CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1935

PRICE $2.00 THE YEAR

PERSONALS

This office is in receipt of a letter from our old friend and former Carrizozo resident, Stanley Squier, who has been the proprietor of a large variety at Spooner, Wis., for a number of years. In his letter, Stanley says he will soon try to get down here for a visit and try out our golf course. He also speaks of the heavy snow in that region and seems to think it will never thaw out. Mr. and Mrs. Squier wish to be remembered to their many old friends here.

A party of local OddFellows made a trip to Alamogordo Monday night to assist in installing officers for the lodge at that place. Included in the party were: E. L. Boughner, J. B. Dinwiddie, J. F. Tom, W. J. Langston, S. B. Bostian, installing officer, L. H. Dow, Otto Prehm, C. Carl and A. L. Burke. The party returned home about midnight.

Mrs. Alice Jarvis is assisting Attorney Jack Hanny at his office during the court period.

Mrs. Hudson, Social Service Supervisor, was transferred this week to Las Cruces and Miss Frances Crowl was sent here from Estancia to succeed Mrs. Hudson in that federal department.

We are glad to say that Miss Charlotte Rice of Fort Stanton, who has been ill for several weeks, continues to improve.

Florentino Lopez has been summoned as a member of the Federal petit jury, which will convene at Santa Fe on Mar. 18.

There will be a practice next Thursday night, Mar. 14, at 7:30 o'clock, at the Baptist Church, for the Singing Convention which will be held at Capitan on the 14th of April. Singers are expected from Capitan, Angus, White Oaks and Fort Stanton. For this practice, everyone is urged to come.

R. E. P. Warden is now in Marshall, Okla., having moved the sheep to that place for better pasturage. Pick sends his regards to his old friends.

Mesdames Chloé Fisher and S. E. Greisen of Capitan were business visitors here on Wednesday.

The Lincoln School P. T. A. have reorganized and are meeting every two weeks on Wednesday evenings, at the schoolhouse at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Edna Laramie is president; Mrs. Flores, secretary and A. B. Moss, treasurer. There will be a pie supper Wednesday, Mar. 13, at 8 p. m. The short program being prepared, will be given free. Everyone is cordially invited.

Mesdames Albert Ziegler and Selma Degitz are spending several days in El Paso this week.

Eddie Long of Capitan attended the meeting of the Masonic lodge Saturday night.

Mrs. Georgia Johnson of El Paso, daughter of Mrs. A. E. Lesnett, spent the week-end with her mother and other relatives here.

A treat is in store for basketball fans tomorrow, at the Towns Tournament. 11 teams will contest for the championship and a big dance tomorrow night, at the Capitan Gymnasium. Gol

OUT-OF-THE ORDINARY

Opossum tracks, 35,000 years old have recently been studied by C. Lewis Gazin, paleontologist of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, D. C. The tracks are imprinted on a slab of rock which was at one time in the dim, distant ages, a sluice of soft mud away back when the Colorado mountains were lowlands. The opossums of that time were no larger than mice and if they were of that size today, they would make poor hunting except for cats. Something resembling that species is said to exist in South America, although not considered as descending from these mouse-opossums.

At Sylvia, N. Y., Rufus Queen has a guinea that lost its mate two years ago and since the death the faithful hen goes to a mirror where she mistakes her own image for that of her departed spouse. She will come before the mirror, parade up and down, evidently wondering why her mate does not come out and greet her. Her owner fully believes that if she was denied the privilege of coming to the mirror every day, she would die of grief.

Charlotte Scrapshire, Scranton, Pa., was on the federal relief and when her first check of $7.00 came, she went shopping and her first purchase was that of a canary bird for which she paid $4.10. When asked what she was going to buy in the way of food, she said her heart was set on the canary bird and she'd get enough food from the transient camp to last her until the next relief check came in.

For a period of 14 long, dreary hours, most of which time the little 18 months son of R. C. Ace of Denver spent in total darkness, having been lost in the woods, the little wanderer was found by a member of a searching party, who heard his feeble cries and came to his rescue. He had strayed away from the home his grandfather one afternoon while with his parents on a visit.

Mrs. C. O. Garrison returned the latter part of the week from California where she had been at the bedside of her brother, who was critically ill. He is now on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Nellie Branum and daughter, Mrs. Margie Clouse left yesterday morning for Albuquerque, taking with them a portion of the basketball team for the tournament.

Mrs. Velma Dingwall of Tucumcari is here this week for a week-end visit with relatives and friends.

H. J. Garrard will assume charge of the Garrard Hotel on Mar. 16, and will appreciate the patronage of the people.

Mrs. H. L. Allison of El Paso, twin sister of Mrs. Morgan Lovelace, left yesterday morning after spending a week at her sister's home. They celebrated their birthday on March 1, and in the afternoon, a party of close friends surprised the twins, bringing with them a large birthday cake. A pleasant afternoon was spent.

Word has been received that Carrizozo was eliminated from the State Basketball Tournament in their first game, the Santa Fe Indians beating them 28 to 16.

CARRIZOZO NOW DISTRICT CHAMPIONS

Carrizozo defeated Artesia for the District Five Basketball Tournament championship Saturday night at Roswell. The final score was 21 to 10, Carrizozo leading from the first minute throughout the game, to win the cup and basketball first place awards, in the 14th playing of the tournament. Carrizozo won over Tatum, 39-25; Hagerman, 32-19; Vaughn 28-21; Artesia, 21-10. Carrizozo proved her right to first position by turning back a fighting Artesia team and holding them scoreless in the last quarter. The winning quintet was composed of:

Perea and Shaw, Forwards; Greer and Willingham, Guards; Elliott, Center. Other players who participated in the tournament were: Mackey, Freeman, Dow and Davis. The team is going to Albuquerque to compete in the State Basketball Tournament, March 8 and 9. The town people are to be heartily congratulated on the spirit shown in raising money to pay the expenses to the tournament.

Burglary at Burnett's Store

Burnett's Cash Grocery and Market was robbed last night (Thursday) the thieves entering by breaking the glass in the front door. Nearly $20.00 was taken from the cash register; the loss of goods cannot be determined until a check-up is made of the stock. Further particulars of the extent of the loss of Mr. Burnett will be published next week.

County Assessor, Mrs. L. H. Dow and daughter Ethel were in Capitan Sunday and returned, accompanied by George Dow and Buster Casey, who went on to Coronas Monday where they will be engaged in work on the highway.

Miss Esther Dow, teacher at San Patricio, visited the home folks during the week-end.

Mabel Harmon returned yesterday from Apache, Arizona, where she visited the A. C. Climer family.

The State Corporation Commission has announced the appointment of Miss Ella Bell of Lincoln County to be in charge of the collection of the new franchise tax under the law passed by the 12th New Mexico legislature. Miss Bell was formerly assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Carrizozo.

Franklin Chambers of Dallas is visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Huffmeyer, this week.

Last Friday at the regular meeting of the Federated Woman's Club of Gilliam, Mo., Mrs. J. Verl Groce was elected president of that organization. One of the aims of the club is to advance good citizenship, leadership and the development of character and education. With the idea of attaining this in the school, a trip to Jefferson City, Mo., is awarded the outstanding sophomore of the high school, the club paying all expenses. This trip takes place this Friday. Mrs. Groce will take over her office at the first meeting of the club year in September.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Burks of Capitan were in town the early part of the week.

TOWN FATHERS

Mrs. Alice Jarvis spent the week-end with friends in El Paso.

LYRIC THEATRE

R. A. Walker, Owner

Saturday Matinee at 2:30 p. m.

Thursday-Friday-Saturday — Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in "It Happened One Night" with Walter Connolly and Roscoe Karnes. The picture that won the Pulitzer Prize this year. A swell, all-around perfect picture! Also, "Out of the Ether" and "School for Romance."

Sunday - Monday - Tuesday — William Powell & Myrna Loy in "The Thin Man" with Nat Pendleton and Maureen O'Sullivan.

See this picture with bulging eyes—it has mystery—suspense—humor—intrigue—murder and romance. By far the best and most exciting detective picture yet filmed. Also, "Apples to You."

Matinee Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

School Notes

Ola C. Jones, Co. Supt.

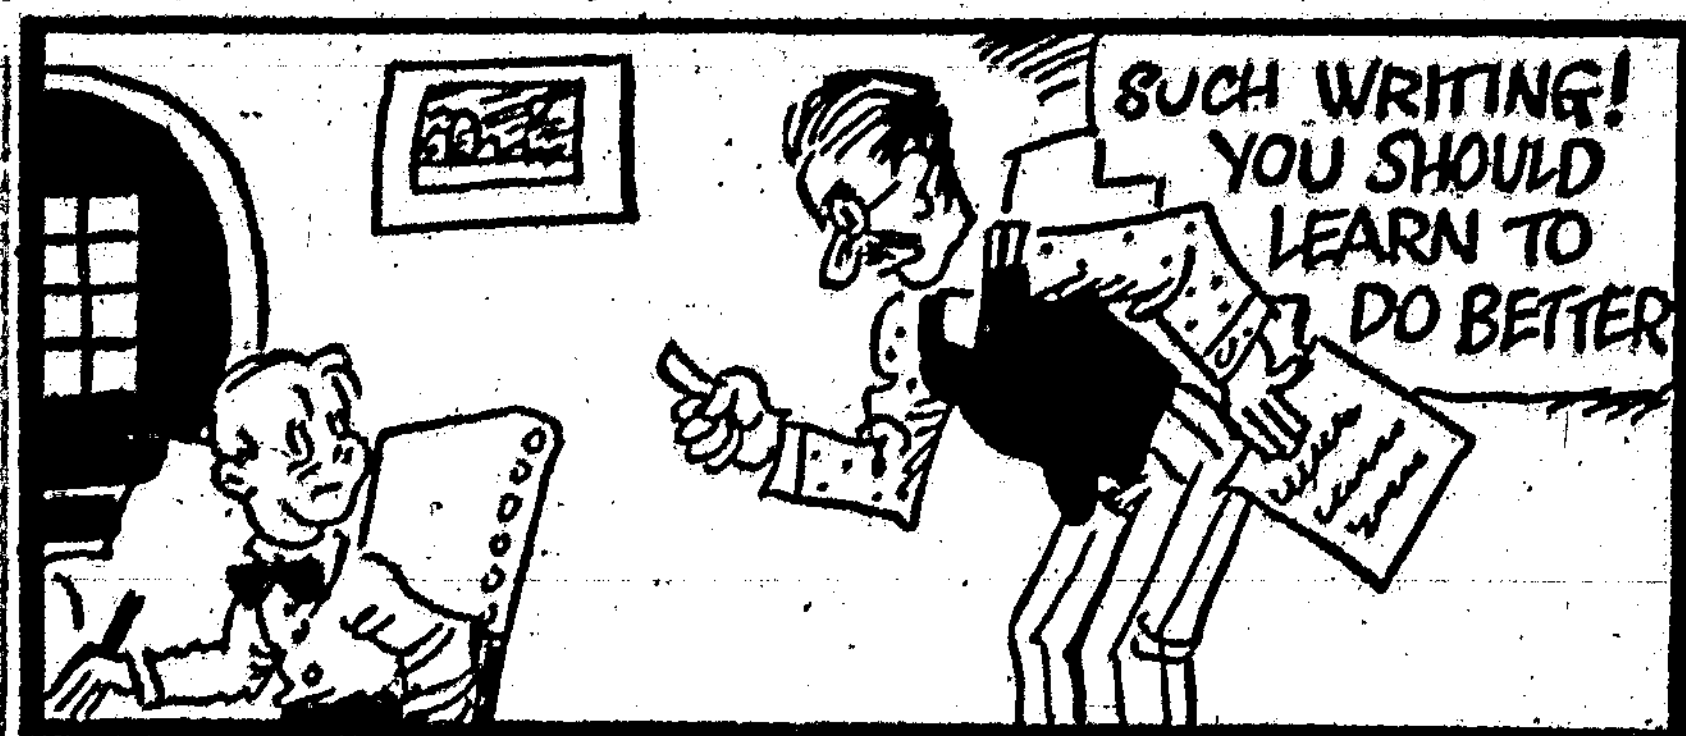

Lincoln County has put forth great effort in assisting the two active organizations of the P. T. A. and organizing six new ones. At Stetson, the president is Mrs. H. Hale. They have installed a modern drinking system, sponsored a Boy and Girl Scout movement and improved the playground as well as purchased playground equipment. At Ruidoso, the president is Mrs. Morgan. They have built the bell tower at the schoolhouse and aided in purchasing primary supplies. At Capitan, they have sponsored the building of a community house. At Picacho, they have organized just recently. In that short time, they have given a supper and dance to secure funds with which to pay dues for the members. The project for the school year is the improvement of the playground equipment. Two interesting features are being stressed at Picacho. They are the giving of short programs by various rooms at the monthly meetings and the emphasizing of the importance of a Hospitality Committee.

At Tinnie, plans have been put into operation to purchase new playground equipment. The P. T. A. has bought two basketballs, a volley ball and a net, and are planning to fix the old water fountain and buy a new one for the upper grade room. On Mar. 8, this organization is giving an Enchilada supper and play to raise funds to further carry out their plans. At San Patricio, the P. T. A. organized with an enrollment of 50 members. They are sponsoring the project of playground equipment. At Jicarilla, the P. T. A. is sponsoring the improvement of the playground. The stage in the school house was built with their funds. Since P. T. A. have been organized there has been a decided improvement in community spirit, playground building and general remodeling of school equipment.

Mrs. Mary Watson, Part-Time Rural District School Supervisor, is here and will remain until March 17, after which she will go to Socorro county, to continue her work.

SUCH IS LIFE—Whatsa Use?

By Charles Sughrue

Science Gains Rich Data in Gold Rush

Knowledge of California Geology Increased.

Boston.—Conditions which cause factories to stand idle in many parts of the world, and which result in widespread unemployment, are themselves responsible for the opening in California of gold mines which have been deserted for decades, writes Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, research associate, Carnegie Institution, in the Boston Transcript.

With the opening of the mines there are uncovered not only the nuggets and dust of precious yellow metal, but ledges of rock containing fossil leaves, fruits, and wood—less valuable in the markets of the world, but of incalculable significance to the students of the earth's history.

When gold was discovered in California in 1849, the foothills east of the Sierra Nevada became the objective of the pioneer band which made fortunes and romance, and laid the foundations for the development of this westernmost unit of the United States. Hither came men from all parts of America.

Fortunes Made and Lost. Fortunes were made—and lost—during these early days when by crude mining methods the yellow metal was readily washed from the gravels bordering the Sierra Nevada. Then followed more pretentious mining known as hydraulicking; by the use of huge, spouting streams of water the sands and gravels were washed away, leaving behind fragments of gold. When the white man had taken all he could from these diggings, the Chinese, who were always awaiting their chance, took over the task of squeezing from the earth the last of the golden grist. As recently as 1908, there was recovered $750,000,000 in gold by Chinese miners almost at the center of the diggings at You Bet. The place is still called Tai Flat in honor of the Chinese foreman under whose direction it was mined, after the white miners had decided that all of the gold had been removed.

During these later years, the low price of gold has made it unprofitable to carry on extensive mining operations. Tom Brady has continued to remain as custodian of the properties of the You Bet Mining company, but the question must have arisen many times before him and before the many other men left behind in these hills after the flood of the gold boom had ebbed, as to whether there would ever again arise the tented cities of the miners, and whether great streams of water would cut once more into the gravel cliffs, seeking the yellow fragments which man has always valued.

Then came a change in the gold values as a direct result of unsettled money conditions throughout the world. From $22.67 an ounce, the price of gold shot up to $37 almost overnight. Again it became profitable to work the California placer mines, and today they are filled with men, with streams of water, with excitement. Another gold rush is under way.

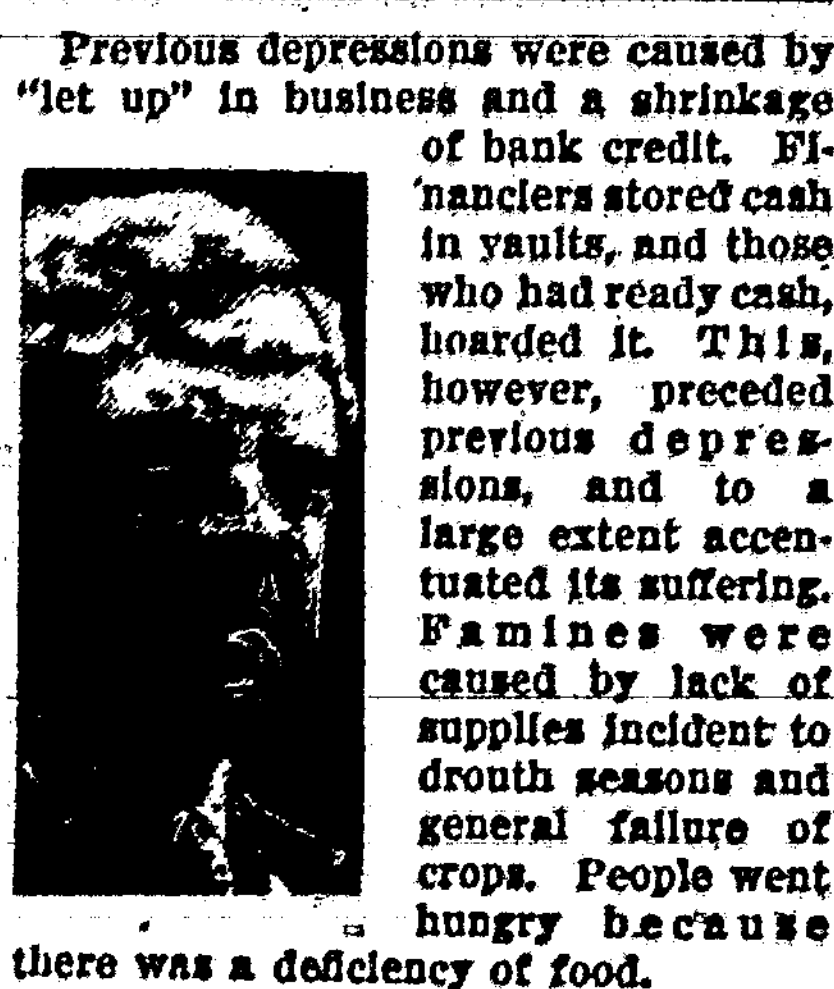

Fossils Discovered. During the early days of mining at You Bet, and at many other diggings in California, large pieces of petrified wood were uncovered in the gravels. Annoyance the miners may have felt at having to move this petrified wood, some pieces of which weigh many tons, was more than balanced by the fact that around these fossil trees the gravel was exceptionally rich in gold.

In the early days of mining activity, fossil plants were collected near You Bet, from the high ridges of gravels and clays known as Chalk Bluffs; these have been studied by paleobotanists, and important conclusions have been reached. With the closing of the mines, discoveries of fossils became less frequent, and for many years there has been no addition to our knowledge of the ancient forests of this part of California. With the revival of mining activity, new fossil-bearing layers have been discovered by the miners, and by Harry D. MacGinitie, who is studying the history of plant life at the University of California.

Mr. MacGinitie reports the finding of more than 40 kinds of leaves, including figs, magnolias, palms, sycamores and avocados. Of these none have lived down to the present in the region of You Bet, although palms and sycamores occur in warmer parts of California, and some of the others grow under cultivation. These hills are now occupied by pines and oaks, constituting a forest similar to that found in many of the temperate areas of the northern hemisphere.

A Problem—Who Can Solve It?

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Previous depressions were caused by "let up" in business and a shrinkage of bank credit. Financiers stored cash in vaults, and those who had ready cash, hoarded it. This, however, preceded previous depressions, and to a large extent accentuated its suffering. Famines were caused by lack of supplies incident to general seasons and general failure of crops. People went hungry because there was a deficiency of food.

The present depression, out of which we are gradually emerging, occurred not in a period of failure of crops or stagnation of business, but in the midst of a period of unprecedented prosperity. The cause for it, therefore, was not our failures but our successes. People are hungry today, not because there is a lack of food. We have more

Johnson Takes to Poultry

Walter Johnson, one of the greatest pitchers baseball has ever known, and manager of the Cleveland Indians, is a big leaguer in another field. He raises poultry on his farm, and they are good enough to take prizes at the poultry show, with entries from all over the country.

Food that we can possibly consume. We have had no famine as in some Oriental countries. Farm products have been so abundant that it was necessary to destroy a portion of them in order to stabilize prices. Some persons are sick today, hopelessly fighting disease, not because we do not have adequate medical knowledge. In truth, never before in our history were we more efficiently equipped with surgical skill and medical facilities. Young men and women are being deprived of a college education today, not because they lack the means of education. Our colleges were never better fortified, and the cost per student never so small. Yet hundreds of our youth go hungry for knowledge, as many hunger for food.

What is the remedy for this condition of things? We do not lack any material thing essential to the well-being of the race, and yet something very drastic and tremendously imperative is lacking. What is that something? To find an adequate answer to that question is our most urgent need.

Picture Frames. Repainting the frame often brings a picture into harmony with the room in which it is hung, says a prominent art dealer. This applies especially to black and white prints and colored reproductions of famous paintings. Choose a color which agrees with the dominating hue of the interior or the principal color of the picture. Unfinished wood frames are now available and can easily be finished to suit the room.

New Bathroom Effects. White walls for bathrooms are retreating, this time with a high, glossy finish, accented by bright rose or blue shower curtains and towels to match. A good enamel applied over two coats of flat white paint makes an attractive and enduring surface.

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

FROM the practical point of view it is as important to care for one's wardrobe as it is to select it correctly. A handsome article of apparel will soon lose its freshness and its beauty if it is carelessly handled, or not put away as it should be. Also it should be worn as befits it. In the care of the apparel should also be included the consideration of the clothes during the time of wearing them. This is a point of nicety as the wearer should never seem to be concerned about her appearance. However, it is by knowing how to manage the garments during the time of wearing, that one can seem to be regardless of them and still prevent them from getting damaged.

Now that lace costumes are so much in vogue, it is well to know that they must be put away right, for them to be taken out and worn immediately without pressing. A lace costume can be folded and put in a box and be taken out, deftly shaken and donned and look like new. If it were hung on a garment hanger the shoulders would be pulled and the sagging of the folds tends to make vertical creases, which are prevented when the dress is put away in a box. A bureau drawer is equally good, if you can spare one for the dress. Tuck crushed tissue paper between the folds of the lace and in the sleeves, if there are any. As a lace costume is apt to have a jacket of the same material, it would have sleeves, although the frock probably would not. The slip of the costume may be hung up or folded and laid under the frock. Pure, good quality silk will scarcely show any creases through folding.

Frocks With Lace Sleeves. A dress of whatever kind that has lace sleeves, should not be hung over a garment hanger. It may be suspended from it by loops sewed under the arms on the more substantial seams, or the loops may be sewed to the walstline seam if the frock has such a seam. In both instances the sleeves have no weight put on them.

When the lace frock is long, or possibly with a few inches that lie on the floor like a wee train, the wearer will be miserable when she wears it unless she knows first how to guard against its catching and getting torn, or being stepped on. She should practice gathering it up gracefully without appearing to be noticing what she does.

Women who wear trains have to learn to manage them. It can be done without the woman seeming to be giving the actions any thought at all. Let the train sweep when space permits and floors are smooth or carpeted. If you value the costume give it the unnoticeable attention it deserves.

Black Satin and Net

Ideal for restaurant wear, is a floor-length dress of black net made over black satin. The ruffled yoke and flaring sleeve caps add just the right touch of softness. The bow tie, buttons and stitched belt are black satin.

Recovers Wedding Ring Lost 33 Years

Stockholm.—Mrs. Liden, wife of a farmer near Falkenberg, lost her wedding ring 33 years ago, a few days after her marriage. The other day a laborer, spreading on a field some distance away a quantity of loam supplied by Liden from his land, saw something glittering and picked up the ring. As it was engraved with the name Liden and the date of the wedding, he had no difficulty in restoring it to its owner.

Mammoth Relics

Kenosha, Wis.—Ribs and head bones, apparently of a huge prehistoric animal, were unearthed ten feet below the surface of a school playground here by FERA workers. The jawbone was 24 inches long. Tomahawk stones and arrowheads were found on a higher level.

To Remove Ink Spots

To remove ink from linen dip the article in milk and let it soak for about two hours; then take out and wash with soap while the milk still remains on the spot.

Literally Raised From the Dead

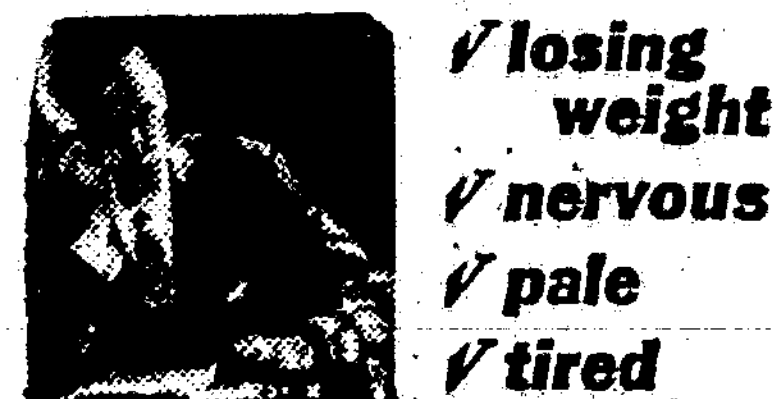

A six-pound baby is alive and kicking in New York after having been literally raised from the dead by a policeman, Officer Caesar Cosatti, and Dr. Bernard Zaglin. The baby was born to Mrs. Mary Pupples, whose first four babies are said to have been born dead. "This one seems dead, too," wailed Doctor Zaglin, "but we'll see what we can do." Spanking, drugs, and blowing into the face of the baby seemed futile, and Officer Cosatti arrived and helped the doctor blow into the child's face, and half an hour after, when both doctor and policeman were gazing, two other officers arrived with an inhalator and with that spark of life that had been started by Doctor Zaglin and the officer was fanned to flame. Three hours later Doctor Zaglin pronounced the infant "the sweetest baby I've ever seen."

NATURE'S WISDOM

Sentimental poets have sympathized with the trees exposed to the fury of the winter blasts. But the long rest they have from October to March is part of their lives. Botanists have taken our oaks and maples to the far south where winter is unknown. Yet trees adapted to this latitude do not thrive there any more than the olive and the palm thrive here. To sorrow for the trees because of winter is like sorrowing for the polar bear because he lives amid snow and ice. The polar bear enjoys it. That is his natural habitat, for which he is suited.

Nature knows best, and all that she does is part of the wisdom of the ages.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—It begins to appear that the Roosevelt administration has returned from its excursion into foreign Home Affairs and is now ready to engage in rehabilitation of domestic affairs to the exclusion of international problems, except the matter of reciprocal treaties. It is true that Secretary Hull of the Department of State, Secretary Roper of the Department of Commerce, and Senator Borah, in the senate, have talked about foreign affairs in one way or another, but none of them occasioned any observation or suggestions from the White House by their assertions.

Among the occurrences in the recent period that tend to show how the administration again is putting home affairs to the forefront are the new banking bill, the plans for recovery revival under the five billion dollar public works bill, and the determination of house and senate lately, under a White House spur, to clip the wings of, if not wholly eradicate, the so-called holding companies. Attention might be called also to the uprising in the Department of Agriculture where Secretary Wallace, and Agricultural Adjustment Administrator Chester Davis combined a few days ago to eliminate left-wing members of their respective staffs. They did it summarily, but the end is not yet, either as respects plans of Messrs. Wallace and Davis, or the yelps that may be expected from the radicals who were ousted.

The general information is that, in shelving foreign matters, Mr. Roosevelt has determined to lay aside the St. Lawrence waterway controversy until "pressing domestic matters" are disposed of. Almost in the same breath it can be said that new activity has been disclosed on the part of the New Dealers to spread their doctrine into the states and establish, if possible, uniform laws everywhere concerning privately owned utilities such as electricity and gas. While no one will say so, it is the understanding that considerable pressure is being placed behind the effort to get state legislatures to pass uniform public utilities bills, measures which have been drafted in the Public Works administration here.

Probably as important as any legislation that has gone to congress in recent months is the New Banking Bill which was transmitted to congress in a most unspectacular manner. There was no out-and-out endorsement by the White House, nor was the sponsoring of the draft made clear. The legislation was dropped into the house hopper the day after Representative Stengall, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, had given out his own summarization. Chairman Fletcher of the senate committee on banking and currency received the bill the same day as Mr. Stengall and immediately went into a huddle with himself behind closed doors to study the draft. Later he announced with apparent pleasure that it was a great piece of legislation.

Now that the bill has been printed and is available for public inspection, a perfect furor has been aroused. The conservative critics began to squawk immediately that the measure proposes to destroy the Federal Reserve system and concentrate on power of credit and currency expansion or contraction. In the hands of a small group in the Treasury they contend that this amounts to establishment of a central bank and that, under our political system, a central bank would mean an unstable currency. What more could there be then, they ask, to destroy confidence in the currency which we use?

New Dealers, in defense of this new banking legislation, have been given to making wise-cracks about the Old Dealers, who, they assert, desire to see conditions of 1928 and 1929 repeated. They cite, with some justification it seems to me, that central banks exist in most of the major countries of the world and that their service has not been a bad thing at all. Further, the New Dealers argue that the political capital of the United States is in Washington, and the financial capital has been in New York. Why, they ask, should there be such a division?

In between these two schools of thought are sound money advocates and courageous conservatives who take the position that the bill has many good qualities and that it likewise has many provisions definitely to be avoided. You have heard very little expression of opinion from this type because, it is apparent, they are giving the measure close study. They will be heard from later when the legislation is taken up by the respective committees of the house and senate and it is made to appear that some changes surely will result.

To summarize the banking legislation—and I think it is of paramount interest to every one because it touches the currency and credit so directly—the real end likely to result from the legislation is a centralized control in Washington of the very nerve center of business, money. The bill proposes to establish what is called an open market committee in Washington and to include as members of this committee three members of the Federal Reserve board. The two remaining members would come from Federal Reserve banks. From this it is seen that the Reserve board becomes the dominant body. It takes no stretch of the imagination to recognize the possibilities. Members of the Reserve board, while they are appointed for a term of ten years, sometimes resign or die off. It immediately becomes possible, therefore, to make the Federal Reserve board a purely political body dominated by the President of the United States.

The function of the open market committee, as proposed in the bill, is to order the purchase or sale of government securities in the open market. If these securities are bought, the Reserve banks issue currency for them and they increase the amount of money in circulation, thereby easing credit. If the banks sell bonds which they have in their portfolios, the currency paid for those bonds obviously is taken out of circulation and that action results in a contraction or reduction of the amount of credit available.

If, for example, the occupant of the White House at any time happens to be an out-and-out inflationist, it is easy to see how government bonds can be absorbed by the Reserve banks and new currency put in circulation in whatever volume the administration policies require.

Another phase of the bill would allow national banks and state banks that are members of the Federal Reserve system to make loans on real estate for a twenty-year term. Five years is the present limitation. One has only to go back for an examination of causes of hundreds of bank failures in recent years to discover that the five-year limitation probably increased the mortality among otherwise sound banks to a greater extent than, any other factor. In other words, to grant a bank the privilege of making a loan for twenty years means that such a bank ties up an equal amount of depositor's money in a place from which it cannot be suddenly recalled if the depositors take a sudden notion to withdraw substantial sums from that bank.

There is another section of the measure which I think is worthy of close Federal Reserve examination. It proposes to combine the jobs of governor and agent, and that the bank policies should be executed by the governor who is selected by the bank board of directors.

This provided something of a dual control, a check and balance on the exercise of power. Now, however, the effort is to be made to combine the jobs and make the head of the bank a strictly government representative.

That course naturally is in line with the Roosevelt program of extending and expanding federal authority. The President has constantly increased the scope of power and influence exercised from Washington. The current offering is accepted everywhere as bringing under federal domination completely the banking system of this nation. It does so because none can deny that the Federal Reserve banks hold a club over the heads of private bankers wherever they may be.

So I believe it is a fair statement to say that Mr. Roosevelt, or those who are responsible to him, is reaching out to amplify the control of credit from Washington which was initiated through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and other leading agencies. The Federal Reserve system was set up, according to the debate on the measure in congress at that time, to decentralize credit control and break the grip which New York exercised over the volume of credit. Now, apparently, it is all coming back to Washington, probably to be exercised by politicians instead of men with banking training.

In connection with the administration's attention to domestic affairs and the consequent legislative changes, attention might well be centered on the meaning of some of the moves. One Washington observer wrote in his newspaper the other day that the administration was renewing its notes at the bank. What he referred to was the extension of life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the pumping of more blood into the veins of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

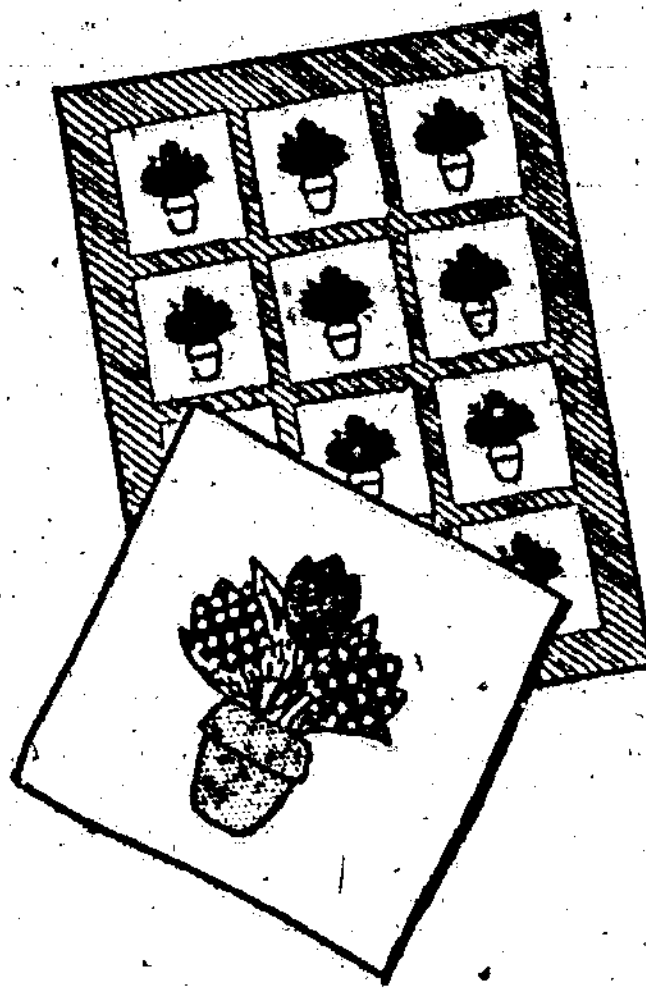

Something similar has occurred with respect to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which has been given new life and about $350,000,000 in new money by an act of congress.

Then, President Roosevelt has asked for renewal of the life of the National Recovery Administration and for re-enactment of the National Industrial Recovery act, both of which expire next June 10.

As a result of these maneuvers a good many observers are of the opinion that the recovery efforts have not been as successful as their optimistic sponsors had predicted a year ago. Renewal of these stop-gap agencies, extension of power here and there, and the initiation of new experiments are given as reasons for the belief that uncertainty exists and satisfactory progress toward recovery is still more apparent than real.

Tulip Has Won Popular Favor

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

The tulip adapts itself so well to applique and quilting designs that it is made use of quite frequently. This combination, showing the entire potted plant, gained popularity immediately after it was released. Tulips in bloom always form a beautiful color scheme, and this tulip pot is also brilliant in prints and green applique. These stamped blocks are 18 inches, and twelve are required for a quilt about 70 by 97 inches, if you use a nine inch border and four inch strips between blocks. Strips and border widths can be changed to make a quilt any size.

Send 15c to our quilt department for one of these stamped blocks, No. 99-F, and the stamped applique pieces ready to be cut out. Work this up and see what a beautiful quilt can be made of this design. A set of six blocks will be sent for 75c, postpaid.

PERIOD OF PLAY SHOULD BE HELD AS CHILD'S RIGHT

By MARY G. McCORMICK
Supervisor of Health Teaching, New York State Department of Education.
A frequent mistake on the part of parents is to be too ambitious for the child. After a youngster has attended school for five or six hours he has a right to an hour or two of uninterrupted play. The period from the time he arrives home from school until his supper is served should be his own.

Unfortunately, many parents seize upon this pitifully small playtime to load the child with music lessons, dramatic lessons, dancing lessons and other kinds of lessons which, added to the time already spent in school, means that he works a longer day than most adults.

The result is that a child tends to become nervous and fretful. He gets insufficient physical exercise. He is deprived of sunshine and fresh air and his health suffers.

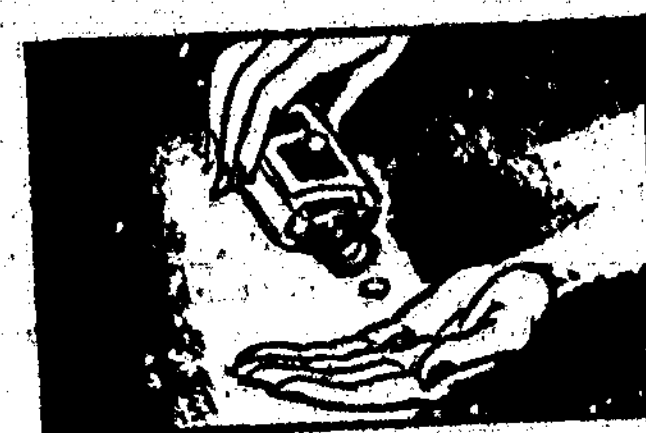

Do not load your child down with outside duties. His school work is enough. If you are ambitious for his future wait until he is old enough to take a personal interest in his career before you begin to force one upon him. His childhood will be gone soon enough. He should not be robbed of it.

For their health's sake, let your children do the things they want to do, providing their activities do not encroach on the rights of others. There are more educational opportunities concealed in commonplace games than parents realize.

Fertilizer Helps Fish
Larger and more fish may be produced by using farm fertilizer in lake water. It is reported in connection with tests conducted in Wisconsin. The fish do not eat the phosphorus and lime contained in the fertilizer. The gain in fish, in size and in number, comes by the indirect route of first giving the fertilizer to the marine plants and then letting the fish eat the plants.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Now Relieve Your Cold "Quick as You Caught It"

For Amazingly Fast Results Remember Directions in These Simple Pictures

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

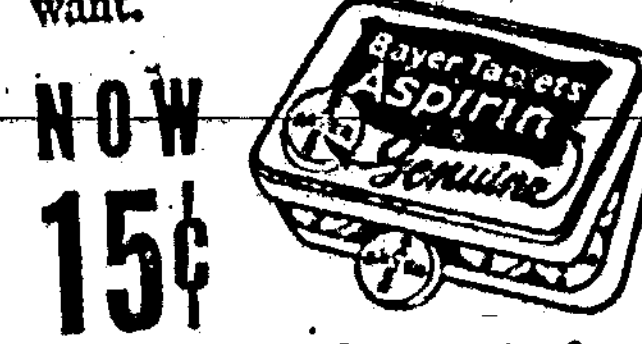

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

Straws That Show the Wind

Echoes from the political arena as it is viewed just now, indicate rather strongly that within the next year, there will be an uprising against the present administration which will crystallize into one of the strongest third-party movements this country has ever seen.

The once solid front which the President had and of which he so readily boasted has been dissolved and if reports coming from Washington are true, there will be something doing before long in the liberal trend. Regardless of their leader's opposition, a movement is forming in Congress of a nature that is bound to create trouble for the administration. This opposition does not come from the Republican element in Congress, but from the Democratic majority, which sees that it has already delegated too much power to the President and therefore, is determined to overthrow it. This it will attempt to do with the assistance of the progressives, conservatives and Republicans, who heretofore have been sitting idly by and watching the "one-man-show."

It has become a well known fact that the Republicans have been encouraging Senator Huey Long's undisguised attempts to overthrow the Democrats. Around Senator Huey Long, gather the rebel elements spoken of above, and all prestige which the President can bring, seems to be of little value to stem the tide of opposition. Before the campaign of 1936 begins, we may expect to see a monster movement which must receive the attention of the American people.

This movement will be an uprising of conservatives such as Glass, Bally, Gore and others on the Democratic side, assisted by progressives such as Norris, LaFollette, Borah, Johnson, to say nothing of the Farmer Laborites and other remnants of political faiths, all of which have their followings and will consolidate. Huey's strength might break the solid south—who knows?

As viewed from the sidelines, the situation is enough to cause alarm to the administration and it is uncontrollable. It may be that the Kingfish will head the new movement, and if so, we may expect to see a big fight. Let'er come! We're ready for most anything.

Notice of Foreclosure Sale

WHEREAS, on the 30th day of November, 1934, in Cause No. 4208, pending in the District Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, wherein C. Y. Allen and Bertha Allen Nafziger are plaintiffs, and Waldo E. Lott and Effie Lott are defendants, the same being a suit for judgment upon a promissory note executed by the defendants, Waldo E. Lott and Effie Lott, for the principal sum of $500.00, together with interest, and to foreclose a certain mortgage deed securing said indebtedness upon the property hereinafter described, the plaintiffs recovered a judgment against the defendants in the total sum of $687.22, together with all costs of said action, which said judgment at the date of sale hereinafter mentioned will amount to the sum of $882.00, together with all costs of said action in the sum of $10, and the accruing costs of sale, and on the said date the plaintiffs recovered a decree of the Court foreclosing the said certain mortgage deed securing said indebtedness for the amount of said judgment and costs in favor of the plaintiffs and against all of said defendants upon the following described real estate located in Lincoln County, New Mexico, to-wit:

Lots One, Two, Three and Four, E1NW1, NE1SW1, E1 of Section 19, Township One South, Range 18 East, N. M. P. M., containing 632 54 acres; and in said decree plaintiffs' said mortgage was declared a first, valid and subsisting lien upon all of the said real estate therein described, against the defendants, and each of them; and,

WHEREAS, in said decree the Court ordered that said described real estate be sold, and that the proceeds of such sale be applied in the first place to pay all the costs of this suit and the expenses and costs of this sale, and second, to pay off and discharge the money judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiffs in said decree, and the remainder, if any there be, to be paid to the defendants, their heirs or assigns; and,

WHEREAS, in said decree the said Court appointed the undersigned, Jack Hanny, Special Master, and directed that he advertise and sell said property as provided by law and the decree of the Court;

THEREFORE, pursuant to said judgment and decree of the Court, and order of sale in the premises, and the power vested in me as Special Master, I will, on the 10th day of March, 1935, at the hour of 2:00 o'clock P. M. at the front door of the Courthouse in the town of Carrizozo, Lincoln County, New Mexico, expose and offer for sale, and sell, at public vendue said real estate to the highest bidder for cash, subject to the confirmation of the Court, for the purpose of satisfying said judgment and decree, costs of suit and accruing costs of sale, provided however, that plaintiffs may be bidders at such sale, and if the highest bidders or bidder therefor may purchase said real estate and have the amount of their said bid credited upon their said judgment.

Witness my hand this 6th day of February, 1935.

down the wrath of Senator Borah from Washington Sunday night. The Senator among other things in which he charged the NRA with fostering monopolies, said: "Bad trusts and good trusts incorporated into law would mean simply that monopolies were to be permitted to prey upon the people by leave of political favoritism. It is like the lawyer who sought to draw the line between extortion and kidnaping."

In viewing the Senator's comeback at Richberg, it reminds us of what the late Senator Ingalls of Kansas once said about eggs. He said: "There are good, bad and doubtful eggs—but in reality there are only two kinds, for doubtful eggs are always bad." In the same measure are the trusts, with Senator Borah, although he did not so express himself, but he could have said, as did Senator Ingalls, that there is but really one kind of a monopoly and that is a bad one, instead of two, as designated by Richberg.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is to be responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. Lanny tells Chief McNamara, who orders her to bring Nance to his apartment. Details of Nance's escape are made public.

CHAPTER V—Continued

"Nance had no right to be there," the man protested to McNamara. "The poor kid's queer." He tapped his forehead. "But she framed a sweet geta way, if it would work, and we figured it might. So we thought we'd give the girl a hand. She's all right. I've got a blind brother that would have starved to death if it hadn't been for Nance Belden; as for the man the doctor's working over now, Nance took care of his wife while he was in the str. Helped her when she had a baby. Chief, that girl's a saint. The only trouble with her is that she's a devil, too. You never know how to figure her."

"You've figured her right. She's queer. And what's your wounded friend been doing since he got out of str? What did he get in for?"

"He got in for bootlegging and he's been bodyguard for a boss bootlegger since he got out."

"H-m-m-m! And what's your specialty?"

"I don't know what line I'll take up, Chief. I've only been out of the United States army disciplinary barracks on Alcatraz Island a month. I was a soldier—and I poked an officer."

"Oh, you're the machine-gunner, eh? Lenned to shoot in the army, I suppose?"

"If I hadn't, I'd have killed that guard. I could have gotten him if I cared to, but instead I scared him with oars and shorts. Did I sweep the roof of that lookout tower?"

"You certainly did—and rattled the man at the Browning gun there. Well, you're quite a fellow! What does your friend, the chauffeur, do?"

"Delivers bootleg. He took a chance for a friend."

"You may go," said Dan McNamara to the chauffeur. "Take your car and boat it. But I'll remember you and if you pull any rough stuff in this city I'll land you out in the grass. On your way."

The man fled promptly, and Dan turned to the ex-soldier. "I've got Nance out at my house," he explained. "Doctor Burt has fixed her up and I'm not going to turn her in. Neither am I going to turn her out, because she wouldn't be out two hours before she'd be picked up. That saddle nose of hers is a dead give-away."

The man nodded ingenuously. "We've got to find a quiet spot for your friend, too," the chief went on meditatively. "A man with three bullet holes in him is in an embarrassing fix—when he's wanted. So we'll take him out to my house, too. That's the only safe place I can think of."

"How about me?"

"You've been a soldier, so I suppose you can carry out orders?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, your orders are to come out to my house, too, and take care of your friends. The doctor will call every day and tell you what to do. And you'll have to do the cooking."

"I can do that, too. Not fancy, but they can eat it."

"All right, you've got a job and a holding-up place as well. I'll go home now and get my car and come back for you and your friend. Meanwhile don't you get cold feet and disappear. I want to talk to you some more. I want to find out all about Nance Belden, and you and your friend might be able to give a line on her."

"I don't know anything about her, Chief, except that her real name is Penelope Gatlin."

Dan McNamara clasped his corrugated brow in both hands and pondered. "Gatlin! Gatlin! Penelope Gatlin! Now, where have I run across that name in my business? I don't usually forget names, and I seem to remember I had a call once for somebody by that name or else somebody by that name called on me. It was a long time ago. I'll have to look that up—I wonder if there's anything in the files at headquarters."

It was midnight before Nance Belden's two friends were installed with her in Dan McNamara's house. Lanny looked both men over carefully and confided to the chief that she wouldn't trust either one of them as far as she could throw a bear by its tail, to which Mr. McNamara replied that one of them couldn't raise any favevity if he wanted to, while the other dared not. Moreover, this latter was the only practical nurse he could secure. A trained nurse might talk to the other hand, this friend of Nance's had been educated to keep his mouth shut.

"And a very great virtue," McNamara added. "His freedom is in my keeping and my honor is in his, so we have to trust each other. Besides, it's high time you got home."

"How about those two cops waiting for me?"

"Greet them kindly, ask them their business and invite them to talk it over before they can tell you what it is. When they tell you permit them to search your home, and be cheerful about it."

The phone rang and Dan answered it. When he rejoined Lanny he was smiling broadly. "You're a bum mopper-up," he accused. "That was Flynn, one of the detective sergeants on watch at your house. He found two drops of blood you overlooked, so he thinks you and Nance are in the house but refuse to answer the bell, and he wants permission to break in, in the name of the law. He says he can slide the latch on your front door lock like nobody's business. I told him to wait another hour and then try it, but to be careful."

Lanny's independent and belligerent nature was instantly aroused. "If I couldn't give a snooper like that cards and spades, the four aces, big and little casino, and beat him to death on the sweeps, I'd kiss a cow," she declared. "Guess I'll go home and make those big boobs feel ashamed of themselves for disturbing a lady."

"Whatever you do, be nice to them," he warned earnestly. "If you get snooty with them, Lanny, they'll just walk you down to central station, and stow you away for the night—with the excuse that the chief wants to see you. And I've decided I don't know you. If I did I'd go home with you."

He escorted Lanny out to her car enough to open your garage door, Miss Lanning, we will go out, come up your front stairs, ring the bell like gentlemen, and ask if we can't come in and have a little chat with you. Is that satisfactory?"

"Eminently so," Lanny was as polite as the speaker now. She felt for the bolt in back of her, slid it back and kicked the door open without taking her eyes or her pistol off the pair. They went out, closed both doors behind her and held them closed until she had shot the bolt home again. Then she went upstairs and let herself in just as her doorbell rang; so she switched on the lights, removed her hat and coat, went to the door and opened it. Instantly two large hands thrust two cards at her; whereupon she was aware that she was about to entertain Detective Sergeant P. Flynn and Detective Sergeant A. Angelotti.

"Good evening, gentlemen," Lanny hailed them cordially. "Come in and rest your big fat feet."

P. Flynn nodded wisely to A. Angelotti. "She resents us, Amadeo," said he.

"Oh, I hope not, Pat. Let us hope it is not us she resents but our honorable profession." The wretch bowed again. "Thank you, Miss Lanning." And both gentlemen entered.

Lanny led them down the hall to her tiny drawing room. Angelotti, like a hound, followed close behind her, but Flynn was in no hurry. He swept the runner in the hall with a flashlight first, then followed his partner into the drawing room, and sat down heavily on a divan.

"Is this to be a long interview?" Lanny asked cheerfully.

P. Flynn shook his head. "A minute or two."

"Then I'll not bother giving you anything to drink."

"Well, it might take ten minutes, at least," Flynn countered.

"At least that," Angelotti agreed.

"Besides, Pat, she works for a doctor

Then Lanny Almost Screamed. Instantly She Switched Off the Light. Got Her Little Pistol Out of Her Bag and Switched the Light on Again.

and with a flashlight examined it very carefully again for signs of blood. He found two dried splashes and wiped them away before permitting her to depart.

As Lanny entered the driveway and paused in front of her garage, there were no detectives in sight, although there might have been had she deemed it the part of wisdom to glance carefully about her. She unlocked the garage door, climbed back in her car, drove in, stopped the motor and switched off the lights. Then she got out, closed and locked the garage door and turned on an electric light switch on the doorstep to light her way upstairs to her kitchen.

Then she almost screamed. Two big fellows wearing soft hats were standing behind her car, gazing at her awfully. Instantly Lanny switched off the light, got her little pistol out of her bag and switched the light on again.

"Now what do you two handsome devils want?" she demanded.

Like automata the pair threw back their lamps and disclosed their shields. "Cops or no cops," Lanny announced. "My garage is my castle, and you can't come into it uninvited without a search warrant."

The two detectives looked at each other and Lanny realized that they appreciated her very much indeed. "She's a lawyer," said one of them.

"Not a very good one, though," the other replied. "However, Pat, let her have her own way. A woman—the outrageous fellow bowed low—and particularly a young and beautiful woman—with a pistol—always makes me nervous. If you will be good to an

and her stuff is probably good old prescription goods."

"We been hours out in the cold," Flynn added sadly.

Lanny mixed her guests each a highball. P. Flynn drank half of his at a gulp, set down his glass and said: "Well, where's Nance Belden?"

"I see by the papers she escaped from San Quentin about six hours ago."

"She came here," Flynn charged.

"Prove it," Lanny challenged tartly; whereupon Flynn went out into the entrance hall and returned, dragging the end of the hall runner with him. He turned it over and revealed a large dark red spot. "Blood!" he announced.

Angelotti touched the spot. "Fresh blood!"

"Human blood," Flynn went on. "Quite a clot of it. She must have fainted after Miss Lanning let her in. Undoubtedly she lay several minutes in the hall bleeding while Miss Lanning was fixing a bed for her."

"We know she came here," Angelotti charged. "We found two spots of blood on the sidewalk."

"That settles it," Flynn declared with ponderous finality. "Miss Lanning, you have this female convict secreted in your house and I advise you to give her up. Come now, give her up," he wheedled, "and we'll just give it out that we caught her trying to get into your house during your absence. We'll protect you."

"Search my house," Lanny offered in a queer, choked voice. She loathed herself for having overlooked that large blood stain on her hall runner.

End Codling Moth by Spraying Trees

Heavier Pruning Necessary During the Early Winter, Entomologist Says.

By S. C. Chandler, Assistant Entomologist, Illinois State Natural History Survey, WNU Service.

With the codling moth as bad as it is in apple orchards, growers may have to start pruning their trees heavier this winter in order to do a more thorough job of spraying in the spring.

This may mean fewer apples, but it will mean higher quality fruit. As it is, one out of every ten apples grown in Illinois in 1934 was infested with codling moth worms. Too many growers still think only of producing the maximum number of bushels rather than harvesting quality fruit. It usually is not necessary, however, to reduce the total crop to get worm-free apples.

If the grower can answer all six of the following questions in the affirmative, he can feel that he is pruning heavily enough for effective spraying against the codling moth.

Has the tree been thinned out enough so that the man on the tower of a spray can drive the spray material through the tree?

Are there enough openings in the tree so that the ground man can get into the center and spray the inside? With large, fairly dense trees, some growers leave three or four such openings.

After the operator gets to the inside, has the tree been thinned sufficiently so that he can do a thorough job of spraying?

Have too many low-hanging branches been left on the tree? Trees twenty-five years old may have a spread of 80 feet. If the branches touch the ground or come within a foot of it, the side of the apple facing the trunk will not be hit by the spray.

Has the height of the tree been lowered as much as practicable? The top of the tree is the playground of the codling moth and infestations are usually worse there.

Have all hibernating places about the tree, such as punky, decayed wood, old knot holes, split branches and pruning tubs been removed? These are favorite "hideouts" of the moth.

Korean Lespedeza Will Supply Emergency Crop

Midwest farmers who need an emergency hay crop in 1935 may find that Korean lespedeza will fill the bill, says Dr. A. J. Pieters of the United States Department of Agriculture. Doctor Pieters advises seeding on winter wheat or with oats next spring. For a hay crop, a seeding of 25 pounds to the acre is recommended.

This authority says the crop may also be seeded alone on land that is not weedy. He recommends inoculating the seed where the crop has not been grown before. He reports a good supply of seed available.

Doctor Pieters says that where Korean lespedeza was grown in 1934 a good volunteer stand is probable, and he says that small grain may be sown in the old lespedeza and a crop of grain hay and one of lespedeza raised on the same land.

Cut Boar's Tusks

The large, sharp teeth which are found in pigs at birth are temporary tusks. So far as has been discovered, they are of no value whatever to the pig, except as a means of defense, and for that purpose they are not needed on the farm. Tusks are a nuisance, in that with them the pigs often hurt each other and very frequently incur the udder of the sow. For that reason, experienced hog men commonly cut these teeth close to the gums, with nippers which are made for that purpose. In removing the teeth, one should be careful not to injure the gums, since an open wound furnishes an ideal place for disease infection to take place. The proper time to remove these tusks is when the pigs are only a few days old. Certainly, they should never be left on a boar that is intended for breeding purposes.—Wallace's Farmer.

Tanning Cow Hides

Many farmers will butcher a beef or two this winter and be confronted with the prospect of practically giving away the hide. Rather than sell cow or calf hides for a meager price, notes a writer in the Missouri Farmer, they should be used on the farm. It is not necessary to tan a hide to make it into a suitable rug, or a mat for the floor of one's automobile. Try salting down a hide, rolling it up with the salt inside for a time, or until the hide has taken enough salt to "keep" it, then roll it out and clean it and tuck up to dry. When dried, cut it into a square shape for a rug, or in suitable shapes for other purposes such as a floor mat for the car. Calf hides make splendid rugs for bathroom, etc. Rugs dried up in this way will be soft, but they make up for this in beauty.

Drouth-Resistant Plants

After searching the deserts and foothills of Russian Turkestan and most of Turkey for plants to control soil erosion, H. L. Westover and C. R. Enlow, plant explorers of the United States Department of Agriculture, have returned after seven months with nearly 1,800 seedlings. Among them is a desert grass which, uprooted by the wind, grabs hold again when it lands. Another, a kind of sedge, is propagated only from root-cuttings.—Literary Digest.

Lesson for March 3

PETER UNMASKS FALSEHOOD AND HYPOCRISY

LESSON TEXT—Acts 5:1-11, 2:18-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbor; for we are members one of another, Ephesians 4:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter's Friend Helps People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Stands for Truth and Honesty.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Sin of Lying.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Modern Forms of Hypocrisy.

1. Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5:1-11).

The new community formed after Pentecost is now for the first time called the Church. Since the Christians have now broken with Judaism the success of the new community depends upon its gaining recognition. The Church is now superseding the Mosaic economy. It was now to be God's dwelling place, as hitherto it had been in the Tabernacle and Temple. Their sanctity was now being transferred to the Church. This fact the Church itself must learn as well as the Jewish people who surrounded it.

L. Their sin (vv. 1, 2). It was a hypocritical imitation of the generous act of Barnabas (4:36, 37). Because of the particular distress of the early Church following its open rupture with Judaism, its members for a time had a "community of goods." This was not universal nor permanent. Ananias kept back a part of the proceeds from the sale of his land, while pretending to have brought it all. His wife was a partner in it. They wanted the honor of generosity without paying the price thereof.

2. Their judgment (vv. 3-10). Physical death was visited upon Ananias and Sapphira for their sin. They lied to the Holy Ghost in keeping back a part of the price of their land. They were not obliged to sell their land or, having sold it, to bring any of their money and place it in the common fund. People today are walking in the way of Ananias and Sapphira when they make a profession of Christianity for temporal gain and pleasure. Preaching the sermons of Moody, Spurgeon, etc., without giving credit is another form of this evil. God is passing judgment upon many for their sins of this kind (1 Cor. 11:27-30).

3. The effect (vv. 11-10).

a. Great fear came upon the Church and upon all who heard of these things (v. 11). The Church should be regarded as holy because of its being the very dwelling place of the Most High God. Irreverence is an outstanding sin of this age.

b. Multitudes of men and women were added to the Lord (vv. 14, 15). The fame of Peter was spread far and wide, so that the people were anxious to come under his shadow. The proper recognition of the holiness of the Church, the body of Christ, will bring many to Christ for salvation.

c. Hypocrites did not dare to join (v. 13). The vindication of the holiness of the Church deterred none but hypocrites from joining. No unregenerate person and nothing unhalloved has any place in the Church.

11. Simon the Sorcerer (Acts 8:18-24).

1. His wicked request (vv. 18, 19). When Simon saw that Peter's power to work wonders exceeded his own and that this power was received through the laying on of hands, he offered money for the gift. This act revealed his hypocrisy. He professed faith in Christ and was baptized, and even followed the apostles for a selfish end. Traffic in sacred things is called "Simony," from the name of this sorcerer. Making merchandise of Christianity is committing the same sin. Using the name of Christ for the purpose of gain is to be guilty of this sin.

2. Peter's severe rebuke (vv. 20-22).

a. "Thy money perish with thee." This implies that Peter's judgment was that Simon was unregenerate and that he himself was in the way of perishing.

b. "Thy heart is not right in the sight of God." One whose inner life delights in God could not seek the Spirit's power for selfish reasons.

c. "Repent of thy wickedness and pray to God for forgiveness." While Peter recognized that this man was unsaved, he did not regard him as beyond the hope of salvation, but urged him to turn from his sin and ask for forgiveness.

d. "Thou art in the gall of bitterness and in the bond of iniquity." The one and only thing for this man to do was to repent and sue for forgiveness. Simon requested Peter's prayer to the end that he might escape divine judgment.

The Power of Jesus

Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father.—John 10:17-18.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE SHOULD BE LIQUID

(Ask any doctor)

For your own comfort, and for your children's safety and future welfare, you should read this:

The bowels cannot be helped to regularly by any laxative that can't be regulated as to dose. That is why doctors use liquid laxatives.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative does give the right amount of help. When repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. Every druggist has it.

Prints Gay With Color Now Arrive

surprising variety of colorful materials that are just as practical as they are good looking.

PLAYING the game of fashion, the next move is to acquire a bright simple daytime wearable frock which has the freshness of the new season in its looks, to wear under your fur coat during lingering snows and departing wintry chill. Later this gay little gown will companion admirably with a chic light wool topcoat in role of a smart springtime ensemble.

If it is your custom to buy ready-made a casual manner through leading dress departments will be your budget's undoing, for the new between-season's dresses are not to be resisted. A most exciting feature about the early spring arrivals in the shops is the abundance of frilly ornate neckwear which lends a delightfully feminine air to the new modes.

The woman who likes the fun of making her own simple daytime frocks will find inspiration-plus in the spring fabric displays which in their gay colorings have turned winter into spring within store walls. Walking through the aisles and aisles of fascinating, joyous-looking prints and the rows and rows of voguish linens that flaunt their vivid peasant colorings before enchanted eyes, and the novelty cottons which were never more novel, no matter how conservative you may have been up to this season in matter of colors and patterns you will throw discretion to the winds and indulge to your heart's content in the giddiest, prettiest, most flattering materials you have known for this many a day.

As to the new prints the arrival of the first robin in your garden is no surer sign of spring than is their appearance on the style horizon. You will be delighted, if bewildered, by the

The three frocks shown here illustrate but a fraction of the perfectly beautiful washable prints that are in good taste now for wear under a coat and for later on when no coat is necessary. These attractive dresses are made up in rayon chilla crepe, in the brightest of colorfast colors.

For campus or office wear or for resort wear with light accessories, the faltered frock to the left, of print in a spaced conventional dot design with its ascot type scarf and cuffs of self-fabric, is both smart and practical. There are no fussy details or tricky places that your iron cannot reach in a hurry, and you probably know that you can wash and iron these chilla crepe frocks with no more special care than fine cottons.

The frock with the two-tone tie will carry you through a day that includes shopping, luncheon, matinee and tea. The lines are becomingly simple, the better to accentuate the beauty of the design of colorful leaves against a dark background. It is easy even for the amateur to work with this crepe tie stays so accurately in place as you cut out the pattern, with no frayed or curled up edges as you baste it together.

The print that fashions the dress on the seated figure is stunning. Solid black dots together with white dots that are cross-lined with fine red and black lines stand out boldly against a bright red background. The button fastening and the touch of knife-pleating are important style details. As you see from the smart models pictured, you do not have to sacrifice any style points this spring when you look for washable dresses.

NEW STYLES SHOW GREEK INFLUENCE

The Greek influence on current styles has spread so that now it is to be seen in furniture and clothes as well as in the lines of the feminine figure. The popularity of the flat Greek rear profile has made the figure ideal of the Greeks an established vogue.

The influence of this Greek ideal is to be seen in Mainbocher's recent introduction of a gown modeled on the robes worn by ancient Greek dancers. This slimy, graceful garment heralds a turn from the "important" gown, with its stiff formality, to the softness of net and tulle. Its straight skirt is short in front and to the ground in back. There is a garland of fruit or flowers around the waist. Very authentically Greek. And very revealing of the state of one's figure. Hips must be slender, small breasts uplifted in youthful silhouette. The flat Greek rear profile was never more important than to this new and slimly molded style.

To complete the picture, a great vogue for classical Greek furniture is predicted for this spring.

New Fur-Lined Slippers Slender as Satin Pumps

The fur-lined slipper is probably one of the greatest joys the modern woman has ever known. And because it is fur-lined, doesn't mean that it is bulky or clumsy-looking. Not at all. It is as sleek and slender as the sheerest satin pump or sandal, but the sole of the foot is protected against cold pavements by a thin, but warm, layer of rabbit or sheepskin, fuzzy side footward.

The strapless brassiere is another boon to smart women. For evening it has certainly become an indispensable item in the society woman's wardrobe. Because of its clever construction of the sheerest and most clinging fabric, it stays perfectly in place without the bothersome need of straps over the shoulders.

THE GRACE OF GOD

By LUCIE A. O'BRIEN
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

"Tessie, where are you going?" Mrs. Delaney peremptorily asked her daughter from the pantry doorway.

The girl clutched the door-knob to steady her trembling fingers. "Oh—just out."

"Where?" Mrs. Delaney's voice was just a trifle shrill.

"Oh, ma, I'm over twelve," replied her daughter.

"Yes," rejoined her mother, "you're twenty-one. That's why you ought to show some sense. And let me tell you once and for all, young lady, you've got to stop meeting this sneaky fellow."

"Well, I won't," burst out the girl, passionately. "I'm old enough to take care of myself. And . . ."

"The hospitals and morgues are full of girls who thought the same thing," interrupted her mother.

"And Fremont Sawyer is a gentleman," continued the girl.

"Then preserve me from a gentleman who won't come to a girl's house and let her out of an automobile on the corner."

Teresa flushed a shamed red. The shaft had struck.

"What of it?" She braved the issue.

"I suppose if his name was Sullivan or O'Toole or McCarthy he'd be wonderful."

Previous experience should have taught Teresa that she could not outscore her mother in crushing rejoinders.

"My best friends are Mrs. McGregor and Mrs. Uditsky next door," said the mother, heavily; "and two finer women don't live. But, I tell you this, Tessie, oil and water don't scratch, but they don't mix, either. And when it comes to marriage—"

"Who said anything about marriage?" queried Teresa with forced jauntness.

"Well then, what's he about?" thundered Mrs. Delaney. And then the pent-up anxiety of the past months burst forth in a tempestuous torrent of scathing, bitter words.

"All right," cried Teresa, angrily. "I can look out for myself. I work . . ."

"Yes, you'll go far," sniffed Mrs. Delaney.

Every bit of Teresa's fair office salary went for clothes and gewgaws to adorn her pretty self.

"Now, see here, Tessie—"

"Tessie! Can't you call me Teresa?"

"Very well, Teresa. But you don't stir out of this house to meet that road snake. There are plenty of amusements right here in town without needing to cross over to reach God-forsaken places—and I mean it. I'm going to settle this affair, once and for all."

"I don't wonder that girls leave home!" raged Teresa.

"Aw, say, Tess, cut the rough stuff," interjected a husky, boyish voice.

A coppery-haired lad of fifteen snatched into the room.

Passing his mother, he put a grimy hand on her shoulder and said, "Want to go see Wallace Beery? You know he always hands you a laugh."

His boyish subterfuge was so transparent that Mrs. Delaney suddenly bowed her head. Strangled sobs escaped her.

Teresa and Charlie stood agnost.

Mrs. Delaney was not a person given to surface emotions.

Teresa's heart pounded painfully.

She wanted to fling her young arms around her mother and say, "Ma, don't cry like that. Honestly, I love you."

Unfortunately, members of families are apt at expressing affection for one another.

Yet the tense situation might have cleared somehow had not Charlie expelled that golden chance by his ensuing indignant words:

"You certainly are a fat tire—and so's that ham-and-egger you travel with."

Teresa wrenched the door open.

"Maybe you'll be glad if I travel so far that I'll never come back."

Mrs. Delaney rose, her usual poise fully restored.

"Go, Teresa," she directed, gravely; "and may the grace of God be with you."

Teresa, awe-stricken and shivering, ran down the gloomy stairway.

Once on the sidewalk, in the golden sunshine, her rankling thoughts cleared magically.

She looked at her enameled wrist-watch—her mother's gift to her on her twenty-first birthday. Mrs. Delaney wore Teresa's discarded one.

Teresa hesitated. . . . But a vision of a tall young man floated before her.

A young man of mysterious eyes, mysterious charms, mysterious enterprises, who, by his own account, could have any girl in town.

Teresa moved forward briskly.

She had intended walking to the ferry-landing this gorgeous day. But the wordy encounter with her mother having delayed her, she was obliged to board a trolley and transfer to a ferry tram. She reached the slip just as the ferry boat was edging away.

She saw the widening expanse of bottle-green water churning softly in the wake of the heavily-laden ferry boat. "Kismet!"

Her eyes, smarting with scalding tears, she retraced her steps, her heart heavy.

She knew Fremy well enough to realize that he would not wait for the next boat—an hour hence.

She remembered his oft-quoted declaration that there were too many lively fish in any old pond to await the coming of a slow one.

The gold and blue day suddenly became drab and dull.

Infatuation and inexperience blinded Teresa to the fact that Fremy Sawyer's every action indicated the cheap poseur, eager for praise and admiration. She had, so far, refused to let Fremy park along dark roadsides but she sensed that she could not put him off much longer.

Disappointment, anger, and the underlying gnawing remembrance of her mother's hurt, all combined to make her head whirl.

Distraught, she stepped back.

She was conscious of shouts, of grinding noises.

She felt a violent impact.

There followed the quiet of the tomb.

Teresa raised her heavy eyelids.

Through a haze she saw her mother and Charlie.

A white-robed person eased her pillow.

Teresa was conscious of a sickeningly sweetish odor. A leaden weight held her down.

"Ma," she whispered, "what happened?"

"Just a minor accident, my dear," crisply answered the efficient, uniformed personage at her bedside.

"You were struck a glancing blow by a machine. Nothing serious."

She frowned warningly at the visitors as she hustled out of the sickroom.

Charlie gaped after her retreating figure.

Struck and thrown by a truck, his sister had miraculously escaped death; but the fractures and contusions she had sustained would confine her to the hospital for some time.

"Twas the grace of God," said Mrs. Delaney, softly.

Charlie grinned. That was ma. "It might have been worse, etc., etc."

"Ma—" Teresa struggled with the stubborn words—"I'm sorry—I didn't mean—"

"When you get out of the hospital, we'll most likely get a car," replied her mother, her eyes clear, although there was a stinging in her nose and a prickling in her throat.

"Ma, I meant to go. I missed the ferry."

"Twas the grace of God!" intoned Mrs. Delaney.

The light of understanding flooded Charlie's young mind. He suddenly remembered his mother's parting words to Teresa. And the grace of God sure had been with his sister.

"Tess, what do you think? A state cop spotted Fremy Sawyer going sixty—with his arm around a girl." Mrs. Delaney tried vainly to catch her son's eye, to warn him into silence. "The cop chased him—Fremy's car skidded around a curve and went plumb over the bank down to the shore."

Teresa closed her eyes to shut out the frightful picture of the speeding machine breaking through the guard rail and hurtling down the steep embankment to the sea-swept beach below.

"Twas the grace of God," droned Mrs. Delaney as she adjusted the white coverlet.

And in their young hearts, Teresa and Charlie thankfully voiced: "Amen."

WAKING HOURS

Does your business keep you awake nights? Never, but it would if I didn't keep mighty wide awake day time.

Call the Wagon. Fireman (to rescued person who is crawling back up ladder)—Hey! What are you doing that for? Rescued person—I just love jumping into the net.—Passing Show Magazine.

That's Why. Georges comes from a very poor family. Why, they sent him to the university, didn't they? Yes, that's how they got so poor.

SOME FRIEND, TOO. Are you a friend of the family? Yes, sir. I'm guarding the wedding presents for 'em while they're taking care of feeding the guests.

The Safe Side. Motorist—I'm sorry I ran over your hen. Would a dollar make it right? Farmer—Well, better make it two. I have a rooster that was mighty fond of that hen and the shock might kill him, too.—U. S. West Virginia Mountaineer.

The Graceful Way. And while this sonorita was sitting on my knee she asked me if I were going to marry her. What did you do? I just let her down lightly.

And Then He Was Sorry. Here ma! requested the boy hurrying in from school before time. Hang my jacket on the heater. Is it wet? No, but teacher sent me home to tell you to wait for my jacket for me!

PROGRESS

Well, and how are you getting on with your courtship of the banker's daughter?" asked Jackson.

The young sutor beamed happily.

"Not so bad," he replied. "I'm getting some encouragement now."

"Really," put in his friend. "Is she beginning to smile sweetly on you, or something?"

"Not exactly," replied the young man, "but last night she told me she had said 'No' for the last time."—Answers Magazine.

Poor Judgment. Uncle Mose, your first wife tells me you are three months behind with your alimony.

"Yes, Judge; Ah reckon dat's so, but you see it's jes dis way. Dat second wife of mine ain't turned out to be the worker Ah thought she was gwine to be."

Same. Willie had gone to visit his cousin in town.

"These pictures," said the cousin with an air of superiority, "are hand painted."

"Well, what of it?" replied Willie.

"So's our chicken house."

She Ought to Buy. Customer—Can you guarantee this anti-wrinkle cream? Chemist—Madam, it would smooth out corrugated iron.—Pearson's Weekly.

JUST RIGHT FOR WEAR IN KITCHEN

This "kitchen ensemble" would make a delightful present for some member of your family—that is, if you don't decide to keep it yourself. After it is finished, the apron, made especially to fit the frock, is cut amply full for protection, and boasts a convenient patch pocket and slenderizing half-belted waistline. The frock has a disarming demure ruffle to emphasize its nice square neckline, and cunning puffed sleeves to set off pretty arms. Vertical tucks at the waistline keep it trim, yet provide comfortable fullness in bodice and skirt. Both the apron and the frock are included in one pattern.

Pattern 9846 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 44. Size 10 requires 4 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 3/4 yards contrasting.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York.

"Pooh!" said Brown. "That's nothing. I've a two-year-old boy at home who know that a year ago."—El Paso World-News.

Making It Useful. Mrs. Platt—This steam radiator is a frost. Not an ounce of steam has come through the pipes this week.

Janitor—Well, madam, I will send a man up and have it removed since it is only in the way.

Mrs. Platt—Oh, no, thanks; I will just use it for a refrigerator for the butter and milk.

State or Swim. Mother—Where is Johnny? Mary (who has seen Johnny with his skates)—Well, if the ice is as he thinks it is, he's skating. But if it is as thin as I think it is, he's swimming.

The Sweet Flavored Gum. The Safe Side. Motorist—I'm sorry I ran over your hen. Would a dollar make it right? Farmer—Well, better make it two. I have a rooster that was mighty fond of that hen and the shock might kill him, too.—U. S. West Virginia Mountaineer.

TAFFETA TUNIC

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Taffeta silk for tunic, for blouse, for the frock entire, for trimming touches is the great hue and cry for spring. The knee-length tunic-blouse pictured is of printed taffeta in exotic coloring. The skirt is black crepe and the accessories are black, introducing

Local Flashes

Ray Sipple of White Oaks says that due to the shortage of baseball players in Carrizozo and White Oaks, it would be a good idea to combine the two teams. "What do you think?" Wayne Van Schoyck and Ellis Leslie, the chief rooters for the White Oaks team, we'd like to hear from you.

White Mountain is covered with snow this Monday morning, assuring at least some water and boy! how we need it. And the weather is like spring in the valleys. If the wind didn't blow at times, this climate is unexcelled—"The Land of Perpetual Sunshine." Where there is sunshine, one may generally expect the weather to be pleasant. Here it is, February almost over and not much cold weather to speak of. But remember the old adage "Better knock on wood."

Phillip Space says he heard the Chicago "Sympathy" orchestra over the radio one night last week.

J. F. Petty of the Petty Economy Grocery opines that Carrizozo had a variety of weather one day last week. There was a sandstorm, snow, sleet, hail, cold and the day finally ended with our perpetual sunshine.

Richard Roe says he played Sliding B flat tenor in "Susie's" Band. (Of course, he's no hand to brag.)

Andy, of Amos and Andy team, quoting a local man, can now say one billion, two billion and three billion without sounding ridiculous.

Wonder if Ben S. Burns will raise any more of his choice roses this season? Mr. Burns is keeping himself busy working around the yard. Growing roses in this climate is a comparatively new venture, more than we'd undertake. And Ben has a windmill, too. Better watch him, for he's liable to have electric power generated by the windmill for lights, running the vacuum sweeper, toaster, etc. Our hat is off to you, Amigo Ben.

Heard a Carrizozo man remark "We certainly have quite a basketball team at the Carrizozo Hi School. And that bird Detloff is a-o-m-e Coach."

Saw Assessor Larry Dow riding like the wind down Alamo-gordo avenue recently—wonder what's up?

Unemployment insurance will keep him until he is eligible for old age insurance, says the champion hobo; so why hunt for a job?

A certain Carrizozan made the remark — "I think that our community is not appreciative of our local Woman's Club; they really Do Things, as evidenced in their performance last night of "Three Pigs."

This lovely sunny weather doesn't suit a local man — who says it is a "weather breeder," but it is O. K. with the majority of us, "remember the old song: "Gather sunshine while you may." In fact, we're all liable to be dead by tomorrow—Qulen Savvy!

Famous Sayings — How'd the School Election suit you?"

"I'm telling you that the picture 'Handy Andy' starring Will Rogers recently showed at Walker's Lyric Theatre was one of the best photoplays I've ever seen Will in. And whenever you see a picture starring him, it is bound to be good," quoting a man from Fort Stanton. "People came from as far as Corona to see the show."

—Thank you too much— as Wimpy says.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hendren were here Monday from Fort Stanton visiting the T. E. Kelly family.

T. H. Reed and family came in last week from the northern Rhodesia country adjoining the Belgian-Congo border, where they spent three years with a mining and engineering company. They have located near Oscura, Mrs. Reed being a sister to Mrs. Sam Ward.

Miss Helen Rice came over from Fort Stanton the first of the week. Miss Helen reports that sister Charlotte, who has been seriously ill of late, continues to improve.

Tommy McCamant was here from Corona on Tuesday of this week on a business mission. While here, he was a guest of his parents, Sheriff and Mrs. A. S. McCamant and sister, Mrs. Sallie May Reynolds.

On returning from a dance at Lincoln to their home at Picacho last Saturday night, the car in which Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kimbrell were riding, turned over and aside from minor bruises, the occupants escaped serious injury. The car was badly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thornton of Oscura were here on business this week. Attention is called to their ads in this issue of The Outlook, wherein you may purchase native acclimated shade and fruit trees, Shrubs, Rose Bushes and Grape Vines.

W. A. Schuman of Capitan, Coach of the H. S. basketball team of that place, was here on business pertaining to the team. Coach Schuman is like Coach Detloff of our local Hi School, big enough so if we were so, all we'd do is go around and make other people give us money. While in town, he was a pleasant caller at this office.

Notice to Contractors

General Contractors are requested to submit proposals of cost for the completion of the work indicated on the drawings and included in the General Specifications, entitled "Union High School District Building, at Capitan, New Mexico," and further designated as "P. W. A. Project No. 8454" prepared by C. R. Carr & Co., Architects, Roswell, New Mexico.

Proposals shall be submitted in sealed, opaque envelopes addressed to the Board of Education, Capitan, New Mexico, and shall be marked with the word "Proposal" and the name of the building, and further designated as P. W. A. Project No. 8454. Proposals will be received at the office of James H. Howard, Clerk of the Board, up to One (1) o'clock P. M., Saturday, March 9, 1935, and will be publicly opened at the time and place above mentioned.

Proposals shall be submitted on forms provided by the Architect, which forms will require statements as follows:

That Contractor will agree to "Construction Regulations" of P. W. A.

As to when Project can be completed.

Agreeing to furnish labor bond in compliance with P. W. A. regulations.

Agreeing to furnish policies covering Workmen's Compensation and Public Liability.

No bid will be received unless accompanied by the bidder's Certificate of Compliance, U. S. Government Form P. W. A. No. 61, revised March, 1934, to the effect that the bidder is complying with and will continue to comply with each applicable code of fair competition, or in the absence of such code, with the President's Re-employment Agreement. A signed copy of this Certificate shall accompany the Proposal.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a detailed statement of financial and experience qualifications of the bidder.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a Certificate from the bonding company, to the effect that it will bond the bidding contractor if awarded the Contract, to the full amount of the bid. Also Labor Bond in the amount equal to the largest estimated aggregate pay roll for any one month during construction, cost included in the contract sum.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a Certified Check, payable to James H. Howard, Clerk Board of Education, in the amount of five (5%) percent of the proposal, to guarantee that he will execute and deliver the required bonds within 10 days after the signing of the Contract, agreeing to furnish policies covering Workmen's Compensation and Public Liability Insurance, cost included in the contract sum.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum wage rates prescribed by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works must be paid on this Project.

Plans and specifications providing for bids on the General Contract may be secured at the office of the Architect. A deposit of $30.00 will be required for a copy of the General Plans and Specifications. Upon return in good condition, of the Plans and Specifications, on or before the date of submitting bids, the above mentioned deposits will be returned to the Contractors, except that Contractors requesting delivery of plans and specifications by mail or express will have deducted from their deposits the actual cost of such mail or express service, including charges for wrapping and preparation. Copies of Plans and Specifications available for subcontractors and material dealers will be on file in the office of the Architect, Roswell, New Mexico, and at the office of the Superintendent of Union High School, Karl A. Cunningham, Capitan, New Mexico.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids, subject to the approval of the State Engineer, P. W. A.
