Excellent time and records were made at the meet and it is believed that a number of boys and girls will compete at the State Meet in the spring. Prof. C. V. Koogler handled the Field like the master he is. 4-Corona ran wild on the Field, Ancho and Ruidoso following in order. 5-Corona won the Boys' Trophy; Captain the Girls'. J.V. Taylor and Bert Pfingsten tied in the Polo Bending race. R. A. Cranshaw on L. N. Bell's blue horse ran off with the 1/4 mile race. 6-The Track Report will be found herein. A War on Low Prices

Glencoe P.T.A. Meeting

The second meeting of the Glencoe P. T. A. was called promptly at 2:30 p. m. Monday, Oct. 16, by Mrs. Elzy Perry, pres. After a short business meeting a very program was sponsored by Mrs. Werner.

Our County Nurse, Miss Ryden, gave a lecture on 'Care of Teeth', which was followed by a very informal discussion concerning the dental work to be done in schools in the near future.

Mrs. Freeman of Hondo attended the meeting in representation of the Glencoe Woman's Club. Also to our happy surprise, Mrs. Ola C. Jones, County School Superintendent, accompanied by Irene Fisher, Field Secretary of the New Mexico Tuberculosis Association of Albuquerque attended the meeting.

Miss Fisher gave a most convincing talk on how we should spend our money on Tuberculosis Association Christmas seals instead of buying them from some out of the county or state firm, where we will reap no further benefit from it. The large number of members present agreed with Miss Fisher and offered their assistance in helping their community, county and state.

After the program, everyone had a pleasant visit while delicious refreshments were served by Meses. M. Miller, Henry Dale, and P. G. Hale.

Business Men's Club

There was the usual good attendance at the six o'clock dinner at the Carrizozo Eating House Wednesday evening. The visitors were Prof. Alden and Rev. L. D. Jordan. Mr. Jordan presented the Christmas Seal sale of the Tuberculosis association to the club, and explained the purpose of the sale, and the need for a statewide tuberculosis survey.

For the entertainment of the club Prof. Alden rendered two violin solos, the first being "Romance" in A, by Lieurance, and for an encore "Evening Song" by Schumann, in both selections Prof. Alden was accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Kelley at the piano. The club has planned to have the faculty of the High School as guests next Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harkey and small daughter Earlene were in town Wednesday from their home in White Oaks. Earlene's name might seem to be somewhat out of the ordinary, but she was given her father's name to which they added the 'one', hence the name-Earlene.

WORD OF WARNING!

As the hunting season is near at hand, all hunters are warned against shooting near where the men are employed on the forest conservation projects. In other words, Know at what you are shooting. Know where you are shooting. Remember that a man working in the forest leaves his horns at home. If this warning is not plain enough, we'll get you the "building blocks."

County Tuberculosis Association

The Lincoln County Tuberculosis Association was formed Monday evening for the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals this fall.

Rev. L. D. Jordan was elected president and Miss Ruth Ryden, County Health Nurse, secretary-treasurer.

Money from the Seal Sale this year will be used in a state-wide tubercular survey. Miss Irene Fisher, field secretary of the State Tuberculosis Association, explained the purpose and need for the health survey. Members of the Executive Committee are: T. E. Kelley, Mrs. Ola C. Jones, Miss Ella Brickley, Mrs. Oscar Snow, D. U. Groce, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Carl, Mrs. B. S. Burns, E. M. Barber, Mrs. C. A. Young and Father Brady.

Executive Board members from other Lincoln County communities are - A. M. Freeman, Hondo; Mrs. L. E. Cummins and R.S. Fagan, Capitan; R.S. Fagan, Fort Stanton; Mrs. Elzy Perry, Glencoe. Acceptances have not yet been received from Mrs. Roberts, Corona; Mrs. Kille, Ancho; Mrs. Louise Coe, Glencoe; Mrs. Boyce, Ruidoso, but it is hoped to add their names to the Executive Board.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club of Carrizozo will hold its next meeting at Capitan Saturday, Oct. 21, with Mrs. George Titworth as hostess.

The Club visits to Capitan are always enjoyable affairs, so let's all be there - not only for our own pleasure but to honor our out-of-town members.

And don't forget to come prepared to give the name of a favorite American Hero, and if you will, an incident in his life.

Home Hygiene Classes to Start in November

Those who saw the Public Health Exhibit at the Fair pass the word on about what you saw. The exhibit tried to portray some part of the three phases of work studied. First, the care of sick. Second, the first-aid care. Third, care of well children and how to give them normal health from infancy to adult life.

Classes will be formed in 4 or 5 places in the County. They will be enjoyable as well as offering something new for everyone to learn about.

Start thinking about it and you will be ready to start the first day the classes are scheduled to meet.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(By Helen Strauss)

Last Tuesday, instead of the Freshman program as announced, we were greeted by a pleasant surprise in the form of an excellent talk by Mr. Gutknecht, who is a judge in the boys' court in Chicago.

The Freshmen presented their program Monday. It consisted of two highly interesting readings and cowboy songs.

All of our High School exhibits won blue ribbons at the Fair. To say that we are very proud of this hardly expresses our feelings.

While Carrizozo failed to take many honors at the Track Meet, we may well be proud of the showing made by our boys and girls. We're backing every one of them yet.

The Post Graduates had prepared such a lengthy program this week that a part of it in the form of tap dancing by Helen Frances Huppertz, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mendenhall was presented Tuesday.

Wednesday the entire school enjoyed a few violin selections by Mr. Alden, of El Paso. This was a rare treat, and we hope to hear him often.

"You can always tell a Freshman by his high and mighty air; You can always tell a Sophomore by the way he combs his hair; You can always tell a Junior by his dignity and such; You can always tell a Senior, but you can't tell him much." Isn't that the truth?

Birthday Party at the Carrizozo Eating House

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Jimmy Lee was hostess to a party of little tots in honor of her son, Jimmy, Jr., aged 4, and daughter, Patsy Ann, 2. Yesterday was Jimmy's birthday, but Patsy Ann's fell ten days ago, so Mrs. Lee wisely chose to combine the celebration, making it all in one event. There were 15 little guests of the ages as near those of Jimmy and Patsy Ann as could be arranged. The program was carried out with games and entertainment to please the childish heart, and before the close the hostess served refreshments. Halloween decorations prevailed.

Bill Gallacher Honored With Party

Mrs. Willie Gallacher entertained a few of her small son's friends last Wednesday afternoon at a birthday party in her home. Halloween lanterns were aglow; owl favors were used. Refreshments were served on gaily decorated Halloween plates. Witches and cats pranced across Halloween napkins. Altogether a bewitchingly happy party was had.

She turned up the gorge, a tiny dark figure in an immense white wilderness. The snow was crisp, crunching underfoot; sunny days had thawed, clear, cold nights had frozen, and the crust had begun to form. Before she had gone a dozen feet she discovered this and its importance to her; where King's weight on the snowman, along a twice-traveled trail, had packed the snow and where now the sun and cold had done their work, there was a crust which upbore her slight weight; she could walk swiftly; there was to be no more floundering. She could run!

And run she did, when she had created the first ridge and had started down the far side. It was like flying! The crisp air cut her glowing cheeks; her blood leaped along her veins; she breathed deeply, a great, uplifting elation bore her along. Love—God is love—smoothed the way before her; the stars ran with her, the great blazing sun to which again and again she lifted her eyes.

at any second the lean body might come flushing back upon her. She began climbing the young pine; she fought wildly to get up into its branches; she was handicapped by the rifle which she clung to desperately. She got the gun in a crotch above her head; she pulled herself upward; she slipped and tore the skin of hands and arms; but hastening frantically she climbed up and up. She got the rifle into her hands again, nearly dropped it, thrust it above her, jammed it into a fork of a limb and kept on climbing. At last she was where she could reach out and touch the swinging carcass. With King's keen-edged butcher knife she hacked and cut at the frozen meat, panting with every effort. At last there was the thud of the falling meat; below her it lay on the snow crust. In wild haste she snatched her rifle; holding it in one hand, afraid to let it slip out of her grasp for a moment, casting a last fearful look in the direction whither the lion had gone, she began slipping down. And in another moment, with the precious burden caught up with the gun in her arms, she was running back up the ridge, her feet in King's trail. The home trail!

She was cold to the bone; her teeth chattered, her body quaked. Yet she kept on. And so, in the fullness of time, after long frightful hellish hours, she came to the last terror of the night.

The new day was bright on the mountain tops when she felt at first a dull sort of surprise and then a sudden, stimulating gladness, noting the familiar look of the ridge ahead. Yonder the cave would be. The cave and King, success and rest. She straightened up a little, brushing her hand across her straining eyes, making sure that she was right. She heard the insistent scream behind her, but now she did not heed it, for in front of her, stock still in the trail, was a man. It was Benny.

Suddenly all emotions were gathered into scolding anger. Her thought was: "He will take the meat from me! The meat I have brought for Mark!" She grew rigid in her tracks. She jerked up her rifle in front of her; her tired eyes hardened.

Then she noted that Benny had not seen her. He was stooping. She saw that he had a small pack on his back; fond, no doubt. On the ground by him was a second pack, something in a crash sack; Benny was struggling to lift it to his shoulders. It must be very heavy. Gloria drew back hastily, glancing about her, found the only hiding place offered, and slipped behind the big rock.

Presently Benny came on. She heard him from a distance; he was talking to himself excitedly, jabbering broken fragments of sentences, twice breaking into his hideous dry cackle of laughter. She shivered; his utterances sounded mad.

And what they were. He was talking about "Gloria" and he chuckled. He mentioned Mark's, Brodie's and Jarrod's and Gratton's and another name, and he chuckled again. Gloria peered cautiously from the shelter of a rock. He was very near her now, struggling with the smaller pack and his side and the heavy bundle in his sack. She thought that he was going to pass without seeing her. But just as he passed ahead of her hiding place something prompted Benny to jerk up his head. He saw her eyes and stopped suddenly; she saw his eyes. And she knew on the instant that if the man were not stark mad, at least he was not entirely sane. She lifted her rifle, cold all over; if he came another step nearer she would shoot. . . .

"It's mine!" Benny shrieked at her. "Mine. I tell you!"

He broke into a run, passing her, leaving the trail, floundering down the ridge the shortest way. His rifle encumbered him; she saw it fall into the snow while Benny, clutched his gunny-sack in both arms, stumbled on. He fell; he rose, shrieking curses. She watched, fascinated. The pack on his back slipped around in front of him; Benny tore at it and cursed it and hurled it from him. Still hurtling he lope. Gloria shuddered and stepped back into her own trail. She could hear Benny cursing faintly. Like an echo came another cry across the ridges; the cry of a starving cat.

Mark King awakened to a sensation of piercing cold. He moved a little to draw his blankets closer about him and, as an awaking impression, found that his strength, even though slowly, was surely returning to him. He turned his head, lifting it a trifle; already he had thought of Gloria, and now he sought her. He could not see her anywhere; no doubt she lay in the shadowy dark beyond the dying fire. He lay back, staring up into the gloom above him. It was thinning; day was coming or had come already. A day with sunshine! They could go out on the crust by the time that he was able to be about—

Gloria was not in the cave. He sank back, sure of that. Then she had gone down again for wood. He frowned and lay staring upward again. Gloria bringing wood while he lay here like a log. He grew nervously restive at the thought; it was unthinkable that she should do work like that. Always he saw her as he had first seen her, a fragile-looking girl, a girl with sweet little hands as soft as rose petals. He must fight to get his strength back, to get on his feet again, to save her from such toil as was no woman's work in the world, certainly never the work for a girl like Gloria.

He heard a sound at the cave's mouth. Gloria was coming back. He found no words with which to greet her, but lay very still, waiting for her to come in.

She set her gun down; at first he wondered at that. "Poor little Gloria," he thought; taking her rifle with her when she went down for wood, frightened and yet strong-hearted enough to go in spite of fear. She came on, not to him but to the smoldering coals. She had turned toward him, but, no doubt, thought him still asleep. He watched her, still knowing that presently she would come, awaiting her coming. And again he was perplexed; he did not understand why Gloria walked like that. He had never seen her walk so before; she had always been so light of foot, so graceful—so like a fairy creature, scarcely touching the ground. Now her feet dragged; she groped uncertainly; she was like one who suddenly dizzy.

She dropped down by the coals, her face in her hands. The light was hard; he could hardly see her now. He heard a sigh that ended in a sob. She rose, oh, so wearily. He saw her sway as she walked; she was through-ing wood on the fire. It caught; a flame flared out; other flames followed with their merry crackling and leaping light. And now he saw Gloria's face. It was drawn and haggard; it had been washed with tears; her eyes looked enormous and unnaturally bright. He saw her hair; it was in wild disarray, a tumble of disorder. He saw that she had socks wrapped about her lagging feet; that her clothes were torn, that her sleeves were ragged, that her arms were covered with long scratches! His first thought, making his body tense with anger, was that he had not come in time to save her from Brodie's hands. . . .

What was Gloria doing? Struggling with something on her back. Something which was tied across her shoulders. She got it free; it fell close to the fire, played over by the light of the flames. He craned his neck and saw it was a great chunk of bear meat—he could see bits of the hide still on it!

He could not understand. Not yet. All that he could do was stare at her and wonder and grope confusedly for the explanation. It was clear that something was wrong with Gloria; she dropped down by the fire, she stamped forward, she lay her face upon her crossed arms. He could see the trail body shaking—he could hear her sudden wild sobbing.

The truth came upon him at last, dawning slowly, slowly.

"Gloria!" It was a gasp of more than amazement; consternation was in his heart. "Gloria!"

She lifted her head and sat up. He saw her great wide-open eyes and the tears gushing from them. She fought to control herself, a sob in her throat. She rose and came toward him in strange, wildly uncertain steps.

"My God," he cried hoarsely. "You went for my bear! You did it!"

She tried to smile at him, and into his own eyes there broke a sudden gush of tears.

"You wonderful, wonderful, wonderful Gloria!" he cried out. "There is no girl in all the world could have done that—there is no girl like you!"

Her hand was questing his; he caught it and gripped it with all the strength in him; he hurt her, and at last, with the pain, her smile broke through.

"Gloria—" "Mark!" "Can you—not so soon, but some day—forgive me?" She found only a faint whisper with which to answer him; her eyes were as hungry as his. "Can you forgive, Mark?" And now, when their eyes clung together as their hands were already clinging, each was wondering that the other could forgive and love one who had erred so.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. H. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, 6, 1323, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 22

PAUL IN ASIA MINOR

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:1-5, 13-15; 14:1-23

GOLDEN TEXT—And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. Mark 16:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Far Away Friends Hear About Jesus

TOPIC—A Ship Sets Sail. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Send Missionaries Abroad? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Missionary Obligation.

1. The Beginning of Foreign Missions (vv. 1-12).

This marks the beginning of foreign missions as the deliberately planned enterprise of the church.

1. The gifts of the church at Antioch (vv. 1). Young men as Antioch, the new religious center, she had prophets and teachers. When Christ ascended on high, he gave gifts to men for the purpose of perfecting the saints into the work of the ministry (Eph. 4:8-12). The church does not exist for itself, but for service to others.

2. First missionaries sent forth (vv. 2, 3). Barnabas and Saul were the first foreign missionaries. They went forth by the hands of the church at the command of the Spirit. The work of evangelizing the world was laid so heavily upon these men that they refrained from eating in order to seek the will of God in prayer. They were directed to send forth those whom the Spirit called, teaching us that the real call for service comes from the Spirit. The Spirit called and the very best men were sent from the church at Antioch. Before sending forth the missionaries, there was a second season of prayer before laying hands upon them, indicating that ordination has its proper place in sending forth missionaries.

3. Preaching the Word of God in Cyprus (vv. 4-5). Because the gospel is "good news," it is natural for the missionary to go among his acquaintances. Christ commanded the one out of whom a demon had been cast to go to his own house and tell what great things the Lord had done for him (Luke 8:39).

4. Withstood by Elymas, the sorcerer (vv. 6-12). Elymas, under the influence of Satan, sought to turn the mind of Sergius Paulus from the Word of God, and to hinder the gospel as it entered upon its career of conversion of the heathen. Paul denounced him as full of guile and villainy.

5. Paul and Barnabas at Antioch in Pisidia (vv. 13-17).

From Cyprus Paul and Barnabas, with John Mark, went northward to Perga. Here, for some reason, Mark parted company with the missionaries, and returned home. We are not told as to why he went back, but it is a pleasure to know that he later redeemed himself. Before Paul's death, he spoke favorably of Mark, declaring that he had found him profitable unto the ministry (II Tim. 4:11). Reaching Antioch in Pisidia they entered a synagogue on the Sabbath day. Though Paul was now a missionary to the Gentiles, he did not depart from his custom—to go to the Jew first.

6. Paul and Barnabas Preaching the Gospel in Lystra (Acts 14:1-23).

1. At Iconium (vv. 1-7). Their experience here was much the same as at Antioch. They preached in the synagogue, causing a multitude of Jews and Gentiles to believe. The unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles to the most bitter persecution.

2. The attempt to worship Paul and Barnabas as gods (vv. 8-18). To escape the united assault of the Jews and Gentiles, they fled to Lystra and Derbe, where they preached the gospel. The healing of the lame man occasioned new difficulty. This man was a confirmed cripple, having never walked. On hearing Paul preach, faith was born in his heart (Rom. 10:17). When Paul perceived that he trusted Christ, he called with a loud voice so that all could hear for the man to stand upright. The cure was instantaneous for he leaped and walked. This miracle was so notable that the very thing which should have been a hindrance now became a hindrance. The people sought to worship the missionaries.

3. The stoning of Paul (vv. 19, 20). Wicked Jews from Antioch and Iconium pursued Paul with such relentless hate that they stirred up the people at this place, who had been willing to worship the missionaries, to stone them. This shows that satanic worship can soon be transformed into satanic hate. They not only stoned Paul, but dragged him out of the city for dead. God raised him up, and with undaunted courage Paul pressed on with his duties as a missionary bearing the good news to the lost.

The Name Jesus

If the name Jesus were left out of our prayers, our hymns, and our worship, we would mourn as if the rose were eraced from the cheek of morning, the sun were banished from the heavens, and the sweetest note stricken from the palm of life.

Proof of Discipline

In his sufferings the Christian is often tempted to think himself forgotten. But his afflictions are the clearest proofs that he is an object of God's fatherly discipline.

A Quicker Way To Ease Headaches

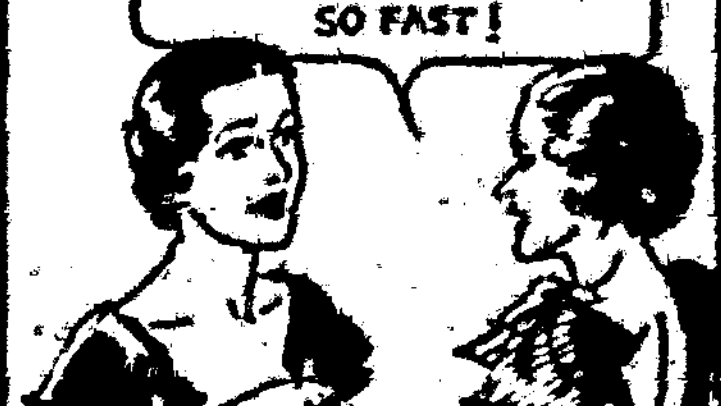

HERE I AM... A BIG DINNER PARTY ON HAND... AND ANOTHER OF MY BAD HEADACHES. WHAT CAN I DO?

EVERY TIME BAYER ASPIRIN TAKE 2 TABLETS AND YOUR HEADACHE WILL BE GONE IN A JIFFY!

2 BEFORE THE DINNER

THAT BAYER ASPIRIN YOU SUGGESTED IS SIMPLY WONDERFUL! MY HEADACHE WAS ENTIRELY GONE IN A FEW MINUTES!

A Discovery That's Bringing Fast Relief to Millions

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief. It is said, yet undiscovered.

These results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "working" in a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus it is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always says "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate. What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

Will He, or Will He Not?

The strike situation at Gallup has been investigated by Governor Hockenbush and in sympathy with the provisions of the code, the strikers have expressed not only a willingness but a strong desire to arbitrate the matter, but the operators refuse. In addition to this violation of the code, they are insisting on the state keeping the troops there, when the expense to the taxpayers has already reached much above the $30,000 mark.

The military court has already sentenced one strike leader to six months imprisonment at hard labor for alleged interference with martial law, but the operators are still hiding behind the skirts of the militia and unmolested in their violations. At Dawson, the mine operators also are also refusing to arbitrate the differences with miners.

To refer back to the military sentence and others of a like nature pending, it still must have the approval of the governor before they can be committed. If he displays a spirit of fairness, he should release the men. If he fails, he will stand guilty of aligning himself in favor of those who have violated the national code and will make himself a party to their guilt. The chairman of the national labor board has stated plainly that employers who fail to arbitrate are violators of the code but it seems that it makes a lot of difference as to whom the violators are.

Will the governor take these matters into consideration, place blame where it belongs, or will he ignore code violations by the operators and sanction punishment of others for lesser guilt?

Scientists declare that they will soon be able to photograph the thoughts of a human being and the Lowell Evening Leader says that in that event, some lurid pictures may be expected.

Fame
President Taft's favorite joke was on himself. It happened that Jim Corbett of pugilistic fame had called on Taft at the White House and the two were walking about the grounds when a Washington newsboy spied them and yelled, "Gee, there's Jim Corbett, but who's the fat guy with him?"

Let George Do It
Fervently fond of mushrooms, but fearful of ranking ahead of the fatal fungi as receding them, an Arkansas man turns to the Thomas Cat for help. "How," he queries, "can one tell a mushroom from a toadstool?" "Easy," enlightens the editor. "If you see it you're bothered."

Defect in Speech

Speech defects occurring in children may be caused by disorders in the emotional life, says Calvin T. Ryan in a Hygeia Magazine article. Among the causes he lists: lack of understanding of parents, inconsistency of treatment, laxity in discipline, dependence, dominance on the part of the parent, a too closely planned schedule, influence of a too dynamic personality, overanxiety, quarrelling, partiality, irregularity in the home, and unwise discipline.

was borne out, according to the crew shot he laughed at their fears. Soon afterward there was a fire aboard ship.

Then followed engine trouble, and finally the vessel was caught in a

Southwestern Briefs

Clarence L. Lasater has been appointed livestock inspector in St. Johns, Ariz., district. He started work Oct. 1.

The City Council of Roswell decided to apply to the public works board for a loan of $75,000, with which to construct a new city hall.

The Arizona State Tax Commission has announced sales tax collections for August reached $74,385.92, nearly $7,000 more than July collections.

Bids aggregating $546,894.20 for three construction projects on U. S. Highways 60 and 66 have been received by the Arizona State Highway Department.

George H. Todd, former Phoenix city manager, on telegraphic instructions from the Post Office Department Sept. 30th, became acting Phoenix postmaster, succeeding Col. James H. McClintock.

At the end of the present fiscal year, Highway U. S. 66 will be oil-surfaced across the entire state of Arizona, with the exception of eighty miles, it was announced lately by representatives of the highway department.

The national recovery administration highway program in Arizona got under way in earnest when the State Highway Commission awarded contracts totaling $810,000 on six highway and bridge projects expected to employ more than 300 men.

Within a few weeks, the Santa Fe will have completed installation of approximately 100 miles of new rail in its territory west of Albuquerque. It was reported last week. Track was laid between Cajon and Summit and on the Los Angeles division between San Bernardino and Colton.

Gov. B. B. McOuer of Arizona disclosed recently he has under consideration an order that wherever possible male employees of the state be discharged to make way for women. This contemplated action is a result of failure of the federal government to make provision for employment of women in many portions of its national recovery program.

The total amount of applications for government 4 per cent money for various public works in New Mexico totals $1,500,000, "with more to come." The applications are for water supplies in towns and cities, for irrigation projects and for the building of schools, libraries and mess halls. The biggest amount was asked by the Bernardo conservatory district below Belen, which is for $850,000.

New Mexico poor will get four carloads of milled pork furnished by Uncle Sam, Mrs. Margaret Reeyes, state child welfare director, announced. It will be distributed through the county relief agencies. The first car went to Albuquerque, and the 30,000 pounds of pork it carries will be allotted to Bernalillo and six nearby counties. The other cars probably will be sent to Clovis, Raton and Las Cruces.

Articles of incorporation for establishment of the first distillery in Arizona, following repeal of the eighteenth amendment, anticipated for the latter part of this year, were filed last week with the State Corporation Commission. The articles were filed for the "Straight American Distillery" of Douglas. Incorporators are L. R. Hoard, El Paso; Alexander Baird, Jr., Douglas, and L. C. Shattuck, Bisbee. Capital stock, $100,000.

Clarence Lynch, Phoenix, Ariz., attorney, and George Kaplan, Denver, both representatives of the International Labor Defense Association, in Gallup to uphold striking miners' rights, and five national miners union leaders, were imprisoned in the stockade of the military camp Tuesday night, Oct. 4th. William Dietrich of Denver was among these five. McKinley county, scene of strikes and labor unrest in the coal mines, is under martial law. Col. C. G. Sage, who led the raids in which the men were arrested, said they told the strikers to "arm yourselves and hold a mass meeting tomorrow regardless of the tinhoras."

Gov. A. W. Rockefeller, New Mexico's ninth chief executive since statehood, is a farmer, banker and lawyer of mild unassuming manner who has won the reputation of being a man of dependable decision and a conscientious leader. The 56-year-old governor who took his oath of office a few hours after the sudden death of Gov. Arthur Seligman, was born in Folk, Mo., in 1877, and has been a resident of New Mexico since 1904. He is a devotee of golf, playing regularly during favorable weather; likes to hunt and seldom misses a few days with his gun at the opening of the quail season. Like his predecessor, Governor Seligman, the governor is a bank president, having dropped his law practice six years ago to become president of the Clovis National bank. But his legal profession and banking activities have never stopped him from active work on his wheat farms in Curry county.

Fort Huachuca's new $50,000 movie palace opened its doors recently. A dedicatory program featured the first night's performance, with Col. R. S. Knox, commanding officer of Fort Huachuca, delivering the principal address.

Isabella Selmes Greenway, Democrat, was elected to Arizona's congressional seat, vacated last March by Lewis W. Douglas, now director of the federal budget. Dilworth Sumpter, Socialist, was second in the race, with H. B. Wilkinson, Republican, last.

EYES OF YOUTH KEPT TO RIGHT

Character Formation Basis of Old "Readers."

It is amusing to go back and see the kind of reading matter that the schoolchildren of our granddaddy's time used to eat up. Most of the stories were picked because they taught some lesson in the formation of character. A good sample of this kind is found in the famous old MacGuffey's Third Reader. It is called "Stick to Your Bush." This is the way it went:

One day when I was a lad, a party of boys and girls from our school was going into the country to pick berries. I got my basket, and was going out of the gate when my father called me back. He took hold of my hand and said very kindly to me: "Harry, my boy, what are you going for—to pick berries, or to play?"

"To pick berries," I answered. "Then, Harry," said he, "I want to tell you one thing. It is this: when you find a good bush, don't leave it and try to find a better one. The other boys and girls will run about, picking one or two berries here and one or two there, and getting very few in the end. If you do as they do you will come back with an almost empty basket. If you want to get berries, stick to your bush!"

I went with the party, and we had a fine time; but it was just as my father had said. No sooner had one of the boys found a good bush than he called to his companions, and they would leave their places and run off to see what he had found.

But I remembered my father's words, and I stuck to my bush. When I had done with one I went to another, and finished that; and then I took another. When night came, I had a large basketful of nice berries, more than all the others put together; and I was not half so tired as they were.

I went home very happy that night, and when father looked at my basketful of ripe berries, he said, "Well done, Harry! You see it was just as I told you. It is always best to stick to your bush."

Not long after that, my father died, and I had to make my own way in the world as best I could. But I never forgot the lesson taught me by that day's berry picking. I always stuck to my bush.

When I had a good place and was getting on well, I was not willing to leave it and spend days or weeks in trying to find a better place. When other young men said, "Come with us, and we will find you something better to do," I shook my head, and stuck to my bush.

After a while my employers took me into partnership with them in their business. The habit of sticking to my business led to my success. I owe all I have to the lesson my father taught me when he said, "Stick to your bush."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Silver Has High Place in Realm of Industry

Silver, because of its cheaper price, has a wide industrial use. Some 40,000,000 ounces of silver are annually distributed by government agencies and private refiners to manufacturers. The present low price has given it a decided impetus in this field.

Much silver is reclaimed today which formerly was lost in scrap heaps. It is estimated that $5,000,000 worth is saved annually by extracting particles from the sweepings of factories where it is used, by filtering the water used in cleaning where silver compounds are manipulated, and most of all from the discarded film which comes from the motion picture industry.

This reclaimed silver, as well as the new product, goes back to industry. Because silver resists the action of acetic acid it is used to line food containers and stills, condensers, taps and faucets in dairies, fruit juice and brewing trades. It also resists caustic alkalis and, therefore, is used to line great vats in their manufacture. The uses of silver today are so varied that the list might be extended almost indefinitely.

May Egyptians Claim Laurels of Columbus?

The Abbe Moreux, director of the Bourges observatory, and author of a work on "The Mysterious Science of the Pharaohs," has come out with a theory that, centuries before Columbus, Egyptians discovered America.

Otherwise, how did it happen that, when Columbus arrived, he found the Indians calling the constellations of heavenly bodies by names corresponding to those now known to have been bestowed upon them by the ancient Egyptians?

Again, as the Abbe Moreux informs us in Le Petit Parisien, "a savant, Moustafa Ibrahim Bey, has just demonstrated that certain geographical names in America are derived from ancient Egyptians, where, for example, 'Mississippi' means 'Father of Waters.'"

Still again, "In Mexico we find pyramids, hieroglyphs, and sculptures in which the human beings, especially in their mode of hair-dressing, exactly resemble those shown in ancient Egyptian paintings."

But would an expedition analogous to that of Columbus have been possible in the days of the Pharaohs? According to Ibrahim Bey, Rameses II had a ship 280 cubits long built by Phoenicians, and we know that the ancient Egyptians perfectly understood the use of sails. In the seventh century, B. C., "Egyptians circumnavigated Africa." Those mariners, thinks the Abbe Moreux, may later "have risked a voyage to America."

Thus the company of pre-Columbian discoverers of America increases, and to Norsemen and negroes these subjects of ancient Pharaohs are, if not a universally plausible addition, at least entertaining.—Literary Digest.

INDIGESTION, RUNDOWN

Mr. John W. Dodson, of 1208 W. "Thank Goodness, Jim,"

COLD WEATHER NEVER DELAYS US!

Ann: "Betty would be late on our first air trip, but as usual when it gets cold, it's to be expected." Jim: "You mean that temperature actually has an effect on her promptness?" Ann: "Yes, she is very prompt ordinarily—it's a case of car trouble in cold weather. Bill doesn't see that the difficulty is in his choice of gas and oil." Jim: "Well, Ann, you couldn't expect everybody to buy Conoco, could you?" Ann: "If everyone knew how Conoco oil and gasoline protect both you and your motor against the difficulties of cold weather, driving they would!" Jim: "Guess I'd better get Bill on the phone and see what the delay is!" Ann: "Please do!"

Betty: "We had the most awful time, Ann! We were ready to leave in plenty of time, but when Bill tried to get the motor started, it wouldn't budge. After running down the battery he rolled the car out of the garage and got some one to push it till it started—and just in time. The car just doesn't seem to work right." Ann: "It isn't the car, Betty, it's the oil and gas Bill buys. Why don't you tell him to get Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and Conoco Bronze Gasoline—they are more economical and have cold weather performance that gives us instant starting and 'Hidden Guard' protection." Betty: "I'm sold!—and Bill will be too just as soon as I get to him!"

CONOCO at the sign of the Red Triangle

Full motor protection, especially in cold weather starting, can be obtained only in Conoco Germ Processed (Patented) Motor Oil because of the protective oiliness, called "The Hidden Guard," stays up in your motor and never cranks away. Instant Starting and Lightning Pick-up can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline and with the benefits of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled. When planning a trip for business or vacation, write the Conoco Travel Bureau, Denver, Colo., America's largest Free Travel Bureau.

Read the "Ads" but don't ignore medical opinion

If you want to —keep bowels regular and comfortable —make constipated spells rare as colds —avoid danger of bowel strain

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form.

Can Constipation be Corrected?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose that you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic that's taken so frequently, you must carry it wherever you go!

What is the "Right" Laxative?

In buying any laxative, read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. By using it, you avoid danger of strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable. You can make those constipated spells as rare as colds. How many dimes and quarters are spent on "popular" laxatives? How quickly they count up, as you use more and more of these habit-forming helps! A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would save you money—and bring you real relief.

Why Doctors give a liquid laxative

The habitual use of irritating salts, or powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets is risky.

The properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without discomfort or injury. You need not take a "double dose" a day or two later.

The public can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore.

"Goofus" Club Organized

The "Goofus" Club was organized Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Garrison, its motto being "Laugh a Lot." The purpose of the club is to make cheery the evenings of the coming winter. Michigan, the game to be played, does not tax the concentration to such an extent that conversation and jokes may not be indulged in, at least at discreet intervals, so the members are hoping for sociable and merry times as they gather in the respective homes.

The members are: Messrs Roy Shafer, Ray Lemon, E. M. Barber, Don English, Carl Garrison, Carl Jones; Mesdames Carl Jones, Roy Shafer, Ray Lemon, E. M. Barber, Don English, Carl Garrison, Jess Snyder, O. W. Bamberger, W. O. Garrison; Misses Tressie Davis, and Hazel Melas.

After the close of the games light refreshments were served. Living up fully to its motto during the evening, the club departed to meet with Mrs. Don English next week.

ICE . . . gives up secrets

Men who study such things are coming to the conclusion that the Earth is getting warmer. The latest evidence is the thawing of the frozen earth along the borders of the Arctic Ocean in Northern Siberia.

Twenty thousand years ago or so the mile-high ice-cap which covered the earth to as far south as the Ohio River began to melt and human beings began to move farther and farther north. But the soil of the treeless plains of the Siberian tundra thawed only a few feet below the surface, under the brief summer suns. Below was the eternal frost, and preserved as in Nature's cold storage were the bodies of prehistoric animals, trapped by the advancing ice from the north perhaps a million years ago.

More than a hundred years ago a perfectly preserved body of a mammoth was found where the tundra had melted. More and more of them have been found, and each farther north. This, scientists say, prove that the polar icecap is still receding, and that the time will come, perhaps in another hundred thousand years, when semi-tropical vegetation, such as has been found undisturbed in the stomachs of these mammoths, will grow again in the Arctic.

Something to think about when anyone talks of anything being "permanently."
