With his father confined in a hospital in Albuquerque, little seven-year-old Clarence Walker, who lives in Gallup, found a cigar box containing endorsed checks totalling $330. He took the box to his mother, who told him to take it to the police, which he did. The checks were issued by the United States treasury and for the employees on the irrigation service. They had been stolen from a car and for fear of being detected in cashing them, the thieves had thrown the box away. In return for his honesty, Clarence was given one of the checks which amounted to $21.60 and it was readily negotiable.

According to the Fulda, Minnesota Free Press, a Buff Orpington hen layed an egg at the town of Bagley which so closely resembled a bomb that people were almost afraid to touch it. The egg was of ordinary size, but was black at one end, from which extended a pliable fuse-like string, making the resemblance to a bomb, extraordinary.

Ten cents isn't much money, but it caused Santos Madril of Fort Sumner to be shot in the right hand and also in the hip, during a row resulting from Madril's uncle taking ten cents from his nephew during a poker game and then shot him twice, the last going from the hip to the spine, says the Fort Sumner Leader.

Here is one for the bridge players. At Waconia, Minn., says the Fulda Free Press, Wm. Lipp was surprised at an innocent bridge game when he picked up his hand and found it to contain 18 spades, the perfect bridge hand, which, according to Ripley, comes only once in 2,600 deals. Thus does the average player have to play bridge about 2,000 years to reach his percentage in getting such a hand and such a lucky player generally faints away or bids seven no-trump and goes down 18 tricks.

Eighth Grade Party

On Friday, April 19, the parents of the Eighth Graders entertained the children. The teacher, school board members and families and the Stamp-Baxter Quartette from Lubbock, Texas, were guests. In all, over 100 people were there. Everybody joined in the games and ice cream and cake were served, while the quartette sang. After prizes had been awarded the best boy and girl "hard time" outfits, the children were treated to the concert at the Baptist Church.

The Outlook Art & Gift Shop Undergoing Remodeling

The Carrizozo Outlook Art & Gift Shop, Mrs. A. L. Barks and Miss Rosalind Barks, proprietors, is undergoing a complete change. The store building, next door to Rolland's Drug Store on Alamogordo avenue, is being enlarged by having the 3 rooms at the front and rear converted into one large store-room. This change will enable the proprietors more space to display their Hollywood dresses, suits, blouses, hosiery, Mexican and Indian curios and gift goods, etc. A visit to this shop will be appreciated, whether you buy or not, in other words "the latch string is open."

PERSONALS

Mrs. Emma Condron returned Sunday from a trip to Roswell and Hobbs, transacting some business at Roswell and visiting her brother at Hobbs.

Mrs. Dora Edwards came up from her home near Three Rivers last Saturday. Mrs. Edwards has a beautiful home about two miles north of the A. B. Fall home, where she has a water right which supplies her garden, household and fruit trees. This affords Mrs. Edwards much advantage in these times of drouth.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kelley left last Saturday for El Paso, where they visited their daughter Ruth and also visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman C. Davis, Mr. Davis being their nephew.

Sunday morning, they attended the Easter sunrise meeting at the high school stadium, where 10,000 people were gathered to worship at the sunrise service. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley returned home Sunday evening.

W. C. Hendren, Perry Land, James A. Anderson and son, J. D., of Fort Stanton, G. S. Hoover and Eddie Long of Capitan, were among the attendants at the Masonic special Monday night.

Mrs. V. L. Cruse and son Fred left Monday for Purcell, Okla., where they will visit for several months with Mrs. Cruse's daughter and other relatives.

Mrs. Parks' Body Found

The week's mystery was solved Wednesday morning, after a search covering six days of time, for Mrs. C. W. Parks when every road in the southwest leading to Socorro had been gone over without avail. Wednesday, Mr. Parks came here and accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Albert Roberts, made a trip out over the Carrizozo-Socorro highway and going as far as Bingham, found that a lady answering the description of Mrs. Parks had passed by that place about 4:15 last Thursday afternoon. With that information, they traced back and after turning a curve, Albert, looking down a canyon which had been passed by hundreds of people during the past week, discovered a piece of metal resembling a portion of a wreck.

They descended the canyon and there found the wrecked car which was damaged beyond repair and at a distance of 50 feet farther down, they found the body of Mrs. Parks flattened against a large boulder, in which condition it had lain for almost a week. Exposed as it was to the sun, wind and sand, it is strange that the body was in such a state of preservation, it being only partially discolored.

Her pet dog, which had been her constant companion, lay near the body, evidently having stood vigil over it's mistress and died from grief and starvation. Proof that her body had been thrown through the top of the car as it went down, was plainly evident.

An inquest was held at the scene of the accident and the body brought here by Undertaker Kelley, who prepared it and took it to Albuquerque Wednesday evening in his ambulance. Mrs. Parks was going from Albuquerque to Carlsbad, to join her husband, when the accident occurred.

All the Fans Are Not at the Park

Big Masonic Special

At a rousing Masonic special communication Monday night, the big Masonic lodge room in the Temple was crowded to its capacity. Cars lined the parking spaces on the south side of the Temple. The Third Degree was conferred on two candidates, after which a luncheon was served in the banquet room. Visiting Masons were here from Fort Stanton, Alamogordo and Tularosa.

The Gray Stock Company

The old reliable Gray Stock Company, which never has failed to please its patrons in Carrizozo and elsewhere, will show here all of next week. The company contains the same members who were here before, but has been enlarged with several new members and the entire cast in each play will be stars who will as usual, please the big audiences which are sure to be on hand.

Those who were patrons of the company on its last appearance here, will be greeted with new plays taken from the best stage productions of the age. The show will be staged under the auspices of the Community Hall Association. In order to get the full worth of the entire show, you should begin with the first performance next Monday night and attend each night. Press notices from places where the Gray people have shown are high in praise of the cast of performers and the show in general. So be on hand, folks and enjoy a clean show full of drama and comedy—and remember their high class music! You can't beat it!

Senior Party

The F. A. English home was the scene of a lively party Tuesday evening, April 23, at which time Mrs. English, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. John Burton, entertained the members of the Senior Class. Bunco was played, first prizes going to Mrs. DeLoof and the consolation to Ralph Petty. Delicious refreshments of cake and punch were served, after which the guests danced until time for "adieu" arrived. Everyone had a delightful time and pronounce Mrs. English "the ideal hostess."

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Spiller of Santa Rosa were guests of the S. H. Nickels family the first of the week. Mr. Spiller is president of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce and also the School Board at that place. Mrs. Spiller is a brother to Mrs. Nickels.

DIAMOND DUST

STANDING OF THE CLUBS

Club	Won	Lost
Cobras	1	2
White Oaks	1	0

The White Oaks Miners came to Carrizozo last Sunday afternoon and in a hard-fought struggle, noed out the Carrizozo Cobras by a score of 9 to 7. The local boys led all the way up to the ninth inning, when a few costly mistakes gave White Oaks three scores and the game. Both teams played in excellent accord and there was not the least disagreement to mar the true sportsmanship on both sides.

Red H. Hoffmeyer, star pitcher of last year's Carrizozo Club, has joined the White Oaks Club and gave very worthy assistance in the Miners' victory last Sunday. Andres Lueros started on the mound for Carrizozo, but had to give way to Sally Ortiz, who finished the game.

White Oaks will play Hondo at Hondo next Sunday, we understand. As we are going to press, the Cobras are endeavoring to bring the Alamogordo Black Sox for a game here next Sunday. So be on the lookout.

In booking games with White Oaks, we refer you to Manager Ray Sipple (100% baseball).

Attended Music Contest

On April 11, Mmes. T. E. Kelley, John W. Harkey, daughter Zane, the Misses Edith Dudrey and Inez Ward motored over to Carlsbad to attend the Tri-State Music Contest of New Mexico-Texas-Oklahoma, in which Zane and Inez were entrants from Carrizozo, having won a place in Roswell on March 21-22. Zane played against 14 contestants in piano solo, winning high place. Inez had only one opponent in hymn playing, also winning high place. Saturday at 9:30, the crowd people entered the Garden Caverns. After lunch in the large room, the song was presented, the largest and best representation taking the cups to their town. New Mexico took 3 of the 4 cups. Each contestant winning making some points toward the cups for the state in which they lived.

Mr. Robert Hopkins, Vocal Artist of Cardiff, Wales, made the presentation address. Seven states and Wales were represented. The judges for piano were Mark Wessel, University of Colorado and Robt. A. Markham, Baylor University of Waco, Texas.

Baturnino Chavez, Jr., purchased a new automobile this week.

CORONA NOTES

Mrs. Frank Montgomery of Ancho was a business visitor Monday.

Mrs. P. H. Kersey returned Thursday to her home in Mesa, Arizona, after a short visit with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Wilmot Duplentis and daughter Claudette Marlene of Albuquerque are guests of Mrs. Duplentis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Atkinson.

Mrs. Jerry Asbury and daughter Nathalie Jane have returned to Tucson, Arizona, after a short visit with Mrs. R. R. Green and Miss Jane McFaddin.

Misses Dora Eleis and Esther Myrtle Ladd of Claunch were Easter guests of Mrs. Wilmot Duplentis.

Knollin Lovelace and Phelps Greer spent the Easter vacation at the Lovelace ranch. Both are students at the University of New Mexico and are Kappa Alpha fraternity men.

Mrs. Richard Sultemeier of Santa Rosa spent the week-end with her son, Richard, Jr., and Mrs. Frank Sultemeier.

Mrs. Frank A. DuBois and Miss Geraldine DuBois made a business trip to Albuquerque this week.

ANCHO ITEMS

A large crowd gathered at the schoolhouse Friday night and enjoyed the following program:

Violin duet, Red and Raymond Hobbs; Vocal duet, Drake Sisters; The Old Woman in a Shoe, Viola Fay Johnson; Vocal duet, Tommy Knight, Sally Silvers; Play, 'Rain Storm,' 3rd and 4th grade pupils; Piano solo, LaRue Cathy; Spanish songs, Sophia Zamora, Wilma Secret, Beatrice Mendoza; Play, 'When the Teacher is Away,' 7th grade boys; Tap dance, Dorothy Pruet, Sally Silvers.

The school children enjoyed an Easter egg hunt Friday afternoon.

Saturday afternoon, a baseball team composed of Carrizozo High and grade school boys played our boys here. Carrizozo won by a nice score.

The Ancho Sunday School enjoyed an Easter egg hunt and basket dinner after the church services.

Miss Lila Lee Drake and Fred Dale were married last Saturday. Both of these young people are well known here and we offer congratulations.

Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Drake, a lovely dinner was served in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dale, the newly-weds.

Fred Sweet has been ill, but is now up and around.

Mrs. Thos. DuBois and daughter Mrs. Wm. Greer were here from Corona Tuesday, remaining over for the greater part of the day and returned home late in the afternoon.

Mrs. Dean Corbello, who visited her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Townsend at Lovington, returned home last Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Lou Walsh and children, who had been visiting their mother Mrs. Townsend for about a month.

LYRIC THEATRE

R. A. Walker, Owner

Friday and Saturday "Flying Down to Rio"

With Dolores Del Rio, Gene Raymond, Paul Roulin, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire. It promises to be even better than our last picture. Also, "Flirting in the Park" and "The Fatal Note."

Sunday-Monday-Tuesday Janet Gaynor and Lew Ayers in

"Servants' Entrance"

With Ned Sparks, Louise Dressler and Walter Connolly. Another new role for Janet with her "State Fair" sweetheart—different—that makes her more lovable than ever. She starts out as a kitchen slave—and how your heart aches for her! Also "Why Mules Leave Home" and "Man's Mania for Speed." Matinee Sunday at 2:30.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The Woman's Club met April 20 at the home of Miss Ella Beckley with assistant hostesses M. M. C. Cleghorn, Grumbles, Queen, Ward, Smoot; the Misses Rhea Boughner and Thelma White. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Clara Snyder who presided over the same and the club sang "Oh, Fair New Mexico," which was followed by the Flag Salute and a verse from "Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Selma Degitz read a summary of the most important measures passed by the recent legislature, thus acquainting the members with the work of our representatives and also the subjects most interesting to the state at large. The club members are still keeping up their enthusiasm over prospects for a club home and the committee continues to work on several plans which it hopes to be able to lay before the club at an early date. Business concluded, Mrs. Sullivan took charge of the program and presented the following:

Piano duet, Marion Joyce and Dorothy Jones, a very creditable performance by these little girls. A practical talk on the avoidance of common accidents, by Dr. Porter, commanding officer at Fort Stanton. Dr. Porter's talk was intently interesting and he reminded his audience that with exercising a little forethought and care, the casualties and injuries along those lines could almost be eliminated. Piano solo by Jane Gallacher was given in her usual good manner. "Tom Thumb Drum," a very unique song and drum selection, by Jane Gallacher, Betty Beck, Paul Jones, Marion Joyce and Jack Waldrop, with Mrs. T. E. Kelley at the piano, was much appreciated. Then came the usual delicious refreshments.

Representative and Mrs. J. V. Taylor of the I Bar X ranch near Ocuca were visitors in town on this Wednesday.

Mrs. Louis Johansen of the Captain Home Laundry, Cleaning & Pressing Shop, was here Wednesday on some business matters.

Mrs. Dean Corbello entertained the Thursday afternoon Bridge Club at her home this week.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, a young young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin—sententary. Nance escapes, without shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped, McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000—yearly of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Knowing detectives are on her trail, she disappears.

McNamara chuckled. Flynn and Angellotti would waste a great deal of time watching that apartment house in vain. Nance, discovering Ella Cates had moved, had sought quarters elsewhere. What puzzled McNamara, however, was the girl's failure to communicate with him or Lanny; and he knew now that she did not intend to. The fact that she had purchased a letter of credit was proof that she intended leaving the country, and the more the excellent fellow contemplated this impending move the more inclined was he to regard it as a not unmixed blessing. The more he thought the matter over, the more inclined did he become to take a practical and policeman-like view of the situation. While Nance remained in San Francisco she would be a constant menace to himself and Lanny; if captured she might, during one of her uncontrolled moments, concede it a great joke to tell the world how she had been enabled to escape capture so long.

"I can't baby the world," he decided. "I'll let her go. She'll probably live abroad, and when her letter of credit is gone she may remember who she is long enough to draw more checks. I can always get a line on her through the bank, and if Steve and Lanny still insist on salvaging this nut I'll tell them where to find her. Me, I'm through. If I keep this pace up I'll be as big a nut as she is."

There is more than a modicum of truth in the ancient adage, "Out of sight, out of mind." Dan McNamara lived a very full life; and when Nance Belden had definitely passed beyond his ken and he knew himself safe at last from the prying of Messrs. Flynn and Angellotti into his private affairs, he forgot the girl, for pressing matters of great importance claimed his attention and he required more first-class assistance than he was receiving. He resolved, therefore, to give Flynn and Angellotti a week in which to make up their minds they had lost the trail; then to call them in.

On the sixth day, however, he received information that the doughty pair were still as busy as two pups with a feather duster. A beautiful lady called on him at his office and told him so.

"And who might you be?" he demanded.

"I'm Susan Engelbright."

"I am not aware that I have the pleasure of your acquaintance, Miss Engelbright."

"You haven't. I was sent up from Oakland."

"Oh! Allan Sapphire Susie! I've heard of you lately."

"Perhaps, I hooked three twelve-carat sapphires to raise money, and the papers called me Sapphire Susie after that."

"I see you got them out of hock again, Susie."

The girl nodded. "Nance Belden got them out for me."

"Part of the bargain for smuggling that letter out of San Quentin for her, I suppose."

"Never mind what it was for." Sapphire Susie smiled slyly and unafraid. "I earned it, and she kept her word."

"Check or cash?" McNamara was frightened. If Sapphire Susie had been given a check, then she knew Nance Belden's real name and the name of her bank. And that would be fatal.

"I don't know. I gave her the pawn tickets and she got back the rings. I don't know just how."

"When?" He was relieved.

"A week ago tomorrow."

"And you say Detective Sergeant Flynn has been giving you a bad hard time?"

"Yes, he has."

"Well, that's his business. Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin and naturally he's interested in apprehending her. You were recognized by the guard at the main gate two weeks before Nance escaped. Miss Lanning, a friend of the Belden girl, had visited the prisoner that day, and since Miss Lanning was the only visitor Nance Belden had in San Quentin, naturally she was suspected of carrying a letter for delivery to the men who helped Nance escape. You rode down to Greenbrae with Miss Lanning, and she slipped the letter to you, of course. Flynn knows that. But why come to me with your tale of woe?"

"I've run straight since getting out of the pen. I served my time and I want to be let alone—that's why! Flynn told me that if I didn't come through and tell him where he could find Nance Belden he'd see to it that something nasty happened to me. I don't know where Nance Belden is. And I want protection from Patrick Flynn."

"You seem pretty sure of me, don't you?"

"Well, Nance told me that you were one human being. And I called on Miss Lanning last night to tell her to warn Nance that the dicks were after her, and Miss Lanning told me to see you about it. She said you'd see I got a square deal."

"She did so, now? How did Miss Lanning treat you otherwise?"

"She kissed me and gave me a hundred dollars and told me to be as good as I could. The old girl is sure a darling."

"Did you ask her for the hundred?"

"Of course not."

The chief eyed her owlishly, for he distrusted Sapphire Susie and wondered if she might not be working in the interests of Flynn and Angellotti.

"This is interesting," he admitted heavily. "Of course I only keep in touch with the upper office through the captain of detectives. If he met Flynn on this job he should have interviewed you a couple of weeks ago. Seems to me he has overlooked a good bet. If he'd had you under surveillance a week ago he'd have picked up Nance Belden when she came to you to deliver the rings. Flynn's a crackerjack detective," he added sadly, "but this looks as if he's slipping."

"That bird don't slip very far, take it from me, Chief. He met me on the street the day before yesterday and noticed I was wearing my big ring and my earrings. 'Hello, kid,' he says, 'I see you got your sapphires on again.' I says to him, 'Fall dead, you bum,'

"Nothing is lost if you know where it is," McNamara decided happily, and sent a cable to the prefect of police at Havre, requesting him to pick up Penelope Gatlin on her arrival at that port, shadow her and report by cable, collect the girl's destination, the names and addresses of those who should meet her and any other information that would aid in keeping track of the girl.

The following day McNamara sent for Detective Sergeants Flynn and Angellotti. As they ranged themselves, more or less at attention, in front of his desk, the chief leaned back in his chair and bent upon the pair a long, severe and penetrating look. They grew a little fidgety before he spoke.

"Well, boys, how are your private affairs prospering?"

Both shrugged, unwilling to be definite.

"They are unprosperous," the chief challenged, "so I have called you in to express the hope that you are now quite willing to abandon your private practice and return to work for the city and county of San Francisco. You draw salary from the taxpayers, you know. I may have been mistaken, Angellotti, but I thought I saw you out in Mission recently when you were supposed to be working on that racketeer killing over in North Beach. However, I'll overlook that on the assumption that you permitted yourself to be led astray by Flynn. Flynn, you lay off Sapphire Susie until that enterprising young woman does something you can pin on her. Then bring her in."

"She's done something and I'll pin it on her yet," Flynn growled, "and you know what it is." Flynn, being Irish, was unwilling that his chief should regard him as deficient in intelligence and enterprise.

"We understand each other thoroughly, Flynn. You've been after that Belden girl and you've made a mess of it." He opened his desk drawer and drew out two envelopes. One was addressed to Flynn and the other to Angellotti and both envelopes bore the return address of a prominent New York hotel, but were neither stamped nor postmarked. "These two envelopes came in a large envelope addressed to me," McNamara explained. "They're sealed!" He handed each detective his letter and watched as they opened them and drew forth typewritten letters and two hundred and fifty dollars in bills. Flynn's letter was, undoubtedly, a carbon copy of Angellotti's.

Flynn perused his letter and handed it to the chief, who read:

"Dear Mr. Flynn:

"You poor dear, you have worked so hard and so intelligently and in such dreadfully hard luck that my heart goes out to you. You were working for the reward, of course—no doubt because you needed the money. You and Mr. Angellotti would have had to divide two hundred and fifty dollars had you recaptured me, but just to prove I'm a sport and not holding any mean little grudge, I'm sending you each two hundred and fifty dollars. Please be good and try to forget all the unpleasant incidents. You will never get me now, so do give up your attempts, like good boys."

The letter was unsigned.

"How much did you get, Angellotti?" McNamara queried softly.

"Two fifty, Chief."

To an enormous

"He's Got Me Scared to Death," Sapphire Susie Declared.

and walked on. And the next night he came up to my room. 'Nance Belden got them sapphires out of hock for you, Susie, my dear,' he says kindly. 'I want that trail. Where is she?'

"And you wouldn't tell him, even if you could?"

"That's a fact. I wouldn't snitch on her."

"You wouldn't expect me to interfere in the work of a detective sergeant when he appears to be doing a good job, would you, Susie? But I give you my word, Susie, that if you run straight in this city I'll see to it that you're not harassed. Of course you helped Nance Belden to escape from San Quentin, and I know it, but I can't prove it; if I could I'd put you in the birdcage this minute. And I'll not put Flynn off the case, although if he gets too rough I'll stop him."

"He's got me scared to death," Sapphire Susie declared, and commenced to weep a little; whereat McNamara realized she had been really frightened. She shook his hand warmly, thanked him and departed.

For several minutes McNamara sat thinking, a smile, faintly tender, illuminating his rugged countenance. So Lanny had kissed Sapphire Susie and given her a hundred dollars and begged her to be a good girl in the future. What a rare good sport Lanny was! And how good God had been to all concerned! In their pursuit of Nance, Flynn and Angellotti had followed such a hot trail they had forgotten Sapphire Susie was a pal of Nance's, but afterwards, when the trail grew cold, they had suddenly remembered her.

That Flynn was a marvel, and McNamara sighed to think the fellow could not be promoted instantly. In all probability he had met at first connected Nance Belden with the glory of Susie's sapphires. Undoubtedly he had jumped to the conclusion that the girl had been up to her old trick of blackmailing some wealthy and socially prominent masculine jackass. He had had looked up her record in the police files. Here he had discovered something that must have convinced him of Susie's total innocence of sapphires during her trial; certainly she had not carried them to San Quentin with her, and the obvious conclusion was that she had pawned them to raise money to pay her attorney. In the hope of discovering the identity of Susie's latest victim (who, he assumed, had redeemed them for her) Flynn had thereupon made a round of the pawnshops and located the one from which the jewels had lately been redeemed; from the pawnbroker he had secured a description of the one who had redeemed them. No pawnbroker would be likely to forget Nance Belden's nose!

McNamara shuddered. If Nance should visit Sapphire Susie now, she would undoubtedly walk straight into the arms of the waiting Flynn or Angellotti.

Well, Nance Belden had stolen a dozen pairs of silk hose, but apparently Penelope Gatlin paid her debts. The chief wondered if he had loaned Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin two hundred dollars, for of course they were two separate and distinct personalities inhabiting the same body. If Nance Belden had accepted the loan, then McNamara could kiss the money good-by. If, on the other hand, Penelope Gatlin had accepted it, then, some day, when Nance had changed places with Penelope, he would get it back. Well, he could trace her progress through the world by the drafts she would cash. Her bank in San Jose would give him that information.

He took down the telephone and called the bank. Yes, a draft had just come in. Drawn for four hundred and thirty-five dollars in favor of the French line, dated three days previously at New York. It had come across the continent by air mail. McNamara thanked the president of the bank and called up the French line's San Francisco office. After some difficulty he discovered that four hundred and thirty-five dollars was payment of one first cabin passage to Havre and that the Ile de France had sailed from New York during the past three days.

Instantly Dan McNamara shot a straight telegram to police headquarters in New York, requesting that the passenger list of the Ile de France be checked to see whether Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin had taken passage on her. Four hours later he received a reply to the effect that Nance Belden was not aboard but that Penelope Gatlin was.

"The following day McNamara sent for Detective Sergeants Flynn and Angellotti. As they ranged themselves, more or less at attention, in front of his desk, the chief leaned back in his chair and bent upon the pair a long, severe and penetrating look. They grew a little fidgety before he spoke.

Bible Critics Silenced in Face of Evidence

The crucial question about the potsherds inscribed with Hebrew writing, discovery of which is announced from the site of ancient Lachish in Palestine, is that of date. Hebrew scholarship at the university at Jerusalem undoubtedly is adequate to deal with the problem from the standpoint of language and script, as are the experts of Doctor Starkey's expedition to deal with it as field archeologists. Something must be allowed, perhaps, for enthusiasm engendered by a truly remarkable discovery, and time must be granted for would-be critics of the ancient dates assigned to examine the evidence for themselves and express approval or marshal their contrary arguments. If it be true that the documents found date from 900 to 1000 B. C., the discovery is difficult to overestimate in its importance to Biblical studies. Like so many happenings of recent archeological years, it gives the Biblical text that has come down to us added stature as a historical document.

Most of the previous discoveries which have done this were Babylonian. It has been a generation since the originals of the Bible stories of the Creation and of the Flood were found on cuneiform tablets, but it is only a few years since the Flood was identified, both at Ur and Kish, as an unquestionably historical event, even though it may not have submerged quite so much of the world as literal interpreters of the Biblical text sometimes imagine. The story of Creation emerges as a Sumerian account of how Mesopotamia was reclaimed from the sea and the rivers. Most recent of all the confirmations are the discoveries at Ur which reinforce previous knowledge of Sumerian customs and law to show almost perfect versimilitude in the Bible stories of Abraham. Even the dream of Jacob's Ladder, Doctor Woolley suggests, may have been a memory of white-robed Sumerian priests marching up and down the great ladder-like stairs of the Ziggurat at Babylon, original of the Tower of Babel.

Considered quite aside from its devotional and religious characteristics and purely as a historical document, the Bible has experienced within two generations one complete swing of the pendulum of expert opinion. From slavishly literal acceptance of every word and punctuation mark, opinion of Bible scholars swung far to the opposite extreme of doubting every historical event recorded, even the Exodus or the existence of Abraham. Now the balance is becoming truer. Proof satisfactory to the most rigid logician now is available for many of the Bible episodes. More appears with every thorough bit of excavation that is done. The dream of the first excavators of Bible lands that they would add light and solidity to the stories in the Book they loved gradually is coming true.—New York Herald Tribune.

CUTTING PATCHES FOR QUILTS

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

When making a patch quilt the patches must be cut out right if the finished quilt is to look neat. Sewing seams the same width is also very important. These two points should always be watched as work progresses, to obtain good results, and not have trouble after work is well under way. Cut the patches from accurate cut-out diagrams. The cut-out diagrams shown here are a set for the "Dresden Plate" and "Basket" quilts, and include allowance for seams. Any width for seams may be used, but always use the same width on one quilt, to come out right. Directions for use are very simple. Place cut-out on material so the longest dimension follows the weave. Mark outline with pencil and cut out material carefully.

Send 10 cents to our quilt dept. and we mail you both of these fiber cut-outs set No. 85a and 10a.

Washington, D. C.

Washington.—President Roosevelt has submitted to congress a list of the legislation he deems necessary to have passed before the present session adjourns. He has divided it into two categories—"must" and "desirable." If congress enacts only the list of "must" legislation and passes over the other group of bills which the President considers desirable, it is made to appear that the membership of the house and senate is due to suffer some of the torrid temperature and the uncomfortable humidity of a Washington summer. The President said he must have legislation extending the National Recovery administration, providing social security, eliminating public utility holding companies, increasing the loaning power of the Home Owners Loan corporation, extension of the so-called nuisance taxes which expire by limitation of law on June 30, and revision of the banking laws.

In addition, the President made known that he would like to have enacted legislation to take the profits out of war, whatever that may mean. He previously had sent a message asking enactment of a law providing for expansion of the American merchant marine through the use of ship subsidies and he also desires to have enacted legislation setting up machinery for the settlement of labor disputes. This legislation is in the congressional hopper in the form of a bill by Senator Wagner, of New York.

The President would like to have amendments to the agricultural adjustment act in order to eliminate some of the weaknesses which the AAA people admit exist. The small contract situation is another matter with which Mr. Roosevelt has been concerned.

Seasoned observers recognize that this list of "must" legislation, not to mention the desired legislation, is sufficient to keep congress grinding away far into the summer. They recognize likewise that if the desired legislation later becomes of such concern that the President wants to place it on the preferred list as well, the membership of congress must be prepared to forego summer trips of any kind.

Since a good many members of congress have grown tired of being called rubber stamps for the administration, they naturally have turned attention to legislation which they think will be helpful to their own ballistics, to themselves personally or from a party standpoint. Thus there have been promoted numerous pieces of legislation for which some individuals, at least, entertain greater fervor than they do for measures that were drafted by President Roosevelt's official family and transmitted to congress as administration legislation. It is the general observation that an individual, representative, or senator frequently will go much further in fighting for legislation that is his own brain child than for legislation placed before him on a silver platter such as administration proposals have been. Consequently, individual or group measures are constantly cluttering up house and senate legislative calendars. This is a factor meaning delay for administration bills.

It is to be remembered, as has been reported in these columns, that Mr. Roosevelt is unable to ward off criticism of some of his proposals. Indeed, there have been Democratic criticisms and Democratic opposition to a greater or lesser degree to all of the legislation he has proposed since congress convened last January. All of which is by way of saying that congress faces weeks of committee work and floor debate despite the fact that the house Democratic leaders still retain rather solid control of a sufficient majority in the lower house of congress to drive through any pet measures for the administration. In the senate the situation is decidedly different.

Included in the legislation being fostered by individual members is the bill that would permit cabinet officers to appear on the floors of congress for questioning and explanation, such as occurs under the British and French parliamentary systems. The administration does not want this bill. It will have to exert some pressure to avoid passage. The reason is that the Roosevelt administration is no longer one in which the cabinet is dominant. Cabinet officers are only part of the scheme, and if congress wanted to inquire about the handling of relief money, which it probably will desire, it must talk with Administrator Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins is not in the cabinet. The same is true of NRA and to some extent to the AAA, although Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture theoretically is a superior officer to Administrator Davis. The administrator is definitely opposed to the passage of Bonus legislation for the former soldiers, sailors and marines and it looks like a Presidential veto will be necessary there. The same is true of inflationary proposals of which there are many. The situation is one, therefore, in which Mr. Roosevelt must be constantly on his guard to prevent action which he does not want as well as being fortified at all times with pressure to put through the legislation he has described as necessary. Thus it is seen he is confronted with many complications, which did not disturb him in the first two sessions of New Deal congresses and, these complications mean a longer life for the current session.

Let us examine the status of the legislation which the President said must be passed. The outlook is something like this:

Some "Must" Legislation
The extension of the National Recovery administration is still far off. Senate hearings are just ended and the house is still further behind. No action can be expected in either body for several weeks. The present law expires June 16.

Recently Mr. Roosevelt sent to congress a very bitter message denouncing public utility holding companies and demanding legislation eliminating them from our economic structure. The house committee considering this legislation is just winding up its hearings and the senate committee which will have jurisdiction has taken no action at all. It must be said that a hard fight is in prospect if and when this legislation reaches the stage of debate because investors in these companies are not going to have their equities destroyed while they sit idly by. These investors are doing more now than just making faces at congress and the volume of letters which members are receiving in opposition to the holding companies legislation transcends anything that ever has happened in the memory of this correspondent.

The banking legislation which Mr. Roosevelt has proposed, or which was proposed for him by Governor Eccles, the New Deal and radical governor of the federal reserve board is faced with opposition equally as bitter and as well organized as that confronting the holding companies bill. Perhaps it can be said that opposition to the banking legislation is even stronger because in that fight the President will be opposed by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who must be regarded as the most virulent of all the Democrats in the senate. The house banking committee has about done its job with hearings on this bill but the senate committee where the full force of the Glass opposition will be felt has not even set a date for committee consideration.

The social security bill about which Mr. Roosevelt has done much talking, because it is distinctly a reform measure, has finally been redrafted in the house while senate leadership is unable to get together on any policy respecting it. Some senators want to split up this bill and pass the section providing for old age pensions, allowing the other parts of the bill to die a slow death.

The legislation to increase by $1,750,000,000 the loaning power of the Home Owners Loan corporation probably will get through the senate without much more ado. The house passed the bill because it could not do otherwise with individual members realizing that there was a chance that some of this money would go into their particular districts. Included in this bill is a line that promises a good many hundred jobs for politicians and it is natural that the party in power is not going to overlook this possibility.

There remains on the "must" list, then, only the proposal to extend the nuisance taxes which expire at the end of June. It is probable that the bulk of these levies will be accepted by congress as necessary.

One cannot fail, in tramping around Washington these days, to note the frequent concerning the outlook for the New Deal and for President Roosevelt's personal political future. In fact, some hardboiled observers lately have been heard to say that Mr. Roosevelt is suffering from too much ballyhoo. He was put up on a pedestal that shade of him in the eyes of many persons something of a superman. His himself is regarded as having contributed to this condition by his many campaign promises, some of which he has found absolutely impractical as regards in leading the country out of the morasses and on to a more satisfactory economic plain. In truth, the President's own political colleagues have continued to depict him as an individual capable of things which no human can accomplish and this combination of circumstances is declared by many keen minded persons as likely to bring, if indeed it has not already brought, a definitely bad political reaction from the President's standpoint.

It is still fresh in the minds of men and women throughout the country how President Hoover was over-advertised as a superior person in an administrative way. Mr. Hoover suffered from too much ballyhoo to an extent greater than any other man who has served as President with the possible exception of Woodrow Wilson. When the depression came and the current turned against Mr. Hoover he was utterly powerless. With a recalcitrant congress on his hands and a dissatisfied people, Mr. Hoover met the fate that must have been expected.

Right to Second Marriage Chance

Arguments For and Against the Severance of the Marital Bond.

The widowers of Brazil have their fingers crossed. From a question raised recently in their gay capital city, Rio, it would appear to be illegal for widowers to remarry.

Everything was all right until a case before the marriage registrar brought up the point that under the law marriage cannot be dissolved except by annulment. Therefore, said the registrar, if the constitution does not provide for dissolution of marriage ties by death, how can widowers remarry?

The Superior court of Brazil has been appealed to for a decision. The widowers of Brazil will doubtless have a competent advocate to plead their cause, and everything will be all right again. But the situation is interesting for the serious comment it has aroused. It would be a good thing for this country, several people said at once, if we were to emulate Brazil, and make marriage harder to get out of.

"If remarriage were less easy for everybody," they contend, "there would be less separating and divorcing and more successful marriage."

Maybe. One must admit it might help with young couples who are facing their first disillusionment, if that reproach of "What I might have had" could not be followed by "What I can still have!" Doubtless the knowledge of absolute finality in marriage would be conducive to the single-minded effort to make that marriage a success.

But, a woman writer continues, in her comment, what about the cases where a second chance has resulted in bringing happiness, in making up for what was really a mistake which all the effort in the world could not conceal? Though as a rule it is true enough that the most important element for success in marriage is what we ourselves bring to it, there have been cases where a person who could not get along with a first husband or wife did succeed with a second. For my part, I am glad it is not "up to me" to make the laws affecting in this way the happiness of so many humans who think and feel from different viewpoints. It is not hard to see some benefits in more hard and fast marriage laws. On the other hand, I should not welcome a world which made difficulties for anybody who yearned for a second chance.

The First "Alloyed Oil"

—for better lubrication of today's high-speed, alloy-steel motors!

Alloyed by the Germ Process

Just as the metallurgist adds small amounts of other metals to make special alloy steels, so we add small quantities of a concentrated oily essence to highly-refined, paraffin-base motor oil. This Germ Processing, discovered and patented by Continental scientists, gives Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil lubricating qualities no other oil has.

YOUR MOTOR is built of parts made of special alloy metals. Car manufacturers and metallurgists worked together to produce metal alloys strong and durable enough to withstand the greatly increased pressures and temperatures of the modern motor.

Oils, too, must withstand these pressures and temperatures and they must have extra oiliness and film strength to do it. Yet oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength than they had ten years ago. And many new refining methods now used to make oils free from carbon and sludge have lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength!

Continental, pioneering as it has pioneered for 60 years, has developed the first alloyed oil—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! It is custom-made for high-speed, alloy-steel motors. It has 2 to 4 times the film strength of straight mineral oil, as tests on the Timken machine have proved! It has more oiliness than any oil has naturally. It penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a permanent lubricating film—the "Hidden Quirt". It is a pure, clean oil, free from carbon and sludge troubles. It gives extraordinary mileage as well as motor protection, as proved by the Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and you will have the finest lubrication you can buy!

New Republican-War Cry

Statement made before the National Republican Club at New York City, April 16, by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, President of the organization:

"We are now in the third year of depression under the present administration. Their golden promises have been worthless. Twenty million people are now on relief, directly or indirectly. All we have to show for their schemes is the greatest debt the country has ever had, shattered confidence and a federal government water logged with ward politicians.

They have usurped the functions of Congress.

They have arrogated to the executive, the power to legislate through administrative order and to impose certain taxes.

They have broken down the Civil Service and installed the spoils system.

They have placed over us an army of bureaucrats to spy on our actions.

We charge that it is destroying us, both morally, spiritually and ruining us materially.

We charge that the responsibility for all, rests where all power lies, namely, on the head of the administration, President Franklin Roosevelt.

We hold that recovery must be our first objective.

We hold that recovery cannot come without confidence.

We hold that there can be no confidence where no one knows from day to day what the government may do and no promise is sacred.

We believe in privately operated business under government regulation where necessary, not in government operation.

They have attempted to regulate the details of our lives.

They have crippled the small business man and fostered monopoly.

They have voided the Sherman Anti-Trust Laws.

They have tampered with the currency.

They have made no attempt to balance the Budget.

They have repudiated government obligations.

They have destroyed and limited our farm crops and forced us to buy from foreign countries.

They have blocked recovery and closed the doors of opportunity to our children.

We charge the so-called New Deal is not new, but old, as old as tyranny; that its policies have been tried in the past not once but many times, and that in the past they have failed, not once, but always.

We hold that there must be an ever-increasing distribution of wealth among those who merit it by industry and thrift, and that all our people must have the opportunity to acquire pro-

Easter-tide

WITH EASTER at hand all sorts of alluring gift suggestions burst forth in early springtime splendor. This is the season of the year for surprise presents chosen from the charming array of gift ideas the beauty field offers, says a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune.

Perfume is always a delightfully appropriate present, particularly at this time of the year. Besides, the atmosphere of early spring spells enchantment—a certain new romance in living, especially identified with perfumes and spring fragrances.

Some alert perfumers, to meet the various holiday requirements, are presenting bright and decorative Easter eggs. Gayly colored paper mache "eggs" of red, green, blue, white and yellow contain one or more attractively decorated bottles.

Other firms whose perfumes suggest "Evening and Springtime in Paris" (certainly quite in keeping with this April season), also offer Easter egg packages. These French perfumes are presented in egg-shaped containers of metal with the familiar little sapphire blue and silver bottle resting snugly in one half of the "egg." Here you have a choice of blue, red, green, orchid, pink and pale blue. Certainly a variety of Easter colors!

Powder compacts make a welcome gift. One cosmetic house presents a particularly key. And springlike compact in chromium finish with a pearl gray enamel top, embellished with a basket of bright colored flowers. Just the right note for spring!

A certain New York shop offers a gala display of vanity cases, jeweled compacts and brilliantly decorative lipsticks to match new spring ensembles. The vanities come in black enamel for evening wear and all over for daytime and sport. They are filled with surprises! Powder, rouge, two lipsticks (in daytime and evening shades), a little comb. Quite a compact Easter package, to say the least.

But one novelty compact, popular in the beauty field, is one which is skillfully designed to hold a key. Here beauty combines with the practical, and eliminated are those moments of fumbling in one's pocketbook for the key. The compact will hold any cylinder key. You simply slide the little knob at the top of the case to push out the key. The compact comes in two styles, a double and single compact in assorted enamel colors. You are able to use your own favorite powder for the cases are made for loose powder. Such a novel vanity would be a delightful gift.

Strange Easter Customs

THERE'S a lot more to Easter than displaying finery. Take Scotland, for instance. Lads and lassies there cavort in an Easter spirit alleged to be typical of their country—at expense to none. They get hard-boiled, dyed eggs (once fresh, it is hoped) and playfully roll or throw them at each other. And when they are through with their rolling and throwing, they eat the by-thin-time-battered remains.

But the city-dwellers in Lancashire, Cheshire, Staffordshire and Warwickshire were different. They played a lifting and heaving game. On Easter Monday the men lifted or heaved the women. How far or for what history falls to record. On Easter Tuesday the women, having the last word, lifted or heaved the men. And all this was a very serious matter.

To explain the lifting and heaving, the maneuver was performed by two lusty men or women joining their hands across each other's wrists. Then, making the person to be heaved sit down on their arms, they lifted or heaved him aloft two or three times and often carried him several yards in the street, the distance, of course, depending on the avoirdupois of the victim. London Tit-Bits records.

Even clergymen were unable to escape the heaving or lifting. It so happened a very austere minister was passing through a town in Lancashire on an Easter Tuesday. It was all he could do to uphold his professional dignity when three or four husky women ran into his room, exclaiming they had come "to lift him."

"To lift me," repeated the amazed divine. "What can you mean? Is there any such custom here?"

"To be sure," they chorused. "All us women was lifted yesterday and us lifts the men today in turn."

The reverend traveler, it is recorded, saved his position by bribing them with a half crown and scurrying off on his mission.

In Durham on Easter Monday history says the men claimed the privilege of taking off the women's shoes, and the next day the women came right back in a turn-about's-fair-play manner. History again falls us, for it does not say what "kick" they got from taking off each other's shoes.

At Hungerford in Berkshire during Easter a young man is perfectly entitled to claim a kiss from every pretty girl he meets between noon and 6:00 p. m.

One of the curious customs of the day was that which centered in the distribution of what was known as the Pax or Peace cake. Until very recent times persons who had quarreled were invited to share such a cake, say "peace and good will" and "make up."

Priests in England a few generations ago used to make small crosses of palms which they gave to their congregations. At the shrine of Our Lady, Nantawell, Cornwall, the people developed a ceremony of dropping these symbols into the holy well to test their luck—if the crosses floated, good fortune might be expected; if they sank, death and disaster would be forthcoming.

Seed for Pasture, Hay, Is Available

Supply Believed Sufficient for Planting More Than 30,000,000 Acres.

Supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture—WNU Service. Pasture and hay crop prospects for 1935 are brightened by reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Estimates indicate sufficient seed, especially of legumes, to plant more than 30,000,000 acres to grass and hay crops if the ground is properly prepared and seed used sparingly. Approximately 20,000,000 acres normally are sown. This extra 1,000,000 acres planted to emergency soil-building, erosion-retarding crops will make use of part of the land once planted to corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, and other contracted crops. This extra acreage should also accumulate hay and forage reserves used up in recent months.

Figures from the entire United States indicate enough seed on hand to increase normal plantings as follows: Sweet-clover, 25,000,000 acres; alfalfa, 500,000 acres; lespedeza and red-top, each 1,000,000 acres; and soy beans, at least 5,000,000 acres. It is believed there is enough seed on hand of Kentucky bluegrass and orchard grass to make the normal spring seedling.

The greatest shortages exist in seed supplies of timothy, forage sorghums, millet, sudan grass, and red and alsike clover. There is enough timothy to seed about half the normal acreage. There is enough red clover to seed about 85 per cent of the normal acreage. There is enough sorgo seed on hand to take care of only one-third of the acreage usually sown. Current supplies of millet and sudan grass seed will sow only about one-half the usual acreage. It is reported, however, that importations are rapidly augmenting supplies of these seeds.

Although shortages in adapted varieties of oats, barley, wheat and rye for grain purposes exist in many parts of the drought area, there is probably an ample supply adapted for use as pastures and for grain hay.

Overfeeding Is Cause of Scours in Young Calves

Overfeeding young calves during the first two weeks is likely to cause scours, something that is very difficult to control, says Dr. W. L. Boyd, professor of veterinary medicine, University farm, St. Paul. When young animals are overfed, the milk does not entirely digest, and often forms hard lumpy-like bunches which lie in the fourth compartment of the stomach, causing irritation that results in diarrhea or scours.

When a calf begins to scour, its feed should be cut in half, and if this fails to help, all milk should be withheld for 24 to 48 hours. In place of milk, barley gruel, made by boiling barley kernels until they split open, may be used. A tablespoonful of common baking soda, dissolved in a little milk or water, given once or twice a day, usually helps calves with scours. This should be given slowly through the mouth, so as not to choke the calf.

White scours are caused by germs rather than by overfeeding. In case of any outbreaks of this nature, the local veterinarian would be the best authority.

Way to Stop Erosion

Uncle Sam has originated a unique cultivator which digs 10,000 holes as large as a big straw hat per acre in the surface of tillable fields subject to erosion losses. These holes act as pockets which hold rain-water as it falls until it can be absorbed by the soil. Fifty thousand gallons of water per acre is thus stored in the soil as essential moisture instead of racing away as the efficient agency of erosion. On fields tilled with this new cultivator, soil-wash losses have been reduced to about 1 per cent, as compared with the average loss of 34 per cent which occurred before the new system of cultivation was begun. American farmers and farming will save $2,000,000,000 annually—the tribute now paid to erosion—if the defense is permanently successful.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Around the Farm

France will discourage any increase in wheat acreage.

One of the most easily digested of all foods is honey.

In Holland a special brand of chocolate bar has one-fourth soybean content.

Plant diseases, called rusts, are named because their color suggests iron rust.

South Africa's 1934-35 wheat crop is expected to be 35 per cent greater than that of last season.

Soybean flour is being used more and more in manufactured products to add to their smoothness, taste, and keeping qualities.

Farmers of southern California are adding plant food to irrigation water. Ammonia gas in the water has proved as nourishing as nitrogenous fertilizers.

The carryover of wheat in the United States on July 1, 1934, is expected to be 145,000,000 bushels or less, as compared with 300,000,000 bushels on July 1, 1934.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for April 21.

THE FUTURE LIFE (EASTER LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-12; John 14:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.—John 11:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life Here and Hereafter.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life in the Light of Eternity.

I. God, the God of the Living (Mark 12:20, 27).

"If a man die, shall he live again?" is an age-long question. It is affirmatively answered by both the universal human conviction and the holy Scriptures. Death does not end all. It is not a leap into the dark. It is rather the open door through which human personality enters into the light of glorious freedom. Life itself is but a training school, a preparation for the larger and higher life after death. Those who in their lifetime are in vital relation to Jesus Christ, the eternal Life, shall never die.

II. The Resurrection of Jesus Christ (Luke 24:1-12).

The supreme test of Christianity is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive, if his body remained in the grave. If he did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all his claims are false. On the other hand, if he did arise, all his claims are true.

1. The empty sepulchre (vv. 1-3).

a. The coming of the women (v. 1). As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for his body.

b. What they found (vv. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulchre they found the stone had been removed, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found his body in the sepulchre would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:4).

2. The message of the men in shining garments (vv. 4-9).

a. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5). The angels' question has continued to reverberate through the centuries.

b. "He is not here, but is risen" (v. 6). Jesus, before he was crucified, had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day he would rise.

3. The women witnessing to the eleven (vv. 9-11). Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the apostles as idle tales.

4. Peter investigating (v. 12). While the testimony of the women seemed as idle tales, Peter was not of the temperament to lightly dismiss the matter. Therefore, he ran to the sepulchre. Upon close investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

III. Jesus Preparing a Place in Heaven for His Own (John 14:1-3).

The hopes of the disciples were utterly shattered when Jesus told them about the cross. He consoled them by pointing to the reunion in the Father's house. This he did by 1. Asking them to trust in him even as God (v. 1). Faith in the God-man, Christ Jesus, will steady the heart no matter how intense the grief.

2. By informing them that he was going to the Father's house to prepare a home for them (v. 2). He declared that in that house there were many abiding places. Heaven is an eternal dwelling place for God's children.

3. By assuring them that he would come again and escort them to heaven (v. 3). He will come and call forth from the grave those who have died and transform living believers and take them all together to be with him forever in the heavenly home (I Thess. 4:16, 17).

IV. Jesus Christ is the Way to the Heavenly Father (John 14:6).

In answer to Thomas' interposed doubt Jesus asserted:

1. That he is the way (v. 6). Jesus Christ is more than a mere guide to God or a teacher. He is the way itself, the very door of the sheepfold, the gateway to the tree of life.

2. The truth (v. 6). He is not merely the teacher, but the truth incarnate. In his incarnation the spiritual and material worlds were united. Therefore, every line of truth, whether spiritual or material, converges in him.

3. The life (v. 6). Christ is not merely the giver of life, but the very essence of life. Only those who receive Christ have life in the true sense.

You May Be Wrong "My brethren," said Oliver Cromwell to some of his fanatical, positive followers, "in the name of Christ I beseech you to think it possible you may be mistaken." That is a good word to carry in our minds.

Hindering God Not man's manifold labors but his manifold cares, hinder the presence of God. Whatever thou doest, hush thyself to thine own foolish vanities, and busy thoughts, and cares; in silence seek thy Father's face.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY

The prosecuting counsel was having a little trouble with a rather difficult witness. Exasperated by the man's evasive answers, he asked him if he was acquainted with any of the jury. "Yes, sir, more than half of them," replied the man in the box.

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?" asked counsel.

"If it comes to that, I'm willing to swear that I know more than all of 'em put together," came defiantly from the witness.—Answers Magazine.

HONK! HONK!

Friend—Didn't you know enough to get out of the way of an auto? Victim—No; I'm not used to walking. You see I own one of the things myself.

A Bit of Luck

"Oh, yes," said Jones, "my wife speaks six languages, you know."

"Well, I shouldn't worry," put in his friend. Jones stared searchingly at him. "What do you mean by that?" he asked.

His friend stilled back at him. "Well, she can't speak more than one of them at a time, can she?" he replied.—Answers Magazine.

Weight of We

Tramp—Lady, won't you help a poor man that lost his family in the Yorkshire flood and all his money in a crash?

Housewife—Why, you are the same man that lost a family in the South Wales flood and was shell-shocked during the war.

Tramp—Yes, lady, I'm the unluckiest guy on the face of the earth.—Pearson's Weekly.

Man in Audience—You better sit down. You're coming out at the same hole you went in at.—Pittsford Magazine.

Playing Safe

The hotel clerk was growing impatient as the prospect took so long to read the names on the register. "Just sign on that line, please," said the clerk.

The prospect was indignant and retorted: "Young man, I'm too old a hand to sign anything without reading it!"—Kansas City Star.

THAT'S SOMETHING

"Has Brown ever had much of a hold on you?"

"He succeeded in pulling my leg once."

Voice of the Masses

Social Uplifter—Do you know that one-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives?

Voice from the Rear—It's a good thing some people know enough to mind their own business.—Kansas City Star.

Rainproof

Skeptical Miss—Can this coat be worn out in the rain without hurting it?

Fur Salesman—Lady, did you ever see a skunk carry an umbrella?

Out of Season

"What I want to do," said the economist, "is to persuade our young people to stick to the farm."

"It's a good idea," replied Farmer Corntassel, "but it's out of season. Come around when gettin' up at five o'clock in the morning; ain't such cold work."

At the Usual Rate

King Arthur—How much will they take for that suit of armor, Lanoe? Sir Lancelot—Three cents an ounce, sire. It's first-class mail.

IDEAL FROCK FOR AFTERNOON WEAR

PATTERN 9206

Something different in the way of smartness is this youthful afternoon dress. Its yoke, round in front and buttoning into a chic triangle at the back, points the way to shoulder width, which every style-conscious woman knows is most important this season. The smart bodice is tucked at the yoke-line for flattering fullness. Then, too, the skirt—coming to a nice point above the waistline, back and front—boasts a slimming back seam and kickpleat for extra "back interest." This design would be particularly lovely in metal flecked crepe, either silk or wool. Short sleeves are included with the pattern.

Pattern 9206 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3 yards 30 inch fabric. SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed Sew Chart included. Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York.

"If has been of no use to me," answered Senator Sorghum. "I haven't sufficient sophistry at command to make it look to my constituents like an excuse for not bringing home the bacon."

Meaning?

"I am sorry, madam," said the butcher firmly, "but I can't give you further credit. Your bill is bigger than than it should be."

"Yes, I know that," said the lady, coldly. "If you will make it out for what it should be, I'll pay it."

WRIGLEYS' SPEARMINT THE PERFECT GUM

It's a Season of Plaids and Checks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

GOES madly on the rage for checks and plaids. Where fashions are at their smartest these animated patterns are flourishing with all their might, both for day and evening wear.

The new plaids and checks are apt to be "all wool and a yard wide" (more likely fifty-four inches) as they are apt to be of washable synthetics, linens or cottons. In fact among the swankest weaves going you will find linens done in garish, racy plaids which make up too swagger for words—ever so effective for sports wear.

Then, too, topcoats of gorgeous plaids are going places where they never went before, for women are wearing them during the daytime hours about town and for travel as well as sports. Some have fur collars and some haven't, but they are that good looking with or without you will be envying the fortunates who possess them. The girl seated to the right in the picture is wearing a model which is styled with latest details, such as the hand-cut fringe of self material which trims the wide scarf ends and the wide turnover collar. The predominant colors in the plaid for this coat are brown and beige with a streak of orange in its makeup. The same plaid is striking in tones of reds or greens.

Her companion is wearing a check suit and if you are wanting to get into something decidedly stylish for spring here's your cue and no mistake about it. This one is black and white but if you happen to be in some other color mood, there is a check to satisfy, such as green with gray, navy with white, brown with tiger yellow. Then, too, there are tweed checks galore out on the field of action. They are smart, to be sure, but we must say there is a regular landslide in the direction of the simple little checks as pictured.

It is ever so good style to wear a tweed-wool check skirt with a jacket of plain or the reverse. It is smart, too, to top a plaid or check skirt with a colorful suede jacket.

Plaid taffetas for daytime frocks, either synthetic or pure silk are making a grand success of it this season. A shirtwaist dress of plaid taffeta is in the height of fashion. Likewise a one-piece taffeta frock topped with a redingote of wool in navy or black makes an ideal spring costume.

Myriads of simple little morning and informal afternoon frocks—choose plaid for their media. The model on the standing figure plays up bias-to-straight effectively. Novel touches such as buttons set in alternate colors and little pockets set in on the bias add zest to this mode.

The other dress is interesting, too, in that it is made of a star print—little stars instead of the dotted theme and you can get this material with white stars on navy or red and other combinations. A deep pointed collar of white pique and large white buttons tune into the scheme of things most cleverly.

NAVY AND YELLOW

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is good-looking, this girlish frock and hat to match, is it not? It is a film-folk fashion and you know it is smart and advance if it originates in Hollywood, as it has. Ruby Keeler wears it. Attention is especially called to it because of its navy and canary color scheme. Navy for the foundational color with either white, yellow or pink is the talk of town this season. The smart set are carrying out the idea by wearing accessories made of natural toned chamolite skin. The dress pictured is of navy wool with accents of canary colored rough-textured crepe.

Turquoise Preferred

The turquoise has the preference among evening jewelry appearing effectively with white crepes and satins and especially with black velvet. Big turquoise buttons trim a black velvet dress cut away in front to show a fawn-tinted underskirt of black tulle.

"SKIMMER" NEWEST WHIM OF HATTERS

The "skimmer" is the newest whim of the hatters, with madness its chief distinguishing charm.

This skimmer is the 1935 version of the pancake sailor which has been with us, off and on, in recent months. Only now it is flatter and crazier and generally more exhilarating than ever.

You clap it on the side of your head at whatever angle best suits your current mood, batten it down with a band around the back or even a hatpin, and then go out and join in a sporting battle with the spring breezes.

There is one redeeming feature about the new skimmers. They have done away with the unsightly elastic bands that decorated last spring's version of this particular style of headgear, and have substituted bands of ribbon or felt or straw to match the hat.

New Silhouette Featured by Alix and Schiaparelli

There is much discussion and some difference of opinion expressed concerning the new draped lines which had their most prominent exponents in Alix and Schiaparelli dresses. These influences, variously related to the Hindu, the Persian and the Iranian, are best known in the sari-draped togas familiar in Near East photographs.

The draping is in a soft, statuesque line, swirled round the body in a continuous movement from ankles to head. Several arrivals consider it a significant new silhouette trend, promising more for later season development. Others are inclined to disregard draping, considering it too extreme.

Spring Accessories Matter of Importance to Fashion

Accessories are going to be matters of prime fashion importance this spring for there are "glinger and snap" in the way they are put together. Here is the way one chic Parisian accents a black and white check suit: Yellow straw hat with black band, yellow blouse and yellow chamolite gloves, blue cornflower in the buttonhole, black suede bag and gloves.

Lace With Tweeds

Bows of soft lace are being worn with tweed costumes.

Dental Hygiene

The Road to Health

By DR. R. ALLEN GRIFFITH

DENTAL PAIN KILLING

THE fear of pain is man's heritage. An American dentist reduced that heritage forever by making the first practical use of nitrous oxide (laughing gas) as an anesthetic.

Anesthesia really was discovered on December 11, 1844, by Horace Wells, a dentist of Hartford, Conn., when he offered himself as a possible martyr to suffering humanity, by inhaling nitrous oxide and having a tooth extracted. In January, 1845, Doctor Wells took his discovery to Boston and operated before the medical college. He was ridiculed and pronounced a fraud. The wise men of Boston pointed the finger of mockery and cried "humbug," determined to break upon the rocks of derision any man from the country who supposed the wisemen of the city ridiculous enough to believe his story.

Dentists in their eagerness to relieve human suffering and pain, have for years successfully used local anesthetics such as cocaine and novocain. In later years they have developed the use of a combination of nitrous oxide and oxygen, the safest general anesthetic known. The death rate from nitrous oxide and oxygen is estimated at one in a million, against one in thirty thousand in ether.

Dentistry's latest gift to suffering mankind is conductive anesthesia—nerve blocking, by which the area controlled by a nerve is rendered insensible to pain. Surgery is now able to perform major operations such as laparotomies and amputations by injecting the nerve trunks with novocain. What would be man's fear and dread of dental and surgical operations without the gracious sleep of anesthesia?

Through anesthesia, dentistry has given to humanity one of its greatest boons, and it is hard to conceive that in the past few years, bills have been introduced in some of our state legislatures to prevent dentists from giving anesthetics. However, it is only in line with the profound scientific ignorance of politicians.

The dentist has succeeded in taking the "dent" out of dentistry. Where an individual suffers from pain in his teeth, it is his own fault. The modern up-to-date dentist has so many ways of relieving pain that no one need suffer from their teeth. His latest and greatest gift to humanity, however, is the prevention of systemic disease through the proper care of the teeth.

Proper dental care will not only prevent pain and preserve the teeth but will preserve general health as well.

TEETH AND TONSILS

WHEN you smile in a mirror what do you see?

Do you see a clean, healthy mouth and a row of pearls, or a neglected oral cavity with decaying, uncare-for teeth?

The mucous membrane of the mouth is highly resistant to the invasion of bacteria. If this were not true, we would all be in constant trouble from mouth infections, for it is easy to demonstrate that every mouth in any civilized community contains a great variety of bacteria, most of them of highly virulent strains.

During the past few years it has been the practice to remove the tonsils, but to overlook their source of infection, the teeth. Let us see how the tonsils become infected.

The substance of healthy tonsils is composed of small nodules of lymphatic tissues arranged in groups of 12 to 15 crypts and connective tissue, blood vessels and a few nerve fibers. From the crypts numerous follicles branch out into the substance of the tonsil by means of irregular channels.

Surrounding each follicle is a plexus of lymphatic vessels, and the whole is covered by mucous membrane.

While well protected from the outside, yet, because of their peculiar construction and the numerous lymphatic plexuses and crypts, they are ideal incubators for micro-organisms that may once succeed in penetrating the lymph channels. The lymphatic vessels of the gums terminate in the submaxillary glands. The lymphatic vessels leading from the plexuses surrounding the tonsillar crypts also pass to the submaxillary glands. It is therefore readily seen that bacteria may pass almost directly from the gum margins to the tonsils.

Bacteria passing into the lymph channels may easily pass on to the tonsils and be enormously multiplied, both in number and virulence, and be passed through the submaxillary glands to the deep cervical glands, and finally on to other parts of the body without the surface of the tonsil even being disturbed. This is why the removal of the tonsils, while immediately helpful, does not always remove the source of the trouble. The same condition still remains, and operation after operation frequently succeed each other as the lowered resistance of some other point causes it to become infected.

If the teeth are properly cared for first, and the crypts of the tonsils carefully cleaned out, the tonsils may frequently be saved. In any event the teeth should be the first consideration, for in treating diseases resulting from focal infection the original point of infection must be eradicated.

PROVIDING FOR THOSE OVER 65

Statistician's Figures Show Enormity of Task.

On a subject which at the moment is engaging the attention of thinkers and economists everywhere, the following analysis, from the New York Times, will be of interest:

"Realizing that no old-age pension legislation can ignore the progress that science has made in prolonging human life, the administration requested the Committee on Economic Security to present figures to show what the country must face if it is to support those who attain the age of sixty-five and who are unable to support themselves in gainful occupations.

"Since 1900 the number of the superannuated (by which term those who are sixty-five and over are meant) has been steadily increasing. Then it was 4,000,000, or a little more than 4 per cent of the population; now it is 7,500,000, or 5.4 per cent; by 1970 it will be 15,000,000, or 10 per cent.

"The obvious remedy is to save for the proverbial rainy day. But how? The committee makes the point that a man of sixty-five may expect to live until he is seventy-six or seventy-seven. He should have saved about $3,500 to enjoy an income of only $25 a month for his declining years. But ten and a half million families, the best earners in the United States, save in their whole lives a total of only $71 out of earnings that lie somewhere between $1,000 and $2,000 a year. If $3,500 is the capital that a man of sixty-five needs to maintain himself on $25 a month—how it can be done on that allowance the committee does not reveal—we must find over two billion a year to support him and his kind. And this is only a beginning.

"Old age yields to youth in industry. It is not hard-heartedness or inability to appreciate the ability, experience and ripe judgment of forty-five or fifty that makes it so much easier for a man to win a place while his hair is still brown or black, but the exigencies of a corporation pension system. If an employee is to retire at sixty-five at the expense of his employer he must have behind him at least twenty years of service. It follows that men who are now fifty and out of work are not likely to find permanent positions again with large firms that have instituted pension systems.

It may be that this presentation of the case is too bleak. The evidence is strong that a population tends to become stationary. At some future date, which may be only a half century hence, births and deaths will balance each other. If technological unemployment is but a passing phenomenon, it follows that there will be more and more old workers and that the good jobs will not all be filled by youth."

Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

IS a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous—all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

Hilarlo Ma was here from Lincoln Saturday and bought a pair of leg-irons which were found in an old junk pile near the old county jail in Lincoln. The junk pile was unearthed by Laiso Salas when excavating for a cellar. They are very ancient.

having been made in an old-fashioned blacksmith shop. They are very heavy and crudely made, but are still strong enough to hold an elephant. Judging from the looks of the leg-irons, perhaps some tough hombre who is now in the Lincoln graveyard with his boots on, could readily identify them, if still alive.
