OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Celestino Sandoval of Carrizozo, N. M., aged 22 and who has been totally blind since his birth, can play the piano, violin, saxophone, clarinet and accordion, almost to perfection. This boy tunes in on the radio and learns a new piece every day.

A certain Carrizozo man has been continually bothered with miscreants who have been taking his car out of the garage at night draining the gasoline tank and stealing the accessories, but had failed to catch the thieves. One night last week after he had retired he thought he heard a noise in the garage. He jumped out of bed, not waiting to put on his shoes, grabbed his rifle and stole cautiously into the garage. As he quietly opened the door leading to the alley he saw the dim outline of a man in crouching position against the outer wall and pointing his gun at the object he called out: "stick 'em up!" The object did not move. Realizing that something must be done quickly and not desiring to take human life, he made a rush at the figure and ran the muzzle of his gun against an old discarded oil can.

A woman in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, has sued for a divorce because her husband objected to her feeding the dog on spring chicken. The judge informed her that the grounds were not sufficient and asked why she would allow a small matter like that come between herself and husband? She answered by saying she loved the dog because he had long side whiskers which made him look so much like one of her old sweethearts of early days.

A horse in New York named 'Dark Secret,' is far from being true to his name. He is one of the country's greatest handicaps. Contrary to his name, Dark Secret changed his color from a bright bay to a roan in one year. His owner expects his next color to be gray and will be followed by white and to prove that, gray and white spots are making their appearance on the horse's body.

A registered cow owned by C. K. Dutton of Moberly, Mo., has given birth to seven buxom calves in last 22 months. During that period it is said, she has never gone dry and has plenty of milk to supply the family table besides an abundance for the calves.

Lawrence, Kansas, comes to the front with Mary Lou Nelson and although her name is Mary, she has for a pet, not the traditional "little lamb," but in the place of that tender creature, she has a pet bull snake which measures six feet. Mary has had the snake since it was a tiny little fellow and he is as tame as a pet cat. When she starts for school he wraps himself around her neck, goes and returns with her to and from school. Mr. snake seems to enjoy the school exercises as well as the children. At night, he crawls into a dresser drawer to sleep.—Some snake.

Bert Pfingsten was here from Hondo last Friday to have announcements made for a big Rodeo to be held at Hondo on Sunday, Aug. 6. See his ad in this issue and plan to attend.

Dr. Freeman Robbed Last Sunday

The Dr. C. E. Freeman family was absent from home last Sunday and on their return in the evening, they were surprised to find that the home had been robbed, the intruders gaining entrance to the house by breaking in a window. Sheriff McCamant was notified of the theft which consisted of valuable pieces of rare Indian porcupine quill, beadwork, a violin, typewriter, some clothing and his entire collection of guns.

Among the firearms stolen, were old buffalo guns and other rifles of antique nature. One of these, an old model 1873 forty-four Winchester with 5 notches cut in the stock, is said to have been the property of Billy the Kid and the rifle he was holding in the only picture he had ever taken.

Sheriff McCamant secured a partial list of the stolen articles with a good description such as serial numbers, etc. By 7 o'clock Monday morning, the missing property had been recovered and two men answering to the names of Will Gray and Tom Regan were arrested, charged with the offense and lauded in jail. They will be arraigned for preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Elerdo Chavez Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mayer of Hollywood, N. M., were here last Saturday visiting Mr. Mayer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Mayer.

Fort Stanton Throws Up the Sponge

Manager Harry Miller took his baseball team to Fort Stanton to renew hostilities with Jim Cavanaugh's warriors last Sunday afternoon and what proved to be a hard fought contest for six innings, ended up in disgust on the part of Stanton in the latter stages of the game.

Stanton was leading 11 to 9 in the 7th or 8th inning and Carrizozo had a man on every base, with Sally Ortiz at bat with a count on him of 2 and 3. The Fort pitcher, a left hander, stepped on the rubber and being facing the batter he wound up for a delivery to home plate. Instead of pitching to the batter he threw to first base. The Fort umpire called it a balk (which it was, as broad as daylight,) and the men on bases advanced one station each, thus counting one more score for Carrizozo. The Stanton boys were not satisfied with their arbiter's decision and balked AGAIN by refusing to continue on with the game.

We feel, as do the majority of spectators at this game, that Fort Stanton forfeited to Carrizozo and the victory should be chalked up in favor of our boys. Tularosa will be here next Sunday. "Nuff" Said!

For the first time in the history of baseball, Socorro and Lincoln County teams will play a game of baseball when the Socorro team comes to Carrizozo on Sunday, August 6.

Mrs. Jesse Snyder left Tuesday for St. Louis, to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. A. Rutledge. After a visit at the Rutledge home, she will go to Chicago to visit the World's Fair before returning home. Mr. Rutledge will be remembered by many of our people, more especially those of the old timers who were interested in baseball. At that time, Mr. Rutledge was Road Supervisor with headquarters at Vaughn and when the baseball season would begin, we could always expect Mr. Rutledge to come up and arrange a game with Carrizozo and make this office a pleasant call.

R. L. Willingham, who is convalescing from an operation at Johnson's Hospital, was able to receive the following visitors the latter part of last week: His son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Willingham, daughter Evelyn, son Kenneth and brother Joe Willingham, sister, Mrs. Allen of El Paso, Mrs. N. B. Brown and son Clarence of Fort Hancock, Texas and Mr. Corn of El Paso.

LOCAL MENTION

Resolutions of Appreciation and Condolence

Whereas, in the recent battle waged by Sheriff McCamant and his deputies against the outlaws near Ramon, our efficient and courageous Deputy Sheriff, Tom W. Jones, lost his life; and whereas, he gave his life in the defense of law and order, as truly as a soldier gives his life on the battlefield; and whereas, we greatly appreciate his work and worth and his courageous fidelity to duty unto death, and deeply mourn his loss; and whereas, our hearts are heavy and our sympathy great for his widow and children; therefore, Be It Resolved that we ever remember his heroism and his supreme sacrifice to law and order and strive to emulate his courage and zeal, and that we extend to his widow and children our heartfelt sympathy and condolence, and pledge to them our every aid to bear their sorrow.

Be It Resolved, further, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Carrizozo Business Men's Club and copies be given to Mrs. Tom W. Jones and her children, and also to the newspapers of Lincoln County, for publication.

M., in which our courageous deputy sheriff, Tom W. Jones, lost his life; and one outlaw, Glenn Hunsucker, was killed, and his companion, Ed (Perchmouth) Stanton, was captured; these officers discharged their duty with great credit to Lincoln County, the State of New Mexico and to law and order, as well as to themselves; and whereas, in common with all law-abiding citizens we greatly appreciate the heroic work of these officers of the law; therefore, Be It Resolved that we express our appreciation to these officers and pledge to them our active as well as our moral support in the discharge of their duties.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

Washington.—One of the most depressing factors in the three-year-old economic crisis has been and still is the discouragement experienced by vast numbers of solid, substantial citizens as a result of inability to continue payments on their farms or homes in towns and cities. They have struggled, worked and saved to apply the sums so accumulated on a home or farm that they can call their own. In the last three years, thousands upon thousands of them have seen these savings swept away, the homes or farms taken by the holders of mortgages.

Lesson for Shylocks

It has taken an extraordinarily long time, observers here are agreed, for mortgage holders to learn the lesson that they gain very little by the shylock practice of exacting the pound of flesh in the shape of foreclosure of the mortgage. A good many mortgage holders, such as life insurance companies, began more than two years ago to "go easy" in foreclosing on property, but unfortunately the number who pursued that policy were entirely too few for the good of the country or the good of the mortgage holders as a class, according to the consensus I gather around the National Capital.

The result of the failure, or refusal, of mortgage holders to realize the conditions confronting them—I speak of them as a class—is such legislation as the home loan act. One of these laws was passed at the request of President Hoover, but that was revamped and a new set-up made at the request of President Roosevelt. If the present law works, as it appears it may, without too much of an expense upon the federal government, lenders of money on farm mortgages and on homes in towns and cities will find themselves paying something of a penalty in the end.

In any analysis of the mortgage situation one cannot overlook the dangers inherent in any governmentally managed institution that functions in a half-way private fashion. The home loan act and its purposes are subject to entirely the same influences and face the same possibilities as the farm loan act that was initiated by the late President Wilson. That enactment has cost the government (which means the taxpayers) many millions of dollars, yet it has done some good. Of that there is no doubt. But it never does any good to deny weaknesses. The results will be revealed eventually, and they will be disclosed in the home loan act just as they have been shown in the farm loan law.

But the point of this consideration is that extraordinary measures have been and are necessary. One of the things that must be accomplished is a revival of confidence. It is agreed among students of the situation that if the home loan act and the revamped farm loan structure develop any appreciable amount of new confidence or restore old confidence, it will have been worth the price. If the combined help extended by those two laws can enable individual owners of property to have a feeling of self-reliance, a feeling of security and independence, they will have done much to lead the country out onto solid ground of economic prosperity again.

The home loan administration is exceedingly slow in getting into motion. Admitting that time always is required in the development of any organization that is predicated on a new law, it does appear that the home loan board has been guilty of too much delay. It may be said to the board's credit, however, that it is trying to encourage holders of mortgages to postpone mortgage foreclosures and to await the time when the new structure has been completely formed. The argument being used is to the effect that if mortgage holders forego their rights, as denominated in their mortgages, for a short while, they have a chance to emerge from the situation with new bonds on which the government guarantees the interest payments.

Frown on Foreclosures

Let us examine that privilege and see how mortgage owners as well as home owners may benefit. This must necessarily be considered in conjunction with what the law offers to the home owner, and which will lead him to utilize its privileges. The mortgage holder may surrender his existing mortgage to the home owners loan corporation, the official name of the agency which will handle the funds under the supervision of the home loan board. He will get in exchange new bonds, bearing 4 per cent interest. The payment of the interest is guaranteed by the government, but the principal of those bonds remains in the same category as does the principal of the existing mortgage. The bonds are exempt from all taxation and I think it is generally agreed they will constitute a high-class investment.

It is to be remembered that the law limits the amount of the mortgage that may be issued against any property to $14,000. The total loan may not be more than 80 per cent of the appraised value of the home, so that it may be said the security behind the bonds is somewhat better than average when it is remembered the interest will be paid by the government if not otherwise. The mortgage holder obtains a long term bond, he is freed from the necessity of making advances to keep the property in shape or pay taxes, etc., and he takes only the usual chance on the principal.

Now, from the standpoint of the home owner, there is the probability that the home owners' loan corporation will be more lenient in the matter of enforcing the terms of its mortgage by foreclosure, which it would have the right to do. That ought to make home owners feel more secure.

The mortgage holder has another alternative. He may borrow up to 40 per cent of the value of the property and give the home owners' loan corporation his mortgage as security.

When the Home Owner Seeks to Use the Home Loan Act Privileges, He Gets a Benefit in the Shape of a Postponement of the Maturity Date of His Debt.

That is, there is a new mortgage written and it may run as long as fifteen years. In addition, if the home owners' loan corporation agrees, the home owner may be allowed what amounts to a moratorium in the payment of either the interest or any installment on the principal. That gives the home owner a breathing spell so that if, for example, he is out of a job but his reputation for paying his debts is good, it is not necessary for him to lose his home.

Then, the home owner can obtain funds from the corporation without the necessity of paying a commission to anybody, and say what you will, these commissions for "obtaining a loan are a burden. The law makes sure there will be no commissions charged by making such an act a crime.

Another available benefit is provided for the home owner in the provision allowing him to pay off a part or all of his mortgage with bonds of the home owners' loan corporation. It may be readily seen that if by any chance the bonds of the corporation should sell below par, a borrower might be able to buy the bonds, say, at 85 per cent of their value and turn them in at 100 per cent. Of course, everybody here connected with administration of the act insists that the bond price will never fall below par, yet there are some who think that condition may eventuate.

I hope in a few weeks to be able to discuss the set-up arranged by the home owners' loan corporation by which home owners can take advantage of the legislation's terms. The machinery is being created slowly and it is obvious why that is so because there will be two agents of the home loan board in virtually every county of the nation. They will be the point of contact for the individual home owner and it will be from those agents that all necessary details can be ascertained and with them that individual problems may be solved.

The farm loan structure is somewhat further advanced. There was some machinery already in existence for use under the terms of that law and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., the farm credit administrator, is getting things in shape so that his organization soon will be making loans on farm lands.

We Have Just Witnessed the United States Treasury Adopt a New System of Reporting Its Condition. It Is Required by the Constitution and by Law to Make Public a Statement of Its Receipts and Expenditures, and a Daily Statement of These Items Has Been Issued Consistently for Many Years. Now, however, the statement has appeared in a new suit of clothes, and an explanation of why this has been done appears to be important.

For the first time in the history of this government the treasury actually is running a double budget system. That is, it is segregating in one set of accounts all of the regular expenditures such as salaries and ordinary running expenses. In another set of accounts, it is listing the so-called extraordinary expenditures. In these items are the long list of relief payments, the emergency construction expenditures, the payments to farmers for crops destroyed, and other outgo of a similar character.

I have heard both criticism and commendation of the new policy. President Roosevelt has maintained that the emergency expenditures should not be included in the regular budget because they are extraordinary in character and will not recur, or at least none of us hopes they will recur. The emergency expenditures are being financed through borrowings by the government and will be repaid later so that the President says they should not be considered when plans are being worked out for balancing the regular budget.

On the other hand, it is contended that this is a dishonest budget, that it does not properly represent the financial standing of our government. © 1933, Washington Post & Times Herald

Giving the Home That Cool Look

Decorations Can Do Much, Through Suggestion, to Help Out.

The homemaker who expects the family to remain at home during part of the summer at least, can do much to introduce a cool element in the rooms by following the suggestions offered here. Some of the methods lessen the heat through coolness realized through touch, and others through sight and lowered temperature. All are conducive to comfort.

One essential element in the decorative scheme is coolness of touch. To attain this there is no textile so perfect as linen. The next best is cotton goods with linen finish. A glazed or satin goods or finish is also cool feeling. Glass and metal are cool to the touch, as are also china, pottery and ceramics of high glaze and those of luster finishes. Whatever the home decorator has which can be used correctly in her rooms should be featured.

A second essential is coolness through appearance. For example a light-colored material is cooler to look at than a dark one. Therefore, when considering materials to cover furniture remember that the light-toned ones will foster the cool look. Of late, furniture covers of rich and gay colors have been popular, which is in accord with the brilliant color schemes which were the natural reaction from the all-too-somber schemes just preceding the present riot of color in decoration. In summertime, however, if you would have your rooms appear cool, use delicate colored furniture covering textiles.

A memory of the coolness of atmosphere created by oyster-white patterned weave linen covers on furniture and carpeted floors in a Philadelphia residence still lingers with me. I was but a child and Philadelphia was prematurely hot, when stopping there-between trains I called on a friend of my mother's. Just to enter the shaded coolness of the drawing room was a relief. To sit on the linen-covered chairs and touch the cool textile was refreshing. The homemaker has succeeded today in creating the desired cool atmosphere if her rooms give such a welcome impression of relief from torrid heat.

Accessories which strengthen the impression of coolness are grateful in summer time. For example, a clear glass bowl, brimming with water in which goldfish disport themselves, is such an accessory. Fronds of ivy trailing from a glass jar suspended in a window create a pleasing impression of crystal coolness and shady dells. A silver vase filled with flowers—suggests—the coolness of shimmering moonlight in a flower-filled garden.

Whatever by sight or touch recalls to the imagination things or impressions of coolness should be featured in summer decoration. Such things suit persons in the mood to react to such measures as can be taken to actually lower temperatures, such as dimming sunlight, creating draughts through open windows, etc. © 1933 Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

IN ANSWER TO A LADY'S LETTER

A lady writes to say that she does not understand why an 8-cylinder car does not cost more to run than a car with fewer cylinders. She refers to my statement that our Ford V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gas than any car we have made.

The use of 8-cylinders does not mean the addition of two or four extra fuel consumers. It is not, for example, a 4-cylinder engine multiplied by two. Our 8-cylinder engine takes the fuel supply of an ordinary 4-cylinder engine and divides it eight ways. And why?

By reducing four larger explosions into eight smaller ones, we get engine smoothness and quietness. Eight-cylinders indicate the way the gas is used, not the amount. It is just the difference between going upstairs in four long jumps or in eight ordinary steps.

Two things use up gas—bad engine design and useless car weight. Besides having an engine that gets a high percentage of power out of the fuel, the Ford V-8 has a light, strong body and chassis so that no power is wasted in moving excess weight.

The only extravagance about the new Ford V-8 engine is in the building of it. The extravagance is ours—the economy is yours.

The whole question of car economy needs clearing up. An economical car gives economy all round. Price, operation, upkeep, all play their part. If what you save on gas you lose elsewhere, that is not economy.

As to upkeep, our dealers say that in recent years the improved quality of Ford cars has cut down their repair business 50 per cent.

As to price with quality,—judge for yourself. As to economy, here is the record of a stock car three weeks out of shop in Oklahoma:

On a run of 10,054 miles at the rate of 1,000 miles a day—the Ford V-8 gave 18.8 miles per gallon of gas. Not a drop of water was added to the radiator. The oil was changed once in 1,000 miles.

That should answer a lot of questions.

Tangled Wives

By Peggy Shane

... relates the misadventures of a lovely young lady who finds herself in a cab with a strange man, a wedding ring on her finger, and no idea of who she is or where she is going. She escapes, is mistaken for another young wife by a mother-in-law who has never seen her, and things begin furiously to happen. From the moment that she is accused of murder, to the moment that a bishop is roused from his quiet meditations, there isn't a calm, dull moment in the book.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

The Un-American Boycott
(El Paso Times—Democratic)

In urging the public to boycott firms which do not adopt the blanket code of the national recovery program, Gen. Johnson is wrong. He has done this by the reverse procedure of urging people to patronize ONLY those firms which do adopt the code. It is the same thing only differently worded.

The boycott is un-American and unjust.

From the time it was devised in 1880 as a weapon in the struggle between the Irish Land League and the English landlords it has earned the contempt in which it is held by fair-minded people.

In urging the boycott, Gen. Johnson ignored the fact that in three cases carried to the United States Supreme Court in past years, the court has held the boycott to be a combination in restraint of trade and therefore, illegal.

We do not believe a court would hold otherwise at this time, or in the present circumstances, even on a special pleading of policy as justification.

It is understood that Administrator Johnson put out the boycott suggestion to the public after discussing the matter with President Roosevelt. Gen. Johnson was said to have been fearful of applying the licensing section of the national recovery act lest it might not stand in court. It is the opinion of the Times that the boycott will not stand up, either. It is manifestly unjust.

We may approve and praise—and patronize those firms which adopt the national recovery code (provided they do so without discharging a number of employees to offset increased wages) there is no escaping the hard fact that many a firm, including a host of little ones and some large ones as well, cannot adopt the code at this time and avoid bankruptcy.

Firms barely keeping their heads above water—how are they to raise wages, shorten the hours and add employees? Where is all this money coming from to pay for all this? They haven't got it. Probably they can't borrow it but if they do borrow, they must gamble on a large increase in business or else find themselves in the hands of receivers. There is only one sensible way to work this thing out. Let those firms which can subscribe to the code and stand the increased cost of doing business do so and more power to them! Then let the little concerns and all who are having a hard struggle for existence with no cash reserve to draw upon, come into line and adopt the code as fast as improving business will permit.

But in the meantime they must not be held up to public scorn for something they cannot help, or be boycotted out of business.

Keep in mind the big Rodeo to be held at Honda on Sunday, Aug. 6. Big dance Saturday, August 5.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Jim Travis was down from Ruidoso Tuesday attending to some business matters. Jim spent the most of past winter in Arizona, in deference to the wishes of Mrs. Travis, who felt that the altitude at Ruidoso was too high for her, but since their return in the spring, she has improved under the climatical conditions. They have erected another new cottage since the season opened.

Lell St. John gathered up a ball team composed of boys from the east side and went to White Oaks last Sunday and won from the White Oaks boys by a score of 16 to 12.

Saturnino Chavez, sons Reuben and Esequiel attended the game at Fort Stanton Sunday.

Lester Greer was here Monday from the Angora Goat ranch in the San Andres mountains purchasing ranch supplies.

Among those from here whom attended the dance given by the "Carrizozo Eastern Serenaders" at Tularosa last Saturday night, were: Mr. and Mrs. Lell St. John, Mr. and Mrs. Florencio Archuleta, Marshall St. John, Syl Baca, Jr., Joe Chavez, Tony Perea, Florencio Mirelez, Jr., Ray Warner and Isidro McKinley, Jr.

Dr. T. H. Williams, Dentist of Chickasha, Oklahoma, will be in Carrizozo on Thursday, July 27, for one week. Pyorrhea, one of the most common and loathsome diseases known to man, can be prevented and successfully treated in the first and second stages. 2t

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chavez and family, Mrs. Lorenzo Garcia and baby are visiting relatives in Arabela for several days.

Harry Straley was a Carrizozo business visitor from his ranch home near Ancho Wednesday.

Eliaso Perea arrived here the first of the week from Albuquerque for a short visit with his father, Joe Perea, brothers Joe, Jr., and Tony, all of whom are farming in the Rabenton region. He was accompanied here by Jake Gonzales, who is visiting the Max Ramirez and Andres Lopez families at Rabenton.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Andres Jimenez died last Saturday night and was buried Sunday afternoon.

The Community Hall is receiving a new coat of paint, the work being done by Charlie Jordan.

Postmaster Clovis Aguilar and family of Tularosa were visitors here on Tuesday of this week.

On Wednesday night about 7 o'clock, a colored woman walked into the Carrizozo Auto Company's shops and reported to attendants that their car had overturned on the Socorro road about 10 miles from town. Clerk Mosier immediately sent Nick and Martin Vega with the wrecker to the spot and they brought in the machine which was badly damaged. The occupants escaped unhurt.

A. B. Helms of Nogal was a business visitor here Tuesday.

Perry Sears of Capitan was in town on Monday.

Lupe Gabaldon was here yesterday from the Claunch country and while in town, made this office a friendly call. He was accompanied by Melchor Marques.

Ben C. Sanchez of Ziegler Bros. Store is building a nice porch in front of his residence on the east side.

NOTICE

On Saturday, August 12, the customary work will be done in the cemetery at Angus and all those interested in cleaning up and beautifying the grounds will please be present and prepared for the work.

Western Livestock Editor Here

The annual "Feeder Number" of Western Live Stock, Southwestern Range magazine, published at Albuquerque, N. M., will far exceed in size the special feeder issue of 1932, according to Frazier Biggs, associate editor, during a visit to Carrizozo this week.

"The Feeder Number," Mr. Biggs said, "is designed to advertise New Mexico cattle in the Corn Belt, and this year's issue is being patronized to a great extent by the most prominent cattlemen of New Mexico. This annual issue, first started in 1932, was commended by the state cattle growers' association as an important factor in moving the better grades of cattle last fall."

Lincoln County was well represented in the 1932 Feeder Number, and Mr. Biggs believes that this year's issue will give a full share of publicity to the herds in the vicinity of Carrizozo.

The recent order of Secretary Ickes which would remove fences from our public domain, is meeting with a vigorous protest from cattlemen. Mr. Biggs said, "The opinion seems to be unanimous, he continued, "that the order will be rescinded. It is generally agreed that some disposition will be made of the public domain areas within the next year or two at which time, these lands will be leased to stockmen, either by the states or federal government. The result will be necessary for the leased land to be fenced. The expense of removing fences and the resultant increase in costs of handling cattle would in many cases result in bankruptcy for the cattlemen."

Ranges over the state, Mr. Biggs said, are in good condition at this time, with the exception of the northern portion. Some cattle have been shipped from Union county to pastures in other sections of the state, he said.

Bill Nickels is home from attending summer school at Las Vegas.

Friends of Miss Lassie Ayres of El Paso, formerly of the Western Union of this place, will be glad to know that she has recovered from the effects of a recent illness.

Sabino Vidaurri is putting on a Special Sale on groceries and ladies' dresses at his store, all day tomorrow, July 29. Take advantage of this cut in prices in foodstuffs and save money.

Attorney H. B. Hamilton was here this week from El Paso on some legal business.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Stokes were visitors in town yesterday from their ranch near here.

Dawey Stokes passed us like a blue streak and why? He was driving a new Ford V-8 purchased from the Carrizozo Auto Co. Go thou and do likewise—Read that company's remarkable offer on page 6.

Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Finley are the proud possessors of a new model Buick 8 cylinder and the Boston bull pup, "Chloo," seems to enjoy the luxury as well as Master and Mistress.
