

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Basketball Games

On Wednesday night, the El School basketball team took revenge on Santa Rita for their defeat of Saturday night, by winning by a wide margin. Santa Rita was handicapped from the fact that two of their star players were absent. Louis Baca was high point man for the El. In the second game, the Epworth Leaguers trounced the Physical Ed. team. Maurice Lemon starred for the winners. The third game was called off in deference to the lecture delivered by Father Brady at the Lyric theatre.

Burned Feet of Victim in Bold Robbery

Tuesday night about 8 o'clock, three masked men went to the ranch home of R. A. Hunnicutt, 5 miles southeast of Capitan and rapped on the door. There were but two men at home, Mr. Hunnicutt and son Dee. The father went to the door, whereupon he was seized by the men and ordered to hand over the sum of $380, which they had received from the Titworth Co., Inc., at Capitan, for a cattle shipment thru that firm to the Feyton Packing Co., of El Paso. On his refusal to divulge the place where the money was hid, the men bound his hand and feet with barbed wire.

They then went into the house where they found the son, and his statement that he knew nothing of his father's money and thinking him to be avoiding the truth, they also bound him with barbed wire and poured gasoline over his bare feet and set it afire. His cries reached the ears of his father who called the men, had his torture stopped and told them where to get the money, which they did and made their get-away. Sheriff McCammon has so far, found no clue to the men, but is still in that neighborhood investigating the matter.

Father Brady's Lecture

Those who missed the illustrated lecture delivered at the Lyric theatre Wednesday night, "The Seven Cities of Cibola," certainly missed a treat. Father Brady began with the earliest history of New Mexico and traced the different tribes of our native Indians to the present and it is to be regretted that space in the small country paper forbids the publication of the entire lecture. His lecture was more interesting from the fact that it abounded with historic incidents solemn in some places where in others, there was a sense of humor which brought forth applause and merriment from the large audience which eagerly listened to the talented speaker. The Business Men's Club, of which Father Brady is a member, attended in a body.

Jack Hollomon of Hollomon Bros., Lumber dealers of Alamogordo, was a Carrizozo business visitor Tuesday of this week, paying this office a sociable call while in town. Jack has "the smile that won't come off," and says business is good in his line.

The New Almanac

In a Lonesome Country Town

It was lodge night in Scurvyville and the men folks of the town, as a majority, were members of the lodge, the name of which was "Amazing Grace."

On this particular night, business of importance was to be transacted, the nature of which, was not revealed to their wives. Slim Pickerell was the head officer and was considered one of the hardest-bolled presiding officers in that part of the country. The business was of such nature as to arouse heated arguments and several fist fights occurred in which the President acted as referee. Outside of a few skinned noses and several sprained ankles, everything was O. K.

But the time of the meeting lengthened and the wives of the loyal members of Amazing Grace Lodge began to worry about their husbands, so they commenced making inquiries. They sent word to the livery stable, and Si Perkins said that the lantern was still burning at the entrance, but not being a member of the lodge, he was afraid to make any inquiries for fear he would be put on the spot and taken for a ride.

There was but one telephone girl in Scurvyville, and she was willing to make affidavit to the fact that business had been so good that she hadn't time to take a nap after 12 o'clock, so numerous were the calls for information from wives of the members of Amazing Grace lodge, who wanted to know why the meeting should last until nearly morning. These were the first night calls in six months.

The only wife who didn't worry was the one of President Slim Pickerell, for she never questioned the length of his absence and knew he could take care of himself. Slim is a corker.

At between 2 and 3 o'clock, Zeke Hedgepeth sneaked home and entering by way of the kitchen, kicked over the swill bucket, stumbled and fell, skinning his nose against the stove pipe. Ezra Giffin's wife vowed that Ezra had been kidnapped or sandbagged, because he spoke of watching two suspicious men hanging around his bicycle shop.

When the chickens began to crow, the meeting adjourned, the reason for the delay was a debate over a motion to raise the dues to 25 cents per month.

Mrs. John Townsend entertained about fifty guests with a dancing party at her home in White Oaks Saturday night. At the close of the merriment, the hostess served refreshments.

White Oaks Notes

Rev. Sloan filled his regular appointment at the church house last Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Jackson entertained with a turkey dinner last Wednesday night for Mr. and Mrs. W. Van Schoyck and family.

O. E. S. Installation

The Star of the East shone with brilliancy last Thursday evening at Masonic Temple when the officers of Comet Chapter No. 29, Order of Eastern Star together with other officers which were appointed by the incoming Worthy Matron, were duly installed. Sister Mae English was the installing officer and was assisted by sister Eula Mayer, with sister Ella Brickley as chaplain and marshal, respectively. Sisters Nettie Lemon and F. L. Elliott, assisted by sister Mattie Kelley, organist, greeted the new staff of officers with songs appropriate to the ceremonies of their stations.

The Misses Helen Frances Huppertz and Ardeene McCammon, daughters of the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, favored the assemblage with a violin-piano duet in a pleasing and appreciative manner.

Sister Eula Mayer, in a few well chosen words, presented the retiring Worthy Matron, sister Anna Stimmel, with a beautiful Penn Matron's jewel, to which that lady responded, graciously thanking the Chapter, after which the assemblage retired to the banquet room where delicious refreshments were served. The new officers are as follows:

Mary McCammon, W. M.; C. P. Huppertz, W. P.; Gussie Titworth, Associate Matron; S. B. Bostian, Associate Patron; Maude Blaney, Sec'y; Elizabeth Sproles, Treas.; Bernice Nickels, Conductress; Ina J. Mayer, A. Conductress; Pearl Bostian, Chaplain; Clara Snyder, Marshal; Kathleen Mendenhall, Organist; Elizabeth Gallacher, Ada; Helen Keller, Ruth; Nora Phipps, Esther; Frances Agusyo, Martha; Ruby Groce, Electa; Margaret Rountree, Warden; G. A. McCammon, Sentinel.

The Chapter enters the new year with a promising future and the foregoing roster has been carefully selected from the best material, which is the usual custom of this model fraternity and our best wishes go with them in their future undertakings.

Coolidge Memorial

At the M. E. Church Sunday morning, Rev. Lawson delivered a memorial sermon on the life and works of former president Calvin Coolidge. The pastor laid emphasis on the fact that the simple life he led, the quiet manner of the man, who placed principal above everything else was what added to his greatness.

"To get a true estimate of the work and worth of the man," said the pastor, "we must wait until he takes his place in American history." It will be then that the world will know and it will not be composed of ambiguous platitudes, but it will be of works and not words of the silent man in Washington who was eloquent in his silence and mighty in his deeds. It was a splendid sermon and doubly worth the time spent with the listening ear not only of the community, but of the entire nation.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Rentfrow are in Albuquerque on account of the illness of Mrs. Rentfrow's mother, Mrs. Heinrich.

Bill Mendenhall, who has been ill for the past week, is improving, although still confined to his bed. Can't keep a good man down for long, eh Jerry? We'll be seein' you.

From them we learned that Jake's General Merchandise store at Hot Springs was burned about three weeks ago, leaving but very little salvage. They are now disposing of what was left after the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. George Titworth, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Long, and Mrs. Sarah Fisher of Capitan were here Wednesday evening. Messrs. Titworth and Long attending the meeting of the Carrizozo Business Men's Club of which they are members.

Mrs. Montie Gardenhire and baby of Capitan are week-end visitors at El Paso and will return home Sunday.

STORY FOR YOUNG FOLKS

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

JOHNNY CHUCK GETS HIS NOSE PINCHED

DOWN from the Northland one stilly night while the little stars looked down from the sky and twinkled dimly Jack Frost.

So He Sat There for Some Time Staring Out and Trying to Get His Sleepy Wits Together.

showers of red and gold and brown. He covered the Green Meadows with a thin white sheet which people call by his own name—frost.

Peter Rabbit and Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote and Lightfoot the Deer and Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter and Jerry Muskrat and Paddy the Beaver and Buster Bear and Hooty the Owl, who, as you know, are usually abroad in the night, knew what was going on.

"Night bathing was popular, too when Ma was a girl," says dipping Mink, "but only on Saturday nights."

the break of day. Then when they poked their noses out of their houses Jack Frost slyly pinched them ever so gently by way of introducing himself.

Now Johnny Chuck was, as you know, very fat, very fat indeed. For weeks he had been eating all that he could. He had been stuffing himself just to make fat so that he might sleep through the long winter in comfort.

But he remembered what Sammy Jay had told him of how Jerry Muskrat and Paddy the Beaver were preparing for a long hard winter and of how old Mother Nature had given Reddy and Granny Fox and Buster Bear and Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter extra thick coats.

He yawned and stretched again, then very slowly crawled out of bed and started up his long hall to his doorway. He was still blinking as he poked his little black nose outside.

"Ouch!" said Johnny Chuck and pulled his nose back. Inside his hall it was as comfortable as ever, and so he sat there for some time staring out and trying to get his sleepy wits together. He had half a mind to turn right around and go back to bed.

"I'm fat enough!" said he. Turning, he kicked up his little black heels and disappeared inside his house. Peter Rabbit came along just in time to see those black heels vanish.

TASTY LITTLE SARDINE

THE little silvery herring which we call sardine comes from the coast of Maine.

We do not serve this delightful little fish often enough to learn of the number of dishes which it may add to our list of good things.

Sardine Rarebit.

Mix two tablespoonfuls of melted butter with half a pound of rich cheese grated or broken into bits. Stir constantly while it melts, then add one egg beaten and diluted with two-thirds of a cupful of cream.

One may buy the sardines put up in oil, or in tomato sauce, or "done" in mustard, so all tastes may be served, and given a variety.

Curried Sardines.

Mix one teaspoonful each of sugar and curry powder, adding a pinch of salt. Put these into a saucepan with one cupful of cream and a teaspoonful of lemon juice.

Sardine sandwiches are probably the most popular way of serving this little fish, next to serving them as they come from the tin, with a bit of lemon and bread and butter.

Sardines on Toast.

This is a most delightful dish for Sunday night supper or in fact for any day in the week. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, stir until smooth and browned slightly, then add a half cupful of good soup stock.

OUR GLASSES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

Oh, THE glasses we wear we consider with care.

Yes, the glasses we wear on our eyes.

For we measure and test and decide on the best.

In a way that is cautious and wise—But the rest

Of our glasses we never surmise.

Yet we look all the day all at life all the way

Through the glasses we wear on the mind.

Some with glasses of hate make the little hurts great;

There are some so exceedingly blind here of late

That they seem to see only behind.

But the best sort of glass shows each blossom you pass,

Sees the past, and a little ahead, Makes the mean rather small, makes the kind rather tall,

Makes the highway more easy to tread—After all

Makes the world just as good as God said.

Pigs on Pasture and on Dry Lot

Results of Feeding Trials Conducted in North Carolina.

By EARL H. HOFFETTER, Animal Husbandry Department, North Carolina Experiment Station—WNU Service.

Four feeding trials indicate that when young pigs have access to grass and pasture before they are put in the feeding lot, the pasture is not so necessary for gains and profits thereafter.

Our tests show that a well-balanced ration will produce just as satisfactory results when pigs are fed in a dry lot as when fed to comparable pigs on pasture. However, we want it kept in mind that the pigs we used in these trials had access to nutritious pasture grasses from soon after birth until they were started on the tests.

The pigs full-fed a balanced ration on pasture did make slightly more rapid gains and were ready for market five days earlier than those in the dry lot. When this pasture was changed at its actual cost, however, the pigs in the dry lot were more profitable.

This test was conducted to learn if pastures are more valuable to the breeding herd, to young pigs or to fattening pigs; or, are they essential to the well being of all three groups. The results seem to indicate that they are valuable to the breeding herd and to young pigs but not so vital to those animals which have been selected for finishing and market at an average weight of about 200 pounds.

Values of Corn Silage Depend on Conditions

The usual method of estimating the value of corn silage, says Hoard's Dairyman, is to compare it with hay on the basis that one ton of hay is equal in feeding value to three tons of silage. In other words, if hay in the mow is worth $18 a ton, then silage in the silo would be worth $6 a ton.

There is no accurate method of arriving at the value of silage, because it is not a product that is bought and sold on the market. The estimates given above are only a rough approximation and might need some amendment to meet local conditions.

Feeding Soybean Oilmeal

That soybeans fed to market hogs are likely to produce soft pork, which sells at a discount of from 1 to 3 cents per pound, was a fact brought out at swine feeders' day at the Minnesota University farm. The general conclusion is that it is doubtful if there are sufficient advantages in the feeding of soybeans to hogs to make it worth while to use the crop for this purpose at all.

Control of Hog Cholera

The ultimate objective of hog cholera control is the suppression of hog cholera virus. This job depends upon improved sanitary measures voluntarily applied by every farmer raising hogs. It is a community effort and at no time in the last 20 years has there been great need for co-ordination in the suppression of hog cholera.

Obviously, much depends upon a correct diagnosis, and veterinary assistance is important in this technical service. A prompt diagnosis, plus proper treatment, plus sanitary measures means a potential protection against loss in every community.—Prairie Farmer.

Make Taxation Hurt

One need not be an advocate of the general sales tax to appreciate the fact that it would have one desirable effect: it would make taxation hurt, says the Manufacturer.

Going on further, it says: "It would give every citizen regardless of income, a new understanding of the gigantic cost of the government."

Taxation need not go to that extreme in order to give the people a better understanding of the governmental cost, because of the fact that the people have already been so heavily taxed that they are crying out for relief, and taxed so that they need no such information, neither do they care anything about it.

When farms are under mortgage and men out of work on every hand, labor-saving machinery being invented at such an alarming rate with the introduction of every new idea, thus adding to the millions now out of work, men care but little about the cost of government.

The Manufacturer goes on to say in a broad reminder of what the election promises were, as follows:

"Before considering a sales tax, or any other new and increased taxation, public officials would do well to remember that in seeking office at recent state and national elections, they, one & all, stressed the need for economy in public affairs, reduced taxation and, in a number of instances, promised a 25 per cent cut in the cost of government. The people will be slow to consent to new and added taxes and it will be an ill-advised program that attempts to force such burdens on them before pre-election promises for reduced cost of government have been kept."

Calvin Coolidge

Pomp, pride, fuss and feathers never made patriots or statesmen and the greatness of our public men lay in a few words, careful planning was the result of the noble traits of American manhood and statesmanship.

In Calvin Coolidge was found all that go together to make leadership; by his wise council many misunderstandings were corrected, and by his plain and simple life, many accepted the example, like the fellow did who in his prayer said: "O Lord, help me to keep my mouth shut!"

On the day of his funeral, when flags were at half mast over the country, stores and banks closed in most of the principal cities, the Mayor of Northampton, the home town of the late ex-president, gave orders for stores to keep open. The Mayor gave as his reason for this order, that in view of the fact that every dollar was so badly needed, it would be in keeping with the views of their fellow townsmen, and the same would meet with his hearty ap-

Huge Task of Nurses
We are fixed for turning out work of this kind in double-quick time.

Red Cross public health nurses, who work in hundreds of communities, are meeting the greatest demands in history for their services, due to the depression. Visits in maternity cases, protecting the health of infants and children, and aiding mothers in distress due to unemployment of the breadwinners have taken them into thousands of homes. The nurses made 1,367,000 visits to or on behalf of individuals, and reported 810,000 school children. More than 55,000 adults were instructed in home hygiene and care of the sick.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN— The Greatest American

Bust of Franklin
in the Hall of Fame

The Apotheosis of Benjamin Franklin

Franklin, The Scientist

FROM THE PAINTING
BY SEAMUS WEST

Franklin's Printing Press

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ANNUARY 17 is the anniversary of the birth of the greatest American—Benjamin Franklin. Insofar as the memory of last year's bicentennial celebrations, honoring the birth of George Washington, is still fresh in the minds of most Americans, there may be those who read this article who will exclaim: "What! Benjamin Franklin a greater American than George Washington?"

Several years ago a historian answered that question in the affirmative and gave as his reasons the following:

1. The expression of Franklin's greatness did not depend on events beyond his control.
2. He would have been a great man in any period of world's history, in any land.
3. He would have been among the great even if his endeavors had been confined to one only of several lines of activity in which his achievements were of the highest rank.
4. He would be a great man if he were living today.

Franklin was known throughout the world as a great man long before the Revolution, in which he played a part as big as that of any other great man of the period. Washington's greatness began with the Revolution.

There is no exact standard by which human greatness can be measured or compared. But one criterion is the opinion of citizens of other nations—free from the prejudices, either for or against, held by the fellow-citizens of a great man. Outside the United States Franklin would be named more than any other American as the greatest American and as one of the few greatest men of all time.

And in comparing these two great Americans what finer tribute could be paid to the greatness of Benjamin Franklin than was once paid by Washington himself? Writing from New York on September 23, 1789, to express his sympathy for an illness which had struck Franklin down, Washington said: "Would to God, my dear Sir, that I could congratulate you upon the removal of that excruciating pain, under which you labor, and that your existence might close with as much ease to yourself as its continuance has been beneficial to our country and useful to mankind; or, if the united wishes of a free people, joined with the earnest prayers of every friend of science and humanity, could relieve the body from pains or infirmities; that you could claim an exemption on this score. But this cannot be, and you have within yourself the only resource to which we can confidently apply for relief, a philosophic mind. . . . If to be venerated for benevolence, if to be admired for talents, if to be esteemed for patriotism, if to be loved for philanthropy, can gratify the human mind, you must have the pleasing consolation to know that you have not lived in vain."

But, dispensing with any invidious comparison between two great men, the listing of the following outstanding achievements of Benjamin Franklin should be ample proof of the justness of characterizing him as "The Greatest American":

He discovered that lightning is electricity; proved it first by observation and logic, and second by actual test with his kite; also invented the lightning rod which Dr. Charles Stearns said is still the best and most reliable protection we have against lightning.

He was the first to discover that a current of electricity has a magnetic effect, i. e. that it can magnetize a piece of steel. This is the fundamental principle on which the telegraph, the telephone and the electric motor are based.

He gave the world the best theory of electricity and modern science has adopted his early conclusions. These were that electricity consists of very minute particles, so small that they can pass between the atoms or ordinary matter. They are now called electrons, and have made possible the radio.

He invented the Franklin stove, the first successful wood-burning stove used in this country and he invented the invaluable contrivance by which a fire consumes its own smoke, and made the first smoke-consuming stove or furnace.

He helped establish the first chartered fire insurance company in America.

Among his many inventions should be included a three-wheel clock, a library chair that could be converted into a stepladder, an artificial arm for taking books down from high shelves in a library, a one-arm chair that could be used like a desk or table for writing, the pulse glass, an electric jack for turning a roast of meat over the fire, the laundry mangle, a copying press for taking copies of letters or other writing, and double spectacles—near and farsight glasses.

Although not the discoverer, he was the first to demonstrate the production of cold by evaporation, a fact up to that time unknown to science.

He was the originator of the modern science of the art of ventilation. He was the first to discover the poisonous quality which repeated respirations impart to the air in a room. He was the first to call attention to the folly of excluding fresh air from hospitals and sick rooms.

He pointed out the advantage, later adopted throughout the universe, of building ships with water-tight compartments, taking the hint from the Chinese.

He was the first to discover that the temperature of the Gulf stream is higher than that of the surrounding water, and the first to have the Gulf stream charted.

He was the first to demonstrate that oil on the water will still the waves.

He was the first to discover that northwest storms come out of the southwest, in other words, that storms travel in an opposite direction to the winds. His investigations concerning the weather resulted in the establishment of our United States weather bureau of which he is today acknowledged to be the father.

He conceived and organized the Junto, the forerunner of all Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Civitan clubs of today. The Junto developed into the American Philosophical society, America's first organization of scientists, in which he took great interest and pride and of which he is justly acknowledged to be the founder.

He conceived the idea and established in Philadelphia the first successful circulating library, the mother of all our free circulating libraries of today.

He founded the University of Pennsylvania and originated the elective system of college studies and also the so-called "group system," adopted later by many of America's leading universities. He was the first writer on education to recommend the teaching of modern languages such as French and German, in preference to the exclusive study of Latin and Greek. He was the first American educator to appreciate the importance of advanced teaching of history, political economy, and the science of government, also of technical training in agriculture and in the arts and sciences. He was likewise the first to prescribe athletics as an adjunct to college education.

He introduced the following useful plants or grains into America: Scotch kale, the kohlrabi, Chinese rhubarb and Swiss barley. He promoted silk culture in Pennsylvania. He introduced the yellow willow into America for basket making. He taught the farmers of Pennsylvania to plaster their land. He introduced broom corn into Pennsylvania from Virginia.

He was probably the first American to direct attention in a published writing to the value of education in agricultural science; and probably the first also to suggest the insurance of crops against storms, plant diseases and insect pests.

He was the first American economist. He was the first president of the Society for Political Inquiries in Philadelphia, the first society in the United States interested in promoting the study of political economy.

He started the first thrift campaign. His maxims of "Poor Richard" did more to encourage thrift and industry in the Colonies than any other one thing and they were circulated all over the world. They have been more often translated and printed than any other work of an American author.

He was the first to propose daylight saving.

He devised a reformed alphabet which was based on simplified or phonetic spelling.

He devised the first scheme for uniting the Colonies, more than 20 years before the Revolution, and his plan of confederation was finally adopted in all its essential features and binds our Union together today.

He organized our postal service and was our first postmaster general.

He helped Jefferson write the Declaration of Independence.

He was our greatest diplomat and secured for us the aid of France in the Revolution and millions in money without which our independence at that time could not have been established.

He edited the best newspaper and the most successful newspaper in the Colonies. He was the first to attempt to illustrate the news in an American newspaper, and also the first to publish questions and answers in a newspaper. He is said to have drawn the first newspaper cartoon, the picture of a snake cut in sections to represent the Colonies before the Revolution.

He was the first to turn to great account the engine of advertising, now an indispensable element in modern business.

He established in 1732 the Philadelphia Zetung, the first American newspaper to be printed in a foreign language.

He was a master propagandist—America's first. He constantly issued pamphlets, or wrote newspaper articles, to promote the interests of his city, or his country, or the good of mankind. His methods were always the same in promoting a cause: To develop informed public opinion on the question he first wrote something for publication that would attract public attention.

Of all the patriots, Franklin was the only one to sign all five of the great state papers—the Declaration of Independence, the Treaty of Amity and Commerce with France, the Treaty of Alliance with France, the Treaty of Peace with England and the Constitution of the United States.

He was the originator of the idea of a League of Nations. He suggested "a united party of virtue, an international organization which would consider world matters from the viewpoint of all nations." He was the first advocate in the United States of a policy of "legal condemnation and punishment of a nation which commits aggressive warfare."

The New Mexico Educational Association has not withdrawn from its position in favor of a sales tax so far as he knows, George I. Sanchez, head of the statistical division of the State Department of Education, said.

An outbreak of petty cattle rustling is harrying New Mexico cattlemen. "Numerous cases of cattle rustling are being reported to our office each week," Miss Bertha Benson, secretary of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association, announced.

For the first time in four years snow fell in Tucson recently, covering the ground to a depth of two inches as frigid temperatures struck the state. Nogales also reported snow and the lower valleys of eastern and central-Arizona were drenched with a light rain.

Formal oath of office was filed with Secretary of State Scott White of Arizona by B. B. Moour, governor-elect; W. M. Cox, state treasurer-elect, and Thad M. Moore, tax commissioner-elect. Cox filed a bond of $100,000 as custodian of state funds and a $25,000 bond as custodian of the state compensation fund.

Proposal that should the Collier beer bill be adopted as law by Congress, that Arizona place a small tax on beer sold in the state, has been offered as a means to aid in balancing the state's budget. The tax would amount to 1 or 2 cents a bottle of beer, it was said. Establishment of the tax probably would be the only "liquid regulation" on part of the state, it was indicated.

Foes in days gone by, the red man and the white man, have peacefully settled their debts. The Indians of the Colorado river reservation were indebted to the merchants of Parker, Ariz., for $30,000 and the latter owed the redmen a like amount. They settled their financial difficulties by cancelling all debts. The agreement is believed to be the first of its kind, involving all merchants of a town and all Indians of a reservation.

Dr. R. N. Trotsky, Winslow, Ariz., physician, who says he is a cousin of Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian, was at liberty once more, exonerated of a charge of murder. After three hours and thirty-five minutes of deliberation a Concho County Superior Court jury acquitted Dr. Trotsky of a charge of murdering Mrs. Della Releford, McNary negro. Mrs. Releford died last August, following an operation performed, police said, by Dr. Trotsky.

Nearly 650 employees of the Gallup American Coal Co. resolved to "make the month of January, 1933, a non-accident month" in their safety meeting at the Elks hall in Gallup, N. M. They adopted their resolution as a motto for all employees. Through the meeting, officials of the company said, they hoped to impress upon employees' minds that they must practice safety methods all of the time and to emphasize need for safety, particularly for the men working at the face where greatest danger lies.

Dr. Grady Gammage, president of the Arizona State Teachers College at Flagstaff, announced a statistical survey had been completed indicating that the college annually spends $299,000 in Flagstaff. The statistics were compiled to illustrate the value of the college at Flagstaff. The sum includes approximately $150,000 in salaries; $75,000 by the college kitchen for food and supplies; $43,000 spent by summer school students, estimated at 700; and $23,400 spent by the 500 students during the regular year.

Traditions of three heritages—Indian, Spanish and Anglo-Saxon—combined to make New Mexico's Christmas celebrations probably the most unique and colorful in the world. Though just a stripling in the union—twenty-one years old on its last birthday—the state Saturday night, Dec. 24, observed its 23rd Christmas eve. In 1539, the first of the Spanish colonists celebrated the coming of the Christ child in the Indian pueblo of San Juan de Los Caballeros, just twenty-five miles from the ancient city of Santa Fe.

Lloyd Thomas, Arizona state superintendent of banks, announced all matters pertaining to liquidation of affairs of the Arizona Trust bank at Sedona have been closed by court order.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for January 15

JESUS AT WORK

Mark 1:21-45.
GOLDEN TEXT—But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work, John 5:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Making a Sick Mother Well.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Spent His Time.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus at Great Tasks.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

Mark's purpose in writing his treatise should steadily be borne in mind; namely, the presentation of Jesus Christ as the divine Servant energetically performing the will of God. The purpose in this section is to show the divine Servant hearing God's message to, and clothed with power to save, lost souls. Coupled with his superhuman strength is the unwearied sympathy, giving itself out in helpful and saving service.

1. Jesus Teaching With Authority (v. 21, 22).

1. The place (v. 21). It was in the synagogue in Capernaum to which he with four disciples repaired "straightway" upon his entrance into the village. He availed himself of the regular channel of instruction. Though many abuses had crept into the synagogue service, he chose to associate the new with the old order.

2. The time (v. 21). It was on the Sabbath day. His faithfulness in observing the Sabbath brought him to the place where the people assembled to worship and to hear the Scriptures expounded. He came not to destroy but to fulfill the law, even the law of the Sabbath day.

3. The impression made (v. 22). The people were astonished. Two things about his teaching impressed his hearers.

a. The substance of his message.
b. The authority of its delivery. The scribes, the professional teachers of the law, merely quoted the authorities, but Jesus with first hand knowledge set forth the truth with the enthusiasm of freshness and personal conviction.

II. Jesus Conquering Demons (vv. 23-25).

1. The outcry of the demon-possessed man (v. 23). When the power of God is manifested in the presence of evil spirits, there is bound to be an outcry from them.

2. The demon's confession (v. 24). "Thou art the Holy One of God." The one whose chief business it was to waste and destroy human life was in such miserable state as to desire to have nothing to do with Christ, and yet was forced to confess him as the Holy One.

3. Christ's attitude toward the demon (v. 25). Christ neither asked for nor accepted testimony from the demon, but sternly rebuked and cast out the foul spirit. Christ is not only himself pure, but is also able to deliver others from impurity.

4. The obedience of the demon (v. 25). The evil spirit was reluctant to leave the man and displayed his maliciousness to the very end, for he tore the man whom he was forced to leave.

5. The impression made upon the people (vv. 27, 28). The news of Christ's power spread rapidly over Galilee. The people were startled by two things:

a. The new doctrine which he brought.

b. The authority over demons.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law of Fever (vv. 29-31).

Jesus went home with Simon and Andrew. While in that home he learned of the condition of Peter's mother-in-law. He came at once and lifted her up and the fever departed. Divine healing is characterized by completeness and immediacy. Divine healing is, in this respect, to be contrasted with so-called faith healing, which is merely the exercise of the power of mind over the body.

IV. Jesus Ministering to Many (vv. 32-34).

Though the day was strenuous in its labor, he came unwearied even when the sun had set, to meet the needs of the multitudes who had gathered from all parts of the city. He healed many of diseases, and cast out many demons. The demons knew him, but the poor blind people knew him not.

V. Jesus Cleansing a Leper (vv. 35-45).

As Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee and cast out demons, his power became widely known. A leper therefore came to him saying, "If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth his hand and touched him saying, "I will, be thou clean," and immediately the leprosy departed and he was cleansed.

Look for His Leading

As a general rule, those truths which we highly revere, and which shed a degree of practical light upon the things which we are required to give up for God, are leadings of Divine grace, which we should follow without hesitation.—Fosdick.

The Kingdom Come

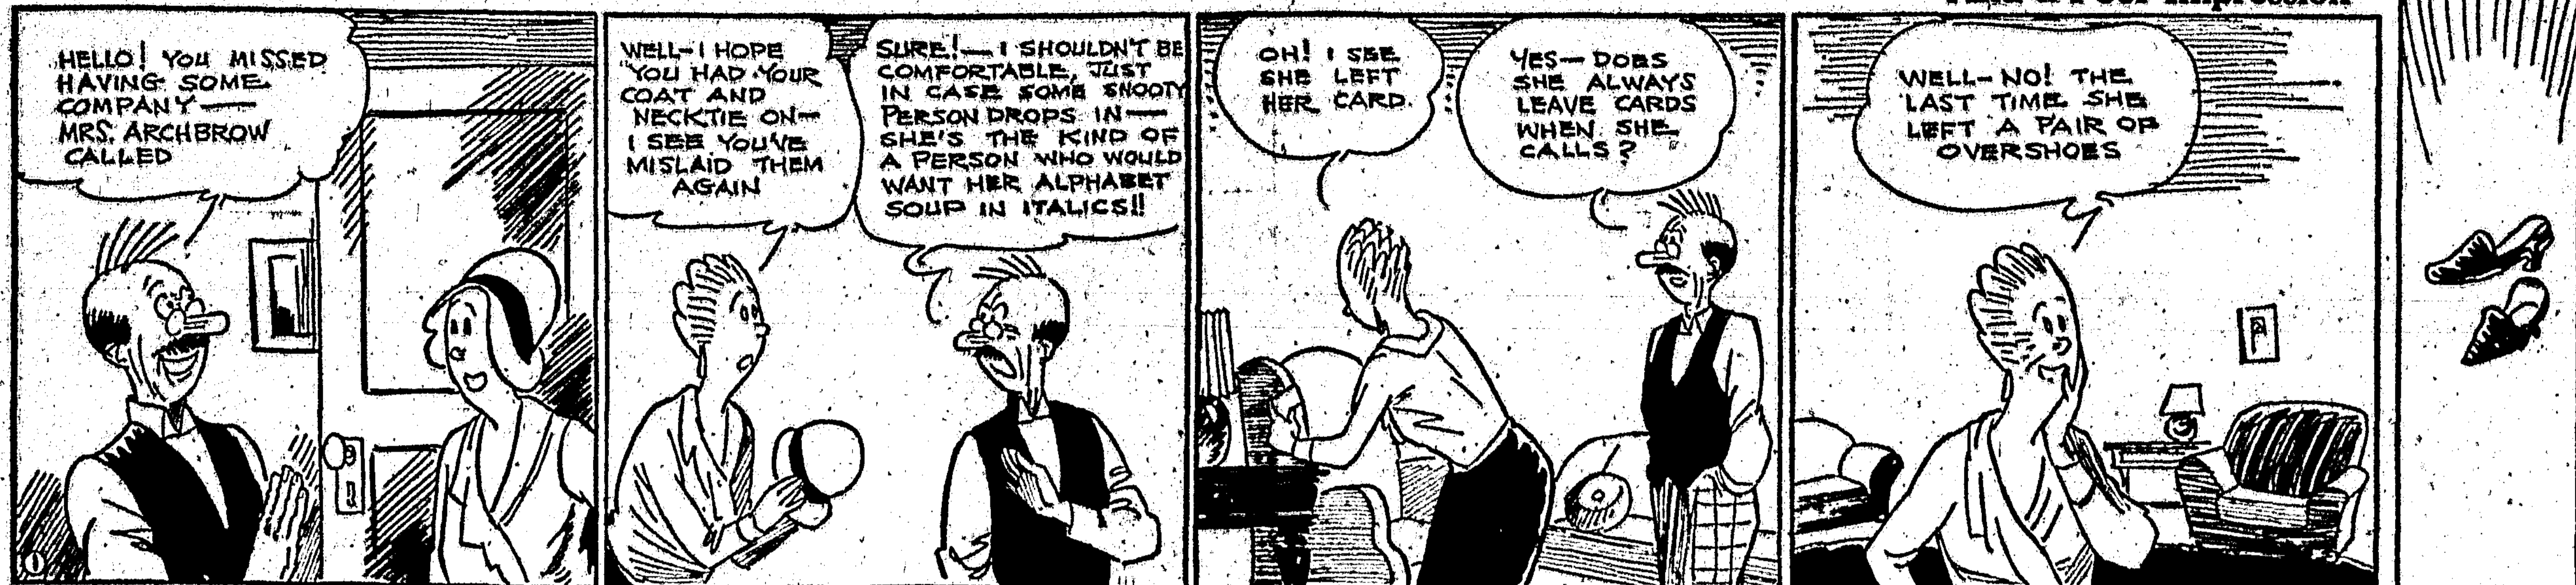

If you do not wish his kingdom, don't pray for it. But if you do, you must do more than pray for it, you must work for it.—John Ruskin.

The Brady family.

Scalded to Death

Last Saturday morning at the Coyote pumping station, 12 miles north of Carrizozo, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Torres, scalded to death when he fell into a tub of boiling soap suds which his mother had set out to do the family washing. This is a very unfortunate accident and should serve as a lesson to be more careful and not allow babies to romp near vessels of boiling water.

Edison Artist

Featured with Birch, Magician

When Birch, the famous magician, appears at the Lyric Theatre Thursday night, Jan. 19, he will present Mabel Sperry, brilliant young musical star, xylophone soloist that makes phonograph records for Edison. She is called "the world's greatest girl xylophonist."

Miss Sperry has an Artist's Special Xylophone, with the capacity of a grand piano, and the girl will play classical and novelty numbers.

Gorgeous costumes as worn by Miss Sperry add beauty to the Birch production; Miss Sperry presents special musical features at every performance.

In a letter to this office from our home town, boy Morgan Rely, who at the time of writing, was in Austin, Texas, Morgan said that the first man he met was another of our home boys, Rly Raird. Morgan went into a drug store to make a purchase, and the man who waited on him was Roy. They both send their kindest regards to their many Carrizozo friends.

Nogal Notes.

Mrs. Marvin Peacock, who has been ill with the flu, is much improved.
