BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB

Carrizozo, N. M.
March 11, 1936.
To The Outlook:

Knowing that "A Journey of a Thousand Miles Begins with one Step" and realizing that to accomplish great things there must be some beginning, the Business Men's Club took the first step a few months ago towards making a City Park out of a piece of ground which had heretofore been a catch-all for loose papers, weeds and tin cans.

Funds to cover the expense of quieting the title and recording the deed were subscribed by the civic-minded townspeople; the site was deeded to the Village of Carrizozo for park purposes. Since that time, the Business Men's Club pledged $250.00 of its funds to sponsor F. E. R. A. work to improve the grounds by grading, constructing walks, purchasing and erecting windmill, laying pipes, and building a tank tower. The F. E. R. A. expended over $2,500.00 as their portion of the cost of improvements.

The Club has just purchased 25 additional trees to replace those dead or damaged and to further beautify the grounds.

Now that R. A. Walker has received the appointment of City Park Commissioner and Special Deputy Marshal, the park property will be properly policed and maintained so as to give the trees and shrubs the necessary attention and protection.

Carrizozo has had a reputation in the past of being possessed of considerable civic pride, and we ask its citizens to further display this trait by giving the Park Commissioner their hearty co-operation in his efforts to make the Park a show-place of our town.

Through the co-operation of the local C. C. C. officials, we expect to have the park grounds entirely sodded, and with other added improvements we hope in time to have a park of which Carrizozo may well be proud.

Fred L. Boughner, Secretary.

Miss Gayle Sharp and Ansel Swearingen were married Mar. 7, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sharp, at Dexter. Snapdragons, carnations, ferns and palms formed an altar for the impressive ring ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Butler of the Methodist Church. Immediately preceding the ceremony the bride's sister, Mrs. Woodrow Clements, sang the old favorite, "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by Warner Wilkes of Dexter, who also played the wedding march. Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Clements were the only attendants of the bride and groom to the altar. The groom's mother, Mrs. Mary Swearingen and Mrs. J. M. Snyder of Carrizozo were present at the ceremony.

School Notes

Ola C. Jones, Co. Supt.

The past three weeks teacher visiting days have been held at Lincoln, Feb. 21; Huidoso, 27th; Fort Stanton, 29th; San Patricio and Stetson, March 6. The regular school program has been followed in every instance and actual classroom technique has been observed with the hope of improving the learning situation of every pupil attending school.

Many of the patrons, P. T. A.'s and club members have co-operated with the teachers in the respective districts and served most excellent luncheons. The County Superintendent takes this opportunity to thank each person for his or her share in bringing about such a splendid feeling and a spirit of cooperation between homes and schools.

Several of the schools are planning special Arbor Day programs. Trees, shrubs and flowers will be planted in the school yards which have been previously fenced. Stetson has started a nice rock garden. Most civic improvement is being stressed Monday night the P. T. A. of Jicarilla had its regular meeting. Mesdames Jones, Watson, Miss Ryden and Mr. McQuillen were present. Mrs. Jones gave a most interesting talk on the proposed new building for Jicarilla; Miss Ryden discussed and answered questions concerning health problems. Mr. McQuillen and Mrs. Watson concluded the program by showing 7 film strips from the Pictorial machine. Nice refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The Lincoln County Junior Athletic League Basketball Tournament will be held this year at Capitan on March 28.

Mrs. Grace Corrigan made an opportune visit into our county Friday. She met with the teachers at San Patricio and addressed them on matters of vital interest.

NOTICE, BALL FANS

There will be a baseball meeting Sunday morning at Rolland's Drug Store. 12 o'clock is the time. All interested in having a winning team for the coming summer, are urged to attend.

Milton E. Bernet, Vice President of the Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph Co., was in town yesterday and accompanied by the local manager G. T. McQuillen, made a tour of the business district, including this office. We are always glad to see you, Mr. Bernet; thanks for your call.

To Frank Manning of Seattle, Wash. — Many thanks for your letter. All are well and trust it is the same with you.

Manager McQuillen is gradually getting his new system into operation and many new phones have been installed since the beginning. Wednesday evening, the Outlook phone was changed and we can now get Central simply by lifting the receiver. But it is hard to break us of the old habit of turning the crank, so occasionally we reach for the windlass and find it missing, which reminds us that we simply have to lift the receiver. Thanks, Chief, we'll soon get used to it.

An old shed belonging to the Lucky Dairy was burned Wednesday night. The loss was trivial.

Out-of-the-Ordinary

STRANGER
FICTION

At Hibbing, Minnesota, the parents all wondered why the children, the boys more especially, really wanted to go to school and this was the reason. Hibbing has a glass school house.

There are other schoolhouses in town, but this being the only one made of glass, kids in the other schools are jealous of the 120 pupils in the new one. It is called "the school of tomorrow." People are fascinated with the new structure which is the only one of its class in existence. It is made completely of vacuum glass walls, modernistic furniture and the interior is beautifully tinted. Desks for the upper grades are movable and in the kindergarten room, the walls are painted in all colors of the rainbow. It is equipped with what is called, an electric eye, which turns on automatically when dark, cloudy days come on.

Saverino Moura Fonsaka of Joao Pessoa, capital of the Brazilian state of Parahyba, wanted to become famous by riding on horseback from that place to New York, so he started to gain fame and fortune. But he traveled south, instead of north and after riding 1200 miles he reached Rio de Janeiro, only to find that he had traveled in the wrong direction. He should have a medal for being a 100% bone-head.

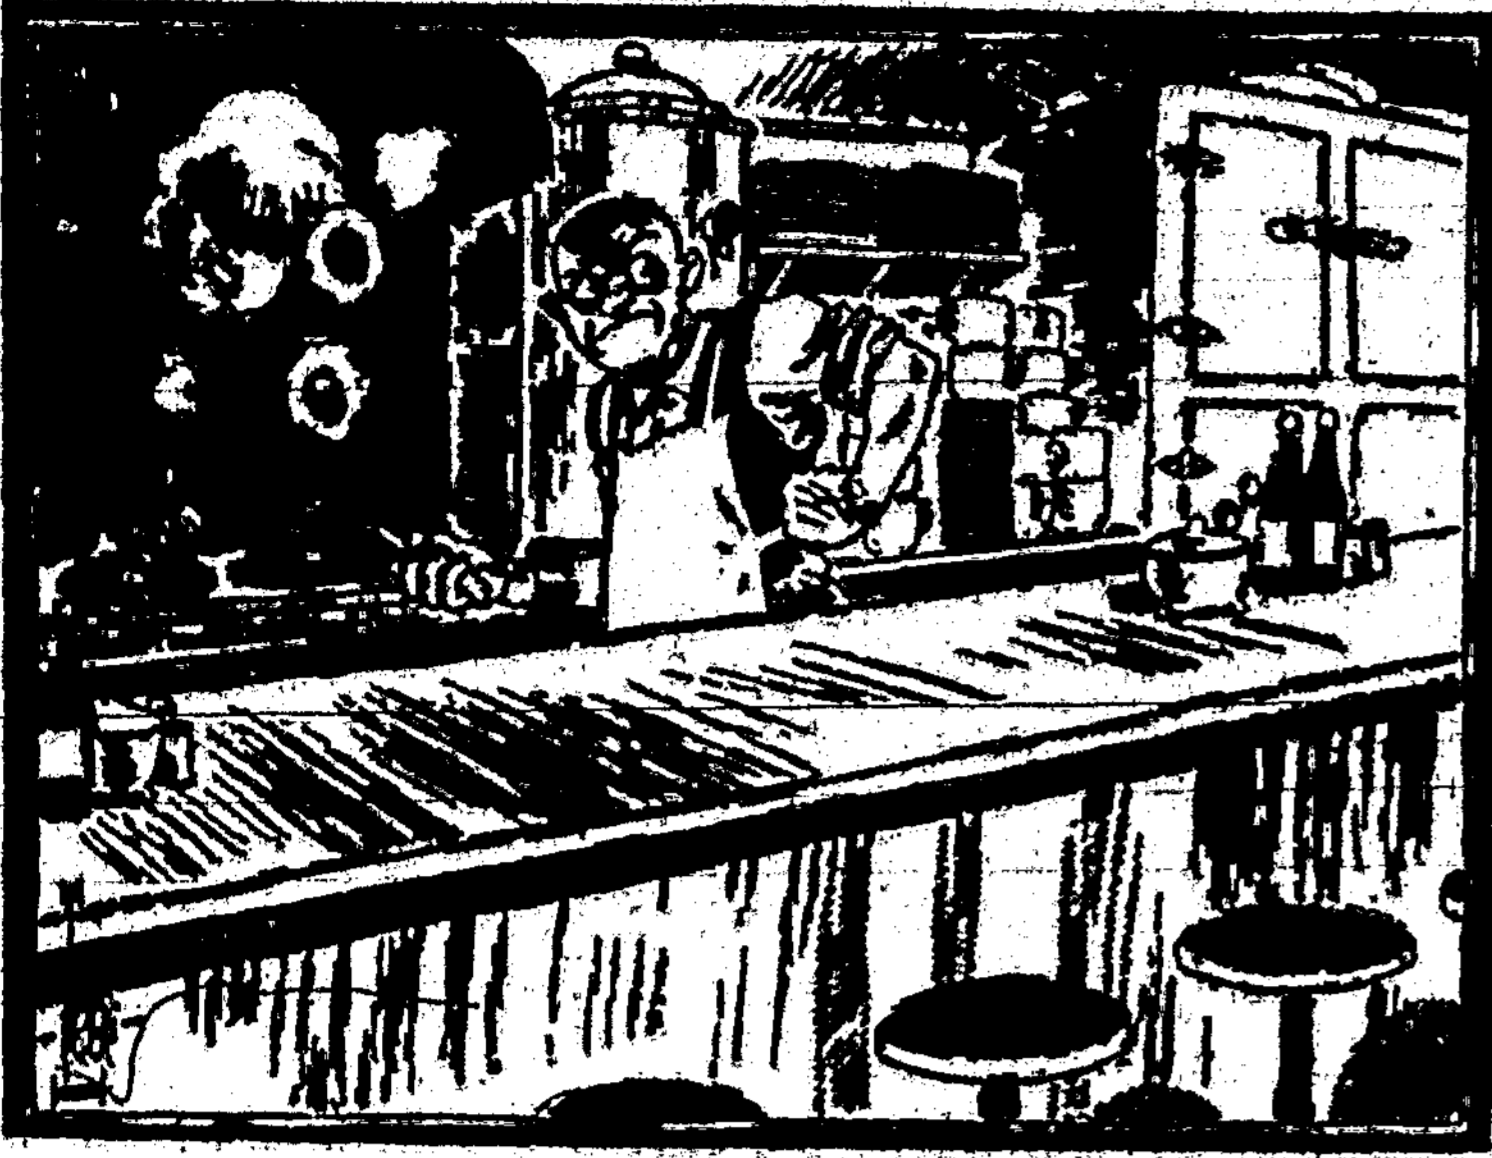

In the little town of Winchcombe, near Cheltenham, England, Miss Frances Norris, 100 years old, walked 25 miles through a blizzard to be the bridesmaid of her niece, Frances Annie French, 74. At the wedding breakfast, she started off with a double whiskey, after which she did a skirt dance for the amusement of the party and made a speech of congratulations to the new bride. The groom is 82.

John Andresson was elected fire chief of Anchorage, Alaska; and that night, a fire broke out which destroyed an entire block, but it failed to awaken John. The fire whistle aroused the entire populace except John. Early in the evening after being elected, he gave his boosters a big party and in a speech to his firemen he told them that in all fires he would not ask a man to go in to any danger where he would not go himself, but said: "I'll take the lead, boys and the above story is how he did it."

It was in the northern wilderness, where Dan Crowley and Ted Vahon were trappers they took turns in running the trap lines. While out in a severe blizzard, Dan's feet were badly frozen. He crawled to the cabin and Ted went 50 miles for help. During that time gangrene set in. To save his life, Dan sharpened his pocket knife and cut off all infected parts, including six toes and both heels.

The Republican Convention

The Republican convention held at Albuquerque Monday, did everything up good and brown. It endorsed Governor Landon of Kansas as a candidate for the Presidency; chose Cyrus McCormick for national committeeman; elected six good delegates and six alternates to the national convention to be held at Cleveland, Ohio; condemned the present Democratic national administration as wasteful, extravagant and headed by a dictator.

The keynoter and all who followed him, agreed in no uncertain words that the present system must go, and presented a united front in the opposition. Therefore, there is absolutely no Old Guard, Progressive, Middle-of-the-Roader, or otherwise, but a united Republican front, organized and ready to give battle.

Speaking from the same platform and in strong republican language, were Judge Holloman, Holm O. Bureau, Maurice Miera, Ed Safford, Carl Dunlon and others, all with one accord and the one paramount idea in mind—the success of the Republican state and national ticket next November. Let's go!

The State Pays the Freight

The Governor of the great state of New Mexico has traveled more miles from Santa Fe to Washington, D. C., and accomplished less than all the governors combined since statehood.

No matter what turns up or who should be sent to Washington, he horns in, takes the matter in his own hands, makes the trip—and the state pays the freight.

The gov. has made more trips to Washington than there have been revolutions in Old Mexico. And like most of them, has accomplished nothing.

The only doubt as to the appropriateness of the selection results that Jackson, during his administration, paid off the entire national debt.

"Painless" Taxes Really Hurt

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

During recent months America has heard a growing volume of protest against the so-called "painless taxes."

That is the term used by politicians to describe those taxes which are not levied directly, but are hidden, instead, in the cost of food, shelter and other necessities. The theory is that what the average citizen doesn't know about the costs of government won't hurt him—and that it won't hurt the officials who fix those costs, either.

But unfortunately for the theory, such taxes are beginning to attain a high degree of visibility. For a while they were discernible only in the rising cost of living. Now they have come more clearly into the light. A recently published analysis of Federal income sources tells the story much as follows:

In 1932, direct taxes (on income, corporations, etc.) produced 58 1/2 per cent of our Federal revenue, while indirect taxes (baked into your bread and woven into your clothes) produced 41 1/2 per cent—approximately $782,500,000.

In 1933, direct taxes produced only 42 per cent of our revenue, while indirect taxes climbed to 58 per cent—approximately $1,001,000,000.

In 1934, direct taxes produced 34 per cent of our Federal income, while indirect taxes soared to 66 per cent—approximately $1,974,100,000.

In 1935, the proportion of hidden taxes dropped a bit. Direct taxes produced 38 1/2 per cent, while indirect taxes accounted for 61 1/2 per cent. But the total of invisible taxes continued to soar. It rose to approximately $2,234,000,000.

Who paid those taxes hidden in the cost of living? The rich? To a minor degree. But the overwhelming share was paid by that huge majority of average citizens who labor to buy food and clothes and shelter for themselves and their families. And the larger the family, the higher the bill.

To whom, then, are hidden taxes "painless"? To no one. It would seem. And certainly not to the great body of American workers and earners who continue to pay them in the form of rising prices for almost everything they buy.

Supreme Court Campaign Issue

Tribunal's Peril Is Seen as Danger to People's Liberties.

Despite the continued reluctance of President Roosevelt to frankly and clearly state his views on proposals to destroy the constitutional power of the Supreme Court, Washington officialdom seems convinced that this question is destined to become a major issue in the approaching presidential campaign.

Since his outbreak against the high court after the NRA decision, the President has kept a polite silence on "horse and buggy" questions. But advisors and officials close to the administration have continued to cast slurs upon the Supreme Court and to throw out hints, none too subtle, that some sort of action will be taken to strip the court of its right to pass upon the constitutionality of congressional acts.

In this connection, political observers recall the President's letter to the chairman of a House sub-committee during the last session of Congress in which he asked favorable action on a bill despite doubts as to its constitutionality, "however reasonable." This statement by the Chief Executive, coupled with his violent scolding of the Supreme Court after the NRA decision, is generally interpreted as representing an attitude in White House circles which will cause a definite attack upon the Court as a bulwark of American liberties.

A typical expression of this current feeling was the recent speech of Senator Norris of Nebraska, warm friend and supporter of the President, who, discussing the new farm bill in the Senate, called on Congress "if it has the courage," to enact legislation requiring a unanimous court opinion on constitutional questions.

Greater Power for President. The threat of such action, which would have the practical effect of adding new and greater powers to those already voted the President by a supine Congress, has alarmed many leading Democrats who see in it a very real danger to vital American institutions.

It is pointed out that if administration leaders carry out their threat to destroy the authority of the Supreme Court, it would give a virtual blank check to President Roosevelt. This is true because Congress during the past three years has abjectly surrendered its powers of legislation to the President. The only practical balance of power left is that of judicial review by the Supreme Court. If this were to be destroyed, the nation would take the last step toward operation under a series of decrees of the European variety. Legislation would be written in the White House; rubber stamped by a Congress controlled by the Executive; and then would become law without further recourse. No one would have the right to go into a court and protest, even though the legislation might violate flagrantly the rights of citizens. The President, under these circumstances, would be an absolute dictator and the American system of government would be destroyed.

Democrats Oppose New Deal. Typical of prominent Democrats who are opposing New Deal bureaucracy and dangerous brain-trust experimentation are former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, and John W. Davis, both former standard bearers of the Democratic Party in presidential elections.

Davis, in a recent speech before the New York State Bar Association, warned his listeners that "when things go wrong, don't go with them." In the same speech, discussing the issue of preserving the Constitution in its present form, Davis added:

"I know it has been said that the hungry cannot eat the Constitution and that it is useless to speak of liberty to those who are starving, but, if liberty cannot be eaten, without it all bread is bitter. Ask any Jew in Germany, any Kulk in Russia, any liberal in Italy, if he holds a different view."

Smith, a day later, addressing the dinner of the American Liberty League, said concerning the position of Democrats still loyal to the doctrines of Jefferson:

"There is only one of two things we can do. We can either take on the mantle of hypocrisy, or we can take a walk, and we will probably do the latter."

These two statements, coming so close together and from two of the most influential leaders of the non-Roosevelt wing of the Democratic Party, have caused great concern to administration officials, who fear that if Smith and Davis "take a walk" they will take several million Democratic votes with them.

JUST A REFUGEE

Borden Burr of Birmingham, Alabama, a prominent Democrat who has split with the New Deal because of its desertion of Democratic principles, tells a good yarn to explain his position. He denies he is a deserter and recalls the trial of a Southern dandy who was accused of deserting his wife. "Judge," said the defendant, "I ain't no deserter; I'm a refugee."

R. C. CAMPAIGNS TO PREVENT ACCIDENT

Program Inaugurated in Local Chapters to Cut Down Farm and Home Accidents

The American Red Cross has launched a nation-wide campaign to eliminate hazards in the home and on the farm that now take an annual toll of near 35,000 lives, according to a recent statement by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"Every Red Cross chapter is being asked to play a part in this campaign," Mr. Fieser said. "Hazards in the various communities will be pointed out. The children in our schools throughout the country will be given a list of the home hazards and asked to enroll parents or relatives in the fight against them."

Nearly five million men, women, and children were temporarily disabled in the homes of America last year by accidents, officials of the National Safety Council have revealed. Most of the accidents in which persons were killed and injured could have been prevented, according to this safety agency, this fact alone largely motivating the Red Cross drive for accident elimination.

Active cooperation of social, civic, educational, veterans', and other groups has been secured. Red Cross inspection forms or home check lists will be distributed to homes where there are children with the help of these organizations.

Due to inaccessibility and lack of compensation coverage, little or no pioneering has been done in the field of farm safety, the Red Cross states. However, more people were accidentally killed in agricultural pursuits last year than in any other occupation, making the need for safety education and farm home inspection apparent.

Other agencies now active in the accident-prevention field point to the fact that, because of its nearly 13,000 chapters and branches, the Red Cross has a unique opportunity to successfully promote a project of this nature.

Home accidents injure many more than do automobile accidents; they kill nearly as many, claiming an average of about 80 lives daily. In terms of dollars and cents, for the practical minded, home accidents cost more than $1,000 per minute.

Accidents of all types are Public Enemy No. 4. Only three diseases cause as many deaths each year, heart disease, cancer, and cerebral hemorrhage.

"The home is not the place of safety it is commonly supposed to be," said Mr. Fieser in commenting on the new Red Cross service to the community. "The Red Cross, as a part of its chartered obligation to prevent death and alleviate suffering, is conducting this humanitarian program to cut down the mounting toll of avoidable personal injury and death in the homes of the country."

The annual Red Cross roll call, running from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, is one of the means of backing such a campaign. All citizens of the United States are offered the opportunity to join and assist in the work of the organization.

Red Cross Has Busy Year; Statistics Impressive; Services Varied

Figures gathered at random from the year's report of the American Red Cross reveal the magnitude of the work being carried on by that organization.

Red Cross workers assisted 54,305 veterans; 587 Red Cross Public Health nurses paid 921,455 visits to 189,326 patients; 98,441 first aid certificates were issued while 46,893 persons were trained in life saving. Volunteer workers produced 3,107, 843 surgical dressings, with 80,901 volunteers being on active duty throughout the year.

Comments
By Lewis A. Burke

Is everybody happy? If so, what're you gonna do about it? Burke is the name; Lewis A. Now that we've been formally introduced, let's get busy on our journalistic propensities and proclivities—whatever that is.

A Subscriber came into the office the other day and complained about his typewriter, saying that the darn thing wouldn't spell correctly. A little secret: The writer doesn't use a typewriter in preparing material for this column, but it is composed at the Type-Case, firing away at random. We imagine we hear a long chorus of "Who Cares?"

During the amateur hour of Major Bowes Sunday night, a man from the state of Maine sang a bass solo, "Davey Jones' Locker" in which, after trying for the second time, he hit the lowest note we've ever heard yet, must have been low "z," the last letter of the musical alphabet.

The highly-advertised dispute or shall we say controversy about throwing a silver dollar across the Rappahannock river as did George Washington, was settled for all time to come. Pitcher Walter Johnson threw a silver dollar (valued at 59c) across the stream, a distance of 422 feet. Note—We remember both Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander when they were hurling for Galesburg, Ill., in the Central Association. They were very ordinary pitchers at that time.

We note that the Townsend Party threatens to form a third ticket, showing their defiance to the present order of things. Tis a free country in which we're living, as is taught to us in grade school, but you can't believe a thing you hear.

Does any disgruntled member of either of the two major parties wish to start a third ticket for the Presidential race? Don't all speak at once, please. A number of uninformed people, not knowing that Theodore Roosevelt had long since passed on, were attracted by the name "Roosevelt" that appeared at the head of the Democratic ticket, blazed away, and thought they were voting for Teddy.

Attention is called to the new sign in front of the Lyric Theatre. It flashes on and off; it is made of crimson red with lettering in white, containing the word "Lyric."

Carrizo and White Mountain, likewise Nogal Peak are all covered with the beautiful at the time this is composed. We are situated in a high valley at an elevation of 5438 feet—come to think of it Denver isn't the only city that can boast of being a mile high. This climate is unbeatable, with its invigorating mornings, turquoise sky and cool nights even in the summer-time.

At an old fashioned 'Nickelodion' in the east many years ago, the following transpired. Two young men went to the show, the picture being somewhat dull, one of the men thought he'd try to liven things up. So he ducked down in his seat and shouted, with a whiny tone, "Howdy, Si; when did 'ja get in town?" Then he leaned over and spoke in an audible tone to his chum "You musn't talk so loud; it isn't polite." The manager of the theatre ejected him—by force.

The Republican Convention met at Capitan Thursday and nominated delegates to the state convention. The meeting was a harmonious one; indeed.
