

PERSONALS

Holm O. Bursum, Jr., was here Wednesday from the Jornada del Muerto, where he has been transferring some cattle to the Socorro mountains. The work of moving cattle is hard from the fact that they are always wanting to go back from whence they came, but Mr. Bursum finally got them weaned away from their first love and they seem well satisfied with their new home.

This office is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. M. F. Wells, who has been in Los Angeles visiting her daughters for several months. Joan Martin is confined in bed with a bad cold.

Amos Emerson was rushed to Johnson's hospital Tuesday with a bad case of pneumonia.

Mrs. Lorna Whitaker has been on the sick list for the past week but is improving at this writing.

The Tanning Club is giving a play next Saturday night. Everyone is invited to attend. Anyone in need of harness or other leather supplies, should see the Tanning Club. Their prices are reasonable and the boys need the money to continue their work.

Claude Smith has his new residence almost completed.

Mesdames Ernest and Paul Aguayo were in Nogal Thursday visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Mollie Copeland of Alto visited the Cochrans last week.

Anyone wishing to buy a span of mules, see Edgar Martin of Nogal.

Baseball Talk

Ray Sipple, secretary of the White Oaks team was here Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. Sipple. Ray made this office a friendly call, during which time, we had a good chat about the national sport. After leaving us, Ray went down to see manager Hubert Reynolds and they had a talk about the formation of a league for the coming summer. We can easily form a league of teams in close distance to each other and for example: White Oaks, Corona, Fort Stanton, Tulavosa, Alamogordo, Mescalero and the two Carrizozo teams. This would make a good league and much interest would result from such an undertaking.

White Oaks has a nice fund derived from dances given at that place, and we also have a nice little nest egg to draw from for what the team will need to make the start. More is needed and we will get it. L. A. Jolly, local cleaner & presser, has volunteered to clean up the uniforms and have them in order for the team free of charge. Jolly is a good sport and the team wishes to thank him. White Oaks has ordered their suits and things will soon be humming. Manager Reynolds and Field Captain LaFleur are actively engaged in the interest of the team. It's comin' boys—the air is full of it. Get ready and Play Ball!

A large attendance greeted the Rhythm Kings at their St. Patrick's Day dance in Wingfield's Hall at Ruidoso last Saturday night. The Legion will give another of their popular dances next Saturday night at the same hall and you are again cordially invited to attend.

Miraculous Escape

Last Friday evening as Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Rentfrow were returning home after the Woman's Club meeting, they turned the corner at the old Spence place and had started west, when nearing the first bridge, one of Doyle's tires blew out which caused the car to pitch over to one side, throwing the occupants out and causing Mrs. Rentfrow to sustain a broken rib, while Doyle suffered from bruises and one bad cut on the face. They were taken to the hospital where they were treated and were able to be out the next day. There were two boys in the rear seat, but neither was injured.

Mrs. Bert Penix and Mary Catherine of Corona are visiting Mrs. Penix's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frame, while Mr. Penix is serving as a juror at Carrizozo.

Members of the Woman's Club with their husbands and friends were entertained with a surprise birthday party honoring Mrs. S. J. Pruett Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hightower. Some friends drove by they would enjoy driving out to the Hightower home so Mrs. Pruett might help with plans for a St. Patrick's party. They agreed and on arriving at the planned place found the crowd gathered and ready to participate in celebrating the honoree's birthday. The house was attractively decorated with green and white and in a few minutes the crowd adorned with green Irishman hats was having a real frolic playing amusing St. Patrick games. Tiny shamrocks were passed around and the winners of the various games were awarded a shamrock from each of the others. At the close of the games the shamrocks were counted and Mrs. Ed Miller, having the most, was given the prize. Potatoes cut in various shapes and sizes were passed around and everyone was asked to find the other half of their potato for partners in a taffy candy pulling. This brought about quite a bit of hilarity as it had been a long time since most of us had attended a candy pulling. When the candy was pulled, popcorn was passed around and while the guests were seated, enjoying the popcorn and candy, four of the junior girls came marching in singing "Happy Birthday to You" and drawing a little float decorated in green and white which was loaded with gifts. In the center was a large birthday cake topped with the proper number of lighted candles. Mrs. Pruett was crowned guest of honor and presented the float load of gifts. At a late hour the guests extended their best wishes to the honoree and made ready to go home.

Mrs. C. P. Huppertz will be the hostess to the Carrizozo Bridge Club at her home Saturday afternoon.

The Woman's Club

The Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Beck. Assistant hostesses were Mesdames Allen, Sale, Burns, V. Groce, Misses Boughner and Nellie Shaver. Meeting was called to order by Pres. Miss Ella Brickley, the club singing "America, the Beautiful" and following with the flag salute. At the roll call very few responded with an Irish joke, but in other ways there was evidence of St. Patrick's Day. The program leader, Mrs. Kelley, wore a green scarf, and the young ladies who kindly sang for the club had donned Irish green ribbon; even the president rose to the spirit of the occasion and made several humorous remarks which had the club laughing, almost coaxing us to believe that her ancestors were from Erin's Isle. The club was invited to an Easter Sale and Art Exhibit, Mar. 19, at Ft. Stanton. It was announced that the District Woman's Club would meet May 27-28, at Ruidoso, the Glencoe club in charge. Mesdames Paul Mayer, Lemon, LaVallee and Young were elected as delegates.

An invitation was presented to the club to become a member of the Penny Art Fund, the purpose of which is to enable its chairman to purchase real works of American art, to be distributed among a few clubs, which have done most towards the promotion of American art. The club went slow at first, probably looking into its pocketbook, but when it was learned the fee was only a cent per member, it decided to make the venture. Mrs. Kelley gave the following program:

'My Wild Irish Rose,' Club; 'That Tumble-Down Shack in Athlona,' Leslye Cooper, Ruth Petty, Mary Pickett Warden, Thelma Shaver, Evelyn Claunch, Vena Louise Snow; Piano Duet, from 'Il Trovatore,' Mesdames Hendren, Gensler; Vocal solo, 'Just a Little Bit of Heaven,' Mrs. Gillette; Biographical Sketch of St. Patrick, Mrs. Rentfrow; Irish songs, 'When Irish Eyes are Smiling,' 'Where the River Shannon Flows,' Peggy O'Neil, Club. Shamrock leaf-shaped sandwiches and green gelatin salad topped by a shamrock leaf and tiny clay pipe were served by the hostesses. At next meeting let us answer roll call with the name of one of our favorite flowers.

Mrs. Lillian Lane, daughters Sarah Lee and Larue, who have been spending the majority of the winter season in El Paso, will soon return to their home in White Oaks.

CODE of the NORTH by HAROLD TITUS

SYNOPSIS
Stephen Drake, with his four-year-old son, is rescued from a blizzard by Jim Flynn, big timber operator, whom Drake has robbed. Flynn forgives the theft.

"Put it in! It's more money than I'd ever hoped to have at one time. It was enough to give me a start at something. Oh, I've got to tell it all to you, Jim, or I'll go crazy!"

and a disaster marked up as the net result of the first business enterprise he had tackled.
He was cleaned out; after his men had been paid not a dollar had remained. He had not even been able to buy himself a new outfit to start this rather aimless journey.

"Hi, Chum, Comin' Ashore?"

three days you should be used to it," he remarked, grinning.

"Where'd you get that You stuff? Who'n h—l wants to not notice it? Say, buddy, you just show us some salt and name the price!"

Steve let the canoe beach gently. "If it'll help you any, 'I'll spill," he said, rising.

They gathered close with an eagerness which was good evidence of their salt hunger. Steve opened his torn and weather-rotted pack-sack and drew out a tin can.

"There. Help yourselves."
"What's it worth?" the chief spokesman demanded. "Name a price, old party! We're rotten rich so long's the' jack holds out."

"Take what you want; that's all right."
"Right, h—l! How much you want for half tish?"

Steve laughed them away, telling the impatient purchaser to help himself, and the three, bearing the salt can as if it were a great treasure, walked up the rise toward the tent.

"Now, say, buddy, what we owe you?" he demanded. "Nothin'! The h—l we don't! That salt's worth its weight in gold, 'nd a whole lot more."

Drake again protested and his firmness balked the other who began to nod with narrowed eyes, returned to the tent and reappeared with a bottle of whisky and a clean pack-sack.

"Now, first you gotta have a drink, fella. Then, from looks your pack-sack, you could use 'nother. Takes tish. It's extra. Not been used once. Small token our' appreciation."

light. Know who he is?—cautiously.
"No; this is new country to me."
"Ever hear of th' Jim Flynn, old 'nd young?"

"Sure you have. Well, that's Old Jim's get: Young Jim Flynn."
"Will, I'll be d—d!"

"Yeah. So will he, likely, if his dad ever gets up. Dam' shame, 'I know, for a young feller to carry on like he does. He's supposed to be down: at Good-Bye, where the Flynn are in trouble. Thorpe, who was runnin' the job, died a month ago. Old Jim got jammed up and his daughter maybe lost her eye in an accident when the old man was goin' to a train to start up here. Smashed his hip and he's out for months, the kid says."

"Old McNally's the best thing for a boss they've got and he's no good, job's all gone to h—l and they send this kid up to keep her goin'. Does he show up at Good-Bye? He does not! He comes north of it, brings these here bloodsuckers with him; hires me 'nd seems like he plans to spend the summer drinkin'."

"Well, I'm d—d!" said Steve again, old memories surging in him. So this was Old Jim's son!

"What's this about the Flynn job gone haywire?" he asked sharply.
The guide shrugged. "I dunno much. It's a scrap amongst th' big guns, I guess; either that, or a lot of bad luck comin' to Old Jim, which it does now 'nd then to lots of loggers. He's cleaned out down below, they say. Lost two mills and a good many years cut on a mortgage. All he's got now's the Good-Bye stuff."

"It's fine hardwood and if he can get swingin' in time he'll prob'ly make a go of it. There's some swamp stuff and this spring he put in a pulpwood camp 'nd they're drivin' it down th' river. Same time, he starts puttin' in his railroad, plannin' to put up a mill in Shoestring 'nd run next winter, but when I went in for booze for these dunes last week I heard a fella named Franz had his right-of-way sewed up. That is, they say it was Franz, but I know him 'nd know he never had a dime of his own. More 'n likely he's just doin' the dirty work for the Bensons, who own the land up to Old Jim and who'd like to get their paws on his Good-Bye stuff. There's some talk of Flynn's backers sayin' that if he can't get operatin' this fall they're done with him. Tough!"

"That is tough!" Steve muttered. "When the kid's sober, is he any good?"
The guide shrugged again.

"Can't prove it by me. He's never been in this country before; Old Jim's kept him pretty close. Likely he don't count much on him. He's two weeks overdue at Good-Bye, now. He's been with me, drunk every day. Looks like he'd be here until his money plays out, and he's got quite a roll."

"Well!" Steve began pulling on his damp shirt. Old Jim Flynn in a pinch! And physically helpless and financially handicapped. This, while he had been reared to believe that to render service to Jim Flynn, should opportunity arise, was the first obligation!

"How do you get across to the Good-Bye?" he asked.
"Well, it's a long drag; a long, hard day. You start here . . ." And with a twig he scratched a crude map in the sand.

"Having a pack-sack that'll hold something'll be a help on the carries," Drake remarked when he had the lay of the land in his head.

"You goin' that way?"
"Likely."
"Well, if you see McNally, better not mention anything about Young Jim bein' here. He's got to be handled careful, this kid. I'll taper him off and get him on his feet when he's had his belly full of tender."

Steve frowned as he paddled. It was not pleasant to think of how Old Jim had warmed him with the warmth of his own body, and how generous the man had been with his weakling father, and then to think of him as he was now, scotched and broken.

What he could accomplish by going to Good-Bye he did not know and he laughed at himself when he considered that. For such as he to think of aiding a figure of Jim Flynn's proportion in the forest industries was like a mouse setting out to help a lion. . . . His self-conscious smile died when he thought of the old fable. Once upon a time, anyhow, a mouse gave aid to a lion. . . .

He came to a small clearing beside the river. On a bench built of saplings stood a nest of buckets, two hand water pumpers, axes and shovels. Above was a sign, faded black on a white background:

"POLARIS FOREST PRODUCTS CO. FIRE TOOL CACHE."
And on the corners was stenciled the same five-pointed, black star which branded the flap of his new pack-sack.

However, he saw no evidence of woods operations for some time. He threaded an old beaver meadow and after a short interval the thick stands of swamp timber opened to reveal browned slash with pulp bolts raked in piles through it. Buildings were there, too, but although it was the supper hour no smoke ascended from their stovepipes chimneys. A Gogbarred and another joined, and in the doorway of a tarpaper shanty a man appeared. Steve shoved his canoe against the bank littered dump and waited as the man came toward him, hobbling on crutches fashioned from birch saplings, and one foot, wrapped in many yards of bled rag, was held rigidly forward.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

What Will It Bring?

Tomorrow, the Republican State Central Committee will convene at Albuquerque, and let's hope in the name of good common sense that old factional disputes will be settled—and the result be in a united state party which will be able to do something besides go down in defeat as we have done so often before.

If each faction is willing to go 50-50, or in other words, give-and-take, which is not an impossibility, some good results may be expected of the meeting. But if they fold their robes about them and exclaim "Away With Him" (or them), the time will have been fruitlessly spent and nothing accomplished, but the old road to defeat maintained.

We give warning that something besides meeting and scuffling must be done, or else we'll not again attempt to contribute our share to a losing proposition—we are tired of it.

We don't mean by this, that we are in favor of a "one man show," but quite to the contrary.

There is a way to meet, exchange opinions and come to reasonable agreements. That is what must be done, or it'll be the rocks for us.

Glencoe-Stetson P. T. A.
 Notes

Omitted last week for lack of space:

The P. T. A met Feb. 9. After the regular business session, a Founder's Day Program, prepared by Mrs. Ralph Bonnell, was presented. The members gave offerings which were added to the balance in the treasury. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ida Browning, and Mrs. R. Browning. Mrs. Jewel Bonnell baked the Founder's Day Cake.

The latest meeting of the P. T. A. was held Friday, Mar. 9. Plans were made to purchase a windmill and equipment to furnish the school with running water.

Now that all other bills are paid, there is a nice balance in the treasury, Stetson School will soon be rating among the best equipped schools in Lincoln County.

The ideas for raising more funds are being tried. A school dance is being planned for the future, and on March 21, a "Depression Basket" will be started through the Community. It doesn't sound like there might be a large income from it, judging by the name—but wait until you hear the returns.

Hostesses, Mrs. Jim Jackson and Mrs. Maudie Eshom completed the interesting meeting by serving very tasty refreshments. The meeting adjourned with everyone very enthusiastic over the plans for the future.

We Invite You—

Knowledge is truth. Nothing is more convincing.

Our obligation as Ford dealers in this community is not only to sell and service cars. Just as important is our duty to acquaint the public with up-to-date facts about automobile values. We believe that only in this way can intelligent comparisons be made.

So, this invitation is given to everyone — owners of large or small cars — machinists — other automobile dealers, come in and inspect the new 1934 Ford V-8. You will find out why a Ford buying wave is going over the country.

If you would like to drive the new Ford that is your privilege. New thrills will delight you. We will not bombard you with requests to buy—the car will do that.

We are looking for you!

No Trick Gadgets
 On Ford V-8 Car

No matter what the possibilities for sensational publicity Ford has never resorted to stunt features to sell his cars. Freakish body designs on an automobile are just as speculative as freakish designs on houses.

Millions of dollars were spent to sell American Motorists on free wheeling. Ford declined to put it on his cars.

The Ford purchaser gets a proven car both in style and operation. There are no trick gadgets to catch the fancy and later on prove to be mistakes.

The Ford policy of continuous improvement is well shown in this year's car. It is the best car the Ford Motor Company has ever built.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(BY REV. P. B. FITZPATRICK, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, C. 1914, Western Newspaper Union)

Lesson for March 25

CONFESSING AND FOLLOWING CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-28. GOLDEN TEXT—And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matt. 16:16. PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter's Answer to Jesus' Question. JUNIOR TOPIC—A Question and the Answer. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Putting Christ First. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Think Ye of Christ?

In order to obviate a break in the studies in Matthew and still have an Easter lesson, the review should be omitted and the lesson for April 1 taken instead.

1. Jesus Christ the King, Taking Account of His Ministry (vv. 13-17).

1. The place (v. 13). It was at Caesarea Philippi, the northern limit of Jewish territory. It was significant that the announcement concerning the Church should take place in this region. 2. The time in Christ's ministry. It marked a turning point. His ministry was largely restricted to his disciples after this. The cross was a short time ahead. The Messiah had already been rejected. They had already charged him with being in league with the devil and sought to kill him. It was highly important that the disciples should have clear views as to Christ's person in order to stand the test of the trial and crucifixion of Jesus.

3. Peter's confession of Jesus (vv. 13-16).

a. The occasion (vv. 13-15). Two questions asked by Jesus provoked this confession.

(1) As to the opinion of the people concerning him (vv. 13, 14). They recognized him as a teacher and prophet of more than human authority. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion concerning Jesus. Some think that he is only a man; others that he is a great teacher but nothing more. It was his persistent claim to be the Godman, the very Son of God, that sent him to the cross.

(2) As to the personal opinion of the disciples (v. 15). It was not enough for them to be able to tell what opinion the people held concerning Jesus. It was necessary that they have clear personal knowledge.

b. The content (v. 16). It consisted of two parts.

(1) "Thou art the Christ." This means that Jesus of Nazareth was the Messiah, the fulfiller of the Jewish hopes and expectations.

(2) "The Son of the living God." This acknowledged him to be divine. It was the recognition of his glorious person in keeping with the Jewish hope (Isa. 9:6, 7).

4. Christ's confession of Peter (vv. 17-19). Peter had made a noble confession. Now Jesus confesses him. Those who confess Christ shall be confessed by him (Matt. 10:32, 33).

5. Christ's charge to the disciples (v. 20). He asked them not to tell any man that he was the Messiah. The time was not ripe for such testimony.

6. The New Body, the Church, Announced (vv. 18, 20).

Following the confession of Peter, Jesus declared his intention of bringing into existence a new body. To the members of this body he promised to give the keys of the kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. The keys entrusted to him were used at Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius. Christ has the keys of Heaven and death.

7. The King Predicts His Death (vv. 21-23).

This prediction was no doubt startling to the disciples. They did not yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried, "This shall not be unto Thee." Later Peter saw through the darkness the sunlight on the hill tops beyond the cross. Redemptive victory through Christ's death is yet the stumbling block to many.

8. The Cost of Discipleship (vv. 24-26).

To follow Christ means suffering. To follow him is to turn one's back upon the world.

1. There must be denial of self. There is a wide difference between self-denial and denial of self.

2. "Take up his cross" (v. 24). This cross is the shame and suffering which lie in the path of loyalty to Christ. To do our whole duty will bring suffering (II Tim. 3:12).

3. Follow Christ (v. 24). This means to have the mind of Christ, to be like Christ. All such shall be rewarded when Christ comes in glory.

Religion Gives Confidence Religion gives the religious soul the confidence born of close touch with the center of all things. "I can do all things," says the Christian, "through Christ who strengthens me." Is not this worth while?

The Need Today The need today is for men and women of active personality, men and women who cannot only do things themselves, but also can get things done by others.

SMALL HOME NOW ADVOCATED TO END DEPRESSION

The very best thing to complete the roof of the depression would be a nationwide building program, adding 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 rooms to American homes by use of private capital. So said President Henry I. Harriman of the United States Chamber of Commerce, at Buffalo a few days ago. Such a program, he insisted, would do for business what the automobile did a few years ago. And this would be no sudden spurt, for, in Mr. Harriman's opinion, it would take ten years to build merely the houses necessary for a minimum standard of decency and comfort. He estimates the total cost of construction alone at close to $40,000,000,000. And to that may be added more billions for furnishings.

A survey conducted by the National Association of Real Estate

Boards in 275 cities reveals a shortage of single family houses in 27 per cent of the cities, and a shortage of apartment space in the smaller cities. The home shortage is more pronounced in the smaller cities and is especially noticeable in New England, the Pacific coast, and the West South Central section.

What this country needs, declared the Southern Lumberman, is not model apartments but small individual homes. And by small homes it does not mean houses costing around $9,000—for which there is, indeed, a market—but houses costing in the neighborhood of $3,000 or $4,000. For these there is a much greater demand, and "the architects and builders and promoters seem to have forgotten that there ever was that kind of a house."

The Southern Lumberman thinks that if means could be found to finance such building it would open a very large untapped field of activity.—Literary Digest.

We note that Zaro Agha, the Turk, a young fellow claiming to be 160 years of age, is hopelessly in love again, this time with a 40 year old woman. Remember the old saying, "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love?"

Saturday, March 24, is the day when the Old Guard and Progressives will try to patch things up at Albuquerque. But we think it'll be a pugilistic affair, though we hope we're wrong.

The Santa Fe New Mexican, one of our prized exchanges, has blossomed forth with a colored comic supplement, making its slogan, "First with the News" appear in metropolitan fashion. The comic section will appear weekly.

Absent from Sanduaky, O., for nearly 40 years, Charles Bretz, 72, was willed $3,000 by his dead sister, payable at $10 a month. Here's the joker — according to vital statistics left in the will, he'll have to live to be 103 years old before he can collect the three thousand. We think he'd better page Zaro Agha, the Turk, who has been with us for 160 years.

We see in the Albuquerque Journal where Albert Simms has invited some of the Old Guard Republicans to a banquet given on the eve of the Harmony Meeting, Saturday, March 24. Doesn't sound like harmony, if we miss our guess.
