Col. Pritchard III

Attorney E. M. Barber left Thursday morning for Santa Fe, to be at the bedside of Col. Geo. W. Pritchard, the veteran lawyer, who is critically ill.

Many Thanks, Mr. Brickley

This office is indebted to Mr. E. M. Brickley for a delicious portion of venison, being the first that was killed as far as we know.

Armistice Day

Saturday, Nov. 11, is Armistice Day and a national holiday. Following are the events of the day in Carrizozo—

Football, Carrizozo vs. Alamogordo High Schools.

Basketball at the Community Hall—Capitan Town Team vs. Carrizozo Town Team.

Dance after the basketball game at the Community Hall, Music by "The Revelers."

The entire net proceeds will be turned over to the athletic department of the local schools.

Mr. Oscar Snow, Gracias

for that tempting venison you sent to this office. The deer was a big one, too. Oscar gets one every time, and no foolin'.

P. T. A.

Friday night, Nov. 10, the P. T. A., will hold its next meeting. The subject on the program will be "Safety First" with Mrs. Nickels in charge. The program appears elsewhere in this paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Barber of Amarillo, Texas, were week-end guests at the E. M. Brickley home, while on their way to El Paso. Miss Barber is the former Miss Marjorie Brickley of Tucumcari.

Geo. A. Titworth, proprietor of the Titworth Co., Inc., of Capitan, was in attendance at the Business Men's weekly 6 o'clock dinner held Wednesday evening at the popular Carrizozo Eating House.

Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. McCollough, and daughter Maude Ellen have left for Capitan where Mrs. McCollough will take the position made vacant by Mrs. Perry Sears as instructor of English at the Capitan Union High School. On the last day, her pupils favored Mrs. McCollough with a fruit shower. She was formerly a teacher in the local schools.

The local Red Cross Supply Room will be open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, from 9 to 12 a. m., and 2 to 4 p. m.

Sat and Reuben Chavez were visitors at Socorro last week.

PERSONALS

Bert Provine of the Titworth Co., Inc., of Capitan was a Carrizozo visitor the first of this week.

Mrs. Katherine Bilbo, children and mother Mrs. Helene Spence of Jicarilla visited relatives and friends here Monday.

Attorney John E. Hall was called to Santa Fe Monday on legal matters.

Prof. and Mrs. Karl Cunningham of Capitan passed through here Tuesday on their way to Albuquerque to attend the State Teachers' meeting.

Last Thursday evening, a surprise birthday party was given for Miss Hazel Melas at the home of Mrs. C. W. Young. Bridge was played, refreshments served and the honor guest was the recipient of many beautiful presents.

Jess Roberts has proved himself to be the "Kingfish" bear hunter. He brought down a big fellow weighing 354 pounds. It made good eating and the Outlook family enjoyed a delicious roast from Bruin for which we return our thanks, Jess!

Miss Frances Green came up Monday from Alamogordo, attended Mrs. Kelley's recital and left Tuesday morning for home accompanied by T. E. Kelley and daughter who are deer hunting in the Sacramento mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Sower were here Sunday from their home in Fort Sumner. They registered at the Carrizozo Eating House, stayed over until Monday and left for their ranch possessions near Ancho, where after a short stay they returned to the old stamping ground of Billy the Kid.

Mrs. B. D. Garner fittingly observed Hallowe'en Tuesday evening with lanterns, goblins, witches etc., and to add to the unique affair dinner was served under candle lights. A lovely autumnal fruit centerpiece graced the dining table.

Mrs. L. D. Jordan, who has been in Fayetteville, Alabama, for the past two weeks, wrote Rev. Jordan that her mother, who had been ill for some time, died last Friday.

Mrs. Nellie Branum and daughter, Mrs. Oscar Clouse, were in El Paso one day last week and while there, they visited Mrs. Branum's little granddaughter, Lassie Ellen Ayres.

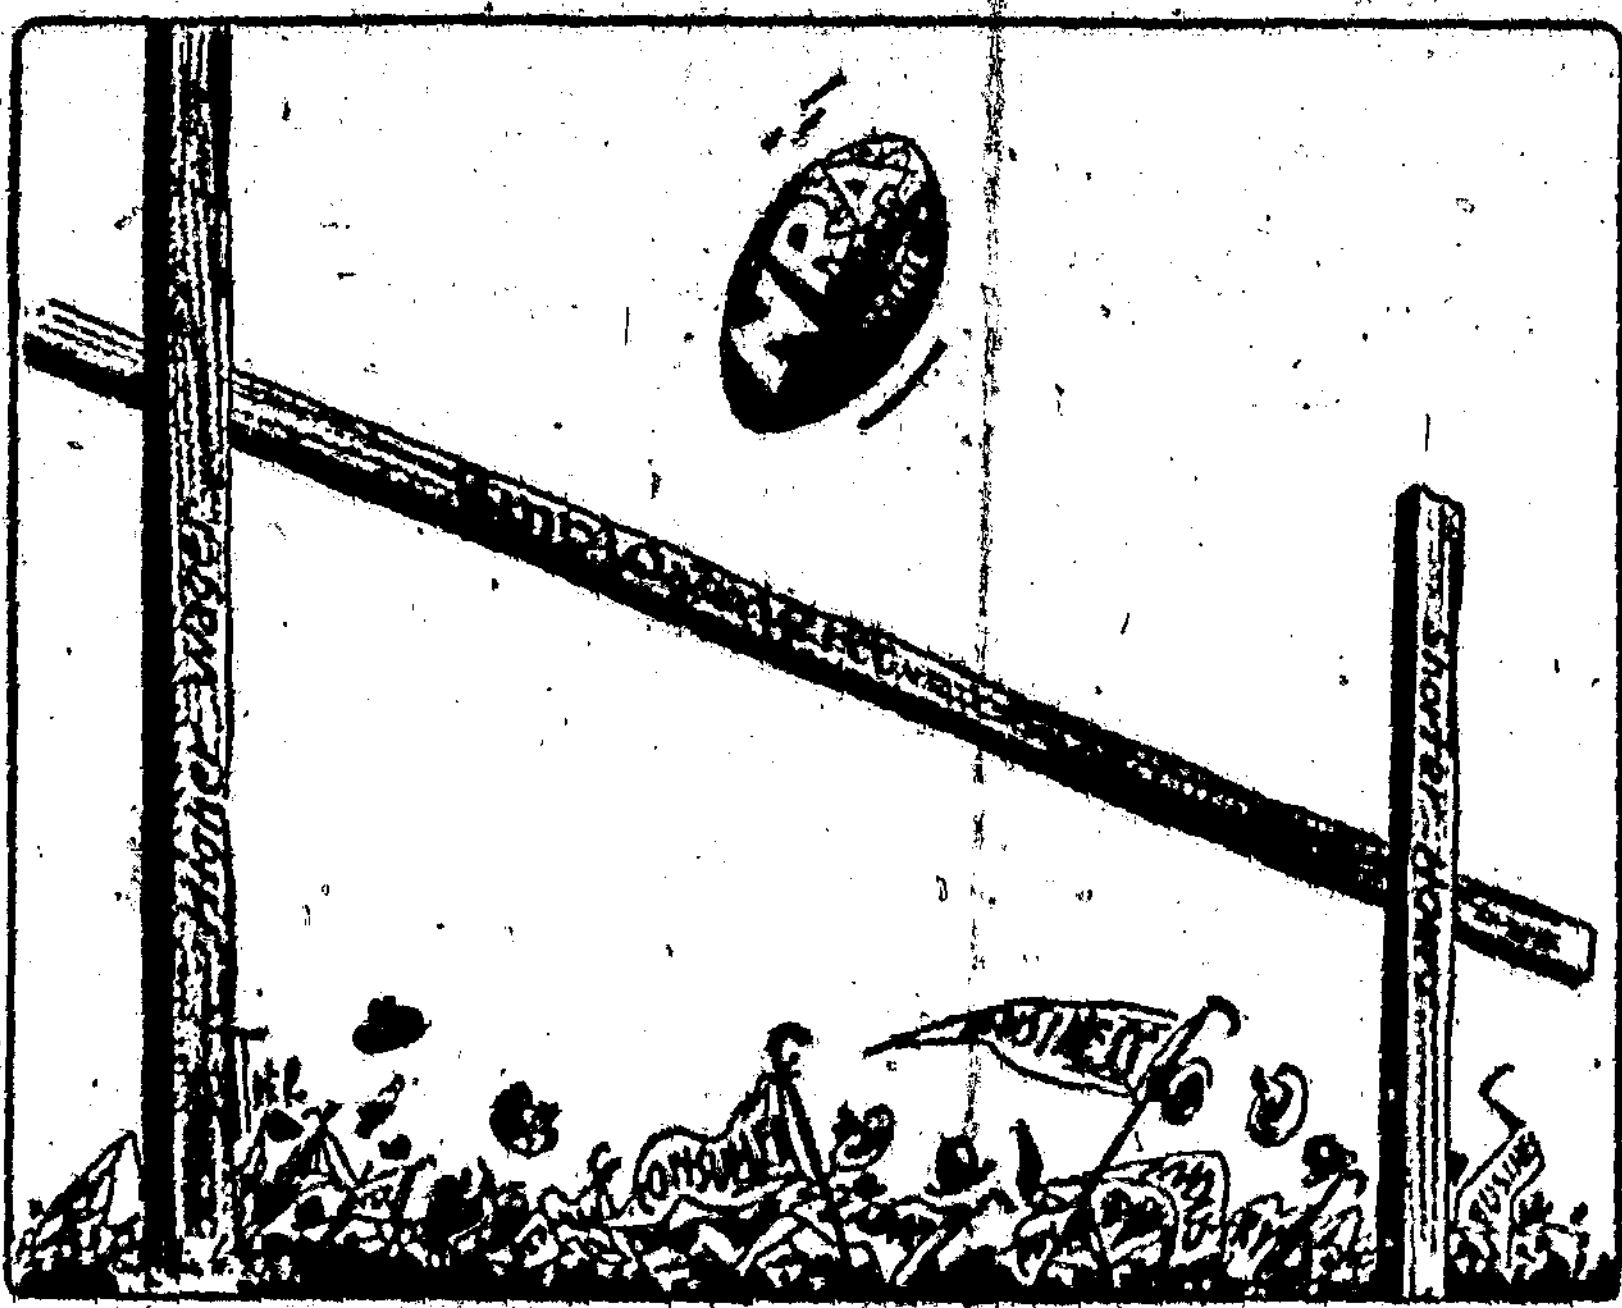

Mrs. E. H. Sweet, the friendly, courteous proprietress of the Carrizozo Eating House, has recovered from a recent temporary illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barnett were here from Alamogordo and spent Tuesday and Wednesday, returning home yesterday.

The Misses Edith Norman and Beatrice Romero were entertained jointly, with a birthday party last Saturday evening. Bridge was played and refreshments served. The young ladies received many beautiful presents.

Mrs. R. E. Kent of Oscura and Mrs. F. E. Holman of Tere Rivers, were visitors last Saturday, returning home in the afternoon.

Quien Savvy

We just cannot understand the statement of Gov. Hockenull, State Tax Commissioner Byron Beall and the Democratic State Central Committee.

We doubt if anyone can understand them. The governor has stated that the financial condition of the state is deplorable.

It is known that the state is "in the red" hundreds of dollars.

The Highway department has alone around half a million dollars and the state and the department owe hundreds of thousands of dollars all over the state.

There are 80,000 pieces of property in the state with unpaid taxes.

Yet, Beall and the State Central Committee continue to state that the financial condition of the state is excellent and that the state administration has lived within its income. — Roswell Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Reilly came over from Roswell Saturday to join Mr. and Mrs. Will Ed Harris and hunting party of 12 at the Harris ranch for the week-end.

Woman's Club

held its regular meeting Saturday in Capitan at the home of Mrs. Titworth, she being hostess and Misses Charlotte Rice and Theresa McGowan, Mmes. Hendren, Howard, Penfield and Gentler her assistants. A large number responded to roll call with names of American heroes. At the close Miss Rice said she had not heard the name of Henry Ford mentioned. The smiles and applause that followed indicated that the heart of the public is still warm towards the man who years ago offered 'Tin Lizzie to the forgotten farmer and other money-shy people. At the president's invitation, Miss Fisher, Field Sec. of The Public Health Survey (with emphasis on Tuberculosis) explained that this year the seals could only be procured from that body. She urged each one to buy as many seals possible to make the survey a success and help along the health work.

Mrs. Lemon then took charge of the program, her subject being 'Americanization.' The arrangement was exceedingly clever, different localities and peoples of the United States being presented through song as follows:

- American Indians—Piano solo, by Waleen of Minnetonka, Ruth Brickley. Duet, Indian Love Call, Mmes. Gillette and Don English, Mrs. Kelley at piano, Spanish - Americans — Spanish Solo, "Tres Anos Hace," Miss Stover, Miss Melas at piano. Down South—Piano solo, "Crap Shooters," Mrs. Burns. Negro solo, "My Lindy Lou," Mrs. Don English, Mrs. Oscar Snow at the piano. Out West—Vocal solo, "My Little Grey Home in the West," Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Kelley at piano. Piano solo, "Home Sweet Home," Mrs. Hendren.

Surprise was expressed by some that the interpretation of racial tones and accents were so fine in the Spanish and Negro songs, until it was explained that Miss Stover is our Spanish teacher and Mrs. English, whose mother is a southerner, was rocked to sleep in childhood with old Negro melodies.

Coffee and tasty sandwiches were served. While the commodious parlors adequately seated the guests, the marvel was the swiftness and efficiency of the hostesses in serving the 73 present, a larger number it was told, than the attendance of the Federated Clubs. Anyway, the hostesses and the club in general may consider they did themselves proud Saturday.

We felt the first sting of winter yesterday morning.

ANCHO ITEMS

When members of the Woman's Club entertained with a Hallowe'en party Saturday evening, the living room in the home of Mrs. Belknap was artistically decorated with orange and black streamers, corn stalks, black cats, witches, Jack O' Lanterns and gorgeous autumn leaves. Upon arrival, the guests were impressed with the spookiness and weirdness. Each guest donned a gaily decorated party cap, which gave a festive air to all. Soon after the lights were turned on, the games began. Several amusing stunts were put on. In these, Mmes. Wilson, Hefren, Messrs. S. J. Pruett and Allen Kile were the prize winners.

Progressive games were indulged in during most of the evening. Mr. Hefren won first prize and Miss Mary Crawford second. Appropriate refreshments of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee were served. Much of the success of the party was due to ingenuity of the entertainment chairman, Mrs. Pruett and her co-workers, Mmes. B. Hightower and John Straley. One nice feature of the party was unexpected arrival of Mrs. Belknap, who had been east for several months at the home of her son Carroll.

Miss Mary Crawford was a guest at the John Dale home Sunday.

Mesdames C. A. Branum and Frank Adams of Carrizozo spent last Friday with Mrs. John Straley.

Mrs. John Dale and daughter Effie gave a farewell dinner party honoring Mmes. T. J. Straley and Allen Kile, who will spend the winter in Arizona.

Prof. Carl Craig was in Ramon for the week-end.

Messrs. 'Slim' Bule, John and Fred Dale were in the Capitan mountains Saturday and Sunday for the specific purpose of killing a bear, but returned empty handed.

Miss Jessie Fuller, member of the faculty of the local school, week-ended with her parents near Corona.

W. J. Balow returned Monday from Roswell where he enjoyed a brief visit with his daughter.

The C. A. McElroy family has moved to Gallinas.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poage were guests at the J. E. Hall ranch Saturday and Sunday.

Robbed the Living Car

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ferguson moved last Friday from Luna to Carrizozo with the work train. After arranging their living quarters in order, they went out to spend the evening with some relatives. On their return they found that the car had been robbed, the thieves had taken six of Mrs. Ferguson's best dresses, besides other things in the line of wearing apparel. They also robbed the pantry to the extent that Don was compelled to patronize the grocery store and meat market in order to supply the breakfast table.

Mrs. M. U. Finley will entertain the Carrizozo Bridge Club Saturday afternoon.

Al Smith Says, People Made World's Fair

Some of the high-lights of the national administration are now trying to take credit for the success of the Century of Progress. Ex-governor Al Smith gave his hearers the plain truth recently in a speech at the Fair when he said:

"If you will study this fair you will be obliged to come to the conclusion that this century of progress was brought about by individual initiative; by the strength, power, courage, brains and ability of men and women of North America. Whether you point to progress in science, industry, invention, transportation or the arts, what you see here is the triumph of the mind and by the hands of free men, without dictatorship.

"Ninety per cent of the exhibits here mark advances in our civilization, due entirely to individuals, private individuals, working without inspiration, compulsion, control or even suggestion from the government itself. It is noteworthy in fact, that the government has done very little to contribute to this century of progress, while on the other hand much has been prevented, much has been thwarted, much has been hindered by the heavy, cold, clammy hand of bureaucracy.

"Now let us not be too cynical about the motives that have actuated the men who have wrought the buildings, which house the miracles of science of invention. Pride of achievement, ambition to excel, love of work and art, have had more to do with it than the mere desire to make money or to exploit others. And it is a matter of common fact, it is something that can be spelled out of every line of our history, that government is at its best when it supplements and cooperates with private industry."

It certainly is chilly — almost overnight it seems. We knew this mild Indian summer weather couldn't last for long. The mountains are all covered with snow. Parties from the surrounding towns report a visitation of the beautiful this week. Yea, verily, it's time to be thinking about fuel and heavier clothing.

Sally Rand's Sentence Cut to 10 Days in Jail. — News headline. And in addition to this, Sally is given a fine of $200. She originated the famous "Fan Dance," appearing at the World's Fair in her birthday clothes with nothing to hide her but a Fan. Again we say — It Pays to Advertise.

Charley Smith returned Sunday from Springfield, Missouri, where he had been for the past month, attending to some business matters.

Rev. Ed Smith and George Elmgren of Fort Stanton were visitors in town Wednesday of this week.

SYNOPSIS

A pretty young woman finds herself in a taxicab in New York with a strange man who addresses her endearingly and speaks of "an awful shock."

Then the face of the only man she now knew flashed before her. The man in the taxicab. Her reverie ended abruptly. She turned into the ladies' room, saying fervently, "But oh—perhaps—perhaps—after all that man wasn't my husband!"

"That's a shame," said the nameless girl sympathetically. She wanted to shout: Do you know me? What's my name?

The new girl fished a speck of black out of her eye. "There, that's that!" She stood back and eyed herself with critical admiration.

The nameless girl watched with a friendly eye, hoping that the newcomer's greeting had meant a former acquaintance. But the girl took no further notice of her for the moment.

The nameless girl took off her gloves to wash her hands. There was the wedding ring again. She thought: Wedding rings are usually inscribed on the inside. She drew it off and began to examine it.

She found the inscription: "H. L. V. to D. M. May 19th, 1932." "H. L. V. to D. M. The bridegroom would be H. L. V. And he had given the ring to the bride, D. M. And on their wedding day which was May 19, 1932.

She examined the ring wondrously, turning it in her fingers. The other girl spoke again. This time her voice held a note of humorous sarcasm.

"You're lucky that way, too?" "Lucky?" "Yes! Got a wedding ring. I'm that way, too. Her husky voice grew more satirical. "Lucky, lucky. How do I get so lucky?"

"You don't sound as if you liked being married." The nameless girl spoke disinterestedly.

"Do I look crazy?" "Not at all. Tell me—" The nameless girl paused. She wanted to ask if this talkative woman had ever seen her before. But it was hard to find the proper words.

"Do you know the date today, by any chance?" she asked finally. "Do I know the date? Ask me!" "I do ask you."

"She asks me. She asks me the date. Ask me now if I can forget it. The answer is no. No, I can't." She sighed. She was rubbing some blue paste carefully into her upper eyelid.

"Excuse me, Girle, for inflicting my dismal personal life on you, but you asked me the date. The date is 'der tag.' Get it—der tag!" "I'm afraid I don't."

"You wouldn't. It's just one of those things." "The day—" "The day I say good-by to all this. The day the big fight starts. And believe me, it's going to be a good old war while it lasts. The day, in words of one syllable, that I go off to prison."

"Prison?" "Yes. But I don't mean what you mean. I'm going to be a bird in a gilded cage, dearie, see? But, excuse me, you asked me for the date, didn't you—let's see, the nineteenth." "Not May—Not May the nineteenth!"

The talkative girl swung around, and out her hands on her hips. Her expression was a little sarcastic. "Now listen. No kidding! Do you think it's December the nineteenth? It's May the nineteenth, Girle, and—" She went on talking but her audience was no longer listening. She was thinking. This was the nineteenth of May and—her wedding day.

pression was a little sarcastic. "Now listen. No kidding! Do you think it's December the nineteenth? It's May the nineteenth, Girle, and—" She went on talking but her audience was no longer listening. She was thinking. This was the nineteenth of May and—her wedding day.

She looked once more into the mirror. Her eyes were stary with excitement. Besides the varnished face of the other girl she looked very young and very beautiful, but she was not thinking of that now. She was thinking that some of the pictures of her life—saw puzzle past were beginning to fit in. She had been married that day to the man in the cab. She hated him. The shock of marrying him had made her lose her memory, and no wonder.

She was grateful to the strong enclosing walls around her for shielding her from that man. She was grateful to the city for being so big and impersonal that she could lose herself in it. All she needed now was to rest quietly until her memory returned.

Her action in leaving that man had been purely instinctive. But she was glad that she had done it. Still, she wondered, was it as simple as it now seemed? She married a man she hated and then lost her memory because he was so horrible, and then had left him. She was not satisfied. It seemed too easy an explanation. Why had she married him? She would have to find him again sooner or later and tell him that she must divorce him. She could do that at Reno—for this strange chatty girl to whom she had scarcely been listening was talking about Reno.

"If I had the dough, Baby, believe me I'd be on my way to Reno right now."

"It's easy to get a divorce in Reno, isn't it?"

"If you have the dough! But that's a big if, Girle."

"How much does it cost?" "About a thousand dollars, including the trip and everything, but I know a girl who did it for seven hundred and fifty. She had a friend living out there, and her living expenses didn't cost her anything."

"It doesn't take very long, does it?" "It takes exactly six weeks. Oh ask me anything about Reno. I know. I've been studying up on it like it was the Bible. You got to go out there and establish a residence, stay there six weeks, then file your suit. . . ."

As she talked the nameless girl was wondering. It was a little fantastic to be thinking of Reno when she did not yet know for certain that she was unhappily married. Could it be possible that the man in the cab was not her husband? Surely in a few moments she would be able to remember about herself, and when she did there would be time enough to make plans.

"So it's actually the nineteenth of May today."

"H—I, yes. There you go again." The nameless girl slipped her wedding ring slowly back on her finger.

The girl in the blue coat winked. "Not so crazy about it, eh—well, there are a good many like you, Baby. Believe me there's a lot like you that can't seem to see the charm in the old cottage for two stuff with the roses or what have you around the door."

She leaned over and examined the nameless girl's ring more closely. "It's not a bad little item to hook," she said.

"I think I'll throw it down the first sewer I come to," said the nameless girl.

The woman grew kindly and fervent. "There's always Reno," she said. She became thoughtful. "If that cheap-skate husband of mine weren't so d—n stingy—Baby, there's always Reno, if you have the dough. And you seem to have plenty!"

"You mean I could get a divorce?" said the nameless girl.

"It's easy in Reno—especially for a girl like you with plenty of cash."

The woman's eyes had dropped to the open hand bag on the dressing table. The nameless girl wondered if she could divorce a man whose name she did not know.

"Reno!" said the girl in the blue coat. "G—d! And if you knew what I have got to go through you wouldn't hesitate." She rambled on in a tone that was full of a resentment and self-pity. The nameless girl paid little heed. Again she noticed the woman's eyes on the bills that were visible in her purse.

Now it occurred to her to count them and find how much she had. As she did so a silence fell over the small room of which the two were for the moment the only occupants.

There were nine hundred dollars in bills. And something under ten dollars in her coin purse.

She closed her purse, and as she did so, she was aware of a certain tenseness in the atmosphere. She turned her head to stare at the other girl, and she could have sworn that as she did so the woman turned away as if to give the impression that she had not been watching the younger one. Her former friendliness was washed from her face, but there was a watchfulness in the lines of the figure that the nameless girl could not understand.

Perhaps the other girl did know her. Perhaps that was why she had spoken. And perhaps the lack of response in the nameless girl had offended her.

So she reasoned, not in any way connecting the girl's sudden change with the large roll of bills she had shown.

"I've met you some place, haven't I?" she said at last half timidly.

But the other girl no longer wanted to talk. "Don't that," she said briefly. The nameless girl saw a towel rack and a row of washstands in an adjoining room. She rose and went in, leaving hat and purse on the tiny dressing table.

Her feeling of depression had now completely lifted. She was separated from a man she hated. She was in a comfortable hotel. She had plenty of money. She would make up a name, register under it, and try to get a good rest.

She washed her hands in warm water. Then she let ice water chill her wrist and hands, thinking that the shock might restore her memory. A cold shower would be even better, she thought almost happily. She looked thoughtfully in the glass. She was completely alone. Yet somewhere surely she must have friends. Perhaps they were looking for her now. She smiled. She would remember. Of course she would remember.

She turned to go into the outer room. The girl was gone. She went to the small dressing table and picked up her hat and fitted it slowly on her head. Then she looked for her purse, made the gesture of picking it up, and found that her fingers slid over the smooth surface of the dressing table only. The purse was not there.

"If I Had the Dough, Baby, Believe Me, I'd Be on My Way to Reno Now."

It was not on the floor. It was not in the room.

She walked out into the lobby once more. It was evident that the girl had taken it, but she was nowhere to be seen.

CHAPTER II

When you have just lost your name, your family (if any) and your whole collection of remembrances of your early life, the disappearance of nine hundred dollars does not seem as important to you as it would under ordinary circumstances.

Annoyance was her strongest emotion as she walked toward her luggage. It did not occur to her to try to follow the thief. Her mind was still too dazed. Her consciousness was filled with loss. The money seemed only part of the general wiping out of possessions.

But now as she neared her bags she saw that a fat little woman was apparently trying to take possession of them. Waving pudgy little hands in the air, she was addressing the bellboy in charge of them.

"But naturally, I will take charge of the baggage!"

The woman's voice was low and commanding, and it had more than a trace of a foreign accent. She shrugged her round shoulders as she spoke in a way that none but a French woman could do. "Oh my G—d. But he is stupid! The bags must go immediately to my car."

The bellboy was unwilling to let them go.

The girl hurried forward. "I'm sorry," she said to the little foreign woman, "but I believe the bags are mine!"

EDITORIAL COLUMN

The Military at Gallup

The military court in the coal mine strike zone at Gallup has handed down another sentence, subject to the appeal of the governor, of a year in the state penitentiary, 6-months of which is for attempting to make a speech and 6 months for escaping from the stockade in which the national guard has imprisoned a number of alleged violators of the military orders.

The prisoner who drew this last sentence is an organizer for the National Unemployed Council from New York and unless the governor intercedes in his behalf he will join in the state penitentiary an organizer for the National Miners' Union who was sentenced to 6 months at hard labor for alleged inciting remarks.

These court martial sentences are harsh, unjust and an outrage against the rights of citizens of which the governor should take recognition and order redress if the name of the state is to be saved from criticism throughout this free land.

Col. C.C. Sage, commander of the national guard in the strike area, has, in a signed statement, displayed bitter antagonism to the strikers and their leaders—a statement for which he should be held to account and removed from jurisdiction in the interest of fair play of the national guard itself.

How can the governor who has stated several times that the troops are in Gallup only to protect life and property and to deal fairly on both sides in the dispute continue to ignore the actions of Commander of the military and approved by Adj. General Wood? He has only to read Col. Sage's statement to see the evidence of antagonism against the strikers and their leaders.

The expense of keeping the troops is mounting daily, probably now hitting the $50,000 mark.

In the meantime, conditions will grow worse and more acute if the military goes unchecked. The mine operators ought to be told that they, will have to consent to immediate negotiations.—Albuquerque Journal.

Serves Under Five Presidents

John Barton Payne, a retired judge and lawyer of international reputation, is serving his twelfth year as chairman of the American Red Cross. His services are without pay, and his appointment is by the President of the United States. He has served by appointment in high public office under five presidents—Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

Toll of the Earthquake

When a severe earthquake killed 85 persons; injured 4,911 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $411,000.

Seven hundred thousand women volunteers under the Red Cross banner sewed for the needy last year and many thousands still are making cotton garments for their Red Cross chapters.

Tornado is Most Frequent Disaster; Causes Heavy
Loss of Lives

What type of disaster occurs most frequently in the United States?
This question is answered from the relief annals of the American Red Cross which show over a period of years that the tornado, or cyclone as it is called in some sections, is the most frequent and claims a heavy toll of life. It sweeps almost without warning, and in the terrible whirlwind of its fierce winds it de-struys all in its path.

The Red Cross gave relief to 44 tornadoes in sixteen states last year. The tornadoes killed 284 persons, injured 2,792 and the Red Cross gave aid to 21,726 who were homeless, injured or otherwise victims of the storms.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, © 1932, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 5 PAUL IN JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1-11. 23-31. GOLDEN TEXT—Now the Lord is that Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty, II Cor. 3:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Settling a Dispute.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Only Way. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Looking to the Church for Guidance.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Heeding the Voice of the Church.

I. The Controversy in the Church at Antioch (vv. 1-5).

The occasion of Paul and Barnabas from their first missionary journey. Upon their return they gathered the church together and rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles. The difficulty was a most serious one, for it threatened the disruption of the church into a Jewish and Gentile division. The point at issue was not the admission of the Gentiles into the church. That had been settled some years before when Peter received Cornelius and his household. The question now was: On what ground could they be received? Should Gentile converts be required to keep the Mosaic law as a condition of salvation? That which brought this issue into prominence was the coming of certain men from Jerusalem who declared: "Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved" (v. 1). The problem was so difficult that Paul and Barnabas were unable to put these men to silence. The brethren at Antioch decided to refer the matter to the mother church at Jerusalem. Accordingly, Paul, Barnabas, and others were sent as a deputation to Jerusalem. On the way they passed through Phenice and Samaria, declaring the news of the conversion of the Gentiles.

II. The Deliberations of the Council (vv. 6-21).

1. Peter's address (vv. 6-11). He argued that God had borne witness of his acceptance of the Gentiles by giving his Holy Spirit unto them as unto the Jews (Acts 10:34-47). Since, therefore, God had not put a difference, it would be folly for them to do so.

2. Paul and Barnabas rehearse their experience (v. 12). They told how that God had set his seal of approval on their preaching of salvation by grace through faith apart from works.

3. The argument of James (vv. 13-21). He showed how the truth declared by Peter harmonized with the prophecy of Amos (Amos 9:11-15). He made it clear that the reception of the Gentiles was not in conflict with God's plan, but in strict harmony therewith. God's plan, as set forth in James' speech, is as follows:

a. God would visit the Gentiles to take out from among them a people for his name (v. 14). This is what is now going on—the worldwide preaching of the gospel and the calling out of the church.

b. After the completion and removal of the church from the world, Israel as a nation will be converted and restored to their land with all its privileges by the Lord himself upon his return (vv. 16, 17a). The building again of the tabernacle of David means the restoration of the Davidic throne. Gabriel, in announcing to Mary the birth of Jesus, said, "The Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David" (Luke 1:32).

c. This will be followed by the conversion of the world through the agency of converted Israel (v. 17b, cf. Rom. 11:15). He showed that there is no conflict when the Scriptures are rightly divided.

d. James' proposition (vv. 19-21). His judgment was that the Gentiles should not be troubled with the things which were Jewish, but should be warned against the perils of heathenism, such as meat offered to idols, fornication, from things strangled, and from blood.

III. The Decision of the Council (vv. 22-23).

The mother church accepted the resolution offered by James and came to a unanimous agreement. They not only sent a letter stating the decision of the conference, but took the wise precaution to send influential men along with Paul and Barnabas to bear the same testimony by word of mouth. This letter denied the authority of the Judaizing teachers (v. 24), and declared the method by which this decision had been reached (vv. 25-27). They wisely put the Holy Spirit first. IV. The Decision Delivered to the Church (vv. 30-35).

The church at Antioch was called together to hear this report. Its reading brought great rejoicing.

The Abiding Presence The promise of Christ that he would remain with his own, even to the end of the world, though given primarily to his apostles, was not for them alone, but for all who should believe in him through their teaching and that of their successors.

Meditation of Christ Let it be today. Shut yourself in, sit down to think, and to meditate, and to read that which will assist your thoughts about him, and your meditations on him.

PASSED UP ALL FOR CLAM PIE

Delicacy That Made Hit With "Sea Devil."

Jot Small was telling me about the time Count von Luckner ("the Sea Devil") visited Commander McMillen, of Arctic fame, in Provincetown, Mass.

"Mac brought the count and some other guests over here to my Galley for supper one night," Jot related. "And I just locked the doors after they got in, so we wouldn't be disturbed by no other customers."

"Well, it was a Saturday night, so of course the principal dish was baked beans. And after while, I got to noticing that Von Luckner didn't seem to care much for the beans. Oh, he was polite about it, all right, but he wasn't what you might call eager. He et bread and he drank coffee, and he pushed the beans and the pork around on his plate and went through the motions. But beans wasn't his dish.

"So pretty soon I whispered to Mac, 'Do you think he'd like clam pie?'"

"Try him and see what happens," says Mac.

"So I cut a big wedge of clam pie and put it down by his plate. He looked at it, sort of uncertain, for a minute. Then he reached out 'his fork and cut off a little nibble. Then I seen his eyes kind of sparkle. He took a bigger bite. Then he took both hands and made a motion like a man swimmin', and pushed the beans one way and the coffee and bread the other, and pulled that pie right in front of him.

"By Chove," he hollered, 'I hat found somed'ing!'"

"He swallered that wedge like a logfish stealin' bait, and he held out his plate for more. That happened three times, and then he'd et the hull dam pie. And every time he'd finish a piece, he'd say, 'By Chove, I hat found somed'ing!'"

"He'll be droppin' his hook in these waters again, some day. Because he's goin' to have a herd of a time tryin' to teach 'em to make clam pie in Germany!" — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Vast Pampa Source of Welfare in Argentina

Argentina, richest of South American countries, draws its wealth from the pampa—a rockless, treeless sea of grass, 2,500 miles long and 500 miles wide, grazed by millions of head of stock. Feared, half-wild herds of horses and cattle, seed of the conquistadores' mounts and milk cows, have been scientifically bred up to the stable and the abattoir.

Calmer herds, tamer men. Almost gone is the gaucho, cowboy son of Spanish settler and Indian squaw. Apotheosis of the type was Dictator Juan Manuel Rosas, who a century ago routed the Indians, united his countrymen, and ruled in a palace, with a court jester. On the pampas only the pampero (cold wind, rain or hail storms) and locust plagues remain fiercely primitive.

Buenos Aires, with its 2,000,000, is Paris, Chicago and pampa in one. Quite effete now, it no longer flaunts in its Boca section advertisements of cheap, expeditious murder by expert assassins. For safety and comfort, wheeled traffic is barred from the city's shopping district between 4 and 8 p. m.—World's Work.

TRY THIS! When children won't eat—and won't gain weight

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis. A little syrup of figs will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat—and gain!

Mother should never coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

A POUND A WEEK. Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness. But that girl or boy with furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with enough pure syrup of figs to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week, until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, syrup of figs will soon set things to right.

When appetite falls, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, California syrup of figs will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food.

The claims made for California Syrup of Figs are true and it will do the same for you—if you get genuine CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs. Don't accept any substitute.

The postoffice department has appointed Thomas Kilcrease acting postmaster at Casa Grande, Ariz.

The state highway commission met in Phoenix to award contracts on national recovery highway projects before it for approval.

Acting Governor James Kerby addressed the 300 expected delegates to the twenty-sixth annual national tax conference which opened in Phoenix recently.

S. L. Lewis, Arizona state game warden, addressed members of the Bisbee and Douglas Game Protective Associations at a joint meeting of the two bodies held in Douglas recently.

Shildrome Field, the new Arizona State Teachers College gridiron at Flagstaff, was dedicated October 14 in connection with the homecoming game between the Lumberjacks and the New Mexico Aggies.

The navy's big dirigible Macon lost nearly four hours' time on its transcontinental journey to its new Sunnyvale, Calif., base when, straying from its course into the Arizona mountains, it was forced to turn back eighty miles.

Two addresses were given in Santa Fe by Phil LaFollette, former governor of Wisconsin, when he came to New Mexico to visit Senator Bronson Cutting, whom he termed "a great leader." LaFollette spoke at a meeting of the Rotary Club and at a Col. bus Day meeting.

Work on the road from highway 66 in New Mexico to the Charles H. Burke Indian school will begin soon, Superintendent E. B. Dale announced. Final approval of the work has been granted and $10,000 will be spent. The road will be graveled and one piling bridge built.

There has been a revival in drilling operations in New Mexico in recent weeks, in both the proved fields and in wildcat territory. While most of the activity is in the shallow districts, new work has also been starting up recently in the Hobbs and other deeper producing fields.

A group of young men from Raton have been chosen from those who registered for the second six months of the CCC camps. The boys reported at Las Vegas October 19, for enrollment at the Rio Gallinas camp, which is situated five miles out of Las Vegas on the Gallinas river.

Distribution of state income tax blanks will start shortly, it was announced by Emmet M. Barry, administrator of the income tax division of the Arizona tax commission. The blanks will be sent to persons and companies who have paid federal income taxes and others who are exempt under the federal law.

A check for $182,650.77 handed to Frank Devlinny, Clark county, New Mexico, assessor, by an official of the Six Companies, Boulder dam builders, marked settlement of a three-year controversy. The check was in settlement for three years' taxes on property belonging to the contractors and poll tax collected from dam workmen.

Because the "gravel hauling" license and mileage fee makes it difficult for New Mexico truck owners to "obtain employment," the motor transportation department of the state corporation commission will forego enforcement of the law. This announcement was made in a letter from J. D. Lamb, chairman of the commission, to G. D. Macy, state highway engineer.

Excavation work in the great pueblo ruins at Kinshaba near Fort Apache, Ariz., has resulted in what Dr. Byron Cummings, University of Arizona archeologist, believes will furnish a link between the modern and ancient Hopi Indians. The 2,000 and more inhabitants of the prehistoric city, estimated to have been at its height in 1200, observed tribal rituals similar to those of the present-day Hopi tribesmen.

Deer hunting season opened in Arizona October 16. In addition to the usual hunting grounds, four game preserves were thrown open to big game for the duration of the deer season only. They were the south half of the Yavapai-Coconino refuge south of Williams; the Copper basin refuge near Prescott; the Walnut Creek refuge near Prescott; and the blue refuge north of Clifton. Bear could be taken in these preserves but they were closed to hunting of wild turkey.

After a twenty-four-hour "hunger strike" seven National Miners Union strike leaders, held in a military stockade, on a charge of interfering with enforcement of martial law in the coal strike area at Gallup, broke their fast and accepted bread and water October 14, but continued their refusal to do work required of them as military prisoners. The strike leaders contend they are political prisoners and not military prisoners, but military authorities refuse to recognize them except as military prisoners.

Raton received an honor at the state convention of the Knights of P. Mas held in Albuquerque recently, when Dr. W. E. Rice was elected as Grand Chancellor. Dr. Rice has a continuous membership record in the order extending over many years.

An Arizona delegation, composed of Governor Moore, Senators Ashurst and Hayden and Mrs. Isabella Greenway, congresswoman-elect, called upon President Roosevelt recently and urged him to approve application of federal funds for construction of the Verde irrigation and power district.

Titled Personages on Western Canada Farms

Counts, lords, dukes, even princes, are to be found among the farmers of western Canada, says the San Francisco Chronicle. The largest number of titled farmers live in southern Alberta, where the prince of Wales owns a ranch. The heir to the British throne is not an active farmer, but there are many titled personages working just as hard as the farmer without a title.

Since the World war the number of titled farmers has increased in the Canadian West, many of the nobility of eastern Europe settling there after being forced from their former estates. Some of them are known by their titles, but many have dropped their rank to become plain mister.

A large number of the titled farmers come from England, where they still retain their seats in the house of lords. Occasionally the death of an English peer creates a new peer that is enjoying life on a Canadian farm. In these cases some have returned to the farm after a short visit to England to settle an estate and take a seat in the house of lords. Others have remained in England, leaving their land to a resident manager.

In southern Alberta, within a short distance of the E. P. ranch of the prince of Wales, there are farms of British, French, Italian, German, Danish and Hungarian noblemen. They live as their neighbors do—plain farmers.

Faster Relief Now From Neuritis

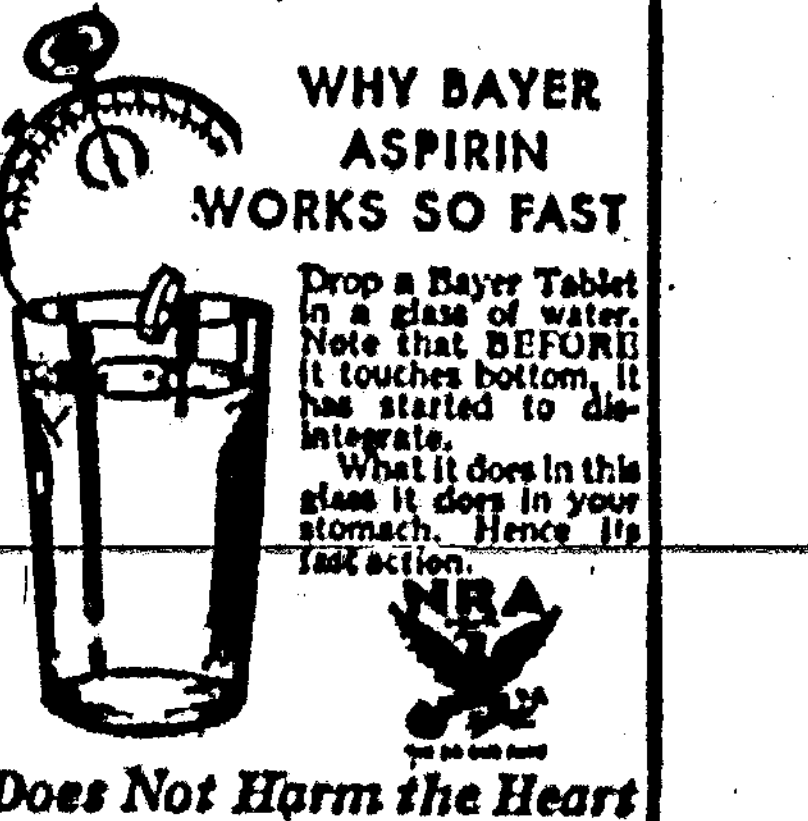

Real BAYER Aspirin "Takes Hold" of Pain in Few Minutes

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief. It is said, yet discovered.

These results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And this is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST. Drop a Bayer Tablet into a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate. What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

We notice that David Carrillo of El Paso declined to take an anesthetic, and calmly watched the doctor amputate his leg. — That's what we call being a brave man, mucho.

A bear drinking contest is being planned in El Paso, held in public. We know of several local birds who'd like to enter, providing they get the luscious fluid free of charge. "Bet You Can't" is the slogan.

Baptist Church

The subject of the Sunday School study next Sunday will be "Heeding the Voice of the Church." Our Sunday School is showing a healthy and steady growth, both in attendance and in interest. An hour spent in the study of the Bible is an hour well spent. Join one of our classes next Sunday morning.

The sermon, subject for the morning preaching hour will be "Saving the Things That Are Left."

"The Thief's Repentance," will be the sermon subject at the evening service.

The Sabbath—What time in school is to education the Sabbath is to religion. It is not possible to acquire an education without time spent in study, and it is not possible to develop strong religious convictions without time spent in meditation concerning religious truths. Hence the fact that a nation without a Sabbath is a nation without Christian convictions. Everybody can "do something about it" and the doing should not be delayed. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." "The Sabbath was made for man," and man should use it for the purpose for which God intended it—a day of rest, meditation and worship.

Vanity Fair—"Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." The whole world has had a glorious "buggy ride" and is now walking back. So interlocked was Self and Business that when man lost one he lost the other, and at about the same moment. "Therefore, lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven." You finish the quotation and just so, we know more than we do. —The Expositor.

Margarita Sandoval

Yesterday morning at 4 o'clock at Johnson's Hospital, Mrs. Margarita Sandoval, who was operated on for appendicitis recently, passed away.

Margarita Lopez was born in Lincoln, Mar. 4, 1882. In 1898 she was married to Ben Sandoval at White Oaks, to which union seven children were born. In 1907 they moved to Carrizozo and have made their home here ever since that time, Ben dying here in 1918. Mrs. Sandoval was a member of one of the oldest and best liked families of Lincoln County, and her friends mourn her passing deeply.

Funeral services were held at Santa Rita Church yesterday and the remains interred alongside those of her husband in the local cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her loss, two daughters, Mrs. Dave Garcia of Arizona, Mrs. Lucy Sandoval, two sons, Andres and Celestino Sandoval, these of Carrizozo, one sister, Mrs. Procopio Pacheco of Lincoln, and one brother, Andres Lopez of Rantoul, to all of whom the sympathy of this community is tendered.

Well, there's speculation about Hank Ford aroun' these here diggin's. Hank is a queer duck and maybe if you'd be in his position, you'd do likewise.

Famous Sayings

"Aint it cold? I guess winter is here in earnest."

War Veterans' Problems

Not since the period of the World War has the Red Cross faced a greater problem in handling the claims of World War and other veterans. Due to the changes in the regulations covering veterans' claims, chapters all over the nation have been crowded with veteran applicants for relief and for service in preparing appeals. During last year Red Cross home service workers in 2,248 chapters dealt with the problems of 11,124 ex-service men and their families. The chapters also aided 7,248 men still in the regular army, navy and marine corps.
