LYRIC THEATRE R. A. Walker, Owner

Friday-Saturday, April 14-15 - "The Thirteenth Guest" and Woman's Club program. Admission, 10 and 35 cents.

Carrizozo Business Men's Club

At the regular 6 o'clock dinner at the Carrizozo Eating House, the Business Men's Club had for its guests, Messrs. Roger Morris, assistant Supervisor of the Forest Service office at Alamogordo; Clarence Morgan, editor of the Alamogordo News; Smith, Sorcey, Kelly and Fernsten, mining promoters from the Jicarilla region. The mining men were here to interest the club in a good road, leading either from Ancho to Jicarilla or from White Oaks, as both roads are in had condition now and would be impassable in wet weather.

The road matter was referred to Mr. Morris, who spoke at length on the need of a road to Jicarilla and said he thought the same was now included in the set-up for road service over the Lincoln Forest. He also solicited the co-operation of the club in the campaign in the interest of forest fire prevention, reciting the many ways in which forest fires were started, most of which, he said, were of incendiary nature.

E. M. Brickley, President of the Club, thanked the visitors in the name of the organization and expressed the hope that they might find it convenient to attend some of the meetings in the future.

Jericho Club's Pre-Easter Dance

Here's what you've been anxiously waiting for! Tomorrow night, April 15, the Jericho Club will give another one of its dances at Lutz Hall. If you've attended their previous dances, you will not hesitate for a moment to be there tomorrow night and be counted on as one of the Easter time merry-makers. Bill Mendenhall and his Revelers will be there to gladden your hearts with their music.

Big Twister Strikes Carrizozo

The windstorm of yesterday continued strong until about 3 o'clock, when all of a sudden, a twister struck us, taking the roof almost entirely off the Community Hall and damaging other places over town. The porch in front of the office of Paul Mayer was torn off and carried about a block and the roof of the Community Hall was thrown into the middle of the street in front of the courthouse. Fortunately, no cars were passing at that time, else a sad story would have been added to this article. The Community Hall is 100 feet in length by 50 feet in width and the damage is estimated close to one thousand dollars.

The Carrizozo Lodge of Odd-Fellows planted several Chinese Elms on their property. They were the donation of Roadmaster J. B. Dinwiddie.

Earl Harkey and Percy Welch were down from White Oaks Wednesday, attending to some business matters and returning home early in the afternoon.

Mrs. Peaker's health is much improved during their stay in the home country, where scenes of their childhood and old familiar faces, kind hearts and loving memories are the best tonic when time and distance has separated us for a long time from those we love. We also acknowledge the receipt of a beautiful Easter card from our old friends, coming in the same mail.

Nick's Cows Have Remarkable Records

Two years ago, a Jersey cow belonging to S. H. Nickels gave birth to two bouncing bull calves and last week, a pair of twins were born to the above-mentioned "lady's" daughter, a heifer and a bull calf.

Some cowmen have grown old in the stock business and maybe have never heard of twins in the cattle line, but this seems to run in this particular Jersey family—the grandmother of the one bearing the last twins, also gave birth to twins. Nick's cows certainly hold the record.

Masons and Their Ladies Crowd Masonic Temple to its Capacity

Last Saturday night, the Masonic Temple was the scene of one of the most brilliant social affairs ever witnessed in Carrizozo. The affair, forecast of which was made in the last issue of this paper, began with a dinner at 6:30, which was prepared and served under the direction of Mrs. E. H. Sweet of the Carrizozo Eating House. Mrs. Sweet filled the role of "Lady Bountiful" to the letter. She had an ample amount of hotel help at hand, so that the preparing and serving was done in short order and the dinner was excellent.

At the banquet, nearly 100 participated. The three large tables in the banquet room was insufficient to accommodate the attendance, and to seat the entire number, another table running full length of the long hallway was arranged. Following the banquet, a musical program of vocal and instrumental numbers was given after which, games and other forms of amusement kept the good-natured gathering until about 10:30. Many Masons and their ladies were present from surrounding towns.

Lesson for April 16

JESUS TRANSFIGURED

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth. John 1:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus God's Son.
JUNIOR TOPIC—With Jesus on a Mountain Top.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Glory of Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of the Transfiguration.

In II Peter 1:16-18 is given an inspired interpretation of the transfiguration by one who was present and knew all that transpired. When Christ announced his death which was to take place on the cross, the disciples were greatly perplexed as to how victory could issue from death. Peter, James, and John accompanied Jesus into the mountain. They went there to pray (Luke 9:28).

In order to revive their drooping spirits and restore their confidence he was transfigured before them. Two men were sent from the realms above to talk with Jesus about his approaching death at Jerusalem (Luke 9:31)—the very thing about which the disciples had refused to talk (Mark 8:31-33). The transfiguration is, therefore, a foregleam of the coming Kingdom. It gives the outline of the order and method of the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom.

I. Jesus the King Glorified on the Mountain (vv. 2, 3).

He took the disciples "by themselves" and was "transfigured before them." This shows that the purpose of the transfiguration terminated upon the disciples and not upon Christ. Christ's rebuke to Peter for his unwillingness to hear concerning his death seemed for a time to estrange the disciples from him. His shining raiment was typical of that glory which shall be manifest when Christ comes back to earth. His appearance on the mountain typifies his visible appearance on the Mount of Olives (Zech. 14:4, 9).

II. Peter, James, and John Represent Israel in the Flesh in Connection With the Kingdom (v. 2).

Christ is peculiarly the King of Israel. According to Ezekiel 37:21-27, the Israelites are to be the central people in Messiah's Kingdom.

III. Moses and Elijah Appeared in Glory With Jesus (v. 4-13).

These men in the glorified state are typical of the state of the saints in glory. Moses who was, once denied an entrance into Palestine now appears in glory. He represented the redeemed of the Lord who shall pass through death into the Kingdom. Elijah represents the redeemed who shall pass into the Kingdom through translation. Some shall be living upon the earth when the Lord comes, who without dying shall be changed and thus pass into the Kingdom (I Cor. 15:50, 53; I Thess. 4:14-18).

I. Peter's proposal (v. 5, 6). So definitely was the method of the Kingdom unfolded before Peter that he proposed to erect tabernacles, one for Christ, one for Moses, and one for Elijah. It is true that the unveiling of the majestic person of Christ somewhat disconcerted Peter, yet he grasped its central meaning and proposed to celebrate the advent of his Kingdom which had been prefigured in this tangible way.

2. The divine voice out of the cloud (vv. 7, 8). God declared Jesus to be his beloved Son in whom he was well pleased. The way to know what is pleasing to God is to study Jesus.

3. Christ's charge (v. 9-13). He charged them that they should tell no man concerning the things which they had seen until he had risen from the dead.

IV. The Purpose of the Establishment of the Kingdom Demonstrated (vv. 14-29).

When they descended from the Mount of Transfiguration they witnessed a great multitude in a state of perplexity. The immediate cause of this state was the grievous condition of a young man possessed with a demon (v. 18), whose father had appealed to the disciples to cast out the demon, but they were unable to do so. When they brought him unto Jesus, the foul spirit was rebuked and came forth. This young man's state is representative of the nations who are grievously oppressed by the devil. Just as this young man was grievously oppressed, causing him to cast himself into the fire and into the waters, so the nations even today in their great perplexity are doing the things which will result in their own destruction. The devil will be peculiarly active in the oppression of men and nations in the last days.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

With the possible exception of Christmas, there is no other red letter day in our calendar which has associated with it so many different symbols as has Easter. Back of all these symbols, of course, is the one essential fact that Easter day is the anniversary of the resurrection of Jesus, and the spirit of Easter is the reassurance that there is life after death, that the soul of man is immortal.

But even though Easter is a Christian festival it has its parallels in paganism and the symbolism of Easter shows a curious mixture of the Christian and the pagan. To the Christian conscious of the true meaning and religious significance of Easter, it is a matter for regret that many persons are seemingly more familiar with the pagan symbols, which have become associated with Easter incidentally, than they are with the true symbols of that day. However, the association of some of these familiar Easter symbols, pagan though they may have been in origin with a Christian festival, has a certain inherent interest.

The association of the egg with Easter goes back to certain beliefs of the ancients. Eggs had been associated with the worship of Asherah, of the Astarte of the Phoenicians, Isis of the Egyptians, Diana of the Greeks and Romans and Eostre, whom the Teutons worshipped in the spring. Incidentally, the name Easter is said by some to be derived from the name of this Teutonic goddess, although others assert that it was named for an old pagan spring festival in honor of the sun's new birth in the east.

The Egyptians regarded the egg as an emblem of the recreation of things and of man's regeneration. Then, too, the egg with its life germ destined to produce a living creature when warmed by the mother hen is easily associated with the idea of the earth blossoming forth under the warm rays of the sun in the spring, both closely akin to the general idea of resurrection.

Since the resurrection of Christ occurred in the spring, it is easy to see how the symbol of the egg and all revived life in the springtime came to be associated with this event in the history of Christianity. The egg as a symbol was taken over by the Hebrews as an emblem of their delivery from bondage and next the early Christians took it over as their symbol of the Resurrection.

The association of the rabbit or hare with Easter has its foundations in the ancient belief in European and Asiatic countries that the hare is the symbol for the moon. The moon is the "open-eyed watcher of the night," and the hare is born with their eyes open and are said never to close them. Since the date of Easter is governed by the moon, it is easily seen how the rabbit, which is the symbol for the moon, came to be an Easter symbol also.

The more intimate association of the rabbit and the egg is probably due to a pretty little legend which comes from Germany. It is as follows:

"It was a lovely day in early springtime and Mrs. Rabbit was hurrying along the woodland path, taking some wild flowers to a sick woodchuck friend. Suddenly she came upon a lot of loose feathers in the path. She looked about her and then discovered a nest full of eggs.

"Oh, dear me," exclaimed Mrs. Bunny, "a fox must have stolen the mother chicken. And there are her eggs, getting chilled. I'll just sit on them to keep them warm." So saying, she put down her baskets and sat upon the nest.

"Imagine Mrs. Rabbit's surprise, when she got up from the nest, the next morning and found that a family of chicks had hatched from the eggs. 'Since their mother is gone I presume I shall have to take care of the poor little things,' said the tender-hearted Mrs. Rabbit. 'This she did. Ever since then the rabbit has been associated with Easter and Easter eggs.'

In some parts of northern Germany the children hang eggs on trees similar to Christmas trees and candy favors, gifts and all sorts of Easter novelties are placed on the tree around which the children gather, and sing happy songs on Easter morning. Peasants in other European countries were accustomed to hang festoons of eggs over the chimney piece and to hand them down as heirlooms, for they were regarded as treasures to be kept and not as baubles to be destroyed or thrown away.

In England, under the old ecclesiastical laws, rent was payable in Easter eggs; games were played with them in fact which was probably the forerunner of Easter "egg-rolling," such as that observed each year on the White House lawn in Washington, especially by the children in north England. Still another association of the egg with Easter lay in the fact that it was contrary to religious tenets to eat eggs during Lent, but when Easter marked the end of that period they were the first freshly nourishment after the fast to sanctify the body.

The custom of dyeing Easter eggs goes back for many centuries. Peasants in the European countries dyed them red, as a symbol of Christ's blood, but the lords and ladies covered theirs with gold leaf. Later more elaborate decorations were used. Sometimes they bore cupids and love knots, flaming hearts and the signs of the zodiac. Sometimes they were halved and the shells hinged together with ribbon and lined with gilt paper and religious pictures. Among the Venetians it was the custom to give a friend a gift egg bearing the giver's portrait, and many other variations on egg decoration were common in France, Spain and Belgium.

Half a century ago Easter eggs were made of porcelain, ivory, mother-of-pearl, bronze, silver, or gold in the form of little cases to hold various trinkets. But the modern child, favoring something useful as well as ornamental, prefers an Easter egg which he can first admire and then eat.

The lily, as a symbol of Easter, has a double significance. It is one of the earliest spring flowers. It typifies the rebirth of nature after the long winter sleep. In its dry, brown bulb life lies dormant during the winter and then when spring comes, this life begins to stir. First it pushes out the tender green leaves, and then the buds appear. Finally the white blossom comes forth in all its glory as the perfect emblem of resurrected life.

Its other significance is a religious one, its snow-white purity being emblematic of the flawless life of Christ whose resurrection from the tomb we commemorate on Easter day. In fact, no other flower has a place in the religious life and literature of the Christian world to compare to the lily. Yet its glory is not so new as Christianity, ancient though the beginnings of that religion may seem to us.

The Greeks and the Romans prized it above all flowers and in their earlier civilizations it had already come to symbolize purity and virtue. It was because of the place lilies had won in the popular esteem that they found place in the early paintings of the Virgin. The angel Gabriel was depicted carrying them in announcement pictures and it is because of this that the most beautiful of these flowers, Lillium candidum, most used at Easter, is called the madonna lily.

The custom of wearing new clothes at Easter time was both pagan and Christian in origin. Nature bedecked herself in fresh and attractive raiment and it was thought only fitting that the people, too, should signalize the great change. The Christian conception of "newness of life" here and hereafter was symbolized appropriately by the white robes worn on the occasion of their baptism by converts to the faith. These robes also had reference to the garb of the angels seen at Christ's tomb.

During later years the custom of donning new clothes on Easter Sunday became such a fixed and universal one that nonobservance was considered not only to be a sign of eccentricity, but also a forerunner of bad luck.

One does not commonly think of fire as an Easter symbol, yet fires and the burning of effigies were features of Easter celebrations in some parts of the world. Bonfires were lighted in Great Britain in the early spring to honor the sun, while in Athens Judas was burned in effigy on Easter Sunday. Such effigies also were burned elsewhere and the practice continued for many years, although it is a custom that has not been followed for a long time and never was universal.

The custom of sending Easter cards is one that has grown tremendously, particularly in very recent years. Cards are of every style and kind, and range from plain, inexpensive ones to those which represent considerable hand labor and are costly in proportion.

Perhaps nothing associated with Easter is a better example of Christian adaptation of a pagan symbol than the eating of hot cross buns on the Good Friday, preceding Easter.

In Egypt, where the moon goddess was believed to have horns representing the crescent moon, sacred cakes were offered to her, each cake cut with horns. The Greeks adopted the Egyptian custom, and they also offered horned cakes to the moon goddess on the altar where the ox, her sacred animal, was sacrificed.

In fact, the custom of eating cross-marked cakes in honor of the sun or moon god, especially at the time of the spring equinox, was found by the early Christian missionaries in many parts of the world, especially Britain, Mexico and Peru. It has been suggested that the crossmark on the cakes was intended to represent the four phases of the moon, but in the Christian symbolism, this mark, of course, represents the cross upon which the Christ died.

Newspaper Errors

Seldom, if ever, does a newspaper, daily or weekly, come out without some kind of an error, mistake or 'bull' as you may call it, but they occur and re-occur just the same. In our last issue we made the mistake of saying that two out of town residents who were members of the Board of Education last year but were replaced with others a short time ago, mention was made of them as still being members of that body. Now, we fail to see anything criminal about the error, but were criticised for it and the agony of correction is now over.

In speaking of mistakes, how many times have newspapers received copy from people and save the writers embarrassment by calling their attention to such mistakes, having them corrected, but such corrections never appear in the paper, but let the paper make an error, holy hands of horror go up and somebody gets a good laugh. When the banker makes a blunder, the lawyer draws up a set of incorrect papers, the business man submits an erroneous bill, such "bulls" are known to only a few to whom they concern. But the newspaper man is like the actor on the stage whose slightest mis-step is manifest to all.

The newspaper man is not offended when criticised about mistakes, and when someone says, "you should have known better," he calmly submits (and wishes the critic could have his job for a while).

Never does a week pass but what we are told just how "I" would run the paper if it were "Me." But the party who has time to sit quietly in his home and look for errors, is the very fellow who'd know the least about the troubles of the newspaper business.

If the mistakes of bankers and business men in general, were pasted in their windows, the burden of making mistakes would be lightened on the newspaper—for it would be found out of all, the newspapers make the least errors.

How many people are saved the embarrassment by editors correcting errors in their copy, both grammatical and otherwise—but some of these people would be the first to criticize an error in newspaper composition, mistakes in identity, etc. No doubt, the parties mentioned in a four-line personal will forgive us, providing we will never allow such a terrible thing to happen again.

One day last week, a notice came to this office concerning the death of a certain lady, and we were about to take the copy from the book for composition, when the lady mentioned in the article appeared to ask if the notice of her brother's death had reached us. She was surprised to find that it was she whom the correspondent had mentioned, instead of her deceased brother.

Many more such errors could be mentioned, but the newspaper saves its writers such embarrassment.

Where a newspaper gets its foot in it, is with "Free Stuff" (something to fill up the paper;) never any trouble with a paid advertisement. Such is life in the "Wild and Woolly West;" in other words, "Tis all in the newspaper game."

In Sound Financial Condition—Oh, Yeah?

The state appropriations account is overdrawn more than three-quarters of a million dollars.

The highway department is in the red $140,000.00.

The highway department is unable to pay state officials and their salaries.

Just three counties in the state will have full terms of school.

School teachers throughout the state are being paid anywhere from 25 per cent of their salaries up, many of the counties reporting it will be impossible to pay the salary for the last month.

Practically every County in the state is paying County officials and employees salaries when the money is available.

Practically every County in the state is holding up warrants due to merchants and others until money is available.

Still Gov. Seligman issues a statement that the state is in a sound financial condition.

Maybe so, maybe so.. Oh, Yeah? —Tucumcari News.

Arthur Brisbane Says—

With much haste, and with no definite information given to the public, the house of representatives passes a bill fixing criminal penalties for "unauthorized publication of official documents."

Congressmen are being asked whether this new bill might be used to cover up mistakes or corruption of government officials, whether the bill could conveniently help to cover up a waste of public money, or commit secret agreements with other countries, made without letting the people know about them. Editor's note—Does this sound like free speech?

News Review of Current Events the World Over

President Scraps Farm Board and Combines Several Bureaus Into One Agency; Wins First Round With British on Debts.

WHAT the President terms the "farm credit administration" was created by executive order which, if it meets with congressional approval, as is expected, will become operative May 27.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr.

The "farm credit administration" replaces the federal farm board, the federal farm loan board, and the farm credit activities that have been scattered through seven different governmental agencies.

The "administration" will be headed by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., with the title of governor, and an assistant, for the present at least, Paul Bestor, with the title of commissioner.

Governor Morgenthau said, after issuance of the order, that the activities of the government in granting loans to farmers and farm organizations will be fully co-ordinated. In the past, with the government making loans through the Department of Agriculture, the R. F. C., the farm board and other agencies, varying rates of interest were charged and different purposes and conditions were set up, and under the new regime, Governor Morgenthau said, unity of purpose and treatment will be observed strictly.

He also declared that all employees of the new credit administration will be placed under civil service, instead of under a patronage system as exists in many of the bureaus at present.

The executive order issued by the President directed the abolishment of the farm-stabilization activities of the farm board which have resulted in losses of three hundred million dollars, except that he provided they should be continued only to liquidate the left over holdings of the board.

In a message to congress accompanying the order President Roosevelt said his purpose was to "maintain and strengthen a sound and permanent system of co-operative agricultural supervision and operated on the basis of providing the maximum of security to present and prospective investors in bonds and debentures resting on farm mortgages or other agricultural securities—all for the purpose of meeting the credit needs of agriculture at minimum cost."

The consolidation of these various activities under one head is expected to result in an administrative saving of approximately two million dollars a year.

THE efforts of European nations to cancel or greatly reduce the war debts owed to the United States are on, and it is said President Roosevelt has won the first skirmish to the extent of considering world economic conditions before any discussion of war debt.

As a result of Mr. Roosevelt's insistence it is reported the British government has backed down from the position announced by Austen Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, when he said that Britain would not swap economic concessions for revision of the debt.

The British are now willing to discuss economic concessions before the debt question is taken up. By virtue of this sudden change of front on the part of the MacDonald ministry, the world economic conference is likely to be held in April or May instead of next summer or autumn, as the European powers were planning.

The British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, has discussed with Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the questions to come before the economic conference before the debt question is considered.

The French are also willing to discuss economic questions before considering war debts. Following a White House conference between President Roosevelt and M. Jacques Stern, vice chairman of the finance committee of the French chamber of deputies, M. Stern said that he had not discussed war debts with the President; that their conversation had been confined to the economic conference which the deputy thought "it would be very important to hold as soon as can be made possible."

"The original and present weight of debt and interest obligations. Price of primary commodities and price of manufactured goods, both wholesale and retail.

"The existing volume of production in different staple commodities entering in world trade.

"The willingness of creditors to make international loans and their unwillingness to receive payment in goods and services.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of England, will preside at the economic conference and will name the date for its convening.

PROGRESS of the farm relief bill in the senate has been slow. Senatorial dignity would not permit of the speeding up of the ponderous machinery of the upper house regardless of the plea of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for speed and for the passage of the bill as originally written by the President and his advisors.

At this writing it seems that "a" bill will eventually pass but whether it will be the bill that passed the house, and is acceptable to the administration, or whether it will be so radically changed as to be unrecognizable by its proponents, or unacceptable at the White House, is for the future to reveal.

FARM relief in other directions moved along more rapidly. The proposal for refinancing farm mortgages has taken form and the proposition is for the selling of farm mortgage bonds to the extent of from nine to ten billion dollars on which the government will guarantee the interest, but not the principal. It is expected the government's guarantee of interest will make the bonds marketable at a comparatively low interest rate.

Farm leaders have urged a government guarantee of the principal on such a bond issue, but such a guarantee would make them a direct obligation of the government, and mean simply an increase in the national debt of nine or ten billion dollars.

There is a growing belief in Washington that the budget will not be balanced during the next fiscal year beginning July 1, regardless of the economies made by cutting the pay of government employees, reorganization of bureaus and departments, and reductions in payments to veterans.

The relief grant of five hundred millions provided for in a bill now before congress, and the two hundred millions for the reforestation plans, will alone offset the economies. It is probable that the more ambitious plans of the President will be financed through new bond issues, but there will be increased interest charges and a sinking fund to provide for which will run into hundreds of millions annually.

Along with these things tax yields are falling short of estimates because of the continued prostration of business.

FIVE hundred million dollars to be provided by the federal government and distributed as unemployment relief by the states is called for in a bill introduced in the senate by Senators Wagner of New York, Costigan of Colorado, and La Follette of Wisconsin.

The bill provides that the huge sum shall be given outright to such states as shall apply for aid, and places the responsibility for seeing that the money is given wisely in the hands of a "federal relief administrator."

This official would be appointed by the President, with the consent of the senate, and carry on his duties independent of any other department.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation is given authority, under the bill, to borrow the five hundred million dollars, but will have no powers beyond turning the money over to the relief administrator. Ten days after the appointment of the relief executive, the Reconstruction Finance corporation would cease to have any control over the granting of loans to states or municipalities for relief purposes, and thus all of the government's relief financing would be under the one jurisdiction.

A preparatory commission named for the purpose of preparing an agenda for the economic conference has listed the following subjects for consideration:

A NATION-WIDE boycott on all Jewish business and professional men in Germany has been clamped down by Chancellor Hitler's National Socialist party. The announcement states that it will last "until Jewish life in Germany is paralyzed."

At Nazi headquarters it was said that the boycott "is a purely defensive measure solely directed against German Jewry as retaliation for the anti-German campaign in foreign countries."

All over Germany Jewish owned shops and department stores closed their doors and were picketed by storm troopers.

THE President's bill providing for the employment of 250,000 men for the purpose of reforestation and other work in government forest reserves and along the rivers, passed congress with some amendments made by the senate.

One of these amendments removes the state quota restrictions on the sixty-eight million dollars remaining of the relief funds in the hands of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Director of the Budget Lewis W. Douglas has completed the task of revising the payment to veterans under the terms of the economy bill giving the President dictatorial powers for such revision.

This revision eliminates from the pension rolls all veterans with non-service disabilities, and reduces the payments to those with service disabilities by approximately 15 per cent.

THE economy that either have been, or are expected to be, effected cover the reduction of 15 per cent in the wages of all government employees made by the President; reduction in veterans' benefits and administration now made; reorganization of the departments and bureaus in the administrative branch of the government, for which the President has authority, and on which he is now working; postal service economies, now being considered.

Veterans' benefits and administration	$480,000,000
Reorganization of administrative branch of the government, including abolition of functions	50,000,000
Reduction in the pay of government employees	125,000,000
Postal service economies	75,000,000
Total	$920,000,000

Among the new expenditures that will offset these savings is the appropriation of five hundred million dollars as a gift to the states to be used for non-employment relief, and the reforestation plan of the President which congress has authorized, and which involves an expenditure of not less than two hundred million dollars.

MEXICAN Communists object to Josephus Daniels as American ambassador at Mexico City. Posters captioned "Out with Daniels" have appeared on walls in the capital. They call him "the murderer of Azuleta and Uribe."

UNDER the authority granted him by congress the President has ordered a 15 per cent cut in the pay of all federal employees, effective April 1. The order affects the employees in all departments including officers and enlisted men in the army and navy.

The authority given by congress provided for such cut as reduced living expenses might warrant up to a total of 15 per cent. An investigation of living costs made by the Department of Labor showed a decrease from June 30 of last year to the present time of 21.7 per cent.

FEDERAL regulation of new stock and bond issues is proposed by the President. He asks the passage of legislation that will require the organizers, promoters, and sellers of the issues to submit for public information a complete financial statement concerning the stocks and bonds offered.

The proposed law would provide that full information be given on every prospectus offering securities for public sale, and similar information be made available at other sources.

No serious objection to the terms of the bill is expected in either the house or the senate.

American Heroines

By LOUISE M. COMSTOCK

Ida Lewis

IF ENGLAND can point with pride to Grace Darling, the famous "lighthouse girl," who in 1848 rescued five from a sinking vessel off Longstone lighthouse, and made possible the saving of two more, America can boast of Ida Lewis, who saved twenty-two lives between 1867 and 1904.

Ida was born in 1841 at Newport, R. I. When she was fifteen her father, Capt. Hosea Lewis, was appointed keeper at Lime Rock lighthouse, in Newport harbor, and moved there with his family.

In the summer of 1858, when Ida was seventeen, a small pleasure craft crossing the harbor capsized, upsetting four helpless passengers, all men, into the water. From her lighthouse top Ida saw the situation and though the day was a stormy one and the waves beat furiously upon the shore, she launched her boat, sped across the water, and rescued all four.

After that life-saving became Ida's vocation. Once she went out to aid of three men who had set out after a sheep that had been carried out to sea and had upset in reaching for it in the water.

Ida became the heroine of Newport. On one occasion the Life Saving Benevolent Association of New York presented her with $150, another, the soldiers of Fort Adams gathered together $250 and presented it to her with due ceremony.

She held her post for 32 years. When, in 1911, it became known that the heroic woman, then almost seventy, lay dying in the lighthouse which was her home, artillery practice at Fort Adams was suspended, that her last hours might be spent in peace.

THE history books will tell you that Anne Hutchinson taught the people of Massachusetts Bay Colony religious ideas which their governor, John Winthrop, and other leaders could not condone.

Anne Hutchinson came to America in 1634, when Boston was but four years old. She was a woman of forty-three years, wife of a well-to-do but doubtless hen-pecked mercer.

Under the authority granted him by congress the President has ordered a 15 per cent cut in the pay of all federal employees, effective April 1. The order affects the employees in all departments including officers and enlisted men in the army and navy.

Then, suddenly, Anne Hutchinson lost favor. For Anne, like Joan of Arc, had her voice. The Puritan held the Scriptures to be the only possible medium of Divine revelation, and when this temerous woman claimed for herself direct revelations from on high, she invited a storm of disapproval.

Then, suddenly, Anne Hutchinson lost favor. For Anne, like Joan of Arc, had her voice. The Puritan held the Scriptures to be the only possible medium of Divine revelation, and when this temerous woman claimed for herself direct revelations from on high, she invited a storm of disapproval.

Anne was banished from Boston and with nine of her children and her faithful husband, who to the last persisted in calling her a "dear saint of God," retreated to Aquidneck, an island near Providence, R. I.

Years later Boston gladly accorded this heroic woman honor, erecting to her memory a handsome monument. And today Anne Hutchinson stands before the Massachusetts statehouse, Bible in hand, child by her side.

"Oodles" of Joy in Birthday Cake

Simple sponge cake is just the kind to have for a youngster's birthday. It is easily digested, and nourishing.

For a child about twelve years old or in the teens, a rich cake can be used and it can have layers.

We will have a special Sunrise Service on the Malpais Easter Sunday morning. The Sunday School and Epworth League, as well as the church will participate. That will be our only service for Carrizozo for the day. Plan now to attend and reserve the sunrise hour. The sun rises at 5:30 Easter Sunday. We want to be on the Malpais and singing the praises of our Risen Lord as the sun comes up. We will meet at the church at 4:30 and be ready to start for the Malpais at 4:45. So please be at the church in your car on time and take a passenger. If you have no car or way to go, come to the church and a ride will be provided for you. A large chorus of singers will be there. Come and swell the chorus and let us rejoice in the Resurrection of our Lord, and in the hope of our resurrection, together. Infants as well as adults will receive the rite of baptism at this service. Remember the time and place - next Sunday morning at sunrise on the little rocky hill on the "island" on the Malpais. A good wood fire will be built at the meeting place sometime Saturday night. But wear your wraps.
