Funeral Services Held For Seligman

Santa Fe, Sept. 28—The body of the late Gov. Arthur Seligman today was in the executive mansion for the last time, as private ceremonies for the family only were conducted.

The body was removed from its place of state in the hall of the house of representatives early today and taken to the mansion where the governor had spent nearly three years.

Beautiful paintings of Indians, adobe houses, and New Mexico scenes, the governor's collection of Indian craft formed the setting as a still hush fell over the mansion.

Where there had been an incessant stream of persons coming and going, in and out of the mansion, this morning the streets were blocked and no visitors were permitted.

Their only son, Otis, who arrived yesterday; a brother, J. I. Seligman, a sister, Mrs. Eva M. Cohen, and a few intimate friends of the family were all present at the morning services.

The body was returned to the capitol to lie in state from noon until time for the public services held this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

Let Us Cease to Be Easy Marks for Grafters

Carrizozo is always big-hearted—it has always been, and by that virtue it has exposed itself to the evil - designing element which stands ready to victimize those who are too quick to take strangers into their confidence as soon as they light in town - without investigating their records previous to coming into our borders.

During the past two weeks, strangers have come to town, visited our merchants with the usual, "My name is Smith, Jones, Brown (and what have you.) You are Mr. So and So, we've heard of you." "They work in with our merchants and gain their confidence, after which they proceed to give out "hot checks."

The merchants find in a short time that they have been suckers to the extent of certain amounts. It is the old, old story, but will we profit by it?

Will we make a solemn resolution to know with whom we are dealing before we take them in the arms of our confidence?

Carrizozo has always been kind to strangers; she always will be. But that does not license the newcomers to trample such kindness under their feet and victimize the very ones who extended to them, the hand of welcome. We are sounding the warning. Will the merchants heed it? A certain prominent merchant said one day this week: "If a stranger comes here to cash a check, without a strong endorsement, we will do so if he will agree to pluck out his right eye and leave it with us as a guarantee that the check is not a hot one." His resolution may serve as a good example for others to follow.

Fakes—silk stocking and fakes of all kinds are coming, and this will soon become a dumping place for that element which has been driven out of eastern cities. We need not be hard-boiled in this matter. We only need to be sensible to our own safety. Let us cease to be targets for the hot check artists. The man with good intentions will neither be surprised nor offended at that attitude. It will raise us in his esteem. While we still preserve our good will for the stranger within our gates, let us give him to understand that more is required of him than a simply to write a check, take our money and get away with it. Let's keep what little money we have and cease to be classed among those of whom the great showmaster P. T. Barnum spoke when he said:—Well, you know what he said!

To Our Customers

The Arizona State Highway Department announced the color scheme of Arizona's 1934 motor vehicle license plates has been changed. The pleasure car plates will be light blue on a copper background and the commercial licenses green on a copper background. Material used in the former plates will be copper and in the latter steel.

Fruits of High Importance

Staple Varieties, Cheap and Abundant, Have a Definite Food Value in Furnishing the Necessary Supply of Minerals and Vitamins.

A new interest is being shown by housekeepers in the relation of food value and cost. Foods are being chosen not only by taste, not only in regard to food value, but in regard to the relation of cost to these other factors.

One of the bright spots in the life of the woman who considers all these things is the fact that fruit has been and is at an unusually low price. Fruits contribute largely to our supply of minerals and vitamins.

The fruits that are used most often in our daily life are probably oranges, bananas and apples, all of which are now staple in our markets. While all of us like a variety in our foods, we can safely choose our fruits with reference to price, as far as food value and taste are concerned. If, for instance, you find a bargain in bananas, which are now at a particularly low price, you use them as your principal fruit for the week, if you use such vegetables as cabbage or lettuce as well. The same is true of apples.

A very interesting comparison of fruits commonly used has been made recently by Doctor Eddy of Columbia university. Fruits are compared in reference to the important mineral content to the content of vitamins A-B-C, the best known vitamins. (B has been divided into two parts—one known as G—but these parts are usually found together in various proportions.) You will note how these vary. You will not depend, for instance, upon prunes for Vitamin C, but you can get a large amount of Vitamin A from them. Next in A content comes bananas, which also supply some units of B and C.

It is only recently that we have been able to confine the vitamin content of food in units. For a long time comparison was made much more generally by checks one, two and three. Of course not all foods have yet been tested by this method, but work is continuing in this respect.

In checking cost of food in comparison to food value at the prices indicated, oranges would be the cheapest source of Vitamin C; prunes and bananas the cheapest sources of Vitamin A. If raw cabbage was used for salads containing Vitamin C, your diet would be balanced both for cost and vitamin.

The banana, it is interesting to note, has arrived at a new standing in this dietary in the past few years. It has always been a favorite treat for children, but had been considered not too easy of digestion until it was discovered that a ripe and an unripe banana were completely different as far as digestion was concerned. The ripe banana is now being used to infant feeding. The crushed pulp is given a very early age. For best digestion, either for old or young, bananas whose skins are slightly streaked with brown should be used for eating raw. If bananas are to be cooked, it makes no difference whether they are ripe or unripe. Baked, sautéed and broiled bananas are used often now as dessert or as a meat accompaniment. They are also used as apples are in the preparation of such desserts as brown betty.

Bananas With Bacon. 6 bananas 1/2 pound bacon

Roll half lengths of peeled bananas in strips of bacon. Secure with toothpick, if necessary. Broil under flame; or bake in oven-proof dish in a hot oven, 40 degrees Fahrenheit, about 15 minutes, or until bananas are tender and bacon is crisp. Bake at least once during the baking. Whole bananas may be wrapped in bacon and cooked in the same way.

Banana and Apple Brown Betty. 3 cups bread 3 tablespoons butter 2 apples 3 bananas 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Cut bread into dice and saute with butter until brown. Peel apples and bananas, cut very thin. Dredge with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Cover bottom of baking dish with the bread, then add fruit and remaining bread in alternate layers, saving a few of the crumbs to put on top. Bake one-half hour, covered, and the last fifteen minutes uncovered, in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit.

Fried Carrots and Apples. 4 medium-sized carrots 4 tart apples 2 tablespoons butter 1 tablespoon sugar 1/4 teaspoon salt

Scrape the carrots and cut them lengthwise into thin slices. Core apples but do not pare and cut into slices about 1/4 of an inch thick. Place a single layer of the apples and the carrots in a large skillet with the butter, cover tightly and cook until well browned, turn, and brown the other side. Just before the cooking is finished sprinkle with the sugar and salt.

Realization. Some of us women became much excited thinking that we were going to receive more pay and less work, but then, tucked away toward the end of a discussion of the working code, was the announcement that it did not apply to household labor. We might have known. I guess we shall have to wait for heaven, after all.—Indianapolis News.

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

- 1. Control intestinal action exactly—no "purging"
2. Measure to suit your individual needs to the drop
3. Banish Bowel Fatigue and the laxative habit

Here's Why:

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the unwise choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using

It, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics.

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup Pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Are You a Forsyth?

The origin of the name is found in the Gaelic words "fear," meaning man and "syth," meaning honest and upright. Heper and upright men are the Forsyths and this certainly includes the ladies. The Forsyths of New Hampshire and also of the South are descendants of Robert Forsyth, third son of David Forsyth, Laird of Dykes, who was Lord Commissioner of Revenue for Glasgow, Scotland in 1694.

Matthew Forsyth, son of James, came to America from Scotland in 1732 and located in Chester, N. H. Among the descendants of Matthew are many distinguished southerners and also Thomas Forsyth, the 'Chevalier de Fronsac,' who was decorated with the order of Saint Louis in 1792. Among the descendants of the valiant chevalier was the celebrated American poet, Fredric Gregory Forsyth de Fronsac, who was the great great-grandson. The Forsyth family motto—restaurator ruinae—signifies "Reconstructor of a Ruin"
