Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Frame entertained the Bridge Club Friday evening in their lovely home. Gregg won high score for the guests and Ted Hefren for the members. Yellow nasturtiums were used to complete the tables, napkins and refreshments in carrying out the Halloween motif.

The Woman's Club met at the Johnson Hotel Saturday afternoon with Miss Mary Crawford as hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Belknap, with roll call of some memory verse. The Club Library was led by the president and followed by the Lord's Prayer. The business session was quite lengthy, as the new year books were discussed and partly planned. It was decided to invite Prof. Bright to the next meeting for the purpose of discussing with him the matter of planting trees and beautifying the school yard. The club also voted to help with the purchasing of a pen for Mrs. Atwood. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served to a good attendance by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Johnson.

Prof. Bright attended the football game at Carrizozo Saturday.

Mrs. Walter Silvers was brought to her mother's home, Mrs. Straley, Monday afternoon from the Johnson Hospital where she has been quite ill. Mrs. Silver's home is at Duran.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lamb of Gran Quivira were guests of the Hightowers Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Storey were called to Oklahoma last week on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Storey's mother.

Hugh Storey is working at Roberts' filling station, taking Mr. Wingo's place.

Mrs. Jack Pruett's mother, who resides in El Paso, is visiting her this week.

School Notes

The Lincoln County Board of Education is happy to announce that the San Jose Training School of Albuquerque allowed the board to send two cadets to their school for the first three months' term which began on Oct. 1. Miss Dorothy Arnold of Oscura and Miss Hazel Luck of Alto were selected to go and Mrs. Maude F. Eshom and Miss Gracie Luck as their respective substitutes.

Last school year, the enrollment of the rural schools amounted to over 1,850 pupils, of which 193 belonged to the now independent school district of Hondo and Alamo. This year, the enrollment of the rural schools, excluding the now independent school district of Hondo and Alamo, amounts to an approximate 1730 or an increase of 78 pupils, and a promise of more as school goes on. There has especially been an increased enrollment in Encinosa, Jicarilla, Bluewater, Arabela, Ruidoso, San Patricio, Stetson, etc.

Because of this increased enrollment, extra busses have been allowed at Joneta, Jicarilla, Asperos, Erwin, Bluewater, Ara-

NOGAL NOTES

Mrs. F. W. Skinner was an El Paso shopper Tuesday.

Miss Euna Sloan visited in Nogal Saturday afternoon.

There was a Democratic meeting in the Nogal postoffice building Wednesday afternoon.

Mmes. J. Cochran and Floy Skinner visited Mrs. Cox at Fort Stanton Wednesday.

Douglas Hardcastle of Roswell is here with Floyd Smith for two weeks.

Mrs. C. Hust returned to her home in Alamogordo Thursday after a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer McDaniel.

Coe-Myers

Miss Verda Edith Coe, Tularosa and Everett (Dink) Myers of White Oaks were quietly married Sunday, Oct. 14, at the Methodist parsonage. Rev. Johnson officiating. Those present were Mrs. C. W. Coe, Evelyn, Norma and Harold Coe of Tularosa, Mmes. Cook, Wells, Hunt, sons Gene and Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Messrs. Anderson, Ben Leslie and Starkey, all of White Oaks.

The bride graduated from the Tularosa High School in 1931; is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wells of White Oaks and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Coe of Glencoe; also a niece to Judge Albert Wells of Uvalde, Texas, and Major Wells, U. S. Army, Fort Wayne, Indiana. Miss Coe was active in all club work in Tularosa and will be quite an addition to White Oaks society.

The groom is a young man of integrity and uprightness and is admired by all his associates. He came here from Louisiana several years ago with his mother and brother Tommy, and has been associated with the New Mexico Light & Power Co. for years.

Their many friends in Carrizozo, White Oaks and Tularosa join in wishing them the best of everything.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rolland spent the major portion of last week visiting their son, Walter LaFleur, daughter Margie and their families in Roswell.

The Burke Carnival came in Monday, and Wednesday night it opened for business. The show is good, clean and furnishes amusement alike for grown-ups and the kiddies. They will remain over the County Fair.

Mrs. O. J. Snow and children arrived here today from Lubbock, Texas, where they are now residing and where the children are attending school. They will remain over the week-end.

bela and an emergency bus at Stetson.

Through the districts furnishing the materials, and the FERA furnishing the labor, each rural school of the county is being partly repaired and rejuvenated. It is hoped that this work can be continued until same is finally completed, and the board and FERA workers are exerting every possible effort to see that they will be financially able to do so.

Springtime and Autumn

On Thursday, Oct. 11, a dual birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hoffman, northeast of town. Mr. Hoffman's age was 86 and his little granddaughter, Mildred Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoffman, had reached the age of three. An old fashioned chicken dinner was served and in the center of the table were two birthday cakes, one of which carried three candles for Mildred Louise, while the other belonging to grandpa, had the two figures, 86. Mr. Hoffman offered as an excuse for the absence of his candles, that on account of the power plant being out of commission, all the candles in Carrizozo had been sold. Springtime and autumn, joined by other members of the families made merry with games and other forms of amusement.

Attend the Al G. Barnes Circus at Roswell Saturday, Oct. 20

Mrs. Jimmy Lee of the Carrizozo Eating House has returned from a pleasant visit with former schoolmates and old friends in Emporia, Kansas.

The New Mexico Light & Power Company is working its force of men day and night to recover from its recent misfortune and we are assured of light and power within a week from now.

Ole Wettermark, night clerk at the Eating House attended the funeral of his nephew in El Paso this week.

Inclement weather prevented there being a larger crowd, but those present had a grand time.

Music and dancing were much enjoyed the three nights, especially Saturday night when an immense gathering was present. The visitors pronounced the Country Club House the best in the southwest.

The Republican Rally

The Republican Rally and Dance sponsored by the Young People's Republican Club at Baca's Hall last night, went off with a bang in a true Republican style. An immense gathering of people from Carrizozo, Captain, Nogal, Lincoln, Hondo, Arabela, White Oaks, Rabenton and other towns over the county, made merry until the hour of one o'clock. About 10 o'clock, a number of our county candidates, namely, John Brady, A. B. Moss, D. N. (Nels) Bonnell, Johnny Mackey and Granville Richardson arrived from Picocho, where they held a meeting earlier in the evening, and as each was introduced by Chairman Don English, they took the stand and made short talks to their attentive listeners. Old timer Nels Bonnell pulled off his coat and the good-natured assemblage, sensing that a big fight was in the brewing, cleared the center of the floor and held their breath. Los Rancheros burst out with "Turkey in the Straw" and Nels gave us an exhibition of a jig dance as ever was witnessed in Lincoln County for several years.

Lee White of Dalhart was in Carrizozo Monday enroute to Carrizozo.

Bonnie Frank Hodge has returned to Carrizozo.

SYNOPSIS

Jim Wall, young cowboy from Wyoming, seeks a new field in Utah. He meets Hank Hays, who tells him he is working for an Englishman, Herrick, who has located a big ranch in the mountains. Hays and others are plotting to steal their employer's cattle and money. With Hays and two other riders, Jim Wall goes to Herrick's ranch. Hays unfolds his plan for getting possession of Herrick's 12,000 head of live stock. He and his first-aid sidekick go to drive off the first bunch of cattle. Herrick, Hays' rival among the cattle rustlers, tells Wall that Hays was once his (Herrick's) partner and double-crossed him. Jim is sent to meet Miss Herrick. Hays betrays unusual interest in the girl. The rustlers begin driving out the money. Wall finds himself almost falling in love with Helen, and he fears Hays has designs on the girl. Jim comes her in riding western style, and finally kisses her. She is angry and dismisses him, but returns and asks him to leave the ranch. Hays' men begin driving out the money. A quick getaway is imperative. Hays tells his men to go so ahead, that he will join them at a certain canyon. He comes, with Helen Herrick—a captive.

CHAPTER VII

"Look! Riders comin'!" exclaimed Brad Lerner.

"Can't be nobody but Hank!"

Jim leaped off the rock, crawling down behind the watching man, starting them. "Smoky, it's Hays. I saw him a mile off."

"Why didn't you say something, then?" roared Skookum gruffly.

"I was too embarrassed," replied Jim coolly, as he joined them.

"He's Hank all right," said Mac.

"Where, I see him now. That's Hank!"

"Who that embarrassed you?" demanded Skookum.

"Three riders," choked Jim.

"What? So I see. What you make of them?" ejaculated Skookum.

The three emerged clearly from behind the cedars. A thick silence reigned. Jim at last got the tigerish nerves under control. His thoughts were wandering.

"Humph! Little rider to between," commented Lerner.

"That's Sparrowhawk behind."

"Who's the third party?"

"Hank there is a queer duck talkin' up with strangers like he does."

"Somebody with a mask on?"

"An' a long stirrer."

"Pellera" rasped out Skookum, "that's a woman with a veil!"

Jim thought the comment had come. "Hank has double-crossed me. He's stolen Herrick's cattle!"

Hank Hays led the two followers to within a few feet of the cluster of riders. Jim's light gray suit glared back the three in their darkened horca, and Hank took to faster upon Miss Herrick. Her features were not visible through the veil. The three cut at the wear and tear of riding boots and overalls.

"Well, you're all here but Jed," began Hays.

"Jed'll be comin' by now," replied Skookum. "What you ain't fer?"

"I make of the three riders?"

"I make it you've fetched Herrick's cattle."

"You're a bright boy."

"Hank Hays, after all you double-crossed me," roared Skookum. "You're a liar. You're a cheat. You think you can drag us in on a deal like this. I thought you acted powerful queer. So it was this girl you tricked us fer!"

Jim Wall strode forward and said, his swift action scenically significant.

"Hays, your lip's up. She goes back!"

"Wait a minute," the robber replied, sternly. "Smile or quit, if you want. I fetched this girl for ransom. She come willin', cause if she hadn't I'd killed Herrick. He'd pay twenty-five, maybe fifty thousand for her."

A dirty grin: "Hays, you're a jimmy liar. You didn't steal this girl for ransom," he called out, fiercely. Then, turning to the dejected figure on the gray horse: "Miss Herrick, is he telling the truth?"

"Yes, he stole me for ransom," she replied, with emotion. "They broke into my room—one through the window, the other at the door. They threatened me with guns. . . . If I screamed they'd kill me! If I didn't come with them they'd kill my brother!"

"We tied Herrick up before we got the girl," said Hays. "An' after, we made him promise to pay handsome. An'—"

"That's enough," snapped Jim, "Give me a man or two. We'll take her back and get the money."

"Hold on. That was something I had in mind," drawled Hays. "But it don't work. I had to kill Prepar. An'—"

"Who's Prepar?"

"Well, he's Herrick's right-hand man. Now it happened that fork Herrick was planning the same trick I pulled. Prepar an' another fellow fetched us talkin' the girl out. The other fellow got away."

"That's what this ever!" screamed Skookum. "Herrick will find out!"

"Hick, I should make in particular that he will. We seen his outfit on your trail!"

"Set up! Horses comin'!"

The ensuing rush was guided by Skookum's ringing order. "Hold on! He's left!"

An opening in the grove showed Skookum's party upon them.

"Herrick's outfit trailin' on," he announced. "Back about five miles when I left my post!"

"Follow, grab your rifles an' take to cover," yelled Skookum.

Hays paid a dive for his horse and, mounting, leaped over to take up a rope halter round the neck of the horse Miss Herrick was riding.

"You had—to me," she cried, angrily. "You kissed me that if I'd come without resistance you'd soon arrange for my freedom. Here we are miles from Star ranch."

Hays paid not the slightest attention to her, but started off, leading her horse.

"Jim Wall, are you going to permit this outrage?"

"To powerful, Miss Herrick," he replied, hurriedly. "If Herrick catches us you'll be worse off."

The leader headed down the slope, dragging Miss Herrick's horse. Jim could hear the girl's protestations. The other riders made haste to line the pack horses. Smoky brought up the rear.

No doubt about Hays knowing his way! He rode as one familiar with this red clay and gray gravel canyon. The pack horses kicked up a dust like a red cloud.

Jim kept nervously working ahead until there were only three pack horses in front of him, and he could see Hays and the girl at intervals.

Hays pulled back for his riders to hurry. He pointed to the left wall as if any moment their pursuers might appear there.

The next sign from Smoky was a ride about. Jim spotted something dark along the rim, high up and far back out of range, if it were a power.

"Herrick," Skookum yelled. "I seen riders. They looked back. They'll aim to head us off!"

Hays bowed back an order and pointed ahead.

Skookum's riders popped up view back on the point of an interesting canyon. Hays and Lerner opened fire with their revolvers. The riders began to return the fire with rifles. Jim saw Lerner knocked off his horse, but he leaped up and counted again. Apparently not badly injured, he raced ahead after Hays, who rode fast, dragging the girl horse and at the same time showing at the riders could be passed around a corner of the canyon. Lerner soon disappeared after him. Then the riders above turned their attention to the rest of Hays' outfit.

Jim had a quarter of a mile to ride to pass the corner ahead to safety. The pack horses were scattered, tearing up the canyon. Jim galloped to them. They had begun to shoot.

One of his first shots hit a horse, and the seventh connected with a rider, who plumped like a crippled rabbit back out of sight. The others of Herrick's outfit took alarm, deduced here and there to flee, or ran back. Jim felt the magnitude of his ride just before he passed round into the zone of safety.

Jim looked back to a halt, and soon the pack horses galloped by every pack riding well. "Herrick dashed into sight firing, closely followed by Mac, Happy Jack and Jed, all with guns smoking. And lastly came Skookum, backed on his face.

"Jest backed," pointed Skookum. "Lead yer goods—on! side on!"

Around the next two they came upon Hays and his two riders. With another big intervening canyon on the right, it looked as if they pursuers were held up.

Deeper and deeper grew the canyon. Mid-afternoon found the fast-tives entering a less restricted area, where sunlight and open ahead attended to the vicinity of a wider canyon, surely the Dirty Devil. And so it proved.

Hays waited for his riders and the pack animals to reach him.

"Hank, air you aimin' for that rooster you always give us a bunch about but cover produced?" asked Skookum.

"I've waited it on, Smoky, fer jest some such deal as this."

Jim, over the back of his horse, watched Miss Herrick. She was riding and her head drooped.

The robber took up her halter and, straddling his horse, he spurred into the muddy stream. He led into the middle of the river and then turned downstream.

An hour later, he turned into a crack that could not be seen a hundred yards back, and when Jim reached it he was amazed to see the robber leading up another narrow gorge, down which ran another swift, narrow stream. Jim appreciated that a man would have had to know where this entrance was, or he could never have found it. The opening was hidden by a point of wall which curved out and around.

This gash wound like a snake into the bowels of the colored, cragging limestone. Presently they reached a bottom from which wild, black, bold walls stood up, ragged of rim against the sky.

"Hays, air," called out Hays. "Hurry we air, an' packs. Let the horses go. No fear of horses ever leavin' this place."

Jim's night-vision eyes discerned Hays lifting Miss Herrick off her horse and half-carrying her up toward the rustling cottonwoods. Jim, making pretense of leading his horse, followed until Hays stopped at the border of what appeared a round grove of cottonwoods impenetrable to the sight.

"Oh, for G-d's sake—let go of me!" gasped the girl, and sank down on the grass.

"You may as well get used to this," replied Hays, in a low voice. "Do you want anything to eat?"

"Water—only water. I'm—choking!"

"I'll fetch some, an' a bed for you." Little did Hays realize, as he strode back to the horses that Jim stood there to the gloom, a dimming light on his gun and hand for head on his heart. Jim knew he meant to kill Hays. Why not now? But as before he had the signally and the will to resist a terrible craving.

With nerveless hands he unpacked his outfit. Then he sat down upon his bed roll, extracted, and gazed around him. The place fascinated. An owl hooted down somewhere in the canyon, and far away a wolf bayed bloodthirstily.

Soon a crackle of fire turned Jim to see a growing light, and dark forms of men. Jim waited until he saw Hays go to the camp fire, and then he, too, joined the men.

"What kind of a roost is it, Hank? Anything like the Dragon canyon?"

"No. I seen that place once. It's a cave high up—forty feet maybe, from the canyon bed. Only one outlet to that burrow, an' that's by the same way you come. This roost has four. We could never be tracked in a hundred years."

"Hank, how'd the lady stand the ride?"

"She's all in."

"Gosh, no wonder. That was a job fer her!"

"Herrick'll get up the little test fer my lady good?"

"Hank, how air you gosh' to collect that ransom now?" inquired Lerner.

"I reckon. Herrick shore spotted my plan."

Jim watched the robber chief whisper to the wounded Lerner. While he was talking the wound Jim stole away in the darkness toward where the chief had left his prisoner.

It was dark as pitch toward the grove of cottonwoods, but Jim located gray objects against the black grass. He stole closer.

"Where are you, Miss Herrick?" he called in a tense whisper. "It's Jim Wall!"

He heard a sound made by boots scraping on canvas. Peering sharply he finally located her sitting up on a half-crushed bed, and he dropped on one knee. Her eyes appeared miraculously large and black in her white face.

"Oh, you must be careful. He said he'd about any man who came near me," she whispered.

"He wouldn't be could. But he'll cover me, Miss Herrick." Jim whispered back. "I want to tell you I'll get you out of this some way or other. Keep up your courage. Fight him—!"

"I felt you'd—save me," she interrupted, her soft voice breaking. "Oh, if I had only intended to you!" But I wasn't afraid. I left both my jaw and windows open. That's how they got in. I ordered them out. But he made that Sparrowhawk point a gun at me. He looked me out of bed—throwing me on the floor. I was half-stunned. Then he ordered me to dress to ride."

"Keep your nerve," intoned Jim, with a backward glance toward the camp fire. "But I'll not desire you. Hank Hays is capable of anything. His men are loyal. Except me. For with them, though I don't belong to the outfit, I could kill him any time, but I'd have to fight the real. The odds are too great. I'd never save you that way. You must help me play for time—all opportunity offers."

"I trust you—I'll do as you say. . . . Oh, thank you!"

"You said he called you?" went on Jim, with another look back at camp. Hays was standing back.

"Yes. I had four thousand pounds in American currency. The Sparrowhawk man found it—also my jewelry. . . . Another thing which worries me, he made me pack a bundle of clothes, my toilet articles—"

"Ah, but where was Herrick all this while?"

"They said they had tied him up in the living room."

"How much money did Herrick have on hand?"

"I don't know, but considerable."

"It is a good bet he robbed your brother, too. That's make this ransom deal look fishy, even if there were nothing else."

"There! He is coming. Go—got you are my only hope."

Without a look Jim rose to glide away along the grove. He realized that when Hank Hays stole this girl from her home he had broken the law of his land, he had betrayed them, he had doomed himself. No matter what loyalty they felt for Hays, the woman would change it. Her presence alone meant disruption and death.

Morning disclosed an remarkable place as Jim had ever seen. Below him the little gray tent Hays had raised for his captive had been pitched against the grove of cottonwoods, which occupied a terrace. One half of the tent stood considerably higher than the other, which fact indicated rather a steep bank running through the middle of the grove. The luxuriant jungle of vines, ferns, ferns, mosses and grass on that bank was eloquent of water.

The dry summer was favorable for the growth of the young turkeys, Swift said. Few of them caught colds to which, he said, they are very susceptible. The turkey season opens on October 16 and continues through to November 15.

Efforts now are being made to get the federal government interested in the text question for New Mexico school children, especially Indian students. The change of texts, or text book adoption as it is known, which occurs every six years, results in some difficulties, it was pointed out, since some families have been handing books down from one child to another, but when the texts are changed by a new adoption, then this course cannot be followed.

Five business establishments recently to the ground at Taos, N. M., recently in another of the series of disastrous fires that have hit this picturesque little New Mexico town during the last few months. Damage was estimated at between $20,000 to $25,000 in this fire, which was on the northeast corner of the Plaza, diagonally across from the Don Fernando hotel, which burned to the ground some months ago. A previous fire destroyed the court house and a number of other buildings on another side of the Plaza.

On the Funny Side

ICE TO THE ESKIMOS

Voice over phone—Are you the Mackey-blank-blank sales manager who sent that salesman to my office to sell your blankety—

Blankety Manager—Yes, yes, but, my dear man, why—?

Voice—Well, I gave orders to all of my staff to admit no one to my private office, and your man was so persistent that they were forced to get a gun—

Sales Manager—My goodness, man, they didn't shoot him, did they?

Voice—No, but my bookkeeper wants his gun back—Niagara Falls Herald.

HAS FISHITIS

"You say your husband is very nervous?"

"Yes, he shakes like a jellyfish."

Seemed Like a Good Idea

"I hear you installed a gasoline pump in front of your store," said he to the local grocer.

"Yes, and what a dumb ox I was!" exclaimed the grocer.

"Why dumb?" he asked.

"Because," replied the grocer, "none of the people who owe me money for food has the nerve to come to my place and pay cash for gas while adding to his grocery bill."

Promoter

Two college girls were having lunch together.

"My dear," said one, "why do you always call your mother 'the mother'?"

"Because," answered the other girl, "she managed to find husbands for all my seven sisters."

Answer

Teacher—Can anyone tell me the meaning of the word collation? No one knows? Well, it is when two things come together unexpectedly. Now, can anyone give me an example?

Johnny—Twins!

An Observant Child

"Mamma, I must have a new dress for my doll."

"Why, Cora?"

"Cause I quarreled with her, and now that we've made up I must give her a new dress."

Seeking Sedition

The Walter—Yes'm. Double portion boiled dinner, two dozen corn on the cob, French pastry, ice cream, an' pot tea. Anything more, lady?

The Pump Person—Yes. You may get a screen around my table.

That Won't Prove Anything

Glenn—Was your uncle's mind vigorous and sane up to the last?

Herald—I don't know. The will won't be read until tomorrow.

BAD ENOUGH

"Anything serious at your house? I saw the doctor call every day this week."

"Serious? I should say so, he called to collect a bill."

Difficult Indeed

"And how are you getting on, Mrs. Mumble?"

"Not too well, Mrs. Grumble. My poor husband has had a paralytic stroke and we are having a time making both ends meet."

No Sign of a Breakdown

Disgusted Harriet—How much longer do you expect me to go on supporting you?

Sam—Well, father, you know you are in the pink of condition.

Safe

"Hard work never killed anybody," said the father.

"That's just the trouble, Dad," returned the son. "I want to engage in something that has the spice of danger in it."

Their Worry

"Able, have you done anything about that blackhead letter?"

"Oh, ain't I, though? I insured it over to my insurance company. They got $20,000 tied up in me—let them worry."

Cape Ensemble That Has Chic

PATTERN 1827

Twice as much chic—that's the fashion secret of this cape ensemble. On the street, one likes a wrap of some sort, and a snappy detachable cape will do the trick! When removed, there's a truly smart frock so that you can study its chic lines. The raglan sleeves have an inverted pleat for added interest, the neckline is cut square and is finished with a crisp bow pulled through slashet. Pleats lend delightful animation to the skirt. Print or monochrome would be good—in case of the

TOO WELL QUALIFIED

Congressman—Want a job, eh? What can you do?

Constituent—Nothing!

Congressman—Sorry, but those high-salaried jobs are all taken long ago! You must wait for a vacancy.

—Brooklyn Eagle.

Trouble

Flatfoot—My son might have been President of the United States.

Fresman—What happened to prevent it?

Flatfoot—He got married and his wife wouldn't let him go into politics.

—Pathfinder Magazine.

No Friend of Lady Luck

Blicks—So you think you are about as unlucky as a man can be?

Jinks—Say, if I paid for insurance on my house for thirty years without ever having a fire and decided to let the darn policy lapse the place would burn up two minutes after the policy had expired.

Swagger Furs Will Attend Game

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN REGARD to the swagger, swanky sports furs which will attend the football games, here's the newest of fashion notes—a seven-eighths brown lapin coat with a lighter brown suede skirt. Fancy what a sensation in spectator row such a novel and stunning combination will create. Before telling further exciting news about football modes, we would like to stop long enough to say that suede is a new enthusiasm not only among sports fans but the loveliest of evening gowns are being made of this novel media. One such recently created in Paris for a leading American film star is of suede in that seductive "dusty pink" which is so flattering to most complexions.

To continue with more football fashion thrills, registering high in the list is the suit that uses eel gray lapin for a swagger coat which takes out itself a skirt, scarf and belt (across front only) of wool knit in the new pine green which is so widely acclaimed this season. Other refreshingly out-of-the-ordinary sports style items include huge fur pockets, tiny fur cuffs, tuxedo revers of fur, the fur waist-depth cape, which is very important, also detachable fur vestices which keep you extra warm, high winds or no high winds.

Which all goes to show that the new football and otherwise sports furs are making novelty their big appeal this season.

For breath-taking novelty we clothe the new suits which are fashioned of tweed in a tapestry effect (very new) that blends blue, red, purple, green and brown in indefinite stripes. Add a broad scarf collar and big pockets of brown caracul and go where you will you will sight nothing more eye-filling in the way of a sports spectator costume.

The girl in the picture to the left has selected a perfectly stunning fur-trimmed suit to accent her appearance on the grandstand. This model is as dressy as it is sporty, and therefore can be properly worn most anywhere in the daytime. Its tuxedo revers of fur stamp it as being one of the newest of the new, for the fur-rever styling is "just out." A muff, too! Just as soon as the "frost is on the pumpkin," knowing fashionables will begin to carry muffs this season. All sorts of muffs with wool muffs in the lead, also the new accordion muffs so long and narrow, they crinkle up like the instrument they are named for. The muff here shown is a compromise between the two. The wide fur cuffs and the generously cut sleeves are also important style features.

The handsome coat centered in the group is one that will quicken the pulse of any style-loving young modern. The large rolling collar and wide cuffs of dark gray Persian lamb are wonderfully effective against the lighter gray of the kidskin which fashions the coat. The dress of a plaid woolen in gay Mexican colors with green predominating and the felt hat in the new pine green is a perfect foil to the plaid gray of the fur.

A very wearable type of fur coat is shown to the right, being of a soft brown summer ermine which makes it comfortable in the early not-too-cool autumn days. The pelts have been worked diagonally in the rippled loose back. The hat is devastating. One glance at it and the wearer, and the conquering football hero will no longer be master of his fate. It is of the new Robin Hood type which flaunts a gay little feather—the sort that flirts with you whether you will or no.

IN TONES OF GREEN

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Green is, exceedingly voguish this fall. The costume pictured in of one of the newest ribbed woolen weaves in the much-sought-for pine-green which is so really handsome. This smart young modern has brought her dark green costume right up to date with her bag, belt and glove cuffs crocheted of green and sand crepe paper. Whatever colors you may have chosen for your fall costume, you will be able to find the right shades of crepe paper for crocheting matching or harmonizing accessories, for there are fifty shades to choose from, including black and white. Crepe paper crochet has become quite an outstanding vogue. The work is easy and the material inexpensive. The accessory ensemble pictured is crocheted in a particularly simple stitch so that even the amateur need not hesitate to undertake it.

Fur Hats

Fur should be used on suits with the collar making a bit down the front, thus causing attention and warding off pneumonia at the same time.

GLOVES STAND OUT BOLDLY THIS FALL

Gloves go gay. Never have they been so pert and full of individuality as they are today.

Gloves of the present, and those in a formative state for the fingers of 1935, no longer resignedly fit in with the costume so that one notices them only as a part of the whole. They stand out boldly from the ensemble, flaunting their merit independent of their background. Their duty now is to strike a dominant note in the ensemble either by their color or cut or other oddment.

Evening gowns are now accompanied by gloves with a vast amount of open work on the arm, occasionally cut-steel beading, and sometimes by shirring, tucking or otherwise copying some novel feature of the gown.

Monograms Are Used on Coat Lapel or as Buttons

Everyone smart is giving her right name this fall season, according to fashion shows. Coat lapels and dress fastenings feature monograms sometimes a half-foot deep, in leather, metal, wood, and even marble. Using one's own initials in leather for buttons on sports jackets is the trick of the day.

Real flower jewelry is still popular with one large house, whose collection featured a necklace, earrings and even a ring made of pale pink dahlias.

White chrysanthemums are replacing gardenias and camellias as boutonnières and corsage flowers.

Artificial flowers are equally good, with copper gardenias stunning off new smoky-toned fabrics. In one instance six calla lilies were snuggly twined as a girdle on an evening gown.

More Slashed Details

Slashed details are becoming more and more prevalent in dinner and evening dresses, posed not only just at the front but also appearing at side-front and back seams.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

Lesson for October 21

THE CHRISTIAN AT PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 3:14-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer, Romans 12:12.
PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Pray.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Prayer Jesus Taught His Disciples.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Learning How to Pray.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Prayer as Fellowship With God.

I. False Prayer (vv. 5, 7-8).
1. Praying to be seen and heard of men (v. 5). To go through the act of praying with such an object is to play the hypocrite. In praying, the soul is dealing with God; therefore, to engage in it to attract men's attention is blasphemy. Many of the prayers uttered in the public sanctuary are false, for there is more consideration given to what the people think than to what God thinks. Men who thus pray get a reward, but not from God.

2. Using vain repetitions (vv. 7, 8). This does not mean that we should ask but once for the thing desired, for we have examples of Christ and Paul praying three times for the same thing (Matt. 26:39-40; 2 Cor. 12:7, 8), but rather it means the use of meaning less repetitions, their repetitions being empty sounds. To thus pray is heathenish. The heathen nations in their worship of idols engage in senseless babble, an example of which we see in the priests of Baal on Mount Carmel (I Kings 18:20).

II. True Prayer (v. 9).
Since true prayer is a definite transaction of the soul with God, the communion of the human personality with the divine personality, we should have a real desire for fellowship with God and then go to meet Him in secret.

Life for its fullest development needs both solitude and companionship. Solitude alone makes one morose, while constant companionship makes one shallow. God who made us know what our natures required, therefore he commands both public and private prayer (Heb. 10:25; Matt. 6:6). We should have our closest prayers, when all the world, its cares and pleasures, is shut out, and we are shut in with God. We should also meet with God's children to pray.

III. A Model Prayer (vv. 9-15).
This was given in response to the disciples' request that the Lord would teach them to pray (Luke 11:1). It is not, therefore, strictly the Lord's prayer, but the model prayer for the disciples. It involves:

1. A right relationship (v. 9). One must be in such relationship as to be able to say "Our Father." Only those who have become children of God by faith in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:26) can pray aright.

2. A right attitude (vv. 9, 10). "Hallowed be thy name." When one realizes that he has been delivered from the power of darkness and translated into the kingdom of his dear Son (Col. 1:13) by being made a child of God, he cannot help pouring out his soul in gratitude and praise, intensely longing for the kingdom—that is, the righteous rule of Christ on the earth.

3. A right spirit (vv. 11-13).
a. That of trust which looks to God for the supply of daily bread. We are dependent upon him for our daily food. With all man's boasted progress, he cannot make a harvest.

b. That of love which results in forgiveness of others. God will not listen to the prayers of the one who has an unforgiving spirit.

c. That of holiness which moves one to pray not to be led into temptation. Such a one longs to be delivered from the Evil One.

IV. Paul's Prayer for the Ephesians (Eph. 3:14-21).
1. To whom made (vv. 14, 15). It was to the Father of the Lord Jesus Christ.

2. For what he prayed (vv. 16-19).
a. For the strengthening of the inner man by the Holy Spirit (v. 16).
b. For Christ's indwelling (v. 17). The human personality needs the quickening of the Spirit in order that it might be a fit place for Christ to dwell.

c. That they might be rooted and grounded in love (v. 17). The only way that real love can flow from the human heart is through Christ's indwelling.

d. The apprehension of Christ's love (vv. 18, 19). This love, in its depth, breadth, width, and height, transcends human understanding.
3. The triumphant assurance that this will be realized (vv. 20, 21). This realization, which is beyond human ability to even think, is to be accomplished by the indwelling of the Holy Spirit.

What We Live For

We may say what we will, and profess what we will, that which we live for determines who we are and what we are. "For me to live is Christ," cried St. Paul. As other men live for gain or pleasure, the Christian is meant to be a man who lives for Christ.

Trouble Within

Today I have got out of all trouble, or rather I have cast out all trouble, for it was not outside, but within and in my opinions.—Marcus Aurelius.

Economy in Wise Use of Dye Pot

Renovating Fall Draperies Comparatively Easy Procedure.

In the season of renewing fall draperies for winter use not all pocketbooks permit of indulging in purchase of new goods. If the draperies are sound, but faded, the problem is not too difficult. Change can be effected by use of the dye pot, even if not in the hands of an expert. Or a cheap fabric in white can be bought and colored.

To dye fabrics an even shade is not a matter to be dismissed lightly, if the goods are to bear the close scrutiny which is accorded to dress materials. But curtains, partly because they hang in folds, and partly because the light behind them helps to distribute the color, can be successful to a greater degree in amateur hands.

Soap dyes do not demand the washing of the material beforehand, but it is not a bad rule to follow, with all dyes, that material dyes better when clean, or at least relieved of its greatest burden of dust. A plunger, such as is used in washing blankets, is recommended. A wooden spoon or stick for stirring the goods in the dye pot is needed.

Excellent instructions are to be found on the packages of dyes, but there are others, more personal which come only from the experienced. Wear an old dress, and a pair of stockings that can't be harmed. Dye is sure to splash on them. If your shoes are good, wear rubbers, as they, too, will get marked in transferring the newly dyed fabric from pot to line, or wash tub to pot. Dip and dry a piece of the fabric before dipping the article. Have the right kind of dye for your goods.

Curtains, if somewhat streaked, are not beyond use, but if they come out actually different shades their beauty is doubtful. To avoid this mishap get this feature of dyeing clearly in mind. A solution becomes weaker with every article dyed in it. Naturally the goods takes up the dye, and any moisture in goods diminishes the strength of the dye. Make a larger quantity of dye than is to be used on the first pair or first two pair of curtains. Measure it, so many cups to the gallon, and throw away the weakened dye solution after the first lot is dipped. Mix the next quantity in the same proportion and use the same number of curtains.

Be sure to give the dyed curtains clear line space. Have nothing near them they can mark. Dry them opened up, not folded over the line, iron while damp. This process is called "refreshing." One woman known to the writer re-dips her living room draperies a dark rich brown every year. She makes no work of it at all.

Spray Gun New Weapon for Enforcers of Law

Tear gas or a smoke screen, or both, may be discharged to quell riots or to subdue barricaded criminals by policemen equipped with a new weapon resembling a paint spray gun, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Two tanks, one containing gas compressed to a liquid and the other a liquid that turns into a smoke-like gas when released into the air, are carried on the policeman's back. By turning a valve on the gun, the operator may prepare to discharge either gas or a combination of the two.

When the trigger is pressed, the gas is projected several feet in a volume 300 times that of the liquid in the tanks. Flexible metal tubes connect the gun to the tanks. The operator is protected by a gas mask. The smoke gas may be used to confuse criminals or rioters, as well as to shield a police squad from the eyes of gunmen, while the tear gas is held in reserve in the event of continued resistance.

The gas may be directed through the keyhole, under the door or through a hole bored by a pistol bullet through the door of a criminal's hideout. In several respects, the gas gun is superior to the gas bomb, which occasionally fails to explode and which cannot be directed with as great accuracy.

New Leningrad

Plans for a new Leningrad, which will have a population of 5,000,000, are being made. The architectural planning section of the Leningrad Soviet is drawing up a scheme for re-planning the city. The new Leningrad will stretch on both sides of the Neva, from Lake Ladoga to the Gulf of Finland over a distance of 40 miles.

RECORDS WHITE WASHED

When John Vacko, headman of Lhots, Czechoslovakia, returned home he found that the walls of his room had been whitewashed by his wife, so he beat her. John told the judge the local council meets in the room, and to save paper, he had written the minutes on the walls. His wife's act caused the loss of an entire year's records.

For good digestion

—there is nothing that can take the place of your own gastric, digestive secretions. Frequently, poor digestion is due to lack of tone in the stomach walls—because of low blood strength. S.S.S., the great, scientifically-tested medicine, is specially designed to fill a two-fold purpose in this respect... it aids in stimulating the flow of natural stomach secretions... and by building up deficient red corpuscles, with their hemo-globin, it restores to a more normal functioning the secretions of the stomach digestive juices... so necessary for good digestion. This double value of S.S.S. is important.

By all means try S.S.S. for better health and more happiness. Its benefits are progressive... accumulative... and enduring. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food and good digestion... sound sleep... and renewed strength. This is why many say "S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again."

Do not be blinded by the efforts of a few unethical dealers who may suggest substitutes. You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

In excavating for a place to barbecue beef for a Democratic rally at Silver City, workmen unearthed an ancient burial ground. The skeletons are well preserved and this should give the Democrats an idea. Dress them up and vote them at the coming election on absentee ballots.

As a forcible argument, the Democratic candidates who were here last week, reminded the people that the reason they were Democrats was that their fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers were Democrats. Then, after one candidate did a nut-brown job of butchering the King's English, they pleaded for a straight Democratic ticket. Wonderful!

The recent accusation that the newspapers of this state are owned by Senator Cutting, has been branded as a low down campaign lie by most publications and the remainder will follow. Most of us would be glad to have somebody own our papers so they might find out how much fun it is to operate a country newspaper. The Outlook pleads guilty to NOT being owned by any individual other than the one mentioned on the mast head of this paper. Only ward politicians of the lowest type resort to such infamous lies, which will make votes for the Republican ticket.

People of Carrizozo with the lightless nights since the power plant burned, are willing to admit that the situation destroys the argument that we should return to the good old days of the tallow candle and ox cart.

Postmaster General Faley has wired his best wishes to Dennis "Chavoy" and offers his support, which in other words we take to mean that another appropriation will be made for "public works," and the barrel opened for Democratic campaign purposes in New Mexico.

We have yet to hear from any campaign parties including the nudist colonies in their itineraries.

The speeches made by Mayor Tingley are the same, night after night, according to those who have heard him at different places. He is evidently trying to "ape" Gen. Johnson, late of the NRA - he even uses ugly cuss words and hard-boiled accusations.

There should be a big turn-out next Monday night at the big Republican rally. The speakers will be Oliver Lee, Cyrus McCormick, Jose Armijo, and Caswell Neal.

Works on Serum to Prevent Pneumonia

Noted Immunologist Hopes to Be Successful.

Philadelphia.—A serum for the prevention of one of mankind's most dangerous ailments—pneumonia—is the new objective of Dr. John A. Kolmer, noted immunologist, who has just discovered what he declares to be the world's first successful vaccine against infantile paralysis.

The energetic scientist, who heads the medical staff of Temple university here, made this disclosure after describing the unusual experiments which resulted in devising the anti-paralysis vaccine.

He said: "At present I am attempting to procure a serum for the prevention of pneumonia."

"I hope to be successful with it in the course of time."

The famed immunologist declined to disclose details of his new experiments. Instead, he preferred to discuss the research work he has already done on the successful anti-paralysis serum which he injected into his own veins and those of a laboratory assistant.

Preventative Measure.

Doctor Kolmer stressed the fact that the vaccine is entirely a preventative measure and is in no way a cure for poliomyelitis after infection sets in.

The scientist explained he is now ready to attack the problem of curative treatment of the disease. Doctor Kolmer said his interest was aroused

Finds New Element

Dr. Aristid von Grosse, visiting assistant professor at the University of Chicago, has accomplished isolation of the rare metal, protactinium, a feat comparable to the purification of radium by the Curies. Valued at $1,000,000 an ounce, a tenth gram of the new metal, attached to a fine tungsten thread, was exhibited to fellow chemists at the convention of the American Chemical society in Cleveland by the twenty-nine-year-old scientist.

In the problem of finding a satisfactory vaccine by the "infantile paralysis" epidemic of three years ago in Philadelphia and environs.

Professor Kolmer announced: "In the near future I intend to vaccinate my own two sons with my serum."

Both Doctor Kolmer and his assistant, attractive Anna M. Rule, risked their lives in order to demonstrate the success of the new vaccine. The vaccine contains the virus of the deadly poliomyelitis, which is the medical term for infantile paralysis.

Said Doctor Kolmer: "I am convinced that the vaccine is entirely successful."

"Neither of us suffered any ill effects from the injections."

"Miss Rule volunteered to submit to the injections of the serum and displayed the highest courage in the face of possible death."

"The vaccine is available now to ward off any possible epidemics of acute anterior poliomyelitis that may be lurking in the future."

Vaccine From Spine.

The successful vaccine is prepared from the spinal cord of monkeys that have developed the disease after the injection of the poliomyelitis virus into the brain under ether anesthesia. The spinal cord of one monkey, incidentally, will furnish about seven ounces of vaccine, sufficient for the vaccination of about 50 children.

The vaccine containing the virus is treated with a chemical substance derived from castor beans called sodium ricinoleate. The presence of the sodium ricinoleate does not completely kill the virus, but effects a change that renders the serum safe for injections into monkeys and human beings.

The discoverer of anti-paralysis vaccine lives in suburban Cynwood. He is married and has two children. He was born in Lonaconing, Md., in 1896.

Franklin Was First Postal Inspector

St. Louis.—Benjamin Franklin, printer, inventor, writer and diplomat, was also the country's first post office inspector, according to W. L. Noah, post office inspector in charge of the St. Louis area. In one of a series of talks by post office officials here, Noah said it has been fairly well established that Franklin was made inspector after his term as postmaster at Philadelphia.

PERSONAL LIQUIDITY

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

In these days of economic uncertainty the wise man sets his house in order. Waiting until a crisis arrives before planning for its possible occurrence has many times met with disastrous results. The man most likely to succeed is the one who is always prepared to embrace an opportunity.

Such preparation requires years of education and training. Who ever heard of a man waiting until a job turned up before he got himself prepared to take it? By the time he had completed that preparation some other person would doubtless have spent years in successful work at that particular task. Does it not seem strange that so few persons prepare for emergencies or opportunities? When caught unawares in a financial difficulty we need sufficient reserve strength to weather the storm.

He Keeps the Cup

Frederick J. Perry, British tennis champion, won the American singles title for the second straight year at Forest Hills, N. Y. He is seen above with the trophy which Wilmer Allison of Texas failed to take away from him.

There is a liquidity of moral and intellectual resources as well as financial. We emphasize the latter, but too frequently forget the former.

Liquidity of moral values means a reserve power ready to meet any moral crisis. Thus fortified no person can be caught off guard. No temptation can assail one greater than he can bear. Many persons convicted of crime have confessed that had they taken time to think the matter over, the crime would not have been committed. No crime is instantly born. It is the result of a long series of temptations each one stronger than the previous attack; without proper restraining power. With sufficient financial liquidity a bank can successfully withstand any "run." Its reserves enable it to weather the storm. The man with sufficient moral liquidity is not likely to go wrong.

There is also a liquidity of spiritual forces which needs serious consideration these days. Life is uncertain at best. Not only may the rich man of today become the poor man of tomorrow, but the most healthy man of today may be "absent" from us tomorrow.

We set our house in order by preparing for the inevitable in the form of adequate life insurance and other means with which to meet the financial problem. What do we do about the moral and spiritual?

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

The House Was of Quaint Cape Cod Architecture.

SUITING the furniture to the architectural style of the house or the house to the furniture is of vast importance if you expect a pleasing consistency. The former way is the usual one, but there are instances where persons have specific types of furniture, either by inheritance or through collection, and they need it suitably housed. Then the dwelling is built or bought to suit the furniture. When a residence is of no definite architectural style, or the furniture or furnishings either, there may be charming harmony in decoration without stressing any feature particularly. But when a house is in Spanish architecture, or Italian, or Colonial—either Georgian or Southern French colonial—or a Cape Cod farmhouse, then suiting house and furniture for consistency should be stressed.

It is well to bear this in mind, since, however delightful either the inside decoration is or the architectural style of the house, one is aware of something radically wrong when they do not agree. I remember visiting one house which was on Cape Cod, and was one of its charming farmhouses. To discover, on entering, a galleried living room in modern French treatment made one almost gasp, though the room in itself was very inviting.

Too Much Variety.

I remember another town house, one in a brick row. The owner was giving individuality to each room by having it decorated in a period, at variance with the others. There was a French salon effect in the front room, a Georgian treatment of the next, and a Dutch paneled decoration in the dining room beyond. You looked from one room into the other and were impressed with the inconsistency.

Another residence comes to mind. The owner and his wife had been collecting early American furniture and furnishings for several years prior to building. The wife had even made handsome patchwork quilts, some of silk and some of the cotton goods of her discarded frocks and those of her youngsters. When the house was built and furnished there was about it a satisfying consistency and a comfortable restfulness which such harmony induces.

LIGHTNING DANGERS

It is no more dangerous to be near a church steeple than elsewhere when lightning is flashing. Steeples are hit frequently but they are usually protected by metal roofs adequately grounded.

If driving a car when a lightning storm breaks, seek shelter. One is usually safe in a steel body car, but other factors make driving hazardous.

There is no reason for the practice of keeping cows out of a barn during a lightning storm. The belief that their warm bodies attract lightning is based on superstition. Warm bodies have no greater attraction for electricity than cold bodies.

The belief that if cows are milked during a thunderstorm the milk will turn sour is also without foundation. Souring of milk is caused by a specific bacteria, the growth of which is fostered by warmth. If lightning were responsible for the souring of milk, it would be as likely to take place inside the cow as outside.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons? The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right dose of a liquid laxative brings a more natural movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

A properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin brings safe relief from constipation. It gently helps the average person's bowels until nature restores them to regularity. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family-laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given to the youngest child.

Relief Cost Mounts

Washington.—As the federal relief administration looks forward to the winter months when the relief burden obviously is heaviest, Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator, makes public figures showing that the average cost of maintaining a family of four on public relief now is $23.09 a month. He says this figure varies materially from section to section, that it is materially higher in the industrial centers of the South where relief rolls are largest and that, probably, the country may expect a higher average cost during the forthcoming winter.

The statement by Mr. Hopkins becomes exceedingly significant, in the opinion of observers here, especially with reference to the likelihood that there will be an increase in cost this winter. It reflects two things. First, the administration's drive to bring about increased prices through crop limitation or crop destruction or any of the several methods employed not only is adding to the burden of those with limited buying power but it is compelling Uncle Sam and the states and counties and charitable organizations everywhere to pay an added price to keep people from starving. Secondly, the Hopkins statement gives more than an intimation of how many additions to the relief rolls there may be as a result of refusal of some people to accept any kind of job. It has been known many months that relief rolls carry a certain percentage of individuals who amount to the same thing as parasites, but the mounting cost both in the average and in the total figures are being examined by many experts with the thought in mind that considerable waste is in prospect.

The relief administration has been attempting to make surveys of relief rolls in many jurisdictions. The results in some of the cases have been quite disturbing to those in the government who are wholly desirous of lending help wherever help is necessary but who obviously are unwilling to see government funds drained off to care for individuals who are refusing to help themselves. How far this condition is going, none can foretell; nor can anyone at this time say accurately how extensive has become the list of those who regard relief rolls as their rightful meal ticket.

Some of the political leaders have become alarmed because, having knowledge of the dole system in England and in some of the other European countries, they know how hard it is to separate individuals from relief after those individuals have lost the pride and morale which causes people to support themselves. Hearings before congressional committees last winter disclosed in numerous cities how some people had declined to do the odd jobs created under the "make work" campaigns for the unemployed and had preferred to make their semi-weekly trips to the relief stores. At that time there were relief advocates of the sterner type who insisted that the number of such unemployed was very small and that it would not increase. Relief administration figures, however, seem to show that the contrary is true and that wherever they may be there is a certain number of the unemployed who will remain attached to the government relief roll until that roll is absolutely liquidated.

I have heard several members of congress express the opinion that this phase of the relief problem is really the most difficult of the whole structure.

Difficult Problem

They want to see the government spend all of the money that is necessary to keep people from starving but they are beginning to demand that some way be found by which the sheep may be separated from the goats and properly fed.

Here in Washington a taste of the condition mentioned above has been exposed as the result of complaints by a taxpayers' organization. The taxpayers' group declared that its investigators had found many unemployed appearing at relief headquarters driving their own automobiles, they thought it was paradoxical that a man could afford to maintain his automobile and could not maintain his family. Relief authorities in the local offices denied these charges. The relief experts said some of the destitute were being transported to relief headquarters in the cars of friends, but despite the denials there seemed to have been some fire in all of the smoke.

Whatever the facts in the National Capital situation may have been, the condition itself nevertheless is attracting attention for the reason that some of the soft-hearted individuals who usually do more talking than anything else have risen to the defense of those who called for their doles in their motor cars.

too, of what may happen should the parasitic element be separated from its meal ticket. With winter coming on radicals can make a fine case out of a refusal by relief managers to feed this or that "starving family." I have even heard suggestions that the coming winter may see some riots of a character more severe than anything we have yet known. But if they do come it seems to be agreed they will not be due entirely to lack of food but to agitation on the part of some of those who have desires only to wreck our present structure of government.

New Deal Up to High Court

With the return for the winter session of the Supreme Court of the United States, New Dealers as well as old dealers may have some ground for belief that questions respecting their acts in the last year soon will be answered. In this country, we have always looked to the courts as the last resort to tell us when our legislative bodies as well as executive officers of our governments, state or national, have gone beyond bounds. All through the summer there has been the mounting demand for judicial construction of New Deal acts. It appears we are about to get them in numbers from the highest court in the land. There are sufficient petitions before the Supreme court to provide a rather accurate delimitation of the New Deal scope in its constitutional aspects.

Expert legal opinion here seems to lean toward substantiation of most of the New Deal activities by the high court. But at the same time some of the best legal minds in the country are maintaining that while part of the New Deal props look good, they are outside of what has hitherto been regarded as constitutional acts on the part of government and so the consensus is that there will be many five-to-four decisions forthcoming from the Supreme court before it lays aside its robes next spring.

As the Supreme court now is constituted, I think it is generally regarded as leaning to the conservative side. While the court is not supposed to be influenced by economic phases, the economy of the New Deal is so entwined with law that many astute observers tell me there can be no segregation of those two elements when it comes to ruling on constitutional phases of the New Deal. The best available figures show that the government has instituted about 140 cases charging violation of NRA codes. It has won about 37 of these, and has lost about 15 of those coming to a decision. Private litigants have brought action against the NRA in 20 cases and the government has won 20 of these.

Similarly, there have been something like 20 cases in the courts involving Agricultural Adjustment administration rules and regulations. Of those that have gone through to a decision the government has won seven and lost three.

While it must be remembered that only a small percentage of these cases represent clear-cut issues, the box score certainly indicates the New Deal to be the winner thus far. But as said above, the lower court decisions mean next to nothing on questions of such import as these; none of the litigants will stop short of a final decision by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Wisconsin Politics

A situation somewhat unique in American politics is developing in Wisconsin where the LaFollette brothers are undertaking to continue the family dynasty by marching under the banner of a new organization, the progressive party. It is all being done very quietly but the facts seep through the national political headquarters here in Washington.

The regular Republican organization sees an opportunity to "knock off" the LaFollette by throwing their support to John M. Callahan, the Democratic candidate for the senate. Apparently they have little or no hope of electing their own senatorial candidate, the Wisconsin publisher, John B. Chapelle, who ended the political career of former Senator John J. Blaine in the primaries of 1932.

Corn in Silo Best Way to Save Feed

Warn Farmers to Conserve All Green Crops for Winter Use.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service.
An acre of corn in the silo will winter 50 per cent more cattle than the same acre fed as fodder, according to recent tests by the Missouri agricultural experiment station. The silo saves leaves, prevents other wastes and makes the feed more palatable.

There never has been a year when it was more essential that farmers in all parts of the country should make the best use of every bit of feed on the farm, says A. T. Semple of the United States Department of Agriculture.
All kinds of green crops, such as corn, oats, other cereals, sorgo, grain sorghums, corn and pea cannery refuse, apple pomace, grasses and legumes ordinarily cut for hay, sunflowers and other edible weeds including Russian thistles, may be made into silage suitable for live stock feeding, says Mr. Semple. Watery products, such as cull potatoes, apple culls, and beet tops, should be mixed with straw, stover or some dry roughage to improve the quality of silage. Crops which have become mature in the field, such as corn fodder, may be made into fairly good silage by adding enough water to at least equal the weight of the dry material. This prevents much of the waste incident to leaving corn stalks standing in the field. Corn—erlen when it is well shocked—loses much more of its nutritive value than it would if made into silage. During the process of silage making, under good conditions, corn should lose less than 5 per cent of its dry matter.

In case of mature corn, it is usually advisable to remove at least the best of the ears, if the silage is to be used principally for the maintenance of cattle. But if the silage is to be fed to milking cows, or to beef cattle for gains, it saves labor to leave the ears in the silage. Mature corn in the silage—also improves palatability. Larger quantities of the stover silage than of silage containing the ears are necessary for maintenance.
In most cases, it is advisable to add one pound of some protein concentrate to a full feed of silage for each 1,000 pounds of cattle being maintained. In the case of silage consisting of one-third or more legumes, a supplemental protein feed is not necessary.

Drouth Proves Value of New Milo Variety

Plant breeders who are trying to develop disease-resistant strains of milo had an unusual experience in connection with the drouth at the dry-land experiment station which the United States Department of Agriculture maintains near Dalhart in the Texas Panhandle. The bureau of plant industry has at the Dalhart station fields that have been cropped continuously to milo in order to keep up a maximum infection with the soil-borne milo disease. This enables them to plant new varieties of milo and subject them immediately to as severe a test as any milo would ever meet.

For several years the infection has killed most of the plants while they were young. This year the milo breeders planted a resistant strain developed at the Garden City (Kan.) station which lived in spite of the disease in the soil. All around this field, crops were severely injured by drouth, but this milo remained green and vigorous. The scientists account for this in two ways: The variety is evidently resistant to the disease under the most severe drouth. So few plants were able to survive on these plots in previous years that they did not exhaust the moisture, and plants on these plots are now using this accumulated moisture.

New Wheat Variety

The Manitoba agricultural college reports the production of many new varieties of rust resistant wheat. Further tests for milling and commercial qualities are now being made, before the findings are published. An agricultural college test which brings a material benefit to the farmers is the fact that barley has been found to be as nutritive in the feeding of poultry as the imported corn hitherto considered essential.

Russia is conducting experiments with soybeans with a view to making them a major food product for the masses.

More than 200,000 trees in 22 counties along the Texas gulf were destroyed in a campaign to eradicate citrus canker.

Nearly 130,000,000 pounds of tobacco were grown in China last year, breaking all production records for the weed in that country.

Sixty-five per cent of the meat offered for human food comes under federal inspection. Inspection is limited to those establishments engaged in interstate or foreign trade.

Crochet Motif for Bedspread

A bedspread in crochet is a work of art, attracts attention and frequently becomes an heirloom. A spread crocheted in one piece becomes cumbersome as the work progresses. How much simpler to crochet one motif at a time and then assemble the motifs to complete spread. Watch your work grow when it can be taken along with you to social gatherings.

The above illustration represents the "Snow Flake" motif and how it shows up when put together. This motif when made of carpet warp measures six inches. Thirty-two motifs can be made from one pound of warp. This is only one of the 29 motifs shown in our book No. 27 on motif bedspreads. These motifs can also be used to make match sets for bedrooms: curtains, pillows, chair-backs, scarfs, etc.

Write our crochet department enclosing 15c for this book No. 27, illustrated, with instructions, or send 25c and receive also book No. 26, with 72 edgings and insertions in crochet for all purposes.

Daily Tasks for Wife and Mother

Few Women Will Look Upon Household Duties as "Monotonous."

"Women are best suited for monotonous jobs."
That heading to a news dispatch sent several of our readers up in arms. "Best suited indeed. What they mean is that women did the monotonous work that was put upon them—as long as they could not help themselves," writes one of the friends whom we heard from before.

The basis for it all was the publication of a report of a British sociologist, that women adapt themselves to monotonous work with greater success than men, that they can best bring themselves to the daily performance of monotonous work without losing their interest in life.
It is true enough that women have for centuries done uncomplainingly the work that was their duty, though it was not always the work they would have chosen. The reference is of course to the monotonous grind of housework, the job of home and children. But it seems to me that that is not all there is to it.

The question is, are household tasks as monotonous to the wife and mother as they seem? Are the routine chores involved always as uninspired and uninspiring as they may seem to one who looks upon them coldly and impersonally?

The setting of rights of the little home, the preparation of the meal the family will enjoy—are these duties trying to a woman of imagination? For my part I should say the more imagination, the less trying they are. Every job, of course, at some time pale, all work has its good and its less pleasant aspects. Duties which in themselves might be pleasurable become a strain when multiplied beyond the capacity of a single person to cope with them. But if the demands upon her are within reasonable limits, I can very well understand a wife and mother with abundant imagination enjoying the tasks involved in the making of a home and the up-bringing of children. It requires imagination on the part of the observer to feel the joyous thrill in the task of making up a lunch for little Bobby to take to school, to measure the unbounded flights of fancy enjoyed by a mother bent over the apparently monotonous job of making a party dress for her daughter.

Is it that women are suited to monotonous—or that their imagination defeats monotony?

Age 13

Old enough for strong drugs?
It is not wise to give a laxative of adult strength to a child, just because you give it less often or in less amounts.

Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing children can often be traced to this single mistake.

There is a better way to relieve those occasional sluggish spells or constipation in a child of any age:

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

Doctors advise liquid laxatives, and hospitals use the liquid form. Almost any child who has been unwell in the hospital usually comes out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch.

Make the change now to pure, California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you won't risk any more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule and the child is soon normal and happy again.

THE "LIQUID TEST." First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age. Third: reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is the pure California Syrup of Figs; but be sure the word "California" is on the bottle.

THESE JOHNSON GOYS ARE CERTAINLY NICE LITTLE LADS, I ENJOY HAVING THEM AROUND!

THEY SEEM TO THINK A LOT OF YOU, TOO, WHY SHOULDN'T THEY... SINCE YOU SWITCHED TO POSTUM YOU'VE BEEN YOUR OLD LOVABLE SELF AGAIN!

30 DAYS LATER...

TO BE SURE, many people find that coffee does not disagree with them. But others—and there are lots of them—cannot and should not drink it at all. You may be one of these—without realizing it. The caffeine in coffee may be working night and day to rob you of sleep, upset your digestion, or undermine your nervous system.

If you suspect that coffee doesn't agree with you... try Postum instead for 30 days. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It is a delicious drink and contains nothing that can possibly harm you. A product of General Foods.

FREE—To help you get started in your fight against coffee-nerve, let us send you your first week's supply of POSTUM—Free! Fill in and mail the coupon below.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Beltran-Lujan

Last Friday afternoon with Judge Elerdo Chavez performing the ceremony, Jerry Beltran and Miss Juanita Lujan were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Juan Lujan, was reared here and has many friends among the young Spanish-American set.

Jerry is the son of Juan Beltran and was born in Lincoln, but like his wife, was reared in Carrizozo where he has many friends, all of whom are offering congratulations to the young couple. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lucero.

Tom DuBois and Cresencio Mares were business visitors from Corona on Tuesday.

There will be a dance given at Baca's Hall tonight and all are invited. There will be confetti and serpentines. Admission to dancers will be 75c. If you enjoy tonight's dance, be sure to tell your friends and be there again tomorrow night.

Mrs. M. R. Hendrix of the Ancho country was a Carrizozo visitor the early part of the week.

New Mexico Democrats Dodged Farm Issues

Farm Holiday Association Comes Out for Republican ticket after careful checkup on platform of two parties.

(Excerpts from an article by Pres. A. W. Cameron of the Farm Holiday Association, New Mexico division, published in the Roosevelt County Record and the New Mexico Farm Herald at Elida, N. M., Thursday, October 4, 1934)

In careful analysis of the platforms submitted for the consideration of the voters of this state, we find a complete contrast in the two platforms with reference to the agricultural situation in this state.

One of the major demands of the FHA is the passage of the Frazier-Lemke Bill. The Democratic platform is silent on this, one of the most constructive measures for the relief of the farmers and small home owners, now before the Congress. The Republican platform takes a positive stand on this legislation. "We favor the Frazier-Lemke bill and other necessary national legislation proposed by the farmer's organization."

The FHA demands "The repeal of National and Federal Reserve Bank Acts and that Congress exercise as a matter of duty their constitutional right to coin money and regulate the value thereof." The Democratic platform is silent on the subject. The Republican platform declares for the control of credit through the government ownership of the federal reserve system.

The National Farmers' Holiday Association is opposed to war profits in the manufacture of munitions. The Republican platform says: "We favor the control of the manufacture and sale of all munitions of war by the federal government." Democratic platform is silent on this important matter.

The FHA is opposed to the sales tax which is in accord with the expressed attitude of the President of the United States. The Democratic platform declares, "We recommend the present general basic system of taxation and revenue," and does not mention the sales tax directly. The Republican platform takes a positive position in this regard. "We are unalterably opposed to the present sales tax which places upon those least able to bear it, the entire burden of such tax."

The Republicans are in favor of the "graduated net income tax." New Mexico Democrats make no positive declaration on this subject. The FHA has advocated a graduated net income tax since its organization.

On December 18th, 1933, the Farmers' Holiday Association placed on the desk of the Hon. A. W. Hockenull, governor of New Mexico, the following suggested legislation: "A law providing the valuations filed with the corporation commission for purposes of determining rates charged customers by public utilities shall be considered and used as a taxable value thereof." New Mexico Democrats declare: "We reaffirm our oft repeated statement and belief that all property of the corporate, individual or otherwise, should be taxed at its actual value." Republicans declare, "We demand that public utilities return their property for taxation at the same valuation they estimate its value for rate making purposes."

We have been asking for some law that would protect the honest farmer from losing his home, a moratorium. Democrats dodged this issue entirely. Republicans have this to say in their platform: "We favor the passing of a law providing for more lenient redemption conditions for farmers and home owners in financial distress."
