Diamond Dust

By Joe Chavez. The Cobras' ball team and the boys from the local CCC Camp had a good workout at the local park last Sunday afternoon, the Cobras showing their good form of last year and winning easily over the 30's lads. Young Shaw pitched good ball for the government boys, but he was given very wobbly support. Luera hurried, airtight ball and never showed any signs of exertion. Members of the Carrizozo Team also made their appearance on the grounds and warmed up a bit, preparatory for their initial game which will take place in the near future. A fairly good crowd was on hand Sunday and we hope that as the game progresses and better baseball days make their approach, both fans and players develop little more interest and put Carrizozo in the running as a town of sports. The Cobras play Adobe here next Sunday and Carrizozo will tackle the Indians a week from Sunday, at which time they will have their new uniforms. John Maddison Cravens Was born at Washington, Arkansas, Nov. 15, 1855. Moved with relatives to Louisiana; then to Texas, afterwards to New Mexico in 1880 and has lived here and in Arizona since that time. Mr. Cravens joined the scouts who drove the Indians back and was of great assistance to the militia at Fort Bliss in an early day. He married Miss Florence Watson of Silver City in 1898. Mr. Cravens had been in ill health since 1928, during which time Mrs. Cravens has cared for him with tenderness, which is one of the greatest characteristics of a true wife. May the riches of God's Grace be hers in this dark hour. He also leaves several nieces and nephews, Mr. Kirk, Tulare; Mrs. Gilmore, Eagle; John Cravens, Shreveport, La., and others. --Rev. J. A. Bell. Warden-Compton At the parsonage of the local Methodist Church last Saturday, Miss Mary Pickett Warden and William Compton were united in marriage with Rev. J. A. Bell officiating. The couple was accompanied by the bride's mother, Mrs. R. E. P. Warden, who with Mrs. Bell, the pastor's wife, acted as witnesses. The community joins in wishes of future welfare and happiness. J. A. Bell, Pastor. Mrs. R. E. Blaney Entertained a number of ladies at a Thimble Party Tuesday afternoon. The needles were kept busy with sewing, mending, darning and knitting. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Blaney and her sister Mrs. Rogers.

While Jim Farley is puzzling his cranium for some emblem to take the place of the donkey, might we arise to make the suggestion that he adopt the "bull." That, in our opinion would be the most fitting.

Very few are arrested for speeding these days, when they are driving to work.

A small boy, considering what to do during vacation, asked his father to go on relief so that he could go fishing with his daddy like Johnny Smith does.

The President is reported to have traveled over Georgia to see what damage was done by the recent tornado, but was disappointed to find that Mr. Talmadge suffered no serious injury.

When you approach a Democratic congressman with a bill you wish to have passed, he will ignore it unless there is a provision that carries with it, the expenditure of several millions of dollars.

Secretary Wallace has admitted that the government paid two sugar firms a million dollars each for NOT raising cane, but when asked for the names of the firms, he said that was HIS business.

Senior Class Night

The Spirit of Jefferson
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"Since the days when Jefferson expounded his code of political philosophy, the whole world has become his pupil."

Many Americans undoubtedly recalled that tribute during the recent birthday honors to the author of our imperishable Declaration of Independence.

How well, one wonders, do those of his pupils who wield political power today, remember the teachings of the Sage of Monticello? How faithfully do they apply his principles? Let's recall for them—and for ourselves—some of the precepts that Thomas Jefferson left us as a guide. Here, in his own words, is a record of his answers to many of the problems which confront us today—

Our Constitution
"I do, with sincere zeal, wish an inviolable preservation of our present Federal Constitution according to the true sense in which it was adopted by the states."

"No Constitution was ever before so well calculated as ours for extensive empire and self-government."

Public Debt
"Taxation follows public debt, and in its train wretchedness and oppression."

Economy in Government
"I am for a government rigorously frugal and simple."

"We must make our election between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude."

Centralization of Power
"It is not by the consolidation or centralization of powers, but by their distribution that good government is effected."

"Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread."

Personal Liberty
"A wise and frugal government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, which shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government."

Freedom of the Press
"Our liberty cannot be guarded but by the freedom of the press, nor that be limited without danger of losing it."

The People
"If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of taking care of them, they must remain happy."

So long as our public men—and we, ourselves—remember these teachings, the spirit of Jefferson lives. When we forget them, that spirit dies—and with it the true spirit of America.

Eskimos Like Chocolate
Even Eskimos like chocolate. Arctic traders now carry chocolate bars to trade with Eskimo women and children for walrus teeth, petrified ivory and carvings.

Suits of Seaweed

Several million small boys are probably wishing very hard that they had a great great-great grandfather who sailed before the mast in H. M. S. Bounty in 1789. Charles Christian of San Francisco, 5 years old, has. He is a descendant of Fletcher Christian, the masterful leader of that little company of mutineers who found life at sea too harsh under the stark discipline of Captain Bligh, and hid, all undiscovered, on Pitcairn Island.

And what a break it is to for Master Charles! He and his mother are going there to live. There are only one or two draw backs. They will have to land at a regular dock. And today Pitcairn Island is infested with radios. It would be so much more fun to be shipwrecked on an uninhabited island. Then, like the members of the incomparable Swiss Family Robinson, Charles would find the Polynesian island possessed of the extraordinary resources. With salvaged flotsam cast up on the beach he would help his mother build a perfectly pleasant bungalow; from seaweed and tree leaves she would fashion him swaggar suits, and whenever hungry oysters would pop out of the surf—boy, what a life.

Still it is going to smack of real adventure later to write on a picture card to former playmates in San Francisco, "This is where I dive from. And say, doesn't a feller have to look out for sharks when he's swimmin' in the South Seas!" — Christian Science Monitor.

Parson Tabs Rival Flag-Winners, but Ignores Statistics

IF ANYBODY ever conducts a poll to determine the most mullah person in history or poetry, my vote will go to the boy who stood on the burning deck. He probably had business elsewhere and his folks must have warned him about playing around with fire, but he persisted just the same.

That's a fine way to get a reputation, but it's not old Parson Bradley's way. If anybody should ask him what is his way, the best he could do in the shape of a snappy comeback would be to nifty that it is something he has not been having recently but that probably is beside the point. What is right on top of the point is the fact that the venerable Parson is about to pick some winners and he is not the sort of person to fool around with burning decks piled high with the figures of experts.

Instead he is going to hop right overboard and name the lucky lads who will participate in the World Series in September or October or whenever the ever changeable magnates have decided to hold the annual gold and glory classic.

Made Cubs Cinch in 1935 by Picking the Cards

Perhaps he could make $500,000 people happy by saying that the Giants, Yankees and Dodgers were going to triumph, but he is something more than just a crowd pleaser. So he is going to keep faith with Brooklyn by continuing to live there, while concentrating his prophetic powers upon the other entries. While doing so he is going to reveal a few secrets (the tattle tale).

One of them concerns Charley Grimm. Most people think that Charley is a St. Louis boy who master-minded his own way to fame in Chicago, but there are those behind the scenes who know better. He could never have done it if it hadn't been for the Parson. When the Bradley had finished dallying with the statistics 12 months ago, he was convinced that the Cards were going to win. So—just to show what he cared for figures—he picked the Giants. That left only the Pirates, Dodgers and Phils for the Cubs to attend to (since the Reds and Bees always can handle their own losing). So, naturally, the Cubs won the pennant.

Charley Grimm

This season the same system is being used at the earnest request of Mr. Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants. Even though Mr. Sam Breadon, who collects the receipts (if any) in St. Louis, does not like it, the Parson first must be true to his home-towners. So he is selecting the Cards to win and the Cubs to finish second.

That finishes the National league, or would if the magnates did not insist upon playing a 154-game schedule. Now we can take up the opposition circuit.

Tigers Should Win in American League

Hitherto, when asked to name the winners of this younger organization (which quite often also is known as the American league) the Parson has displayed his versatility as an expert by maintaining a dignified silence. That he could do this, while besieged by frenzied customers, does not mean that he has been trying to hold out on anybody though.

From what he could gather while sojourning in the South, it seemed to the Parson that the Tigers were already in. Then he met Colonel Ruppert and heard different.

The Colonel spends most of his time dodging in and out from under the grandstand to inquire hoarsely of total strangers, "How we doing?" "Do you think we're gonna hold that five-run lead?" and questions of similar import. That shows he is not an expert either and so he could be a fellow to string along with when he starts announcing.

But even though he may be all wet the Parson is not going to get burned by statistics. Instead, he merely is laying the two pennant races on the line as follows:

NATIONAL	AMERICAN
St. Louis	Detroit
Chicago	Cleveland
New York	New York
Pittsburgh	Boston
Brooklyn	Washington
Cincinnati	St. Louis
Philadelphia	Chicago
Boston	Philadelphia

When they finish the home stretch next September, you'll be able to tell whether the Parson is a good prophet.

PROOF that a guy can return from Florida with something more than a big expense account and a bad sunburn:

The dearest ambition of one of Chicago's most eminent racketeers is to own a big-time baseball club—Johnny Mize, the hard-hitting Cardinal, believes he would be fixxed if he did not step on home plate each time he goes from first base to the bench—Johnny Broaca is the champion lobby sifter among the Yankees. When he cannot find any one to sit and listen to him he just sits and watches the other guests—Bobby Crutchank will tell you that he learned to putt by watching Bobby Jones in the playoff at Inwood in 1928. Previously Crutchank had been putting in the British manner, hitting the ball full. Now he hits only half-of-the-ball and gives it plenty of overspin.

Note to numerous fans who have been writing in to ask whether Hitler has taken over the National league in the matter of the Jew who happens to be the game's best umpire—Why not inquire of the league president or the club owners whom you support? My own impression is that if these gentlemen so desired they could easily persuade Dolly Stark to return to the game he loves—Ed Brandt, the Dodger southpaw, owns a ranch in Montana—Buck Newsum, Washington pitcher, still bears the scar of a razor wound received in Los Angeles in 1933 when the earthquake interrupted a two-bit shave—Oscar Mellillo, Red Sox second sacker, will talk for hours about fights and fighters.

Gossip now is that there was a woman in the case when Discovery was trimmed at Santa Anita. It seems that a celebrated movie actress who attended workouts likes to see horses go fast and so young Al Vanderbilt gave daily orders to that effect—Just to prove that they still are pals, Charley Grimm presented Freddy Lindstrom with six new bats when the Cubs met the Dodgers the other day—Bill Terry recently purchased a $50,000 annuity—Rookies who are having their heart-breaks now might like to know that Tris Speaker once was left in Little Rock by the Red Sox as part payment for the ball park they had been using in the Arkansas metropolis.

Throwers of Harlem rent parties should take a tip from Tampa socialites. Slot machines are legal in Florida and the license fee is comparatively small. So the boys and girls have taken to installing them in their homes, calling up their friends and then letting nature take its course. Since the machines can be regulated so that the customers get as little as 2 per cent, such entertainment is highly profitable for the hosts—Old timers say that the late Kid Gleason was the roughest fighting man ever to don a big-time uniform. Fans walked off with 1,532 baseballs that were hit into the Brooklyn stadium last year, but the record still is held by Wrigley field, where sixty baseballs often are used in the course of a game.

Bill Terry

In the old days "Jerry builders" used to put up houses "by gosh and by guess" but the first gale that came along scattered them all over the landscape.

Time was when cities "just growed" like Topsy.

Now they are scientifically planned, but a lot of houses had to be torn down to find a place to put them.

That kind of "spilt milk" cost a lot of money that might and should have been used to better advantage.

It required a miracle to enable the Children of Israel to attain their Promised Land.

But soon they found a way to cross seas and rivers. Later bridges, and ships, which are a kind of bridge, opened lines of travel.

Today, we have airplanes which bridge the air, as well as vast structures which bear up railroad trains and provide swift and safe travel through formerly impassable areas.

Working today in the field and in laboratories are thousands of bridge builders who are opening new means of communications.

These are the men and women who are of the first importance in the present time.

Today the people of the world would find it impossible to get along without them.

I have lately made, in a single day, a motor journey of more than three hundred miles, over streams and rivers, and through dense forests.

I traveled over many bridges, some of which were built years ago, some of them great, new steel structures which required years in the building.

All of them were erected to meet the needs of people who want to "go places" and who are always in a hurry to get there.

And while these over-head bridges were in process of construction many cities were building under-ground bridges, tunnels which enabled people to make in a few minutes journeys which but a few years ago required hours of slow travel.

Trained minds are employed in the unrelenting effort to check avarice and greed, to increase the yield of field and orchard, and so solve many of the problems which stand in the way of progress.

It is up to every one to join in this building campaign. Ours is a good world, but it must be made a better one.

Baseball Still Retrenches, Though Receipts Are Up

Baseball still is retrenching, although the gate receipts have increased vastly during the past two seasons. Players will tell you that no more than ten athletes draw $3,000 or better in the Double A (International, American Association, Pacific Coast) leagues. Six years or so ago Newark alone paid that much money to as many men. In the lower loops it is even worse, with $55-a-month salaries being common in Class D circuits—Van Mungo has a deep yearning to be a racing car driver—Ben Geraghty, the Villanova collegian who may become the best shortstop ever to perform in Brooklyn, also is an expert checker player and a fair hand at bridge—While other athletes are complaining that the gloves are not big enough, Charley Grimm continues to hold his rating as the game's best first baseman by practicing bare-handed.

A former New York judge wants to take up the cause of Don Meade, the ace jockey recently banned in Florida. He would like to carry the case to the highest court in order to test the constitutionality of racing in the state—it is fifties' year at the breeding farms. The turf birth notices reveal that the females are leading the colts five to one—if the New York State Racing commission is not too busy it might investigate those loud squawks concerning the type of electric eye to be used at metropolitan tracks this year.

Reporters asked 93 major league ball players what club was the best they had seen this year. Fifty-two replied the Cards, while forty-one favored the Tigers. The verdict was 93 to 0 when the question was asked concerning the worst club. Since that sounds very much like the scores by which the Athletics may often be beaten this year, the name of the club can be guessed at by Philadelphia's most celebrated baseball financiers.

What's become of:
Ned Harlan, Princeton's all-America hack of twenty-five years or so ago, practices law at Bel Air, Md.
Winnie O'Connor, who won a bike race, flat and steeplechase horse races and a prize fight all in a day in Paris, is running a Jamaica tavern.
Milton Henry, who ran the American Bar in Paris for several years after starting as a crack rider, is back at his first love—galloping horses at the Long Island courses.

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

Don't worry about your mistakes. Just be careful not to make many of the same kind.

Spilt Milk
You are bound to fall sometimes. Everybody does.

Forget your failures—but don't repeat them.

Before you tackle a job look it over from every possible angle.

Think over all the ways that it can be done, then decide in your mind which is the best.

Stick to that till you put it over.

As for other men's faults, don't pay any attention to them.

You will have plenty to occupy your mind making sure that you are on the right road.

Mr. Omar Khayyam had the right idea when he admonished his companion against past regrets and future fears.

Neither regrets nor fears will help you any.

Lay out a job before you start it. Get all possible information concerning it before you begin.

Don't be ashamed to ask for help if you need it.

When you're "all set" and you are as sure that you're in the right get your ideas together and make your beginning.

Then there will be no necessity of going back and doing it over.

"I never learned what happened to the man who said, 'I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way.' I don't need to learn. It is a certainty that he 'flopped.'"

The mariner who started on a voyage without a chart or a compass would soon be running up the S O S flag pretty soon, if he didn't sink before he had time to lay a hand on the signal halyard.

When you were a little girl wouldn't you just delight at the thought of having this adorable dress? Then why not sew this up for daughter and see yourself as others did when you were her size.

There's nothing difficult about it at all, no panned seams to job—just a high-waisted skirt and a bit of a bodice which makes it very quickly fashioned. Send for this pattern now and in the meantime take a trip to Main street and buy a few yards of either printed lawn, batiste, dimity, or voile and a few yards of velvet ribbon for the trimming.

SMILES

A Smart Man
Teacher—Who was the world's smartest man?
Boy—Thomas Edison. He invented the phonograph and radio so that people would stay up all night and use his electric light bulbs.

Affluence
They had suddenly grown rich and bought a farm complete with hens, cows and pigs. Said a visitor: "Do your hens lay eggs?"
"They can," was the reply. "but in our position they don't have to."

Remote Control Cooking
Black—Dining in a restaurant? Where is your wife tonight?
Blue—Broadcasting cooking hints over the radio.

All Around the House

A simple Russian dressing is made by adding two tablespoons of chili sauce and two tablespoons of finely chopped green peppers to one cup of mayonnaise.

Paint stains that are dry and old may be removed from cotton or woolen goods with chloroform. First cover amply with olive oil.

The tough skin that forms on top of a cornstarch pudding may be prevented if a piece of oiled paper is placed over pudding when set away to cool.

If the table silver is placed in hot soapsuds immediately after being used, and dried with a soft, clean cloth, much of the work of polishing will be saved.

Purchase seldom used spices in small packages, as it is more economical since spices lose some of their flavor when exposed to the air.

Wood ashes make an excellent fertilizer for shrubbery and rose bushes, also for dahlias, peonies and delphinium. Scatter ashes over soil. It makes it sweet and has a tendency to loosen it.

Greetings and Salutations, Bon Cheerio, Hello Everybody, Wie Gehts, Yowsah, Si, Senor, Yas Sub, and all that stuff. If you'll pardon my Spanish accent we'll go on with our story.

If men were to have the children—well, that's a different matter.

Imagine us coming out with a wedding write up like this—

Head in 10 point black face, "next to pure reading matter," Popular Young Couple Married

The groom is a cheerful young bum who hasn't done a lick in years. He manages to dress well and keep a supply of spending money (his dad's.) The bride is a skinny, fast little idiot who has been kissed or handled (do I make myself clear?) by every boy in town since she was 12 years old. She paints like a Sioux Indian, smokes cigarettes, and is a pretty tough girl when she gets full of Mula Blanca 'or, in English, Conversation Water. She doesn't know how to cook, sew, darn socks or keep house. In other words, all she thinks of is to raise Hell.

The young people will make their home with the bride's parents, which means they will mooch on the old man until he dies. They anticipate the great event in about five months.

The copy in front of This Scribe goes on to say items derogatory (pardon the $400 word) about the groom. We ask you, how would you like an item similar to this appear at the time you were married?

Yes, verily. One in the newspaper game has to falsify at times.—"For what we are about to write, Good Lord, forgive us." How many times has an editor said this?

Better late than never — We wish Editor Merriman of the Santa Rosa News much success in his new endeavor, being editor-in-chief of the Santa Rosa paper. Quite a new sheet, if you ask us.

The Roy Record states that many a high school graduate should take a post graduate course in a country print shop in order to learn punctuation, etc. The Record speaks of a high school graduate who helped out in a hand-set office dividing a one-syllable word, "hoise," thusly — "ho," and then put "ise" on the next line. Note—Some of the worst copy we receive is handed in by people who should know better. We once knew a high school graduate who inquired of us (ignorant printers) how to spell Santa Fe, P. S. — And the most of our grief comes in running free stuff, or "something to fill up the columns."

A little story — Once upon a time a flapper asked her father for $10 with which to go on an all-night party. The dad refused and she asked him again, with the same result. Seeing that her pleadings didn't make a dent on the senior member of the family, she took her mother to one side and asked in a tone of voice audible to her father, "Ma-mah, Aint Dad the tightold?" Her mother said to the flapper, "Come here, young lady; I'll box your ears. How many times have I told you not to use the word 'Aint'?"

Stockman are deliriously happy. Why? On account of the recent million-dollar rainfall.

To Dr. E. S. Randles of Water Canyon, N. M. — We give you due credit for the phrase — "In the realms of Journalistic Propensities and Prolivities." (It shows do look swell in print.) Guess we'll ask some high school graduate what it means. — Adios from the Land of Turquoise sky, unsurpassed mountain scenery, perpetual sunshine and Romance.
