School Notes

Ola C. Jones, Co. Supt.

A teacher visitation program is being carried out in the rural schools this year. Every teacher will have the privilege of visiting another school where work similar to hers is being carried on. Feb 7 will be a teacher visiting day held at Lincoln. San Patricio, Ancho and Stetson will visit there. At the close of the school day, a conference period and round table discussions on certain vital school problems will be held.

Mid term tests are being given to the pupils enrolled in the 8th grade. On the whole, the pupils are doing nicely.

The pupils at Stetson are being served with hot cocoa every noon. The teachers, bus drivers together with co operation from the parents, are responsible for this splendid movement.

The additional rooms are completed at San Patricio. The teachers, the Misses Everett and Kimbrell, are indeed happy to occupy them.

Alto has recently given a box supper and realized a nice sum of money from this event. These funds will be spent to secure play ground equipment for the school. Early in March the State Board of Education will meet to select basic readers through grades 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8; supplementary readers for grades 1 to 8; and English books for grades 3 to 8. The building at Ruidoso will be ready for occupancy on Feb. 3. This addition to the school is certainly splendid. A new three room building is in process of construction at Tinnie.

The above - mentioned books will be placed on the free list. There is a great need to encourage our children to care for the books, the state has been so generous to supply.

Music - Drama Study Club

met with Mrs. Albert Ziegler and Mrs. Selma Degitz Jan. 23. The Misses Clarice Short and Agnes Lehr were elected new members. The Club deeply regretted that due to ill health, Miss Lehr was unable to attend. The Club immensely enjoyed the excerpt from Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

Miss Short gave an interesting program of individual numbers, which was followed by plans for the next meeting at the home of Mrs. W. C. Hendren at Fort Stanton on Feb. 20, where the annual pot luck dinner, to which husbands and sweethearts of the members will be invited. Messdames W. C. Hendren, T. E. Kelley and C. O. Garrison, who will have charge of the program, have chosen individual numbers. Those desiring information regarding transportation, should consult Mrs. Roughner and concerning the dinner, confer with Mrs. Blaney, chairwoman for the occasion.

Ruth Brickley, Reporting.

The Ben C. Sanchez family will make a pleasure trip to Albuquerque tomorrow and will return home Sunday.

Ernest Lopez entertained friends with a birthday party last night.

Mrs. Ted Purcoy, who underwent an operation for appendicitis the latter part of last week, is convalescing nicely in a hospital at El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Waldrep have moved to Hobbs, N. M.

Mrs. Gunther Kroggel returned Wednesday evening from Sweetwater, Texas, where she had been ill and confined in a hospital. Her condition is very much improved.

Mrs. Barney Baronsky and Mrs. Eddie Clark were here from Capitan Wednesday attending to some business matters.

Capitan News

Construction of the new Capitan Union High School building will get under way about Feb. 15, according to members of the local school board. A. N. Amis of Roswell is the contractor.

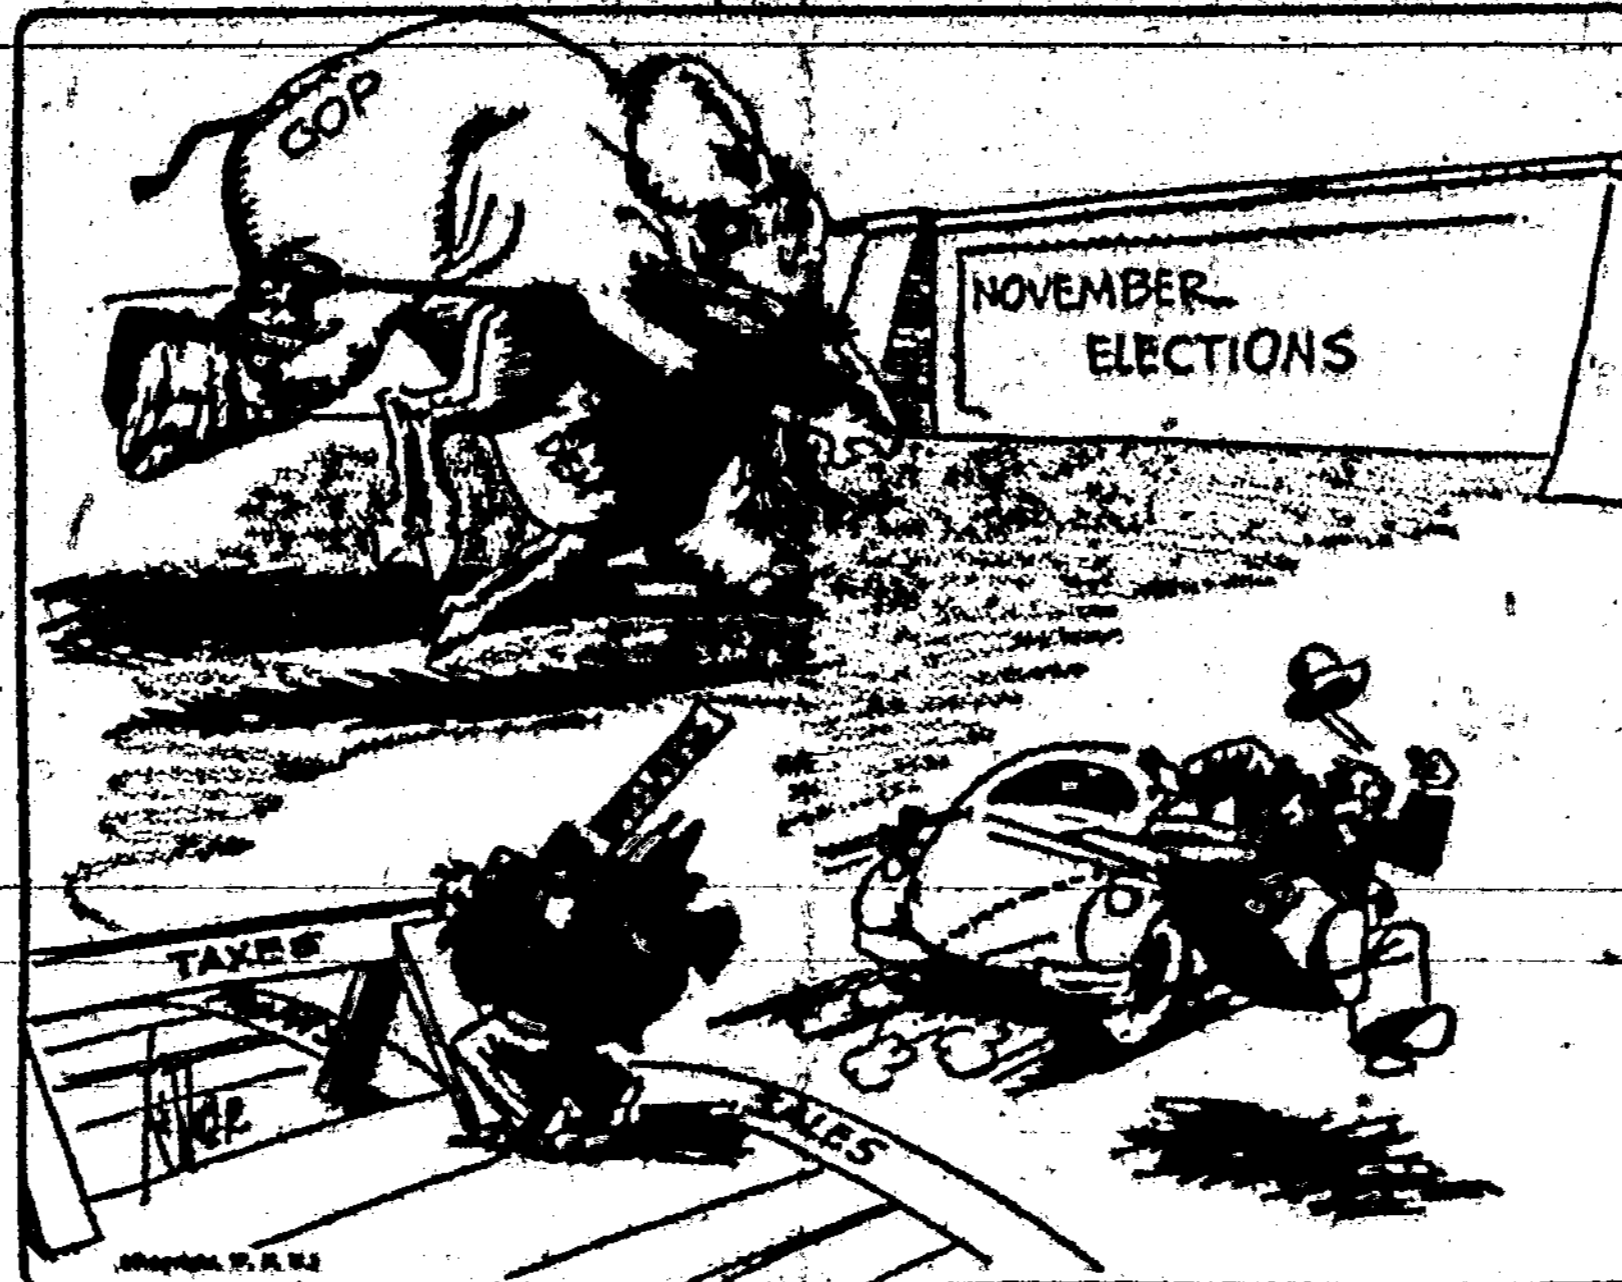

An enthusiastic crowd of Lincoln County rooters backed the Capitan girls when they met the Underwood Typlats at the gym last Saturday night and all agreed that it was worth coming far to see, even though the visitors did win by a score of 19 to 17. Another meeting at a later date might have a different result.

Wallace Ferguson's Capitan boys took Woodrow Clements' Hondo boys into camp to the tune of 38 to 19 in the first game of the evening.

The orchestra had Bill Nickels in addition to the regulars and furnished unusually good music for the dance which followed the games.

Tomorrow night, Feb. 1, another El Paso girls' team, Grant's, will meet the Capitan girls at 8 o'clock. A team of Lincoln County Coaches meets the Capitan town team at 7. A dance will again follow these games.

It's Leap Year

Hondo Valley P. T. A. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Hondo Valley P. T. A. was held at the High School building Thursday afternoon, Jan. 16. A large number of members and visitors were present. The meeting was presided over by Mr. J. E. Brady, President. A program on "Safety" was presented with Mrs. E. V. Morris as chairman. Two songs were given by a group of high school girls; and the girls from Mrs. Louise Joiner's room sang two "Safety" songs. Senator Louise Cox, the speaker for the afternoon, gave a most interesting and instructive talk, her subject being "Safety in the School Zone." It would have been well if every one in the community could have heard this talk.

After the program a short business meeting was held. At this time a committee was appointed to nominate the officers for the coming year. At the close of the meeting an enjoyable social hour was spent at which time Mrs. Coe gave an interesting account of her trip to the Pasadena Rose Parade and the game at the Rose Bowl. Mrs. Coe has a pleasing personality and is a delightful entertainer. The next meeting will be Feb. 20.

of Carrizozo will hold its February meeting on Friday evening, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Selma Degitz has prepared an interesting program; everybody interested is urged to attend.

—Secretary.

The Harcrow brothers, H. N. and Alvin, were here from Capitan yesterday in the interest of their weekly dances which they give at the "El Centro." The next dances will be given tomorrow night, Feb 1, and Carrizozo dance fans are invited to attend.

Mrs. Petra Gonzales, mother of Mrs. Saturnino Chavez, who was quite ill last week, is much improved at the present time.

T. A. Spencer and daughter Jane are spending a few days of the week in Albuquerque, attending to some important business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dingwall are spending the week at Eagle Creek.

A. F. Stover was here from Hondo Monday, attending the meeting of the White Sands District Association.

R. H. Nickels has recovered from a recent attack of the flu.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Last Sunday, Jan. 26, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Stimmel celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary surrounded by their children, six in number, all of whom had traveled a distance of 2100 miles to be present and to pay their loving respects to their parents on the above occasion.

To begin the celebration, a delicious dinner was served to the immediate family circle at the Carrizozo Eating House. The centerpiece of the table was a large flower bowl containing a beautiful bouquet of calendulas of a golden color. A large wedding cake, cut in portions, each of which contained 1888-1936, were assigned to each member of the family. Place cards bearing the marriage date, names of the witnesses and minister who performed the ceremony, neatly written in gold, the same being the handiwork of Mrs. Jimmy Lee of the Carrizozo Eating House, were at the plates of each of the family circle.

From 3 to 5 p. m., they were at home to their many friends. During that period, the Stimmel home was crowded with home folks and others from our neighboring towns, who were anxious to congratulate the couple on the happy event. Supreme Judge A. H. Hudepeth finding it impossible to attend, wired his regrets and sent Mr. Stimmel a stick-pin made from virgin gold, taken from the Old Abe mine at White Oaks in the early days. D. L. Jackson and White Oaks produced a copy of the "Golden Age," a weekly newspaper published in White Oaks, and Mrs. Stimmel was presented with a copy of the same, which contained the complimentary article on their wedding.

Refreshments were served as old friends filed in, and each representative and filed in order to give place to others who were in waiting. At 5 o'clock, the last of the guests left for their homes with happy thoughts of the afternoon's merriment.

Monday morning, the children made an early start for the land of the sunset, with regrets on all sides at the separation, but love will find a way and let us hope the distance will be no barrier to the permanent return of a portion, if not all of the Stimmel family.

Mrs. Jack Hall of Ruidoso came down the first of the week and went to El Paso, accompanied by Mrs. Eva Hanny. After visiting Mrs. Hanny's daughter Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, the three ladies returned home, Mrs. Ferguson visiting her mother, returning home Sunday.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Petty, daughter Ruth and son Jesse of the Economy Grocery & Market were El Paso business visitors Monday, returning home Tuesday.

Mrs. R. A. Walker of the Lyric Theatre won the Dripolator at Jeff Herron's Grocery & Meat Market last week. Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Frame and children came down from Jicavilla Monday, Pete taking No. 4 for Tucumcari. Pete has gone back to firing for the S. P.

Miss Esther Dow, teacher at San Patricio, spent the week-end here with the home folks.

J. H. Fulmer and Don English were delegates to the State Republican Central Committee meeting at Albuquerque Monday. They returned Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bello and Louis Nalda were here from their respective ranches Monday, attending the grazing meeting.

The Home Economics Club held its regular meeting Thursday, Jan. 23. Clubs all over the state have recently voted on a club name and "Junior Homemakers of America" was selected. The club colors are turquoise blue and white. Officers are: Pres., Edith Norman; V. Pres., Marjorie Nickels; Sec'y-Treas., Wilma Snow; Reporter, Jane Norman. The club looks forward to a successful year of work.

Mrs. Wayne Morris and son Wayne, Jr., have returned from a visit with friends and relatives in Portales and Tulla, Texas.

County School Supt. Mrs. Ola Jones and brother, Robert Casey, made a business trip to Santa Fe on Monday of this week.

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Bell and children left the first of the week for Abilene, Texas, where their son Sterling will enroll for the second semester in McMurray College.

Misses Lola Apodaca and Tony Jauregui treated their friends with a big party at Baca's Hall last Sunday night. Dancing was the main diversion of the evening, and refreshments were served. Celly Sandoval and Marcella Herrera furnished music for the affair. Everybody had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Adams have returned from a pleasant vacation spent at Tulsa, Oklahoma and Bernie, Missouri, at which places they visited their respective mothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Brown, who have been at Oscura for the past two months, while Elbert has been employed by the S. P. in the water service, have returned to their home at Caballo, N. M., to which place they left notice to have their Outlook sent.

Mrs. Nellie Branum, daughter Mrs. Margie Clouse and Miss Lealya Cooper were hostesses at a Bunco Party Tuesday evening at the Branum home, for the benefit of the Woman's Club of Carrizozo. Mrs. F. E. Richard captured the prize for ladies and Wayne Richard the gentleman's prize. Refreshments were served after the games.

Out-of-the-Ordinary

STRANGER THAN FICTION

For using profane language in the presence of Judge J. H. Coulter of Muskogee, Okla., who fined fifty dollars and sentenced to serve one month in jail. After serving ten days he was released on account of his unimpressive eating. He would eat his portion and bring a big dollar, he would take food away from other inmates, eat everything in sight and still be hungry. Asked why he was released, the sheriff said: "We either had to release him or starve the other prisoners to death."

There is an old abandoned diamond mine in south Africa, where one can hear gruesome, ghostly sounds, which closely resemble human voices. The sounds are produced by different currents of air coming into the old mine from different directions. The natives regard the sounds as supernatural and it is impossible to induce them to go near the entrance. The strangeness arises from the fact that the weird groans, screeches and screams can be heard only at the midnight hour and will continue for about two hours. They will then fade away into ghostly silence.

Thirteen years ago, Arthur Franzen and Ellen Carlson left their homes in Red Oak, Iowa, and got married in Missouri. They returned to their homes, where they have since resided, keeping the marriage a secret even from their parents with whom they resided. One day last week, the secret leaked out. When friends came to offer congratulations, Arthur said: "I guess it is impossible to keep a secret, when there is a woman in the case."

W. M. Tabor of Park Rapids, Minnesota, has owned and driven cars for the past 26 years and every year, his license number has been 26. As a proof of that fact, he has each of the 26 plates nailed on the door of his garage and the last number 26 is on his car. In the same state, but in the town of Tracey, Wm. Anderson was arrested for parking in front of the fire station and violating the parking ordinance and fined. He protested, telling the Judge there were no signs at that place. Anderson made an extra survey and still seeing no evidence of the warning, he returned and demanded that the Judge show him the signs. The Judge ordered an investigation and found that the snow was so deep that it completely covered all parking signs and Anderson's money was promptly refunded.

At Elmira, N. Y., last week, C. C. Lord's Irish terrier, Jack, walked into the office of county auditor G. S. Kelsey and laid three one dollar bills in his hand to pay for his annual dog license. After he gave the auditor the money, he barked three times and went home with the receipt in his mouth.

Transatlantic Air Service Next Year

U. S. and England Agree on Two Routes.

Washington.—The State department announced an agreement between the United States and Great Britain which is expected to open the way for regular air transportation service across the Atlantic ocean by the summer of 1937.

The agreement was reached at the conferences between representatives of England, Irish Free State, Canada, and the United States here. Negotiations are under way for the northern route by way of Canada, Newfoundland, and Irish Free State to England and the southern route from Porto Rico and American ports to England.

The northern route is more practicable than the southern route because of the shorter distance, but is less practicable because flights would be undertaken under less favorable conditions in winter months. One obstacle stands in the way of best employment of the southern route. That is the failure of Portugal to grant permission to use the Azores for landings. The State department hopes to obtain such permission.

Based on Reciprocity. Transatlantic air service would have been inaugurated before the trans-Pacific service but for the fact that Great Britain and Portugal blocked proposed use of stations. Under the agreement experimental flights will begin next summer. When regular service is inaugurated, according to the agreement, four round trips will be made each week. The problem of air mails was postponed for future consideration.

"As a result of the conferences which have been in progress since December 5 between representatives of the United Kingdom, the Irish Free State, Canada and the United States, understandings have been reached which, it is confidently hoped, will bring about the early establishment of transatlantic air transport services connecting these several countries," R. Walton Moore, assistant secretary of state, said. "These understandings are based upon the principle of full reciprocity between the countries interested. They do not operate to exclude similar arrangements between the United States and other countries."

"The Department of Commerce has given its approval to the establishment of transatlantic airways by way of Canada, Newfoundland, and the Irish Free State to England, and from Bermuda to Porto Rico, the latter route to be extended by mutual consent.

Plan Entry Ports. "The Atlantic seaboard ports in contemplation as terminal are New York city; Baltimore, Md.; Cape Charles or Norfolk, Va., and Charleston, S. C., any one of which may be designated as ports of entry, but no final determination with reference to places has been made.

"It is recognized that the northern route is much shorter than the southern route and therefore will have the advantage of more economical operation, but this fact does not preclude the possibility of considerable use being made of the southern route. It is expected that experimental flights will be begun early in the summer of 1936, and it is hoped that scheduled services will begin by the summer of 1937. When the full regular service is inaugurated it is provided that there will be four round trips per week.

Peasants Employ Pigs to Root Out Truffles

Avignon, France.—Pigs may be pigs in other parts of the world, but they are kings in the province of Vaucluse. Intelligent ones are prized for their ability to find truffles, and in the late fall and winter every peasant takes his pig to the woodlands to hunt these subterranean fungi.

Whenever a pig roots out a truffle it demands a reward, such as a few acorns, a piece of cheese, or even a small truffle, and if none is forthcoming it loses interest in the game and refuses to dig.

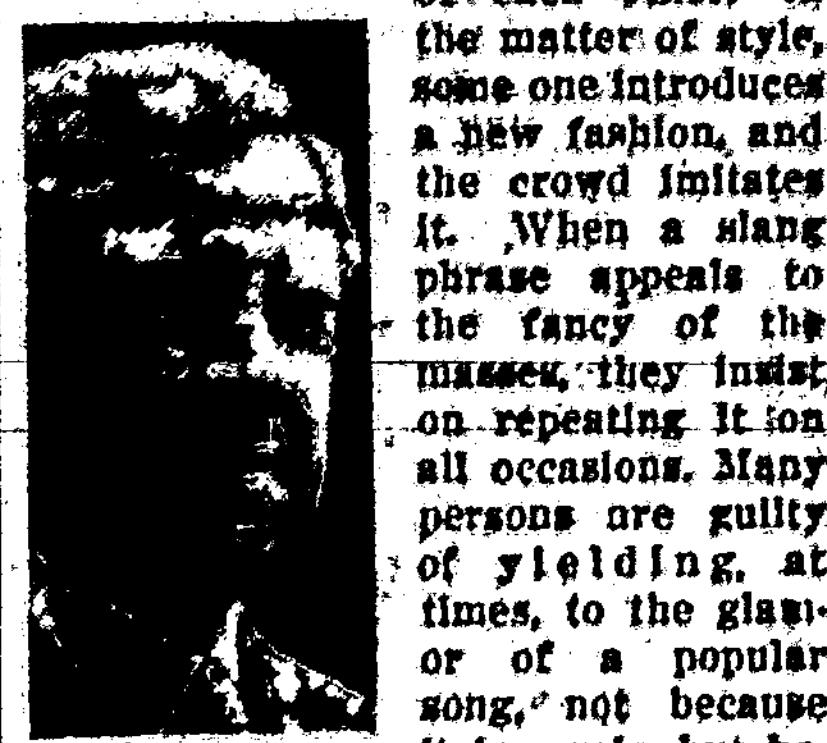

Hogs detect truffles through the sense of smell, then root them out with a metal tipped muzzle. The muzzle serves a double purpose: It is useful in the digging, for truffles often grow at the depth of a foot, and it prevents the pig's eating them the moment they are rooted out.

Varying in size from a walnut to an orange, truffles are used in pate de foie gras, sauces, garnishings, and turkey stuffing.

EPIDEMIC OPINIONS

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Comparatively few persons dare to be original. Most of us are imitators of each other. In the matter of style, some one introduces a new fashion, and the crowd imitates it. When a slang phrase appeals to the fancy of the masses, they insist on repeating it on all occasions. Many persons are guilty of yielding, at times, to the glassy "not because it is music, but because everyone is singing it. The psychology of suggestion is a very important element in our daily experience. It has a greater influence than we realize in molding character and changing environment.

A more serious aspect of the problem faces us when we permit our opinions to be formulated by the same process. A statement is made in glaring headlines with the determined purpose of molding our opinion, and "we fall for it." It is like a contagious disease. We "take" it, only to realize later that we have become the victims

33 MILES TO SCHOOL

Violet Johnson, who lives near Peach, Wash., evidently thinks an education is quite worth while, for she walks five miles every day through rough mountain country to catch a bus that takes her 23 more miles to and from school. Violet is now eight years old and has carried on this early morning ritual, zero weather or not, since she was six.

of distorted thinking. It is unfortunate that so many persons are satisfied not only to "catch" but to express enthusiastically an epidemic opinion. They "caught" their ideas from some source best known to themselves, or for a few pennies bought their ideas from news stands. Rather than think for themselves they let some one else do their thinking for them, and thus they become victims of the epidemic of popular opinion.

This is a free country and no centralized authority has a right to deprive one of his right of independent and original thinking. On the other hand, this high privilege of reason should not become strangled through lack of use.

The freedom of speech—the right to express our opinions, if we have any, is one of the distinguishing characteristics of our American liberty. Why surrender it? Why sacrifice it? Why substitute for it an acquiescence with popular opinion, unless we are too lazy to think the problem through for ourselves?

It is intensely interesting to study the psychology of a mob. It is easy for the blind to lead the blind. However, we need not be blind to the truth or error in any statement or position, if we have sufficient courage and strength to think for ourselves and dare to express our original opinions.

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

REMEMBER to dust the baseboards of rooms after sweeping whether this is done with a broom or with a vacuum cleaner. If with the former, dust is raised and this must be wiped off, or the room betrays lack of care. If the vacuum cleaner is used, very little dust is raised, but the need for dusting is not eliminated by any means. The mopping that flushes the top of the baseboard, or mop board as it is still sometimes called, has curves and tiny ledges usually, and these catch floating particles in the air at all times, but especially when dirt is stirred up, whether on carpets, rugs, or bare floors.

Other architectural parts of a room that are overlooked frequently when dusting rooms are doors. Panels of them have dust-catching moldings. Because the doors are upright, and hence are not positioned to catch dust, these little ornamental features on them suffer neglect. This same is true of French door frames set with window glass. The horizontal parts need wiping off frequently, as do those of windows. The sills are recognized as requiring dusting as much, or more, than other places, but this same care does not always extend to sashes.

It is disturbing, after a room is cleaned, to still find dust which has seeped through the crevice between sashes of windows. Molds have to be constantly reminded to dust this main sash, since the dust is seldom visible, being above the line of vision. The dust is revealed when windows are opened or closed because it clings to the hands, and this is mortifying to the careful homemaker.

Apart from the architectural units in a room that are so easily forgotten when dusting, there are stationary things, such as lighting fixtures, that do not always come under the dust cloth on cleaning days, as they should. There are also semi-stationary things, such as picture frames, that suffer a like fate. These are delicate in finish and have to be carefully treated. Dusters should be soft, perfectly dry and delicately handled.

There is a distinct trend toward soft floors. That is floors, which have, hitherto, been bare or which have been sparsely covered by rugs, are now being fully carpeted, covered by large rugs, or by more scatter rugs. This is true whether the floors are of hard or soft wood, or are covered with felt base coverings. When boards are unsightly they can be given an excellent top of the felt base floor covering, which comes in an unlimited assortment of patterns. When rugs are to be used, above it, choose hard wood floor patterns obtainable in plain board designs, parquet floor effects, or perhaps mosaic designs for halls. Or painted floor effects are attractive also, as found in flat gray, wood tones, and colors. Floors painted in these flat colors of subdued tints are recommended when boards are spotted or have knots in them, or are in any way not suited to remodeling as they are. The maximum of softness is attained when plain (never patterned) carpets have scatter rugs on them.

When floors are of hard or soft wood, whether remaining in present finishes or painted, there should be carpet lining under carpets or rug linings under rugs according to which coverings are used. Felt base coverings form, in themselves sufficient background linings.

Linings do the double-duty of prolonging the life of carpets and rugs, and providing that needed element of softness to the tread. When scatter rugs are on floors these require to be flat at corners and so secured that they will not slip. There are all sorts of gargets made to prevent rugs slipping, but of this I shall speak another time. Today the softness of floors is the matter of significance. It is sometimes in the way of a radically new vogue as the return of old-time customs—often are.

There is an element of luxury instilled into homes where the click of heels on floors is not heard, nor the tramp of foot on bare floors and on stairs, for these, too, are being covered, at least where the tread comes. The quietness of the home is promoted. In these days when there is such confusion of sounds that societies are formed for the prevention of unnecessary noise in cities, it is not surprising that the vogue for eliminating the sound of footsteps indoors is beginning to be featured. Footsteps are the traffic of dwellings. The noise of them can be quelled. One element of peace is promoted in a home when footfalls are like velvet treads, so soft and noiseless that they can scarcely be detected.

Aluminum Craft Is Being Tested

With the use of the aluminum craft upon it, this experimental aluminum "ship" was launched at Lakehurst. Two years may be necessary to test the theory that light metal alloy instead of wood, or heavier metal, is best for shipbuilding. The alloy is one-third the weight of steel but is said to be of equal strength.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the safest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

CONSTIPATED 30 YEARS

"For thirty years I had chronic constipation. Sometimes I did not go for four or five days. I also had awful gas bloating, headaches and pain in the back. Adierika helped right away. Now I eat sausage, bananas, peaches, anything I want and never feel better. I sleep soundly all night and enjoy life."—Mrs. Mabel Schott.

If you are suffering from constipation, sleeplessness, sour stomach, and gas bloating, there is quick relief for you in Adierika. Many report action in 30 minutes after taking just one dose. Adierika gives complete action, cleaning your bowel tract where ordinary laxatives do not even reach.

Dr. H. L. Shubb, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your stomach and bowels a real cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

Do you suffer burning, starchy or too frequent urination, backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, pain, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous, feel all unwell and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended by the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

THE WHISPERERS

By KARL GRAYSON

IN HOLLYWOOD, Calif., there are more than fifteen motion picture theaters which in quite a few weeks you stop to consider that Hollywood's population is approximately only 40,000. The reason for this large percentage of flicker establishments in ratio to the number of inhabitants is probably explained by the fact that, as everyone knows, Hollywood is the world's film capital, and Hollywoodians believe in patronizing home industry.

There is, however, another reason for this loyal patronage of the home town product. A great many, yes, a majority of the film capital's inhabitants are connected directly or indirectly with the production of the good old flickering thimble. And if you are inclined to be skeptical about this statement, consider with me the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Ekdahl of Hemet, Vt.

Barry Ekdahl was a farmer, and, oddly enough, as a farmer he had prospered. At fifty he had acquired a modest fortune; enough, in fact, so that he and his wife could spend the remainder of their days in peace and comfort. They decided to go to California. They had heard much of California's sunny skies and halmy year-round climate.

And so they sold the farm, packed their worldly belongings into the tonneau of a new car, and headed west. Neither had been farther than 50 miles from home during their lifetime, and each new mile of highway was to them a thrilling and exciting adventure. They reached California after 18 days of travel, and they liked it. They drove to Long Beach, then up to Los Angeles, then inland to Hollywood. They decided at length to settle in Hollywood, because the climate seemed more even and the hills were near and there were many shaded, quiet and pleasant streets.

Neither of the Barry Ekdahs, probably because of the remoteness of their Vermont farm, had been frequent moviegoers. But here, in the heart of the world's film capital, they discovered that the flickering fantasies offered a pleasant and altogether stimulating diversion from the monotony of adjusting themselves to doing nothing.

Their first experience offered a rather unexpected thrill. Hardly had they become settled in their seats before they became aware of whispered remarks being exchanged in the row behind them. The remarks were in substance something of this nature: "That's a nice shot." "Yeah, it was taken out at the old Romunda ranch." "Oh, there's Paul! He's doing pretty well in his picture." "Not bad. By the way, who turned the crank?" "Charlie Spellman, I think. Oo! Did you see that? Bob's getting away with murder!"

This went on intermittently throughout the entire show. Before lights came on, the Barry Ekdahs were greatly impressed. There was no doubt but what their neighbors were movie people. Perhaps celebrities. Unfortunately the "celebrities" had departed before the Ekdahs arrived, hence Mrs. Ekdahl was vastly disappointed at not having seen them. She was, however, greatly excited.

Two nights later, the Ekdahs attended another movie and listened to another conversation among three people who, if they had been in the production of the feature then being shown, they would have known the same thing happened. It happened three times in that same week. And after the third experience Mr. Ekdahl said to his wife: "Jane, them folks who do that whispering may be connected with the movies all right enough. Probably are. But the fact is, I'd jest as soon they'd shut up about it. Why, I ain't been able to enjoy a single solitary picture for listenin' to 'em brag."

"Nor I," said Jane. "You know, Barry, I was talking to one of our neighbors yesterday and she allowed that them folks that does the whispering probably don't know any more about the picture or the actors than you or I. Probably some one of 'em sells peanuts in the studio or something and they come to them movies and whisper jest to act important and give folks the idea they're familiar with the actors and all."

secure seats in front of a pair of unusually loud whisperers on the very next night. It happened, too, that the current picture was one starring Alex Jeffrey, an up-and-coming young star who had become a great favorite of the Ekdahs.

As soon as they were seated, the whisperers behind them got into action. It developed that one of them was pretending by poorly disguised suggestive remarks to be a close friend and adviser of the up-and-coming Alex Jeffrey. His whispers, too, were louder, and many of his remarks were of a condemning nature regarding Mr. Jeffrey's activities. They went on something like this:

"I told that director to cut out that scene." "If that fool cameraman had only done as I advised him..." "Imagine that! Taking a long shot when a close-up would have been a thousand times more effective..." "Lord! That gives me a pain. Now, if he'd only had the sense..."

And so it went. And the longer it went the more annoyed became the Ekdahs, especially Barry. Barry was becoming angry. Plans for revenge rose in his mind. He considered a number of possibilities. And at length he decided upon a definite course of action. "First, when the picture ended, he would turn around and tell this young no-account upstart a few things. Then he would write a personal letter to Alex Jeffrey, explaining how the actor's name had been taken in vain. Then he would complain to the manager of the theater. Then—"

At this point the picture ended, the lights came on, a man appeared on the stage. The man smiled and looked over the audience. He said: "Ladies and gentlemen, we have just discovered that Mr. Alex Jeffrey, whose newest picture you have just witnessed, is in the audience tonight. We are going to impose upon him by asking him to say a few words. Mr. Jeffrey—" The speaker's voice was lost in thunderous applause. The whispering young man behind the Ekdahs arose to his feet. There was a bored and important look on his face. He bowed, cleared his throat, opened his mouth to speak, and closed it again. From directly in front of him someone had said: "Nuts!" Mr. Jeffrey coughed, started to speak again and stopped. "No need to go all through that again. We've been listening to it for the past two hours."

Mr. Jeffrey flushed. Someone nearby muttered. Mr. Jeffrey opened his mouth. "Why not whisper it?" said the voice. "Folks hear you just as well." A burst of laughter greeted the remark. Mr. Jeffrey's face went white. He looked around. He seemed vastly annoyed. The laughter continued. Mr. Jeffrey swore, picked up his hat, gained the aisle and, amid shouts and laughter, rushed toward the rear door. Barry Ekdahl settled himself comfortably. There was a smile on his lips. "Two," he said, "can play at this whispering game as well as one. Now mebbe we can enjoy the show."

Bandit's Blood May Aid in Capture of Criminal
Identifying criminals by drops of blood, accidentally left behind during pursuit or at the scene of a crime, instead of by the finger prints which cautious crooks usually fail to leave, is suggested editorially by the official journal of the American Medical Association.

By subdivision of the four main blood types recognized several years ago in connection with tests of blood for transmission, it now is possible to distinguish at least 16 different kinds of blood.

Real Badge of Authority
The world's most potent badge of authority is the Silver Greyhound worn by the king's messengers, the men who carry important documents between England and her embassies and consulates. Not only does it permit them to enter any foreign country without a passport, says Collier's Weekly, but also to have a motorcar, airplane, special train or even a battleship immediately placed at their disposal in any country of the British empire.

Album Signatures Record
The signature of virtually every famous person in the world today has been recorded in at least one autograph album. A recently completed collection of signatures, acquired by its owner through 25 years of travel and at a cost of $30,000, contains every one of the 20,000 autographs that he wanted, including those of kings, presidents and dictators. — Collier's Weekly.

WASHINGTON DIGEST

National Topics Interpreted by WILLIAM BRUCKART

NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington—The dictionary says the word confusion means mixed indiscriminately; disordered; perplexed; bewildered, or disconcerted.

There probably is no better word to describe the situation in Washington over the past three weeks than the word confusion. If one keeps an eye half open, one cannot help seeing all of the things mentioned in the dictionary definition of the word. There might be an addition, if I were to expand the definition and make it just a little more applicable to the circumstances in the national capital, I would add "running around in circles."

The reconvening of congress always is a signal for commotion, and confusion and tant nerves. The opening sessions, nevertheless, usually have been mild for a few days. The climax was reached by a gradual building up of excitement to the moment of the annual message of the President on the state of the Union. This time, however, the climax came quickly and instead of a subsidence, as we usually have seen, the crest of the wave of excitement continued. It is a barometric prediction of what we may see in the forthcoming political campaign, there will be, indeed, a battle.

That the picture of Washington confusion may be pieced together, let us review in briefest form some of the things that happened.

Congress reconvenes at noon on a Friday—orders go from the White House to the Capitol that the President desire to deliver his annual speech on the state of the Union immediately—arrangements are made promptly for a night session (the second of his kind in history)—President Roosevelt delivers a masterful discourse on international affairs, victoriously naming names of autocratic rulers throughout the world and demanding that they cease arbitrary programs leading to war, and follows that with a plain political speech regarding domestic affairs, challenging New Deal opponents to undo what the New Deal administration had done—Republican National Chairman Fletcher blithely attacks the political phases of the Roosevelt speech on the state of the Union and demands that radio broadcasting companies give New Deal opponents the same time and the same stations for broadcasting a political answer—broadcasting company replies show a desire to be fair with radio time and toss back to Mr. Fletcher the difficult task of selecting individuals to answer Mr. Roosevelt.

The Supreme court in a momentous decision invalidates the Agricultural Adjustment act, key measure of New Deal reform.

Rail at Supreme Court
—Mr. Roosevelt declines comment on this decision but New Deal spokesmen otherwise settle down around the cars of the nine justices with vitriolic comment—New Deal critics of the court and the institution move swiftly to revise the Constitution to fit New Deal theories and to curb the power of the judiciary, preventing it from interfering in their determination to remake America—Agriculture Secretary Wallace and Agricultural Administrator Davis call farm leaders to consider ways and means for reviving or superseding the "gentle rain of checks" that was AAA—the annual budget of estimates for expenditures from July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1937, carrying $0,752,000,000, is sent to congress—relief appropriations are omitted; result, no one can tell yet how large the next year's expenditures will be—house and senate agriculture leaders scurry hither and yon, hold conferences, discuss political repercussions from the invalidation of AAA and get nowhere very rapidly.

Wheelhorses of the Democratic party rush through plans for and hold the annual Jackson day dinner on the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans.

At $50 Per Plate
Word leaks out that Postmaster General Farley, who is also chairman of the Democratic National committee and chairman of the New York State Democratic committee, has fixed a price of fifty dollars per plate to those joining in the No. 1 Jackson day dinner at which the President spoke—the American Liberty league charges Mr. Farley with violating the corrupt practices act which says in effect that no government official may solicit or cause to be solicited funds from government jobholders—the answer of the Democratic National committee is that Mr. Farley has no part in ticket sales—Liberty league officials cite the committee's own press statement, quoting Mr. Farley's conversation with 48 state presidents of Young Democrat clubs that they should charge enough per plate to help defray the deficit of the Democratic National committee besides the cost of their dinners in the various sections of the country—Democratic National committee means and selects Philadelphia as the site of the Democratic National convention, fixing June 26 as the date after Philadelphia, with a certified check of $300,000, outbids all others to be host—Republican

IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for January 26

JESUS DECLARES HIS PURPOSE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 4:16-18. GOLDEN TEXT—The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.—Luke 4:18, 19.

1. Jesus in the Synagogue (v. 16). On the Sabbath he went into the Synagogue according to his custom. He no doubt went that day with a new and definite purpose, but how refreshing to know that it was according to his habit. Many young people have been safeguarded from the pitfalls of the world because of the habit of reading the Bible, praying and going to church.

2. The passage read (Isa. 61:1-2). It is not entirely clear as to whether this was, providentially, the Scripture reading for the day, or whether it was specifically chosen by him for that occasion.

3. The content of the passage (vv. 18, 19). The mission of the Messiah (v. 18). (1) To preach the gospel to the poor. The good tidings which Jesus proclaimed are peculiarly welcome to the common people. By "poor" in this case is primarily meant those who were poor in spirit (Matt. 5:3).

(2) To heal the broken-hearted. The gospel of Christ meets the needs of those whose hearts are crushed by the weight of their own sins or by a burden of sorrow and disappointment.

(3) To preach deliverance to the captives. This meant deliverance from the bondage of the Devil (John 8:34).

(4) Recovering of sight to the blind. Christ did actually make those who were physically blind to see (John 9:6-7) and also opened the eyes of those who were spiritually blind (1 John 5:20).

(5) To set at liberty them that are bruised. The power of Christ can free the most utterly hopeless ones.

4. Jesus expounding the Scriptures (vv. 20, 21). He closed the book and sat down. It seems to have been the custom of the Jewish teachers to sit while teaching.

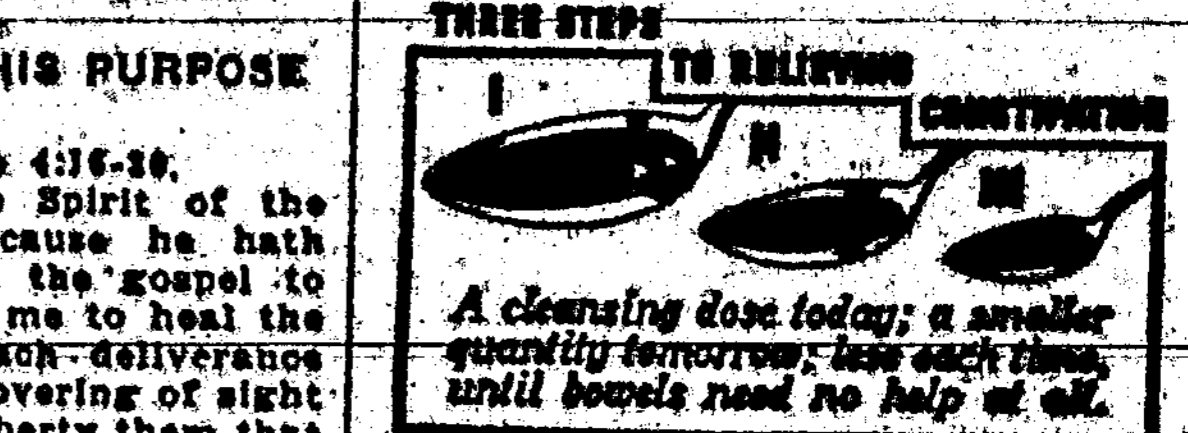

5. Ignorant prejudices (v. 22). They said, "Is not this Joseph's son?" as if to say, "This is our fellow townsman with whom we have been acquainted for years. Surely, he cannot be the Messiah."

6. Unbelief as to his supernatural power (v. 23). They challenged him to exhibit examples of divine power.

7. Personal jealousy (v. 24). Jealousy often prevents us from seeing the essential worth of men in our midst. Jesus adduced two outstanding examples of the willingness of foreigners to believe God.

DOCTORS KNOW Mothers read this

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch? The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use Liquid Laxatives. If you know what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation. Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Liquid Laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with CROCIUMOLIN. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than CROCIUMOLIN, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature in soothing and healing the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Even if other remedies have failed, do not be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to give you CROCIUMOLIN and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness" is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, add milk to coffee by adding such as Magnesia. Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers
These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts. Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them. Start using these delicious, effective anti-acid, gently laxative wafers today.

The King of Peace

We are not in the habit of issuing words of praise at the passing of Kings, but in the death of George V of England the case was entirely different, for his was the life of a Christian gentleman -- a charitable human being whose heart went out in sympathy to those in affliction or distress. He was a strong advocate of peace -- and an avowed enemy of war.

In the affairs of his country, he was not a ruler, as had been those of his predecessors, yet he exercised his power in the manner of suggestion from behind the throne.

In the recent outbreak between Italy and Ethiopia, he used wholesome advice for a peaceful settlement between the two nations, for which he was criticized, but in all, his efforts were made solely for the purpose of avoiding a repetition of the horrors of another war.

Among his last words were these: "How is the Empire?" Being assured that all was well with the Empire in general, including the colonies, Canada, India and dominion on the high seas, the noble hearted Monarch closed his eyes in peace. He was the only King who during the past 700 years extended the olive branch to Ireland.

The new King created a favorable impression on the civilized world when he made his goodwill tour. If he carries out that principle as King of England, he will prove to be a blessing to the world as was his father. The late King was a lover of the seas -- an Admiral of much notoriety, and as his bark put out of port, we may in our imagination, see a little white sail set out on an endless, peaceful sea.

"The King is Dead; Long Live the King!"

Rudyard Kipling

Another link in the chain of prominent men was severed last week by the passing of the noted author, poet and philosopher, Rudyard Kipling. He was never knighted by England, because of the fact that he once referred to Queen Elizabeth as the "Widow of Windsor." He wrote many poems on the customs and conditions of the far east, many of which were of a mystic nature; his "Phantom Rickshaw" being one of that class and had a wide international circulation. He wrote for the leading English papers and also for those of New Zealand and Australia. He was an untiring searcher for the curious things of the world. His greatest handicap was giving vent to things of which he did not approve, which sometimes brought him trouble. But he was honest in his convictions and no amount of scandal could change him. He passed himself right.

vs.

Ray Trammel, A. W. Von Struve and Mrs. A. W. Von Struve, wife of A. W. Von Struve, Defendants.

NOTICE OF SUIT

To Ray Trammel, Defendant, Impleaded with the following named defendant against whom substituted service is hereby sought to be obtained, to-wit: A. W. Von Struve.

You are hereby notified that a suit has been commenced in the above entitled cause and court wherein J. E. Hoagland is Plaintiff and Ray Trammel, A. W. Von Struve and Mrs. A. W. Von Struve, his wife, are Defendants, and that the object and general nature of said suit is to foreclose a material man's claim of lien, said material being used for the construction, alteration, repair and improvement upon certain real property owned by A. W. Von Struve and Mrs. A. W. Von Struve, and hereinafter particularly described, to-wit:

Lot No. 1 in Block L of the Town of Ruidoso Springs in Lincoln County, New Mexico, as shown on the official plat in the office of the County Clerk of the aforesaid County and State.

That the Defendant, Ray Trammel, who is named as the contractor in the said Complaint, and that the Defendants, A. W. Von Struve and Mrs. A. W. Von Struve, his wife, are the owners of the above described real property wherein said certain construction, alteration, repairs and improvements were made.

That the name and address of Plaintiff's attorneys is Watts and Hanny, at Carlsbad, New Mexico.

That unless you, the said defendants, Ray Trammel and A. W. Von Struve, enter your appearance in the above entitled cause and Court on or before the 27th day of February, 1936, the Plaintiff will request that a decree be entered against you by default.

Witness my hand and the seal of this Court this 2nd day of January, 1936.

247 Graduates Accepted Positions

At the beginning of 1935
Byrne College adopted the slogan
"A position for every 1935 graduate." On Dec. 20, 247 positions had been filled and our employment register showed only two girls and two boys to be placed during the remaining ten days of the year. These 4 graduates should be placed provided they do not take too much "time out" for Christmas; and we hope they won't for if they are placed it will perhaps be the first time in the history of commercial schools that its entire list of graduates received diplomas and complying with the employment regulations of the placement department have all been placed by the time the year closed. We doubt seriously if any other commercial college in the Southwest has devoted time and money to this important end of their business to have placed half this number of fine young men and women holding diplomas.

We are planning our 1936 employment work with a view of placing 400 graduates. We realize that 99% of the young men and women as well as those of middle age who attend Byrne College do so to increase their cash earnings and to do this they must have placement service. We also realize there is nothing that will do as much to increase our attendance and enable us to build a large and better College than to help our graduates secure good employment that they may make a success in life.

If you are ambitious and desire to be one of the 400 Byrne College graduates to be holding a good office position before the close of 1936, fill in and mail for particulars.

Why We Need
a National Umpire

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

As happened after the crash of the Blue Eagle, the recent decision invalidating A. A. A. has aroused various proposals for a change in our American form of government.

A typical suggestion is that we withdraw from the Supreme Court some or all of its authority to hold elected officials to the course mapped out for them in the Federal Constitution, and thereby extend to Congress the power to steer our ship of state among what ever shoals or channels may strike its fancy.

There is nothing either new or impossible about such proposals. They can be translated into reality by the mere adoption of any one of several amendments now pending in Washington. Let the American people agree to relinquish to Congress certain rights granted them by the Constitution and preserved by the Supreme Court—and the thing is accomplished.

That's what advocates of those amendments are asking us to do.
But, simple as this idea can be made to sound, it remains a serious and dangerous proposal. It strikes at the very root of accepted American principles in government. Before we consider any such course let's pause to reminisce ourselves of several facts of our past and current history. Let's recall, for example:

That alone, among the greater nations of earth, our country has retained its form of government unchanged during the past century.

That much of the permanence and success of its government has been attributed to the system of checks and balances between executive, judicial and legislative branches, and between the states and Washington. It is based on the principle that the right of the people and the states to govern themselves shall not be usurped by central authority.

That under our form of government America has enjoyed a larger share of happiness and prosperity than any other nation.

That none of the nations which in recent years have shifted to the newer forms now popular in Europe have achieved anything that can be envied
by the American people.

And finally:
That whatever passing benefits various odd experiments may offer a favored few, they do not hold the solution of our problems. Despite the alluring phrases of economic crooners, America still subscribes to the essential truth and wisdom expressed by George Washington when he said:
"Nothing but harmony, honesty, industry and frugality are necessary to make us a great and happy people."

WATCH THE CURVES

By RICHARD HOFFMANN

Hal turned toward Barry then and, hands deep in jacket pockets, watched her in gloomy detachment. It was as if his mind were possessed by a local anesthetic, numb and useless around the small clear conduit that led from his eyes to the springs of superficial action.

She and Crack married—bound, linked, moving together across the country, hiding their connection till Hal should make himself vulnerable as an abandoned puppy.

Hal took the telegram and read idly. Under his father's name and office address the message ran: "Young man between twenty-five and thirty six feet hundred sixty-five pounds gray eyes brown hair gray flannel suit made by Selkirk in Oxford name Henry Ireland nickname Hal traveling from New York to Los Angeles in share expense auto stop claims he is your son account trouble which will explain after you write Martin Crack at Grand Hotel on Santa Monica boulevard Hollywood California if he is your son very important please reply quick—Martin Crack."

Hal pushed out his underlip carelessly, looked up at Crack, and handed the form back. "Why not say what the trouble is? Save you another wire."

"Listen, Ireland," said Crack, his dry cheeks colored, his eyes shining and white all around the irises, "you're a good sorta guy. I'm only human."

"And this is all," he said in a slow, moderate voice. "Everything led here—to this."

Crack followed him out the door, was following him down the hall outside as Hal heard the key turn the lock behind him.

CHAPTER IX

Tuesday When daylight began to heat the sky outside, Hal still lay awake, and sweating on his bed, with only his coat off.

He couldn't think of Barry, except as he had last seen her—golden head a little bowed, staring over her satin knees into the corner.

Hal watched him consider an opening for what he had to say and carefully thought to head it off with: "Colonel, if you got the chance to round out your collection of experience, how would you do your man in? Kalia, I mean? Or Gus? What?"

sorted lunchroom open, so he barged oranges for Mrs. Palsalpher, leaving a quarter in the dish where they'd been.

"Don't look as if you'd slept well," he said, his voice dubious in disappointment.

Hal watched him, tasting—still through that internal numbness—his rich affection for the quick, kind eyes, the tough cheeks with their labyrinth of minute red veins, the straight lips with their implication of readiness and gusto.

Hal pushed out his underlip carelessly, looked up at Crack, and handed the form back. "Why not say what the trouble is? Save you another wire."

"Listen, Ireland," said Crack, his dry cheeks colored, his eyes shining and white all around the irises, "you're a good sorta guy. I'm only human."

"And this is all," he said in a slow, moderate voice. "Everything led here—to this."

Crack followed him out the door, was following him down the hall outside as Hal heard the key turn the lock behind him.

Hal watched him consider an opening for what he had to say and carefully thought to head it off with: "Colonel, if you got the chance to round out your collection of experience, how would you do your man in? Kalia, I mean? Or Gus? What?"

"Would depend," Kerrigan said crossly. "Why?"

Hal who had the secrets. He felt it secret to himself—his certainty that they would finally be alone; and it must stay secret, immune from a personal fury that could give Crack formless warning of danger.

They stopped at a lovely station to be sure of gas, oil, and water. Later, an unassuming fingerpost pointed the way to Death valley, off to the right.

California welcomed them officially at its agricultural quarantine station, where the luggage had to come down off the roof and be opened for an inspector.

A cool mist drifted up the Cajon Pass to meet them; and lower down the smooth concrete turnings they had a vista of the square-jawed streets of San Bernardino, the low California bungalows, and the ranks of feathery eucalyptus.

In the middle of Mrs. Palsalpher's statistics on the thyroid Hollywood ladies took to keep their figures, John broke into frustrated sounds. He snapped his fingers in a moment and said, "It-it-it-it said that way—that way. It-it-it."

Hal half turned toward John with a feeling near absolute tenderness for him and said: "These darn signs seem to point in any direction for Los Angeles. What place is this, d'you know?"

But it was nothing. Hal, on the roof, heard the good-bys said below him and saw Barry go a little apart with Sister Anastasia, write something on a slip of paper and give it to the nun before she kissed her.

The room was nondescript and comfortable and Kerrigan, in shirt-sleeves by the window, swept his paper down when Hal came in, smiled a faintly disturbed welcome, and said, "Well, here we are. When d'you shove off for Santa Barbara?"

Hal watched him consider an opening for what he had to say and carefully thought to head it off with: "Colonel, if you got the chance to round out your collection of experience, how would you do your man in? Kalia, I mean? Or Gus? What?"

saw him find it and stand for an indecisive moment before starting toward it. Hal drank orange juice and wolfed a bowl of cereal at the counter; it was natural enough he should pay his bill and saunter out to the street when Crack returned.

In the telephone booth next door, he called the telegraph office, and putting a shade of flat slowness in his voice, he had the girl accept him promptly as the person who'd just handed in a telegram for Frederick Ireland, in New York. Hal said, "I'd like to make it clearer in that part where it says he claims he is your son; account trouble which will explain after you wire . . . I want to say, 'Claims he is your son because asks credit for five hundred dollars to cover expenses including transportation to San Francisco stop.' After that it goes on the same: 'Write Martin Crack, Grand Hotel' and what you've got there."

Hal went back with a certain small grim elation to look at Ruspattin's office. Poor old Pop; free, honest singer for a little while wouldn't hurt him much, wouldn't be new to him; and his prompt denial of parenthood would give Hal more time in Los Angeles.

Crack's silent presence behind did not oppress him; premonition was gone, gathered into the compactness of an item of memory. Now it was Crack who could be uneasy; it was

Formals of Choicest Silk Taffeta

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FOR the very elegant formal gown silk taffeta of most exquisite quality registers as first choice among women of patrician taste.

This fair for white taffeta is confirmed at every high-society formal gathering, so far this winter. The vogue includes versatile types, silver striped or dotted white taffeta being among the favorites.

Plain white taffeta started with rhinestones is also a fabric highlight. Designers are playing up quantities of fancy stitching not only in immediate fashions but indications are that spring styles will make stitching an outstanding trimming feature.

The illustration pictures a debutante who attends the opera in a white evening dress of super-lovely silver favonne taffeta.

The all-black evening gown is given new prestige when it is fashioned of pure silk taffeta of highest quality as dramatically as is the model pictured. It is the very personification of elegance.

Note the bracelets worn over the long black gloves.

For the evening gown of exclusive mien, brocades in white with either metal or color or both for the most gorgeous types, are much sought after by those who love the loveliest. Silvered white moire also is a great favorite in the realm of handsome evening silks.

Leading designers are also turning the spotlight on very exclusive looking silk prints, making them up in jacket ensembles of utmost formality in many instances. The gown is fashioned with extreme décolletage, the skirt touching the floor, or the new street length which is fashion's latest whim for the dinner gown.

In clinging best-loved silks for the formal gown, sleek, suave flatterer satin must be mentioned. White satin is outstanding and pink comes next. For the most part these regal satins are made up with a sophisticated simplicity that is very striking.

When there are the lovely white silk crepes and chiffons. Their high standing in the array of lovely materials for dresses to wear to formal functions is unquestioned. Some white crepes are starred with rhinestones. Others stand for beauty unadorned. Sans trimming of any sort they depend on a sparkling Juliet cap and a glittering evening bag or a jeweled belt plus elaborate sandals for effect.

FASCINATING TALES OF LOST MINES

By Editha L. Watson

THE CRAZY WOMAN

IT WAS in the early days of the West. A large tent formed the chief place of business of Unionville, near Helena, Mont.—just such a tent, as we read about in stories of other new camps.

One autumn, a strange-looking outfit stopped before the big tent, and the assembly went out to look it over. It was a cart drawn by two oxen and guarded by a yellow dog. It was driven by a woman—and what a woman!

Descending from the cart, she stalked into the tent, and offered an overture of friendship by ordering drinks all around. This broke the ice, and the men began to ask questions, but she proved to be extremely taciturn.

It was unnecessary to say more; she was one of them, and the first woman to come to Unionville, besides. When she drove down to the creek to make camp, the men got together and decided that they would build her a cabin.

The camp saw little of the newcomer. Early every morning she padlocked her door and set off, followed by the dog. She returned after dark. Men sometimes saw her on the trail at nightfall, with a heavy load of something, but she refused all offers of help, and when she was asked what the pack contained, said only "That's my business."

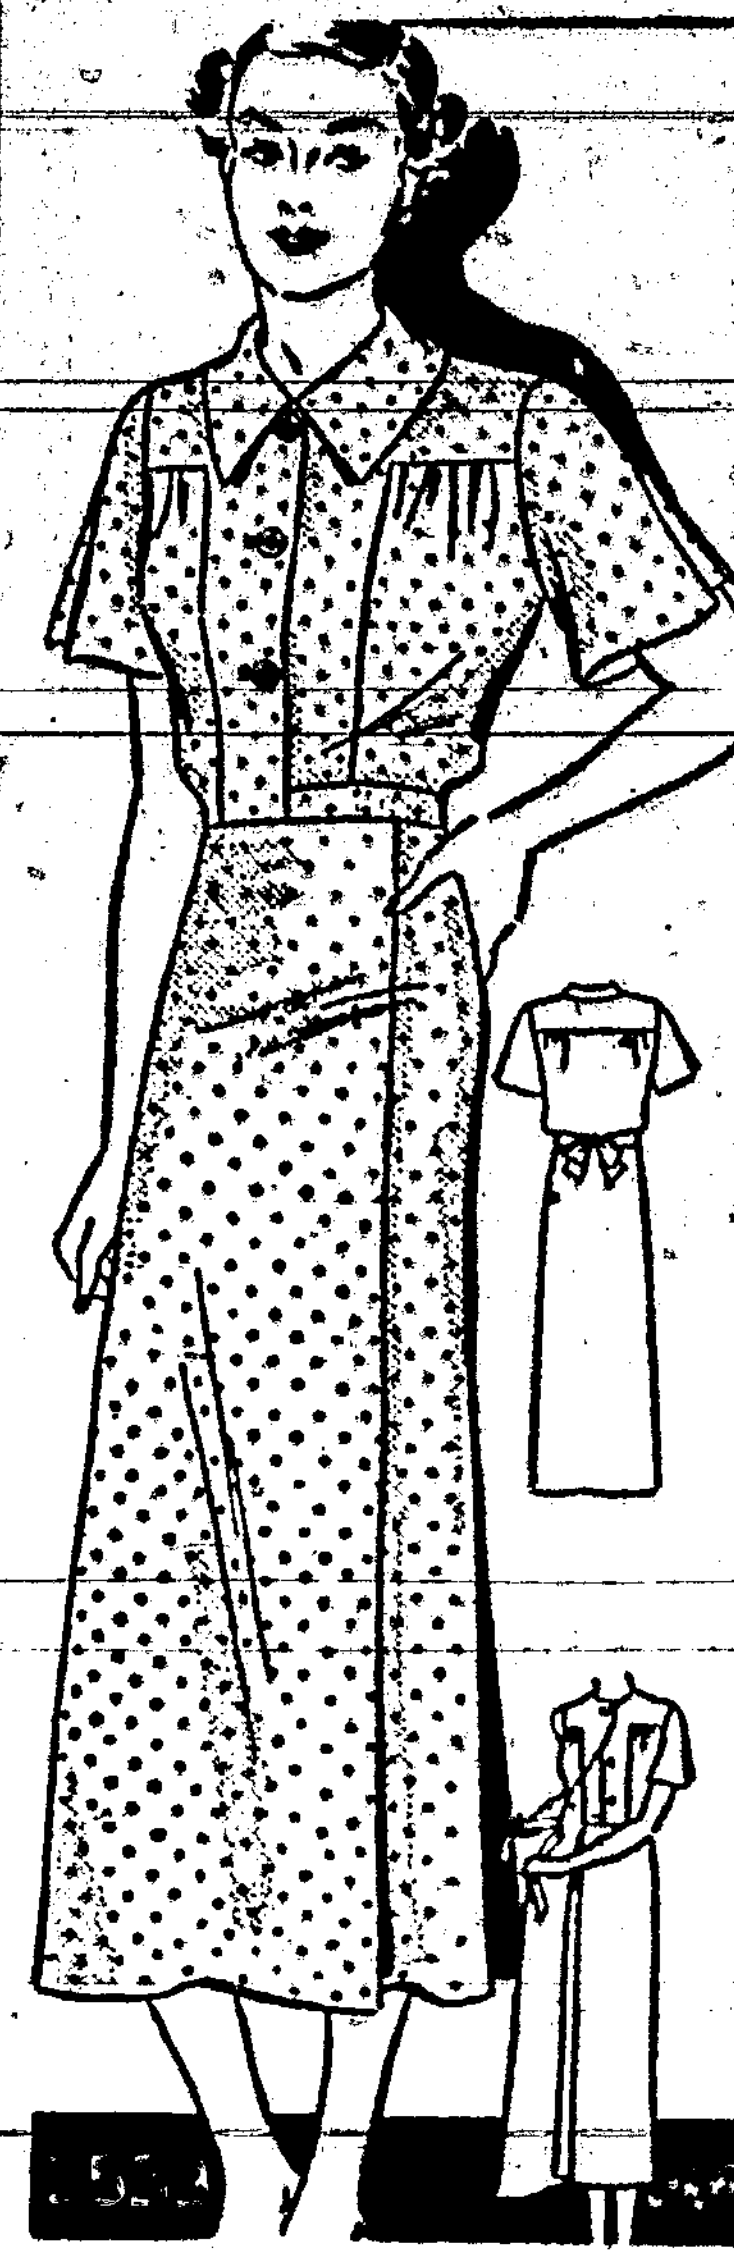

It was evident that she expected to stay through the winter, for she sold her oxen to the butcher. The only sign of life around her cabin was the double row of footprints in the snow, where she and the faithful dog, which was as unsocial as its mistress, came and went.

We may wonder why the miners had not investigated before, but people were different in those days, and it was only after a couple more weeks had passed that they broke into the cabin. No one was there, neither were there any letters or notes that could give them any information.

They hunted, when spring came, for the "crazy woman" and her mine. But they found neither.

Now that the vogue for elaborate hairdresses is meeting with widespread approval for formal occasions, the use of ornaments, feathers, and especially the little Juliet caps which are so flattering, is established.

Style Trends Tailored evening dresses are becoming more popular every minute and the young lady's wardrobe is incomplete without at least one!

COLORED HOSIERY TREND CONTINUES

The colored hosiery trend continues. You may not care for wine, green and navy stockings and you may cling stubbornly to your good old beige tones, but there's no denying that color has crept into the stocking box, in spite of us.

A recent hosiery fashion show accentuated stockings to match the color of your costume, for both day-time and evening.

The hosiery in the usual sheer chiffons went in strong for wine and dark green tones, to match the favorite red-rose colors of the season.

Dark red and jug brown were other daytime colors sponsored. For evening wear, delicate pastels were featured, in colors to match the gown.

Petal pink, Alice blue and ice green were among the new colors shown. The colored day-time stockings had black heels and toes, to accentuate the sheer appearance of the hosiery.

Tailored Blouse Is Done in Wide Variety of Moods

The tailored blouse for sports-wear or with a tailored suit is done in varied moods. There are youthful blouses of soft silk crepes in pastel colors, with simple club collars and perky bows for trimming, grand for wear with plaid woolen skirts or with tweed suits.

Isinglass for Visors Isinglass visors are a new trick in spangled for Palm Beach wear. They are attached to caps and are tinted soft blue, rose or yellow to match some detail of a white beach costume.

CAVE IN GUADALUPES

LEGEND says that the richest mine in the world is the Lost Sublette, which lies hidden among the Guadalupe mountains in Texas and New Mexico.

Ben Sublette rode into town one day with a buckskin bag full of nuggets and the boast that he had wealth enough to buy the state of Texas. Contrary to the usual manner of miners, he spent his money wisely, building a fine home for his family, and when the gold ran out he managed to slip away and get more, taking only a small wagon-load on each trip.

For many years he refused to tell the source of his wealth. Finally, feeling that some one else should know he secret, he took his son Ross and a friend, Mike Wilson.

Ross was just a youngster. He was impressed, naturally, by the secret trip, but the golden phantom is not taken seriously by children, and in after years all Ross could recall was that the mine was in a cave near a spring, in the Russell hills. With such meager memories he tried to retrace the journey, but it was not possible.

Mike Wilson, who was older, was said to have gone back after Sublette died, and he brought home a sack full of the rich ore. He went on a rather marvelous spree that lasted as long as the gold held out, and then tried to go back for more. But this time he lost his bearings, and for some reason never could get straight again.

Later, two Mexicans found the place and took some of the ore. They were trailed by Lucius Arthur, who came in with all he could carry and he, at last, was loquacious about the mine. His gold, he said, was broken from a ledge near the brink of an 80-foot wide chasm, and there was a cave below that must hold unmeasurable wealth.

If there really is gold in that cave, no eyes have seen it since. If it is ever found, there will probably be a story to tell regarding a guardian skeleton—for Lucius Arthur has never come back.

Good afternoon, all of you. It is Friday and we have our usual amount of sunshine. Ever notice how brilliant and invigorating these winter mornings are? With turquoise sky—the day comes upon us with clarified atmosphere, such as only a resident of the Carrizozo vicinity can describe.

Postmaster General Jim Farley cries in words to the effect—Keep the Gangsters out.—Note: Does he refer to the Business Men, Republicans, the late NRA (No Recovery Allowed) or the recently-demised A A A?

While Big Jim has in mind to be quoted as saying "Keep the Gangsters Out"—remember this, Amigo Farley, that we recall hearing an old saying "Let he that is without sin among you cast the first stone." Postmaster General Jim's record isn't above criticism, if you ask us.

"When they're under six they write letters to Santa Claus," quoting a Subscriber. "When they're over sixty, they sign Townsend petitions, always hopeful."

The J. F. Petty family made a trip to the Cravens' Bat Cave, across the Malpais or ancient lava flow Sunday. They only went to the Big Room in the Cavern. Too bad you couldn't explore it more deeply and see wonderful sights that our party witnessed while exploring this spectacle quite some time ago. Note—The next time you attempt this trip, be sure to take your flashlights and a roll of strong cord or twine to avoid getting lost as many people have.—The 'booger man' is pretty wild 'n' wooly to be lost in the depths of the inky blackness of this Cavern. Our crowd burnt the various names of the group far down in the cave, presumably for time eternal.

Sentence sermon for this week—Some birds seem to earn their reputation for 'piety' simply by wearing a pair of squeaky shoes to church.

Like most printers, I'm a poor hand to give advice on the Delty, for I can't remember when I last went to Church.

'Red' Hodgson formerly of Galesburg, Ill.—Your close application to the Mellophone which it is stated you played in a band at Galesburg four years ago resulted in the song hit "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round." It rather makes me feel good to have my old home town so prominently mentioned by the Associated Press in the issue of Jan. 14.—The writer was Trombonist with Arthur Miller's Auditorium Theatre Orchestra, Hunt's, Cedarholm's, Cheeman's, Gaylord's and numerous other orchestras. Besides this, the writer did general playing on trombone throughout central Illinois. That was back in 1900—1913.

"Well, the Gangsters (Big Business Men) remain to take care of our unemployed," ventures a Subscriber.

Amigo Merriam, one of the editors of the Santa Rosa News, was invited to a dinner party presumably to give it a write up. The next edition came out—without any mention of the affair whatever. Editor Merriam comes out and humbly begs the pardon of all concerned—he had forgotten it. Which goes to show you the 'fun' it is to be a country editor.

GOP Denied Use by National and Columbia Radio Broadcasting Chains.—And yet we hear we're living in the land of free speech and 'Applesauce.'

Adios, from the Land of Pernal Sunshine, Turquoise Sky and Bluegrass.
