Sad Accident

Monday afternoon while engaged in welding an oil tank at the City Garage at Capitan, Charley Adams, mechanic, aged 30 years, met with an accident which caused him to lose his life. In performing the work of welding the tank, gas formed and exploded, burning him so badly that he died in a few hours. As soon as he could be taken from the tank he was rushed to Fort Stanton, where physicians did all they could for the unfortunate man, but to no avail.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday at the Nazarene Church and the remains interred at Capitan, attended by a large concourse of friends of the family both from Capitan and Carrizozo.

Charley Adams was well known here, having been in the employ of Vincent Reil at the City Garage and afterwards sent to Capitan where he served as a mechanic in the branch garage under the supervision of Vernon Mosler, until his death. To his bereaved wife and four children the heartfelt sympathy of our community is extended.

Jess Roberts comes out with this—"More than one girl has married what she regarded as a movie hero only to find out afterward that he wasn't even a good Mickey Mouse."

DIAMOND DUST

Standing of Teams:

Team	Games won	Games Lost
Carrizozo	13	6
East-Siders	5	5
Sluggers	5	0

The Alamogordo Black Sox failed to come Sunday and the Carrizozo team took a trip to Roswell and lost both ends of a double-header. In the first encounter they were outclassed and given a goose egg; the final score being 10 to 0. In the second melee they were treated a little better and allowed to chalk up four markers. But Roswell again tallied ten scores to put the game on ice. The boys have now lost four straight games and it's time they should be getting into winning form again.

The East-Siders entertained the White Oaks Miners at White Oaks and were beaten also by a score of 17 to 14.

Gilbert produced the only homerun of the game and it was a terrific drive. Gilbert is one of White Oaks' heavy hitters.

The Amateur Sluggers kept their slate clean by defeating an Alamogordo team at Alamogordo. These boys have not lost a game this summer.

The score at Alamo was 8 to 7 in favor of Carrizozo. "Keno" Ortiz mowed them down with his machine gun arm and Mirabal did some fancy catching. Fred Martinez did some heavy clouting for the locals.

OUT-OF-THE ORDINARY

Negro attendants in the state museum at Raleigh, N. C., firmly believe that a certain rattle snake there, understands English. The reptile had been in the habit of crawling from its cage and frightening the chicken snakes in an adjoining den so badly that they were sick and refused to eat. Curator Boyd finally told the negroes to kill it. The darkeys say that since that time, the rattlesnake has shown no desire to leave its cage.

The other day in Baltimore it required the combined efforts of two policemen, eight firemen and Norman Jones, the father, to release his boy's foot from a drain pipe in a shack in the rear of the home. The boy, aged 10, had returned from swimming while still in his bare feet, when in some manner, his left foot became wedged in the pipe. It took the men two hours to set him free.

George Covert, Marshall, Michigan, has $10, which he never expected to recover after he lost two five dollar bills eight years ago. When he heard that the GWA workers were tearing down the chimney on a school house, he had a hunch that as he was janitor of the school when he lost the money, there would be no harm to investigate and searching in the ruins, he found the money.

Included in rites for the dying in India, is one where the dying person must be holding the tail of a cow in order to go to heaven. Once upon a time, when a certain Ruler was about to die, the sacred cow of the royal family was on the upper floor and in order to fulfill the last rite, they carried the old bird upstairs so that he could swing on the cow's tail as he passed out.

A girl in Los Angeles was in love with a married man, who was a member of the fire department and she found it hard to get him away from home without his wife finding it out. Finally, she thought of a scheme and it worked. She turned in a false alarm for a certain place and got her man. She pulled the stunt three times and it cost the city $150, before she was arrested. Now listen, Carrizozo girls, if you do as she did, please don't do it on the night of the Firemen's Dance, Aug. 11.

"Frank!" she said in a thick, unnatural voice, and he realized that he himself had spoken the name. "Frank, I'll let you go if you'll give her back!"

"That's hot," a voice said. That must be Mary's voice. Where did she come from? A hand raised his head gently and he felt strong coffee scorch his lips. He slipped obediently and dropped back. This was strange. . . .

Laird to sign. That option's binding. All we've got to do is fulfill its terms. Get the dates straight in your head, and make the receipt an acknowledgment of the initial payment on the option recorded in this county as of such-and-such a date. Good, now!"

"That'll hold him," he said excitedly, color beginning to stain his cheeks. "Now, where's the brief case? Used it for a pillow, eh? Good!" he grinned. "But you can trust Mary."

"You're still weak," she said. "Maybe you're weaker than I think. Oh, some one must come before long!" "Well, that's it," he finally ended. "I've been an imposter, but it seemed to be the only way. If you'd have known about the kid before he got straightened out, you'd have been frantic; if the men realized I was a stranger, they never would have stuck to the job. Now, if Mary gets to the Laird's on time, we're set. If not . . ."

"No good!" he whispered after a moment. "I'm all in. . . . But she'll get there. I'd bet on that girl. . . ."

"Obediently he slipped from the cups she held for him, his head held against her side, and after that he slept for a time. It was a deep sleep. He was conscious of the girl's presence all the time and when he finally roused she was standing under the sky looking down at him. He smiled weakly. "How to say it?"

"That's all I remember, now . . . All right, if you say so I won't sit up. But listen. I'm giddy as the devil. Things are going round outside but I'm thinking straight. Today at four o'clock that money's got to be in MacDonald's hands or Polaris is sunk. I remember, now. . . ."

"That's," he said, "Are the sweetest words I've ever heard."

eyes the way I did. But . . . I'll tell you how it was." He went back to that day when Old Jim Flynn saved him and his father from perishing in a blizzard. He told it all, just as it had happened, from that time on. Kate did not interrupt. When he spoke of Franz, she lost color; when he told of his maneuvering with the Laird her lips parted in eagerness; when he narrated how LaFane had handled Young Jim tears came into her eyes.

CHAPTER XIV

It was Young Jim himself who sighted the three smokes. He and McNally hastened toward the island and within minutes of their arrival the older man was on his way down the ladder with plenty of orders for the detachment of men he would surely find there.

"Doctor!" Steve snorted when Kate gave her first instruction. "I should say not! Why, I'll be good as new tomorrow. I'll take it easy and go out with the boys."

"But he didn't want to do it," LaFane added. "He's pretty mad. He says you're a good fisherman and a good liar. If Mary hadn't gotten there on time he'd never have gone through with the deal."

ELISHA HELPS THE NEEDY

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 4:1-44. GOLDEN TEXT—And the King shall answer and say unto them. Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me. Matthew 25:40.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Elisha Helps a Woman in Need.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Elisha Helps Those in Need.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How We May Help Others.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Responsibility for Others.

I. Elisha Helps a Widow (vv. 1-7). 1. Her distress (v. 1). Her husband, a godly man, was taken away by death, leaving a debt. A certain creditor was about to make her sons slaves because of the nonpayment of the debt. We are not told for what reason the debt was incurred. It may have been because of charitable deeds.

2. Her only possession (v. 2). A pot of oil was all that she had in her house. God can use what we possess, and to set that apart is the measure of our responsibility.

3. The oil miraculously increased (vv. 3-7). The meager supply of oil was so increased that the sale of it paid the debt. There was enough left for the sustenance of the family.

II. Elisha's Kind Deeds to the Shunammite Woman (vv. 8-37). 1. Her hospitality to Elisha (vv. 8-11).

a. His occasion (v. 8). Observing that Elisha passed continually by her house in his journeys, she was moved with compassion toward him. She perceived that he was a man of God and was called upon to deny himself of many things. She determined, according to her ability, to supply his needs.

b. She fitted up a room for him (vv. 10, 11). She equipped this room with the necessary furniture to make it comfortable.

2. Elisha endeavors to repay her (vv. 12-17). a. He offers to ask a favor of the king or head of the army (v. 13). This showed that Elisha had influence at the royal court. The woman's reply shows her truly to be a great woman. She would not change the calm and quiet of her home for a place even in the royal court.

b. Elisha announces the coming of a son to her (vv. 16, 17). Through inquiry he discovered that this woman was childless. This in that day was considered a great misfortune. He assured her that in about a year from that time she should experience the joy of motherhood.

3. The coming of sorrow to her home (vv. 18-21). The child which brought joy to her heart was suddenly taken away. The cause of his death was probably a sunstroke, for the heat of the sun at harvest time in that country is intense. When the child died she laid him upon the bed of the man of God. Her faith was such that she did not make preparation for burial but for restoration to life (Heb. 11:35).

4. The mother goes to Elisha (vv. 22-28). Happy is the one who in the days of prosperity and sunshine has so related himself to God and his prophets that help and sympathy can be given in time of trouble.

a. She took hold of Elisha's feet (v. 27). This was the eastern way of enforcing a petition.

b. She chided the prophet (v. 28). "Did I desire a son?" This implies that it would have been better not to have a child than to have lost him so soon.

5. The child restored (vv. 29-37). a. Gehazi's fruitless errand (vv. 29-31). He hurried away and placed the prophet's staff upon the child's face, but it did not revive. Doubtless failure was due to his lack of faith.

b. Elisha's efficient service (vv. 32-37). He sent to the house where the dead child was and did two things. (1) He prayed (v. 33). He knew that no one but God could help so he closed the door, shutting all others out. (2) He stretched himself upon the child (v. 34). He brought his warm body in touch with the cold body of the child. God blesses and saves through the warm touch of those who are in touch with him.

III. Elisha Feeding One Hundred Men (vv. 42-44). These hundred men were likely prophets of God. From the meager supply of twenty barley loaves and some ears of new corn these hundred men were fed. How like the deed of the Master in feeding five thousand with the barley loaves and small fishes.

Study the Bible. The more profoundly we study this wonderful book and the more closely we observe its divine precepts, the better citizens we will become and the higher will be our destiny as a nation.—William McKinley.

Foundation of Safety. The foundation of safety is laid on the balanced work of Christ, and is guarded by the infinite power, the eternal purpose, and the immutable promise of Jehovah.—James M. Beveler.

The oft-described "slivery" Rio Grande is now nothing but a golden streak of sand winding its way through north and central New Mexico. Extremely dry weather, coupled with a winter which saw but little snow in the high mountains, has caused the river to run completely dry in this part of the state.

All New Mexico now is designated in the drought area, with only six northwestern counties in the secondary zone. FERA offices at Santa Fe and Valencia counties have been changed from secondary to primary zones, entitling the areas to cattle and crop loans and livestock relief.

Apportionment of $385,311.50 of Arizona school funds for the first quarter of the 1934-35 fiscal year, was announced at the office of H. E. Hendrix, state superintendent of public instruction. New Mexico's exhibit in the court of states, a Century of Progress, is in full swing following the colorful opening dedication ceremony. Accepted by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the show, with the comment, "It is so authentic and beautiful that I feel as though I had stepped into New Mexico itself." The exhibit was characterized as the most striking of all in the court of states.

The snake dance, most famous and dramatic of Hopi prayer rituals, will be held this year at three villages on two of the three mesas of Hopland in Arizona. Definite dates will not be announced by the snake priests until the first week in August, but the performances nearly always fall between August 17 and August 27. Snake priests arrive at exact dates by calculations based on shadows thrown by cliffs in the moonlight.

Regulations desired by New Mexico livestock interests for the 17,666, 666 acres of public domain in the state will be discussed at Albuquerque July 27. A joint meeting of the executive committee of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association with the New Mexico Wool Growers' Association has been called for that date. Control of the land is now under the Interior Department as provided in the Taylor grazing law, and a committee of federal officials is expected in August or early this fall to learn the regulations favored by the livestock men.

Historians Stirred by

Find of Ancient Coins

Coins that shed new light on an obscure period of Jewish history have been discovered in a private collection in Jerusalem.

The coins are of the Fifth century, B. C., which is 300 years older than any Jewish coins heretofore known. The money known to have been regularly used in ancient Palestine was foreign money, chiefly coins of nations which in turn dominated the Hebrew country. It has been supposed that the Jews were not allowed to issue their own coinage until a Syrian king granted that liberty about 139 B. C.

The discovery shows that after the Persians swept the Babylonians from power and allowed the exiled Jews to return to Jerusalem, the Persian king granted autonomy.

The Jerusalem coins are said to match a small silver coin which for the last 150 years has been in the British museum. It bears an inscription of three Aramic letters, which it is said always have been wrongly interpreted by scholars and therefore the significance of the coin was not completely understood. He reads the letters as "Yehud," which was at one time the official name of the province of Judea. The coins bear the engraving of an owl, under which appear the three letters in the old Phoenician Hebrew script.

Roost for Graf Zeppelin. South America's tallest skyscraper is to be built in Buenos Aires. It will cost $4,000,000 and will be 84 stories high. On the tower will be a mooring mast for airships, and it is expected that the Graf Zeppelin will be moored there when at that end of its transatlantic voyages.

IS CRAZY WATER EPSOM SALTS

No, says Dr. W. E. Fitch in nation-wide broadcast over N.B.C. network

NOT A MAN-MADE DRUG

Tells why natural mineral water is so often beneficial for "rheumatic" aches and pains

On a recent Sunday afternoon broadcast on the National Broadcasting network the following discussion took place between Mr. Gene Arnold and Dr. W. E. Fitch, internationally known authority on natural mineral waters.

Gene Arnold: "I receive letters from people saying they heard that Crazy Water Crystals are made of nothing but salts—Epsom Salts or Glauber's Salts. These people want to know if it's true you can buy some of these salts for a few cents, and get the same effect as you do with Crazy Water Crystals."

Dr. Fitch: "No, it is NOT true." Gene Arnold: "I'm glad to hear you say that, because I know your opinion is worth a great deal. But will you explain a little more about it? What are the facts?"

Dr. Fitch: "The facts are that it has always been hard for a few doubting Thomases and skeptics to believe that old Mother Nature knows how to prepare and compound natural mineral waters in a way that cannot be duplicated in a laboratory. In the course of my studies I have found that those same doubts were expressed Two Thousand Years Ago, in the early days of natural mineral water therapy. The truth is that natural mineral water and natural crystals from such waters are as different from synthetic or artificial salts as day from night. And that's why the medical profession has always been in favor of the Natural Waters—has always insisted that they are one product of Nature that cannot be imitated successfully by man. People have tried for many, many years to make up synthetic concoctions to take their place but they do not have the same effect. The predominating chemical constituent of Crazy Water Crystals is sodium sulfate, but it is in its Natural State, and has a far different physiological effect than the synthetic salts made in a laboratory. When you buy salts for a few cents you get just what you pay for—a dose of salts. But when you use Crazy Water Crystals, you get undiluted minerals in their natural state, taken from natural mineral water by evaporation with nothing added."

That is why Crazy Water Crystals have proven themselves so beneficial in the treatment of "rheumatic" aches and pains. Thousands of people in all parts of the United States testify to this.

If you, or any of your friends, suffer from "rheumatic" pains we suggest you investigate Crazy Water Crystals immediately. Ask any of the millions who have used them. They get a standard size box—it costs only $1.50 and is ample for at least three weeks treatment. Crazy Water Company, Mineral Wells, Texas.

Dark Sheer Prints for Midseason

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WITH the waning of the good old summertime when they clothes you have on hand begin to take on that sort of a "has-been" look which happens in even the best of regulated wardrobes and when it is too early to do now autumn regalia, what then? Every woman who aspires to an up-to-the-moment appearance knows the baffled feeling which comes when this nagging, disturbing-of-the-peace question comes up.

But why worry, for here's encouraging news in regard to this very problem. Briefly told, it's the good looking jacket suits of dark triple sheer print which are now showing in leading style shops and departments wherever one may turn. You can rest assured that an ensemble such as any one of the stunning models here pictured, will pilot you victoriously through that dreaded stretch of time which spans from the burning, scorching days of summer to weather bearing cool breezes which hint that autumn is on its way hitherward.

The beauty of these triple sheer costumes which are now playing so conspicuous a role on fashion's stage is that they are being given a styling so absolutely up to the instant in chic, the moment you don one you are apt to experience thrills as exultant as a manikin at a style show as she pirouettes back and forth before the eager and admiring eyes of her audience.

Then, too, these sheers are cool when you want them to be and with their jackets they provide just the degree of comfort and protection necessary for the erratic changes of a fickle thermometer. By the way had you noticed that scarcely a one-piece dress is to be seen this season, be it day or night, without a matching or related jacket? Everything with a jacket, is the new slogan and just because the idea is so thoroughly practical the vogue is moving on of its own momentum.

Turning to our illustration we know that you will agree that the jacket dress on the standing figure is of unerring style appeal. It is fashioned of triple sheer of bengberg in the new Vionnet bowknot print. The crisp organdy jabot is worked in the two colors of the print. The slim little jacket with its voluminous and graceful cape sleeves conveys a message of high-style distinction.

Cool and comfortable for the young girl is the little jacket-frock to the left. The bright monotone print in triple sheer of bengberg employed for this winsome outfit carries an animated patterning of wee gay monotone posies—a perfect complement to youth. The link-button fastening at the waistline accents the modish slowness of this young modern. The pleated frill which collars the jacket also bespeaks a youthful note.

The insistent call of the mode for white accents on dark prints is answered in the swagger jacketed dress to the right. This model is a bit more grown-up than the one just described which should make it of special interest to the matron. As a matter of fact it is a type which tunes to most any age from teens on. This distinguished ensemble like its companion models in the picture is also made of bengberg triple sheer. It again reminds that the polka dot vogue is still going strong. The huge wide collar and flaring cuffs are of white taffeta.

Enrich Soil for Alfalfa Growing

Building Up Fertility Most Important, According to an Authority.

By M. J. Harris, Superintendent Experiment Station Farm, Colorado State College—WNU Service.

The first step in growing alfalfa is to build up the fertility of soils on which it is to be planted unless it is already in good condition.

When the soil is acid, one to three tons of lime should be applied to the acre. Soil that has been neglected or which is in a poor state of fertility should have heavy applications of manure early in the spring. The manure should be mixed into the soil with a disk harrow. Then a crop of soy beans should be grown and turned under.

In the fall the field should be plowed and allowed to lie fallow during the winter freezes. Sow lespedeza in February and turn it under when it has reached maximum growth, which should not be later than September 1. The crop should be disked well before being turned under. Then the lime should be disked into the soil and the field left to stand for two weeks. Next should be an application of 600 pounds of 4-12-4 fertilizer per acre and another disking, followed by a section harrow and then a cultipacker.

Following the two seasons of preparing the soil, at least 25 pounds of quality alfalfa seed should be sown to the acre by drill or by hand between September 15 and October 15. If the fall seeding does not produce a full stand, another seeding may be made about March 1 to 15 or sooner if the weather is favorable.

Double inoculations give the best results. Bacteria cultures and soil from fields which have been growing alfalfa are good inoculants.

Farmers whose soil is in a high state of fertility may start their alfalfa crops this fall without going through the two seasons of preparation mentioned above.

Tar Treatment Is Urged for Sheep Having Grubs

Sheep that are suffering from grubs are not infested with worms, but the larval form of the sheep gad fly. The fly deposits eggs about the nostrils of the animals in the warm summer weather, and these work their way up through the nostrils to the sinuses or spaces in the head. Here they remain through the winter and drop out the next spring, pupate in the soil for a few weeks, and then hatch into flies, to repeat the egg-laying process the following summer. There is no practical treatment for removing these larvae from the nostrils, once they are there, but something can be done to prevent the gad fly from laying her eggs on the sheep. This is accomplished by offering the flock a darkened place to retreat into during the hours of bright sunshine on summer days, and by smearing the nose with pine tar every three or four days. The tar can be applied with an old glove or by making a salt box with a lid in which holes about a foot apart and three inches in diameter have been bored. Smear the edges of the holes with tar and put salt in the box. As the sheep reach through for the salt, they smear the tar on their noses, and this has been found effective in repelling the flies which lay the eggs.—Wallace's Farmer.

Scours in Dairy Calves

Scours is usually caused by improper feeding and it is much easier to prevent than cure, says the North Carolina State college. When the first symptoms appear isolate the calf and reduce the milk feed by half. The substitution of grass hay for legume hay will also aid in the recovery. One to three tablespoons full of castor oil, depending upon the age of the calf, should be given followed by a teaspoon full of a mixture containing one part of salol to two parts each of substrate of bismuth and bicarbonate of soda. Repeat dose at intervals of about six hours until diarrhea is stopped. Prevention, however, is the best cure and the cause of the trouble should be located and removed.

Bothersome Goat Grass

Where wheat is grown continuously, eradication of goat grass is difficult. Some farmers sow infested spots while the plants are still green and burn the straw as soon as dry. Others avoid infested spots in harvesting, and later pile straw on them and burn it. Still others disk fields as soon as the grass seedlings are well up in the fall and before the wheat is sown. Control of goat grass is not difficult where rotation with row crops is possible. It is easily killed by cultivation. The only complicating factor is the difficulty of killing plants growing in fence rows, roadways and other waste places. The grass does not compete with native grasses in undisturbed sod.

Potato Resists Disease

The Katahdin, a new variety of potato which the Department of Agriculture has been testing for several years and which has proven valuable because of its disease-resistant qualities, has reached the market. For several years efforts have been devoted to breeding sufficient stock to supply the market once it was introduced. Potatoes are subject to a variety of diseases. It is to overcome these drawbacks that the department has been experimenting.

POLISH ESTATES GIVEN BACK TO HEIRS OF LOSERS

When the czar of all the Russias ordered the confiscation, more than a century ago, of the property of the Polish nobles who had taken an active part in the abortive uprising of 1830-31 against Russian rule, the domain of the Russian state was enriched by many thousands of acres of meadow and forest, dotted with numerous castles and other buildings. And when Poland arose again as a nation out of the ruins of the World War, most of this confiscated property passed into the possession of the republic.

But under a decision recently handed down by the highest court in Poland and reported in European papers, the republic is likely to lose nearly all these estates. And while regretting the loss to the state, most patriotic Poles are said to agree with the court that the heirs of the nobles who fought and died in the century-old effort to free Poland from the Russian yoke are entitled to the property confiscated by the czar.

Among the leaders of the 1830-31 revolution was Gen. Count Tyskiewicz. His broad estates were taken over by the Russian crown. Now the Warsaw court has decided that all that property, valued at about $13,000,000, must be returned to the present Count Tyskiewicz, a direct heir. This decision is expected to be followed by many others of the same sort involving a great deal of property.

USE SAILOR COLLAR NOW EVEN ON SHOES

And now they're wearing sailor collars on shoes. Already they've put sailor collars on everything from bathing suits to nightgowns. So now you may literally be nautical from head to foot.

Your job hat and your middy shirt-waist dress will find their reflection on the toe of your novel sports sandal, which may combine red patent leather and white linen, and undoubtedly will sport a little sailor collar design on the toe.

Shoes must match your costume nowadays not only in fabric and color, but in atmosphere. The dress trimmed with rows of stitching demands a stitched pump to set it off. The suit with pearl buttons has its matching pump, with a button instead of a buckle.

New Fabrics and Colors Shown in Summer Gloves

Chanut has used both new fabrics and colors to make some of the smartest of summer gloves. Most of them are designed to match a jabot or cravat such as the old-time dandies used to wear, intended to be worn with the same frock. Necktie silk—navy dotted with white and brown splashed with green—fashions jaunty gaudy gloves worn with ascot cravats. Black and white and red and white checked taffeta gloves have matching scarfs finished with a great bow worn on one side of the throat.

Cellophane Embroidery
Black cellophane embroidery is a favorite trim for white organdie dresses of romantic design.

IT'S ORGANDIE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

According to the latest dictates of fashion sheer prints are smartest when they have dark backgrounds. Here is one of the prettiest organdie frocks brought out this season. It is black and white, which gives it a Paris look, for smart-dressed French women continue steadfast in their favor for black-and-white. Flame red shoulder flowers supply the dash of color which glorifies the whole scheme of things.

The Great American Home

We often miss things of much importance coming over the radio which causes us to wonder how many of our people heard Senator Cautigan one night last week. People who were fortunate in being on the air at that time, heard his discourse on the "American Home," with sympathetic understanding.

The great institution, the American home, regardless of the automobile, the golf club, bridge club, booze parties and liberality of morals, is the only place in our present modern system of life where you can strip your necktie, take off your shoes, inhale your soup, sit in your undershirt, read anything you like, have your coffee with the first bite of breakfast, eat what you want or leave it alone, escape restaurant gravy, and escape grease salad dressing; don't have to say a lot of things you don't mean, sleep on your back and snore without fear of being prosecuted, take a bath twice a year whether you need it or not, take your conversation water, drink it straight or let it alone, play with the dog without having some bird to high-brow you over gold-rimmed eye glasses, talk as you please and receive moral lessons from some good soul, who is in sympathy with your views.

It is sad, but true, that a great many young people of the present day and time, regard the old home merely as a filling station and flop house, but that depends a great deal on the understanding of those who make that sacred institution. Changing systems of morals and society cannot deface the comfort and worth whiteness of the home; it is the only place where we really are ourselves. Even the pup, enjoys its customary bone with freedom, void of hypocrisy.

FAIR PLANS BIG FARM PROGRAM

Barn Dance, Rural Events Featured at Chicago Aug. 11 to 18.

Chicago.—Four million persons have entered the gates of the new World's Fair since it opened here May 26. Most of the throngs that have thrilled to the new spectacle, the new "foreign villages," which offer in themselves a "tour of the world," the new shows and the new fres entertainment projects, are city dwellers. Chicagoans, visitors from other cities all over the United States and visitors from foreign countries have poured in, in large numbers.

But the real farmer-visitors' invasion of A Century of Progress has not yet begun. It will reach its peak when the Fair celebrates Farm Week, from August 11 to August 18, inclusive.

Last year Farm Week accounted for the largest single week's attendance of the entire Fair. Plans to make the celebration interesting and important to farmers are even more elaborate now than last year, according to the events division of the exposition.

WLS Barn Dance at Fair. Saturday, August 11, will lead off the program with a massive farm parade, including bands, farm implements, machinery and equipment and farm animals. Delecting the modernization of agriculture, it will be one of the longest and most comprehensive pageants of the entire exposition.

Sunday, August 12, will see special music and farm programs interlinked with the observance of Chicago Incorporation day, with Chicago acting as host to the out-of-town multitudes.

Hesford Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, has been invited to be the principal speaker of the Farm Organization day program Monday. Tuesday will be Farm Radio day, with the entire WLS "Barn Dance" presenting a program in the Court of States; 40,000 persons saw this event in 1933.

Aerial Sham Battle Planned. The farmer's wife will have her day Wednesday, August 15, which has been named Farm Women's day, with special programs arranged to pay tribute to the women who battled to carve a nation out of the wilderness. Farm Youth day, Thursday, will be full of recognition of the future farmers of the land, with emphasis on 4-H club work.

Programs of interest to rural newspapers and magazines will feature Farm Press day, Friday, Saturday, August 18, will be farm music day, with its high spot the gigantic Chicagoand Music festival in Soldier Field, adjoining the Fair grounds. This annual event has attracted more than a half million persons in the four years of its existence. This day will also see many special contests, such as millmaid, husband-calling and hog-calling contests.

Saturday is also Illinois day. There will be a review of 10,000 troops and demonstrations by anti-aircraft artillery units, shooting with tracer bullets at balloon targets towed by airplanes.

Farm Exhibits Are Many. During Farm Week parties of farmers will be taken on free guided tours of the Fair grounds. Farm visitors, with only a limited time to spend, will in this way be able to see everything of vital interest to them.

Henry Ford's Industrialized barn, where he shows how the farmer may, at low cost, raise soy beans, obtain the residue and process it himself, making industrial products for which he can obtain a profitable revenue, is one of the new exhibits. Another is the International Harvester company's radio-controlled tractor, which demonstrates how farming may be done from an easy chair on the veranda. Model farm homes will attract many rural sightseers, as will the exhibits of the great packing plants and the automobile manufacturers.

The Brook Hill Dairy farm, with its model farm of 1930, shows the last word in modern milk production, from cow to bottle. The International Egg Laying contest is a huge laboratory where the farmer may study the latest egg-production methods first-hand. Scores of commercial exhibitors will have displays of prime interest to Farm-Week visitors.

Special Rates Lower Cost. Special railroad and bus rates will make it easier for the farmer to get to the Fair this summer. Automobile agencies and oil stations will give him assistance in highway travel. At the Fair, he will find costs surprisingly low. Restaurants are cheaper, transportation is cheaper, there is plentiful free entertainment and eighty per cent of all the comfort stations are free.

Probably one of the leading attractions for rural visitors will be the foreign villages, so faithful in reproduction of life and scenes in fifteen countries that they offer the equivalent of a tour of the world, right on the Fair grounds.

One of the Prettiest of Frocks Designed for the Little Lady.

PATTERN 9887

Of course she would adore this little frock—no "grownups" love it, too. Its pretty capelet sleeves are cut in one with the yoke, and gathers lend extra fullness to the frock. Bloomers are included with the pattern. Printed or woven cottons would be wise fabrics to use, particularly dimity, lawn, organdie or swiss. Perhaps you've never sewn before—then get to work right now, for this is an ideal beginner's pattern, and there is a complete new illustrated Sew Chart given to you with each pattern. Pattern 9887 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 2 1/2 yards 30-inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE. Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eleventh Street, New York, N. Y.

Brain Working Upside Down Amazes Even Owner.

New York—Private. William W. Lord, who has just finished an eight months' course in the quartermaster school at Philadelphia, has been assigned to the quartermaster corps at Mitchel Field, L. I., and his associates there now are discovering why Cornell university wrote to Private Lord two summers ago when he was stationed at Madison Barracks, N. Y., and asked him to bequeath his brain to the Burt G. Wilder brain collection when he died. Having a scientific nature, Private Lord readily complied; he drew up a will leaving his brain to the university, cerebellum, medulla and all. In civilian clothes, Private Lord dropped into the office of the New York Herald Tribune to demonstrate just why his brain was worthy of inclusion in the Burt G. Wilder collection. Plump, pink, perspiring, he sat down at a desk and asked for a pencil and paper. "Now give me the name of a city," he said, "any one at all."

ordered. "And also give me the name of some 'movie.'" Next, a President. Suggestions were offered and, without hesitation, spelling from one direction and writing from the other, the visitor set down: Van Buren. The Hunchback of Notre Dame. "This improves the penmanship," said Private Lord. "Will some one please give me a number in seven digits?" A spectator suggested 5,732,940, and as Private Lord set the figures on paper upside down he commanded: "Now pick a headline out of today's newspaper." "Nation Weighs Recovery Plea of Roosevelt," some one suggested. "Four score and seven years ago," intoned Private Lord. As he recited Private Lord's pencil flew over the paper rapidly, setting down figures and words alternately on separate pieces of paper, all upside down. Long before he came to the end of the Gettysburg Address, Private Lord reversed his pieces of paper and disclosed what he had written. On one appeared "Nation Recovery Plea Weighs of Roosevelt."

As he inscribed the word, upside down and backward, beginning with the letter "o," simultaneously he spelled it out orally from the orthodox angle, beginning with the "B." "Now the name of a President," he

"Life Interesting but Never Easy"

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

© by Western Newspaper Union.

The words of Robert Browning occur to one as he reads of the retirement of Mr. Bernard Baruch from Wall Street. "Grow old along with me! The best of life is yet to be, The last of life, for which the first was made:—Youth shows but half; trust God: see all, nor be afraid!" Mr. Baruch at the age of sixty-four leaves the haunts of the greatest financial center in the world intent upon giving his entire time to writing. Having selected a quiet site for an office away from the noise and tumult of the frenzied financial district, he plans to write three books, "An Autobiography of an American Boy," "The Future of America," and "A Treatise on the Conquest of Nature." While this seems to be a very pretentious undertaking, he states that he will do all the writing himself and not employ expert writers to do the work. These books promise to be a guide as well as a stimulant to American youth. In a press dispatch, which quotes a personal interview with the distinguished financier, he says: "Life has been always interesting, but never easy."

Just so. Where life is easy and there are no hard problems to solve or serious risks to run, it scarcely can be called interesting. What gives zest to life and makes us feel that it is worth while are the seemingly insurmountable obstacles that meet us in the path of daily toil.

Retirement from an active life without very definite objects of service to which one may retire is seldom a wise course of action. Many a person loses all interest in life itself after the usual activities of a lifetime have been abandoned. Nothing is more interesting than to see a man or woman, past the three-score years and ten, busily engaged upon a piece of work which challenges all their strength. They truly know the joy of living. Many persons dream of the day when they shall have nothing to do. They imagine it to be a state of paradise, when actual experience has proven the contrary. People with nothing to do are always miserable. We do not envy Mr. Baruch his retirement but we do envy his creative ability in having something very definite and interesting upon which he may devote his energy the remainder of his days.

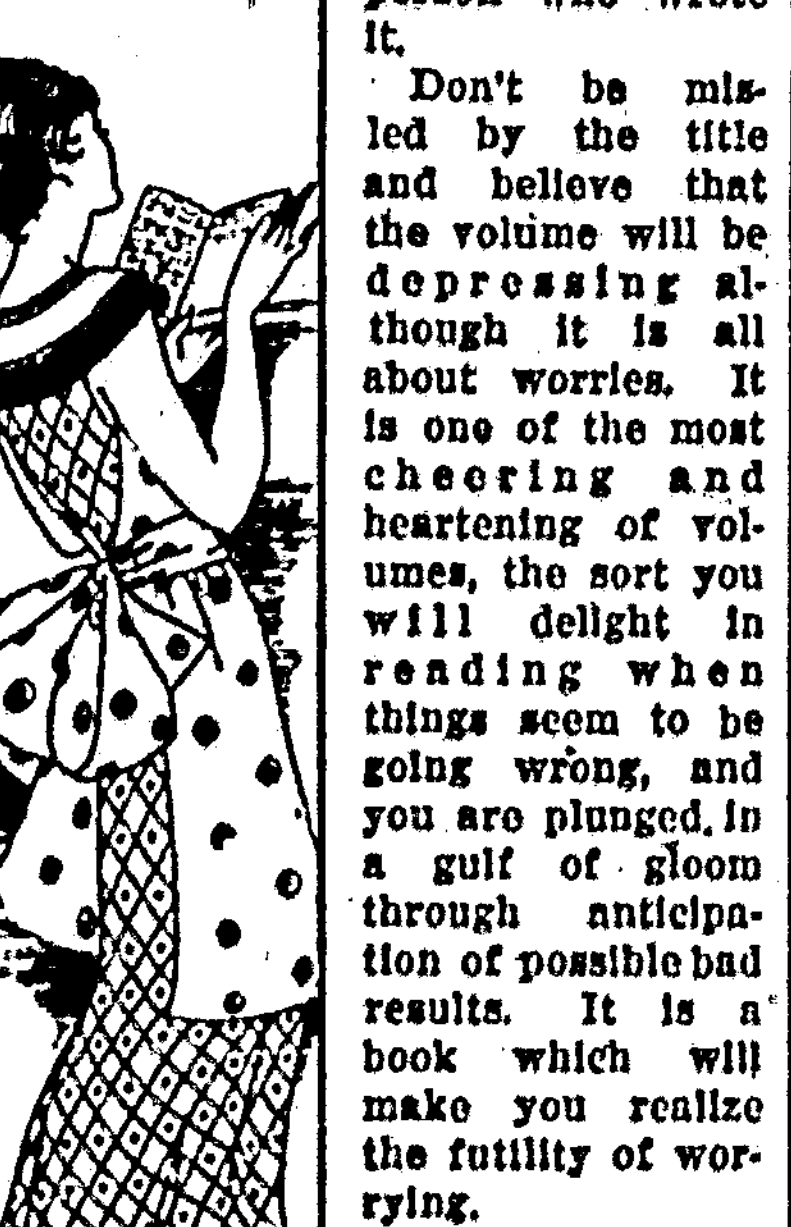

Mild Winter in Oregon May Be Costly to State

Salem, Ore.—Oregon is paying the penalty for too mild a winter. Complete absence of frost in many sections of the state, which permitted flowers to bloom and vegetation to remain green all winter, also left alive millions of embryo insects which otherwise would have been killed. In parts of eastern Oregon the grasshopper plague was reported to be the worst in many seasons. West of the Cascade mountains the Heenan fly, never serious before, was cutting great inroads into the grain yield.

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

EVERY woman can be a writer of at least one book. It has the same title whoever writes it, and that is "The Worry Book." Despite the one title, each volume will be entirely different from any other. It will prove interesting reading to the author and to any of her friends whom she permits to read it. I heard of it just today, and how such a book proved invaluable to the person who wrote it.

Don't be misled by the title and believe that the volume will be depressing although it is all about worries. It is one of the most cheering and heartening of volumes, the sort you will delight in reading when things seem to be going wrong, and you are plunged in a gulf of gloom through anticipation of possible bad results. It is a book which will make you realize the futility of worrying. Since the book is such an antidote to depression and you can have it by spending just a few moments a day writing, why not start it immediately? The only equipment is a blank book, pen, and ink or a pencil. It seems a pity not to start the volume—if you have a worry, that is the subject matter. Here is the best way to begin. With pen in hand and the blank book open before you, think what you are worrying about, and jot it down. Put the book away after dating what you have written. The next time you have something to worry about, write it in the book and date it. Keep on setting down what you are worrying about. Write just as briefly as you can. And don't bother to read over what you have written previously.

Read and See What Happened.

Some weeks later when you have the opportunity and feel especially inclined to believe something will go wrong, open the book and read what you wrote first. Probably you will have forgotten all about the subject of the first worry. Refresh your memory. Keep on reading, for you will be interested to note how few of the things came to pass. You probably laid awake nights worrying over them. You may have been about sick worrying—and then nothing happened!

The effect of worrying is disastrous to nerves and health and to happiness most of all. By keeping the worry book and reading it occasionally we discover how foolish it is to make ourselves miserable apprehending troubles which never happen. The worry book is suggested as an efficient remedy for this misery.

Piece Patchwork.

Piece-patchwork has all the fascination of a picture puzzle developed in textiles instead of cardboard bits. It is just the thing to work on during the summer weather since it is light to handle, easy to sew, and can be made in squares, stripes, or sections of small proportions. Many small articles can be fashioned for summer time use such as chair seats for quaint old-time furniture, cushions for sofas, porches, and garden chairs, benches, gliders, hammocks, etc., and large and small bags for all sorts of uses. Attractive utility bags are made of patchwork with frames covered with a piece of one of the textiles, and handles formed of braided strips of the different textiles in the patches.

Polo for Cowboys Replaces the Rodeo

Dodge City, Kan.—The polo-playing cowboy is replacing the he-man, straight-shooting cowhand of the fiction cowland.

In the prairie country, where cowboys formerly were chosen because they could nail a coyote at 100 yards, with a .40, marksmanship doesn't count unless it is with a polo mallet. The disappearance of the hero in chaps for the wearer of the open-necked shirt and spiffy pants who packs a Lou Gehring eye for the polo ball is due to the rivalry that has come between ranches over polo cups.

The ranchers have just discovered their cow ponies may be trained for first-rate polo performance and polo matches between ranches have replaced the rodeo.

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—Unless all signs fall there is going to be a determined stand by many of the country's business interests for a limitation on the provisions of the national industrial recovery act when that question comes up for congressional action next January or February.

Fight for Limit on NRA
The job the five-man board has to do, if it remains as a successor to General Johnson, is to go through the codes with a fine-toothed comb and eliminate all of the questionable and useless provisions. My opinion is, if this were done, there would be much less opposition to the codes and consequently to continuation of the industrial recovery act.

The prevalent thought in Washington, then, is that as a result of the annoying features contained in the codes, the administration is likely to pull hard to revise as many of them as possible before next winter. Much of this work obviously will have to be done before election and such political effect as may be will be reaped in the ballot boxes.

Invalid Perks Up
It always has been true that an invalid who is convalescing passes through a stage on the way to recovery where he develops a genuine grouch. Everything hits him wrongly. Food is not right and medicines are no good, and a thousand and one other things furnish grounds for complaint. This condition nearly always precedes the time when the patient gets out of bed and takes a few steps again.

The circumstance to which I have referred is such a common occurrence that it seems to me there is no better illustration of the condition in which American business now is represented to be. It is highly significant. In the first instance, it shows, according to the experts, that business has enough new life blood to start fighting back against administration plans and policies that cramp its style, and, secondly, vigorous opposition never has failed to be a healthy thing for the country as a whole.

From the information I get in many quarters, it is yet too early to tell whether commerce and industry is going to be a unit in any one course of its opposition. The strictly recovery phases of the New Deal are not going to be attacked, even by the Republican national committee. That question apparently is settled. But business interests apparently and quite logically are distinguishing between recovery and reform. Take the legislation that created the commission for control of security sales and pooling the stock exchanges, as an example. I frankly do not see how the Republican leadership or business interests can expect to get far in criticism of that, even if it is solely a reform proposition. On the other hand, business interests can and will attack such projects as the government manufacture and sale of electric power in open competition with private plants, such as is taking place under the experiment in the Tennessee valley.

Not the least of the problems that are arising out of the work so speedily done in creating NRA and other recovery agencies are the horde of legal questions now on the horizon. One of these stands out. It relates to the rights of citizens after they have signed the codes of fair practice, and legal lights tell me it runs straight back to a base in the Constitution of the United States.

Legal Questions
It is an old legal maxim that after a person has accepted benefits from a statute or regulation, which means a voluntary action, that person may not be heard to question the validity of the provision from which those benefits accrued. Now, business men signed the codes under what NRA lawyers claim was a voluntary act. Having done that, it is claimed they cannot test the constitutionality of the law or regulations (or the codes) written under that law.

It seems, however, that there is a difference of opinion between the lawyers of NRA and the lawyers at the Department of Justice. Many lawyers outside of the government are understood to be gathering up all of the pieces of argument they can find respecting the positions of the two governmental groups.

As I understand it, lawyers representing code signers have put forth the argument that the signing was not a voluntary action. They contend that throughout the making of codes, General Johnson and his aides consistently stressed the point that unless those to whom the code was to apply, agreed the administrator would write a code for them and they would be bound by it. I never heard it used as a threat, but it nevertheless is a fact that most of those who had dealings with the NRA were afraid they would suffer from the licensing of their plants if they failed to sign the codes.

recovery naturally brought many provisions of a worthless character. Many times, it has been shown, those provisions have very nearly upset the good that was obviously going to result from fair practice agreements.

The job the five-man board has to do, if it remains as a successor to General Johnson, is to go through the codes with a fine-toothed comb and eliminate all of the questionable and useless provisions. My opinion is, if this were done, there would be much less opposition to the codes and consequently to continuation of the industrial recovery act.

Loyalty of Women to Each Other Questioned

"What do you think of those two sisters fighting a duel over a man? Do you think any man is worth it? It annoys me to think that women can be such fools. You never heard of two brothers fighting each other to death over a woman, even if they happened to care for the same woman."

This was in reference to two sisters in Mexico City who fought a knife duel over a man.

It all happened at a party where the convivial spirit and probably a good deal of alcoholic spirits led a girl to express her love for her sister's sweetheart. Her sister challenged her, with the proposition, according to the news reports, that the victor get the man. Upon which they retired to the kitchen and fought desperately with knives until both fell from loss of blood.

An unsavory subject, but having it thus brought to her attention, a famous woman writer deals with it in this manner:

"The case of these Mexican sisters, of course, hardly merits discussion. But my reader's offer of it is worth while for its suggestion of whether women will give up more than men in blood ties or friendship when two care for the same member of the opposite sex.

"In life as well as in the stories of the great romances, we find examples of reannihilation on the part of women no less than men when two who care for each other have loved the same man. So when it comes to such emotional triangles where real feeling is involved among people of character, one cannot generalize.

"But in the less deep and vital interplay between men and women, do women acquit themselves as well as men? I have in mind the complaint of a middle-aged woman that a girl whom she had assisted with many kindnesses did not hesitate, when she entered her home, to carry on a flirtation with her husband. I have heard many times from women the accusation that if women want to attract a man, and that sometimes for no deeper reason than vanity, they completely disregard the friendship or respect of another woman. On the other hand, it is pretty generally conceded that no matter how attractive a man may find a woman, if he knows beforehand that another man with whom he has ties of friendship is involved, he naturally folds his tent.

"Is it possible that women can fairly be accused of having less decency and self-respect, to say nothing of loyalty? It would be a distasteful thought to entertain."

Experiment With Honey as Source of Vinegar

Chemists of the United States Department of Agriculture are now experimenting with the production of vinegar from honey. This transformation of the sweet to the sour may be accomplished by fermentation, as has long been known.

The present studies are directed to finding just which of the honeys not in strong demand for table use are desirable as sources of vinegar, and the best methods of fermentation to produce a vinegar of such exceptional quality that it would command a premium on the market sufficient to make it profitable to use honey for the purpose. Unless some of the aroma of the honey can be carried over into the vinegar to give it a desirable "bouquet" and make the honey vinegar a table delicacy the process would not be profitable because there are other and cheaper sources of vinegar.

Stamps, Like Currency, May Not Be Reproduced

The printing in any publication of an illustration of a United States postage stamp is prohibited by law, says the Washington Post. In the press, however, as well as in stamp catalogues, are found illustrations showing a small portion of a stamp, a part of a bottom or top scroll, or portion of some lettering or even figures. These, of course, do not reproduce any real part of the stamp.

Many collectors have in their possession, however, stamp catalogues of foreign publications that illustrate the United States stamps. These are purchased outside the country.

While a reproduction of a United States stamp cannot appear in any paper or catalogue, it is lawful to reproduce foreign stamps, providing that each stamp so produced if the illustration has a small white line running across the stamp. This answers a query as to why all foreign stamps that are shown in the press are "spoiled" by the white line.

The albums and stamp catalogues that are printed in Europe show the United States stamp in full illustration in scores of instances.

The NEW Firestone CENTURY PROGRESS TIRE

Ten Million People HELPED TO BUILD THE TIRE SENSATION of '34!

Beyond Comparison in Quality, Construction, Appearance and Price With Any First Quality Tire Made

THE way to create a TIRE SENSATION is to give the people what they want, and Firestone has done this with the new Firestone Century Progress Tire.

As millions of people visited the Firestone-Factory at the World's Fair last year, we asked this question—"What do you value most in a tire?" They answered—"Give us Blowout Protection, Non-Skid Safety, and Long Wear, at a moderate price." This was a big order, but Firestone has a habit of giving car owners what they want when they want it.

We knew there was only one way to build Quality and Value into a tire at a moderate price, and that was by volume production. We built the greatest tire ever made to sell at these low prices. Car owners are profiting because we found out what they wanted and found the way to give it to them.

The new Firestone Century Progress Tire IS EQUAL OR SUPERIOR to any first quality tire built, regardless of name, brand, by whom manufactured, or at what price offered for sale.
