Washington.—The great experiment in farm relief is under way at last. Already, regulations and policies are issuing from the office of George N. Peek, administrator of the agricultural adjustment act. In quantity and complexity equalled only by those promulgated for enforcement of prohibition. They are the work of a dozen or so of men who are designated as experts, and the consensus around Washington is that only experts are going to comprehend them fully.

President Roosevelt and every one else is hoping the law will rescue agriculture and construct a firm foundation for the entire economic structure of the country. To help attain success, the President called Mr. Peek away from his vast implement manufacturing business at Moline, Ill., to take charge. Mr. Peek is sympathetic with agriculture in every respect. He realizes, for example, that agriculture must prosper or his plants are going to be idle. He will sell no farm machinery. So the law will be administered at the top by a friend.

But as the machinery for administering the act is developed, it becomes painfully apparent that the danger lies not in what goes on here in Washington with respect to it. The fear is held by many supporters of the law that the small army needed to carry its provisions into effect will be the breeding spot for trouble. However intensive is the desire to get the best out of the law, there is bound to be varied construction of its terms and the regulations promulgated under it. It is humanly impossible to have it otherwise, and there are plenty of precedents in the administration of other federal laws that have attempted to go too near the individual citizen. Then, probably there will be mistakes in honest judgment and a little graft as well. It has happened in other laws dealing with individuals. This one presents brand new opportunities in that direction.

The Department of Agriculture is striving, however, to acquaint the country with facts as to what the law means, how it operates and what it proposes to do. It is seeking the cooperation of all. Without co-operation, success is likely to be limited. The department, therefore, is seeking to have the farmers understand the necessity for the statute in advance of appointment of the vast personnel that will be needed to reach into every county where agriculture predominates. If that can be accomplished, it is argued, the agents of the government will have something with which to work when they interview farmers concerning their willingness to join in reducing acreage. It is by reduction of acreage, of course, that the main profit for the farmer is expected. That is the way it is figured to force prices higher.

Secretary Wallace and Mr. Peek and others connected with the job here in Washington have been holding conferences with representatives of producers, of processors (those who grind the wheat or spin the cotton, etc.) and other agencies. The processors are directly concerned, for they are going to be taxed in several ways to obtain funds for payment to the farmers who agree to reduce production. That is one way of creating what the bill calls price parity. The main purposes of these conferences have been to gain the facts concerning the amount produced, how and where it is sold, and basic information that will serve as a guide for laying the tax.

While the section of the farm relief act relating to mortgages and methods of refinancing them may not awaken the interest generally that the other part of the measure does, it seems to me that the provision enabling the Federal Land banks to issue $2,000,000,000 worth of new bonds holds forth much more promise. The federal government guarantees the interest on these bonds, and the proceeds of them will be used to make new mortgages or refinance existing mortgages on farm lands.

The Federal Land banks are authorized to buy outstanding mortgages from the present holders, or to exchange the new bonds for them, but the law specifies that this must be done "on the best possible terms." The plain meaning of this is that the land banks must seek to force a scaling down of the debt wherever possible. It is believed by many persons that holders of mortgages on which the interest has not been paid and on which perhaps installments are overdue, will be willing to reduce the amount of the debt in order to dispose of the mortgage. In other words, the holder of a $5,000 mortgage that is delinquent is considered as likely to accept something less than that amount if he gets what amounts to a government bond in its place. He knows the interest will be paid.

This section of the law likewise grants what amounts to a moratorium on interest payments by the owners of the mortgaged land during the next five years. It prescribes lower interest rates also, so that the debt will not be increasing so rapidly in the meantime. Of course, the interest eventually will have to be paid, but the thought is that now is the time when freedom from forced payment of the interest will be of most help.

Direct loans to the farmers by the land banks are allowed under the mortgage section of the law in cases where farmers live in communities having no farm loan association. The land banks will require such a borrower to agree to join a farm loan association if one is organized in his vicinity, but the law opens the way for him to obtain credit despite the absence of such an organization.

On top of these increased benefits available to the farmers, the law appropriated $200,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance corporation money to enable farmers to redeem or repurchase farms lost through foreclosure, or to reduce or refinance what is known as junior mortgages and obligations. These commitments may include such things as mortgages on live stock or farm machinery and other equipment. Congress sought to provide assistance by providing means of getting rid of the pressure occasioned by the local bank or other lender of money who naturally wants to be paid off. It was argued that no farmer would be successful in a full measure if he had threats hanging over him of losing his work stock or whatever he had mortgaged to provide working funds.

Loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation funds may not exceed $5,000, but it is provided there need be no repayment of principal for the first three years. As was stated in debate in the senate, this privilege enables a farmer to put his debts into one second mortgage and feel a little bit free until conditions improve. And it might be added that if conditions do not improve within three years, money will not be worth much anyway.

It is almost three months since the Roosevelt administration took over the government. Many things have happened, some of them of an astounding character, in that time. In the broader perspective, one of the things that has attracted attention of those who look into the future is the deep-rooted economic policy that President Roosevelt has fostered.

Economic Policy

In some respects, the President has been driving hard toward what may be described as economic internationalism. For example, there is the law which he describes as placing the government in partnership with industry. In other respects, he has sought ends properly described as economic internationalism. The tariff truce and the program for lowered tariff barriers throughout the world constitute proof of this course. I have found it difficult to reconcile the two, yet it has been pointed out to me that the President will be free to follow either course after the forthcoming world economic conference is ended. If all nations stand hatched, there will be tariff reductions through the world; if they do not agree in that conference, Mr. Roosevelt can turn back to economic nationalism.

The price parity bill, which I have just analyzed, is essentially nationalistic, and if it proves successful there will be sufficient unto ourselves. In this connection, the gold embargo should be recalled. While our tariff rates have been high, holders of capital in this country loaned billions abroad. These events surely have the appearance of a foundation for "planned economy," and affect our own development.

President Roosevelt is not going to allow the American delegation to talk about the debts owed to the American government. That subject remains in his hands. It is safe to say he will be his own secretary of state to receive any communications the eleven foreign nations have to make respecting their inability to pay their semi-annual installments in June and later.

In considering what the Roosevelt administration has done since March 4, many observers have reached the conclusion that the President did not need to select strong men for his cabinet. The makeup of that cabinet never has been looked upon by those inclined to analysis as being outstanding in any particular respect. He has chosen honest, hard-working individuals for the various posts, but it is no secret that announcement of appointment of some of them brought questions among some rather important persons in the President's own party as to the identity of those named. Indeed, in the case of one cabinet member, I heard two long-time Democratic senators remark that they never had heard of him before.

Just Hard here have reached the conclusion that the President did not need to select strong men for his cabinet.

The point of all this is that Mr. Roosevelt has come to be the government insofar as one individual can possibly be. He has dominated congress far beyond anyone's expectation or hope and he controls his cabinet to the point that in some instances makes of them just obedient servants as far as policies are concerned. He conceives the ideas; they effectuate them. Consequently, there has been no loss to the country in the failure of the President to appoint outstanding individuals.

SEE END OF TYPHUS

Typhus may soon go the way of smallpox, for Dr. Hans Zinsser of Harvard medical school has developed a serum which immunizes animals, and is now being used on humans with the hopes of controlling the plague which has the reputation of having taken more lives than any epidemic disease.

Although science has long recognized that typhus was caused by a germ so small that it could not be filtered, the virus was not isolated until two years ago by Doctor Zinsser. The germ is carried by lice or fleas, and these, in turn, are carried by rats. From 1910 to 1923 nearly 7,000,000 cases of typhus were reported in Russia, of which 60 per cent died.—Pathfinder Magazine.

The House of Morgan and the New Deal

The late exposure of the secretary of the treasury, Woodin, in connection with the House of Morgan, which implicates some of the principal appointees of the President, the secretary has been openly convicted of being one of Morgan's favorites in escaping the payment of income tax and much to the dishonor of the nation, which dishonor will increase the longer he is kept in office, the President, so far, has remained silent, while some of our best men in the senate and house of both political parties are demanding that he ask for Woodin's resignation and fill the office with an honest man.

At the time Woodin was about to be appointed, there was a bitter protest from the labor organizations, but in spite of the fact that he was an avowed enemy of organized labor, he was appointed and chose as his under-secretary, a man, who had served the Bank of England in a like capacity.

Right at the beginning of his administration with all of his 'hokey' and forgotten man stuff, he appointed a secretary of the treasury that put Andy Mellon in the shade. Why did the President take Woodin on a joy ride in his private yacht up the Potomac just after it became known of his secretary's connection with the scandal of the House of Morgan? Could we possibly be led from the belief that on that evening there was a mutual understanding as to what disposal would be made of Woodin, and why, might we venture to ask, has not the President made known what he will do about the matter. If he keeps him, he stands convicted with his secretary. Will he dispose of Woodin and save his honor, or will he keep him and share in the disgrace?—The people are waiting.

Democratic Party of New Mexico is Busted

The Democratic party of New Mexico is evidently busted, as it so far has been unable to pay its advertising bills for the campaign last fall.

One would think that with 2 per cent collected from all state employees, it would have had sufficient money to take care of the small advertising bills placed with the Democratic papers of the state.

The Portales Valley News is one paper which has never received a thin dime on this advertising account, nor has it been able to get a reply to any letter sent to the state Democratic headquarters in regard to the bill.

The 'Kingfish' has not even so much as informed this paper that he hasn't forgotten the bill.

The Democratic party, so far as the state of New Mexico is concerned, is dead, and unless it is buried soon, the state health officers should look into it. —Portales Valley News.

DINING GETS JUST DESSERT!

In a world turned topsy-turvy, what could be more appropriate than an upside down cake! And if it's made with luscious discs of canned pineapple, set in a caramel goodness, browned to a golden whole, it's enough to rouse the appetites of any family.

And the pineapple upside down cake has much more than its mere golden goodness and simplicity of preparation to recommend it. Now that nutritional studies have found canned pineapple to be a valuable source of essential vitamins and minerals, an important aid to digestion, housewives and hostesses are seeking new ways of including pineapple in some way daily on the menu.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Look the House Over

Take a walk around your home and property.

If you are the average homeowner, you'll find lots of places where repairs, replacements and alterations should be made.

The steps are becoming rickety—the electric wiring in the basement and garage is in poor condition — new plumbing fixtures are needed — the roof is beginning to leak — those hardwood floors for the living room have never materialized — the garden and lawn should be rejuvenated—the whole house could do with a new paint job.
The addition of a few labor-saving devices in the kitchen would make your home a more pleasant and efficient place in which to live.

Today you can obtain property — improvement, of whatever kind, for a fraction of what it would have cost you five or ten years ago. You'll probably never be able to buy so cheaply again
— it's almost certain that prices will rise sharply in the near future. You'll be getting amazingly big construction dollar's worth. And you'll be putting men to work, putting money into payrolls, salary checks and purchase orders. Don't forget that jobs are cheaper than charity — and that only jobs make charity possible.—The Manufacturer.

To Stanley Squier—
You promised to pay this place
a visit some time ago, but it failed to materialize. Howcom?
The wind has practically ceased blowing here (better knock on wood.) In other words, we have wind only 7 days per week instead of 9.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Joe Chavez and nephew, Reuben Chavez, returned Tuesday night from Tucumcari, where they spent last week - end with relatives.

Mrs. Ernest Dingwall is here this week from Tucumcari, visiting relatives and friends.

DANCE—In Nogal, Saturday, June 3. Music by Heavy Stewart and his orchestra.

Mrs. Maggie V. Chavez had an Aermotor windmill installed on her property this week, the same being purchased from E. A. English.

County Clerk Ernest Key reports hearing over the radio recently — That joke about the band; filling up the instruments with gold. All right for the bass horn performer, but there was I playing the piccolo. (Applause?)—We don't hear any. We've all heard chestnut jokes before, but this one is the limit; the Baron should be forgiven for that one, for he always has new stuff. He is heard over the National Broadcasting System at 7 p. m., Thursdays.

Julian and Alfred Mirez were El Paso visitors the first part of this week.

Lupe Gabaldon was here from Claunch yesterday on some business, returning home in the afternoon. Lupe, like other livestock men, is clamoring for rain, which is badly needed at this time.

Curley Jones was here from the ranch across the Malpais and attended the dance at Community Hall given by the American Legion Monday night.

Jack Hollomon of Hollomon Bros. of Alamogordo, dealers in lumber and building materials, was a Carrizozo visitor Wednesday. Mr. Hollomon reports an uptrend in his line of business and is very optimistic in the pick up of business in general. Jack is quite a baseball enthusiast and made several comments on the Carrizozo-Alamo game, played at Alamo last Sunday. Referring to "Pee-Wee" Perez, he said: "That boy is one of the best and smartest little players I have ever seen."

Pablo Tellez and nephew, Louis Griego, returned last Saturday from Tucumcari, where they visited relatives for a few days.

Our old friend Bert Holland made a friendly call at this office Wednesday. Bert now has a position with the motor transportation department of the state corporation commission under chairman James Lamb. When we meet Bert, it revives memories of the time during the world war, when he and Ebb Jones were in Glasgow, Scotland. Their ship stopped at the "tight" city for a brief spell, during which time, Ebb went to the postoffice and returned with a copy of the Carrizozo Outlook and it furnished such a diversion for the boys, that they spread it out on the grass in the public park and read the items from home like a pair of school kids.

Syl Baca, who recently enrolled in the government reforestation service, was down from High Rolls to spend the weekend with the home folks. Syl is encamped in the Sacramentos at the present time and said that he liked the work very well.

J. M. Frame was a business visitor from Ancho yesterday.

Carrizozo Hangs Up Another Rag

The Carrizozo Baseball Team went to Alamogordo last Sunday and cleaned on that team to the tune of 12 to 4. The Alamo sports became very 'regusted' in the latter stages of the game and threw in the sponge, thus forfeiting the game to us. This is as much information as we could gather about the game, so we'll pass on to something else.

A team composed of boys from the east side gave the Carrizozo Team a good practice game on Memorial Day, which resulted in a big score in favor of the Millerites. The East-Siders will give good account of themselves this summer, nevertheless. They have good material and we are pulling for them, too.

The team goes to Clouderoft next Sunday and we are ready to bet a thin dime (our last resource), that Carrizozo wins its fifth straight game.

The dance given by the American Legion at Community Hall Monday night, was successful in the face of the fact that it was an off-night. The attendance, while not as large as some have been, there was a good gathering and everybody had a good time. "The Revelers," as usual, gave the dance fans the worth of their money.

Mrs. F. L. Boughner and son Leslie were guests of Mrs. Nellie Brånum and daughter Mrs. Oscar Clouse at their summer home at Eagle Creek from Saturday to Wednesday.

Mrs. Stebbins of Salina, Kans., sister to Mrs. F. H. Johnson, is here this week as a guest of Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Johnson.

Notice is hereby given that an instrument purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of Elizabeth A. Gumm, Deceased, has been filed for probate in the Probate Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, and by order, the 7th day of July, 1933, at the hour of 11 A. M., at the court room of said court, in the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, is the day, time and place for hearing proof of said Last Will and Testament.

Therefore any person or persons wishing to enter objections to the probating of said Last Will and Testament are hereby notified to file their objections in the office of the County Clerk of Lincoln County, on or before the time set for hearing.

Dated at Carrizozo, N. M., this 29th day of May, A. D. 1933.
(Seal) Ernest Key,
June 2-23 Probate Clerk.

Mrs. Byril Lindsay will leave Sunday for the State Normal at Las Vegas for a three months' course in teachers' training.

Estanislao Belio was in from his ranch near Claunch yesterday, accompanied by Lloyd Vigil, who had been in his employ during the lambing period.

Mosquero, N. M., May 29—During the big sandstorm of the past week the cut on the Southern Pacific near here filled up with sand so that the "Polly" train was held up for many hours. Section hands with scoop shovels could not move the sand as fast as it blew in and a steam shovel had to be called into action. The sand was four or five feet deep on the rails.

—So Carrizozo isn't the only town that has windstorms.

ROY SKINNER, Prop.

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 22, 1933

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users. We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer — it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.
