000 national socialist shock troops and to end terrorizing activities for which it holds them responsible. This decree dissolved immediately all "quasi military organizations" of the national socialist workers party.

THE panic which swept over portions of Argentina and Chile as a result of the eruption of heavy a score of volcanoes in the Andes mountains quickly subsided as the fire and ashes which had belched from the craters diminished. Scientists immediately began an investigation in an effort to discover what had caused the phenomenon. Several parties of seismologists made air surveys of the volcanic regions.

Meanwhile, the great area over which the ashes fell—extending the entire width of the continent from the Pacific coast of Chile to the Atlantic coast of Argentina and Uruguay and about 600 miles wide—looked as if it had been visited by a hot sun storm. At some points the ashes were reported to be lying 14 inches deep.

SYNOPSIS

Exhausted, ragged, and starving, a boy of about sixteen is found in the woods by a camping party. He has fled from his brutal father, Bat Morryson. Bat comes after him, but his new friends conceal him.

CHAPTER I—Continued

Without a word Bat strode off into the darkness. He went not in the direction of High falls but back on the trail toward Dead Creek flow. He was like a wounded panther growling with rage—a veritable child of the darkness in which he walked.

"He won't be comin' back here," Scott declared. "There's a lumber camp down by Grass pond. He'll head for that. He ain't gold' to give up lookin' fer the boy. Bat needs him. The boy could earn many a bottle o' whisky for him this summer."

Bat had not recognized his son. Shad went to bed that night with a deep pity in his heart for the man who was his father, remembering as he did the good days past—of which there were some like starlight in his dark memories. Soon he slept, as only a weary boy can sleep. He awoke refreshed in the morning.

"I'm glad it ain't yesterday no more," he said to Mr. Converse as he was dressing. "I feel better—more like a man."

"You look like a gentleman, and I want you to learn to eat as gentlemen do. Eat slowly and keep your knife away from your face. Use it only to cut your food, and eat with your fork."

"I won't forget your advice," said the boy. "I'd like to be a gentleman." They went to breakfast.

After the meal Mr. Converse turned to the lad saying: "I'll send Uncle Phide down the trail with you to my camp. He'll keep you happy till you're beyond the danger point. Uncle Phide, you take a gun with you and see that he gets there."

When Scott and the boy were ready to set out, the latter in his new clothes

"I Hope He's as Fond of Ladies as He is of Flapjacks."

and mustache. Mr. Converse said to him: "Have you got your money?" "Yes, sir, I've got it planned in my pocket all safe."

"When you get out of the woods, make for St. Lawrence county. It's near Canada. You could jump across the border if necessary and be safe. Take this letter to my friend Colonel Blake. He lives in Canton."

Then Shad and the famous guide began their journey through that winding green aisle in the deep woods from Big Deer Pond to Mud lake. They had gone about a mile when, at a point where the trail sloped down a hillside, the guide stopped suddenly.

"Some one just crossed the trail away down yonder in the valley," he whispered. The guide stood still, looking intently at the point where a moving figure had attracted his attention.

Again he whispered: "It's a man. He's settin' on a log by the side of the trail. He doesn't see us. Come on. If it's yer father I may stop a minute, but you walk right on as if ye'd never seen him before."

Within five minutes they came upon Bat Morryson sitting at the trail-side. The boy, walking ahead, had assumed a slight limp to disguise his gait.

Bat greeted him saying: "Hello, stranger."

Shad made no reply. "He's deaf and dumb, an' ye might as well talk to that log yer sittin' on," said Phide Scott as he stopped by the huge Cyclopean Bat.

The boy passed on around a turn in the trail and in a moment was beyond the reach of their vision. In a short time the guide overtook him.

"He mistrusts that you're back at my camp," said Scott. "He's heard at Grass Pond that Converse is over with me. He's made up his mind that the lookin' for some breakfast," the man answered.

"I am kind o' hungry." "Well, hunger is like every other good thing. It can be carried too far. You can let go of it as soon as I have put out these cattle. I'm hungry myself."

"I'm awful hungry," said the boy. "I've got money, to pay for what I eat."

"Look here, did you see that cannon in my yard?" "Yes, sir."

"Well, I shoot it at every man that offers me money for victuals after he's warned. If you've got more money than you want, you can throw some of it into my well."

The cattle began streaming through an open barway into the pasture. When all were entered and the bar up up the man turned to the boy and said:

"Now follow me. We'll tend to Colonel Blake later."

The sun was up. A clear, beautiful summer day had begun. They washed with soap and cold water dipped from a rain barrel at a stand outside the door, and went into the house and sat down at the breakfast table.

They ate in silence, the hired girl bringing their food from a stove. "Look here, papd," said the man. "I'll tell you my name if you'll tell me yours. Names are not important, but in high society they're a help."

"My name is Shad Morryson," said the boy.

"It's quite a mouthful. My name is Alson Blake."

"Be you Colonel Blake?"

"Yes. That's what they call me."

"Here's a letter for you."

Shad drew the letter from his pocket and put it in the colonel's hands. The latter opened and read it.

"Converse! He knows a good thing when he sees it, and I guess he'd know a good boy."

Blake's wife and daughter entered the room with a cheery greeting, and sat down at the table.

"Here's a boy come up the road this mornin'," the colonel said to his wife. "I hope he's as fond of ladies as he is of flapjacks."

Mrs. Blake was a kindly comely woman about forty years of age. The blond, blue-eyed girl was dressed for school.

"This girl Ruth is our Professor of Fun," said the man.

Shad was blushing. He and the girl had taken a quick survey of each other and come to conclusions. The other have a special gift for that. Shad thought that next to a spotted fawn she was the most beautiful creature he had ever seen. When he looked at her it was to discover that she was looking at him. The same was true of the girl. Colonel Blake saw it all and smiled.

In a moment he said to the boy: "We'll go down to the office. I'll give you a letter to a friend of mine over at Amity Dam who told me that he wanted a boy to work in his store."

The colonel and the lad went out-of-doors. It was the tender-hearted, impressionable Mrs. Blake who made all this a part of our history. She called to her husband. He returned to the house.

"Who is that beautiful boy and where did he come from?" the woman asked.

"He's a runaway—a kind of a fugitive slave."

"What a shame! His smiling handsome face has won my heart. Let's keep him here a day or two and give him a chance to rest."

"We'll ask him. I rather guess he'd like it."

So it came about that the boy tarried a day and a night at the red farmhouse. A new experience had come to Shad. Women had been hardy hateful to him. They had been hard to get along with. He had had a poor opinion of them. He felt something immeasurably grateful and wonderful in the motherly, gentle manner of Mrs. Blake and in the beauty and grace of her daughter.

Ruth did not go to school that day. She entertained the boy with the photograph album and with croquet and throwing and catching a ball. They were pleased with all this, but their joy came from a different source; perhaps from looking into each other's eyes and from a singular emotion quite new to them.

At last they sat down very tired in the swing under the big maple tree. "Where is Colonel Blake?" the boy asked.

"Oh, he's gone to town. He's a lawyer. He's the district attorney," the girl answered proudly. "He goes away every morning. Are you going with him tomorrow?"

"Yes, I must go to work."

"Men are so hateful. They're always going to work."

Only Tradition as to Maker of First Flag

It is hard to distinguish between legend and truth about the first American flag, and what Betsy Ross had to do with it. The tradition is that in May, 1777, Washington, accompanied by two of his officers, called upon Mrs. Ross, who operated an upholstering establishment, continuing a business left at the death of her husband, to make a flag of their design, and that this was the first American flag of the official pattern, adopted June 14, 1777. The matter is in dispute, through claims that a flag of the same, or nearly the same, design, had been used before. There is some rivalry for honor associated with the origin of the flag; and confusion wrought by painters and Colonial story writers, who drew upon their imaginations to add interest to the legend, has invited the pressing of some rather nebulous claims. There is no historical account meeting with such approval as to warrant the assertion that it is the truth.

Bird Victims of Fashion
The kittiwake, a member of the gull family that inhabits the Arctic regions of Europe and North America, takes its name from its queer, plaintive cry. These birds grow to a length of from 16 to 18 inches, and are generally white with bluish gray back and wings, yellow beaks and legs of brownish black. They have been ruthlessly slaughtered on the British islands for the millinery trade.

Lesson for May 1 ISAAC AND HIS WELLS

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26:12-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—A soft answer turneth away wrath; but grievous words stir up anger.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Isaac Follows His Father's Example.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Isaac Follows His Father's Example.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Stop Quarrels.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How World Peace is to Be Established.

Isaac was a child of the covenant and was given in the time of the old age of Abraham and Sarah. In fulfillment of God's promise. His name means "laughter." As to character, he was gentle, meek, meditative and peace-loving. He was a remarkable contrast to his father Abraham. Two things may have affected him to his disadvantage:

1. The shadow of an illustrious father. Sons of great and rich men commonly do not make much of life. The necessity of struggle is not forced upon them.
2. He was brought up as the only child of his mother. The tendency in such a case would be to shield him from the necessity of self-effort, so that he would be unable to meet life's stern realities. Every child should be compelled to think for himself and to fight his own battles.

1. Isaac in Gerar (vv. 12-17).
1. The appearance of the Lord unto him (vv. 1-5). Because of famine in the land, Isaac went into the country of the Philistines. The distress upon the land should have moved him to call upon the Lord (James 5:13). It were better to suffer in the land than to go among the enemies of God's people. The Lord graciously appeared to him there and directed him not to go into Egypt, thus avoiding the error of his father. He was permitted to sojourn in the land because it ultimately was to belong to his seed.

2. His lapse (vv. 7-11). He yielded to the same temptation as did Abraham many years before (Gen. 20:12, 13). This proves that it is not a good thing to dwell among the enemies of God's people. It was when Peter warmed himself at the fire of the enemy that he was tempted to deny his Lord.

3. His prosperity (vv. 12-17). Isaac did not intend to make Gerar his permanent place of abode. He intended only to sojourn there. While there he sowed and reaped bountifully. This prosperity was no proof that God approved of his course. God sends his rain upon the just and the unjust.

II. Isaac's Enemies (vv. 18-22).
He was not permitted long to enjoy his fruitful land. His prosperity incited the envy of the Philistines. They could not stand to see his increase in flocks, herds, and servants. Success in any calling of life will provoke envy. They demanded that Isaac should leave them. Wherever envy has begun its deadly work, there must be separation. The Philistines took as their method of getting rid of Isaac the stopping up of the wells. Isaac did not contend for them but peacefully withdrew to another place where he proceeded again to dig the wells of his father. He called them by the same names as his father had given them.

1. Esek, which means "strife" or "contention." Instead of struggling with them, he removed from them and digged another well.

2. Sitnah, which means "enmity." The Philistines strove for this well also. The name given shows that there was increased bitterness of feeling.

3. Rehoboth. Because of the bitter opposition, Isaac removed from them and digged another well which he called "Rehoboth," meaning "there is room." The third time he digged wells there was no strife. The way to have peace is to wear out our enemies with patience.

III. Isaac in Beer-sheba (vv. 23-25).
Immediately following Isaac's going up from among the Philistines, the Lord appeared to him. Our fellowship and privileges as sons and daughters of God are dependent upon our separation from the world (II Cor. 6:14-18). Following this visitation, Isaac built an altar and called upon the name of the Lord. As soon as a meeting place with Jehovah was established, Isaac pitched his tent there. Following this Isaac's servants digged a well. There is no use of going among the Philistines to get water. After Isaac was established in Beer-sheba, Abimelech came desiring to make an alliance with him. This shows that he gained influence by peacefully withdrawing from the Philistines. His behavior proved to them that he was the friend of God.

His Promise Fulfilled

By EWART PARRETT
(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service)

THE long freight slowed to a stop at the small station on the outskirts of St. Albans. Bob Jefferies swung himself from the engine cab and for a moment gazed ahead, where directly in his path, vast sections of the forest burned fiercely.

The night agent stood on the platform, a slip of paper in his left hand, a revolver in his right. "Bad news, Bob," he called warily as Jefferies approached.

The engine driver sprang up beside him. "Yes? But how's the track? Can I get through tonight?" Then noting the revolver he demanded, "What's the trouble?"

The night agent's face was fraught with anxiety. "This wire is from the chief," he replied. "You are to put No. 13 on the siding here. It is impossible to proceed further. And say!"—he stepped closer, his low voice harsh with anger—"Two bandits held up the State bank at Barton this afternoon and one of the murderous devils shot down a little girl in cold blood! They were seen to jump your train as you passed through Barton."

Jefferies muttered a fierce oath. "Well, one thing is certain," he growled. "If I brought them this far, they won't travel much further tonight!"

"I'm going to find out if they came," declared the agent.

Jefferies leaped down to the rails. "Wait a moment," he cried. "I'll put the old bus on the siding, then I'll join you."

Some five minutes later, two men slunk from the shadows across the tracks and under cover of the noise made by the shunting train hastened up the road leading to the village.

The elder man, Tom Guthrie, had been wounded in fighting off their pursuers at Barton. He turned weakly to his companion and asked, "Where are we, Bill?"

"In Canada, I believe," replied Ryerson.

"Let's move," muttered Guthrie. "I'm getting worse." Without warning, he fell heavily to the road.

As Ryerson lifted up the wounded man, a shout rang out from the station.

Guthrie stirred painfully. "They've seen us! Hide me somewhere! They must not take me alive!"

Ryerson perceived the dim outlines of an isolated barn just ahead and close to the road. With a grunt, he threw the other across his shoulder, and trudged towards the structure.

After a silence that seemed interminable, Guthrie opened his eyes. "Bill?"

"Yes, Tom?"

"Bill! I wanted that money for my daughter, Bessie. I wanted to give her the things in life, her mother never had. And now that—that other girl—so like my Bess—dead!" His voice died in a whisper.

Guthrie strove to sit up. "I want you to bury me in a grave on which little girls will place flowers and pray over me! Promise me! Quick!"

"I promise you, Tom."

The frail body relaxed suddenly and was still.

A streak of light stole across the eastern sky. Outside, under the wan light of the stars, Ryerson mopped the sweat from his brow. Stumbling across the road, he opened a rusty little gate, which lead directly into a graveyard. A small church-like building loomed through the mist. He entered the building and carefully struck a match. His eyes gleamed as he surveyed the interior of the single room. Then, softly closing the door, he retraced his steps to the barn. In the afternoon sunlight, a few hours later, the grounds of the cemetery were packed with humanity. Most of the inhabitants of St. Albans were there, from the oldest to the youngest. Two days previously their school had burned to the ground, snuffing out the lives of eight pupils and their teacher.

The children stood in groups around a single, large grave, into which nine coffins had just been placed. Eight of the caskets were small and of uniform length. The ninth, however, was full size and containing as it did, the charred, unrecognizable remains of a young woman, bore mute evidence to her desperate courage. And yet, to those who loved it, this larger coffin had seemed exceedingly heavy! Careful hands had carried the caskets from the small building close by.

The grave was slowly filled in. On the edge of the crowd a tall, bare-headed stranger watched the ceremony intently. He saw a line of little girls approach and place flowers on the long mound of fresh earth.

The stranger turned swiftly, as a voice hissed in his ear. "You are under arrest! Come quietly!"

"Now tell me," threatened Jefferies when they reached the roadway. "Where is your companion—the one who wounded the girl at Barton?"

Ryerson's heart leaped. Wounded—not killed! "We separated last night," he lied slowly. "I never saw him again. He ran into the woods in that direction." He pointed to what was only blackened, smoldering countryside.

POULTRY FACTS

CHICKS THRIVE ON MILK AND ALFALFA

Ration Furnishes Vitamin of Prime Importance.

Milk and alfalfa are cheap feeds and supply certain essentials to the normal growth and health of poultry. It is good business to add these two feeds to the ration, when possible, Arthur T. Ringrose, of the Cornell poultry department, states.

He explained that animal protein is necessary to build body tissue, and that milk is a good source of animal protein. Milk is even more valuable as a source of vitamin G. This has been proved by experiments at Cornell and elsewhere. Several vitamins are required for normal growth and health of poultry. One of these can be supplied cheaply by only milk and alfalfa. Vitamin G, discovered about five years ago, is important in that its lack causes nervousness, skin lesions, sore eyes, and a general weakened condition. It is believed that a certain leg weakness is also caused by the lack of vitamin G or a closely associated factor. The use of milk and alfalfa for feeding prevents or helps to prevent these conditions.

Twenty-five chicks received no vitamin G in a test lasting eight weeks. At the end of the period, only eight chicks were living; the rest died of diseases caused by lack of vitamin G. The average weight of the remaining eight chicks was five ounces. Another pen of 25 chicks, fed vitamin G, in ample amounts were all living at the end of eight weeks, and were on the average, one pound and nine ounces.

In a Kentucky experiment, the use of milk in place of meat scrap with laying hens increased egg production in the winter from 32.7 to 43 eggs to the hen, he said.

Poultry Raisers Save Money by Home-Mixing

Poultry raisers who grow grain and who wish to feed at the lowest cost can save considerable money by mixing their own mash and scratch feeds, says A. C. Smith, poultry chief at Minnesota University farm. Persons not having mills undoubtedly could arrange with local dealers to grind their grains, which when mixed in the proper proportions and supplemented with the proper amount of animal and mineral matter will provide satisfactory rations at the lowest possible cost.

Complete directions for mixing laying mash can be obtained by writing the poultry division, University farm, St. Paul, Minn.

Dairy farmers with an abundance of skim milk from creameries also may secure from the poultry division information on how to use by-products to the best advantage with their laying flocks.

Feeding Battery Brooders

Proper feeding, said P. R. Record of the Ohio experiment station is the secret of battery brooding. In the battery every essential must be supplied, a writer in the Ohio Farmer supplements. A formula suitable for battery brooding as recommended by Record is as follows: Ground yellow corn 33 pounds, ground wheat or middlings 20 pounds, wheat bran 10 pounds, finely ground whole oats 10 pounds, alfalfa meal 5 pounds, meat scraps 10 pounds, dried milk, 5 pounds, salt 1 pound, and cod liver oil 1 pound.

Baby Chick Ration

Here is a good baby chick ration which has been tried in Wisconsin. For best results the ration is made up as follows: "Forty-five pounds ground yellow corn, 15 pounds standard wheat middlings, 15 pounds pure wheat bran, 12 pounds dried buttermilk or dried skim milk, 6 pounds meat and bone meal, 3 pounds alfalfa meal, 3 pounds high calcium limestone grit or chick sized oyster shell-grit, one pound salt, plenty of fresh water, and 1 to 2 per cent cod liver or sardine oil, for the first four weeks."—Wisconsin Agriculturalist.

Poultry Notes

Success in poultry raising depends to a large extent on how well young stock is brooded and grown.

Never neglect to cord the chick-box well, otherwise some prying hand may open the lid en route to customer.

Sudden changes in temperature are more harmful to chickens than prolonged spells of extreme temperatures.

It is difficult to keep a brooder house dry when it is brooded. Moist litter helps spread disease.

United States farm flocks had 5 per cent fewer hens and pullets on January 1, 1932, than on the same date last year.

Young turkeys require a longer period of brooding than do chickens. They should have about seven weeks of warm temperature in the brooder house.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN.

W. C. Rockwell, Principal of the San Patricio school was here Monday, coming before the Board of Education with some matters concerning his school.

Mrs. B. D. Garner and son J. A. were here Monday from Picocho, J. A. acting as chauffeur for his mother, who attended the meeting of the Board of Education.

PLANTS

Carrizozo Hardware Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Holguin and family attended the funeral of Mr. Holguin's aunt, Mrs. Guadalupe Duran, aged 60, who died at her home in Tularosa the first of last week.

Ted Brusuelas and Solomon Sanchez were here from Fort Stanton Monday and had announcements made for a big dance at Lanesin, Saturday, May 7. Music by the Fort Stanton Orchestra.

Mrs. Lillian Lane and two little daughters were Carrizozo visitors from White Oaks Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Mayer were down from the Ruidoso country last Sunday, visiting Paul's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Mayer. The Mayers have their store in operation, where they are selling dry goods, notions and have a nice line of candies, etc.

Attorney and Mrs. H. B. Hamilton are here this week from El Paso, the Attorney having a part in the doings of the District Court and Mrs. Hamilton visiting her Carrizozo friends.

A. W. Droke was a caller at this office last week to make final proof on his homestead; also to transact some other business matters.

Several Small Showcases for sale at Ziegler Brothers. Priced very reasonable.

Mesdames Gilbert Peters of Nogal and Louis Cummins of Capitan were Carrizozo visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rolland and daughters Helen and Margie made a trip to Alamogordo last Sunday to meet Mr. Rolland's sister, Mrs. C. B. Scott. Mrs. Scott was on her way home in Fenton, Mich., after visiting relatives and friends at Los Angeles, and stopped over for a day with Frank C. Rolland family of Alamogordo. To pass through Carrizozo would be off her route, so that is the reason the Rollands made the trip to meet Mrs. Scott in "the city of trees."

Rich Hust was down from Nogal last week and made us a present of some nice fruit trees from his wonderful orchard in Nogal Canyon. Muchas gracias, Rich; they are fine.

Beaten in Close Game

Manager Walter LaFleur and Captain Clayton Hust took their ball players to Fort Stanton Sunday and suffered their second setback at the hands of the Capitan-Fort Stanton combination. The game was a thriller all the nine stanzas and our boys fought to the last out, to come out on the short end of a 6 to 5 score.

Our boys are good sportsmen and offer no alibi. This did not discourage them any and will be in there playing the game all the time. The strong Tularosa nine comes here Sunday, May 1, and we can assure you that this is going to eclipse many past performances. Come out and see and help the boys.

Lueras-Fresquez

Last Saturday night, with Justice of the Peace A. H. Harvey performing the ceremony, Antonio Lueras and Miss Polly Fresquez were united in marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leopoldo Gutierrez of this place and the groom is the son of Jose Maria Lueras of Rabenton. Their friends wish them much happiness.

Bachelors Turn Tables on Married by 6 to 0 Score

Last Sunday afternoon, Manny Chavez put out a team of bachelors against Andres Lueras' bunch of married fellows and the beat the latter could accomplish was to get as far as the hot corner, but no further. The married men could not solve Ernest Lopez' delivery and went out every inning mostly on easy pop flies. The boys got Edward's measurement at about the fifth frame and sent him to the showers in short order. Lueras took his place, but the damage had been done and it was futile.

Their catcher, Dave Garcia is now sporting a black eye due to a little oversight on his part when he failed to put on his mask and a foul tip caught him square in the brow. Batteries were—Married: Garcia, Edwards, Lueras and Ramirez. Singles—Ernest Lopez and Montoya. Umpires—Alex Chapman and Andy Padilla.

We'll dance next Saturday at Baca's hall and everyone is invited. Yes! The single men will take their sweethearts.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

The Roswell Record says that Franklin D. Roosevelt is a fine man as men go in these times. As governor of New York state he has made a fairly good record but there has been nothing of outstanding greatness in any of the events of his career.

As governor of New York he has not been able to prevent the corruption of Tammany in New York City, although the governor of the state has unusual powers in regard to New York City. If he had any of the great characteristics of the great Theodore Roosevelt, he would have left no doubt about his standing toward the corruption existing under Tammany. But he has not.

His weakness in preventing Tammany corruption undoubtedly would play a great part in the coming presidential campaign should Roosevelt be the Democratic Nominee.

Methodist Church

One hundred and 22 in Sunday School. About 30 at Epworth League in the evening. Regular preaching service at Capitan next Sunday morning. Children's music hour under direction of Mrs. O. J. Snow in Carrizozo at 8 p. m. In other words, the evening service will be in charge of the children. They have something worthwhile for us. Let's all be present and show them that we appreciate their efforts. Epworth League service at seven.

Once Upon a Time 'n "Sumpin"

"Once upon a time a nickel nurse sent his kid to borrow the neighbor's paper and the kid upset a hive of bees and soon was covered with lumps. His father ran to help him and caught his chin on a clothes line and sprained his back, fell and broke a $25 watch. The clothes pole fell over the car and smashed the windshield, and mother, rushing out to see what occasioned the excitement, upset a 5 gallon churn of cream into a basket of kittens, drowning all of them. The electric flatiron burned thru the ironing board, setting fire to the house, and the firemen broke all the windows and chopped a hole in the roof. The baby ate a jar of pickles and got cholera morbus and the doctor's bill was $15. The daughter ran away with the hired man during the excitement, the dog bit a neighbor's kid and the goats ate the tails off of four night shirts on the clothes line." Moral—Subscribe to your home paper. Don't borrow it!—Marlen Pew in "Shop Talk at Thirty" in Editor and Publisher.

High School News Notes (Ansel Swearingen)

Miss Stover decorated her track team the other day, and Georgia Peckham and Katherine Kelt each got enough ribbons to make a good-sized dress. Mary Lewis and Willie Kelt also took second and third place.

The following boys received letters in football and basketball last Monday in Assembly:

FOOTBALL

- L. Hicks
- F. Mirelez
- B. Lewis
- R. Leslie
- J. Leslie
- E. Snell
- A. Brady
- W. Chapman
- F. English
- E. Aguayo
- E. Catt
- B. Crenshaw
- L. Baca

Candido Martinez, one of the stars of the team, was to have received one also, had his career not been arrested by his untimely death.

BASKETBALL

B. Crenshaw, E. Catt, B. Aguayo, S. Chavez, L. Baca, A. Brady, W. McMillan, F. Mirelez.

Girls who were lettered in Basketball are as follows—

Dorothy Dozier, Georgia Peckham, Katherine Kelt, Ruby Johnson, Andrea Kimbrell, Mary Lewis, Willie Kelt, Frances Charles.

Mr. Groce received a phone call Tuesday morning that Ruby Johnson, one of our Seniors, was operated on for appendicitis in the early hours of the morning and had stood the operation in fine shape. Miss Louise Sweet accompanied Ruby to El Paso Monday night, and was thus absent from her music room Tuesday.

Baptist Church

Christ alone can save the world; but Christ cannot save the world alone. "For we are the God's fellow workers"—1 Cor. 3:9. If you have not read the Sermon on the Mount, now is a good time to read it. If you have, read it again this week. The earnest, prayerful study of this matchless sermon will be profitable in many ways. It will not hold up to your vision higher ideas of living, but will bring to you, deeper spiritual truths concerning the more important matter of building a life that's worth living. The sermon study next Sunday evening will be a study of the "Beatitudes." Services at Oscura next Sunday morning and at Carrizozo in the evening.

Ida Gertrude Leslie

On Sunday evening, April 24, 1932, a pall of impenetrable sadness settled over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leslie of White Oaks, when the grim hand of the Angel of Death was stretched forth to snatch from their fond embrace, the life of their beloved daughter, Ida Gertrude, who was just blooming into young womanhood, being only one month and four days past the age of sixteen at the time of her death.

She was a diligent student in the Carrizozo High School, a member of the Junior Class, very popular with her classmates as well as all who knew her. It is sad indeed, for one so much in love with life and for whom life seemed to hold such bright promises, taken from the life she loved so passionately; but we are reminded that "In the midst of life, we are in death" and that "Now we see in a Mirror, Darkly; but then, Face to Face."

Ida Gertrude Leslie was born March 29, 1916, and died April 24, 1932. She leaves to mourn, her loss, her father, mother, four brothers, two sisters, namely: Ben, Jim, Zane, Bobbie; Flora, Dorothy.

Funeral services were held in the White Oaks Church, Tuesday afternoon with Rev. L. D. Jordan conducting the same and she remains were interred in the White Oaks cemetery.

Notice

The returns of the election for the Union High School District at Hondo were canvassed and the result found to be as follows:

At the District Meeting at Alamogordo last Saturday, the following ladies were in attendance—Mesdames Oscar Clouse, Nellie Branum, B. L. Stimmel, O. J. Snow, R. E. Lemon, F. L. Boughner.

Mrs. C. A. McCammon, chairman of the Afghan Committee, wishes all those who have volunteered to sell chances on Afghan to report to her, so that she may have a list of the same in her possession.

Attorney George M. Shipley of Alamogordo was here Monday, attending to some legal matters in the District Court, after which he left for his home town late in the afternoon. Mr. Shipley is a candidate for the office of District Attorney on the Republican ticket, and the Outlook wishes him much success in this particular undertaking.

An Attorney for the town of Alamogordo, he has fought faithfully for the interests of the people, and has been successful in seeing the rights of that municipality maintained. It therefore goes without argument that what an attorney may do for one place in a district, would qualify him to serve in the same manner for the entire district.

Billy Gallacher is nursing a broken finger. It happened during the baseball game between Capitan and Carrizozo at Fort Stanton last Sunday.

The windstorm last Tuesday night was a humdinger. The storm blew in one of the large plate glass windows of Rolland's Drug Store, demolished the billboard next to Snow's barber shop, blowing it into the middle of the street.

Family Re-union

Mrs. Lucinda May was pleasantly surprised last Sunday, April 24, by a gathering at her home in the nature of a family re-union. A big dinner was served at which 54 were present, 6 of whom were her children, 27 grandchildren and one sister-in-law, Mrs. Eliza Brown, besides other relatives and friends among whom were Mesdames Arthur May, Silver City; Mattie Littleton, Carrizozo; Albert May, Nogal; Sadie Zumwalt, Riverside, Calif.; Pearl Snell, Nogal; Agnes Snell, Dumas, Texas.

S. W. (Jack) Land, Justice of the Peace at Glencoe, was here yesterday attending to some business matters and while in town, made this office a friendly call.

Mrs. Clark Hust, daughter, Mrs. E. A. DeBeauford, sons Maynard, Howard, Dea and sister, Mrs. W. E. Gibbons came in Monday from Las Cruces, spent two days with Mr. Hust and the boys here. Mrs. DeBeauford resides at Pensacola, Fla., and is visiting her parents for a period of two weeks.

Mrs. A. B. Zumwalt, daughters, Mrs. Gilbert Peters and Irene Zumwalt were down from Nogal yesterday.

Where Mosquitoes Breed
Mosquito larvae are hatched in water where they start life as swimmers. When they cast their final skins these split and float as the young mosquitoes can rest on them until their own wings are dry enough for flight.

Women as Head Gardeners
More women in England are entering the ranks of gardeners than in any previous year. These who have had special training are holding responsible and remunerative positions as head gardeners at schools and public institutions. Others are on private estates.
