

FORT STANTON NEWS

Miss Katherine Winters, our popular chief nurse, underwent an operation in a hospital at El Paso recently. She is now on the road to recovery, and the patients in the hospital are longing for her return, as they miss her encouraging efforts to cheer them up. They sent her a card with all their names, wishing her happiness and good luck for a speedy recovery.

Miss Tunstall, one of our most popular nurses, as far as beauty and personality is concerned, was honored with a big farewell party in the nurses' home, in connection with her marriage to one of the staff in Fort Stanton.

Misses Stanette, Sioakum and Haworth attended the Fair at Carrizozo last week.

Messrs. Geo. Elmgran and Sundberg were Carrizozo business visitors on Wednesday.

Oscura Notes

The P. T. A. wishes to thank the public for their support in putting over the sale of the cattle-brand quilt. Special thanks is given to Mr. and Mrs. English for their willing assistance. The money derived from this sale is to be used to buy books for the children in this district, who are not yet supplied.

Miss Cora Crews is up from El Paso for a short stay.

Mayor L. A. Whitaker spent the week-end at Bonnell's ranch.

J. V. Taylor has gone to Socorro—"politikin."

H. V. Holloway is back from S. P. hospital at San Francisco.

Oscura-ites turned out in full force to the Fair last week. All report a wonderful time.

Reynolds & Taylor shipped 8 carloads of yearling steers to eastern markets to be fed out.

Vance Smith attended a Democratic meeting at Carrizozo last Saturday.

Rube McDonald has gone to El Paso for medical treatment.

Tom McDonald is visiting with his family for a few days.

Marion Hunt is back on his ranch in the Godfrey hills.

Geo. Donoho is expecting his brothers, Guy, Joe and their wives for an extended visit.

Mesdames Brazel and Wettstein spent Wednesday at Carrizozo.

To the People of Lincoln County

Having been nominated by the Republican County Convention for Commissioner of the Third District, I am asking the voters of both parties for their support (active if I can get it). If elected, propose and will be a commissioner for all the people. If humanly possible, I will do all I can to bring about a lower tax rate which is so badly needed, provided I can obtain the cooperation of the other commissioners, otherwise I shall render a minority report which will be published.

Thanking you, I am,
Respectfully,
Sam Bigger.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

We have a moving picture machine in school and everyone is enjoying the pictures, which are educational as well as entertaining.

Last Wednesday the Sophomore and Junior classes gave a party at Community Hall. Refreshments were plentiful and punch flowed freely—especially on the floor. A picture was shown and there was music and dancing.

We have a new track trophy to add to our collection, won in the last track meet. We hope that we shall soon have the football trophy to place beside it. We are proud of the showing made by our school.

The Home Economics exhibit captured a liberal share of the ribbons awarded.

Wednesday there was a free football game for the purpose of arousing enthusiasm for the game in Carrizozo. There was a large crowd out and I'm sure we have many new fans.

Wednesday the Sophomore class gave a program in assembly: Vocal solo, Muriel Burnett; Pantomime, "And the Lamp Went Out;" Saxophone solo, Thelma Shaver, accompanied by Leslye Cooper.—H. S. Reporter.

Football Game Saturday Carrizozo vs. Alamo

The Carrizozo Football Team is making a very good record for the school and the town.

They have beaten Hondo, Alamogordo and lost to Tularosa.

Saturday on the local grounds they will play Alamogordo a return game. The games haven't been as well attended as they should be. It is hoped that Saturday all business houses will close and all will attend this game. The admission has been cut to 15 and 40c.

Go to the field, see the game, and root for the boys who play for the glory of their own home town and one of the best schools in the State.

The list of the squad of the Carrizozo High School appears on the back page of this paper.

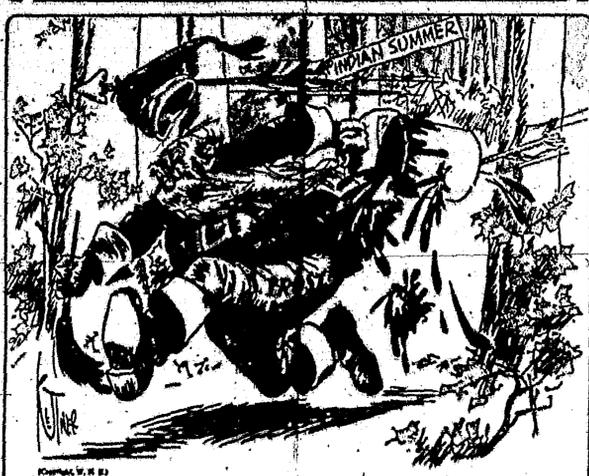

Republican State Candidates in County

Former Governor Dillon and party of state candidates and speakers were in Lincoln County the last week-end. On Sunday evening the Dillon Party were at Hondo for a meeting at which more than 500 people listened to various speeches on state and national issues.

The following appeared on the program: R. C. Dillon, former Governor; Hugh Woodward, U. S. District Attorney; Joe Armijo, brother of Judge Luis Armijo of Las Vegas, candidate for Congress; Mrs. Lorenzo Garcia of Socorro, candidate for Secretary of State; Oliver M. Lee, candidate for Land Commissioner; Isidoro Armijo, Interpreter and Spanish speaking. Mr. Woodward handled state issues and especially "Seligmanism." It is needless to say that Mr. Woodward handled this matter "without gloves."

On Monday afternoon the same speakers were in Carrizozo with the exception of Mr. Lee, who was called to Roswell Monday morning, and Isidoro Armijo returned to Alamogordo for an afternoon meeting. A crowd of 200 or more were present and were very attentive to the talks.

Routed

All Set for the Fourth Jericho Club Dance

The last three dances given by the Jericho Club have won such popularity that dance fans here and elsewhere over the County have been asking "When is the Jericho Club going to give another one?"

Here is the answer—On the night of October 22nd, the Jericho Club will entertain the amusement-loving public with the fourth dance of a series to be given at the Lutz Hall.

OK, dance fans, "We'll be seeing you there!" is now a thing of the past. As anticipated, the gross receipts were less than previous years, the total being in line with present economic conditions. To date, including donations, $1042.09 has been turned in. Of this more than $500 will be net. In due time a financial statement will be published.

The Fair

Winners were: Lincoln, grade track meet; Carrizozo, Hi track meet; Capitan girls, basketball. Carrizozo and Capitan will battle on local grounds, Nov. 5, for football championship.

More than 100 men, women, boys and girls of Carrizozo worked to make the Fair a success under the hardest conditions we have ever faced. To them we say "thank you." To our visitors we can only say that, "if you enjoyed being here as much as we enjoyed having you," we are satisfied. Watch for complete reports.—Committee.

Prof. Karl Cunningham, Superintendent of the Capitan Schools, was a Carrizozo visitor last week end to witness the Lincoln County Fair.

The speakers being due in Tularosa at 4 o'clock, it was necessary that the program here be cut to fit the time allowed.

On Sunday evening, Hugh Williams, candidate for Corporation Commissioner, Mrs. Edna Rousseau, for Supt. of Public Instruction, H. T. Gardner, for Treasurer, and Frank Westfield, for Attorney General, held a meeting in Corona. As usual, Hugh Williams stirred up the crowd to a high pitch of enthusiasm in discussing state issues.

An informal reception was held at the Bonnell Ranch Sunday evening for Gov. Dillon and party which was attended by many Ruidoso friends and admirers.

At 2 o'clock Monday afternoon Mr. Dillon addressed the school children for about 10 minutes in the High School Auditorium.

Two Accidents During Week-end

Last Friday morning, Charlotte Zamora, 12-year-old daughter of Bone Zamora, was struck down by a truck near the school house when on her way to the track events at the hall park. The driver immediately took her to the hospital where it was disclosed that she had sustained a broken limb. At this writing, the unfortunate child is resting as best as could be expected.

On Saturday night, when the Silva boys, Fred and Vidal and their cousin, Juan Chavez, were returning to their home in the Tucson mountains, their truck overturned and Chavez received a broken collar bone. The vehicle was demolished beyond repair.

EXPENSIVE GOVERNMENT

It might not be inopportune to take a look at Gov. Roosevelt's administration of the affairs of New York during the period from 1928 on.

In the last year of Gov. Al Smith's administration, the appropriations for New York State amounted to $217,772,625 and under Gov. Roosevelt, the appropriations had risen to $310,123,013 in 1931.

No matter what he might promise to do as President, Gov. Roosevelt certainly did not set example in the way of reducing expenses for the smaller units of government after he became governor of the greatest state in the union.

If the President ought to furnish an example by cutting down expenditures, then why should not the governor of the great state of New York do the same thing?

Santa Rita School Notes

Last Thursday afternoon the pupils of Santa Rita School enjoyed a private field meet in which Alfredo Martinez won a $2.50 gold piece as a prize for first place in a 100-yard dash and a high jump. Emillano McKinley won first place in the broad jump.

The Santa Rita School was proud of its representatives who took part in the Lincoln County Fair this year. Alfredo Martinez, our star athlete, won first over all in the 50-yd. dash for grade school boys. He also came out second in the 100-yd. dash. Emillano McKinley won third in the broad jump.

Last Thursday night the pupils of the upper grades enjoyed a Halloween picnic at Indian Divide. The chaperons were Father Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Vidaurri, Mr. and Mrs. Sanchez.

LOCAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Rentfrow of their ranch beyond the Malpais were Carrizozo visitors last Friday and Saturday, to witness the Fair and attend the dances. Mr. and Mrs. Rentfrow are always interested in community affairs.

Miss Eva Rose was here from Tinnie to attend the Fair and was deeply interested in the outcome of the athletic games. Miss Eva is the candidate for County School Superintendent on the Republican ticket. While in town, she made this office a pleasant call.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thornton and Mrs. Geo. Dixon were here for the Fair from Oscura and Charlie went home with some nice ribbons for his products from his fruit and vegetable farm.

Wm. J. Langston came in Monday from Bingham, where he has just finished building a schoolhouse. Bill will remain in town and be ready for the next big Jericho Club dance which takes place at Lutz Hall tomorrow night, Oct. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bilbo were Carrizozo visitors from Jicarilla last Saturday evening and attended the last dance given at the Community Hall which wound up the Fair proceedings.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Gumm came up from El Paso where they had been visiting Dean's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gumm for a short time. They report Mrs. Gumm improving and will soon be back at the local post-office.

Mrs. T. A. Spencer, son A. N. and Helen Rolland left Wednesday morning for Hollywood, Cal., where they will visit Mrs. W. C. McDonald, who is ill. They will remain until she is out of danger.

Frances Charles spent the week-end here and attended the Fair, leaving for Alamogordo Sunday night, so as to be ready for school Monday.

The Music Drama Study Club will meet at the home of Mrs. C. W. Young, Oct. 27, at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dixon and children were here from Tucuman the latter part of last week visiting the C. O. Davis family.

C. D. Mayer has donated the use of his store building on Alamogordo avenue to the Republican County Central Committee during the campaign for which the Committee wishes to thank him for his generosity.

Mrs. R. W. Dozier and daughter Dorothy were here from their home in Tucuman last week-end to attend the Fair. They returned home Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. B. French returned Monday from a week-end visit at El Paso, which she spent with Mrs. Gumm, our postmistress. Mrs. Gumm is rapidly gaining her health. She has left Masonic Hospital and is now at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Laws. A successful operation was performed, since which time, she has been gaining ground and will be able to resume her duties at the local postoffice, according to the advice of Dr. Laws.

Radio KSL in Salt Lake Now on 50,000 Watts

KSL, the Salt Lake City radio station, is now of 50,000 watt power, and the Columbia Broadcasting System comes in clear as a bell. You no longer have to tune in on KRLD, 10,000 watt station, to get your favorite Columbia program, for with KSL in Salt Lake City being closer and of 50,000 watts in power, does away almost entirely with the Dallas station.

Republican Candidates on the County Ticket are making a tour of the County, holding meetings and dances at every Precinct.

Monday night they were at Hondo, Tuesday at Capitan, Wednesday at Picacho, last night at Ruidoso, tonight at San Patricio and Saturday they will be at White Mountain. They report well-attended meetings at all precincts.

Filling Station Robbed

Last Saturday night while the big Fair dance was going on, four negroes, two men and two women, drove up to the City Service Station, belonging to Vincent Reil, and asked for gas. G. C. Bigelow, who is in charge of the station, filled up their Model T Ford with gas and on going to collect for the same, he was met by one of the men with a gun and shoving it in his face, demanded that he hand over the cash, which he did, the amount being $24.00. They drove rapidly away, going south on El Paso avenue.

The hour being late and no phone at Community Hall, Mr. Bigelow ran to the hall and notified Sheriff Brady, who in turn, wired in every direction, but by that time the thieves had made good their get-away.

At Capitan, Monday night, while a political rally and dance was going on, a number of cars were stripped of the radiator caps. This was presumably done by small boys, but what use they could make of the caps, is hard to figure out.

Frank C. Rolland, candidate for Senator from the 18th Dist., Otero and Lincoln counties, was here Saturday and paid his respects to the Outlook office, in the way of a friendly call. Two years ago all state candidates visited this office during their brief stays, but this year they high-batted us. What's the matter with you fellows, do you think this is a "bull moose" stronghold? There is just a little humanity about us all, but it's all right, anyhow. We would rather have you stay away entirely than to come grudgingly.

Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Finley left yesterday for Roswell where Mrs. Finley will be at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dawey Piant, until Mr. Finley finishes his hunting trip.

SYNOPSIS

Roberta Antrim, beautiful East-orn society girl, who lives with her uncle, William B. Latham, known as "Crooked Bill," because of his amusing slyness, receives a telegram from Jaime Miguel Higuera, owner of the Rancho Valle Verde, in Texas, informing her her Uncle Tom Antrim has died, a violent death. At the advice of Glenn Backett, who is in love with her, Roberta plans to go to Texas to protect her interests, since she is her uncle's sole heir to thousands of sheep which Antrim had impudently driven to graze on land controlled by Don Jaime. Ken Hobart, Texas Ranger, is made manager of the Valle Verde ranch. Don Jaime, unmarried and romantic, half Spanish and half Irish, is attracted to Roberta's picture in a magazine.

They rode away into the southeast together. In a clump of cottonwoods a hundred yards from the sheep camp they parted, Don Jaime waiting while the ranger rode into the camp of the invaders.

A smallish, unprepossessing man, who might have been anywhere from forty five to sixty years of age, stood under a smoke-discolored fly over a small barbecue pit upon which a side of mutton was roasting. As the ranger rode up, this man placed his arms akimbo, and gazed alertly at the stranger.

"All set for a quick grab for his gun," Ken Hobart reasoned. "Wily old wretch!" Aloud he said, "Good morning, Mr. Antrim."

"Hello, yourself," Antrim replied with an assumption of heartiness. "What's your name when lunch is ready?"

Hobart grinned. "I'm Captain Hobart, of the Texas Rangers. I suspected luncheon might be ready about the time I was due to ride by, so I've invited myself."

"You're welcome, ranger. What's the gossip around your way?"

Hobart dismounted and tied his horse to the breeze. "Nothing much. A little smuggling, a little gun-running, a cattle raid to vary the monotony, a killing. Things are pretty quiet along the border."

"What brings you up this way?" Antrim was suspicious as a predatory animal.

"I figured on giving you some sound advice, Mr. Antrim. You're trespassing on the Higuera lands and Don Jaime Higuera doesn't cheer for me; and as a ranger I prefer to stop a private war before it starts rather than after it's started. You're in the wrong, Mr. Antrim, and I advise you to pull out of here and not come back."

"You come to arrest me for trespassing," Antrim asked.

"No, of course not. You're grazing your sheep on state lands. I can't arrest you until you drive them on the lands owned by Don Jaime in fee simple—and those lands surround the water-holes whereby Don Jaime controls this range. Even then I'll not arrest you, because Don Jaime refuses to ask it or swear out a warrant. Says he likes to kill his own rats."

"Called me a rat, did he?" Antrim's cold, pale-blue eyes were very black.

"Not at all. That was just my way of expressing the situation. I was speaking in the vernacular. Don Jaime isn't very far from here, Mr. Antrim. He'd like to have one final talk with you. He isn't armed. Suppose you drop that gun you're wearing and walk out with me to discuss this situation with Don Jaime."

"Reckon I can trust a ranger," Antrim replied, as Hobart exposed his shield. He hung his gun and belt on the projecting snag of a cottonwood and followed the ranger to where Don Jaime Higuera waited.

"Well, Higuera," Antrim saluted him gruffly.

"I've come to warn you not to attempt to water your sheep at any of my water-holes, Antrim."

"And if I do?"

"You'll fight to the death for the privilege."

"Well, I can do that, too. How do I know you own those water-holes?"

"You have my assurance that I do. If you doubt that, look up the records at the county seat."

"Your surveys are wrong."

"I am not aware of that. Of course, if they are, you may water your sheep—after you've proved your statement. However, your argument is foolish. You do not wish to believe me and I wouldn't believe you under oath. So suppose we have the county surveyor out here to resurvey all the lands I hold in fee simple. If he proves the old surveys to be erroneous, I'll pay his bill. If he proves them correct, you pay his bill, move out with your sheep and never come back."

"I'm not taking orders from any man—a greaser."

Don Jaime's white teeth flashed in a smile of vast amusement. "No intelligent man takes a civet cat in his hands, Antrim. I have warned you, in the presence of Captain Hobart, not to trespass on the lands I hold in fee simple."

Without a word Antrim turned and walked back to his camp.

"It's war," said Don Jaime Miguel Higuera. "The man must be a trifle insane, Don Jaime."

"Not at all. He's running a bluff because he thinks I'm weak. He is willing to be arrested for trespass, provided his sheep may drink. He will bail himself out of jail—all his men, too—and trespass again and again. The season is a dry one and the feed on his own range is depleted. He must get through the summer some way and hold his flock intact. . . . Well, I'll ride back home and organize my defense."

"You'll do nothing of the sort, Don Jaime. I shall, as assistant general manager it is my duty to command. Besides, I know how. Your life is much too precious to risk it in a brush with these sheepmen. Arrest and trials will follow this fight, and if you are not alive to protect your men, who, then, will protect us? Who will bail us out of jail?"

Don Jaime smiled his lazy smile. It was easy to see he was very fond of the ranger. "There is sound reason in your argument," he admitted.

Hobart went on. "Permit me to return to the hacienda and organize your forces, Don Jaime. Meanwhile, you ride on to Los Algodones and file my telegraphic resignation to the governor. Here it is. It requests immediate acceptance by wire. Wait for the answer. Meanwhile, make your arrangements to provide bail for twelve of your men. What men do you advise for this expedition?"

Don Jaime named them promptly.

"Now, then," Hobart continued, "we're going to lick the Antrim crowd, and some of them and perhaps some of us are going to get killed. More of them, I think. The survivors will prefer a charge of murder against any of the men they have recognized during the fight, and the bail will be about twenty-five thousand dollars each in cash or fifty thousand in bonds. We will assume that four of our men will be recognized. That means you must provide one hundred thousand in cash or two hundred thousand in bonds."

"I'm good for that in bonds."

"Well, then, make your arrangements in advance with the district attorney. You'll be in Los Algodones this afternoon, all night and tomorrow forenoon. Tomorrow afternoon you will ride back, with the sheriff, who will be on his way out to your ranch to arrest your men. You will have a perfect alibi, because this fight will have been pulled off in your absence, so you will be quite free to look after the comforts of your defenders."

Don Jaime pondered. He much preferred, when his men were in danger defending the master's interests, to share that danger with them. On the other hand he realized that the issue was not to be fought entirely at the water-holes; that in the courts he would be needed much more than in any other arena of battle. He knew Ken Hobart was talking sense, and that the sensible thing to do would be to heed his advice. So he heeded it. And in heeding it he experienced no qualms of conscience, no feeling that he was playing safe while others fought his battles.

"Very well, Ken," he agreed. "Enrico Caravac, my riding boss, knows every foot of this range; once he lo-cates the sheep he'll know what water they will try for this evening. The rest I leave to you. Perhaps you had better loan me your rifle, in case I should run into some of Antrim's herders after leaving you here."

He helped himself to the ranger's rifle and scabbard and fastened it along his saddle. It was a Mauser carbine, and the ammunition was carried in clips of five in pockets on a buckskin vest. Don Jaime dozed the rest and, with a nod to the ranger, headed his horse across country in the direction of Los Algodones.

It was some months since he had hidden a horse. For many years his trips around his ranch, between his ranch and the county seat had been made by automobile. He paused now, thinking of the twenty-mile ride back to the ranch; deciding he would spare himself that hardship he shouted to Hobart:

"Ken, send one of the boys into Los Algodones with the motor and the horse trailer attached, to bring my horse and me home."

"Seguro," Hobart shouted back.

CHAPTER III

Don Jaime rode his horse along the side of the valley, gradually climbing to the summit of the hilly range on its southern boundary. Here he paused and looked off to the rolling lands below. They were dotted with sheep, standing in long rows a dozen deep, head to head, cropping the dry feed to the grass roots and trampling the roots with their sharp small hoofs.

It was true that the lands whereon the Antrim sheep grazed were not the property of Don Jaime Miguel Higuera. They were state lands (for Texas never surrendered her public lands to the federal government) and, undoubtedly, Antrim had as legal a right to graze his sheep there as Don Jaime had to graze his cattle. Nevertheless, by custom and usage, it had come to be known as the Higuera range. Don Jaime's grandfather had purchased with cheap land scrip the acreage along the watercourses and around the springs, and by this control of the water the Higuera dynasty had for generations exercised nominal control over the public lands adjacent thereto. And, since this was a common practice, regarded as an adroit business move but never as a wanton usurpation of the public domain, cattlemen and most sheepmen had respected the Higuera control.

For the grass on this controlled range the Higuera family paid nothing. To the state's feeble charge of trespass by the Higuera cattle, the reigning Higuera had always replied with a polite offer to bear half of the expense of fencing the lands it held in fee contiguous to the state lands and thus prevent trespass. The state discovered that the expense of many miles of fence would not be warranted on the hypothesis that any revenue would subsequently accrue by reason of the sale of grazing permits on the fenced lands of the state, since, with the Higuera family controlling all the waterways and water-holes, no man would be foolish enough to seek a grazing permit! Pending the adjustment of this ancient dispute therefore, the matter slumbered officially, and Don Jaime Miguel Higuera neglected to fence his fee lands contiguous to the water; also he neglected to supply herders to confine his cattle to his fee lands, wherefore they wandered over the state lands at will!

Of this situation wily old Tom Antrim had decided to take advantage. His own range had been grazed over; it had been a dry year in his part of the county, he had the sheep on his hands, they were not ready for market, nor was he ready to accept the market price for unmarketable sheep. He had to maintain them, and in his dilemma he turned quite naturally to one of the earliest laws of human nature, to wit, that a desperate man is justified in taking desperate measures.

He was familiar with the law of trespass. If the owner of fee lands did not fence them he could not prosecute successfully the owner of loose live stock that wandered thereon! And Don Jaime Higuera could not afford to fence the small acreage around springs and water-holes and the narrow forty-acre strips along watercourses, some of which went dry in the summer. If he did his own live stock could not get in for water!

Antrim reasoned he ran but one plank, and that was a battle to keep his sheep, not from trespassing on unfenced lands, but from drinking Don Jaime's water. However, there were many water-holes and many watercourses to guard, and perhaps Don Jaime would not guard them all; perhaps if Antrim appeared with a strong armed guard of herders Don Jaime would not force the issue.

These things Don Jaime Miguel Higuera considered as he gazed over the country that, by hook and crook, had been sacred to four generations of his people. He had but one real advantage, one legal right. His fee lands were unfenced and hence a suit for trespass could not lie, but he did have the right to drive trespassing live stock off his fee lands before they should have an opportunity to drink. If held off long enough they would perish of thirst, and if while driving them off he and his men were attacked by the owners of the trespassing live stock they would be clearly within their legal rights if they defended themselves.

Don Jaime smiled. "Thrice doubly armed is he whose cause is just," he soliloquized. "Well, Honor Antrim has the surprise of his life coming to him this evening. He's staked everything on a lone ace—and I'm going to take the trick with a trump deuce."

He decided to bear off to the right and give the sheep and their herders a wide berth, for he had no intention of coming to grips with the enemy anywhere except on his own lands and in defense of his inalienable rights. So he turned down a long draw to the valley below. At the mouth of the draw he paused and dismounted, for the long trip downhill had revealed the fact that his saddle cinch was loose; it had slipped out over the horse's back withers.

Don Jaime removed saddle and blanket, saw that there were no wrinkles in the blanket, and adjusted it again to the horse's back. He was in the act of swinging the heavy stock saddle up onto the animal when something ripped across his breast. He felt a gentle plucking of his shirt, experienced a feeling that he had been burned. Then the crashing sound of a rifle echoed through the draw.

The thought flashed through Don Jaime's agile brain, "Tom Antrim had another trump. He's playing it."

With a savage wrench he jerked Ken Hobart's rifle clear of the boot, dropped the saddle and leaped for the brush with the alacrity of a frightened rabbit. A fusillade of bullets followed him; before he could gain the shelter of the reverse slope of the left of the two spurs which formed the draw, he had been hit three times, the last wound dropping him headlong on his face.

The paralysis was but momentary, however. He rolled a couple of times, half rose, lurched forward and rolled again. When he reached "dead" ground, he rested a few seconds, then on his hands and knees crawled around the top of the spur; presently he got to his feet and limped slowly and painfully up the hill fifty yards, got down on his hands and knees, and with his body as close to the earth as possible crawled back through the low sage over the spur toward the draw. When he could look down into the draw again he stretched out and brought his rifle to the ready. He waited.

Presently, up the hillside across the draw he saw a bush move slightly. There was not a breath of wind, so Don Jaime concentrated his attention on that bush. It moved again, but Don Jaime could see nothing. So, deciding to feel for what was there while yet sufficient strength remained to him, he sighted carefully on the center of that bush and fired. Something thrashed in the brush, so Don Jaime continued to shoot until the thrashing ceased.

With the feeling that he had better be sure than sorry he had put twenty bullets into the heart of that bush.

Presently, from far up the draw toward the summit a voice floated faintly:

"Don Jaime! It's Ken Hobart!"

"Come down, but be careful," Don Jaime shouted back with all his lungs. Ken Hobart came down that long draw at a mad gallop and when the hub of hoofs indicated his near presence, Don Jaime managed to stand erect and hail him. The ranger rode into the brush to Don Jaime, who leaned against his horse and clung to the saddle.

"Hurt, my friend?"

"Shot all to hell—but not fatally," Don Jaime informed him with a wry smile. "Top of the left shoulder, left biceps and calf of the right hind leg. Also a brand across my chest."

"Where's the other man?"

Don Jaime indicated the spot and then sat down to wait while the ranger rode up to investigate. The ranger's face was gravely humorous when he returned.

"There's a man up there lying on top of a rifle. An oldish man. Looks like Tom Antrim—that is, dressed like him, but you've shot his head practically away and he's unrecognizable. Features quite obliterated."

"While waiting for something or somebody to turn up I didn't have anything else to do, so I practiced shooting." Don Jaime protested virtuously. "My horse still there?"

"Yes, standing where you left him."

"Good old Border horse. Shooting never rusts him. Well, Ken, you'd better undress me and take an inventory; then get me on my horse and hold me there. It's ten miles back to the ranch but I can make it if I don't bleed to death."

Big Surprise in Store for That Unknown Girl

A Cleveland girl on her vacation, and traveling on the railroad for the first time in her life, was startled when the waiter in the dining car remarked:

"You haven't ridden with us lately, have you?"

She didn't bother to tell him he had the wrong person. He continued: "What has become of that girl that used to travel with you?"

"Oh," said the imaginative Cleveland girl, "haven't you heard? Why, she went to Europe and married an English nobleman with millions."

Hobart carried him out to the clean grass in the draw, undressed him and examined his wounds with the skill of one to whom wounds are no mystery. "All flesh wounds; blood just coagulate and quit in a little while," he announced casually.

He brought iodine, bandages and adhesive tape from his saddle-bags, for like all of his profession he had frequent need of such things and was not a half-bad backwoods surgeon. When he had the wounds dressed and the arm in a sling Don Jaime stood erect and gingerly rested his weight on his wounded leg. "Not any worse than a badly sprained ankle," he rejoiced, "and I've walked miles on one of them. . . . Well, let's have a look at the sassy old sheep-herder."

With Hobart's assistance he mounted his horse, and together they rode up the opposite slope and gazed down at the dead man. "I could see a small glint of something white," Don Jaime explained, "after I fired the first time. I figured it might be his face, so I pecked away at it."

When He Reached "Dead" Ground, He Rested a Few Seconds.

"Well, your extravagance with ammunition is what brought me direct to the scene. I'd ridden about half a mile from where we parted when it occurred to me that Antrim and his camp cook could easily have heard you directing me to have one of the boys come into Los Algodones with the auto and the trailer to bring your horse home. Remember? You shouted, 'So he'd know you were traveling across country alone and unarmed—for of course he could not know that as a mere matter of precaution you had borrowed my rifle. I just got a hunch it would be like the old scoundrel to follow and bushwhack you. He could be reasonably certain there would be no witnesses.'"

Don Jaime gazed down at the grisly thing in the bushes. "Looks like Antrim—all but the face," he agreed. "Crick him, Ken, in your capacity as a peace officer, and see what luck we have."

So the ranger turned the dead man's pockets inside out and in the coat pocket he found a black seal-leather wallet bearing on the outside the words in gold letters: "Thomas Antrim, Christmas, 1923."

"Somebody, strange as it may seem, actually thought enough of this man to give him a Christmas present," the ranger murmured. "Here's a photo post-card addressed to Thomas Antrim, Jolon, Las Cruces County, Texas. Picture of a girl taken at Atlantic City. Now, where have I seen that face before?"

He handed the card up to Don Jaime, who, studied it briefly and handed it back.

"Miss Roberta Antrim, of Hillcrest, Dods Ferry, Westchester County, New York," he announced grimly. "So she was a relative of his, after all." He sighed. "What else, old-timer?"

"A letter in an envelope."

"As a peace officer you have a right to read it."

The ranger complied with Don Jaime's suggestion. "Brief letter from Roberta Antrim, addressed to 'Dear Uncle Tom,' and thanking him for sending her a check for five dollars for the Babler's hospital."

"Splitting" Headaches

Until she learned why she was always miserable—and found out about MR. Tablets (Nature's Remedy). Now she gets along fine with everybody. The safe, dependable, vegetable laxative brought quick relief and quiet nerves because it cleared her system of poisonous wastes—made bowel action easy and regular. Thousands take MR. daily. It's such a sure, pleasant, corrective. MR. non-habit-forming. No bad after-effects. At your druggist's—25c.

TUMS

Quick relief for acid indigestion, heartburn. Only 25c.

She Had a Reason

A farm wife living near Bainbridge usually drives to town in her car. One day she had to look after some business at the lumber yard and on this occasion she hitched the nag to the buggy and drove to town.

The attendant at the lumber yard noticed the change from the car to the buggy and asked:

"How does it happen you're driving the old nag today?"

The farm wife replied:

"I have to drive the nag because I haven't the jack to plunk down to buy juice to run the old bus."—Exchange.

More Wheat Land in Ireland

Half a million acres more of wheat land in Ireland have been put under the plow than last year as a result of the new wheat quota. This was declared by Sir Boyd Merriman, solicitor general, at a Unionist feté at Fort Castle, near Berwick. He said that the remarkable recovery of the country in the last year and the great war loan conversion scheme showed that the country was not down and out. He believed that the wheat quota would end in farmers selling wheat at less than the cost of production.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedcke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one-half teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, go lighter on fatty meats, potatoes, butter, cream and pastries—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

Old Piratical Haunt

St. Thomas was once the home of two great pirate chiefs. One was called Blackbeard, because his beard was so black. And the other was Bluebeard, because his beard was blacker than black. Blackbeard's castle still dominates the harbor of St. Thomas, and could be bought for the proverbial song. It is a tower of crumbling stone, haunted, they say, with the ghosts of pirates bold and their lights of love.

Bats Not Blind

Of the many varieties of bats there are none that cannot see, although, being nocturnal in their habits, their eyes are better suited for seeing in the dark than in a bright light.

Miserable with Backache?

It May Warn of Kidney or Bladder Irregularities

A persistent backache, with bladder irregularities and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling may warn of some disordered kidney or bladder condition. Users everywhere rely on Doan's Pills. Praised for more than 50 years by grateful users the country over. Sold by all druggists.

FRENCH MOROCCO

A Street Singer in Morocco.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

FRENCH Morocco is becoming all-conscious. Preliminary borings near the town of Mekinez have shown such promise that modern machinery which will drill to great depths has been ordered.

French Morocco, though streaked with the rugged heights of both the High Atlas and the Anti-Atlas mountains, and dotted with vast dry plains and deserts which give a large part of its area a forbidding aspect, has several large cities of great commercial and political importance in northern Africa.

Casablanca and Rabat are the leading coast towns and handle a large part of the colony's sea trade. Casablanca was founded by the Portuguese about a decade before Columbus discovered America, but the newcomers held it only a short time until the natives routed them and set up a Moslem stronghold. Casablanca was occupied by the French in 1907 and began improvements that have made it the show city of Morocco.

From a city with a population equal to that of Elgin, Ill., Casablanca has grown by leaps and bounds until it now has nearly as many inhabitants as Kansas City, Mo. The pedestrian could easily imagine himself in a European city were it not for the Africans of midnight black, chocolate brown and tan complexions. One-half the inhabitants are Moslems; slightly more than a third are French, Spanish and Italian, and other Europeans, and the rest are Jews.

The price of a room in one of Casablanca's hotels not only affords European comforts but also the equivalent of a ring-side circus seat. An automobile rolls by with a prosperous French business man or a fez-bedecked Turkish merchant; wealthy sheiks stroll along in their flowing white garments and tightly wound turbans, holding each other's hands; dignified French officers in medal-bedecked uniforms are ousted from the paths of little grain-laden donkeys with barefooted Moors astride, and now and then, plodding along in awkward fashion, three or four moth-eaten, cud-chewing camels pass by, often followed closely by a small furred "ship of the desert."

Thickly sprinkled among this seething mass of humanity of various breeds and blends, are the ever-present noisy street hawkers, darting here and there with their home-made rugs, sweetmeats, hammered brassware, and "whatnots."

Bad Harbor Was Made Safe.

Why France poured a fortune into Casablanca was a mystery to Europe. It had one of the worst natural harbors on the coast. The low, rocky shore lay open to the strong west winds and the lashing waves of the Atlantic. No river runs through the city to the ocean. But the appropriation was partly used for the construction of breakwaters and harbor improvements that have been dominant factors in the city's development to the second largest city in the protectorate. Ocean-going vessels that anchored perilously off the coast can enter Casablanca's port today.

Casablanca also has electric lights and power and modern water works. Railroads now connect the city with Morocco, (Marrakesh) the capital of the protectorate and North African points. Daily air service is maintained between Casablanca and Toulouse, France, and planes fly every two weeks to Oren.

Rabat was built almost 800 years ago by the labor of 40,000 Christian slaves. The city is located on the northwestern coast adjacent to the old city of Sala, a former fair of camels.

There are two present-day Rabats, French Rabat and the native town. French Rabat is like a bit of transplanted Europe. It has wide streets and smart little villas like those of the Riviera. In its streets are women wearing Parisian clothes, business men in sack suits and smartly uniformed French officers. There are telephones and electric lights and motor cars. Everything is modern and efficient and over 12,000 Europeans live within its borders.

Native Rabat is another story. Squat houses line the narrow streets. From the mosque tower the muezzin calls the faithful to prayer. Turbaned Arabs of the Beni Hassan tribe, Berbers from the hills and negroes file through the bazaars. Heavily veiled women travel silently through the crooked streets. The plaintive, barbaric wailing, which the Moroccans call music, may be heard at all times during the day. Groups of the sick and the deformed, clad in dirty white rags, sit in the streets of the bazaars begging alms from the passers-by.

Native Rabat Is Picturesque.

The souks or bazaars of Rabat are as famous as their wares, red and yellow leather boots, pottery, and the rugs which the Rabati women weave in their homes and color with vegetable dyes. These rugs, when new, are a little too brilliant for Western taste but they fade into a pale, harmonious blending of colors with wear.

There is slight demand for chairs or knives and forks in the souks. Chairs are used only by the stiff-legged Christian tourists who visit the city and knives and forks are not necessary to eat couscous, the staple vian of the Moroccan meal. Couscous is made with flour and meat and vegetables, and tastes not unlike the American dish of dumplings cooked with meat. It is served in a big pot and everyone sticks in his hand and brings forth his portion in three fingers. To use four fingers or two fingers is extremely bad manners. Moroccan etiquette demands three.

Because of its mild climate, Rabat is a favorite residence of the present Sultan of Morocco, Sidi Mohammed, who has other palaces in Fez, Mekinez and Marrakesh.

Marrakesh and Fez are the outstanding inland cities. Marrakesh is one of the busiest marts in French Morocco. An almost constant stream of camel and donkey caravans passes through the city gates where traders meet each other and also the local wool and leather merchants, tanners, silk weavers, armorers and manufacturers of agricultural implements.

In the Marrakesh Bazaars.

The bazaars in the narrow, dusty streets of the city are thronged from dawn to dusk. In one street deeply sunburned Berber men in flowing, white robes and turban-wound heads stand in groups while others bicker with sullen, bewhiskered shopkeepers over the price of inexpensive merchandise. Silent, heavily-veiled Moslem women peer into yarn and silk shops where red, yellow, green and blue strands form colorful displays.

Fierce looking tribesmen from the near-by Atlas mountains with firearms protruding from their belts appear hypnotized by half-naked silk spinners and dyers plying their trades in congested stalls. Frightened black slave men, stooped under back-breaking loads, sink before the piercing glances of their beturbaned masters. Robust slave girls, with cumbersome jars balanced on their hips, cautiously come and go without jostling other pedestrians of high caste. Vivacious Berber women, with homemade blankets accost dusty camel men fresh from the outlying desert regions.

Around the corner peoples of many races watch metal workers hammer copper, silver and steel into plate and receptacles of all kinds, between shelves where finished articles of their labor glisten in the bright African sunlight.

The thronged streets lead the traveler to believe that all of Marrakesh's houses have emptied their 340,000 occupants, as well as the city's visitors, into the bazaars at one time; but nearby, the Jama-el-Fna, the Marrakesh public square, is also surging with humanity, jostled by donkeys and awkward camels, whose loads overhang their sides.

From the roof of a one-story building bordering the square, the traveler sees a group of men watching the performance of a snake charmer who teases a reptile until it bites his tongue, which he cures by filling his mouth with a handful of earth. Another group gasps as a snake eater chews a handful of yellow straw and sends blue smoke from his lips.

PROBLEMS OF THE MODERN HOME

Joshua 24:14, 15; Mark 10:2-12; Ephesians 6:1-3.

GOLDEN TEXT—And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord. Joshua 24:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing God in My Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Rules to Live By at Home.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—My Home Problems.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Problems of the Modern Home.

I. A United Home to Serve the Lord (Josh. 24:14, 15).

Joshua had succeeded Moses as Israel's leader. He was conscious of his being taken away soon in death from the people (Josh. 23:1), and of their liability to lapse into idolatry. He reviewed before them the history of God's goodness to them, and appealed to them for a rational consideration of their responsibility, and the exercise of sober judgment (v. 14). He wanted their choice of God as over against the false gods to be a balanced judgment. He followed this appeal with his own example (v. 15). He told them that his mind was already made up. He associated his household with himself. His decision was not a hasty one. It had been talked over at home, therefore, he uttered the united sentiment of his family.

II. The Father and Mother in the Home (Mark 10:2-12).

God constituted the race male and female. His purpose was that they should be united for life in holy wedlock, with love as the bond of union between them.

1. Marriage should not be degraded by divorce (vv. 2-5). God ordained the marriage relation, and intended it to be indissoluble. God, through Moses, suffered, limited, and regulated divorce, because of the hardness of the hearts of the people.

2. Marriage is God's primal law (vv. 6-8). The ideal law of life for the subjects of Christ's kingdom is marriage. This is proven by the fundamental fact of sex, "God made them male and female" (v. 6).

3. Marriage has God's sanction (v. 9). God declared to Adam that man should leave father and mother and cleave unto his wife.

4. Marriage of the divorcer forbidden (vv. 4-12). The marriage relation should be broken only by death, or by sin. The party responsible for divorce, who marries again, is guilty of adultery.

III. Members of the Household (Eph. 6:1-3).

In the home are found father, mother, children, and sometimes servants. Each member has rights and privileges which must be respected.

1. Children (vv. 1-3).

a. They should obey their parents (v. 1). The ground for this obedience is the fact that the parents stand in the place of God with the children.

b. The children should honor their parents (v. 2). Obedience to parents is limited to the period of immaturity. When children take their place in the establishing of new units in society, they are no longer under obligation to obey their parents. Honor means to have in reverence.

2. Parents (v. 4). Doubtless the word "fathers" is intended to be inclusive of the mothers.

a. Provoke not your children to wrath. Parents should not irritate or aggravate their children.

b. To bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Nurture doubtless means to educate, and admonition to discipline.

3. Servants and masters (vv. 5-6).

a. Servants are to obey their masters (vv. 5-6). This obedience should be (1) Servants should have proper respect for their masters, and an earnest desire to please them. (2) Servants should perform their tasks as though they were doing them for Christ's sake. (3) The servant's aim should not be merely to please the eyes of the master, but to render honest and acceptable service. (4) With good will. It should not be primarily for approval or pay. Christian servants will perform their duties to their masters with the same fidelity as they would unto Christ. (5) Rewarded by the Lord (v. 8). The Lord takes account of our service in the common ways of life, and will some day reward us accordingly.

b. Masters to be considerate (v. 9). Just as servants are to give wholehearted consideration for their masters, so masters are to look after the best interests of their servants.

Go With God

God is always ready to go before us. Indeed, we never can go anywhere victoriously unless he does lead us. To go without him into any of life's experience—struggles, dangers, or duties—is to fail.

Reveals Character

Did we get everything we craved for in the hour of asking it, I think it would be a long farewell to manhood. Work reveals character, but so does waiting.—George H. Morrison.

BLAME SUN SPOTS FOR "HARD TIMES"

If the sun didn't put us on the spot, then it put its spots on us. In other words, the sun's spots caused the depression (hard times have been blamed on almost everything else, so why not on the sun?). A study of sun spots made by the Dominion observatory of the department of interior at Ottawa, Can., is reported to have indicated that profound fluctuations in living conditions and life in general accompany fluctuations in these heavenly or solar phenomena. A recent bulletin from that department points out that individual sun spots vary greatly in size, some being as small as the earth while others are five or six times as large. Complete records of sun spots kept by certain countries since 1750 show that each month can be assigned a relative sun spot number. From these monthly numbers a yearly average is figured. The yearly numbers are said to increase from a minimum to a maximum in from nine to fourteen years with an average duration for a cycle of about eleven years. This fluctuation is commonly called the eleven-year sun-spot cycle. These cycles are accompanied on the earth by fluctuations in the amount of sunlight received, precipitation, cloudiness, temperature, chemical composition of the atmosphere, electro-magnetic conditions, etc., all physical elements which control living conditions for all forms of life.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Devastation by Lemmings

The Norwegian lemmings, small creatures of the mouse tribe that live in the mountainous districts of the Scandinavian countries, are noted for the strange migrations they make at certain intervals. At these times they travel in great masses from the center of Norway to the east and west, leaving desolation in their wake. When they reach the coast they fling themselves into the sea to die. Some are always left behind, however, to propagate their race, but this does not need to be a large number, as they breed very rapidly.

Speaking Frankly

Judge—Gully or not gully?
Accused—Not gully.
Judge—Have you been sentenced before?

Accused—No. It's the first time I was ever caught.—Die Woche im Bild.

Adapted From Battle Cry
Often the motto used in heraldry was in early times the battle cry of its owner.

Girl at the Top in Health Tests

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West, are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana Allgire, 610 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bessie B. is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her ruddy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since babyhood to keep her bowels active during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

Wolves in Sheep's Clothing

The Democrats are making claims that the west will go for Roosevelt and if it should come to pass that he would be elected, with a Democratic House already in the saddle, a prolonged period of intensified depression, far to exceed anything ever witnessed in this country, will be the result. While crying out against the Smoot-Hawley tariff law which has helped us from being thrown against the rocks in this world wide depression, we are now confronted with a statement from Senator Bratton, who advocates a tariff on wool and livestock products, while he brands everything else on the list as wholesale robbery.

So much for a little salve for the wool growers, because of the fact that while he allows the salve to work in, he knows full well that his party would give no protection to the livestock industry—it never has and it never will. Then let the wool grower and the livestockman beware and avoid a repetition of former times under Democratic rule when our wool growing and livestock interests were at the mercy of the influx of foreign competition. Stay with the lifeboat.

A FAIRY STORY

Gov. Roosevelt's plan to "place a million men at work on reforestation," sounds well in print, but it is pointed out that even if it were possible to do so, a million men would reforest everything reforestable so quickly that they would be out of jobs almost before they knew they had begun.

New York is our most populous state and it is also among the greatest in area. There Gov. Roosevelt is conducting his experiment in tree planting, and yet, so it is said, his plan is giving employment to exactly 279 men.

Surely, New York should be able to use a greater number than 279 out of the proposed million for the whole United States.

If that is all that New York state can employ upon this very worthy kind of a job, would Gov. Roosevelt expect the other 47 states to give work to the remaining 999,721?

That would put upon the other states an average labor load of 21,271 and a fraction men each, which, we submit, would be an over-supply.

Still, the Rooseveltians have a hard time laughing off those 55000-Hoover audiences. — New Mexican.

More or Less Important

I GOT A DANDY QUOTE FOR 'N' PAPER. READ IT IN A NEWSPAPER LAST NIGHT. GOSH! BIG BUSINESSMAN REMARKED:

"ADVERTISING IS PRETTY MUCH LIKE RUINING A FURNACE: YOU'VE GOT TO KEEP ON SHOVELING COAL."

AIN'T THAT THE TRUTH? IF YOU QUIT SHOVELING COAL, THE FIRE GOES OUT, AND IF YOU QUIT ADVERTISING, BUSINESS FALLS OFF

YES, BUT YOU DON'T RUN A FURNACE IN THE SUMMER TIME, AND I DON'T WANT TO SUGGEST THAT ADVERTISING BE DONE ONLY IN WINTER.

BECAUSE WE'VE GOT SEVERAL ADVERTISERS NOW WHO QUIT EVERY SUMMER, I WOULD SUGGEST YOU ADD TO THAT SAME REMARK: "ADVERTISING IS ALSO LIKE RUNNING AN ICE-BOX. YOU'VE GOT TO KEEP ON PUTTING IN ICE!"

GOSH, BOSS! YOU'RE THERE! YOU JUST THINK OF EVERYTHING, DON'T YOU?

GEORGE WASHINGTON
GENERAL AND COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE ARMY OF THE UNITED COLONIES

JOHN ADAMS OF MASSACHUSETTO

THE fates were at work. At the proper moment John Adams rose and nominated Colonel George Washington as General and Commander in Chief of the Army of the United Colonies. His selection was made unanimous.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S PISTOLS

THE Second Continental Congress convened in Philadelphia in May 1775 in Independence Hall with John Hancock of Massachusetts as president. Again Washington was a delegate, saying little, thinking much. This time the people were not for peace. All efforts toward that end had been given up as looting and other measures were needed.

President Hoover Speaks to Farmers—Roosevelt and Smith Bury the Hatchet—Insull Brothers Indicted—Japan Ignores Lytton Report.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

BOTH Republicans and Democrats derived great encouragement from developments of the week, and seemingly with the best of reason. The former hailed with glee the warm reception given President Hoover in Iowa, before an enthusiastic thousands the Chief Executive delivered in Des Moines his first speech in his campaign for re-election, addressing himself especially to the corn and hog raisers.

H. H. Lehman who have been showing such decided discontent that their shift to the Democrats was freely predicted. He declared the program offered by his rival would mean ruin to American agriculture and laid down one of his own that included the maintenance of high protective tariffs on farm products, the amelioration of the farm mortgage situation and the use of annual payments on the foreign debt to advance foreign markets for American farm products.

Both Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Hoover, who accompanied him on the trip, are natives of Iowa, and the people of the state gave them a cordial welcome. The President was so encouraged that on the way back to Washington he made back platform speeches in ten towns in Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Democracy's glee was caused by the reconciliation between Franklin D. Roosevelt, its Presidential candidate, and Al Smith, who had been holding rather aloof in the campaign. The hatchet was buried in the New York state Democratic convention where both Roosevelt and Smith were fighting to bring about the nomination of Herbert H. Lehman for governor against the stubborn opposition of Tammany Hall leaders. Going to the platform to place Lehman in nomination, Smith grasped the hand of his old friend with a smiling "Hello, Frank," and the governor responded with cordiality as the cameras of the press photographers clicked madly and the crowd yelled approval. Roosevelt said:

"Al, this is from the heart." And Al replied: "Frank, that goes with me, too." Tammany Hall was utterly defeated and Lehman was nominated, with W. M. Bray of Utica for lieutenant governor. Senator Robert F. Wagner was accorded a renomination. The Republican New York convention nominated Col. William J. ("Wild Bill") Donovan for governor; F. Truitt Davison, assistant secretary of war, for lieutenant governor, and George Z. Medaille for United States senator. At the notification ceremonies Colonel Donovan declared himself in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

"MERELY a diary of a fortnight's journey through Manchuria" was the way Minister of War Sadao Araki characterized the report of the Lytton commission to the League of Nations when the Japanese cabinet met to consider it. Other ministers agreed that it was unworthy of Japan's serious attention, and the cabinet then made this curt announcement:

"The government has decided that the Lytton report does not constitute cause to alter its Manchurian policy." Various responsible leaders in Japan gave notice that their country would continue its domination of Manchukuo, and the world wonders just what the League of Nations can and will do about it. The Japanese war office issued a statement declaring that if the league acts in the spirit of the Lytton report, Japan will have no alternative but to withdraw from the league and oppose its action with the firmest determination. France has shown decided sympathy with Japan in the controversy and Great Britain has been rather lukewarm in her friendship for China. The United States, though not in the league, is a most important factor in the affair, and Japan insists that Secretary of State Stimson has again displayed his animosity toward Japan and is a menace to the good relations between Japan and America. This is because Mr. Stimson in an address before the Philadelphia Union League club said President Hoover had formulated a successful policy of nonrecognition for territorial gains made by force of arms, and added that the "open door" policy was necessary to preserve China's territorial and administrative integrity.

The Lytton report, insisting "less on the responsibility for past actions than on the necessity for finding means to prevent their repetition," calls for the establishment of an autonomous demilitarized Manchuria under Chinese sovereignty. The details of its status are to be agreed upon at an advisory Sino-Japanese conference following the recommendations of the league and with the league council sitting as arbiter.

It holds up practically to ridicule the Mukden incident of September 18, 1931, over which Japan jumped off to the occupation of Manchuria. It intimates the whole thing was planned. "But even in Japan," says the report in a tart passage, "appropriate means must be found for attainment of every end."

WHEN Samuel Insull, former public utilities magnate, and his brother Martin ignored the request of State's Attorney Swanson in Chicago that they return from France and Canada, respectively, to assist in the untangling of the affairs of the numerous corporations with which they had been connected, Mr. Swanson became indignant and promptly presented his cases against them to the grand jury. Within a few days that body returned three indictments charging embezzlement, larceny by bailment and larceny. Capases for the arrest of the brothers were issued and steps to bring about their extradition were taken.

The first indictment names Martin Insull alone. It charges that he abstracted by means of, embezzlement, larceny, and larceny as bailor $377,720 from the treasury of the Middle West Utilities company and used the money to protect his personal brokerage accounts.

The second indictment charges Samuel Insull and Martin Insull jointly with using $60,000 of the funds of the Middle West Utilities company to protect brokerage accounts carried in the name of Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing company.

The third indictment names the brothers jointly on a charge of abstracting $104,222 from the treasury of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company for the same purpose.

Samuel Insull in Paris and Martin in Canada both refused to comment on the news from Chicago.

PRESIDENT DE VALERA of the Irish Free State has brought about the dismissal of James McNeill as governor general, and it is reported in Dublin that he will not nominate a successor, either taking the position himself or cutting the Irish State entirely away from the British commonwealth. When he decided that McNeill should go the British government had no alternative to acceding to the demand.

Mr. De Valera on his way home from Geneva conferred with British cabinet members in London and it was agreed that the Anglo-Irish economic war, that started over the withholding of the land annuities due the British government, should be settled by direct negotiation. This was a victory for the Irish Free State, for the British had previously insisted the dispute should be arbitrated by an empire tribunal.

GREAT BRITAIN took steps to break the disarmament deadlock caused by Germany's withdrawal from the Geneva conference when her demand for armament equality was refused. The British ambassador to Berlin invited the German government to send representatives to a four-power conference in London to consider the German demand and to pave the way for Germany's return to the conference. The other three powers would be France, Great Britain and Italy, and the United States would be invited to send an observer. The German reply was that it would be useless to hold the meeting unless Germany were first given certain guarantees that her demand for equality would be really fulfilled.

Norman Davis, acting chief of the American disarmament delegation, went to London to talk about fleet reductions proposed by President Hoover. On the way from Geneva he stopped in Paris to sound out the French on the Franco-Italian obstacle to making the London treaty a five-power pact.

IRAQ was admitted to a seat as a sovereign member of the League of Nations, the first country in the Arabian world to reach that status, and King Faisal is now an entirely independent monarch. Great Britain resigned her mandate over Iraq and was highly praised for her generosity by all speakers in the league assembly. There was an intimation that France should follow this example in regard to Syria, but the French at Geneva were noncommittal. Iraq was formed after the World War out of the former Turkish provinces of Bagdad, Mosul and Basra. Within its boundaries are vast oil fields, and the population is nearly three millions.

RESTED by their long summer vacation, the venerable members of the United States Supreme court resumed their labors and one of the first matters to come before them was of great importance to all states along the Great Lakes, including New York. Attorney General Gilbert E. Bennett of Ohio, acting on behalf of Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, presented an application for the appointment of a receiver, commissioner or United States marshal to run the Chicago sanitary district and carry out and make effective the decree entered by the court in April, 1930, restricting the withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan by the drainage canal. The purpose is to force Chicago to hasten the building of sewage disposal plants and thus reduce the diversion of water. Instead of the eight years allowed for building the works before the diversion is cut to 1,500 feet in 1938 it will require 37 years at the present rate of construction, the applicants' brief declared.

DOWN in Medicine Lodge, Kansas, there was an interesting three-day celebration in commemoration of the signing of a treaty in October, 1867. The pact was between the United States and the Kiowa, Comanche, Cheyenne, Arapaho and Apache tribes, and it ended bloody warfare and permitted the unobstructed construction of railroads and wagon roads to the Pacific coast. In return the Indians were allotted reservations on which they have made their homes ever since.

MEXICO'S government and the Catholic church are again at each other's throats. In a recent encyclical Pope Pius discussed what he called "the new and legal persecution" of the church and Catholicism in Mexico and announced a policy of "formal co-operation" without renouncing principles or withdrawing past denunciations. President Abelardo L. Rodriguez countered with a declaration that all the Catholic churches in Mexico "would be closed to religious use if the Catholic church's attitude, as shown in the encyclical" should continue. This attitude he called insolent and defiant.

Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, papal legate to Mexico, took part in the controversy and the chamber of deputies unanimously voted to ask President Rodriguez to deport him. The president immediately complied and the legate was put aboard a plane and shipped to San Antonio, Texas.

ONE of the heroes of the British conquest of the Sudan, Gen. Sir Rudolph Slatin Pasha, died in Vienna at the age of seventy-five. Born in Austria, he enlisted for service with the British army in the Sudan when he was twenty-one years old. Under Gen. "Chinese" Gordon, he led the British in their bloody war with the Mahdi, Arab chieftain. It was Sir Rudolph's prowess in beating back the dervish tribesmen in 27 battles which won him the title of "The Hammer of the Arabs." In 1885 he was taken prisoner by the Arabs and was held a slave for twelve years. After his escape he served under Lord Kitchener.

BRAZIL'S civil war, which had lasted for nearly three months came to a close with the unconditional surrender of the rebels in the state of Sao Paulo. Military police replaced the rebel government in Sao Paulo, capital of the state, and the great coffee port of Santos was reopened to commerce. The revolutionary army disbanded and its leader, Gen. Bertoldo Klinger, and other officers were held under arrest at the federal army headquarters at Cruzeiro.

CHILE went through another switch in government when Gen. Bartolome Blanche, provisional president, was forced to resign by a revolt against the military regime. He was succeeded by Judge Abraham Oyanedel who will serve until the election set for October 30.

Dr. Harmodio Arias was inaugurated as the fifteenth president of the republic of Panama, and pledged himself to economy and the payment of the nation's foreign financial obligations.

PARTIAL failure of the five year plan was admitted by the central committee of the Communist party of Soviet Russia at its annual meeting to formulate policies for the coming year. It decided that quality rather than quantity should be the watchword for 1933, and outlined this procedure: Improvement of the cities' supplies of food and other commodities; increases in the production of goods for domestic consumption and elimination of the speculative spirit by the development of a system of controlled prices and the introduction of labels for manufactured goods to improve their quality.

THERE was more trouble in the Illinois coal fields and detachments of the National Guard were posted in several towns to curb the actions of the striking miners and their pickets. One of the peculiar developments was a strike of high school pupils in Kincaid because the Chicago school board had bought coal from a company operating under the $5 wage scale. In that town it was reported that a patrol of the militia was fired on, though no one was wounded.

Modern Contract Bridge By Lella Hattersley

No. 22 Favorable and Unfavorable Times to Double

IN MAKING a penalty double of an opponent's bid which promises, but does not insure you a set of two tricks, go cautiously about doubling under the following circumstances:

Unfavorable times to double:

If your partner has offered no bid of any kind.

(He may or may not have a defensive trick but you have no right to count on him for anything.)

When you have great length in the suit your partner has bid.

(It is obvious in such a case that the opponents will trump, probably the first round.)

If your partner has made a pre-emptive bid.

(Which is a warning not to count on him for any winning tricks unless the hand is played at his suit.)

When your opponent has shown a two-suited hand.

(He has told you that he has two suits probably of 5 or more cards which leaves him few cards in the remaining suits; if you double him in spite of such a warning do not be surprised when honor-tricks which you had counted on making in these two remaining suits are promptly trumped. And even though you are sure of setting one of two suits which your adversary has bid, do not double unless you are prepared to set the second.)

Favorable times to double:

When your partner has bid one, two or three originally.

When your partner has made any voluntary bid.

When your partner has assisted your bid.

When you can be sure of setting either of two suits your opponents have bid.

And best of all, when your double is based on sure trump tricks.

At all times, when doubling a suit bid, it is well to have at least one of your setting tricks in the opponent's suit.

Unless you have a set up suit, which you are sure of running off for a given number of tricks, your double of an opponent's no trump must be based on the count of combined honor-tricks which you can definitely locate in your partner's hand and your own. Using the yard stick measurement, you can figure that a holding of 8 honor-tricks in your partnership hands will, as a rule, defeat an adverse one or two no trump bid by about two tricks. And 4 combined honor-tricks should set a 3 no trump bid 2 tricks.

When Your Partner Doubles for Penalties

If your partner doubles an opponent for a penalty when you have made no bid, it is not necessary for you to become excited and feel that you should take action because your hand happens to be a bust. Unless you have made a voluntary bid your partner has no right to count on you in any capacity, and his double, if sound, should be based not on trick expectation from your hand but on 2 setting tricks in his own. Do not consider taking your partner out of his penalty double unless you have some bizarre distribution which strongly indicates that his double will fail.

When your partner doubles after you have made a bid, or assisted him, do not interfere unless you have good reason to believe that he is counting on a trick or tricks which your hand will fail to furnish. For example, if you have made a deceptive bid, or if you have previously assisted your partner's suit on distributional values alone and hold five or more of his trumps with no outside honor-tricks. In such cases it is usually advisable to take out your partner's penalty double. But it is not necessary to take your partner out of a double which he has made after you have opened with a pre-emptive bid. If he understands your bid he is already warned of your lack in defensive tricks, and his subsequent double tells you that he is independent of your assistance.

Quite often it happens that you find yourself in the delightful position of having a choice between a safe penalty double and a sure game bid of your own. When each of these alternatives appears to be certain of success, the one which will net you the greater number of points should be chosen.

Early Boat Races

In 1715 an Englishman named Thomas Doggett instituted boat races among the fishermen on the Thames. The first English regatta took place on the Thames, off Ranelagh gardens, in 1776. This was modeled on the Venetian regatta. The first race in the United States occurred in 1811 between two barges—the Knickerbocker of New York and the Invincible of Long Island, the former being the winner.

Largest Gold "Nugget"

In the Australian gold rush, which led to a tremendous development in the middle of last century, some of the biggest known nuggets came to light. The Welcome Stranger, which weighed 2,315 ounces, was worth $45,000. In New South Wales in 1872 men came across a slab 4 inches thick, 4 feet 9 inches long, and 2 feet 9 inches wide; the largest mass of gold ever found.

Olympic Clockwork
Thirty Swiss "split second" watches costing some $8,000 were used to insure accurate timing in all 1932 Olympic races, in addition to which a moving picture camera stop watch combination was used for the first time.

One of the greatest aids to fame is an odd name.

Pioneer Telephone User
In Paris the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor was recently awarded to a man named Giroudoux, because he had been the first person who, fifty years ago, subscribed to the newly-introduced telephone. In the eighties of the last century there were only about 200 telephone subscribers in Paris; at first they had no numbers, but were rung up by name.

Wisconsin Eden Found
A Gatesburg (Wia.) newspaper has discovered and republished a pamphlet written years ago by Rev. D. O. Van Slyke, preacher, soldier and farmer, declaring that "the veritable garden of Eden, or a place that answers the Bible description of that notable spot better than anything yet discovered," is located in Trempealeau county, Wia.—Washington Star.

Frank C. Rolland

Candidate for the State Senate on the Republican ticket from District No. 18, which contains the counties of Lincoln and Otero, came to this part of the country in the year of 1898 since which time he has resided in Alamogordo and for that period he has been in the drug business. Having resided here for so long, it makes him so well known that he hardly needs an introduction to our people.

Frank is a brother to our esteemed local druggist, Art Rolland, and is possessed of the same genial disposition, which makes his friends over both counties, legion.

The qualifications of this gentleman for the office, are 100 per cent, and if elected, he will give the two sister counties an ideal representative in the State Senate.

PETER B. KYNE

An unusually interesting story into which is woven an appealing romance, an abundance of interesting and exciting adventure, a vein of typical Kyne humor and a number of lovable characters.

The scene of the story is Texas. The heroine is a rich New York girl transplanted quite by accident into the border country, and the hero a young Texas ranchman with the blood of Ireland in his veins.

It is one of the best stories this famous writer has produced.

To appear serially in these columns, and we advise every reader to follow it from beginning to the end.
