Diamond Dust

In one of the best games of the season at Fort Stanton last Sunday afternoon, the Carrizozo Red-Top Birds were defeated by the Fort Stanton Soil Conservationists by the close margin of 6 to 3. Those who saw the tussle, report that it was a game a fellow would regret missing. But such is life, brothers, and we were just ordained to miss some of the best things in this wide world.

Right back at you! You missed it, too! We had a good, clean, big slugfest at the local diamond between the offsprings of the Carrizozo Cobras and the Fathers of Time of the arid plains of Guadalupe County (Vaughn). This was an instance where whiskers and gray hairs had it all over youth from every angle, nook and corner. Those "old devils" from way out yonder set an example to our boys and made them wake up to the realization that they had forgotten more baseball than they were prone to learn in their lifetime. Three or four members of the team were interviewed by the middle-aged Diamond Dust and all being good-natured and accommodating, readily admitted that they had preceded Coronado to this country on camel-back. Yep, those young-uns have treaded the paths and ways of life, but they were as fleet of foot as a scared Indian and as agile as Sheriff McCament's pet rattlesnake, Old Dan by name. The game was very loosely played and the score mounted into the 'teens,' resulting at 14 to 12 in favor of Vaughn.

A collector of revenue stretched his hand out to the reporter and upon being duly and pleasantly informed that it was no fun in trying to boost an amusement of any kind, he propounded the following impertinent question, "Where is your bodyguard?" From past and recent experiences, the rep' knew what this meant and before the other guy had a chance to become hostile, he produced a white document from his hip-pocket and unfolded it right under his mug. An insurance policy against bodily harm and also against the suppression of our free speech and freedom of the press. We rooted unmolested and everybody was happy.

JUST WHAT DOES HE MEAN?

J. T. Davidson

The many friends will be grieved to hear of the passing of J. T. Davidson, pioneer cattleman of Corona, who died at his home on Aug. 20. Mr. Davidson was born Nov. 8, 1851, in Lee county, Virginia, and went to Texas at the age of 17 and was engaged in buffalo hide hunting for some time. He was foreman of the X O ranch in King county and was later foreman of the R B ranch in the Indian territory. He moved back to King county, where he was foreman of the old 8 ranch, now known as the 6868 ranch. He moved with his family to Corona in 1904, where he has been engaged in the cattle business with his sons until his death. He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, Mrs. Hattie Davidson, two sons, Jack of Corona and Allan of Albuquerque, 2 grandchildren, Jackie and Sue, two sisters and five brothers besides a host of friends and other relatives. Uncle Jim, as he was affectionately called, numbered his friends by his acquaintances and his kindly smile and influence will be missed by everyone.

Tho' you have gone from this life of ours, Dear Father
In our loving hearts you still dwell day by day.

But the aching loneliness you left here
Is intense beyond power of words to say.

The sustaining thought to our grieving hearts
Is that if we play life's game the right way,
We shall earn the right to meet you again
In God's land of unending day.

Republicans over the County are requested to call and make themselves at home. Friendly Democrats are also welcome. —Drop in, boys.

Mrs. Porfria Ostie and daughters are here this week from Tucuman, Sabio Vidaurri and Amado Jauregui families.

New Equipment and Sound at the Lyric

The Lyric Theatre installed its new equipment last week and with the excellent sound and new silver screen curtain, makes the service as good as any in the state.

The new equipment is of the latest out and under a test by an expert in that line, is pronounced perfect. If there appears the least weakness in any spot in a picture, it will be due to a fault in the film and not of the machines. There are two new machines and the instantaneous switch from one to the other, causes the pictures to move on as perfectly as seeing a stage play or reading a story.

Mr. Walker is running some of the best pictures obtainable and with the new machine, good sound, best of pictures and courteous treatment to patrons of the resort, makes the Lyric an ideal place to spend an evening. Try it and be convinced.

Progress in Rural Electrification

The people of Corona will within the next few days, receive their long-awaited electric current service, 24 hours a day, from the just completed Corona Light & Power Plant, which is owned and operated by the New Mexico Mechanical Equipment Co., Carrizozo, of which our old friend, Gunther C. Kroggel, is manager and owner.

The plant is housed in a new and up-to-date building at the north end of town on the main highway, which also houses an office and a very nice salesroom exhibiting all electrical appliances. For the plant equipment which includes two 125 H. P. engines, one 50,000 watts generator and the entire distribution system, only the best products of the most reliable manufacturers have been used which will insure good and dependable service.

Mr. Kroggel has worked out a schedule of rates for all subscribers, that will be considerable lower than the rates of many other towns of same and even of larger size.

Trinidad Martinez returned Wednesday from Tularosa, where she spent several weeks visiting her grandparents and other relatives.

Titworth Company's Annual Picnic

Last Sunday up on the Bonito near the Mon Jean school, the Titworth Company of Capitan gave their annual picnic, which is an annual custom of that enterprising business industry. A sumptuous dinner was served on the grounds. Games of various kinds were played which were enjoyed by old and young alike. The festivities ended with a "Pinata" game. This is played by hanging a handsomely decorated olla filled with goodies of all kinds for the children. Guests were provided with long sticks and blindfolded. Then they strike at the olla and the one who cracks it, causes the good things to spill out and the kids grapple for the goodies. Edward Province cracked the Pinata.

Out-of-town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Beall and children, Alamogordo; Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Galt, daughter Jean, Mrs. Galt's mother and Mrs. Pond, Maybill; Mrs. Gibbany and daughter Arlene; Roswell; Mrs. Otto Skinner and daughter Shirley, Albuquerque.

Mrs. Adelin Kudner, who has been touring in China and Japan arrived at San Francisco yesterday and will be here about Sept. 15.

STRANGER

A. L. B

After testifying in court in a suit for divorce, that her husband, George Blair, Los Angeles, insisted on a dog weighing about 50 pounds, sleeping between them, Mrs. Blair fainted. She said George called it honey, sugar lump and other pet names, while he had nothing but abusive names for her. One day she phoned him to bring home certain things to eat, whereupon he told her to open a can of dog meat—that what was good for the dogs would be good enough for her. Moral: Don't tread the same path.

When Walter Trundy, Stockton, Maine, awakened on the morning of Aug. 16, he heard a loud chorus of "c-o-u-s-i-n," and hurray-ing to investigate, he found his residence completely plastered with millions of mosquitos. The windows, doors, porches and sides of the house were all a thick cluster of the little pests. In an hour after sunrise, the "cousins" departed and allowed the Trundy family to come out.

Heroes are not always found in armor. Many can be located in the struggling mass of humanity where they have played the game of life and lost without a murmur. But in the following strange case, we find that hearts and flowers, which came too late for human comfort, had its part after all. London's poor match seller "Old Kate," once the beautiful and accomplished American actress and screen star, who electrified royal audiences and made madmen out of male admirers, died in a hovel in the slums of London. During her stage and screen career, Katherine Lucille Foote of Lansing, Michigan, was married three times and squandered three magnificent fortunes. At the age of 20, she was at the height of her ambition. She left for Paris and created a sensation in "The Girl from Omaha." Next, she went to London, where she won the admiration of all select theatre-goers in "Lights of London." With her fabulous wealth, she gambled in stocks, finally going to Monte Carlo, where her recklessness left her with but $6,000 which in the revelry that attended the game, she placed the entire amount on the table and lost. Winners staked her to the amount of $800 and her fare to London. Arriving there she spent all in one evening at the high-priced resorts and gaming tables. The next morning, beautiful Lucille Foote, died in her place. "Old Kate" sat in an old delapidated chair at the side door of the Gaiety Theatre, where she once made a wonderful hit. She sold matches for 15 years in poverty and rags. The other day she passed on. Lucille Foote, wealthy sweetheart of the stage and screen, lived but it took her ghost. "Old Kate," 16 years to die.

FAMOUS HEADLINE HUNTER FLOYD GIBBONS ADVENTURERS CLUB Everybody CLUB "Hornets and Bullets" By FLOYD GIBBONS

CROWD over there, boys and girls, and make room for a new Distinguished Adventurer in this club of ours. He is Ralph Gêwehr of South Orange, N. J.

I've got to admit, right at the start, that Ralph's yarn is a stinger. It happened to him in August, 1934, up in the Adirondacks, when Ralph and his pal, Billy, started out with a couple of .22 calibre rifles to hunt eagles.

Well, sir, that's a good enough start for any adventure. An eagle is a pretty tough proposition, and a .22 calibre rifle is a pretty small piece of hardware to try to handle one with. If they'd found any eagles on that little hunting trip of theirs, they'd have had plenty of adventure. And I guess if they hadn't run across anything mere, dangerous than a cottontail rabbit they'd have had an adventure, too.

Those lads were slated for trouble. Their numbers were up—especially Ralph's. Anything they did that day would have been wrong, and when Billy took a pot-shot at the only game in sight, he started something worse than a whole flock of eagles and a couple of buzzards thrown in for good measure.

Boys Find Hornet's Nest Is Dangerous Target.

With their rifles in their arms, Ralph and Billy headed up the trail on foot. They trudged up to the top of Blue Ledge, a distance of ten miles from the summer camp of Ralph's folks at North river. The boys planned to spend the night in the mountains, like real hunters, and look for adventure. They were too tired to go after eagles by the time they arrived, but hornets were another thing.

Now a hornet is pretty far from an eagle, but a hornet's nest makes a nice target—if you don't care what you shoot at—and Billy didn't care. He let fly at that hornet's nest and hit it smack in the center and then adventure began in earnest. Ralph says these hornets came out of that nest like a cloud of buzzing smoke. He thinks all the hornets in the world must have been in it from the way they went for him. He took one look at the flying circus and then hit the trail as fast as he could go. But it wasn't fast enough. They dove at him in mass formation and kept right on his tail.

He got a glimpse of Billy tearing through the woods with a million or so of the enemy on his shoulders and the next second tripped and fell.

Bang! Went a Shot Right in Ralph's Ear.

Bang! went a shot right in his ear. He thought it was Billy's rifle for a moment because his had fallen out of his hand. Then he felt a stinging sensation in his side. That must have been a big hornet, he thought, from the way it felt.

Ralph Is Shot by His Own Rifle.

The hornets were stinging him everywhere, but none of them hurt as much as the one in his side. He put his hand on the spot and drew it away covered with blood! Ralph was shot! His own rifle had exploded on hitting the ground and the bullet must be in his body!

Hornets were forgotten in the face of this discovery. The situation was deadly serious. Here was a boy shot in the side and he was ten miles from civilization. Besides, both boys were already tired from their long walk. And, to make matters worse, the only doctor was eight miles more beyond Ralph's cabin. They could make that last eight miles in his mother's car, but how would Ralph ever survive the walk?

Ralph says their Boy Scout training came immediately to mind. The thing to do in case of a sudden shock, they recalled, was to apply heat, externally, internally and eternally. So Billy built a fire, heated some water and made coffee. Ralph drank the coffee, which heated him internally. Then Billy wrapped him in the blankets for the external heating. The boys washed the wound with hot water, bound it up as well as they could with their handkerchiefs, and started on the long trek back home.

Wounded Lad Makes Heroic 10-Mile Trek.

Did you ever try to walk ten miles with a bullet in your side? Ralph advises you not to. In addition to the mental torture of not knowing how badly he was wounded, Ralph suffered intensely from the heat. It was mid-August and hot enough without the blankets and the coffee, and he had to trudge along bundled up like an Indian papoose.

That walk, Ralph says, was a nightmare. He figures he must have lost at least ten pounds and laid the foundations for a headful of gray hair. But he kept on going, even if he did think that each step would be his last. Finally they got back to the camp where Ralph's dad had a car.

It was late at night when the boys finally staggered into the doctor's office after a ride that shook the daylight out of Ralph. The doctor looked at the wound and ordered him to the hospital. Then began another ride that Ralph will remember all his life. It was forty miles, but Billy drove it almost as fast as those hornets could fly.

State Troopers Ask the Boys Searching Questions.

At the hospital another surprise was in store for them. State Troopers—called by the doctor, as they always do in cases of gunshot wounds—met the boys and questioned them. Ralph says they seemed to think that he and Billy had been shooting at each other or holding somebody up. But they cleared themselves of that suspicion and Ralph went on the operating table.

An operation is an adventure in itself, but Ralph's was one with a happy ending. The bullet—which, fortunately, was not a high powered one—had entered his side, and, striking a rib, had glanced off and missed the vital organs. The doctors, after an X-ray had been taken, poked the slug out of his shoulder and when Ralph woke up there was his mother, more scared than he was. Billy had found her and told her "Ralph had been shot."

Ralph was out of the hospital in a few days and the wound healed up in a few weeks, but, he says, he hasn't been eagle hunting since.

Darwin's Early Life Darwin's father was a physician and wished him to adopt that profession. At the age of 18 he entered the University of Edinburgh, but disliked medicine, and later entered Christ's college, Cambridge, to prepare for the ministry. There he became acquainted with Henslow, the professor of botany, who did much to shape his career. The proficiency that Darwin displayed in every department of natural science won him such distinction that he at last obtained his father's consent that he should not enter the church.

Comets Return to Sun Most comets return to the sun after a period of years. Biela's comet, on its return in 1846, split into two parts, and on its next visit came back as two—two comets were traveling in almost the same orbit formerly occupied by one and on the same time schedule. There are several records of such multiple comets. The converse of this phenomenon is even more common. They break up. What causes this is unknown. Disintegration probably is caused by the same forces that cause them to split.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for August 23

THE GOSPEL FOR ALL MEN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 11:1-17; Romans 1:16-17. GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John 3:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Learns a Lesson. JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Makes a Great Discovery. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—First Steps in World Brotherhood. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Universal Brotherhood in Christ.

Christianity early found its progress impeded by a difference of opinion. Such a difference when met in a Christian spirit will not be a stone of offense, but when properly, and tactfully settled may be a stepping stone to progress.

Jewish Christians at Jerusalem were disturbed by the report that Peter had received the gentile Cornelius as a Christian brother without requiring him to fulfill the Jewish law of circumcision.

Peter defended his action not by asserting his position or appealing to his apostolic authority, but by relating what God had done. Henry Drummond once said, "The best argument for Christianity is a Christian."

God had spoken to him. When we meet a man who is in touch with God, we should at once give heed. He may be, and perhaps should be, the minister or a Christian leader, but he may be and frequently is some humble, unknown servant of God.

But if God has spoken to him we will do well to listen. Peter had learned the great lesson that what God had cleansed man should receive as clean.

II. He Had Seen God Work (vv. 11-15). The Holy Spirit had fallen on the gentiles and they actually had been saved. Is it not singular that in the early church they could hardly believe that a gentile could be saved?

Now we are astonished if a Jew is saved! Why will we in our unbelief limit the Holy One of Israel?

The all-powerful gospel of the grace of God is still saving men and women, Jews and gentiles, from their sins. Have you seen it happen? It is a great inspiration to faith and service. God is ready so to encourage us—he is the same today as he was when he sent Peter to Cornelius. Are we willing to run his errands, proclaim his message?

III. He Had Received a Fresh Insight Into God's Word (v. 16). The best way to learn the meaning of God's Word is to use it, live it, obey it. "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God" (John 7:17).

Peter had learned anew that God's Word meant just what it said. We who are his servants should believe his Word and act on it in faith.

IV. He Knew Better Than to Withstand God (v. 17). When God has not raised any barriers of race, creed, color, class, or social position, it is not for his followers, and assuredly not for his servants, to build "fences" which he would not authorize or countenance.

One of the needs of our day is that those doing God's work should not withstand him—and his will. He who is the same yesterday, today, and forever is ready to work as powerfully today as he did in the days of Finney and Moody, and in the days of Abraham, Moses, Daniel, and of Peter. Let us give him liberty to work in and through us, not as we may wish, but as he desires. Who are we that we should withstand God?

V. In Conclusion (Romans 1:16-17). This portion presents a magnificent declaration from Peter's co-worker, Paul, the apostle to the gentiles, that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation for everyone that believes, Jew or Greek. Regardless of race or condition, we are all unrighteous, and there is but one way of salvation—through faith in Jesus Christ. It is our responsibility and privilege to make this message known to all men everywhere. Your neighbor and mine, whether in the next house or on the other side of the world, is our opportunity. Not one is unclean or untouchable, although he may be stained with the dark pollution of sin. God is ready and willing to save. Let us tell men the good news!

Kindness I shall pass through this world but once; any good thing, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any human creature, let me do it now; let me not defer it, or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.—S. Graillet.

Pack Up Your Troubles I make the most of my enjoyments. As for my troubles, I pack them in a little compass as I can for myself, and never let them annoy others.—Robert Southey.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Custard pies should first be started to bake in a hot oven to set the crust, then the heat of the oven should be quickly reduced so that the custard may cook slowly.

When you have potatoes left over from a meal do not peel, as a cold potato keeps better with the jacket on. If peeled, it dries on the outside and must be trimmed before using, and that is wasteful. Also, an economical way to prepare mashed potatoes is boil them in their jackets, peel and then mash.

If the chicken is well rubbed inside and out with a cut lemon before being cooked it will make the meat white, juicy and tender.

Left-over cauliflower can be dipped in cracker crumbs and egg and fried in deep fat and served for luncheon or supper.

When blankets are washed at home do not wring them dry. Instead hang them outdoors on the clothesline to dry.

Turner's Criticism

Turner, the famous English painter, once ridiculed his own paintings as a salad was offered him at a dinner party, in this wise: "Nice cool green that lettuce, isn't it? And the beetroot pretty red — yet not quite strong enough, and the mixture, delicate tint of yellow that. Add some mustard and then you have one of my paintings."

Keeping Up With Science

Brain Is Affected by Amount of Body Fluid

ATLANTIC CITY.—"Tides" in the brain make a headache—the "morning after" kind or otherwise, Dr. Temple Fay, professor of neurology at Temple University Medical School, Philadelphia, told members of the American Neurological association meeting here.

Headaches, it appears, may be classified relatively as wet ones (high tide) and dry ones (low tide). The headache of the "morning after" is a wet one, though not all wet ones are due to alcoholic indulgence. General over-indulgence in food and fluids brings on this kind.

Blood Vessels Stretch. What makes a headache, reduced to simplest terms, is the amount of fluid in and around the brain. Too much or too little of this fluid results in stretching the large blood vessels that supply the brain. The stretching is what hurts. Dr. Fay determined this by stretching the nerves of these blood vessels in the brains of patients undergoing brain operations.

The wet headache—too much fluid in the brain—is most common in the overweight, hydrated person who consumes large quantities of food and fluid and does not eliminate enough fluid. This person should, in general, reduce the amount of liquid consumed to not more than one quart a day.

More Fluid Intake.

The headache noted in the common type of underweight, overactive, nervous individual arises when fluid from the body is too rapidly lost from the skin or kidneys and cannot be properly retained in the brain cavity. This type of person, with the advice of his physician, should increase his fluid consumption to three or more quarts per day along with extra feedings. These directions, Dr. Fay pointed out, apply to the true variety of headache and should not be followed until medical examination has ruled out other conditions which may refer pain to the head.

The beneficial use of certain drugs for headaches was ascribed to their effect in regulating the fluid and blood volume relationship in the brain.

The large blood vessels which give a headache when stretched are the only structures in the brain that carry pain fibers. Besides stretching because of too much or too little fluid, irritation of these vessels at other places on their path to and from the brain gives rise to pain-felt in the head as a headache.

Acoustics Called Foundation for Future Esperanto

LOS ANGELES.—Those who would create a universal language should take account of the new science of acoustics. Such is the suggestion of Dr. Vern O. Knudsen, acoustic expert of the University of California here.

Apparently little or no attention has been paid to the question whether the words of Esperanto or other artificial languages are readily understandable in spoken form. In view of the vast amount of time wasted in retarded telephone calls and acoustic confusion in poor auditoria, the creator of a language should avoid the use of syllables frequently misunderstood. Incidentally, English is probably not the best language in this respect. For example, the terminal consonant group "ng" so common in English, is perhaps the worst offender in the alphabet.

In the Los Angeles auditorium tests, words ending in ng were misunderstood more than half the time. In general, words ending in consonants are more likely to be missed than those ending in vowels. This fact often causes trouble for persons attempting to dictate strange material over the telephone.

Believe Spanish Best

Dr. Knudsen's pioneer tests have been conducted so far only in English. It is already suspected that Spanish will prove superior, with its large number of words ending in vowels—Valencia, Santa Barbara, poco tiempo, etc. The Chinese language may prove to be still better. To be sure, western people are often highly amused to hear a Chinese express meaning by sounding a vowel in two successive pitch tones. This may, however, prove to be the most scientific way of making one's self understood under difficulties.

Three-Lane Roads Said to Increase Accident Hazard

Extra Lane Raises Car Capacity 100 Per Cent

THREE-LANE highways to which some communities "point with pride" as their contribution to increasing traffic safety are receiving little commendation from the civil engineering profession which built them.

(1) Two motor cars collide in the center lane. Who has the right of way?

(2) Adding another lane to a two-lane highway increases the width of the road about 50 per cent. But the motor car capacity of the roadway increases 100 per cent by the addition of the third lane!

(3) There is general agreement that traffic increases on a three-lane highway makes the hazards increase in a greater ratio than is the case for a two-lane or a four-lane highway.

These three objections are pointed out by Lloyd F. Rader, assistant professor of civil engineering, Polytechnic institute, Brooklyn, in an issue of Civil Engineering.

Four Lanes Preferable.

"From the standpoint of safety," Professor Rader states, "it would appear advisable to construct four-lane roadways where two lanes are inadequate. The present tendency toward high speeds further indicates the desirability of increasing the width of lanes to 11 or even 12 feet.

Increase in speed also makes it important that all roadways have wide, flat, well-compacted shoulders to provide space for avoiding collision, changing tires, making repairs, or parking."

Fool-Proof Construction.

No matter how many signs and signals may be installed on highways, Professor Rader adds, they cannot take the place of safety built into the road by proper construction. Such "smart roads for dumb drivers," as they sometimes have been called, are conceded one of the most effective ways of increasing highway motor vehicle safety.

The trouble in solving the rural safety problem by building really safe highways is financial. Approved four-lane roads with a dividing area down the center to separate the two streams of traffic cost money; and plenty of it. Depending on the cost of land and labor, the price per mile of such super-highways varies between $100,000 to $300,000.

Yellowstone Bison Given New Range in Hayden Valley

YELLOWSTONE PARK, WYO.—The American bison—buffalo to most people—which staged such a spectacular comeback in Yellowstone National park just when conservationists and the public generally thought it was about ready to join the dodo, now has a new home in the park.

The main herd, since its establishment in 1902, has kept in the vicinity of the Lamar river valley in the northeast section of the park. Now a small herd has been transplanted to Hayden valley, one of the ancestral ranges of the buffalo of the gay nineties. Hayden valley is in about the center of the park.

Grass Is Abundant. In all, 36 buffaloes have been moved to Hayden valley, including 16 bulls, 13 cows, and 7 of this year's calves. They made the journey by truck. It is expected that the transplanted buffaloes will stay in the vicinity of Hayden valley and Mary mountain, where grass is abundant, and that they will have no difficulty in wintering there, since it was a natural buffalo range at the close of the Nineteenth century.

The transplanting of this herd of buffalo serves three primary purposes, according to Joseph Joffe, assistant to the superintendent of Yellowstone National park. It will help alleviate conditions on the over-grazed Lamar river range, will by its success or failure indicate the wisdom of making similar experiments elsewhere in the park in the future, and, most important of all from the standpoint of the visiting public, probably will make it possible for motorists along the Lake-Canyon road to catch an occasional glimpse of a buffalo in his wild state.

Geologists' Life Span Is on the Increase

UNIVERSITY, ALA.—Geologists seem to be absorbing into themselves something of the qualities of the "everlasting hills" they spend their lives among. At any rate, a statistical study of Dr. Roland M. Harper of the Geological Survey of Alabama indicates that they are long-lived, and that their longevity has increased during the past century.

For a group on which he had data, the average age at death a century ago was not much over fifty years; now, geologists live into their mid-seventies.

STAR DUST

By VIRGINIA VALE

JOE E. BROWN has been having a grand time for himself lately. With his latest picture, "Earthworm Tractor," welcomed by the public as one of the funniest he's ever made, he started off on a vacation.

Being a rabid baseball fan, he took in a few games when he reached the East enroute to Europe. In New York he went to a double-header between the Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, and presented to that sensational new Yankee outfielder, Joe DiMaggio, the award for being the most valuable player in the Coast league in 1935.

William Powell has sold his ornate home with the gold door knobs and is living in simpler quarters. Those rumors of a romance between him and Jean Harlow still persist—but apparently everybody who's unattached wants to marry him nowadays, and that includes girls who've never even seen him, except on the screen. Incidentally, Powell is regarded by actors everywhere as one of the most skillful and talented members of the profession—a tribute which is justly deserved.

Apparently nobody's happy any more until they've seen Hollywood. Young John Jacob Astor and his wife are the latest recruits of note; they are on their way to the film metropolis in a private car.

Bob Burns (don't tell me you haven't heard him and his bazooka on the Bing Crosby broadcasts!) is having honors heaped upon him. He worked in "Rhythm on the Range" with Bing, so the picture's premiere was staged in Little Rock, Ark., because Bob hails from the Ozarks.

Once upon a time The Revelers were the most popular quartette on the air. From time to time one of the sweet singers would drop out and make a name for himself all alone—Jimmy Melton was one who did it, Frank Luther was another—but somebody else would step in and the result would still be swell. You don't hear so much about them as you used to, but they're still on the air, at 8:35 afternoons—and they're still one of the best.

Cowboys have for years been known as devoted fans when Western pictures are shown, a fact which puzzled one motion picture executive so much that he questioned some of them about it. He wanted to know whether they went because the pictures were so much like their own life.

"Oh, no, they ain't like our life at all," one of them explained. "We go because maybe we think that's the way other cowboys go on."

There'll be excitement on the air waves in September, when Major Bowes and his amateurs go into action at the same time as the "Showboat" broadcasts. Nobody's sure which program the great public will prefer—some say the listeners-in are getting tired of amateurs, and others claim that "Showboat" has been sailing too long.

"San Francisco" is a grand picture, and is making money everywhere it's shown, especially in San Francisco. Yet the Chamber of Commerce of that city is still trying to get Metro to take out the earth quake scenes! Very wisely, Metro is refusing—lots of people go to see the picture especially to see them. The picture has added to the popular Clark Gable's following and has demonstrated again that he has a great deal of versatility as an actor.

ODDS AND ENDS. Remember "Baby Peggy"? She's a big girl now, making a screen comeback under her whole name, Margaret Montgomery, and you'll see her in a small part in "Girls Dormitory" . . . Ginger Rogers had a birthday party recently, with tiny dancing figures representing herself and Fred Astaire on top of the cake . . . When "Sowing Time" is finished, Fred will go to England with his wife and son for a vacation, and Ginger hopes to take a vacation in Hawaii before starting "Mother Carey's Chickens" . . . It looks as if that $5,000,000 suit which Paramount has brought against Samuel Goldwyn for signing Gary Cooper may possibly be a publicity stunt . . . Surely Gary can sign with anybody he wants to when his present contract expires . . . The Tower of London was the scene of the previous of "Nine Days a Queen," an English picture based on the story of Lady Jane Grey.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

"I for one, am dedicated to the proposition that henceforth no American citizen shall ever again be put in a position where he has to sell his vote for bread"—Gov. Landon of Kansas.

The Republican State Convention

The State Republican Convention which closed yesterday was the best attended and most enthusiastic of any assemblage of its kind held in past years. The platform was made with due deliberation and wisdom and built by a committee chosen from the best material in the ranks. It took the national and state Democratic organizations to task for ruthless expenditures of the taxpayers' money; re-affirmed its allegiance to the Constitution and bitterly denounced the Democratic party for its unwonted attacks on the same; defended the decisions of the Supreme Court against the alphabetical departments of the administration which made laws in defiance of the constitution which that body annulled; condemned the niggardly treatment of disabled veterans; endorsed the revolving old age pension plan, which would bring relief to the aged right now. Landon and Knox, the national candidates were endorsed with wild cheering.

The candidates for the state offices were exceedingly well chosen. From Jaffa Miller for Governor down to the last in the list, the ticket is made of the best material in the party—the stage will now be cleared for one of the hardest fights the party has ever made against an organization that has been playing football with the stomachs of our working people.

The Outlook places its seal of approval on the combined action of the Convention, and pledges its same support for the future that it has in the past.

Your Billion Dollar Pay Roll

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Whether you happen to be an employer or an employe, you're now on the disbursing end of one of the longest pay rolls in history.

It carries hundreds of thousands of names. It has expanded more than 40 per cent during the past three years. Steadily it continues to expand—year by year, month by month.

In June of 1933, for example, its beneficiaries totaled over 266,000. By June of 1934, the count had swollen to 361,000. By 1935 they exceeded 717,000. On last June 30, the exact count was 844,000.

And on that date their pay checks added up to $129,487,167 for the month—which is at the rate of more than a billion and a half dollars per annum.

Who are these pay-rollers who collect such huge sums out of the taxes, direct or hidden, contributed by every American worker and consumer?

A recent report of the United States Civil Service Commission offers the answer. They are the civilian employes on the swiftly expanding Executive pay roll of the Federal government. The list doesn't cover the Army or Navy, the Legislative or the Judicial branches of government. And, of course, it doesn't include the bodies of jobholders in state and local employ.

Most of this army of Executive Department pay-rollers is centered in Washington—in new and costly edifices also built or rented at your expense.

What are we getting for all this expenditure—with its certain, though indirect, effect in boosting the cost of living? Principally a large bill, to be paid by our own and future generations, and a lot more bureaucratic interference with our work and our lives than we either want or need.

A reasonable number of public servants is a prime necessity of government. An unreasonable number means only useless activity and waste. And for how long you pay the bill...

At the rate of a billion and a half dollars a year!

Cleveland, Ohio.—To a man, the Republican party stands behind Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Frank Knox of Illinois, convinced that victory lies ahead in November, as a result of one of the most stirring and harmonious conventions in the party's history.

There was never a doubt as to the faith of the delegates that Landon and Knox can beat Roosevelt. Both were nominated unanimously, Landon by acclamation.

Landon's name was the only one presented to the convention. It was the first time such a thing had happened at a Republican convention since the nomination of Grant in 1868 and 1872. He and his running mate will be committed to a platform that makes the issue in the campaign that of the American form of government against government of a queer and unnatural kind under the Stars and Stripes.

Enthusiasm Rings Out. The platform, which contained as an integral part, a simple restatement of the Bill of Rights from the Constitution of the United States, also was unanimously adopted.

That was the kind of a convention it was. Decisive, Enthusiastic, Courageous, Certain.

And it was colorful. There was the inspired feistiness of the typical pioneers who crossed the plains to settle the typical prairie states in the telegram wherein Alf Landon laid his cards on the table for all to see BEFORE his nomination.

The youth and fire and uncompromising determination of the convention were characterized by the dogged, lifted chin of young, sorrel-topped John D. M. Hamilton, committeeman from Kansas, as he made Landon's nominating speech.

The convention's resolution of purpose, its undampened ardor for the traditions of American liberty against regimentation and bureaucratic dictatorship were part and parcel of the mighty oration which for 30 minutes acclaimed the arrival of Herbert Hoover.

"For Three Long Years." Proof that party enthusiasm was only whetted to a new high pitch by three years of Roosevelt was demonstrated in the stampede of the whole floor, under the leadership of a young and good-looking blonde woman who left the gallery to snatch a flag and march at the head of the parade which acclaimed the former President for an hour after his departure. He had told them that they were "a convention of Americans to determine the fate of those ideals for which this nation was founded." They showed him they were with him when he shouted for them to "stop retreat!"

Unconcealed contempt for anything New Dealish or Rooseveltian became the theme song of the convention. In the powerful keynote speech of the temporary chairman, Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, was born the chant that carried through the convention and is now being sung at Republican meetings everywhere—"Three Long Years!" to the tune of "Three Blind Mice!"

Senator Steiwer had quoted President Roosevelt's statement in a message to congress in 1933:

"For three long years the Federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy. . . . Thus we have piled up an accumulated deficit of $6,000,000,000."

Steiwer strikes a chord. Senator Steiwer pointed out that that was the accumulation of four years. Then he continued:

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, the deficit was approximately four billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, it was in excess of three and a half billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, and eliminating any requirement for the payment of the soldiers' bonus, the deficit is between three and a half and four billion dollars. For three long years the deficits have exceeded those which the President denounced. For

As Floyd Gibbons says "Hello, Everbody."

It won't be long until the following poem will be appropriate:

THISTLES

"I hardly know that Autumn is near
Because the tumble-weed
That was so ferny-green before,
Is now a thistle barrier.
I only know the flowers are in seed
And you have worn no pathway to my door."
—Johnson.

In a poll conducted by the Farm Journal, Gov. Landon was favored over Roosevelt for the next president, with a score of 54 7 to 45 3. The poll shows that Landon is the favorite in 21 of the 32 farming states included in the poll. These figures are from the first poll conducted by the Farm Journal. According to a late report the second poll, started several days ago, a decided turn for Landon in the farming states is indicated.

An old subscriber came into the office who has a ranch in the lower valley — quoth he, "Since we're getting such nice, timely rains in this section, I thought it would be the best thing for all concerned to pay my subscription — in advance. This story has a moral—"Go Thou and Do Likewise."

Bakers say that the five cent loaf of bread has disappeared. The other nickle goes for taxes.

To the dairy farmers in the drouth-stricken states—if it gets much drier there, cows will be giving powdered milk.

The most effective campaign poster that could be drawn this year would be one showing little pigs that weren't permitted to be born rooting the wheat that had to be plowed under, in the shade of the shelter belt trees that never were planted.

In one district in Oklahoma last week, it was 116 degrees fahrenheit. Yea, verily, the cool, refreshing breezes come rushing down from the mountains, soothing one to restful sleep in the Carrizozo vicinity, making us feel that this section isn't so bad, after all.

We have remarkable scenery in this locality. The view at the top of Nogal Hill—beggars description—one may see the fertile valleys and the rugged Nogal Peak in the distance, 10,000 feet high. Then there is Sierra Blanca or White Mountain peak, over 12,000 feet in elevation, further in the distance. Said scenery is about twelve miles from Carrizozo.

There was a good attendance at the Republican Convention at Capitan Aug. 12. The writer was sentenced as a delegate to same. The main purpose of the meeting was to select delegates to attend the State Convention at Albuquerque Aug. 17.—Adios.
