Out-of-the-Ordinary

STRANGER THAN FICTION

Elliott Marrs, traffic cop of San Jose, Calif., gave his signals one chilly afternoon in April, unconscious of a small, hungry pup, which huddled close to his feet.

Tobacco has many things for which to answer, but the following is the most out-of-the-ordinary. Five years ago, James M. Thayer, 88 and Mary Thayer, 79, were happily married.

On the morning of May 8, a frantic telephone call came into the police station in Denver, saying that a naked girl was causing a sensation on the street and had attracted a large crowd.

Wm. Peterson was a college freshman at Burnsville, N. C., 35 years ago and his sweetheart, Lillian Ray, was a sweet girl graduate.

The Browns, Holm O., Senior and Junior, were in town this week from Socorro.

After their arrival at Greenville, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. James Dale of Ancho, recently wedded, were entertained at the home of the bride's parents in honor of their entrance on the voyage of matrimony. In the afternoon, the newly-weds were entertained with a program of vocal and instrumental music. At the refreshments, a unique surprise awaited the honor guests. In the center of the table was a map of Texas on which was a silver ship with a ribbon attached and labeled, Greenville. Figuratively, the honor guests were taken on a voyage from Greenville and ending in a dining room at their new home. The center-piece of the table was a brilliantly-lighted ship, anchored at Ancho and surrounded by many gifts and flowers in tokens of esteem.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Woman's Club Entertains

On Tuesday, at Community Hall, the Woman's Club closed its 16th year of successful organization with a buffet supper honoring the members' husbands and friends. Mrs. Boughner, assisted by the following hostesses, Mmes. Lemon, Richard, Branum, Smoot, Snyder, Watson, Clouse, Burns, Beck, Hall, Misses Shaver, Spencer and Boughner, planned a most unique entertainment in the form of a birthday party. Each month of the year was appropriately represented in novel table decorations and entertainment. Mrs. Blaney, the club's first president, graciously presided as toastmistress, introducing each month with its horseshoe. Jan. responded with Jingle Bells; Feb., a clever club game; Mar., an Irish joke; Apr., a surprise musical selection; May, a duet, "You're as welcome as the flowers in May;" June, a farcical wedding; July, the Hula dance; Aug., the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers; Sept., "In School Days;" Oct., fortunes; Nov., reading, "Watermelon Time;" Dec., Little Jack-Horner. Following the wedding ceremony each guest was served with a piece of the club's beautiful birthday cake, the handiwork of Misses Boughner and Cooper. The 101 guests gave a rising vote of thanks for the evening's perfect entertainment.

Charles Spence

After a lingering illness of several months, Charles Spence, whose condition has been mentioned at different times, died at El Paso Monday morning about 1 o'clock. He was taken ill at his home in Santa Fe and afterwards removed to El Paso, where it was hoped the lower altitude would improve his condition, but it failed to bring the desired relief.

Mr. Spence was born at Hopkinton, Iowa, August 25, 1894, and came to Carrizozo with his parents in December, 1908. He was associated with his father, Clarence Spence in the stock business until the father's death. About 8 years ago, he moved with his family to Santa Fe, at which city he resided until he was sent to El Paso, as mentioned above. Charley Spence was an active and energetic business man, excellent of character and noble at heart. He was admired by all who knew him both here and at Santa Fe.

The funeral services will be held at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in Santa Fe this afternoon. The sympathy of this community goes out to his mother, Mrs. Helene Spence, wife, Mrs. Esther Sager Spence, daughter Virginia, son Charles, Jr., and other relatives.

Accident Near Oscura

Sunday evening while on a return trip from Alamogordo, Roy Richard, Marvin Peckham and Marvin Roberts ran into a truck which was standing on a narrow bridge near Oscura. The truck had no tail lights, as we understand and the boys trying to avoid a collision, turned their car abruptly, throwing it into the bar-pit. Roy suffered the most injury. His nose was badly injured and cuts about the face and over the body were so severe that he was taken to El Paso, where he underwent an

Table with 3 columns: Team, Won, Lost. Carrizozo Cobras: Won 2, Lost 1. Cobras: Won 4, Lost 2.

The newly-organized Corona baseball team invaded the Carrizozo Red Birds' refuge last Sunday afternoon and were pecked away by the Red Tops by a 7 to 2 score. As one can't be in two places at one time, the reporter of this column was absent from this game and will not attempt to describe the same in detail. According to his office contemporaries, Carrizozo had the situation well in hand throughout the melee, except in the third inning when Corona scored their two runs. Red Huffmyer, the old war-horse, had on his pitching togs Sunday and annihilated the Corona Bean Planters in true fashion. Although our boys didn't set the world afire with their hickorys, they made their hits count at most opportune times. Both teams rated high in their fielding averages, no errors being marked against either side. Sally Ortiz of Carrizozo and Archie Perkins of Corona divided honors in this department. Just a word for Young Jolly, the Corona finger - they say that lad was right in there and has all the earmarks of becoming a pitcher of a renown type.

On the east side diamond, the Soil Conservationists from Fort Stanton made their appearance on scheduled time, and batting and fielding the sphere like 'wild demons,' stamped and eroded the sod for the Carrizozo Cobras, by traveling around the paths eleven times against the Vipers' six. Andy Lueras, again handicapped by the so-called vertical line, could not check the onslaught of the Fort crew. The opponents were on top all the way and only were threatened as the curtain began to fall, in which instance the Cobras started a rally. They had put one run across the plate and had a man on second and one on first. The batter hit safely, but Alfredo Lopez, who was stationed on first, used hesitation in moving to second and was tagged out for the third and final out of the game. Chino, Marquez, and Beltran played good ball for the losers, while Shipley, Salas, Parker, Montgomery, the pitcher and first baseman were a credit to their team. Better luck to Corona and the Cobras in their next attempt.

Little Natalia Sanchez entertained a number of her little friends at her home last Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, in honor of her 7th birthday. Games were played and refreshments served.

operation Tuesday night and at last reports he was resting as easy as possible. The two other boys escaped with minor cuts and bruises, and as far as we are able to learn, it was a wonder that the boys escaped with their lives.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Walter LaFleur and Walter, Jr., were here from Roswell last week-end, visiting the Walter Grumbles and A. J. Rolland families.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brubaker were visitors from Capitan last Saturday.

Mrs. Saturpino Chavez, daughter Bertha and son S. A. T. Jr., motored to Tucumcari last Friday night, spent the week-end with relatives and returned home Sunday evening.

Sisters Aurelia, Mary Pierre, Mary Angelica and May Boniface left Monday for Grand Rapids, Mich., and will return the latter part of August.

Mrs. Dorothea Campbell, niece of manager G. T. McQuillen of the local telephone station, who had been visiting her uncle for about two weeks, left Monday for her home in Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Cherrille Coe of Tularosa was here this week, visiting her sister, Mrs. L. E. Hunt, who has been ill for several weeks at the home of Mrs. Alice Jarvis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kent of Oscura were business visitors here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Brack Sloan were here from Roswell last Saturday.

Mrs. Nick Vega, son Nick, Jr., daughters Viola and Margarita left today for Tularosa to visit with relatives for a few days.

Mechanic Loy Mitchell of the N. M. Mech. Equip't Co., is in El Paso this week on business.

Wins University Prize

Miss Evelene Coe, daughter of Mrs. Cherrille Coe of Tularosa and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wells of White Oaks, graduated from the Tularosa High school last week and was valedictorian. She won the prize issued by the National Business Machine Co., on the subject, "Education Develops the Power to Think." The prize is a 4-year scholarship in any university in the United States with all expenses paid. The Tularosa high school will also be given an up-to-date electric bell system, or some kind of a business machine. We congratulate the young lady on securing the prize.

Roy Skinner Improving

Fireman Roy Skinner, who was injured at Alamogordo the latter part of last week, is improving at Hotel Dieu in El Paso. Quite contrary to a report in one of the El Paso dailies, that he fell off the train, let us say that such was not the case. Roy had pulled down the water crane after the train stopped for the purpose of putting water in the tank and for some unknown reason, the engine rolled backwards. That movement caused Roy to be thrown between the crane and the "dog-house." The heavy crane forced him against the dog-house, crushing one of his ears and almost severing it from his head. The suffering he underwent before medical attention could be had, was something extremely excruciating. It required a delicate surgical operation to sew the injured ear back to its place, but was successful.

Cochrane Is Certain Tigers Will Regain Vigor Come July 4

EVEN though he could not believe his ears, the reporter felt that he had something for which to be thankful. He rendered thanks for not having to believe such an overvalued set of legs as these which waved in front of him, and returned resolutely to his task.

"Don't," he coaxed the gentleman, "you mean Christmas? You know that's the day when Santa Claus comes along. Maybe he could unload you a few such knuck-knacks as a third baseman who could hit or an outfielder who could field. From what I've seen of this outfit of yours, you certainly could use something like that, and the quicker you get it the better."

The gentleman did not twitch an ear at such blasphemy. He had been balancing his weight on his left foot, so as to provide some solace for a bruised right hip. Now, while he repeated the words which had caused all the trouble, he shifted back to the right dog again. The reporter noted this effort to ease the ache of a left-leg charley-horse.

"Maybe we can settle on Labor day, then," he offered to compromise. "Your game already are approaching that state of decrepitude which comes from extremely old baseball legs. So are those of some of your more estimable and high-priced hired men. Think of what is going to happen when the ground really gets hard. Sure, that September holiday is the one you mean. Then you'll have only another month to go, and—"

Mickey Cochrane

"No," said the gentleman. "I mean—"

"Sure, I know," persisted the reporter. "What you're getting at is that you want to prove your patriotism. But just because these leaping cups of yours start flopping around like a couple of May Day banners every time you get burned up about what has been happening lately is no excuse for going to extremes. Why, even the Hearst papers wouldn't take you for a Red just because your ears get that way when—"

There was a wistful look in the eye of the gentleman who now was frowning three big black bats. The reporter understood that, too.

"Huh," he said. "So you're just a great big boy, are you? All you want is the noise and the excitement. Well, all I've got to say is that the way that big nose blew up in the first frame today and the way that Lawson flexed like a Roman candle and the way some of those other birds have been blasted lately, you should already be having all the fireworks you want. Why—"

"Nevertheless," said the gentleman, "Fourth of July is the day and" (he waved a bat lovingly) "if you would like to debate the subject any longer, there is—"

But there are some ideas the reporter could get on if it was only one of the Dodgers up there swinging. He hereby passes along the word that July 4 is the day on which the Tigers will resume their pennant progress. Also he details from the writing of Sanskrit to inform the world that this information comes direct from the lips of Mickey Cochrane.

Simmons' Potential Power Is Reason for Prediction

Incidentally, the full facts of the case indicate that the Detroit leader has some very good reasons for setting this belated date for the return to form of the team that had been expected to romp through the American league play. By that time Scholesky Rowe may be pitching in the manner to which he once was accustomed. Tommy Bridges may have overcome the tough hook which is besetting him. Hank Greenberg may be avenging his broken bones by breaking down enemy defenses and there may be other success angles far more important than the fact that the 1934 and 1935 winners did not do their best until mid-season.

One of these angles could concern Al Simmons. Until the Tigers tackled the Athletics recently, Al was going along in fair fashion. Then, because the fans who once cheered him so heartily now booed him with equal vigor, he lightened up while striving to obtain hits. The result was that the big fellow, who should be driving in 100 runs a season and making up for the absence of Greenberg, continually left runners stranded on base in line of need.

PERHAPS it is just as well that one Annie Oakley was unused at the Canzoneri-McLarnin fight. If Max Schmeling had taken advantage of the same free opportunities afforded G-Man Hoover and numerous other Broadway celebrities, he might have departed with ideas which eventually would have wrecked the peace of mind of thousands who already have invested upon Joe Louis' next triumph.

By this, I mean that Tony Canzoneri's upsetting victory over Jimmy McLarnin provides a ring lesson which should be carefully studied by any fighting man who finds himself facing long odds. Admitting that the raw courage of the gamecock who won seven out of ten rounds is a rare item in the human make-up, the fact remains that Tony won because he outsmarted the sturdier opponent even more than he outslugged him.

Aside from any lesson Schmeling may have missed by not being there, another idea might be gleaned out of the evening which brought so many bright memories. It is that if the officials will rematch the two they need have no worry about what to do with their air-cooled Garden upon any summer evening they care to name.

Cincinnati hand books got taken for plenty when Bold Ventures won the Kentucky rodeo. The tip was red-hot in that town. . . . Bill Terry ordinarily is a straightaway hitter, but when he has two strikes on him he chokes his bat and pokes at the ball. That is why he so often confounds the left fielders by dropping short hits into their territory. . . . Jimmy Dykes uses zippers instead of buttons on his baseball uniform. . . . Although he is only twenty-six years old and probably better than ever, Barney Ross' blue-black hair is now flecked with gray. . . . Carl Hubbard, the veteran pro footballer who became an American league umpire this year, has a funny stiff arm motion while indicating balls and strikes. But players say he is one of the most competent arbiters to come along in recent years.

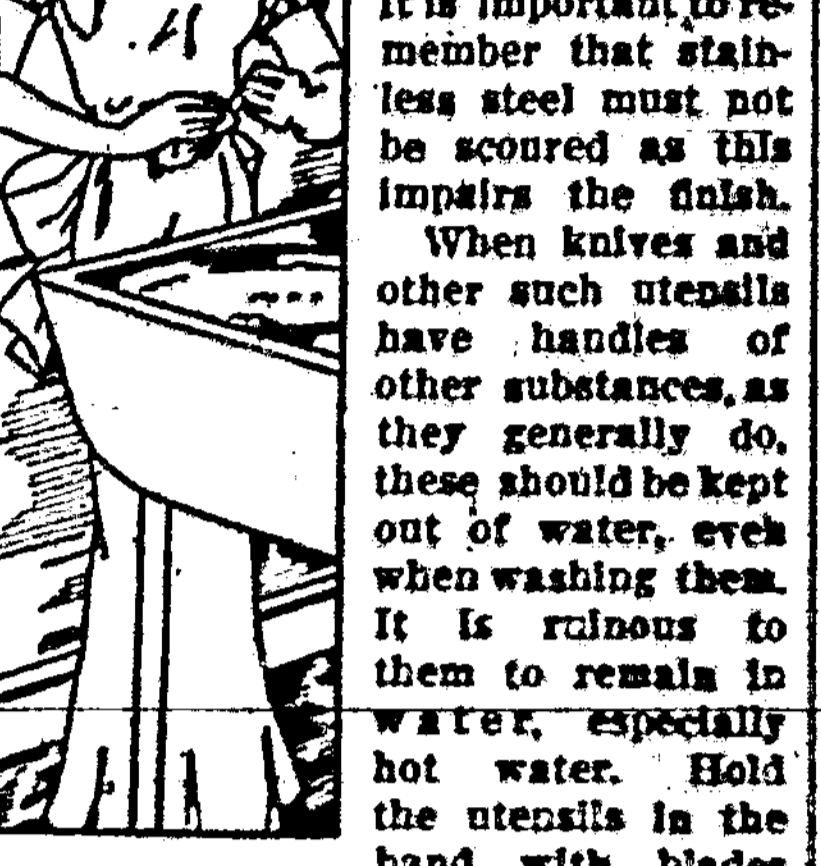

Big League Sun Glasses Cost Sixteen Buckaroos

Chicago is pulling all wires to persuade Mike Jacobs to bring a heavy-weight boxing show there in August. . . . The sun glasses used by major league outfielders cost 16 buckaroos. A man in Boston makes them out of a special blue lens. . . . One of the most excited persons in the Churchill Downs clubhouse was a blonde, whose friend had given her a G note to bet for him on Bravely. She slapped $10 on Bold Ventures' nose and held out the other 90 smackers. . . . The Giants call Adolfo Luque "Charley." . . . Joe Alvarez, who tangled with Champion Dick Shikat in the law courts, is the best wrestling teacher connected with the trust. . . . The boys about the barns have a new explanation of what happened to Granville in the Kentucky Derby. Several days before the race the son of Gallant Fox posed for an advertising picture. The ad then appeared on the back of the program. "How could you expect a horse that was put in such a spot to do any better'n last?" he argued. "It was a jinx." . . . Max Schmeling is an excellent mimic, and even though he cannot carry his art to such an extreme that he looks like a guy who can belt over Joe Louis, his imitation of Mike Jacobs is enough to wow all beholders. . . . Although he is being booed for mayor, Alderman Eddie Sullivan, one of New York's more celebrated sportsmen, probably would settle for a state senator's berth. . . . Lou Gehrig has become a collector of first editions. He is particularly proud of a swell buy he made of a set of Chaucer while in Philadelphia with the Yankees this spring. . . . Did the papers carry all the details about why Mickey Haslin held out on the Bees? The truth seems to be that the Phillies promised to give him a big salary boost if he made good by May 1. So they traded him for Plinkey Whitney and cash on April 29, and the Bees offered him considerably less than the promised pay raise. . . . Jockeys swear that one of their number who did very well rode the first half-mile of the Derby with his eyes closed. . . . The real name of Freddie Miller, N. B. A. featherweight champion, is Friederich Mueller. . . . Jeff Dickson says that the animal show is the best attraction offered at Francis's Palace in Sports. Everything is for sale, and customers depart with lion cubs, snakes and such things under their arms. . . . Lou Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, lost 48 pounds recently by going on a 10-day milk diet. . . . Could it be true that poolroom book-makers are being assessed by collectors for a fund to fight the Dunningan parliament bill? The gossip is that they are threatened with competition if they don't come across. . . . Mike Vetrano, who played football at Mount Vernon and Dean academy and was a promising amateur heavyweight boxer, now wrestles on the Curley circuit. . . . Nominations for the country's best track manager—Col. Matt Dainger of Pimlico. . . . The Yankees still remember with awe the strong-arm stance of Wally Bahana, who now coaches the Indiana. Especially the night on the train when Bahana reared "I'm not to be trifled with!" and then tossed Babe Ruth into an upper berth. . . . Teddy Cattalus, one of the most celebrated of soccer groundkeepers, has two brothers playing for the Pittsburgh Wanderers—Joe is right half and Willie is left half.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

THE care of utensils used in the handling of foods, in kitchen and dining room apart from silver flatware has undergone a change since stainless steel has come into use. No longer is the scouring brick needed for steel nor any of the granular substitutes for cleaning knives. No longer does the cutlery have to be rubbed until it shines like silver, and be wiped thoroughly dry, lest the blades darken with dampness. The stainless steel finish keeps its polish, and what a labor-saving this means for the homemaker. It is important to remember that stainless steel must not be scoured as this impairs the finish. When knives and other such utensils have handles of other substances, as they generally do, these should be kept out of water, even when washing them. It is ruinous to them to remain in water, especially hot water. Hold the utensils in the hand with blades under the water, and scrub the metal well, and then wash the handles with the soapy dishcloth. Rinse by wiping well with the cloth wet with clear warm water. Then dry blades and handle with brisk rubbing with the dish towel. Unless this method is followed, the handles will either crack, or the enamel finish peel off. Also the cement holding blade and handle together softens under heat, and the parts may separate or, what is almost as disturbing, the handles may warp making the knives difficult to use.

Ivory and Pearl Handles. The choice and costly ivory and pearl handled knives and forks for table use are very susceptible to temperature, and few of the handsome antique pieces have weathered these changes. During the long years of use, sometimes they must have been carelessly washed. Long cracks in the exquisite old mellow-toned ivory tell the tale. Celluloid handles though not choice, were once favored because while resembling ivory, they withstood the wear and tear of usage better. Genuine ivory was and is scarce, and expensive.

Have of Carelessness. Carelessness plays havoc with a person's belongings, with the good looks of furniture, and all material things to say nothing of the ravages it can make into good health. Results of carelessness are everywhere present, so it behooves us to cultivate the habit of being careful. In doing this we have to keep a watch over ourselves to see that we do not become fussy in our attentions to things, nor over-critical of others' actions when they seem careless. There is a happy medium between being careless and critically careful.

One of the greatest causes of mishaps to materials and furnishings, is the prevalent habit of smoking cigarettes and laying stubs down while still glowing. It is not the smoking habit that is at fault, but the careless attitude toward the disposal of butts. Handsome table linens get soiled or actually riddled with wee holes burnt through the cloth by cigarette sparks, stubs still a-light when laid down, or recklessly handled cigarettes. The frequency with which cigarettes are discarded and new ones lighted is much greater than when smoking cigars. Opportunity for accidents is magnified, in the first instance.

Careful Management. If the homemaker is careful she will have plenty of ash trays conveniently disposed in her rooms, and also provided for dinner or luncheon guests. Then it is gross carelessness on the part of smokers when accidents through cigarette smoking happen. Edges of handsome tables are sometimes found marred by having the finish burnt off, and a careless smoker's desk is apt to be flamed with burnt places. Cigarettes are laid down with the lighted ends well over the edge of the furniture. But, before the smoker realizes it the cigarette has burnt down to the edge, and the finish is off and the wood itself is charred. Tailors will tell you of suits brought to them to have little burnt places mended, and invisible damage concerns such places so they cannot be detected.

To Frame Pictures. Pictures for nursery or game room walls may be displayed in a new way by pasting them flat on the wall and tacking a narrow, half-round molding along the edge. They are then given a thin coat of varnish, and the molding is lacquered the desired color. The lacquer is best applied before making the molding to the wall with headless nails.

Ceiling Lure. Painting the ceilings in pastel colors gives a pleasing contrast, even when side walls are very light blue. To obtain the greatest reduction value from a ceiling, however, it should be painted a flat white.

Roomy Beach Pajamas With Yoke, Sleeves, Front Panel in One to Facilitate Making

Pattern No. 1791-B

Plenty of room is included for active arms and legs in this exceedingly smart and youthful beach pajama. Yoke, sleeves, and front panel are all one piece cleverly combined to minimize your sewing time and eliminate complicating tricks.

Large unusual buttons down the center front panel, a demure Peter Pan collar plus a wide self-fabric belt and the blouse is complete. The waist is gathered to the yoke in front and back, giving a flattering fullness and smooth appearance. Make this lovely tailored model in silk crepe, voile, or percale for lounging and gingham, pique, or linen for the beach.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1791-B is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4 1/2 yards of 30 inch material. Send fifteen cents for the pattern.

Uncle Phil Says

Gladness Measures Luck

"When you have good luck in any thing you ought to be glad. Indeed if you are not glad, you are not really lucky. The simp paints the town red; the misanthrope paints it blue; the knocker paints it black; the promoter paints in the color of gold. 'To put reason into boys' heads, you have first got to train them to understand it. Wear a Sunny Manner. Everyone likes a sunny manner if it isn't put on. See, and a puff-on sunny-manner is better than a cross one."

If a man is witty he expects the fact to be acknowledged; and if he is handsome he expects the same thing. It is good for posterity to help pay the war debts. It will teach posterity to be careful about plunging into war.

CRISP, crunchy Post Toasties with fresh, luscious berries and milk or cream. . . . Mal! It's the finest breakfast treat you ever tasted!" says Melvin Purvis.

Post Toasties are just the thing for warm-weather luncheons, too. They have a delicious, different flavor because they are made from the sweet, tender silks of the corn, where most of the flavor is. Every golden-brown flake is scented double crisp—that's why Post Toasties keep their crunchy goodness longer in milk or cream.

Founding Fathers Knew Their Stuff

When the Founding Fathers drew up our Constitution, one of the fears for the future which impelled them was the construction of an autocratic government in America.

That is why the rights of states were preserved and the delicate system of checks and balances set up. So long as the rights of states and the balance of government are preserved, then America, in spite of everything else, will have a reasonable degree of individual liberty and local self-government.

But once these rights are taken away and the balance destroyed, we will be well on the way to collectivism or Fascism, call it what you please, whether our Legislators are mindful of the danger or not.

Recent decisions indicate that the Supreme Court is the great bulwark of American individual liberty and enterprise, expressing as it does the will of our Constitution.

If we desire to give up democracy in the hope that by embracing collectivism we can get the government to make a living for us, then we must do so by amending our Constitution in the ways provided by our fundamental law.

In grasping at the chimera of security through paternalism, let us be careful that we do not lose the privileges of democratic freedom in the effort.

It is easier to make a trade for a new automobile than for a new wife because they will always give you a good trade-in allowance for the old car.

Remember those old-fashioned girls of the Victorian age who should have reminded you of the New Deal, because their budget was out of balance?

"I'd like to wake up some morning a hundred years from now, says Uncle Ezra, 'just to see how high the national debt has gone by that time.'"

If half the world now wants to know how the other half lives all it has to do is to look at the U. S. Treasury reports.

The female agitators may demand equal rights for women all they please but they will never be able to grow any of those military moustaches.

A lot of fellows would rather be an assistant sergeant-at-arms in a national convention than a colonel in Mussolini's army—and maybe they are right at that.

Rubinoff Holds World Record for Broadcasting

Rubinoff and his violin—and Chevrolet—are a combination that few, if any, radio listeners in the United States have not received in their homes via the air. The famous violinist and his Stradivarius, stars of the Chevrolet Musical Moments program, have the distinction of going on the air from more broadcasting stations than any other program in the history of radio. Three hundred and seventy-eight stations broadcast Rubinoff three times a week, a total of 1134 fifteen-minute programs. That figures out at 283 hours, and if one week's programs were broadcast one after the other, day and night, it would require 11 days. The illustration shows Rubinoff, carrying his precious violin, posing with his car after a special appearance at Detroit.

CUTTING A LANE THRU THE DARK

Clearly, concisely, briefly The United States News presents the news of national affairs in departments: THE CONGRESS WEEK—what the House and Senate debate. THE PRESIDENT'S WEEK—the visitors he saw, and why—what he said and did. STATE OF THE UNION—a 5-minute swing around the country with the national news. THE POLITICAL WEEK—up-to-the-minute reports of all that the political leaders are doing and planning. WHAT THE PRESS OF THE NATION THINKS—gets a quick, interesting survey of public opinion, including percentage of press for and against on leading issues. THE TREND OF AMERICAN BUSINESS—a remarkably complete statement of business in one page. VOICE OF THE NEW DEAL—signed articles by administration spokesmen. DAVID LAWRENCE critically appraises government.

To Help You Keep Abreast of the Times

So much is happening every day in the world of government that affects your living, income and buying power. What is Congress doing? For what is money to be spent? How will they raise it? Who is to administer the spending? What does this business improvement mean? Will it continue? Why is there another side to so many questions? All this makes you ask yourself—"How can I keep abreast of the times, understand what events mean, discuss national affairs intelligently?"

The United States News

Every week you find in The United States News a complete, accurate report of national affairs from Washington. News is grouped together in departments for your convenience. Simplified for quick reading. Connected for clearness and perspective. Authoritative, concise, usable. Here you find why it happened, what it means, and what is likely to happen next. The United States News is truly the newsmagazine of national affairs. Subscribe today! Congress is in session. A presidential campaign is warming up. Party platforms are to be written. More vital questions of national policy will be discussed this year than ever before. Be posted. Know the facts. Make your own decisions. Back them up with a clear-cut understanding of what is going on.

Heart-Rending Accident
Sunday Night

Last Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wiggley, daughters Billie Jo, Peggy Jean, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Johnson, daughter Hendine and Frances Caidle, sister to Mrs. Wiggley, left Capitan, bound for Carrizozo. When they neared the curve south of the Walnut railroad crossing, the driver stepped on the brakes. The right front wheel locked and the car turned completely over and Frances being on the right side of the front seat, had her skull crushed, causing instant death. The other occupants received but slight bruises.

Clyde Brubaker and mother of Capitan being on their way home from Mayhill, were the first to reach the scene and following, came Mr. and Mrs. Perry Searp, who brought the dead girl's body here. The others were brought in by the Brubakers and taken to the Johnson hospital for medical aid. Sheriff McCamant acted as coroner in the absence of Judge Chavez, who was ill. A jury composed of Perry Searp, A. L. Burke, Jeff Herron, Roy Shafer, J. M. Beck and O. T. Newton, brought in a verdict that the young lady came to her death in accordance with the facts as stated above.

The sad results of this case should serve as an object lesson to all car drivers, to inspect their cars carefully before making a trip. We are all too prone to overlook matters of importance, but a word of warning from the press should be taken and heeded in the same good spirit with which it is given.

DR. JAMES W. BARTON
Talks About

Treating Hemorrhoids

SOME idea of how the injection method of treating hemorrhoids or piles has taken the place of the old method of removing them by a surgical operation can be gathered from the report in New England Journal of Medicine of Doctor Balch of the Rectal Clinic, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

Since the clinic was organized in 1928 the number of operations for removal of hemorrhoids done in the hospital has steadily decreased. In 1929 there were 42 cases; in 1930, 26; and in 1931, 6; and in 1932 only 5. These figures show pretty well how successful is the injection treatment of the average case of hemorrhoids.

During that time, 359 cases were treated by the injection method and Doctor Balch concludes that the injection treatment of internal hemorrhoids (not the kind that hang outside the body) can be satisfactorily carried out in about 85 to 90 per cent of cases seen, with from 5 to 15 per cent having to return for further treatment within three to five years.

The treatment is almost painless and practically free from serious consequences. The patients are satisfied with the result.

After having treated more than 5,000 cases of hemorrhoids by the injection method Doctor Fansler of Minneapolis in the Journal of the Iowa State Medical Society, re-emphasizes that only internal hemorrhoids that are not fibrous are suitable for injection.

Cases Easily Cured

While it is very gratifying to know that the great majority of cases, (that is really the average case), can be cured by this simple method there are thousands of cases in which this method cannot be used; and only surgery can effect the cure.

For those whose cases are not suitable for the injection method Doctor Fansler gives most encouraging information. In former years the operation meant ten days to three weeks in hospital with considerable distress immediately following and for some days after the operation, aside from the expense and loss of time from employment.

How Surgery Works

Doctor Fansler describes an operation now performed which, followed by hot Sitz baths the next day, and the bowels moved by an oil or water enema on the second day, allows the patient to leave the hospital usually on the fifth day after the operation. The thought then is that no one in ordinary health should suffer with hemorrhoids now that the injection method will cure most cases, and the surgical method does not mean so much pain, expense, or time lost.

Treatment of Rheumatism

"Every health writer speaks of the various 'causes' of rheumatism, pointing out particularly that the infection of the teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, and intestine cause most cases. He points out further that of the various causes of heart disease, rheumatism stands first on the list.

However, after a patient is afflicted with rheumatism, which means that the trouble has likely been in the system for months or years, what he wants to know is the best way of treating rheumatism while the cause is being sought and removed.

There are a number of forms of treatment—use of vaccines, cutting down on starch foods—but one wants something to allay the pain and prevent the joints from becoming permanently stiff.

Patients Restored

What is known as "physical" treatment is considered the most effective method to prevent stiff joints and restore the patient to an active life.

Dr. L. C. R. Lestrage Orme, in Medical Press outlines this physical treatment as follows:

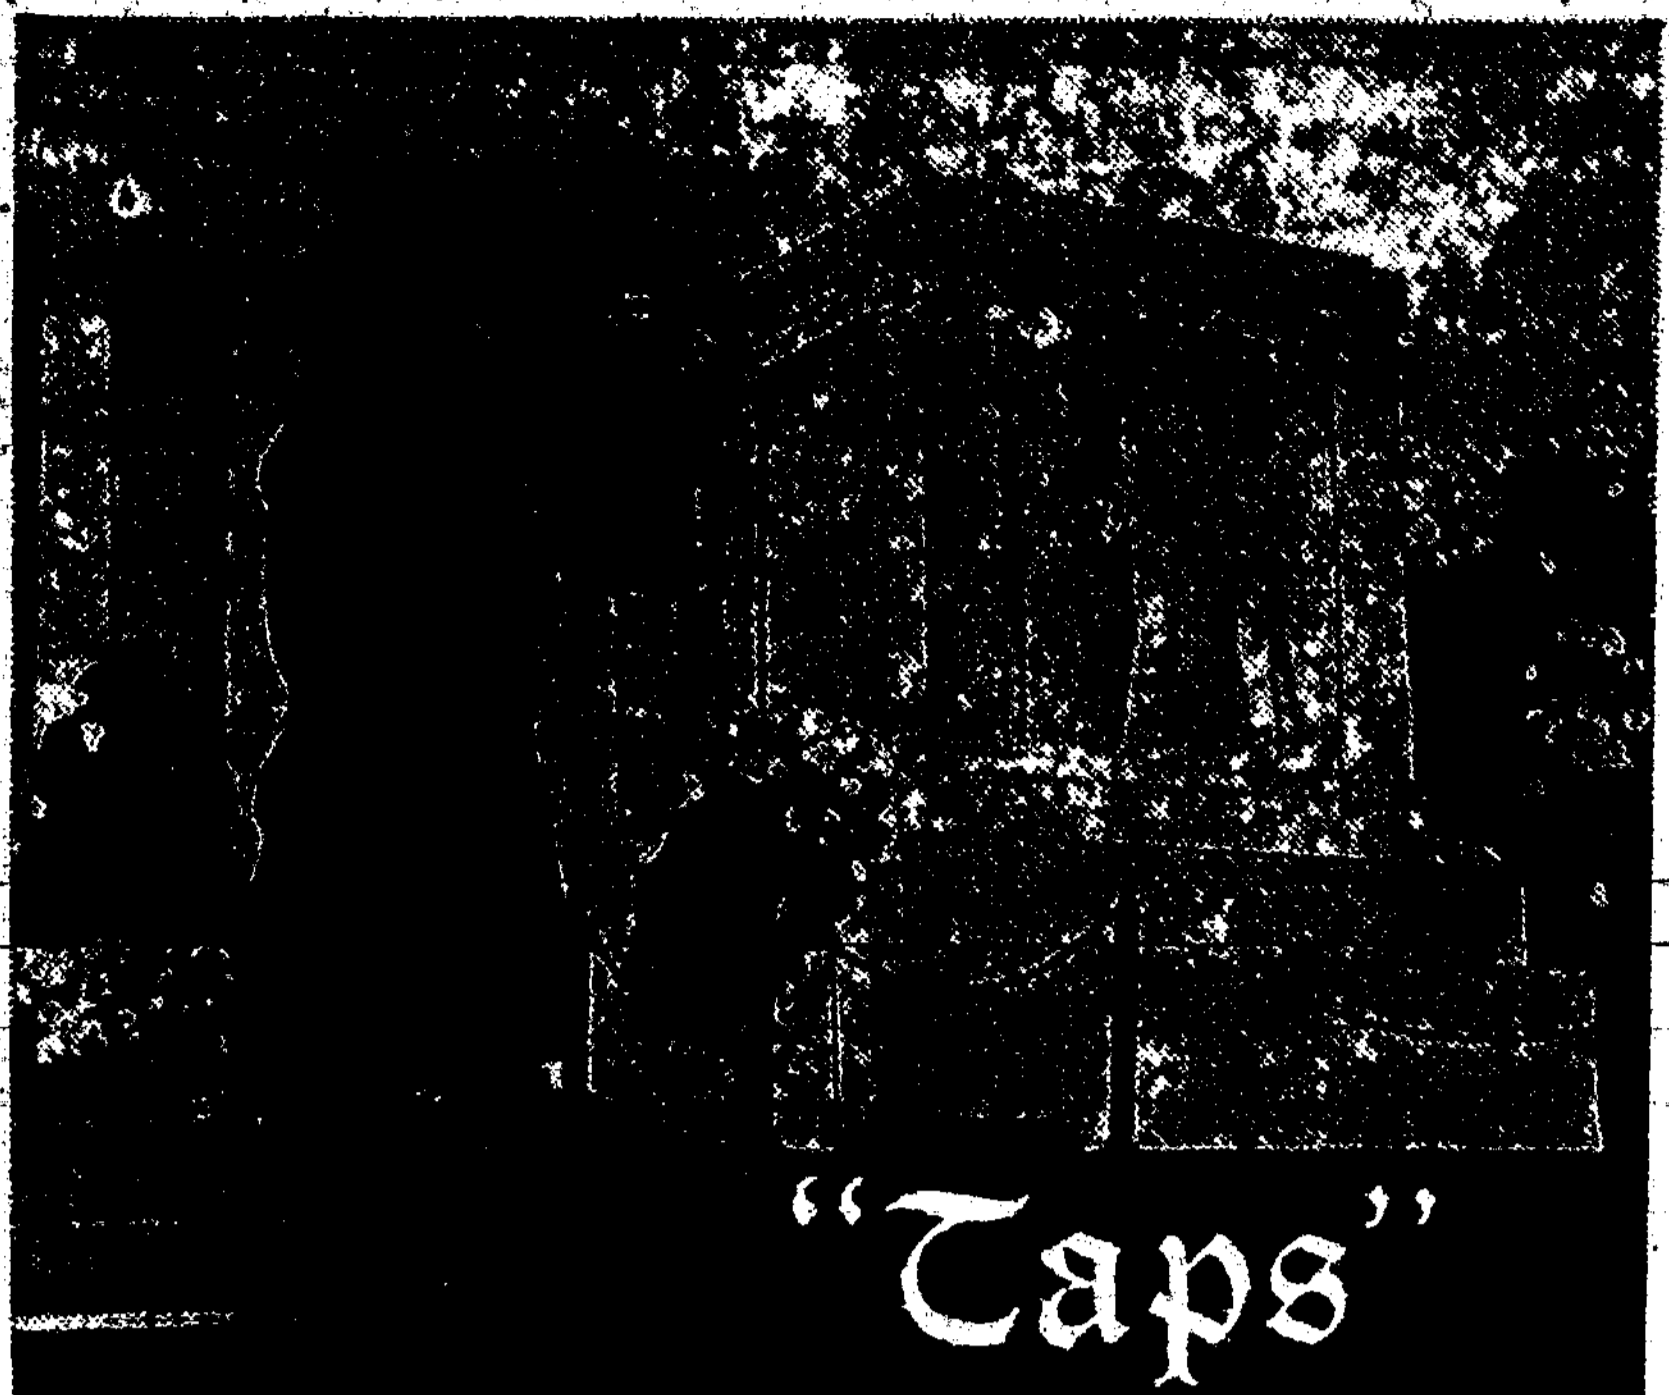

1. Maintaining and increasing the amount of movement of joints and preventing them from becoming stiff or fixed by massage.
2. Improving the circulation around the joint by some form of heat—cabinet baths, hot towels, various forms of electric heat.
3. Improving the general circulation of the body and improving the skin action by stimulant baths.
4. Correcting any deformity and giving support, if necessary, by mechanical means—belts, braces, splints.
5. Improving the general health by a suitable diet and by encouraging as much exercise as is possible.

The most important forms of physical treatment of rheumatism then are heat in some form, massage and exercise.

Dr. R. Kovacs, New York, in Medical Journal and Record, states that physical measures are an invaluable aid in the constitutional treatment of chronic arthritis (rheumatism) and are the mainstay of treatment for relief of pain and stiffness. There is rarely a patient in whom properly selected and applied measures would not bring some immediate relief enabling him to carry on such easier.

THE NATION BOWS IN TRIBUTE

With heads bowed, and minds at rest, we pause once more to pay our brief tribute to the soldier dead of this great nation. They were ready and willing when their homes needed protection, when the land that was theirs was in need. They have given their all that we today might be free; to them we owe a gratitude greater than we can show. "Greater love hath no man than this—" Let us accord them due honor.

Poem Stilled Strife

By the flow of the inland river,
Whence the fleets of iron have red,
Where the blades of the green grass quiver,
Asleep are the ranks of the dead;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the one, the Blue,
Under the other, the Gray.

These in the rebings of glory,
Those in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle-blood gory
In the dusk of eternity meet;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the laurel, the Blue,
Under the willow, the Gray.

No more shall the war-cry sever,
Or the winding rivers be red;
They banish their anger forever
When they leave the graves of our dead;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Love and tears for the Blue,
Tears and love for the Gray.

THE first spring following the close of the Civil war found a group of southern women decorating the graves of the soldier dead. They placed their floral tributes on all the graves regardless of the color of the uniform the buried men wore. That these mothers, sisters and widows could remember the northern soldiers with the same tribute of love that they remembered their own dead brought about a feeling of tolerance all over the country. This little ceremony inspired the poet, Francis Miles Finch, to write his poem, "The Blue and the Gray."

Later it was set to music, and the singing and reading of it did more to re-establish harmony than any of the well thought out plans of reconciliation of the diplomats. The second spring after the war, the northern women decorated the graves of the southern men as well as the graves of their own dead.

In 1868 General Logan commanded all the soldiers' graves to be decorated. The same year New York declared Memorial day a legal holiday and state after state followed its example. So one day toward the latter part of May the dead are honored and a just tribute is paid to memories.

Since this day has been largely responsible for establishing harmony between the North and South it is also due to its results that battles from the South and maids from the North now gather in the same social cliques.

PRIZE BUST OF LEE

Among the thin ranks of the G. A. R. veterans there may yet be a man to whom a portrait bust of Gen. Robert E. Lee, carved in fine old American walnut, will be a stirring memory of the days of '64.

For this bust was the trophy of a Union Infantryman, taken by him from a captured Confederate gunboat. But little is known of the bust's history: a battered gunboat, raked and shattered by gunfire, drifted helplessly upon a sand bar off Natchez during one of those historic engagements on the broad bosom of the Mississippi. Once aground her crew put up a brief but fierce resistance to the Federal forces, but the odds were against them and before long the Union men were aboard the little vessel.

There one man found this bust—half buried, but unharmed—a tribute to the hardness of the good American walnut from which it had been carved. Who had been its carver no one knows.

Displaying the Flag

WHEN the flag is displayed on Memorial day, it is hoisted to full staff, then lowered to half staff and left in this position until noon. It is then hoisted back to full staff and kept there until sunset. The hour which should be regarded as noon is the time in use, whether standard or daylight saving.

OUR PATRIOTIC MUSIC

WILLIAM BILLINGS is credited with being the author of the first American patriotic song, one that became popular with Colonial troops in the Revolutionary war, although there was no specific title for it. "Another early one was "The Liberty Song," published in 1768, calling on the people to unite for liberty. The first American-made patriotic sea song was "The Yankee Man-of-War," written about 1778, to commemorate the exploits of Capt. John Paul Jones. "Yankee Doodle," known as an American patriotic ballad, was an English song at the beginning of the Revolution and an American song at its close. It was ordered played by General Lafayette at the surrender of the British forces at Yorktown. Joseph Hopkinson wrote the words of "Hail Columbia," which were adapted to the air of the "President's March," the composer of which is not definitely known. "The Star-Spangled Banner" was written by Francis Scott Key after witnessing the bombardment of Ft. M'Henry in 1814. The air is from a song by the English composer, John Stafford Smith, entitled "Ode to Anacreon." The words and music of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," equally well known as "The Red, White and Blue," were written by Thomas a Becket, an English actor playing at the Chestnut Street theater in Philadelphia in 1843. It is used in England with suitable alteration of the text, as an army and navy song. Samuel Francis Smith, a Baptist clergyman and poet, of Boston, in 1843 wrote the words of "America," which were sung to the air of the English "God Save the King." "John Brown's Body," composed by William Steffe, was sung by Sherman's troops on their march to the sea. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," written by Julia Ward Howe after visiting the Army of the Potomac in December, 1861, is sung to the same tune. "The Battle Cry of Freedom" was written by George F. Root to aid President Lincoln's second call for troops during the Civil war. "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," by the same author, became known during the war as "the song of hope." Henry Clay Work's song, "Marching Through Georgia," is regarded as commemorating one of the greatest military feats of the conflict. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" was written by Patrick S. Gilmore, under the pen name of "Louis Lambert."

Ever Faithful

There's a study in devotion here, as this loyal veteran snaps on his drum in preparation for what may be his last march. Even as he answered the bugle when his country called, so now he will not fall when comes the time to pay homage and respect to his fallen comrades. He'll march today with the last remnants of what was once a great army, faithful in peace as he was in war. May his spirit never perish from the hearts of men.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Somebody has said that it is not so remarkable that Columbus discovered America as it would have been if he hadn't discovered it. But, though Columbus never dreamed that he had discovered America, or even that there was an America to discover, the credit for his exploit can never be taken away from him.

Today looking out of a window on the coast of Maine I can see dozens of channel buoys without which steamships would find it as difficult to find their way into the harbor as it was for the Genoese explorer to discover San Salvador.

Some of these marks are light-houses, some of them are red or black spars, some of them are great iron buoys which blow a warning whistle with every lift and fall of the sea.

To maintain this system of warnings, which is found at the entrance of every port on both coasts of America, required not only a great deal of money, but an almost incredible amount of courage on the part of the lighthouse builders, and the men whose business it is to see that the buoys are always in their place, ready to give their warnings.

Neither storm nor cold can turn from their watchful task.

Let a single buoy go astray, or a single lighthouse fail to "throw its beam across the wave," and every ship entering or leaving port may be in danger.

To build up this almost perfect system has required many years and a great deal of risk.

But were the marks not carefully watched and tended, reaching a port either by night or by day would be a perilous business.

There was once a master mariner who when asked how he could know every rock in the entrance to a harbor said:

"I don't. But I know where the deep water is."

In our own little voyages to and fro on our way, we are just as well supplied with channel marks as are the ships that move in and out of the ports along the seaboard.

If we heed these marks we pass in safety. If we are even just a little careless disaster is sure to follow. Make it your business to "know where the deep water is," and you will have no trouble.

Disregard the warning that they carry as they rock on the waves, and not even a little port-to-port journey will be safe.

Many rocks and shoals beset every journey from the cradle to the grave. But ours is an old race, and it has accumulated much knowledge acquired from those who have gone before.

Make use of that knowledge if you want to go safely through existence.

"Take chances," and hunt out what you fancy may be short cuts, and you need not be surprised if you pile up your little bark on the rocks, or sink her before you reach the port which is the goal of your ambition.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads

A Square Deal

FAIR play and the square deal are modern watch-words. We all like the sound of them, and we are glad they have come to be common in the nation's vocabulary and the nation's thought. Now the next thing is to translate them into the little everyday acts of private individuals. They are just as good for our relations with our employees as for our relations with nations; they are no more necessary for the dealings with great trusts than for dealings with little distrusts by which we fall to give our neighbor his rightful dues.

Bon Cheer! Beautiful day. Aint it? (Hi school graduates, kindly correct)

This Scribe is as the Sundial, recording only the Sunny Hours. —Why not, we inquire. Life is short at the best; so if this Column can be the means of cheering one up — all well and good.

With type stick in hand, and copy composed without a typewriter while sitting up at the typewriter, the writer says "What are Writ are Writ."

Discussing the possibilities of the Ancient Lava flow, a Friend remarked, "I'd think the lava rock would be suitable material with which to build a residence. I notice different structures made of the same; the latest is the lava rock building opposite the huge windmill at the City Park. A rock house is easily constructed; why not be up-to-date and live in a cottage made of pre-historic lava rock, if you are contemplating building?"

An item by request: (my own.) See how fast you can say this— "She sells sea shells on the sea shore; the shells she sells are sea shells I'm sure — for if she sells sea shells on the sea shore, the shells she sells must be sea shore shells."

To those who have been at school: "Now we put our books away. Study time is over; Gaily tripping, homeward skipping, Soon we'll be at play."

Judge Knott sings this song to his wife and recommends it to all married men — "Oh, the gladness of her gladness when she's glad; oh, the sadness of her sadness when she's sad; but the gladness of her gladness and the sadness of her sadness doesn't equal the madness of her madness when she's mad." Note— try this on your piano when in the midst of an argument between the Frau and yourself.

A new radio station is heard, the Pan-American from Juarez, Mexico. They are found underneath K O B. Announcements in Spanish only. We're hearing them at 1:30 in the afternoon.

May the Lord forgive us for what we're about to relate— In a recent radio address, Pres. Roosevelt gave the formula for meeting an emergency: "Do something; if it works, do some more; if not, do something else." Ho, hum!

The dictionary gives the following definition: Commencement — "The day when degrees are conferred by colleges and universities." The high school graduates, in their teens, think they have the world by the tail. —How I fondly remember my Commencement from the U. of H. K. (University of Hard Knocks) in '18. Those were the happy days!

"Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise." —The Court had a difficult task in selecting jurors to serve on the Hollis Martin re-trial. Someone suggested a bunch of sheep-herders to act as jurymen — but even they knew about the case, directly or indirectly. A Citizen remarked (quote) "Any intelligent man in Lincoln County who said he didn't know a thing about the tripple-murder, was a Lamb Dear; damn liar, in plain English."

You've heard this before— "My brother doesn't smoke, chase around with women, chew, drink and use profanity." —He's one year old. —Adios, Amigos.
