OUT-OF-THE ORDINARY

A ghost has been seen in the great White Sands across from Alamogordo at different times. The figure has been seen by many people who kept the matter a secret for fear of being subject to ridicule. But someone told the story and here it is. The spectre has always been seen at the very top of the highest sand dunes and exceeds the sand in whiteness. It remains distinct to the eye until the observer comes within a certain distance to it and then it vanishes. It is said to resemble a woman with a long white gown.

One eight-wheeled truck recently produced in England, travels the roughest roads at a terrific rate of speed without the least jars or bumps. Each wheel bears its share of the load, regardless of the roughness of the road, because each wheel is flexible, which enables it to sink into or rise above a rut or bump without the others.

Little Maria Jesus, born at El Paso on Nov. 18, and said to have been the smallest baby in the world, died yesterday, after surviving since her birth in a tiny home-made incubator. Nine days after birth she weighed but 14 ounces and was 10 inches long. After death, she weighed 18 ounces and was 14 inches in length. The little head was about the size of an ordinary golf ball and her tiny hands were smaller than a nickel. Her eyes were as small as black-eyed peas and the legs were as thin as lead pencils. Should she have lived, she would have had her place in the world's gallery of curiosities.

After being lost for four days in the sinister superstitious mountains near Phoenix, Arizona, Charles Williams staggered into town with a pocketful of gold nuggets and told a strange story of how he found a large amount of pure gold. His story was doubted by old-timers, but many are now in search of the mine which according to Williams, is fabulously rich. Blood hounds were obtained from the penitentiary and sent on Williams' back trail. During his wanderings, he was attacked by a bear which refused to allow him to enter a cave to sleep. Again, he was fired on by some men who were hidden in the deep recesses of a canyon.

A fellow down in Arkansas with 18 children was asked if he was going to attend a certain wedding, whereupon he answered: "I should say not! I attended a wedding just once in my life and see what happened!"

Rich Hust was in from Nogal yesterday on a business mission. He has but 100 boxes of nice apples left and you will see his ad in this issue. They are good and you'll have to hurry for they will go quick.

Andres Lueras arrived from El Paso yesterday on No. 12 for a visit with the Ben C. Sanchez, Lupe and Andres Lueras, Jr. families.

Mrs. D.N. Bonnell and daughter Orilla spent the day visiting in Roswell from their home at San Patricio, yesterday.—Roswell Dispatch.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZMAURER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, 6. Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 6 PETER'S CONVERSION AND CALL

LESSON TEXT—John 1:15-42; Mark 1:14-15. GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17. PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Peter Went With Jesus. JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Enrolls in Jesus' School. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Accepting a Great Leader. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Ways of Winning Men to Christ.

For the next three months the lessons center around the apostle Peter. The aim of the lesson committee was to acquaint the members of the Sunday school with the life and writings of Peter.

1. The Conversion of Peter (John 1:35-42). 1. John pointing his disciples to Jesus (vv. 20-34). Through the testimony of John the Baptist his disciples were brought to Jesus. 2. Two of John's disciples follow Jesus (vv. 35-37). As a result of the Baptist's testimony, two of his disciples left him and followed Jesus. One of these disciples was Andrew (v. 40), and presumably the other was John. When the Baptist pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God, the long-expectant Messiah, these disciples sought further acquaintance with Jesus. When they looked upon Jesus, they were induced to follow him.

2. The two disciples abiding with Jesus (vv. 38, 39). a. Jesus' question (v. 38). When Jesus saw the disciples following, he kindly inquired as to their business. b. The disciples' reply (v. 39). They answered his question by inquiring as to his dwelling place. Their reply showed their desire to go apart privately where they could open their hearts unto him. He invited them to his place of abode, where they enjoyed sweet fellowship with their Master.

3. Andrew bringing Peter to Jesus (vv. 40-42). The very genius of Christianity is self-propagation. The usual method is to begin with those nearest us, home folks and relatives, and pass out to ever-widening circles. The disciples who enjoyed fellowship with Jesus went at once to tell others of the priceless treasure they had found. This is always true of the real disciple. Andrew bringing his brother Peter is a beautiful example of brotherly affection, expressing itself in bringing him to Christ. When Andrew had witnessed to Peter about Christ he brought him to Jesus where he could enjoy personal intercourse. This was a great piece of work for Andrew, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church.

11. The Call of Peter (Mark 1:14-18). 1. Jesus preaching in Galilee (vv. 14, 15). The growing opposition to Jesus moved him to change from Judea to Galilee. He accepted the fate of John the Baptist as foreshadowing his own death. Observe— a. What he preached (v. 14). The Gospel of the Kingdom of God, which meant the good news of the near approach of the rule of God as predicted by the prophets. b. How he preached it (v. 15). (1) The time is fulfilled and the Kingdom of God is at hand. This meant that the time had now come for the appearance of the Messiah and the establishment of his Kingdom. (2) Repent. This meant that the people should turn around, change their minds and attitude toward Christ, and accept him as their king. (3) Believe the Gospel. Then, as now, men needed to believe the Gospel of Christ.

2. Jesus called Peter and Andrew to become fishers of men (vv. 16-18). Jesus called this pair of brothers for service in his kingdom. It is to be noted that these men had previously been called to be disciples of Christ (John 1:36-42). They are now called to service. Jesus first calls men to him for salvation; those who accept that call have an additional call to service. Note— a. From what they were called (v. 16). They were called from positions of definite service; they were fishers. b. To what they were called (v. 17). To be fishers of men. They no doubt had been successful fishers. The qualities which made them good fishermen, namely, patience, bravery to face the storm and darkness of the night, and perseverance which led them to toil all night, though no fish were caught, would make them good fishers of men. c. Their obedience (v. 18). Straightway they forsook their nets and followed him. Obedience meant sacrifice, painful separation, the giving-up-of-all business interests, and the leaving of their father behind.

Short Cut to Happiness If anyone would tell you the shortest, surest way to all happiness and all perfection, he must tell you to make it a rule to yourself to thank and praise God for everything that happens to you. Prayer Perhaps we do not think enough what an effective service prayer is, especially intercessory prayer. We do not believe as we should how it might help those we so faintly would serve.

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

MANAGING without servants has become a recognized feature of modern housekeeping. The innumerable devices and inventions which have been perfected for simplifying the work have made it possible for women to accomplish, without undue fatigue, what formerly would have been very wearisome. They can have leisure in the place of labor if they wish. Or they can be just exactly as busy as the women of a generation ago. The entrance of women into activities outside the home has brought them new opportunities for occupation. The number of clubs has increased enormously, some of them for advancement of projects, for educational purposes, for church work, for social reforms and, in large measure for entertainment as the multiplicity of bridge clubs evidences.

Today there is actually no more leisure for women than formerly. Change of occupation, not cessation of it, is the result. It was said when the sewing machine came in that there was rejoicing because it would diminish the work of making garments. But it proved no help in this. Women commenced to make more elaborate costumes. Tucking and pleating, braiding and stitching in variety, were done, and the time went in the extra ornamentation. Today the crying need of "more time" should give pause for thought. Homemakers, and women not out in the business world, have a chance to decide for themselves whether a round of activities, with no leisure time is what they want most. Or whether they wish to be eased from the rush and whirl, from the pressure of the prod of time.

Using Saved Time Since there are time and labor-saving devices which permit work to be accomplished rapidly and with little fatigue, how will the saved time be used? To help women to be in the leisure class, that group of persons who have time to develop talents, and to do some of the things they have longed to do, and this without encroaching too much on spare moments? Or will they mean the adding of so many other duties that there still continues the cry of "no time." Or will the beauty and comfort of home life be increased by homemakers, who, with the opportunity for some leisure, make the home a pleasanter place to be in, sanctuary for themselves and their families, where the work is well done, and there is at least a modicum of time remaining?

Important to Aim High It is a good thing for persons to aim high. This does not imply that he or she is over ambitious or pushing. "He is a person of high aims," is said of one who has fine ideals and has striven to live up to them to the utmost of his ability. This means that he has been actively working toward a definite goal. He has not wavered but pursued steadfastly the road toward the apex of his lofty aspiration.

Black Velvet Suit

Stylish and chic is this black Lyons velvet suit. The dress is one piece in spite of its two piece effect. The blouse is plaid silver lame and the coat, which is knee length, fits closely through the hips and flares. The little hat of black net is edged with a black velvet braid.

Glaze, Latest Finish Glazing is now much in vogue on woodwork where the color needs to be dulled a little or an old-fashioned effect is desired. It is especially appropriate with antique furniture. Glaze is a yellowish liquid resembling varnish which can be purchased at any paint store. Apply it over the last coat of paint, and while still wet, wipe off lightly with a bit of cheesecloth. This leaves some in the crevices of the moldings and along the edges of surfaces, where it should merge into the under color.

Harmonizing a Room An interior decorator's trick to harmonize the painted walls and trim of a room with the furnishings is to have them match the principal color in curtains or upholstery fabrics. The dominant hue in a chintz pattern, for example, may serve as a guide for the painter.

New Method of Picking Up Planes

This picture, made at sea, shows the new method of lifting navy planes from the water without stopping the ship. The plane runs upon a net towed by the cruiser, the pilot stopping his motor as a hook on the postoon engages the net, the plane being kept abreast of the crane.

RADIO AND RECOVERY

BY LEONARD A. BARRETT

In a recent editorial appeared the statement that the radio was seriously retarding recovery. The argument advanced in support of this opinion was that the time, one hundred million hours per year, spent in listening in, could be more profitably used in auto riding, paying the price of admittance to movies or other entertainment, or in seeking a job. All very good, doubtless much time is wasted on listening in to snatches from the air which have neither an educational nor social value. On the other hand, is it not fair to say that an equal amount of time is spent in hearing addresses, music, etc., which are very much worth while? One of the most valuable contributions which the radio has made toward unifying our national life has been the privilege of hearing from coast to coast the voice of the President of our country—whether we agree with all he says or not. When we hear the chiming of Big Ben in London or the voice of Antarctic explorer, Byrd, somehow we realize something of the solidarity of the human race and that this is not such a large world after all. That the privileges of the radio are abused, we agree. Many persons listen in to what is really not worth hearing, but no one can discount the value of the radio as a distinct and important contribution to our modern life.

The critic above mentioned forgets another fact—we are of the opinion that the amount of money spent for movies and other entertainments, when totaled, would approximate the total spent in the purchase and maintenance of radios, so from a monetary point of view the account balances. We are of the opinion that we have only started the development of the wireless transmission of sound. Light will come next. Before long we shall be able not only to hear grand opera but to see it enacted on a silver screen, transmitted by radio.

40 Degrees Difference A thermometer laid on the sand at White Sands National Monument, New Mexico, recently registered 110 degrees Fahrenheit, while one placed at the bottom of a one-inch hole a foot away registered 70 degrees.

Post in Congress

Congress now has a real poet, who also conducts a newspaper column. He is John Stevens McGroarty of Los Angeles, a Democrat who replaces W. E. Evans, Republican, as representative from the Eleventh district of California.

Metoposaurus Is Back After 140,000,000 Years Berkeley, Calif.—After an absence of some 140,000,000 years the metoposaurus has returned—but he isn't his old self. In fact, the miniature amphibian in the University of California Museum of Paleontology is only a clay model of the extinct creature, which, scientists say, was a distant relative of the present-day salamander.

The model was constructed by sculptors, Adèle Stackpole and Audrey Horn. It was modeled from a skull and other skeleton remains dug up in the Painted Desert of Arizona recently. Paleontologists estimated from the fossil remains that the metoposaurus was about eight to ten feet long.

Turtle Sets Up New Swimming Record

Capetown, S. A.—While Scott and Black and the rest have been smashing air records by their flights to Australia, a turtle has been quietly setting up another sort of record—by swimming from Australia to Africa! Evidence of the feat is that a turtle which came ashore had scored into the shell of its back in capital letters the name "Australia."

The markings appeared to be very old and its places could hardly be made out. The turtle's competitors in the race from Australia—if any—are expected any time within the next 50 years.

Lace Blouse for Every Occasion

cloth suit, making it appropriate for any more or less informal occasion.

To the left in the group we have a trim little blouse, smart, tailored and youthful. Interesting, too, because of the very new fabric.

BY WAY of keeping properly informed as to the high-spots which loom on fashion's horizon, let's talk about lace.

Lace in an endless variety of new and unusual weaves and textures is being used in ways we would not have dreamed of a generation ago.

It goes without saying, that in this emphasis given to lace for every occasion—there needs must be a right lace for the right time and place.

Lace blouses are particularly highlighted in the present mode. We are picturing three which will add variety and interest to the winter velvet or like lace—gold spot metal zephyr lace knit—and it comes in a wide choice of colors such as candy beige, clay rust, Chinese coral and mahogany brown.

The lace blouse with the polka dot pattern gives just the right accent when you don't care to look too tailored. Soft, feminine and quite new in line and medium is this woollette lace blouse.

If you want a blouse to dress up your suit for an afternoon bridge or a matinee or three o'clock musicale, here's the very thing centered in the picture—a fine Alencon lace in a thoroughly wearable style.

The new lace tunics are wonderfully good looking. Whether in the modish dark colored laces, wine, hunter's green, rust brown or in the delectable ice blue, bluish pink or pale champagne tints, these knee-length blouses are fascinating. Wear them over a velvet or crepe skirt or that which is the last word in chic—a sheer skirt knife pleated all around, for evening.

"BLANKET" COAT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here's the latest thing in the way of a sports and practical daytime coat. Schiaparelli makes this dashing model of a brilliant red, green and blue plaid blanket wool.

Caper Carry On Obviously the small round cape is carrying-over for spring. Hardly a day model is shown without one, and the little evening cape is practically inevitable.

NET IS FAVORITE AS WINTER FABRIC

Fashion designers are well aware that many women aren't satisfied unless they are wearing furs in summer and filmy garments in snowstorms. So for winter evenings, they are recommending the most transparent of fabrics, net.

A square dotted mesh is the most old-fashioned of all the netted themes to appear this season. An overblouse of this quaint stuff is recommended to cover a simple, but quite formal black crepe evening gown.

New Bodice Treatment Is Seen in Late Collections

The bloused silhouette has been gradually growing in importance and gives promise of coming through in an important way. Lelong and Molyneux both showed the bodice that is bloused at the back.

Collections prepared for resort wear are playing up the bloused bodice, in all-round and just-at-the-back treatments; the resort groups suggest it in sporty versions, which will doubtless have much to do with its acceptance.

Dainty Footwear If mildly intended driving her car to the party when she is wearing delicate slippers, she would be wise to wear an old pair of slippers and change in the car before going in to the party.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

New Deal Publicity

Washington.—It begins to appear that the country as a whole may have a chance to know how many laws and executive orders issued thereunder have come out of the New Deal in its twenty-one months of life.

Courts have always said that ignorance of the law excuses no man. It remained for the Supreme Court of the United States, however, to say that when the average man was deluged with hundreds of orders of inhibition and prohibition from Washington, he was or is quite likely to be unable to comprehend what it is all about.

It was almost unprecedented for criticism to come from a member of the Supreme Court of the United States. But Associate Justice Brandeis, one of the outstanding liberals of the highest tribunal, made no effort to conceal his grievance when, in the course of presentation of an NRA case to the court, he learned to his amazement that there had been no publication of the numerous orders, regulations or rules in a manner that could conceivably reach the country as a whole.

It is a regular practice for congress to enact legislation and include in such laws a phrase to this effect: "Authority to issue regulations carrying out the terms of this law is hereby extended."

The magnitude of the problem with which the President has now determined to deal was suggested recently by a committee of the American Bar association which estimated that in the first year of the NRA alone more than ten thousand pages of such "law" were written by executive authority without adequate provision for notifying the public.

The total legislative output by or in connection with this one administrative agency, the committee declared, "actually staggers the imagination."

The committee added that any calculation involved guess-work and it concluded after something more than a superficial investigation that between four thousand five hundred and five thousand methods of business conduct were prohibited by the codes and supplemental amendments to codes promulgated by the National Recovery Administration in its brief period of life.

The Brooklyn Institute in a study of the situation has found that in the federal government there are sixty different administrative tribunals which, as the institute's statement said, are "making judicial decisions affecting private rights."

During the World war there was an official publication issued by the committee on public information which was designed to acquaint the general public with the myriads of orders from the White House, orders from the War and Navy departments, orders from a score of other places, in the hope that public understanding would simplify the administration's problem.

There is, however, a possibility of danger in that course. Attention has been directed here to the threat that, unless careful supervision over such a publication is maintained, some unscrupulous individuals may take advantage of this new avenue of publicity for selfish means.

Much significance attaches to the President's projected plan to take the profits out of war. President's It is looked upon by Shrewd Move those who know as a very shrewd move, affecting both domestic and international politics.

Notice to congress that the President is not going to allow the legislative body to run away with things that gain publicity, if the scheme is one in which he desires to participate.

Notice to the world that the United States is not going to surrender leadership in world affairs even though the London naval conference has failed and even though Japan has renounced her signature to the Washington arms limitation treaty of 1922.

Some observers here are inclined to the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt will be able to lull the recalcitrant members of congress into a kindly feeling toward his program which is designed to draft far-reaching legislation and that they will eventually hush-up.

One must not be unmindful in discussing this little controversy that it can become of great magnitude or it can sink out of sight easily.

Every once in a while some one discovers some new letters written by George Washington. Such a circumstance has just developed.

The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, preparing to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the original corporation from which it came, has found a letter signed by General Washington which, authorities tell me, represents among the first petitions ever filed with a legislative body in behalf of private interests in this country.

The general, according to the Library of Congress records, personally surveyed a westward route over which the Jamestown company was to operate. That is the route now followed by the line of the present railroad.

The general, according to the Library of Congress records, personally surveyed a westward route over which the Jamestown company was to operate. That is the route now followed by the line of the present railroad.

It will be interesting to note how when the efforts of General Washington in behalf of the Jamestown company are generally known, his exercise of the rights of petition will be accepted. Surely even the most ardent reformers will not desire to call the Father of our Country a lobbyist.

Ingenious Solution of Daytime "Nap" Problem

ROBERTA EARLE WINDSOR, National Kindergarten association, New York.

The problem of the daytime nap nearly had us beaten. Our little Molly, just three and a half, was so ambitious, so interested in everything and so afraid that she would miss out on something, that she just couldn't find time to sleep during the daytime.

The solution was in the form of a little pink rayon crepe nightgown. It had all the luster of crepe de chine and was trimmed with bands of turquoise blue.

I have found the use of dainty and attractive sleeping garments a real solution to the daytime nap problem. This success is due, no doubt, in part at least, to the fact that coax as much as she might, Molly has never been permitted to wear the daytime nightgown at night.

Since the little "silk" gown worked such wonders, I have added to the daytime sleeping apparel other pretty and interesting garments. There is a dainty little suit of flowered batiste which is about the coolest sort of pajamas that a child can slip into after the bath on a hot summer day.

Molly loves the flowers. She is never told how pretty she is, nor encouraged to stand before the mirror. When she has done so any tendency toward self-admiration has been turned aside by interesting her in the garment itself—its color—graceful lines—the people who made it.

LISTERINE FOR SORE THROAT

LIFE SHORTENED OR EXTENDED BY WISE NUTRITION

In the eternal struggle to devise ways of prolonging life—science has made an interesting discovery. Experiments indicate that dieting may actually extend the life span—at least in rats.

So much attention is given to a proper diet for children that rapid growth and youthful health have come to be closely associated with longevity in the thinking of doctors as well as laymen.

No new discovery is claimed. As early as the sixteenth century Francis Bacon declared that "longevity is to be procured by diets." Nor are any startling conclusions reached.

This hope of extended life is not unclouded without a warning, however. The dieting which brings long life among rats and fish is confined to their period of immaturity.

"Moreover, we spend our time among the same things, nor by length of life is any new pleasure hammered out."—Washington Post.

Chew for Beauty, Models Advised

Rhythmic chewing, combined with exercises of the head and neck, was revealed recently at New York to 2,000 models, members of the Models' Guild, as the newest beauty formula.

A dozen exercises are included in the complete routine. The instructions for the one illustrated: "Start with chewing gum—one or two sticks. After a few seconds, begin the exercise by tossing the head from side to side.

This exercise is designed to tone the muscles of the chin and lower jaw. Others promote a fine neckline and beautiful cheeks.

The New Mexico Magazine

During the month of December, the OUTLOOK conducted a clubbing offer with our state magazine which was highly successful, from the fact that old subscribers as well as new, will receive that wonderful publication for the year of 1935, free of charge.

Our regular subscription for the Outlook, as everybody knows, is $2.00 per year and we added nothing to that price, but with the paper, we gave the state magazine as a present. In other words, it was the Outlook's Christmas present. The response to that offer was beyond our expectations.

Not only did our local people take advantage of the offer, but we received numerous responses from abroad—they came from coast to coast. Some came from unexpected sources with checks pinned to the notice of the free offer.

We have no apologies to offer for our home state magazine, for it ranks with the best on the market. Principal among the many virtues of the publication are the illustrated accounts of our natural resources, ancient cliff dwellings and pueblos, besides the hunting, fishing and other things that appeal to us in folk-lore manner.

Those of our old subscribers were fully notified not only through the paper but in private correspondence and had ample time to come in and those who did not, have nobody to blame but themselves. Hereafter, the magazine which the Outlook gave to its subscribers, will cost $2.00 per year and the magazine is more than worth it. Happy New Year to everybody and may it be the best you have ever had.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

NOW ON DISPLAY

A New Ford V-8 That Brings New Beauty, New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

The result is Center-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal.

A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle. Now, wider, roomier seats.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements, but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 85 horsepower and capable of 80 miles an hour. All Ford V-8 cars for 1935 come equipped with Safety Glass throughout at no additional cost.

We invite you to see this New Ford V-8 for 1935 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—to drive it yourself. You will find it a new experience in motoring.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin decides to adopt a baby in a final effort to solve his matrimonial troubles.

For the next four years Lanny did not see her boy, but he wrote her and remembered her at Christmas and on her birthdays.

One day, after he had been two years an interne, they met in the corridor. "I've been wanting to see you, Stevie," Lanny began without any preliminary fencing.

He pressed a button under the desk, tapping out a code message to Lanny, and waited patiently.

He knew she would appear momentarily and say: "I'm sorry Doctor Burt, but Professor Finnegan has just telephoned that you are fifteen minutes late to your engagement to meet the great German savant, Herr, Doktor Umltz."

He waited three minutes and sent another code message to Lanny, adding the word "Help!"

"She's gone. Where did you go, leaving me here to suffer?" "I was in the waiting room placating an insistent visitor."

"Oh, Lanny, You Dear Old Sport. I Can't Do That!"

cop, I'm too smart to be fooled by the fibs of any woman. How are you, Doc?"

"Tired," he murmured. "Worn to a razor edge talking sanely to the insane and the semi-sane, the sub-normal and the abnormal. You appear sane, officer. Are you?"

"Sit down, Chief. Drag over that armchair." He smiled at Lanny and held up two fingers.

sent a good man around to try to square the case with the department store people, but they insist on pressing charges and that's too bad because she's got a couple of priors against her.

"I understand there is a psychologist and psychiatrist--Doctor Blethen--who does all of the medico-legal work for the department, Chief. I wouldn't care to examine the girl except on his invitation."

"Yes, I know. Question of ethics, and while the question is being debated this girl gets hauled into court and takes the rap on the old charge of grand theft. I know Blethen. I've tried him and he says this girl is a natural hoodlum, and mentally and physically healthy."

His huge face brightened as he summoned a thought that would bolster up his plea.

Doctor Burt smiled. "Sometimes we uncover complexes or mental reflexes; frequently we do not. And when we have uncovered them we cannot always cure them. You say this girl has a ruined nose? Does it affect her appearance greatly?"

Doctor Burt indicated his telephone. "Call him up, Chief, and ask him if he has any objection to having me give her an unofficial examination."

"I'm through with her, Burt. Help yourself, old man. However, take a tip from me and don't let that fellow McNamara sell himself to you. If you do he'll keep you busy. I doubt if any man on earth can run a criminal down as promptly as McNamara; he has a photographic brain and never forgets a face or a fact; but after he's landed a yegg in his cooler he develops an abnormal yearning to find out what made him act that way. Mac's a sorry."

Lanny entered. "There's a young woman in the waiting room," she announced. "She said to me, 'Where the hell's that bonehead of a chief gone?' Lanny looked at Dan McNamara severely over the rim of her spectacles. 'Friend of yours?' she queried witheringly."

SOCIETY AGOG AS PRINCESS SPURNS FIANCE, THEN WEDS

Bertha Cantacuzene Jilts Florida Man, Elopes With Popular Bachelor.

Chicago.--Chicago society has not yet quite regained its mental equilibrium after being swept off its feet by the whirlwind of engagement, divorce and marriage sensations involving the Cantacuzene clan which have made front page news on two continents, and culminated in the wedding of beautiful Princess Bertha, great-granddaughter of President Grant, and William Durrell Slebern, Cincinnati clubman, after a whirlwind courtship.

Princess Cantacuzene's marriage came only a short time after the announcement of her betrothal to Donald McIntosh, cashier of a Sarasota, (Fla.) bank. Two weeks before, her mother, Princess Julia, had divorced Prince Michael Cantacuzene, Bertha's father. Oddly enough, Prince Michael is an official of the same Sarasota bank.

The romantic episodes in the career of Princess Bertha have kept society buzzing. With long brown hair, big brown eyes, and olive skin, the princess is a real beauty. It was a sensation when in 1925, she gave up her title to become plain Mrs. Smith. The ceremony was a simple one, celebrated in the Washington home of Princess Julia.

Divorce Granted. After eight years Bertha sought a divorce. It was granted last December and Smith was given custody of their child, Bruce Michael, aged three. Princess Bertha at that time was living in Sarasota. Presumably that is where she met Donald McIntosh, the dazzling young bank cashier.

The next episode came when her engagement to McIntosh was announced by her father, Prince Michael. The wedding was to take place March 27 in Washington.

Her elopement with Slebern was as romantic as it was unexpected. It was but two weeks after the announcement of her engagement to McIntosh that the princess and Slebern met. The princess went to Louisville as a house guest of Mrs. R. H. May. She met Slebern, popular Cincinnati bachelor, at a party Saturday afternoon, and again that night. A third meeting, Sunday evening, brought their romance to a climax. They eloped that night and were married at 3 a. m. at Jeffersonville, Ind. Slebern said: "We wanted to surprise our friends."

Society was rocked by the impending split in the Cantacuzene family, when Princess Julia announced her intention of divorcing Prince Michael. A glance at the social register will show why the divorce created a sensation. Princess Julia has been front page news for decades. As Julia Dent Grant, granddaughter of U. S. Grant, Civil war general and later President, she was known as the "White House Betsy." She was born at the executive mansion during the closing years of Grant's administration--the daughter of Maj.-Gen. Frederick Dent Grant.

Princess Michael was a major general in the army of Czar Nicholas and was wounded four times in battle. When the Red revolution swept the monarchists out of Russia, Cantacuzene and his family fled to America. The Cantacuzene nobility dates back to the Middle Ages.

Crafty Indians Find Way to Save Minnesota Deer to Bemidji, Minn.--If the government can't conserve the deer in the Red Lake Indian reservation against white poachers, the crafty Red man can. Weary of seeing hundreds of deer shot by pre-season violators, who patrol the highways in the woods at night, the Indians evolved a scheme. They saw the poachers "jack-light" deer with their automobile spotlight and then shoot between the glowing eyes of the animals.

Investigating the next day the hunters saw scores of bullet-scared trees with "eyes." Nearby they also saw a group of laughing Indians.

CAP AND BELLS

PROMISING Mr. and Mrs. Penley were honest, hard-working farmer folks. By self-denial they had managed to send their son to Harvard. One day a letter arrived. "I know you will be pleased," wrote the son, "to learn that I have won the squash championship."

Defined Wee Betty--Mother, I feel so excited! Mother--Excited, dear? I don't think you know what excited means. Wee Betty--Why, it's being in a hurry all over.

Diagnosed "Doctor," said the pest who always was trying to get free medical advice. "I have the queerest noises in my head; what do you suppose causes it?" "Maybe the wheels in there need oiling," he snapped.

Compensation Farmer Bentover--That drought cost us over 6,000 bushels of wheat. Mrs. Bentover--Yes, but there is nothing without some good. During that dry spell we could at least get some salt out of the shakers!

'Twas Ever Thus "You look worried. What's the matter?" "Ding it, my doctor just told me I've got to quit worrying or else."

SLUSH FUND, OF COURSE

City Official--Where are we to get the money for cleaning the streets after these heavy snows? Assistant--Out of the slush fund, of course.

Case of Necessity "What was the inspiration for your success?" the rich man was asked. "Well, frankly," he grinned, "it was the meals my wife cooked when we were first married. I realized right off I'd have to earn enough to hire a cook if I didn't want to die of indigestion."

Wee! Wee! "This is a retail store, isn't it?" asked the old lady. "Certainly, madam," said the clerk. "Well," said she, "some friends gave my grandson this pup, and it has had its tail cut off and I want it retailed, please."

Dumb-Bell He--I've just been reading some statistics. Do you know that every time my watch ticks, a man dies. She--For goodness sake, let it run down.--Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

Did He Get the Job? Employer--Personal appearance is a helpful factor in business success. Employee--Yes, and business success is a helpful factor in personal appearance.

The Answer to That One "Were you ever kissed?" the old maid was asked. "Well, if I should die tomorrow it would not be from curiosity," she replied.--Cincinnati Enquirer.

So It Goes Barney--Did the doctor cure Kelly of insomnia? Tim--He did. Now Kelly can't sleep nights wondering how he's going to pay the doctor!

Equality for All Friend--How's the boy since he came back from college? Man--Fine! Still treats us as equals.

She Was Willing Curate (admiring a bowl of bulbs) --How lovely to think it will soon be opening time, Mrs. Bird. Mrs. Binks--Well, now, and whoever would have thought of you saying a thing like that! But I'm game to pop out for a quick one if you feel like it.--London Tit-Bits.

GET SMARTNESS IN SATIN PROCK

PATTERN 2029 Probably about now you have decided that you just must have a satin frock. You're right! And here is the model you have been seeking in which to make it. It is a dress you can wear afternoon or evening and always look smart. The jacket is not just an ordinary jabot but something cut in one with the yoke and joined in the bodice on new and very chic principles. The sleeves, too, do things differently, and while there is nothing different about the pleats at the bottom of the skirt, front and back, they afford graceful movement for the slim panels.

Pattern 2029 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 24, 28, 32, 36, 40, 42, 44 and

40. Size 36 takes 4 1/2 yards 50 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included. Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE. Address orders to Sewing Circle, Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

MISLEADING MELODY

"You can learn a great deal from old songs," remarked the light-hearted statesman. "They may be misleading," answered Senator Sorghum. "When postarity revives 'We Have No Bananas' a large number of persons may be led to infer that with all our crop failures the most we have had a contend with was a scarcity of tropical fruit."--Washington Star.

Youthful Assumption "How is your son getting on in his new position?" "First rate," answered Farmer Cornotess. "He knows more about the business now than the boys does. All he has to do is convince the boss."

Busy Caller--I would like to see the Judge, please. Secretary--I'm sorry, sir, but he is at dinner. Caller--But, my man, my errand is important. Secretary--It can't be helped, sir. His Honor is at steak.--Pearson's Magazine.

Lefty Assumptions "You have been getting some bad advice in business." "I have," answered Mr. Dustin Star. "I had a highbrow group of advisers. But highbrows are always suspected of high-bat inclinations. Instead of a brain trust I got merely a brain crust."

She Was Willing Curate (admiring a bowl of bulbs) --How lovely to think it will soon be opening time, Mrs. Bird. Mrs. Binks--Well, now, and whoever would have thought of you saying a thing like that! But I'm game to pop out for a quick one if you feel like it.--London Tit-Bits.

One of the most effective methods of practicing household economy in 1935 will be through the purchase of an electric refrigerator this holiday season. This is the opinion of Mr. Kroggel of New Mexico Mechanical Equipment Co., local Kelvinator refrigerator dealer.

Explaining his statement further, Mr. Kroggel said: "Losses sustained every month in the average household run into sizable sums when wastage and spoilage are prominent. Every housewife knows this, especially when she is trying to run her home on a limited budget and seeks the most for her dollars spent on foodstuffs.

"I believe that electric refrigeration has been the greatest step in stopping the leaks that drain the dollars from the family purse, as far as foodstuffs are concerned.

"Another feature provided by electric refrigeration is protection against illness through its keeping foods at the right temperature and degree of moisture.

"Everyone is welcome to inspect the Kelvinator display at the salesroom of the New Mexico Mechanical Equipment Co., in the Outlook building.

Cigarette smoking is an expensive habit, costing the people of the United States more than a hundred millions a year for the makings and other hundreds of millions for the damage done by fires caused by carelessly placed butts.

Some careless person lit a cigarette on the ground near one of the Humble wells at Cooper last Monday, and dropped the match without breaking it. Since that time the Humble company has been spending $25,000 a day trying to put out one of the strangest and most stubborn gas fires the oil industry has known in the southwest.

The "Blues" dropped in at the tract Friday in search of a possible licensee, and got an eye full, so much so that the trip was delayed in order to see the show at night. It was worth it, both because of the realization of the vast extension of the oil fields over there in what is certain to be the greatest production center of crude petroleum in America and perhaps in the world.

The Cooper field is about half way between Eunice and Jal. Several great wells have been brought in and are standing waiting for "oil to come back." The hole where all of the present drama is being staged is at the north edge of the field, the skirmish line in the march north of the drills from Jal to Hobbs. The Humble people went about this well in the business-like way it has followed in hundreds of others, and was down a little over 3,000 feet when the cigarette smoker came along. Since which time the company has been spending the said $25,000 a day trying to put the fire out. It has used 25,000 sacks of cement and several million gallons or pounds or something of mud, together with enough water to float a battle ship. Some progress is being made but it is fearfully slow.

The tract directly involved covers somewhere between five and ten acres. The soil is loose sand, about the sandiest sand you ever saw, going down nobody knows how far except the drillers themselves. The gas that is causing all of the trouble comes up alongside the casing of the well proper, and scatters all over the area named. Where it is a little looser, the gas comes to the surface. It was ready when that cigarette smoker dropped the match. All over the area the flames are burning, anything from a few inches to several feet high.

The first thing done was to try to relieve and control the leaking gas. With this idea in mind, a dozen pipes were forced deep into the sand and flares started at the top. Then a couple of dozen great steam boilers were brought in and started their stuff, adding steam to the cement, mud and water of the fire-fighting ammunition. The first few feet gained on the east side of the tract was taken to indicate that the eventual control of the fire was possible from that side. The big derrick was pulled down, so that there might be no volcanic formed around the pipe, which is "cool" meaning that it has no gas in it. Men with asbestos suits, helmets and gloves worked in that warm section and are still making connections and things like that.

Of course millions of feet of perfectly good natural gas are being consumed, but waste lingers everywhere in all oil fields. Two flares at Hobbs have been burning 20,000,000 cubic feet a day for years. The Humble people, not anyone else worries about that. They are sternly going about the job of putting out this fire, saving their own prospect and meeting the requirements of the government. Day and night crews succeed crews. Some of the bosses haven't slept since the fire started. It is a hot, dangerous job.

Only a few New Mexico people realize the immensity of that oil area, or the tragedy of the game. Congressman Dennis Chavez and his party of spellbinders had to be pried loose from the inferno last Monday afternoon. His party here were empty parts of the heat that knows that "There is all in Lea county." Incidentally, they had in a state that has shown the intelligence of morons in handling the greatest asset of the people, for so much of the land belongs to the school children, who cannot protect their interests.

It was the first sight of Congressman Chavez south of Hobbs, and he went away on his hustings, doing some real thinking. He thoughtfully got the idea that Lea county has four pools now that could produce well towards 2,000,000 barrels a day if the government would allow it. That is a figure so great that the average mind doesn't grasp it, but the strat hasn't been more than made. Down in the southeastern corner of the state is the Jal field, that promises to be even greater than the first great strike at Hobbs. Thirty miles west of Jal is the rich little Lea dome, which is the private snap and mortgage lifter of the Texas Co. Ten or fifteen miles north of Jal is the Cooper field, just coming into production. Ten miles north of this is the Eunice area, which is considered by many as one of the finest of all. Thirteen miles north of Eunice is the Hobbs field, a royal domain that has not yet had its bottom fully tested. North and west of Lovington will be opened next year, possibly the drills are through there will be a thousand producing wells in Lea county, some of them so large and strong that their possible output has been no more than roughly estimated.

The dramatic, except in this instance, has passed. Developing oil is a rich man's game. It takes thousands of dollars to bring in one well, and more thousands to connect it all up with the pipe lines, which theoretically deliver 48,500 barrels a day to the Texas refineries and shipping points. The state of New Mexico accepts the readings of the pipe lines with perfect faith that no accidents are made in the registering of the flow through the pipes.

Signs of the Times Carry county last week received its first check for the schools from the sales tax—$21,732.40. During the present year the levy on property in the division fell from $151,000 to $145,000.
