Beacons Along the Route

Mrs. Ola Jones Comes to the Fore Again

Mrs. Ola Jones, County School Supt., left this morning for Las Cruces to attend a meeting of a committee of county school superintendents. Mrs. Jones is a mother of a plan to furnish programs for the one-room schools over the state, which heretofore have been overlooked and neglected. She already has 400 one-room schools on her list and will continue until all are located. Her idea which is commended by the State Board of Education is to have these little one-room schools provided with programs which will be in line with advanced educational and entertaining features.

Roof of Lincoln School Collapses

Monday morning, while workmen were tearing off a portion of the school building at Lincoln preparatory to making an addition to the school, the roof became weakened and fell in. Due to the presence of mind of Principal Black, the children were saved from injuries and perhaps death. He noticed a crack in the ceiling and rushed the children out before the ceiling collapsed. The building was erected 15 years ago and proved too small for the increased attendance; hence the addition.

The old Laws home has been selected as a temporary school until a new building can be erected. The work will be commenced soon.

NEW MEXICO MILITARY INSTITUTE

Roswell, Jan. 15 — One of the principal diversions of Roswell people is attending the Sunday afternoon parades of the New Mexico Military Institute, but this year they have been privileged to witness a number of special reviews in which part of the corps have been mounted. The last of this series of special reviews for the first semester has just been held, and every cadet has been mounted in one or more reviews. The reviews are very impressive and many favorable comments have been made on the way in which they are conducted.

A number of horse shows were also held during the first semester in which jumping was emphasized. All cadets, from those who had never been on a horse before entering the Institute to the most experienced horsemen, have participated.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

Mrs. Kell Davis of Pasadena, Calif., is fond of raising chickens. In one of the flocks, she has a rooster that has never had a feather on him and he is now over one year old. We all know that chickens love the taste of fresh meat, chicken included. So it is that the other members of the gang, seeing the naked rooster, they would naturally pick at him and the torture was terrible. Seeing his uncomfortable condition, Mrs. Davis made him a coat of bright red and now he struts around the barnyard like a King—and is he a Shik? His name is Mahatma Gandhi.

Stockmen of New Mexico and this locality especially, will be interested to know that cattle in the fertile valleys and slopes of the Mauna Kea, mountain in Hawaii, have never known what is to drink water from a lake, river or stream. Heavy mists constantly drift in on the trade winds and the cattle slake their thirst by inhaling the mists or from the rich wet grass. When removed to a dry region, they balk at the sight of water, not knowing what it is. The cattle are bred on the 500,000 acre ranch belonging to the Parker Brothers and has 32,000 Herefords. Wouldn't that be wonderful for the ranchers of Lincoln County?

Just 270 years ago, Benjamin Franklin discovered electricity and how to apply it. This same strange power which is so little understood, will take the life of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. The man who invented the electric chair, died in one after being tried and convicted for murder. Little did he think when perfecting the machine, that he would be one of its victims; but anything can happen, which proves that truth is stranger than fiction.

A Hindu by the name of Yogi, at Allahabad, Inds., emerged last week from a sealed tomb, where he had been placed and where he remained for 45 days without food, water or air. Thousands of pilgrims flocked to the tomb to witness the Hindu come out of his trance. A guard was placed at the tomb with the instructions from Yogi that it should not be opened until the 45th day; at which time the sentinel heard him say, "OM," which is their mystic word for divinity.

Pretty Miss Sarah Berner was a clerk in a department store in New York. She also had an uncontrollable desire to imitate certain customers of the store, for which she was finally fired. She looked for work in vain and acting on advice, she secured a trial on Major Bowes' amateur program and from getting the "gong" in the store, she is making a nice salary on a vaudeville circuit. She can imitate anyone from the President down to the gangster.

Back to Washington

"We have restored federal control of the federal government to the city of Washington," said President Roosevelt in his last radio speech, a partisan campaign address delivered to the country under the guise of performing his official duties as Chief Executive.

"Let them define the issues," was his challenge to his critics.

The president in the first paragraph above defined the issue partially. To define it completely he should, have said — "We have restored control of the federal and state governments to the city of Washington."

There is the issue — as to whether or not control of both federal and state governments shall be removed from Washington and restored to the people of the nation and of the states;

Whether the 'oligarchy' which Mr. Roosevelt specifically denounced before his election and then established shall dig in further; whether the rights of the states, which he demanded in a pre-election speech be kept sacred and then be abolished, shall, in fact, be kept intact;

Whether the autocracy which, ironically, he denounced in business and in other countries and set up in Washington shall continue;

Whether the Bureaucracy which he denounced before election and then increased a thousandfold shall continue;

The oligarchy-autocracy-bureaucracy which jails men for raising more than 5 bushels of potatoes; which has 100,000 men in federal jobs under James A. Farley;

Which told lawmakers not to be deterred by reasonable doubts of constitutionality of Legislation;

Which on the night of the president's radio speech, was conveyed with thinly veiled meaning that "Congress has the right and can find the way to protect its own prerogatives;" and which has given a thousand arbitrary rules of Bureaucrats the power and force of enacted law.

Granting Mr. Roosevelt the role of idealist, he nevertheless defines the issue by being one of the world's outstanding exponents of autocracy.

His idea of government for 125 million people is one centering and functioning as completely in Washington as does Rome or Tokyo.

In general the speech indicates that Mr. Roosevelt is deeply stung by the attacks and that it is a resentful defense.

Internationally he indicts Italy for armed aggression, menacing world peace and popular rule, of which — more irony — he professes to believe or really believe he is the exponent.

What Does America Ask of Congress?

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

With the new year comes a new session of Congress. What does the average American ask of it?

Basically his demands are modest and few. All are in conformity with the rights and powers granted him under the Constitution.

He wants those rights respected and preserved.

He wants his collective interests, as a worker, an earner and a taxpayer, considered above and ahead of the demands of organized minorities operating as political pressure groups.

He wants his national Legislators to exhibit those qualities of responsibility and self-reliance expected of the chosen representatives of a free people. He has seen enough of rubber-stamp Congresses, eager and willing to enact hasty measures at the behest of appointed bureau chiefs, in whose selection the voters have no choice and over whose actions they exercise no control.

He wants Congress to know and respect the Federal Constitution—to refrain from legislation which violates our Fundamental Law and its Bill of Rights.

He wants Congress to remember that public debts created by reckless expenditures and wars must be paid out of taxes—clipped from the worker's earnings or the earnings of his children and grandchildren. He wants it to stop mortgaging our future.

He wants members of Congress, whatever their party affiliations, to think of the Nation as a whole, rather than in terms of political groups and factions.

In brief, he wants courage, reason and economy in government—and he asks Congress to assure these things. It is a fair request. If the members of Congress will heed it, they can do much to restore that public confidence upon which depends not only our national recovery, but the future security of America.

Let Secretary Wallace not lose heart. He may yet get in on the relief list. Let him remember that it is "an ill wind that blows nobody good."

Only One Income Tops Five Million

Earnings Between $6,000,000 and $9,000,000

Washington.—America had one man whose net income was somewhere between $6,000,000 and $9,000,000 in 1934, Treasury department figures disclose.

The identity of the country's wealthiest man in 1934 was a closely guarded secret, as were the names of the other 31 persons who were shown by a previous treasury report to have had incomes in excess of $1,000,000 during 1934.

"Average" Net Income Climbs. That the richest man's taxable income was not less than $6,000,000 and not more than $9,000,000 could be discovered from the treasury's figures, however.

SETS WORLD RECORD

Walter Mercurio, Cleveland's leading bowler and captain of the Waldorf Lagers, former national match game champion, was officially notified by the American Bowling Congress that his last season's average of 238 is recognized as a new world's record.

same size in 1933 could not be learned at the treasury.

The "average" man who filed an income tax return on his 1934 income had net taxable earnings of $3,123, compared with an average of $2,063 for 1933, according to the treasury's survey of income tax returns.

Of the 3,989,269 returns filed up to August 31, 1935, however, 2,237,426 showed net incomes so small they were not taxable.

Among the 32 persons whose taxable incomes for 1934 were over $1,000,000, 20 had incomes ranging between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, the treasury disclosed; these 20 incomes combined amounted to $23,238,035, on which the persons receiving them paid a federal income tax of $12,014,130, equal to 51.28 per cent of the net incomes.

Tax Soars to 57.4 Per Cent. The remaining 12 millionaires were scattered over five brackets. Four had incomes between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, six had incomes between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, one had an income between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, and one had an income in excess of $5,000,000.

To conceal the identity of the two men at the top of the income scale the treasury lumped figures on their incomes and taxes with those for the four persons having incomes between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. These six incomes combined totaled $18,035,692, but, since the other five incomes included in this total could not amount to more than $12,000,000 nor less than $9,000,000, the total disclosed that the largest income of them all was somewhere between $9,000,000 and $12,000,000.

Out of their combined incomes of $18,000,000 these six persons paid $10,355,449, or 57.4 per cent, to the federal government as income taxes.

THE SPIRIT OF UNCERTAINTY

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

A spirit of uncertainty is abroad in the land. An early manifestation of this attitude was the converting of stock securities into government bonds. Liquidity was the universal cry. People began to lose confidence in banks, to withdraw their deposits and hoard them in strong boxes.

However, the spirit of uncertainty has not entirely disappeared. It still stalks about like a haunting ghost, disturbing the peace and confidence of many who have devoted the larger part of their lives in diligent economic service.

HOODED CAPE

A little hooded cape, made entirely of silver fox, is charming with a gown of velvet. When the hood is dropped it forms a cowl collar that shows its black silk velvet lining.—From Arneheimer.

and the latter having been "let out" find it almost impossible to obtain another job. The so-called "retiring age" is also gradually being lowered from seventy to sixty-five years, and in some cases, particularly in the professions, to sixty years.

Employment insurance, old age pensions, and other solutions of the problem of uncertainty have been proposed. But all of these will ultimately fail, for they are powerless to restore confidence in one's self. The feeling of certainty is the result of confidence.

Now that the feeling of security in the banks and in many economic values has been restored, the next step necessary is to restore to every person a sense of confidence and security in himself.

There is innate ability the competitive economic world has never discovered. The financial and economic problems arising from the depression are being solved gradually, but no serious efforts have thus far been made to solve the "human problem."

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

The clapboards for this new house in old-time architecture suit it well as they are made to simulate clapboards of the same period.

IT IS interesting to note the return to old-time effects in home building materials. Craftsmanship is accentuated. No longer is it the very essence of the times to have machine improvements apparent in such things as the wood of a house.

Two of these instances are found in hand-hewn beams, and hand-made clapboards, which are all the products of machinery. They are synthetic hand-hewn beams, and hand-made clapboards. Irregularities are stressed, not smoothness and geometric precision.

These synthetic hand-hewn beams and clapboards are just the things to use in the construction of old settler types of houses, replicas of Cape Cod farm houses and early dwellings of grandeur that were erected prior to the inroads of machinery so useful and necessary to meet the demands of a growing population.

beams are well-adapted for ceilings in cement, stone and brick dwellings of old Dutch reproduction, and Mission styles, as well as the other types of homes already mentioned.

Many of the early settler houses had clapboards. These came later than the shingled homes, but a study of Cape Cod houses indicates that clapboards frequently were utilized with shingles. The latter were relegated to sides and backs of houses while clapboards were used for front finishes.

Parental Discipline

To discipline children requires courage, the sort of courage parents should have. The word discipline is here used in its primary significance of "to train to obedience," and does not refer especially to punishment. Training to obedience may be through praise of the good things done as well through correction and chastisement for disobedience and wrong doing.

Congressman Is an Expert on Violins

Representative Kent F. Keller of Illinois, chairman of the house library committee, is an outstanding authority on violins. He has studied them in the United States and in Europe and knows several hundred famous ones.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Ferns grow and thrive in suspended window baskets if soil is kept moist and not allowed to dry out.

Keep a roll of glued paper and a ball of twine in your kitchen to use when tying and labeling bundles.

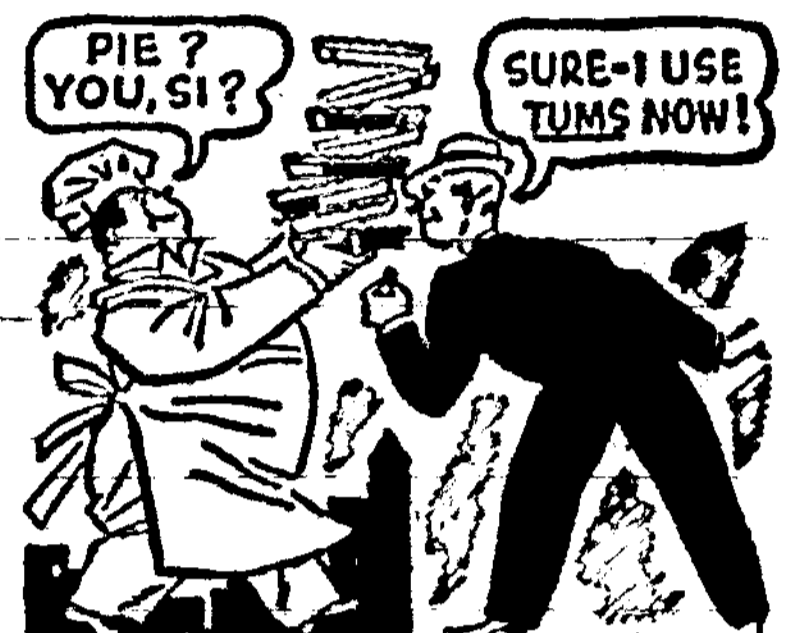

After removing fudge from the stove, add half a teaspoon of baking powder. It makes it fluffy.

To soften hardened putty, place in boiling water and allow to stand until water cools.

Do not keep cyclamens in too warm a room. Too much heat causes the blossoms to lose their firmness. Keep soil about the roots quite damp.

A pall of sand should always be kept near the furnace in the cellar. Should a spark from the furnace start a blaze it may be quickly extinguished with the sand.

Hunting Party and Supper
At the Freeman Home

On New Year's Day, Rhoda
and Carl Freeman, Jr., entertained with a Hunting Party and Supper in honor of Miss Louise Shelton, Frank Shelton and Frank English, Jr., who were spending the yuletide with the home folks. In the hunt, Miss Nelle Shaver and Mr. Townsend were placed in command of the hunting expedition and Harold Degitz was the Nimrod. The hunt was very successful and after counting up the results of the same, they found one rabbit.

Returning to the office from a business mission Tuesday afternoon, we were confronted by our old friend Will Robinson, newspaper columnist, who issued to us his best wishes for a Happy New Year. On Christmas morning, Will found a new dog
among his presents — and why he referred to Paul Dodge of the Tucumcari News and A. L. Burke of The Carrizozo Outlook when speaking of the looks of his new pet, he may tell Paul when they meet again, but it's OK by us if it's all right by Paul.

Leandro Vega was in from the ranch Tuesday and attended the New Year's Eve dances at Community Hall that night.

There will be reserved seats
for all Texas people at the Capitan Methodist Church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.
Everybody welcome.

Lupe Gabaldon, Claunch stockman, was a business visitor in Carrizozo last Saturday.

The Florencio Mirelez family were Adobe visitors Monday, remaining for a wedding dance
that night and returning home
early Tuesday morning.

Louis Nalda of his Red Canyon Sheep Ranch, was a business visitor in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Benj. D. Holguin were El Paso visitors for the week-end, returning home Sunday on No. 12.

Sabino Vidaurri treated his friends with a big party, and dance at the Country Club Monday night. A Tipica orchestra from Albuquerque furnished the music; a member of the same being a nephew of Mr. Vidaurri.

E. Bello, prominent stockman of the Claunch country, was a Carrizozo business visitor the latter part of last week. He made this office a friendly call while here.

To the Lucky Dairy, Tommy Karr, prop. and the Joe West dairy—The dairy business is one business that has never suffered from over production. The reason why this field is overcrowded, is that mighty dairy few people like to milk cows and do chores around the barnyard. Tiz drudgery, and drudgery is always easy to shun.

Kinda reminds us of a boy who worked as a helper for a dairy in an eastern city. The boss, who had long red whiskers, was all the time very cross and irritable. Imagine the boy being awakened at 3:30 in the morning and asked if he was going to sleep all day. It was in midwinter and snow was twelve inches deep. How'd you like to be a dairyman? N ay, nope, Mabel. In other words, "No Ketchum."

"This is a wonderful climate after all," remarked a local man.
"No blizzards, no floods or cyclones; I think we don't realize what a marvelous climate this section of the state has."

Then there is the Malpais or ancient lava flow about three miles from town—there is absolutely no history connected with eruption. Reminds us of a fragment of a poem, about the ruins of South America, this age-old lava flow—

"Far in the wildest quinine wood
We found a city old, so old
Its very walls were turned to stone
And stately trees upon them
stood."

Sentence sermon for this week:
Enter not in the path of the wicked, but go not in the way of evil men.

A reader of The Outlook tells us that his wife has a craze for antiques. It doesn't make any difference whether a chair is comfortable or not if it is an antique, she buys it. If Friend Wife could see all of the printers' wired up stools, and the collection of chairs in this office,
she needn't look any further.

Strange But True

years ago in Germany is still in use. There are 494 black-

York City. The United States is the largest sugar consuming nation in the world.

On New Year's eve it commenced to rain; this was followed by sleet and a light snowfall.
Too bad we didn't have snow on Christmas Day instead of our usual brilliant day of perpetual sunshine.

Christmas day was a gala one in Carrizozo. Scoutmaster Phil Bright had his boys out, and the people who donated toys to be given the needy kiddies, the Boy-Scouts express their thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kimbrell, baby and Richard Kimbrell spent
New Year's Day with the Wm.
Kimbrell and Ben Holguin families, returning to their home in Pecos Thursday morning.

Alfredo Martinez and L u c i o Vidaurri will return Sunday to resume their studies at the Albuquerque Business College, after spending the holiday season with the home folks.

Lowell Burton, meatcutter at the Petty Economy Grocery & Meat Market, is visiting his father at Whiteface, Tex. and sister in Oklahoma for a short time.

The Townsend Club will meet at the Courthouse Monday nite,
Jan. 6. Everybody invited.
Business of importance will come before the meeting.
