Mrs. Gladys Gardenhire of Capitan visited her mother, Mrs. R. W. Dozier and sister Dorothy here this Wednesday.

Mrs. Doyle Rentfrow entertained the Wednesday Bridge Club this week at the Carrizozo Eating House, who make catering to parties a specialty. Doyle brought Mrs. Rentfrow over from the ranch and they drove home after the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gallacher and small son Bill of their Indian Tank ranch were Carrizozo visitors this Wednesday. They report moisture is needed very much on their range.

Reports from J. Verl Groce, who is still at Hotel Dieu, El Paso, are to the effect that he is doing nicely, gradually gaining strength from his recent illness and will soon be able to come home.

A rabbit hunting party composed of Messrs. Albert Snow, E. M. Brickley, Rolla Ward and A. L. Burke, took in a portion of the lower country near Ocurra last Sunday morning. They returned about noon with all of the fuzzy tribe they needed.

Ted Purcey and Curly Jones put in several days last week transacting some business for Prof. D. U. Groce.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pfingsten were here from their home in Honda this Thursday. Mrs. Pfingsten attending a meeting of the County Board of Education of which body she is a member. While in town, Bert called at the Outlook office and had a pleasant chat with us.

ANCHO ITEMS

The Woman's Club of Ancho met in regular session at the home of Mrs. J. M. Frame Saturday afternoon, Jan. 27. The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Belknap with the secretary Mrs. Pruett present. The Club Litany was read, led by Mrs. Belknap and followed with the Lord's Prayer. Roll call of "An interesting person" was responded by all. Mrs. Hefren gave an audit report of the past three years' work. Mrs. Hightower followed with a resume of the past three years' work. All members were very glad to welcome our past president, Mrs. Kile, home and as out-going president she gave a very inspiring talk. Mrs. Geo. Straley was a guest of the club.

At the close of the business session the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Kile, who was in charge of the study hour. The subject was home-making and Mrs. Frame gave an interesting talk on the essentials of a home which followed with a demonstration by Mesdames Kile and Straley on the correct way to cook and prepare a cream-puff. The social hour was taken up in playing Bunco in which Mrs. Wilson was winner of high score. The hostess, assisted by Mesdames Straley and Hefren, served a lovely plate of chicken salad, bread and butter sandwiches, pickles, cream puffs, coffee and cocoa to the members.

Mrs. C. C. Belknap was hostess Wednesday evening at her home to members of the Ancho Bridge Club. In games of bridge Mr. Bright was awarded high score. At the close of the game the hostess served a delicious salad plate to the following: The Pruetts, Hightowers, Hefrens, Mr. Bright, the Misses Crawford, Mariam Hightower and Florence Hanley.

Saturday night the All-Star basketball team clashed with the Corona town team at Corona. It was an exciting game from start to finish and the final score was 11 to 15 in favor of Corona.

The officers and teachers of the Sunday School were well pleased with the splendid attendance last Sunday. The quarterlies had arrived and were distributed, so Sunday School is now in full swing. Immediately after Sunday School, Rev. Sherman of Roswell delivered a message that was enjoyed by everyone there and we sincerely hope he will be able to meet with us again soon.

Mrs. Pruett, who has been confined to her home with a severe case of tonsillitis, is again able to be out among friends.

Miss Mary Crawford, a local teacher, visited in Corona last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson transacted business in Carrizozo Saturday.

Allen Kile was back shaking hands with friends after an absence of several months which he spent in Douglas, Arizona. Mr. Kile is now in Alamogordo.

Mrs. J. E. Frame and children of Carrizozo visited over the week-end with Mrs. Frame's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peters.

Home Andrew spent the week-end in Carrizozo.

Miss Jane Pruett, formerly of Ancho, was hostess on her 12th birthday Wednesday to about 10 guests. Delightful refreshments were served at the end of the well-arranged affair.

150-Room Pueblo Unearthed At Santa Fe

Santa Fe, Jan. 31.—Tangible proof that the site of Santa Fe was occupied by a large population seven centuries ago lies open to the sky four miles west of the Santa Fe river.

Buried for centuries, an Indian pueblo of probably 150 rooms, three stories high, constructed of puddled adobe clay, has been unearthed after a month's work by W. S. Stalling and Stanley Stubbs of the laboratory of anthropology, assigned by Director J. L. Nusbaum to the first excavation of one of the 12 or 15 Santa Fe pueblos which stood along the valley.

DANCE!

Zack Wheat of the Carrizozo Bakery & Supply Company will give a big dance at Community Hall tomorrow night, Saturday, February 3. Music will be furnished by Bill Mendenhall and his "REVELERS." All are invited to come and have a dandy good time!

Mrs. B. Prior and son Ted Purcey made a business trip to Alamogordo the latter part of last week.

Ginger Charles will spend the week-end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Farley and friends at Alamogordo.

"Pastime Club" for Capitan

Twelve girls met at the home of Mrs. Montie Gardenhire Thursday afternoon at 4:30 for the purpose of organizing a 'Pastime Club.' Mrs. Joe Evans is President and Mrs. Montie Gardenhire is Secretary-Treasurer. Bridge will be played on the 3rd Thursday of each month and on the 4th Thursday, the club will entertain the husbands of the club members.

Dues will be used to erect and operate a tennis court, which will be started soon. After the business meeting, bridge was played, after which, refreshments of whipped cream cake and coffee were served by the hostess.

Mrs. J. L. Gardenhire was the present guest of honor and Mrs. Albert Roberts was made an honorary member of the club. At bridge, Miss Amelia Fritz won high score. The meeting then adjourned to meet next Thursday with Miss Jane Provine.

Attention, Masons!

Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., will hold a Regular Communication Saturday night, Feb. 3, for the purpose of business.

An interesting talk will be made by a Past Master and a good attendance is desired.

All Master Masons are cordially invited.

T. E. Kelley, W. M.
R. E. Lemon, Sec'y.

Funeral Services for Little Jack Meyer

Funeral services for little Jack, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Meyer, who died Sunday, were held Monday afternoon with the Rev. Lawson conducting the same. Mrs. R. R. Gillette sang a touching selection and the pastor preached a short and impressive sermon. The funeral was attended by many friends of the family both here and from Corona, where the Meyer family resides. The schools both at Corona and Carrizozo remained closed for the day. After the services, the remains were conveyed to the local station and shipped to Glasgow, Mo., the old home of the Groce and Meyer families, for interment. The family in general, have the sympathy of our entire community.

Mrs. Louise H. Coe was here last Saturday from her home in San Patricio, attending a meeting of the Re-Employment Board.

LYRIC THEATRE

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(By Helen Strauss)

Friday night there will be a double-header. The Tinnie girls vs. Carrizozo girls, and Honda boys vs. C. H. S. boys. This is going to be a good game and we'd like to see you out. If you can't come Friday night why not come Saturday? We play Capitan here.

We are glad to know that Mr. J. Verl Groce is steadily improving.

Mrs. Alice Jarvis is taking charge of the Commercial Department during the illness of Mr. Groce.

The new boiler has been installed, and we are once again enjoying the comforts of furnace heat.

Because the Junior class is rich in talent you may look forward to something really good in the play that they plan to present late in February.

We recently organized a Girls' Athletic Association in the High School. Members are to be elected and will receive awards upon winning points. The following officers have been elected: Pres., Leslye Cooper; Vice-Pres., Ruth Petty; Sec'y., Helen Strauss; Treas., Ardeene McCammon; Historian, Opal Crenshaw; Basketball, Mary Lewis; Volley Ball, Frances Charles; Baseball, Mary Pickett Warden.

The P. T. A.

The local P. T. A. will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday, Feb. 2, at 8 P. M., High School Auditorium. The subject for the program will be "Founders' Day." The following numbers will be given under the direction of Mrs. Brack Sloan: Piano Solo, Helen Mae Young; Selection, Helen Huppertz; Violin Solo, Mr. D. U. Groce. Everybody invited to attend.

Carroll Johnson of the 7 X ranch near the Malpais, spent Friday and Saturday in Carrizozo visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Johnson and sister Mrs. Lillian Richard here.

To A. P. Alexander, Ramon, N. M. — Many thanks for your appreciated letter. We must have moisture on the range in Lincoln county, otherwise it'll just be too bad.

Word from Chillicothe, Mo., informs us that Ezeldon Dishman of Corona, enrolled Wednesday in the Telegraphy Department of the Chillicothe Business College.

Melvin Franks of Corona, member of the County Board of Commissioners, was here Thursday of this week, and attended the meeting of the Board.

Sat Chavez, Jr., assisted in the First National Bank for a few days this week.

Sheriff A. S. McCamant, who was ill last week, is up and around, we are glad to report.

Miss Louise Pino was here from the ranch last Saturday and attended the dance at the Baca Hall that night.

Harry Straley was a Carrizozo business visitor from the Ancho country the latter part of last week.

Georgia Peckham is employed in the Carrizozo Bakery & Supply Company.

CHAPTER IX

They were in a large room with twin beds. Rocky turned on a light over a dressing table.

"Now, Rocky. Don't you see I've got to be told everything now?"

"In the morning."

"No. Now. Am I what's her name—a girl who shot her husband at a wedding?"

"The words were out. Had she killed someone? And was that the reason Rocky wanted to get her away from places, because if she were caught she would be hanged, electrocuted?"

She sat down in a chair and stared at him. Had she cut off the life of someone killed her own husband? "Oh God," she begged silently. "say it isn't true. I couldn't have done that!"

As Rocky still did not answer she rose and threw open the window. She inhaled deeply. She could breathe—but someone else couldn't because she had

"Rocky, don't you see I've got to know now, or else go crazy?"

Rocky came and stood beside her. "Don't feel so, Doris. You're tired if you get a good night's sleep. I'll well maybe I will tell you about it in the morning."

She turned up a suffering face. "I won't sleep, Rocky. I've got to know now. Tell me the truth. Truly, I can bear it now."

Rocky avoided her eyes. "There's really not much to tell."

"Anything is better than this uncertainty!"

"Perhaps that's true." Rocky gently removed her hand from his grip. He ran his brown fingers through his hair. "Can't you trust me, Sweet?"

Robot! For a moment she felt a lifting of spirits. Rocky's tone was so tender. But then he used words like that all the time to all women. She gave a little laugh that she could think of that now. It was a bitter, sardonic little laugh.

"You can't shut me out from my past forever. Besides," she sat down on the bed. "I'm not a coward." She was silent. Rocky sat down beside her. She took her hand.

"Please wait."

"No, no." She got up. "I can't wait. I have a right to know. If I'll ask Mr. St. Gardens what it's all about. I'll tell him everything I remember. He will tell me. He can't keep me in agony any longer. I can't bear this uncertainty. Anything is better."

She controlled herself. Looked at him gravely. "Did I know? Did I do that awful thing?"

Rocky looked at the carpet miserably. "Do n't, how do I know? I can only guess like everybody else."

"Then it isn't a sure thing?"

"Oh, they think it's sure all right." His lips dropped unhappily. Perhaps you went out of your mind."

"Then it was I did that to Rocky? I can't be a murderer. I didn't kill anyone." Her eyes, haggard and strained, searched his face for an answering faith.

She found it. He looked back at her squarely. "That's the way, I feel about it."

"I couldn't kill anybody."

"I know you couldn't." He patted her head, against his knee. "I've always known that about you."

"Then why—" she turned suddenly to him. "Why is there such a mysterious silence about me? Why were we arrested? Why have we been racing like mad away from New York?" She stared at his quiet face for a terrified second. "I know. I'll ask the police. I'll go to the station. I must find out."

"Wait, don't you see, Doris? I'm only trying to help you."

She stared into his eyes then. Her hand dropped suddenly to her lap. "I did, then. I did kill someone."

Rocky's silence was terrible to her. She drew close to him. "I didn't, Rocky. I didn't. Tell me I didn't. Why, I couldn't have killed anybody, Rocky. I know that about me myself, don't I?" She looked at him pitifully. He took her hand and held it tightly.

After a while he said huskily. "That's the way I feel, Doris. That you couldn't have."

"Please tell me how it happened."

Still Rocky paused. At last, his cheek close to hers, he said slowly. "It's been in all the papers. It happened the day I sailed. So I didn't see much about it until I got back. Then—of course your picture has been everywhere—"

"My picture?"

He nodded. "It's you, all right. I didn't see it until that night you fainted when you saw it. But—you didn't remember when you came to, again—"

She brushed her hair back from her damp brow. "But Rocky, what did what am I supposed to have done?"

Rocky cleared his throat and tried to speak in a matter-of-fact way. "Why, this girl is supposed to have shot her husband with her father's gun and then—"

She could not speak. She had shrunk away from him, covered her face with her hands.

"Then she disappeared," went on Rocky. He leaned over and tried to take her hands. "Must I go on?"

Doris raised her face. "But Rocky, don't you remember I was with my husband in the cab? He was still alive then. Someone else must have shot him afterward. He was awful, Rocky, and I was afraid of him, but you remember, don't you, how I left him? I didn't shoot him."

Rocky's hand pressed nervously over his hot brow. "I think you—perhaps you haven't been well," he stammered.

"You mean," the words dropped with a bedraggled courage, "you mean I've lost my mind?"

"I mean I think you lost it for a short time, when—when this happened."

"How did you know? I mean how have you learned anything about me?"

"I—I thought you guessed. The papers have been full of it."

"What do they say?"

Rocky looked away, as if he were detaching the subject from her. "Why, they say this girl is supposed to have killed her husband on her wedding night," he said again.

"Oh!" She clung to his eyes for sympathy. "Oh! And you think I did that?"

Rocky took her hands pitifully, but she drew away. "Doris, I didn't—but your photograph—"

"Why did you want to take me to Canada?"

"Why did I want to take you? I am taking you. The first thing tomorrow. If I can get you to Quebec I can get you on a boat and—well, I think you'll be safe enough in Paris."

"But Rocky—"

He looked at her inquiringly. She wanted to ask, "But why are you doing this for me?" Something in his eyes made her unwilling. She said instead, "I'll have to give myself up, you know."

He patted her shoulder gently. "I'll not let you."

She stared up at him earnestly. "Rocky, if I'm caught are you guilty, too? I don't mean guilty—but isn't there some terrible penalty for killing police. You have been formally indicted for murder in the first degree. You'd even be depled ball. You—I'm afraid you'd collapse completely."

"I won't go to pieces again." She leaned her head on her arms confidently. "Now that I know what I have to fight—well—I'm going to fight it. Do you really think I'd deliberately let you in for a thing like this?"

Rocky whirled, and looked squarely at Doris. His lean features twisted bitterly. "Give yourself up, then. I'll go with you to the police the first thing in the morning. But don't forget this. You speak about implicating me. I'm already implicated. More than that, St. Gardens is implicated. I don't say we can't get him out of it, but it will be a nice thing to have happen to him just as his only daughter is about to be married. Beatrice is marrying the son of a governor—Rhode Island or Delaware—some little state, but they're getting plenty of publicity—it's one of the biggest weddings of the year. A little murder publicity—"

Doris cried out, "Oh I won't spoil her wedding. I'll go away—I won't do it." Her voice stopped in the middle of the sentence. She was thinking that she would have to slip away from Rocky, too. A shiver ran up her spine. She knew then that most of her new-found courage sprang from Rocky's friendship. When she left him, what would become of her—pellee—prison—death?

Rocky grasped her elbow. He had read her thoughts. "You mustn't try to run away from me. Whatever happens you'll stick with me. Promise?"

"I can't promise that." She looked up at him. His eyes were full of tragedy. "But don't look like that. I'm afraid I haven't the courage to run away from you."

Relief flooded his face. He smiled. "Then listen, Mrs. Conscientious. I've got an idea. I know you're right in everything you say. You ought not to run. You ought to fight. Here's another idea. Supposing that you stay here quietly for a few days. I could leave you with Beatrice. Then I'll go back to Morristown, New Jersey, and

"One Never Must Jered Anybody. Any Person of Sense Can See That."

someone like me—you're necessary before the fact—or—"

"Or what?"

"Or something."

"What a mind. What a legal mind. A master's, really."

She was not to be diverted by any attempt at fooling. In spite of all Rocky's precautions, she had been caught once. She would be caught again. Rocky would be arrested, Mrs. Du Val would—

She said huskily: "There's no use to your being involved. Think of your mother."

"I'm thinking of my mother. One of the first things she ever taught me was to stick by my—my friends."

Her heart contracted. "You're being rather wonderful. I wish I could do something to show you how much I appreciate your—your friendship—" she walked nervously to the window. A light was moving far away in the woods. "A car is coming."

"I expect it's Beatrice coming home from her party. It's so late, Doris. You ought to get some sleep."

"What's my real name?"

"Diane. But I'd rather not call you that?"

"Is it so absolutely sure that I did this? Do you suppose losing my memory has transformed me into an entirely different sort of person?"

"I don't know what to think. I think you ought to get some sleep."

"If I married this man—I must have loved him, mustn't I?"

Rocky nodded gloomily. "I suppose so."

get in touch with your real family. Perhaps we can arrange to get you out on bail if you do give yourself up."

"I don't know why you want to do all this for me."

Downstairs a door closed. Rocky went to the door. "I'm going to speak to Beatrice now. Will you go to bed?"

Doris shook her head. "No, I'd like to talk to her, too."

"All right," Rocky opened the door. "Wait. I'll bring her back up here."

When Rocky had gone, Doris turned out the light and sat down by the windows. In spite of all that he had said she knew that there was only one thing for her to do. She must not repay his great friendship by involving him in her trouble. The time must come when she would go on alone.

"But not tonight," she whispered. "Perhaps it's awfully cowardly. But not tonight."

What was Beatrice saying in answer to Rocky's disturbing story? Would she think Rocky was crazy to have done so much for a criminal and a murderer? At the thought of Rocky the dark outlines of the room dissolved. A host of magic particles illuminated the blackness, assaulted her senses. She lost herself in a dream.

She heard Rocky at the door, and sprang up. She turned on the light as he came in with Beatrice St. Gardens.

Beatrice stared fixedly at Doris for a short moment. Then she turned her head and looked at Rocky.

"This child! You mean—she's Diane Merrell!"

Rocky nodded.

Beatrice smiled. "Nonsense!" she said vigorously.

"You think she isn't?"

"Of course she isn't. She never murdered anybody. Any person of sense can see that." She held out her hand to Doris cordially. "Forgive me for talking about you as if you were deaf, dumb and blind—but it's all extraordinary. Anyway, I'm & you've come."

Southwestern Briefs

V. O. Wallingford, Phoenix architect, has been named leader for a survey of historic building in the northern half of the state.

An allotment of $100,000 of public works funds for the reclamation bureau for a survey of the Parker-Gila project in Arizona has been formally transferred, Senator Carl Hayden announced recently.

E. C. Robertson, state manager of the federal home loan administration, has announced that John I. Hinkle, Santa Fe attorney and brother of ex-Governor James F. Hinkle, has been named manager of the Santa Fe branch of the home loan administration.

Willard D. Ellis, chief of the farm credit administration, western region, announced recently two federal credit associations will be put into operation in Arizona soon. The announcement was made in an address before the 19th annual conference of the agricultural extension service at the University of Arizona.

Solution of the cattle surplus problem through stimulation of consumption rather than through any radical production curtailment plan was advocated by Charles E. Colling of Kit Carson, Colo., in his annual address as president of the American National Livestock Association, at its meeting in Albuquerque.

Refusing to stand behind the administration-supported Taylor grazing bill, the American National Livestock Association, during the closing hours of the convention in Albuquerque, by a vote of 197 to 425, agreed to follow Wyoming in that state's fight for outright cession of the public domain to the eleven Western states.

A special docket of the Arizona Supreme Court was called recently to hear the appeal of the state tax commission in a suit against the Yavapai county board of supervisors. The suit involved the valuation placed upon the United Verde Copper Company properties in Yavapai county by Charles H. Kiebeling, county assessor.

Selection of Roswell, N. M., as the 1935 convention city, opposition to a processing tax, request for high import tariffs on beef and creation of a committee to begin plans for a million dollar production credit corporation marked the closing sessions of the New Mexico Cattle and Wool Growers' Association conventions in Albuquerque.

A telegram from Congresswoman Isabella Greenway, received in Tucson recently, said Tucson had been granted a $250,000 loan of public works funds for water works improvement. It is the first federal public works loan granted Tucson. It is to be used to extend the existing city water mains to areas of unpaved streets which may be paved in the near future.

Forty representatives from three states gathered at a highway conference in Flagstaff recently and adopted resolutions petitioning the federal and state governments to build a trunk highway from Tuba City through Kayenta, Ariz., to Bluff, Utah, to open up an isolated part of the Navajo Indian reservation to tourist travel.

The biological survey field force for predatory animal control work in New Mexico and other western states will be reduced to a mere skeleton if the tentative budget submitted to congress is approved. A drastic cut in the budget will mean elimination of all federal hunters, all rodent control men and all work of any nature on public lands, which is financed from the regular appropriations.

Previously held in February dates for the annual "Out Wickenburg Way" rodeo at Remuda ranch have been changed this year to April 6, 7 and 8, according to announcement from Wickenburg, Ariz. The change in dates has been decided on. It was stated, because of better weather in April for night events and because the wild horses and cattle used in the roundup will be in much better condition in April than in February.

Petitions have been signed and mailed to CWA authorities in the state requesting approval of two highway projects in the Quemado, N. M., area. One project runs from Quemado to Salt Lake and the other from Quemado to Trechado. The road from here to Trechado was designated by the legislature several years ago as state highway 32 which when completed will make one continuous highway from Silver City to Durango, Colo., by way of Gallup and Shiprock.

Formation of a million dollar federal production credit corporation for New Mexico which will be empowered to loan up to $5,000,000 to livestock men in the state and farmers was requested of the federal government by twenty-one incorporators. A temporary board of directors of nine men was elected to include three cattlemen, three sheepmen and three farmers. The petition and incorporation papers have been forwarded to the farm credit administration in Washington.

Bids were received January 18 by the Arizona state highway department for reconstruction of a small bridge near Wickenburg on United States highway 85.

Buffalo skulls and skins from the slaughter of 215 buffalo at Yellowstone National Park will be sent to New Mexico pueblos for use in the sacred buffalo dance, Arno B. Crammer, director of national parks, announced recently. The skulls will enable revival of the buffalo dance which requires the use of skulls of two male buffalo, in some pueblos, it was said.

On the Funny Side

LET IT OUT

The irate producer stamped angrily up and down his office. Suddenly he stopped and gazed fixedly at the pretty actress.

"But why, why don't you like the part?" he asked heatedly.

"Because I don't, you idiot!" she retorted.

"Don't call me an idiot!" stormed the producer. "Do you want every one to hear?"

She looked mildly surprised.

"Oh, I'm sorry," she sweetly replied. "I didn't know it was a secret."

Father Liked That

Father—It is my opinion that the young gentleman does not know the value of money!

Daughter—Yes he does, pa! He says he wouldn't give a plugged nickel for your opinion on anything!

—Daily Eagle (Brooklyn).

What Hurts

"I don't mind my wife being a better bridge player than I am," he remarked.

"Yes?" said the other one.

"What gets my goat is having her rub it in so when she is my partner by trying to impress the fact on our opponents," he sighed.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Thumbprints

"How is the war on crime coming along in Crimson Gulch?"

"First rate," answered Cactus Joe. "We've worked out a system of thumb-printing ballots so as to identify the miscreants who accept $10 apiece and then don't vote the way they were hired."

HAD SEEN SYMPTOMS

Cook—The tea is quite exhausted, ma'am.

Mistress—I noticed that it seemed very weak the last time.

Robert—What would you do if you married a rich woman?

Gerald—Nothing, I expect.

THE DOCTOR'S DECREE

He consulted the famous specialist, who said he would be a dead man in six weeks. Three years later he met the even more famous specialist.

"I am the man who was to be dead in three weeks—six at the most—that was three years ago."

"For me and for medical science you are dead—the fact that you are not reflects no credit on those who treated you wrongly."

EDITORIAL COLUMN

N. M. Vets Receive Biggest Cut of All

Figures compiled at Albuquerque by Wm. F. Darmitzel, national junior vice commander of the D. A. V., revealed that special re-rating boards for the veterans administration in the state cut off a higher percentage of veterans from compensation than was the average of all the boards of the nation.

Of 51,213 cases reviewed by all boards, 21,955 or 42.87 per cent retained their service connected rating.

In New Mexico of 898 cases reviewed, only 306, or about 34 per cent retained service connected ratings. All cases were presumptive cases.

Darmitzel said that more than half of the 592 claims disallowed in this state were being appealed in Washington.—Hobbs News.

Fear of the Law

"They railroaded me," bitterly complains Gangster Dillinger after he was whisked by airplane out of Tucson to beat a habeas corpus action. He was taken back to Indiana where he will answer to charges of robbing a bank and killing an officer. He is obliged to contemplate a possible death penalty.

Dillinger, admittedly ruthless, "a fighting guy who loves to fight," is like others of the gangster psychology. They 'railroad' others, but feel abused when roughshod methods are applied to themselves. In current slang, they can dish it out but can't take it.

Society is glad to see, all over the country, energetic warfare undertaken to break up the gangs and put an end to the reign of racketeering.

A Dillinger quickly captured, tried or electrocuted, tends to put fear into the hearts of the lawlessly inclined, and fear is the only way to control that element. They won't be law abiding through preference; they may be through fear of losing their own lives.—El Paso Times.

Cow Shipments in New Mexico Decrease

Albuquerque — Cattle shipments in New Mexico during December totaled 44,313 head as compared with 114,898 head in the same month of 1932, the cattle sanitary board announced.

The FIRESIDE PHILOSOPHER

We're apt to think that those who think as we do are very intelligent.

Be sure you know exactly what you're going after or you may run past it.

Youth spreads its wings—and the world slips them.

We can cross America in a few hours. Are we better men and women than those who crossed it in a covered wagon?

If you owned the earth you wouldn't get any less. There are thousands of millions of acres hidden in the soil.

Depressing Education

The U. S.—Commissioner of Education said a couple of months ago—

The depression reached our schools later than it did industry, trade and agriculture. It is causing greatest havoc in the schools after recovery has been inaugurated in other departments of our national life. Here are some casualties of the crisis in education:

100,000 more children are this year denied all education opportunities because of closing of the schools.

Shortened school terms will put at least a million other children on learning rations close to the level of mental starvation.

One of every three teachers must work this year for less than the 'blanket code' minimum for unskilled labor.

25,000 teachers have been dropped, while a million more pupils have come into the schools.

200,000 certified teachers are unemployed. 259 school districts in 29 states have been compelled to default on bonds.

More than 1,650,000 children, 6 to 13 years old, are not in school in normal years.

Also, there are 521,000 children, 14 to 15 years old, without schooling in normal years.

Nearly 2,000 rural schools in 24 states failed to open this fall.

Sixteen institutions of higher education have been discontinued since last year. Estimates indicate that 1,500 Commercial schools and Colleges have closed.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Scientists say that man has been on the earth hundreds of thousands of years. But we haven't yet found out how to pull together.
"Character is the basis of credit"—

... Isn't It ?

When someone says, "I'll call you up," and you have to say—"Sorry, we haven't a telephone."

It's worth the few cents a day it costs to enjoy daily telephone contact with friends, to save trips here and there, to know you needn't wake your neighbor during the night to telephone the doctor in case of sudden illness, fire, accident or other emergency.

Order one installed today.

The friends of George Choate will be glad to learn that he is gradually recovering from an illness which has kept him confined to his bed since Dec. 10. On Jan. 25, he reached his 78th birthday. Let us hope we will be able to again see him on our streets.

Our old friend Tony Yurcic was here from the Jicarilla country yesterday on business.

F. E. Jones and son Clayton of Corona were Carrizozo business visitors Wednesday.

The Otero Brothers, wool-growers from the Capitan district, were business visitors in town yesterday.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends, who with acts of kindness, words of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings, contributed in a large measure to our comfort and consolation during the illness and after the passing of our beloved son, grandson and nephew, Jack Meyer.

Respectfully,
Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Meyer
Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Groce and family.

Surprise Party at Moore Ranch

Last Friday night, a party of 35 Carrizozo people made a trip to the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Moore, near the town of Adobe on the Carrizozo-Socorro Highway. The purpose of the party was to spring a complete surprise on the Moores and it worked out in 100% order. The young couple was presented with a lovely set of dishes. Among the party were four musicians, Mrs. James Cooper, son Lin, Mike Brady and Frank Gaines. Dancing and other forms of amusement lasted until a late hour, during which time host and hostess served refreshments. The local merry-makers arrived home in time to hear Carrizozo roosters crow for daylight—tired, but happy.
