Roy Reddy Loses Arm

The many friends of Roy Reddy will be grieved to know that he was so badly injured in a fall at Artesia a few days ago that it was found necessary to amputate one of his arms at the hospital at Carlsbad. At the time of his injury, Roy was acting foreman for a WPA job. He fell from a stipladder while on a job in the school gymnasium in Artesia and the arm was so badly broken that it had to be removed at once. Roy was once well known in White Oaks, Carrizozo and on the Bonito. He is a brother of Herbert Reddy and a brother-in-law of D. J. Clowe, who was once bookkeeper at the old Carrizozo Trading Company and recently mayor of Artesia.

Veteran Passes Away

Last Saturday afternoon, at his home on the east side, Manuel Sals, a Veteran of the World War, succumbed to pneumonia after being ill only four days. Manuel Sals was born and reared in San Patricio and came here about 20 years ago and made a good, honest and respectable citizen of our town.

Funeral services were held at the Santa Rith Church Wednesday afternoon, with Father Salvatore conducting the same. The remains were interred in the local cemetery, many friends accompanying same to their last resting place.

The local Resettlement Office in the Lutz Building reports 42 loans have already been issued amounting to $12,000. There are yet about 35 to 50 loans to be approved amounting in dollars to a life figure. These loans are made to purchase seed, feed, tools and livestock to enable farmers to become reestablished. Applications for loans are still being taken, but will be discontinued after Wednesday, April 15. Loans take time in being approved and after April 15, it will be too late in getting loans approved in time for crop planting. All interested who may have delayed making their application better apply within the next few days. Planned farming is worked up in the loan agreements and essential before any loans are approved.

Just as the editor of this paper was in the act of removing a batch of whiskers from his face, the same being a surplus growth caused by neglect during the recent election, we received a glad surprise by a visit from our old friend, Engineer Bert Holland. We gave Bert an extra shovel, and after he assisted us in getting rid of the patch of cinders, we enjoyed a good chat with him. The more often you come and the longer you stay, the more welcome you will become, old scout.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Marquez of Alamogordo visited the St. John and Andy Padilla families this week.

Out-of-the-Ordinary

STRANGER

It was "In a Little Spanish Town" somewhere in Southwest New Mexico that Lonnie Tuator, printer, sat in his dingy little office, sick and discouraged. A bill for supplies was due to be paid on March 1, 1915, and his pocketbook was empty. The sum was only $10.00, but that was a big amount for the man who had nothing with which to pay the debt. One of the worst sand storms of the year was sweeping over the desert. While he sat at his desk with his head in his hands, the door suddenly flew open admitting a gust of wind, and Lon felt something fly against his right leg. Bending down to pick it up, he saw that it was a $10.00 bill. He rushed to the door to return it to some one who had lost it in passing by; he found the street deserted—there was no one in sight. Lon used the bill to pay his debt. Was it an accident, or did Providence place that money in his hands? You have a guess coming.

It happened near the town of Platte City, Mo., that Tommy Twentymen, in buying a piece of farm land, found in the deed lost him a valuable strip and all legal proceedings failed to settle the matter. In a few years, Tom died with each side claiming the right to the strip. After Tom's death, his faithful dog which had always carefully guarded the home each night, grew sullen and impatient after his master's death. The strip of land in question was directly in line with an old oak tree, which withered and died after Tom passed away. Every night at the stroke of twelve, the dog would start from the house and run as though he was chasing a demon, never relaxing until he reached the tree, when he would jump as high as he could, tearing off the dry bark until his mouth would bleed. That queer action of the dog was repeated until one morning, his lifeless body was found at the foot of the old oak. If you are superstitious, you might have more than ordinary interest in the above story.

If you are inclined to regard things along superstitious lines or even if you have a fancy for things out-of-the-ordinary, here is something that may interest you. Three convicted men in the Trenton, N. J., prison and awaiting the electric chair, occupied cells adjoining each other. One of the condemned men was Bruno Richard Hauptmann. "On the morning of March 25, just as the sun came peeping up, a robin red breast appeared on the ledge of Bruno's cell window and sang for fully five minutes. He then flew to the second and then to the third ledge, remaining on each ledge for the same length of time and singing his same sweet song—Was it a prelude to Remember, that he visited no other cell windows but those of the condemned men.

Phils Look Better Than Figures Show 'Cause They Hustle

APPEARANCES—ever gay declivers—are at it again. Right now they are making mugs out of the records and laws of probability by indicating that the Philles are one of the classiest clubs performing in these parts.

It is upon the playing field, rather than upon paper, that appearances do their best for Jimmy Wilson's young men, too. Judged solely off their Grapefruit league box scores they are not impressive.

These present Philles hustle. In marked contrast to their Shibe park rivals, they seem always striving to do the most with their opportunities. Such spirit in itself often enables them to come up with plays that might otherwise seem impossible and, given reasonable opportunity for expression, might well win many hard-fought games next summer.

Yet—since Baker bowl has so frequently had a wearing effect upon other bristly-moving springtime favorites—baseball men here hold out little save sixth place hopes for the present team. Even though the pitching must surely be improved over 1935, the Phils lack a punch of the Babe Ruth, Chuck Klein, Jimmy Fox variety.

There are eight infielders on the roster. Only one of them—Gene Corbett, who did it for Winnipeg and so has little chance of winning a regular job anyhow—hit better than .300 last year. Leo Norris, the shortstop who served such a long term with Minneapolis, has power. Dolph Camilli, the first baseman, slaps a long ball.

The others simply are not good hitters. The sparkling little Jose Gomez, who fields in a manner reminiscent of Hughey Critz (and who makes double plays far better), lacks the muscle. The gold-toothed coal miner, Mike Haslin, is one of the league's best fighters, and there are Phils who swear that he might even keyo Joe Louis with one blow. But, even though he has the muscle and probably times a change of pace as well as any man, his punch is sadly lacking at the plate.

Need Superior Pitching When Lacking Sluggers Since no one of the catchers, Wilson, Bob Grace or Bill Atwood, the rookie, are notable sluggers, the Phils, thus, would seem to need superior pitching and airtight defense if they are to climb out of their accustomed depths.

Undoubtedly they will field better than most Baker bowl representatives have fielded in the past. Undoubtedly also one or two veteran pitchers are improved, while there are recruits whose forthcoming efforts can be noted with prayerful admiration.

Bucky Walter's fast ball makes the reformed infielder a subject of praise whenever other players discuss the team. Joe Bowman now knows how to slow up on the batter and can handle other trick stuff better than when he was a Giant. The big Indian, Euel Moore, is improving physically over last season and declares that his arm is as good as in his rookie year.

Among the youngsters there's Passo Passau, reluctantly given up by the Pirates in the Todd deal. He is one of the most eminent of strike-out artists, having fanned 239 batters in 244 innings while hurling for Charleston in 1934. When the usually self-contained Wilson talks about him, the air is filled with adjectives concerning one of the best fast balls in the business.

IF BREVITY ever gives up racing he should have a great future as a movie star or congressman. The bay three-year-old, who still would be the best-looking thing on the turf if he could not breeze Derby distances in record time, can act. Furthermore, he has that sort of appeal which puts the crowd on his side from the moment when he is first led into public view.

Most of the truly successful thoroughbreds of other years have had these qualities, which are far more enduring than the records when indicating real class.

Exterminator was so far from being a handsome horse that he was called "Old Bones." But the words always were uttered with affectionate admiration. Billy Kelly, Commander Ross's little sprinter who was so well loved by the crowds of 18 years or so ago, had a similar way of communing with his audience. Billy, who, like Brevity, had a great fondness for lumps of sugar, used to thrust his muzzle over the rail in search of stray offerings of sweetmeats.

Man O' War Had "It"; Was Champ of Champs

Man o' War, who knew his true worth and never let anybody forget it even though success never went to his head, was another personality horse. Being a champion of champions and the Joe Louis of his day and business, he must occasionally have been bored by the feeble competition provided for him. But he never let on about this.

I mention such items of the past and present without any desire to compete with writers of the Black Beauty fables. There are people who regard horses as the dumbest of all animals (not excepting the $2 bettors who occupy their days in being touted onto hopeless long shots). Then there are jockeys such as Wayne Wright, who has ridden winners in the three richest stakes of the current national campaign.

A reddish-haired youngster, rather taller than the average jockey, Wright is not given much to communing with his fellows. A quiet, thoughtful lad, who is more in the manner of the tough and ready Don Meade or the playful Silvie Coucel, he has confided to friends that Brevity can understand, react and communicate much like a human. Having observed that perfect communion between horse and rider when they were winning the $20,000 feature here, I do not doubt it.

Wright, who rode Top Row in the Santa Anita, also says that Brevity is the best horse of the year. Probably, at the moment, he is correct in that, too. Yet for the benefit of newspaper brethren who, short weeks ago, were beating the drums for Discovery and the N. Y. U. basketball team one or two things might be hinted at before the Kentucky classic is permitted to go by default.

Prize fighters who are seeking their fortunes down in Florida are getting little save sunburn this season. I saw two fast light-heavyweights perform the other night before a crowd of 900. There were four knockdowns before the final convincer was put on in the fifth. The winner's end was $9, the loser's $7.

Miami would like to persuade one of the New York teams to train there next year but citizens still are putting the rap on Bill Terry. Their year-old complaint concerns the admission fees charged by the Giants. . . . Phil Weintraub, the hard-hitting outfielder peddled by the Giants, also no longer loves his former boss. . . . Young Eddie Thomas, who got them off so neatly at Santa Anita, is the best starter since the celebrated and departed Dade, according to horsemen who have arrived here from California. He will work at Detroit this summer and they are hoping that the New York state racing commissioner will scout him.

Suggested sign for Shibe park, home of the ailing A's—"Abandon hope all ye who enter here." . . . Although some umpires are nubbed a dozen times a season, Bill Klein has never been hit by a batted ball during his 35 years of being the best of them all. . . . Duffy, the Boston college end who hopes to pitch for the Dodgers this year, looks like Rudy Vallee and knows it. . . . Jai Lal stars look enviously even at rookie ball players. Their sport requires rare skill and possibly is the world's fastest, yet $45 a week (with occasional $3 bonuses for winning games) is tops for them.

Bill Dwyer, the hockey, night club and racing magnate who was so badly bent only a few months ago, is getting back into the "bet-a-million" class. . . . Rumor mongers have it that Mike Jacobs' contract for promoting Joe Louis' fight contains a loop-hole by which the Brown Bomber can forsake the Hearst A. C. when the time comes to battle for the heavyweight title. . . . Whispers persist that the Cubs are covering up concerning the true state of affairs in Lou Warneke's arm. They (the rumor makers) say that the ailing wing never will return to 1935 form.

While training in Puerto Rico the Reds played against several teams well loaded with performers from the American negro leagues. They say that one hurler could make Lefty Grove look like a slow-ball pitcher—and that at least five other dusky lads would be $20,000 a year stars in the big time.

Keeping Up With Science By Science Service

Childbirth's Pains Safely Banned by Savants' Discovery

New Chemical Formula Puts Mother to Sleep

WASHINGTON.—A safe way of taking the suffering out of childbirth has long been a goal of medical scientists as well as the prayer of countless mothers the world over. One by one, various anesthetics and pain-killing agents have been tried—chloroform, ether, nitrous oxide or "laughing gas," twilight sleep, to name a few familiar ones.

Some have been rejected because of danger to mother and child. Others were of limited use because complicated apparatus and skilled anesthetists were needed to give them. Others have brought only partial relief of suffering, or have relieved the pain in some cases and not in others.

The long quest seems now to have been ended by a discovery of two Washington, D. C., physicians, Dr. Howard F. Kane and George B. Roth of George Washington University Medical School. After years of careful research they have hit on what may prove to be the ideal childbirth anesthetic.

The agent they use is a mixture of paraldehyde and benzyl alcohol. The mixture is injected when the first labor pains are reported and the patient falls asleep within half an hour or an hour. She sleeps soundly and awakens actually refreshed some six or eight hours after delivery.

The chief advantage of the new method, Doctor Kane said, is that there is no danger to either mother or child. Another advantage is the fact that the anesthetic can be easily given and requires no complicated apparatus. It has been tried in several hundred cases during the last three and a half years at the George Washington University hospital, and no ill effects have been noticed in either mother or child.

Gold Output Value Exceeds Billion for First Time

NEW YORK.—Gold mining, among the oldest industries of many, entered the billion dollar business stage for the first time in 1935, the meeting here of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers learned.

"Preliminary estimates for 1935," declared John J. Croston, Boston mining engineer, "indicate that more than 30,000,000 ounces of gold were produced, 10 per cent more than the 1934 record.

"Ranking in order as gold producers were the Union of South Africa, Russia, the United States and Canada, with Russia showing the greatest percentage of increase. In view of the large number of new mines being prepared for production in Canada, Australia, the Gold Coast and the United States, further increases in production are expected in 1936 and 1937."

Depression Boomed Mines. The start of the depression in 1929, Mr. Croston pointed out, marked the turning point for gold mining from a declining to an increased industry. Up till 1929 there was a gradual depletion of known gold deposits and the operating costs increased while the price of gold was pegged—as it had been since 1917—at $20.67 an ounce.

Punch and Judy Shows Solve Kids' Behavior Problems

"Problem Child" Analyzed by Puppet Dramas

CLEVELAND.—Punch and Judy and other puppet show characters beloved of children are helping psychiatrists untangle serious behavior difficulties and ward off mental and personality disorders. Details of this new use for puppet shows were given by Dr. Lauretta Bender and Adolph Wolmann of Bellevue hospital, New York City, at a meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association.

The method has met with striking success, the New York psychiatrists said. It was developed in the children's observation ward of the hospital where hundreds of children suffering from all kinds of behavior problems are sent in each year from children's courts, mental hygiene clinics, schools and other institutions.

The greatest need among this group of children is, first, an adequate understanding of their emotional problems and, second, a form of treatment that will deal with the emotional problems involved. Because of the small staff, it is impossible to give individual attention to each group of children. The puppet shows, however, can be used to detect the difficulties of the children in a group and also to help the children work out the solution of their problems.

Electric "Prospector" Finds Coal Veins in Pennsylvania

NEW YORK.—The same technique of using electrical prospecting methods—often likened to electrical diving rods—which has worked so successfully in discovering oil, gold and other minerals, is now being used to find deposits of coal in Pennsylvania.

Scientists told the meeting of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers here that the new electrical methods, based on how well a seam of coal conducts electricity, were successful in the Mahanoy coal fields which already have been worked for 70 years.

Locating Anthracite Pits. Most of the coal seams, Dr. Maurice Ewing, A. P. Cray, J. W. Peoples and J. A. Peoples, Jr., describe in their report, were worked near the surface in the past but since the workings were never completely or accurately mapped complete extraction of the coal from older pits was not obtained. In consequence, they point out, virgin bodies of coal, not heretofore known, are yet to be found.

The electrical prospecting consists of passing a known electric current between metal stakes driven into the ground at considerable distance apart. How much current will flow between the stakes depends on how well the underlying minerals conduct the current.

Now It's All Right to Mow Your Dandelions

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—Dandelions have almost ceased from troubling lawn-anxious householders; but Prof. Carl D. LaRue of the University of Michigan is offering, for future reference, the results of his study of seed behavior in the heads of dandelions mowed before the seeds were ripe.

He undertook his investigation because he had received many inquiries whether dandelion heads cut down by the lawnmower would go on and ripen seeds that would sprout later. He cut off a large number of the heads at various stages of development and let them lie on moist moss until they had fully dried. Then he examined and placed the seeds under conditions for germination.

Cleveland Swapped Fancy Dinner for Corned Beef

During his bachelor days at the White House, President Cleveland once sat down to an elaborate dinner served by the faithful William Shlaclair—when a familiar odor came in through the window. "William, what is that smell?" asked Cleveland. "I am very sorry, sir, but that is the smell of the servants' dinner," replied William. "What is it—corned beef and cabbage?" William confirmed the suspicion and the President said: "Well, William, take this dinner down to the servants and bring their dinner to me."

EDITORIAL COLUMN

For the past two weeks New Deal leaders have claimed that the Administration is gaining in strength again after having slumped decidedly following the congressional election. One Republican student of political affairs, admits that this may be true, told the writer the other day that he was not, in any event, seriously concerned over it. Public opinion is now in a state of decided uncertainty, he said, and there are apt to be surges and relapses in the political strength of the Administration during the next few months. In his opinion, the impression of a turn in the tide of Mr. Roosevelt's fortunes at this time has been due to the fact that opposition within the Democratic ranks to the Administration has not turned out to be as formidable to date as was anticipated in some quarters.

This, nevertheless, he added, was to be expected. The real test in November will be one of candidates and principles. If the Republicans get out their vote, after having chosen a powerful candidate, that will be a far more important development than the amount of opposition which arises in the Philadelphia convention. After all, the Republicans are in the majority in this country. When they stay together and vote their sentiments, they win; when they don't do this, they lose."

The "Personal Touch" In Taxes

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Newspaper-reading Americans are learning the names of a lot of once-unfamiliar taxes these days. Capital-stock Tax, Undistributed Corporation Reserve Tax, Tonnage Tax, Manufacturers' Excise Tax, Communications Tax, Insurance Tax—these are just a few of the titles with which a tax-conscious Congress is crowding the headlines.

What do they all mean? Let the experts explain. The important fact is that whatever their titles, whenever they are supposed to hit—we, the people, pay the final bill.

Not directly, of course—but in the natural course of events. As economists explain: the industries and other producers at whom such levies ostensibly are aimed must raise the tax money somehow. How? The obvious method is to add it to the price of their products—of the things which the average worker and his wife and children need and must buy.

That's why we are told there's a hidden tax in every railroad fare we pay, in every market basket we carry, in every seat bill we meet, in every suit we wear, in every phone call we make, in every mile we drive.

That's why heavy taxes, wherever aimed, boost the cost of living for every worker and consumer—for the overwhelming majority of American families. That's why, regardless of titles, such taxes retain what writers call the "personal touch."

Trick names for taxes can obscure these facts but they cannot lower the U. S. G. That must be achieved by reducing taxes in government—which makes heavy taxes necessary.

SYNOPSIS

As Alan Garth, prospector, is preparing to leave for his mining claim in the Far North, a plane lands at the airways emergency station...

even a cigarette! Yet you have the face to gibe me about it! At that, he could not resist giving her the old quip: 'Cheer up; the worst is yet to come.'

"Quite all right," Garth replied, "Good thing they're gorged. I might have had to waste cartridges to get rid of them. What I'd like to know is why they chose this solid meat, instead of the oil!"

He asked only that the pan be refilled to dissolve more of the muffle. The three were accustomed to the free drinking of their kind...

Though Garth had no pad, he stood up with the moose quarter on his back and lifted his end of the pole to his shoulder. But he was accustomed to packing...

When they reached the camp Miss Ramill and her father were out gathering wood. At one end of the fire, thick smoke was rising from green sticks and leaves...

"Shut up," Garth ordered him. "That roar is only a warning. She'll not charge if we mind our own affairs."

"That Roar is Only a Warning."

turned to help him. As they started off, Garth took the other unmangled leg on his shoulder and sauntered after them.

Far up the tundra slope, above the trough of his platinum placer, Garth found a dry moss-bedded nook...

Thunder Over Relief

Washington.—The President's latest message to congress, asking more than a billion and a half in new money to spend on relief...

And Asks New Taxes

I referred to the Presidential message asking an additional billion and a half for relief. This would not have created quite so much of a storm had it not followed closely on the heels of the White House request for new taxes.

Charge Waste

Since we are heading into a campaign in which Mr. Roosevelt is seeking re-election, his opposition is making much of two phases of the spending and relief situations.

More Politics

There are 3,071 counties in the United States. In nearly every one of them, there are a Republican and a Democratic county chairman.

Split on Tax Plan

Much is being made of the President's proposal to tax the surpluses of corporations. I have hitherto reported to you something of the nature of the tax proposals but there have been developments that bring the subject again to the fore.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for April 5 JESUS INVITES ALL PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 14:15-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Come for all things are now ready.—Luke 14:17.

In this chapter Luke pictures Jesus freely mingling with his fellowmen in worship and social intercourse.

I. The Great Supper (v. 15). This great supper represents God's gracious provision of salvation through the vicarious atonement of Jesus Christ.

II. The Gracious and Urgent Invitation (vv. 16, 17). These words, "Come; for all things are now ready," reveal the attitude of God toward a sinning race.

III. Men's Attitude Toward God's Gracious Invitation (vv. 18-20). "They all with one accord began to make excuse."

1. The first one was taken up with the buying of land. On this account he begged to be excused.

2. The second man desired to be excused in order that he might test a yoke of oxen which he had bought.

3. The third excuse was perhaps the flimsiest of all. In all probability his wife would have been glad to accompany him.

Why We Are Lonely Loneliness is often our own fault. We have not brought others enough into our own life.

Floyd Gibbons ADVENTURERS' CLUB Hello, Everybody!

"Fate Rings the Bell"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter.

YOU know, boys and girls, there's no use denying it, a lot of your adventure stories almost turn a man into a fatalist.

I can't believe that theory of life myself. I'm inclined to believe that if you keep running in front of automobiles you are bound—by the law of averages—to get run over, sooner or later.

All of which brings us to our story of Frederick Hoyt of Clearfield, Pa. Fred had such a narrow escape under such strange circumstances that about the only way you can explain it is by believing that his time had not come.

Fred's first job—at the age of fourteen—was to sit in a hallway before the door of a certain office. Beyond that door was Fred's first boss—a lousy man who hired Fred to keep callers from disturbing him.

Fred Is Buffer for Boss.

Fred was the buffer, and he says he turned away at least 99 per cent of the callers. He had a nice comfortable chair beside a big steam radiator and could read or play checkers with himself or do anything he wanted to do providing he didn't let anybody slip by his watchful eye.

There was one restriction, Fred says, upon which his job depended. He couldn't leave his post at any moment of the day. No pretext could excuse his absence for one second.

Except for a small telephone table at the other end of the hall, there was no furniture. Fred could put his feet up on the hot radiator when it was cold and make himself at home as much as he wished.

Ignored Telephone, but It's Agent of Fate.

The telephone, at the far end of the hall, he ignored. No one seemed ever to use the thing anyway, and yet that telephone was destined to be the instrument of fate—the instrument that would snatch him from a particularly dreadful and untimely end.

Fred had been on the job two months when the fateful day arrived. He had never moved out of that dutiful chair of his. No matter what happened around him, Fred had been true to his trust, and like a faithful watchdog had stayed put before the door of his employer.

Radiator Good Company on Cold Day.

This day was particularly cold and his side partner—the steam radiator—was sizzling hot. The steam hissing through its pipes in front of him was sweet music to his chilly ears.

Suddenly an annoying sound grated on Fred's sensitive ears. It was that blame telephone at the other end of the hall. He let it ring. He should worry. He wasn't going to get up and answer it and then have some salesman slip in and annoy the boss.

Ringed Telephone Annoys Fred.

But that dogged phone kept on ringing. It wouldn't stop. You'd think when a fellow didn't answer they'd stop ringing. But they didn't.

"Bang!" went Fred's warm feet off the sizzling radiator and he made for the other end of the hall. He figured he could answer the darn thing and be back before anyone noticed his absence. He made the hall in 10 jumps and grabbed the receiver. And as he did, Fred says, the bottom fell out of the world!

The Bottom Falls Out of the World.

Wham! A rush of air slammed him violently against the wall! Boom! A detonation like thunder shook the building under his feet! He fell, like a log, to the floor! Cries came from the front office—cries and dense clouds of live steam! Windows crashed open! The agonized voice of his boss came to him crying his name.

Suddenly the air cleared. Fred's boss appeared and hugged him joyously. Fred was amazed. Here he was getting hugged instead of getting fired! He looked around and his eyes nearly popped out of his head.

The Radiator Had Been Blown to Pieces.

His easy chair was a mass of wreckage! The radiator was gone! Blown to bits! It had exploded and jagged fragments of iron protruded from the place on the wall where FRED'S HEAD HAD BEEN FOR THE LAST TWO MONTHS! If that phone hadn't rung the boy would have been blown to pieces!

Feminine Hands Guided Ireland Long, Long Ago

Ireland Long, Long Ago

The queens of ancient Ireland and especially of Ulster figure prominently in the history and folklore of the land. "This fact is one of the reasons why Ireland is always represented as a beautiful woman," states a writer in the New York World-Telegram, who tells how one need only enter the ports of Belfast, Londonderry or Dublin to feel the shadowy presence of these queenly Cinderellas of the past.

When the Milesians, or Gaels, first landed in Ireland they were ruled by a queen named Scotia, and they found here a people called the Dananns. And the Dananns were ruled by three kings, who were not only brothers, but married to three sisters. The names of these three sister queens were Eire, Banba and Fiola and their three names are often taken to signify Ireland.

In far distant times, the queens of Ireland wore clothes of seven different colors and none but royalty might wear clothes of the same colors. A wise councillor of the queen wore a dress of six colors, a nobleman of the court was garmented in five colors, and so on, according to rank down to one color. It is from these queenly colors that early Irish peasants took their costume colors of dress. At Belfast, one sees evidence of the reign of the great Irish Empress Macha, "Queen of the Golden Hair." While the capital of northern Ireland is only three centuries old, Queen Macha was born in Ulster and ruled all Ireland for seven years.

The Garibaldi Many ladies must remember wearing, in the 70's of last century, an article of dress known as a "garibaldi," writes George Eyre-Tood in the Glasgow Herald. As a mere man, can remember it, this was a sort of shirt blouse, buttoned down the front, and ending with a belt at the waist. It was not a garment merely named after the famous Italian guerilla chief, but was a reproduction of the garment actually worn by him, as shown in his portraits. The vogue of the wearing of the garibaldi was a result of the furor of enthusiasm for the Italian patriot which swept over Scotland when he paid it a visit in 1863.

What Is The Constitution?
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

It has become the fashion in recent weeks for certain public officials to say that the Constitution issue is fading from the current political picture. They are wrong. No attempt to minimize its importance can alter the fact that the Constitution will remain a dominant issue so long as the American people are determined to resist all efforts to curtail their individual rights and privileges.

But the Constitution is far more than a political issue. It is more than a written code of fundamental law. It is the permanent expression of the American spirit—the American Way of Life.

There are today—and there will continue to be—men in public office and out, who don't approve of the American Way of Life. Charmed by modern European experiments, they would like to change our basic system of government by the people, to a form which places all political power in the hands of one or more officials.

The tragic evidence of lost liberties, threatened war and religious intolerance which spring from such dictatorships do not deter them. But the Constitution does. Therefore they would like us to forget about it—and its safeguards—for a while.

But we shouldn't forget. So long as the Constitution lives, our liberties are secure. If it falls, these liberties—and the American Way of Life—fall with it. Eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty.

Hello, Everybody! (An Amigo Floyd Gibbons would say.)

A senatorial investigation of politics in administering Relief appears assured. Are you ready for the Question?

At a 4th of July parade in the east quite some time ago, it being nightfall so a bunch of boys were firing Roman Candles. An Italian had some nice fireworks for sale at the time, and one of the crowd thought that he would have some fun with the Wop. So the man shot a candle into the Dago's assortment of fireworks. Shux, in less than five minutes the Italian was out of business. A dirty trick, we'll say.

"It seems to me that every time I come into this office you're busy," how many times have we heard that. Note—The only time a member of the force in a country printing office goes on a vacation is when he's ill, some relative passes on, or gets in a state of alcoholic inebriation, whatever that is. This Scribe doesn't drink; believe it or not. And I double dare you to call me a Sissy. For one of us would get licked (possibly me.)

"I'll never forget the Band on the Shell Bros. Circus that played in Carrizozo a few years ago. It was a small organization, numbering twelve pieces, I guess, and could they play? Boy, hot dog! The program the band played during the performances was an excellent one; all old-time favorites being given. In fact, music-lovers scarcely saw the circus, for the band was the main attraction," quoting a Corona Subscriber.

"I'm tired of planting Seeds that come from a low altitude in this place; everybody knows they won't do so well," utters a local lady. "I'm going to plant Bermuda grass seed or roots, native vines, Bird of Paradise, Mexican blue morning glories, some variegated yuccas and sunflowers, Mexican srebush, and last but not least, the lowly Salt Cedar or Tamarix one sees so much of around here. Then let the windstorms blow. One spends too much time and effort in order to have a beautiful plant cut down by a dust-storm such as we have in the Carrizozo vicinity."

"I know an excellent plan (I think) observes an Oscura Citizen, "why not plant artificial flowers instead of the fragile ones? An expert can scarcely tell the difference between the two unless he examines them closely."

There is a great amount of Static in the air these spring days, referring to the radio. We note that radio-waves travel seven times around the world per second (believe it or not; almost as fast as the mind) Now if someone could only help or control this pesky static, all would be hunky-dory; in other words, there'd be millions in it.

"It seems to me, decidedly strange," snorts a Reader, "that Bruno Richard Hauptmann is sentenced to the electric chair for the kidnap murder of the Lindbergh baby—and a confessed killer of three people whose trial was held last week should be allowed mercy. It seems that if he is proven to be demanted, he should be put out of the way, or a life sentence with no possibility of pardon. The boy, if freed, is liable to commit a crime decidedly worse. It rather reminds me of the old saying: 'Wrong rules the land, and waiting justice sleeps.' Can I be wrong? Perhaps."—Adios.
