COMMENTS

Lewis Burks

How are you, folks? Time for another very informal chat with you. We hope you won't feel 'hoit' by our sayings.

Like a humorous story to liven up this column? Eh?

The scene was in a Court-room and the Judge was hearing foreigners' applications for citizenship papers. An Italian was the next called on. The Judge asked him what he knew about the Constitution of the United States. The Italian was bewildered and looked hopelessly around — but managed to stammer out "I donna care."

TITSWORTH COMPANY

Do you want something absolutely free? What say? Then take advantage of the Titsworth Co.'s offer, explained in detail in their ad on the back page. And P.S.—You'd better hurry, for Christmas will be here before you can say Jack Robinson.

By golly, you know it was cold Sunday and Monday! As Bill o' Fare says—

"First it rained, then it snowed,

Then it rained, and frizz and blew."

Note: "Bill o' Fare" is Chester Lumpkins, the Outlook's Nogal Correspondent a few years ago.

Rah! Rah! Rah! The Burke Gift Shop has received some Football Sweaters, with Footballs, stitched on them. All colors. Be in style for the various local football games. These sweaters are reasonably priced, of course.

DESERT SKETCHES

There's the majesty of mountain
And the wonder of the sea,
But the solitude of desert
Is more meaningful to me.

There is sunlight on the mountain,
And the moonlight on the sea,
But the starlight on the desert
Is more beautiful to me.

O, God thunders in the mountain,
His storm breaks upon the sea,
But the silence in the desert
Is more powerful to me.

—Larsona McBurney.

To Gentlemen — A pleasure to show you the latest arrivals in Velvet, Wool and Wash Dresses, from Hollywood, California, at the Burke Gift Shop.

A local preacher was talking to a little boy with a black eye, when he said "It is wicked to fight." And the little boy said, "Shux, you'd better preach to your boy — he's the guy that gave me this eye."

The charming Miss Peggy Gene Mitchell, who is the director of the play "Sky High" for the benefit of the Boy Scouts, was very busy getting up ads from the various local business firms. The east and other particulars will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Lyric Theatre

R. A. Walker, Owner

Show starts at 7:30 p. m.
Friday and Saturday —
Barbara Stanwyck and Robt. Young in "The ## Red Salute"

An extra - good entertaining picture, and it was made in Juarez, too. Plenty of punch and action. Also "Mickey's Rival."

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday —

"San Francisco"

Featuring Jeanette McDonald, Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Jack Holt. Out of a catastrophe comes the year's most rousing romance — "from the Street that God Forgot." Also Charley Chase in "The Count Takes the Count."

Sunday matinee at 2:30 p. m.
Night show at 8:00 p. m.

Ralph and Ruth Patty, Margaret Shafer and Dorothy Nickels, who are attending the State University at Albuquerque, are home for Thanksgiving Day and the week-end.

Deputy Sheriff Tommy McCamant, Joe Vega and Bone Zamora made a business trip to Las Cruces Tuesday, returning home late in the afternoon.

The U. & I. Cafe is undergoing considerable repairing and remodeling this week. The walls have been touched up with a new coat of kalsomine, George, the Painter doing the work, and Mr. St. John intimates that new linoleum will be laid on the floor in the near future.

Bryan Hightower of his ranch near Ancho was a Carrizozo visitor this Monday.

COUNTRY CLUB WILL HAVE XMAS FOR KIDDIES

We have heard from authentic sources that the Carrizozo Country Club will entertain the Kiddies on that day. The Country Club members will act as self - appointed "Big Brothers" on the day of all days. True Christianity, St. Senor.

SAD, BUT TRUE

Santa Claus may neglect the poor and distressed by failing to leave presents at the home of poverty but the stork always manages to make up for this.

NEVER SAY DIE, SAY DAMN

A certain local gentleman is seen wearing an Indian design GOP tie - pin. "I'm going to wear it until the Republicans are in power," quoth he.

EXCELLENT SHOWS AT THE LYRIC THEATRE

Manager R. A. Walker of the Lyric Theatre is to be highly commended in securing such excellent photoplays as is seen of late at the Lyric. "The Devil Doll" shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week was, as the program stated "the goose-fleshiest movie you've ever seen." It starred Lionel Barrymore and Henry B. Walthall.

"If you can't afford a Turkey for Thanksgiving, a Rabbit will make a pretty good substitute," laughs an Occure man. All joking aside, you should see the live turkeys in the window of Petty's Economy Grocery — big ones, too; I'll wager. (Good enough to eat.) — Adios.

Big Home Talent Production

The big 8-act Musical Comedy presented next Wednesday and Thursday evening at 7:59, at the H. S. Auditorium, for the benefit of the Carrizozo Boy Scouts, promises to be the big entertainment event of the season. In connection with "Sky High," is the popularity contest for children from walking age to 6 years old. Mothers will be mighty proud to own the beautiful loving cups that will be presented to the winners. Entrants in the contest include Frank Charles English, Big Boy Hall, Mildred Hoffman, Shirley Buie, Billy Karr, Jeanette Shafer, Villye Francis Ming, Hope Snow, Madeline Stokes, Rachel Ann Young, Joe Devins, Sammy Lafleur, Marjorie Ann Moine, Judith Ann McPherson and the Cromley child. Mothers wishing to enter their children in the contest please get in touch with Miss Peggy Mitchell, coach of the show at the Garrard Hotel immediately. The votes are 5c each.

The children are sponsored by the pretty chorus girls and jars to vote in are located at all the leading places of business. The proceeds from the contest will be counted in the gross of the scouts' show. Buy tickets early from the scouts as a cash prize is offered to the boy selling the most tickets. Read the big ad on page 5 carefully and win free tickets.

"Sky High" is the thrilling drama comedy of the airways that is sweeping the country. The setting of the play is an airport and the whole play is centered around SKY HIGH, the model airplane designed by Walter Stephens (Paul Reeves). Vaden Elliott has acquired an Ethiopian sunburn for his part of Sam, the Negro porter; the laziest man in the world. One of the most outstanding features of the show is the pretty, peppy chorus girls, who will dance and sing their way right into your hearts. Admission: Adults 35c; Students 25c; Children 15c.

Music-Drama Study Club

The Music-Drama Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Albert Ziegler, Thursday, Nov. 19. Mesdames Buras and Degitz had charge of the program. An excellent literary and musical program which was enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lemon. The program, in charge of M. M. C. Lemon and Paul Mayer, will consist of individual numbers.

Mrs. Josefa Vega is visiting her sister, Mrs. Leonor Peralta, at Capitan this week-end.

School Notes

Ola C. Jones, Co. School Supt.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Lincoln County Teachers' Convention to be held in Capitan on Dec. 4. W. E. Kerr, Asst. Director of the Program for the Improvement of Instruction, Marie Hughes of the San Jose Experimental School, and Asst. Director of Curriculum Study, Thelma McCully, Curry County Rural School Supervisor, Mrs. Mary Watson, Supervisor of Curriculum Revision Study, and Mrs. Irene Hart, newly-elected County School Superintendent, will give interesting addresses on phases of this work mixed with music furnished by the Stetson, Ruidoso, Capitan, and San Patricio grade schools, and the Corona, Carrizozo, Hondo and Capitan hi-schools.

Followed by the general program, sectional meetings will be held in the afternoon, of which the Chairmen are as follows:

Primary section, Florence Long, Capitan; Intermediate section, Ofelia Miranda, Lincoln; Upper grade section, L. A. Baker, Hollywood; One room section, Gertrude Pearce, Encinoso; Hi-school section, W. E. Abell of Corona.

Short addresses and musical numbers will be given at the evening program followed by a Basketball game between the County Coaches and a town team to be named later.

The Library has recently purchased the International Index File which greatly aids teachers using project teaching methods and the Speaker's Library Magazine which contains school aids of all kinds.

At the last regular meeting of the Stetson PTA, Mrs. Jim Jackson conducted an interesting program centering around Book Week. An outstanding attraction of the program was an address Mr. Dan Storms gave on "The Value of Good Books."

The PTA meets the 2nd Friday of every month, and has already purchased a set of Compton's Encyclopedia for the school and plans to serve hot lunches to the pupils during the winter months of the year.

Masonic Entertainment

Last Saturday night at the Masonic Temple, one of the most enjoyable events took place, the occasion being in honor of an official visit of the Grand Worshipful Master, accompanied by an official staff of four other Grand Lodge officers.

After a "closed meeting" conducted by the Worshipful Master Roy Shafer of the local lodge, a banquet was served in the banquet room, where over a hundred guests consisting of Masons and their wives partook of same. The banquet was prepared and served by the Southern Pacific Hotel with its array of uniformed waitresses and with the usual promptness and efficiency. Mr. and Mrs. Dodge of that popular resort received many becoming compliments on the choice menu and excellent service.

Following the banquet, the program arranged by Mrs. R. E. Lemon, was carried out.

Reading, Mrs. Selma Degitz - Violin solo, Miss Marie Merchant

Vocal duet, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Adams

Reading, Mrs. Don English - Piano solo, Mrs. W. C. Hendren

Bingham News

Judge Ben P. Kilgore transacted business in Socorro last week.

John E. Cooper returned to Roswell last Wednesday after spending a few days with his family.

N. F. Hefner and son Tom spent the week end in Capitan.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Moon spent Saturday in Carrizozo.

Mrs. J. H. Holliday was a business visitor in Deming last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Agnew and family of Lamesa, Texas, are guests of Mrs. Agnew's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McDougal.

Mrs. E. T. Griffin motored to Carrizozo Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Agan visited in the D. F. Sawyer home last Thursday morning.

Harold Dean, proprietor of the Bingham Store was a Carrizozo visitor last Friday.

Mrs. P. H. Wrye and son William of Amarillo, Texas, are spending the Thanksgiving holidays at their ranch. They are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Kilgore, who are making their home on the Wrye ranch this winter.

Judge and Mrs. Ben P. Kilgore were Sunday luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Sawyer. Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Agan were Monday luncheon guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson, family and Mrs. Eula Foster of Carrizozo visited in Bingham Sunday.

It seems that people cannot get over commenting upon the election. Bugs Baer comes forth with a suggestion that the United States set aside Maine and Vermont for national parks, preserve them and allow future generations to visit them and inspect the last remaining districts that clung to Tory principles. He also suggests that Herbie Hoover be made the Great White Father of the parks as an added attraction. Herbie would, no doubt, be happier there than in Palo Alto, where a big majority was rolled up for Franklin Delano. Of course, if the Passamaquoddy and Penobscot Indians objected to this arrangement, a plan could be adopted to exclude their reservations.

At last we realize that winter is at hand. The ducks and John D. Rockefeller have gone south.

Lost While Hunting

Vick Serna and Casey Pacheco were visitors from Capitan last Sunday. In the early morning of the last day of the hunting season, Vick, accompanied by his little nephew, James Torres, Jr., started out for the Tucson mountains to hunt. Arriving there, visibility was very poor due to a heavy fog. Vick sighted a buck go over a ridge and gave chase, leaving Jimmy trailing behind. Vick made his kill and when he started back to where he had left the little fellow, no trace of him could be found. After searching for him for about two hours, Vick lost all hopes of locating him and made for the nearest Ranger station and phoned to Capitan for help. The Glencoe CCC boys and ranchmen were soon out scurrying the mountains, and at 5:30 in the afternoon the boy was found safely at the O Bar O ranch in the Venado Gap. The Torres and Serna families wish to thank all those who so willingly and kindly assisted in locating the little fellow.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Vega, the children and Frank Vega were visitors from the Vega ranch below Nogal last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McFadin were visitors from the Monte Prieto Ranch near the Gran Quivira last Saturday.

Miss Maudie Warden visited her father, R. E. P. Warden, at Magdalena last week. Maudie says that Pick likes that part of the country very well.

Dewey Stokes, Jess Roberts, George Straley and Billy Norman were among the lucky deer hunters during the hunting season.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Sanchez and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Luera spent Thanksgiving at Las Cruces and El Paso.

Frank Todd, the energetic wholesale Candy and Novelty supply man, is having a garage and warehouse built in the rear of the building, owned by M. Doering.

Miss Ruth Kelley of Albuquerque is home to spend Thanksgiving with the home folks and many Carrizozo friends.

Members of the Degree Team of Carrizozo Lodge No. 30, I. O. O. F. are hereby notified that the First Degree of Odd Fellowship will be conferred on two candidates next Tuesday night, Dec. 1. You will be notified of date of rehearsal. — A. L. Burke, Degree Master, J. F. Tom, Assistant.

Mr. and Mrs. John Echols of Las Cruces were week - end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Kroggel of the New Mexico Mechanical Equipment Co.

Mrs. Lora Medlin of Seminole, Tex., is here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hill of the Carrizozo Cleaners.

Mmes. Nellie Branum, R. E. Lemon, Frank Richard, R. E. Blaney and Marie M. Kohn made a trip to Alamogordo last week in the interest of the Woman's Club pertaining to a Club House.

Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Blaney, accompanied by their guest Mrs. Marie Kohn of Chicago, visited the Carlebad Caverns last week-end and other points of interest on the east side of the state. The oftener we see the Caverns the greater the beauty and fascination, and knowing that we have an unsurpassed wonder in our midst.

A Special Communication of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., will be held this evening, Friday, Nov. 27, for the purpose of conferring the Third Degree of Masonry. All Master Masons are cordially invited. Roy Shafer, W. M. R. E. Lemon, Sec'y.

Ben Dow is here from California, where he is in the U. S. Navy, to visit the home folks for about two weeks.

Fred Sandoval of Roswell and brother Ines of Pecos are visitors here today.

Manuel Chavez made a business trip to Sierra de la Gallina yesterday.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

Miss Hamblidge was "in."
"Mummy?"
"Play acting," Ridder snapped. "I observed that you'd feathered your nest. I was wrong. Why didn't you say so?"
"I did."
The old man was looking at Barry's check.
"Can you write?" he asked.
"I don't know."
"Harwood thinks you can. He just left here. He says you earned what we paid you. Well, you'd better go on earning it."
"You mean I'm hired—"
"Hired?" Ridder repeated. "You were hired two months ago. Who ever fired you?"
There didn't seem to be any answer to that.
"Mr. Ridder wants you to work with Jack," Mrs. Ridder remarked. "Keep an eye on him."
"You're going to take Jack—"
"We're taking him home tonight. And Peggy. We hope you'll come out sometimes."
"I want Jack to carry on," Ridder declared, "when I'm through."
He was back at his desk now, and he looked up, almost smiling.
"You said I was a tough bird," he told Barry. "I heard you. Don't apologize. The world needs tough birds. You don't win battles with pigeons. Somebody's got to do a little clear thinking. Somebody's got to know what he's about. We're a soft race. Coddled. Self-indulgent. We need hard going and discipline."
His voice was crisp and sure.
"What's the matter with this young generation? It's fathers had too much money. I was a tough bird because I knew the fight Jack had made, and I didn't help him. I'd tried that, hadn't I? The other way was my only chance, to make a man of my son."
There was no lack of emotion in his tone now.
"And you. How did I know you weren't just a cheap swindler? By listening to a lot of warm-hearted generalities. How did I know you weren't a blackmailer—until I saw you were going to give yourself up without squealing?"
"Then you were play-acting?"
"Not on your life. I was watching you, like a hawk, but there was a cop out there, and I thought you had a date with him, until I saw your face when I asked you why you sent that wireless to Mrs. Ridder."
Again, he almost smiled.
"There was a cop waiting behind that door, and a girl behind that one. A nice girl. I had to be sure I wasn't messing things up for her."
He glanced at his watch.
"Four o'clock. You people have got to get out of here. I can't spend the day being a sentimental idiot."
"You're neither," Mrs. Ridder said. "Neither what?"
"Neither sentimental nor an idiot. You're a tough bird, but I like 'em that way."
She was holding on to his arm when Barry closed the big door behind them. Barry thought she was crying.
"She is my mother, after all," Barry thought. "She's all the mother I never had."

"Good luck," Barry said, extending his hand across the desk.
Peter turned to take it, freeing his own hand by trying to slip the magnet over the book from which the thermometer hung.
The magnet promptly fell into the open desk drawer.
"Damn!" Peter exclaimed, probing again.
He retrieved it, at last, from somewhere near the bottom of that astounding accumulation of rubber bands, pen-wipers, and what not.
Clinging to the metal, held by its magnetic attraction, was another bit of metal.
As Peter dropped the magnet onto his desk, that other bit of metal detached itself, and fell almost at Barry's feet.
Barry picked it up, looked at it, looked again, and then looked at Peter.
Peter was staring at him.
Barry took a notebook out of his pocket.
"A 66152," he said. "Yes, that's Kelly's latch-key."
Peter nodded.
"I must have thrown it here weeks ago, and forgotten it."
"I'd throw it somewhere else now," Barry advised. "Somewhere just a little bit safer. Well, good luck, again, and good-by."
He had reached the door when Peter said: "Wait a minute."
Barry waited.
"How long have you known?"
"That you killed Mike Kelly?" Barry asked. "Since last Thursday. I was on the train coming in from Southampton."

"I Doped That Out, Too."

and I'd just read of Morano's death. "One of my suspects was guilty," I thought. "Peter Winslow can't laugh that off."
He was back in the room now.
"I remembered," he went on, "how you did laugh when I suggested Morano. And how sure you were that I was wrong about every one else. But you never said anything that might've started me on the right track. On the contrary, when I asked you if there was a Mrs. Kelly, you answered, 'Yes. She sued for divorce recently and withdrew the case.' You'd just read that in the Herald Tribune, and the same sentence revealed that, at the time of the murder, Mrs. Kelly was in Harlem. But you didn't mention that. Why? Only one explanation occurred to me, and that was your willingness to keep me on the trail of some one who couldn't possibly be convicted."
"Barry sat down again, the other side of the desk.
"Go on," Peter urged. "I'm very much interested."
He was sitting, too, now.
"My interest," he continued, "is strangely impersonal. Almost wholly professional. I think it is. That's very curious. I'm just a criminal lawyer interested in a crime."
His weariness explained that, Barry thought. As Hamblidge had been, and Morano, and Barry himself when talking with Ridder, Peter Winslow was "glad it's over."
"As a criminal lawyer," Barry said, "and a shrewd one, you'd be surprised to know how much you overlooked. Bits of evidence that fitted like a jigsaw puzzle the moment suspicion started anyone putting them together."
"As for instance?"
Barry smiled.
"You told me Morano phoned you at one o'clock the morning of the murder to say that one of his girls was in jail, and wasn't in jail at one o'clock. But Peggy wasn't in jail at one o'clock. She'd been released hours before, and Morano knew it. I know that he did phone you. What about it? Why, about Kelly's visit to the Coconut Bar, of course, and the threat of something in his pocket that was not only a message to Morano but Kelly's hold over Judge Hamblidge. A paper every one seemed to want, and that had disappeared when the body was found.
"What had that paper to do with you?"
"If this were a detective story, and you read it, you'd find twenty answers to that question. Judge Hamblidge said he couldn't tell the truth because of a woman. Pat said the woman was her dead mother. And, plainly, that had something to do with Morano."
He leaned forward across the desk.
"I couldn't see any link between the two. And then I remembered that Pat's mother was your wife's sister. Pat told me her mother was 'brought up in a little town called Warrenton.' That meant your wife came from Warrenton, too. And Morano had told me he came from Fauquier county. I went to my atlas. Warrenton's in Fauquier county. There used to be a military school there. Mrs. Winslow ran away with her first husband while he was a cadet in a military school."
Peter leaned forward, too.
"And Morano—" he began, tensely.
"I don't know whether Morano went to a military school or not."
"But George Selby did."
"Morano and George Selby were the same man, weren't they?"

It was after six o'clock now.
The outside offices were deserted and silent.
But the noise of traffic drifted up from the street.
For almost a minute, that was the only sound in the room where these two men sat facing each other.
Then Peter said, "Yes, they were the same man."
"I was sure of it," Barry resumed. "The papers reported that Selby was drowned in Philadelphia. But the body they identified had been in the water two weeks. Fresh water. So that identification didn't amount to much. Violet Fane had told me Morano bought the house down town because he was 'married once,' and he and his wife lived there. The sob-story I dug out of the 'tabloid' said Selby was 'blissfully happy' with his bride in a house he'd rented down town. Obviously, the same house. Sentimental? Yes, but Morano was a sentimental case. So sentimental that he might have died rather than have it discovered that your wife was really his wife."
Barry saw Peter wince, but went on.
"Of course, he had another reason for resisting arrest—that 'hot spot' with which Kelly threatened him. If Morano had been arrested, and fingerprinted, they'd've learned that he was George Selby, and wanted for murder. Morano made certain of that. The 2:12 train he caught at the Penn station went to Philadelphia. That's where he was all the next day—checking up on the finger-prints taken when Selby was sent to the State penitentiary, and, perhaps, trying, through underground channels, to have them removed from the files."
"I had the motive for the murder now."
"Kelly knew Morano was Selby, and so that your wife was technically a bigamist. That was the threat he held over Morano, and Judge Hamblidge. The threat that persuaded the Judge to write a 'crooked decision.' The paper Kelly had in his pocket was a marriage certificate, or something of the sort, he'd found somewhere."
"In an old trunk," Peter said; "in the house he bought at 24 Jefferson street."
Barry nodded.
"I doped that out, too. Both Morano and Hamblidge had plenty of reason to kill Kelly."
"But neither had as much reason as you had."
"If you knew of the existence of that paper."
"And you did, didn't you? That's where Morano's telephone message came in. That's why he called you up from the Coconut Bar. To tell you he'd seen the paper, and Kelly had it."
"Right," Winslow said, simply.
"My inquiry was narrowing down to you and Morano. But how did either of you get in to Kelly? And then I remembered that, the day I first saw Mrs. Kelly, she came into that house and left her key in the door. I did the same thing this week. Anybody might. Especially a drunken man. That would explain why the key wasn't on Kelly's body. It would explain how our third caller entered while Kelly was talking to Judge Hamblidge."
"Right," Winslow repeated.

Salt Mine Clean
Totally unlike a coal mine, a salt mine is a perfect example of cleanliness and orderliness, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Although the mine is in full operation, neither workmen nor machines are to be seen, for salt mining consists of nothing more than a series of water pipes which continually spray the sides of the mine with water under high pressure. This water, bringing with it the salt from the walls of the mine, falls to the bottom of the shaft. It is accumulated in reservoirs and then pressed overhead where the salt crystals are retained in large pans. About 120,000,000 pounds of salt are extracted every year from the Salzborg mine in Austria, one of the most famous in the world.

Cider Like Champagne
Just as wine is the drink of France, so cider is the drink of Normandy. This northern part of France does not have summers warm enough for grapes, but the gnarled apple trees which dot its fertile countryside give it a nectar just as sweet, and one that, prepared carefully, will sparkle and bubble like champagne.

Normandy's Greatest Attraction
Mont-Saint-Michel, which rises like a great pyramid just off the coast. Originally built as a fortification, it was later made an abbey of the Benedictine fathers.

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

THAT discussion about who will get the leads in the picture version of "Gone With the Wind" is still raging. One faction insists that the coveted roles were simply made for Miriam Hopkins and Clark Gable. Then a rumor sprang up to the effect that everything was settled; Tullulah Bankhead and Ronald Colman were to play them.

Usually those discussions peter out with the parts being given to people no one had even thought of. Sometimes the public is asked to make suggestions, and the mail comes in by the ton, demanding a popular favorite in at least one role; if there are enough requests some attention is paid to them.

They do say that Ruth Chatterton is none too happy over the ending of "Girls Dormitory." Originally it had a quite different end, with Miss Chatterton winning the hero, Herbert Marshall, when he realized that little Simone Simon was too young for him and that he had merely been infatuated with her.

Simone Simon

But things happened. The little Simone, it seems, has a way of getting what she wants, off the screen as well as on. So a new ending was the result, and a rather unconvincing one it is, too.

Another of those delightful non-sensical pictures — and an exciting one, too — is "Manhattan Madness," with Jean Arthur and Joel McCrea. They seem to have a special talent at Columbia for turning out this brand of entertainment — this one is well worth going into a stormy night to see.

Jeanette MacDonald is going to have to work awfully hard before she is free to marry Gene Raymond, and go off on her honeymoon — and she insists that that marriage is going to take place June 17th. Before that time she is to do three operatic roles — "Manon Lescaut," "The Firefly," and "Maytime." And as she likes to give a concert occasionally, that makes it hard.

Incidentally, we hear that she was asking a tremendous price for radio appearances, until she was reminded that, though she's well known to movie goers, folks who don't bother much about movies don't know her so well. But that may be just a rumor.

Phillips Lord, who writes and directs two of the popular radio programs, "Gang Busters" and "We, the People," doesn't listen to the more exciting broadcasts when he's just listening for entertainment. He likes Frank Black's music and Edgar Guest's "Welcome Valley."

Margaret Sullivan has never had a very high idea of her own achievements as an actress. She's even been accused of false modesty, because of the things she has said about her own performances. But she has proved what she meant by abandoning pictures, temporarily, and going into a stage play in New York. Says she's going to learn to act, something which can't be done in Hollywood.

Miriam Hopkins annoyed newspaper and magazine interviewers, we hear, when she was in New York on her way back to Hollywood from England. Made appointments with them for a certain day, and then went out early in the morning and just didn't come back. And Rosalind Russell annoyed one of the more important fan magazine editors by not being at all co-operative about an interview. So if you don't see much about either of them in your favorite magazine, you'll know why.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . It's reported that Clark Gable's ex-wife will marry one of the East's social hostesses . . . If you hear that Elton Thomas wrote "The Adventures of Marco Polo," which Gary Cooper will do, remember that that's the pen name used by Douglas Fairbanks . . . The romance between Metta Oberon and David Niven is still blazing . . . Florence Eldridge, Fredric March's wife, who was "Queen Elizabeth" in "Mary of Scotland," has abandoned the movies for a return to the stage . . . Which will, no doubt, be the best way to get her what she wants in the movies . . . Bette Davis may have lost that legal decision to Warner Brothers, so that she can't make pictures in England — but remember, Bette likes to fight . . . Talk among radio folks is that Jack Benny needs a new script writer, this year's programs not being up to the standard established by the old ones.

Delightful, Modish Models

MATRON, miss, or tiny maid — you'll find here the answer to your wardrobe needs. These three delightful and modish models, specially designed for those who sew at home, cover a wide range of sizes and take high honors for style and economy combined.

Pattern 1818, an unusually graceful and flattering double duty frock for the mature figure, features a softly draped collar in contrast and set in skirt panels topped with pockets. Appropriate for any of a wide range of fabrics, it will serve with equal grace as a morning or daytime frock, can be cut twice for double wear. The pattern is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 1/2 yard contrast.

Pattern 1910, the adorable apron, is an early reminder that Christmas is just-around the corner and it's time to start now on the frocks you are planning to make for your baby daughter or a favorite niece. This clever little apron and pantie set will slide through your machine in a jiffy (just six pieces for both apron and pantie) and your selection of materials is unlimited — percale or kingham or plique or pongee or shantung or linen. Designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8 years, the pattern in size 4 requires just 2 1/2 yards of 32 or 35 inch fabric.

All patterns include illustrated sewing charts to guide you every step of the way. You'll find making them a joy. Send for yours today.

The Office-Holder Is Your Employe
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

No business enterprise of any importance can depend for success on the knowledge and ability of its top executives alone.

It must rely also on the quality and training of the men in the ranks—whether they labor in office or shop or field.

Within recent weeks there has become evident a growing conviction that this is also true of government.

Both at Washington and elsewhere plans are being discussed for better training of the non-coms and privates who hold or look forward to jobs in the public service. A federal agency has recently recommended such training as a step towards economy and efficiency. Its proposals are supported by private research groups which have studied the problem independently, by colleges of high standing which offer courses leading to careers in the public service, and by various state and municipal governments which encourage special training for their own employes.

But the one who should be most deeply concerned is the average worker and taxpayer. Why?

Because he, in the last analysis, is the real employer. He—with millions of his fellow citizens—constitutes the government, whether federal, state or local. He doesn't merely share in its benefits; he meets all its bills—including the payroll. The higher the quality of the public service for which he pays, the more he gets for his money.

And the service is likely to be higher in quality if his employes are chosen and retained on the basis of what they know rather than that of whom they know. Not only that, but the field is likely to be less overcrowded—therefore, less costly to the taxpayer who foots the bill.

If the American citizen would get his money's worth he must insist on ability not only in the top offices of government, but in the lower jobs as well. This, too, becomes part of his responsibility as a shareholder in the most important business on earth.

The office-holder is his employe.

The New Ford V-8 for 1937 is the most beautiful Ford car ever offered. It is built in only one size—one standard of roomy comfort and modern appearance. But you may have either the improved 85-horsepower V-8 engine for maximum performance—or the new 68-horsepower V-8 engine for maximum economy. The smaller engine makes possible a lighter car—lower operating costs—and a lower price.

When you drive the 1937 Ford with the 85-horsepower V-8 engine, you are master of a power plant that gives everything you can possibly demand in speed and acceleration. Today, improved carburetion enables it to deliver its thrilling performance with unusually low gasoline consumption.

The new 68-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine delivers V-8 smoothness and quietness—even at speeds up to 70 miles an hour—with gasoline mileage so high that it creates an entirely new standard of economy in modern motor car operation.

We invite you to see this new Ford car, and arrange to drive one equipped with the engine that fits your needs.

Literature a Key

The wealth of beauty to which literature is the key is absolutely illimitable. It unlocks the storehouse of all known human wisdom and gives the reader freedom to choose what he desires.

If his choice is wise, it broadens his thought, intensifies his love of the beautiful, teaches him sympathy, makes him capable of enjoying the pleasures of others, allows him to feel emotions which inspire noble deeds, gives him higher ambition in life, with a sense of duty and a desire to fulfill it.

Floyd Gibbons Adventurers' Club Hello Everybody!

"Darkness Means Death" By FLOYD GIBBONS, Famous Headline Hunter

CIRCUS day! The hot, sun-baked city of Phoenix, Ariz., is all agog. Christy Brothers' big five-ring show is in town. See the parade. Count the elephants. Then climb up on the board seats under the big top and watch the clowns.

Joe wants to know if he can string his trapeze over Captain Bob's arena for an act that goes on later in the show. Captain Bob says it will be O. K. with him, as long as Joe sees to it that his rigging is pulled up out of his way while he works his cats.

Captain Bob and His Big Cats. And now we're all ready for the big thrill of the day—the big excitement in which Capt. Robert J. Baile of Flushing, N. Y., earns himself the degree of Distinguished Adventurer to add to the other laurels he has won in a lifetime of daring deeds in the circus.

The big cats are in the open cage in the middle of the steel arena. So is Captain Bob. It's a hot day and cat animals get lazy in hot weather. They don't want to work, and when Captain Bob tries to make them, they get sulky. They're sulky now. See how they snarl and switch their tails as Captain Bob tries to herd them into their Sultan Was Springing at Captain Bob. corners. Sultan—the largest and ugliest of them all—crouches and tries to spring. Captain Bob pushes him back with his steel prod. The cats are all in their places now, but it's going to be a tough performance. The act goes on. The cats paw at one another and balk at the jumps. The tension in that cage is terrific. Now—look, quick! Sultan has kicked over his pedestal. He's SPRINGING AT CAPTAIN BOB, and his deep-throated, ominous snarl shows that he means business. Captain Bob knows what's coming. He whips up his long, sharp, metal-tipped prod—gets it between himself and the lion. He checks the leap. Sultan is back on his haunches, ripping at the prod with both forepaws, trying to get past it and at Captain Bob.

All Right If He Kept on His Feet. Let's go inside the cage with Captain Bob and see how he's feeling about all this. He's keeping his head—he knows he'll be all right as long as he can stay on his feet, and provided none of the other cats join in the fray. Luckily, the other cats are still keeping their distance—milling back and forth at the other side of the cage, growling in sullen rage. If they'll only keep away another minute—if only Captain Bob can KEEP HIS FEET—he'll get the situation back in hand again. It begins to look as if he's going to do it, too. Sultan is getting tired of trying to chew off the iron tip of the prod. Slowly, Captain Bob's snapping whip is forcing him back on the pedestal. He raises his whip again. A feeling of satisfaction wells up in Captain Bob's chest. He's licked that cat again. He snaps the whip.

Lord! What was that? Something has ripped across Captain Bob's eyes—both of them. He's blinded by agonizing pain. Spots dance before them—THEN BLACKNESS. The whip drops to the floor as he covers his face with his hand. What was it? He feels no blood—no torn flesh. It couldn't have been the lions. They were too far away. But—no time to speculate now! No time to yield to the unbearable pains that are shooting across his eyes! Snap out of it, Captain Bob, you're in a fine fix. Your whip is gone. Your prod is hanging useless in your hand.

At the Mercy of Eight Lions. YOU'RE ABSOLUTELY BLIND, IN AN ARENA WITH EIGHT UGLY LIONS, AND ONE OF THEM JUST WAITING FOR A CHANCE TO NAIL YOU! Sultan's growls bring him back to his senses. Blind though he is, his mind pictures Sultan getting ready to spring. He holds the prod up in front of him—reaches for his revolver. It's loaded with blanks, but the lions are afraid of it. He starts firing slowly on either side of him. That will keep them away for a minute, but six shots is all he has. Captain Bob starts backing toward the side of the cage. It's the best he can do. Blinded, he can't find the door. His eyes still feel as though a red-hot iron has been drawn across them. He fires his last shot—and waits to be torn to pieces. Outside he hears the shouts of the cage men—the rasp of a gate being pulled up. He feels something rub against his side and strikes out at it with his prod. The thing is hard; it gives out a wooden sound. He hears one of the cage men yelling to him to stay as he is. Then he realizes what's happening. Two of his men have gotten behind him. They're sliding prods through the bars to keep the cats away.

Other men are running the cats out of the arena. There's a stir in the seats. Spectators who have been holding their breath help Captain Bob out of the cage—into a car—off to the hospital. Half an hour later he can see again, although his eyes still hurt like the devil when he opens them.

Earliest Blue Laws The title blue laws seems to have attached to the earliest code of the colony of New Haven about 1640. The list of 48 such laws published in 1781 in a "History of Connecticut" by S. A. Peters, a fugitive Tory clergyman, was compiled mostly from the codes of various New England colonies and did not represent the laws of Connecticut.

View of a Village in Eritrea.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

FEW spots on earth are so barren, so inhospitable, as Assab, in Eritrea, on the west coast of the Red sea. With only a few palm trees, some low houses and a well set between the glaring Red sea and a waterless waste beyond, it seems a hopeless place for white men to choose as home. Yet here the Italian colony of Eritrea began its blistering existence. Neither treasures nor sheer adventure, however, had anything to do with its beginning. What is now Eritrea began in 1870, when the Italian Rubattino Steamship company needed a coaling station in the Red sea and bought the Bay of Assab and its miserable oasis from a petty local ruler, the sultan of Raheita.

Until then Assab was only a small harbor for the sambuks or Arab sailing craft, trading on the Red sea. Even today it is little more. Assab proved itself of slight use as a coaling depot; yet by its purchase the Rubattino company was launched into the business of buying land. By 1879 a small Italian military force had landed in Assab and hoisted the Italian flag in this corner of the world. Today, that red, white and green banner flies over a strip of Red sea coast which is 670 miles long. Inland from Assab across the desert rise the cool highlands of Ethiopia (Abyssinia).

Torrid, barren and fever-stricken is the coast that stretches north-west from Assab, but as you approach the port of Massaua the topography begins to change. Behind Massaua the green highlands rise in steep embankments, forming a sort of gateway to the interior of Africa.

It was when Italy occupied Massaua in 1885 that Eritrea took definite shape; now the area in Eritrea ruled by Italy stretches inland in some places 220 miles or more to the frontiers of Ethiopia and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

In brief, within 20 years after the Rubattino company bought Assab as a coaling station which was never developed, her colony here had come to cover nearly 46,000 square miles of Africa. On January 1, 1890, this new colony was christened Eritrea by the Italian government, in remembrance of the "Mare Erythraeum," as the old Romans called the waters of this part of the world.

Massaua a Hot Place to Work. Massaua, one of the hottest cities in the world, with its environs, is the home of 15,000 natives and a few hundred Europeans. The white men, mostly Italians, work during the day in their offices under big fans, with glasses of cool water on their desks. In a damp and steamy air they toil with a mean temperature for July of 94 degrees Fahrenheit, 20 degrees hotter than the average for the hottest month in New York.

Service in the government and administration; routine work for shipping companies and banks; trade in products of the land; the importation of goods—all these go their routine way, uninterrupted by the murderous climate.

Only by constant work can the white man stand the climate and forget the heat. No idle man could endure it here. Except for a few nurses in the hospital, no white women live in Massaua in summer. Then, the families of white employees go to the high plain of Hamassien, the real center of Eritrea.

The harbor of Massaua is the only place in Eritrea where large ships can tie up at docks to discharge their passengers and cargo. For this reason it was here that the landing of Italian troops and war materials took place.

Population is Much Mixed. The native population is a colorful mixture. Here you see some pure Ethiopian Hamites; also, always near the coast, many Semitic Arabs who invaded the land partly as conquerors, partly as traders, or as members of that uncertain class between the two. Where there are Arabs in the East there is usually the negro, too—from many parts of Africa. Arabs have been slave traders for centuries, especially along these coasts. In this district the sea route seems to have been the simplest; it finds here more Somali negroes than Sudanese. Recently a new element has come—the Indian traders, common now in nearly all places on the east coast of Africa. It is they who, in the main, bring cheap Japanese wares into the retail trade of the country.

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

NEW husbands can understand why a wife should long for a pleasant companion into a shower whose whole week is every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

The Gifts Renewed

In fields but lately seared by summer's drought,
Where famine seemed to lay its withering hand,
A miracle has come to still our doubt
And spread a glad Thanksgiving through the land.

Unseen beneath the drab brown coat she wore,
The soil grew rich to nurture other seeds.
Then autumn rains released the hidden store
In verdant growths, to fill our winter needs.

So, God of Wisdom, may we learn to build
In quiet faith, through even darkest days;
Assured our destiny will be fulfilled
Through Thy inscrutable and wondrous ways.

Why we have Thanksgiving Turkey

THREE times a year, at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, the people of the United States advance upon a certain huge golden bronze fowl, cut its throat, strip it of its plumage and convert it into a savory dish which fairly makes the old table groan under the extra burden. Since we have raised this bird into a national significance which parallels to an almost equal degree that of the eagle, symbol of the government itself, it has a special interest to all Americans. Although many folks may still be "as poor as Job's turkey," says a writer in Pathfinder Magazine, they somehow manage and contrive to have turkey for Thanksgiving, whether they can or cannot afford it.

In years gone by those families who could not afford turkey turned to chicken, duck, beef, rabbit, or even pork and were glad to get it. But now let's get back to the question of why we have or try to have or would like to have or imagine we would like to have turkey for Thanksgiving dinner. The answer of course is that the turkey is strictly an American bird and serving it at feasts of thanksgiving is an old and ancient American custom. Some authorities will tell you that we eat turkey on Thanksgiving day because after the first harvest in the fall of 1621 the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth set aside a period for feasting and offering their festive board in New England. Smithsonian Institution records now bridge the years that veil the aboriginal civilizations and show that the Indians of the Southwest, domesticated turkeys and fattened them for their ceremonial feasts. While the Pilgrim Fathers, grateful for good harvests and a year of prosperity in the New World decided on a day of thanksgiving to be celebrated at a banquet of roast turkey, really gave posterity the spirit of thanksgiving, the practice of such feasts had been established long before by the cliff dwellers who actually got their birds from a pen as we do today and not from a thicket as the Pilgrims did.

According to Smithsonian records the turkey of the aboriginal Indians more nearly approximated the

When the Festive Bird Goes Into the Oven.

Thanksgiving turkey of today than the scrawny wild fowl, felled by the blunderbuss of the Pilgrim hunters. Most of our domesticated varieties of turkeys today are really descended from the Mexican wild turkey that ranged over Arizona, western New Mexico and southern Colorado — virtually the doorway of earliest American civilization. The Pilgrim turkey was merely the wild variety of the same bird which roamed the eastern part of the United States.

Just as the turkey was exclusively an American bird in the time of the aboriginal Indians, so it is today. No fowl from any foreign country approximates it. In fact, wherever turkeys are raised today, and they have been introduced to many foreign countries, the ancestral stock came from America. And so far as is known turkeys are never imported to this country. Contrary to popular opinion the turkey did not get its name from Turkey (the country of that name). The first turkeys taken from the New World (America) and sold in Spain were handled largely by Hebrew merchants. Since the turkey was frequently confused with the peacock it was quite natural that the Hebrew trades should apply to it their name for the peacock, or "tukki." More or less common use of this name followed, which easily became in English our present name "turkey."

THE JUDGE SAYS:

THANKSGIVING is approaching — it's time we told ourselves over and over again the things about which we should be thankful. There are plenty of those things. But, most important of all, I think, is the chance given to make ourselves happy again. — Judge Harry B. Keldan.

Thanksgiving Day

NO DOUBT the same old question will be asked that we have so often heard — what have we to be thankful for? The question is foolish, almost as foolish as the attempts to answer it. Thanksgiving means gratitude, and there is probably no man alive who does not hold ingratitude to be one of the blackest sins. Of course, there can be no gratitude except as it is shown not only for something but to some one. Therefore, observes a writer in the Indianapolis News, it is that the thought of Thanksgiving necessarily implies the existence of a Divine Giver and Benefactor. So we are bidden to return thanks to Almighty God as "the Giver of every good and perfect gift." When there seems to be a scarcity of gifts one is tempted to ask the question, why be thankful? And that is a question which every one must answer for himself, and it will be answered as it always has been, in different ways. It is futile to catalogue what we know to be blessings and what we believe to be anything but blessings, and set off one list against the other, and be thankful in proportion as the good exceeds the evil.

Corliffe long ago showed us the folly of the bookkeeping method as applied to things spiritual. Probably most people get out of life about what they deserve and in proportion to what they put into it. It seems to be true that the most thankful people are those who have the least. On the other hand, those who are surfeited with good things take them as matters of course, as their due, and so calling for no gratitude. The question seems to be whether one has a thankful spirit, which surely is something to be greatly desired.

Without it, man is less than man. Even beasts are grateful. Practically, the question suggested by the day touches character. There is nothing mechanical or formal about it. One can not pump up thankfulness, and the setting apart of a day does not suggest that there should be such an attempt. The day is rather a recognition, less of a duty than of an opportunity, which it would be or might be fatal to neglect. "Be ye thankful" is an apostolic command. It ought to be easy to obey. Those men are nearest the truth who feel that in this life nothing is due them, and that whatever they get is in a very true sense a gift, and one which may be far beyond their deserts. So we are called to keep another Thanksgiving day, which should bring an outpouring of not only thankful but kindly hearts. Appropriate to the day is Pope's well-known verse:

Teach me to feel another's woe,
To hide the fault I see,
That mercy I to others show,
That mercy show to me.

What We Live On
I live on hope, and that I think do all who come into this world.

On Congeniality—

Companionship Plus Adjustments
Is Far Better Than Loneliness

IN EVERY family, whether little or large, and however small or spacious the dwelling may be, there are times when conflicts arise because of unwanted contacts. Some special place may be desired above all others by one, or possibly two, in conference and a second or a third person coming in and wanting that particular room also is a cause of dissension. There may be no lack of affection between the people, but a temporary ruffling of personalities which is disturbing. When living quarters are congested, these occasions arise frequently, but they are not limited to such conditions. There are these convergencies, with their annoying discords, regardless of space, or the lack of it, and numbers of persons, or the fewness of them. It would appear to be partly a similarity of tastes as well as the popularity of the spot, whatever it is, that was an element of the magnetic force drawing the people together.

Transient Dissension.
It is true that instances are rare in which such trouble is more than a passing dissension. But this is enough to set the persons in bad humors for a few moments anyway, unless one or more of them has enough understanding of the situation to smooth others, or has a keen sense of humor, which sense is like oil to machinery in keeping things running without friction.

Congeniality.
It should be remembered that congeniality is one cause for this convergence of persons. The same things are liked, the same impulses are present, and enjoyment and discord are both caused by much the same things. Each of these persons is drawn to the same things and to the same places, and so naturally meet in the same room in the home, or the identical spot. If there is the desire to be alone, resentment is stirred by the presence of another. It is at such times that tact and kindness are needed. I am assuming that love is not lacking. Without this essential element in home life, there will be discord anywhere and at any time, if not, indeed, at all times.

Loneliness.
When harmony is desired, and clashes of temperaments of those caused by such things as are under discussion today, exist, it is well to bring oneself up with a round turn by thinking of the loneliness that would be felt if we did not have our family about us. During absences from home, or when one is left there when others are away, the realization of what it means to be alone and also together, creeps into the mind and it is warmed by the very thought of companionship of dear ones.

The Turkey Is Regarded as an American Bird.

thanks. To provide food for this feast hunters were sent out by Governor Bradford and they returned with a large supply of game. Hospitality was extended to the Indians, 91 of whom attended the festival which lasted for three days. Conspicuous among the game on the tables were numerous wild turkeys, then common in the woods of Massachusetts. From this circumstance, they say, arose the popular association of these birds, with thanksgiving days.

This of course is the true origin of the custom so far as white man has been concerned with it. But the origin of turkey feasts goes back much farther. The millions of families who plan on enjoying hearty Thanksgiving turkey dinners this year will in reality be observing a custom that prevailed ages before the Pilgrims first gathered around

Eduardo Carabajal, if alive and if dead all the unknown heirs of Eduardo Carabajal, deceased; and, all unknown persons or claimants who claim any interest in the property described in this complaint adverse to the plaintiff.

In The District Court of the Third Judicial District of the State of New Mexico, Within and for the County of Lincoln.

Notice is hereby given that the above named plaintiff, Emelia Chavez de Vigil, has filed her complaint in the above styled and numbered cause in the District Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, against the above named defendants, alleging that one Florencio Chavez, now deceased, and Todorita Brady de Chavez, now deceased, wife of Florencio Chavez, now deceased, entered into an agreement with the mother of the above named plaintiff when the above named plaintiff was about two (2) years of age, that if said mother of said named plaintiff would surrender and deliver over the care, custody, rearing and education of said above named plaintiff to the said Florencio Chavez, now deceased, and Todorita Brady de Chavez, now deceased, wife of the said Florencio Chavez, now deceased, that they would take the above named plaintiff into their household, treat her as their own child, and at their death leave their entire estate to the above named plaintiff; that said above named plaintiff and the mother of said above named plaintiff in every way complied with their said agreement; said plaintiff going into the home of the said Chavezes, treated them and considered them as her mother and father and living with them and doing for them as a child should until the death of the said Todorita Brady de Chavez, wife of the said Florencio Chavez, now deceased, and the said Florencio Chavez, now deceased, but that the said Florencio Chavez, now deceased, and Todorita Brady de Chavez, now deceased, wife of the said Florencio Chavez, now deceased, did fail, refuse and neglect to carry out and comply with their part of said agreement; and that said plaintiff by said cause of action seeks the enforcement and specific performance of said agreement, and that she be awarded the entire estate of the said Florencio Chavez, deceased.

You and each of you are further notified that unless you enter your appearance in the above styled and numbered cause on or before the 28th day of December, A. D. 1936, judgment will be rendered against you in favor of said plaintiff as is prayed for in said complaint.

The name of plaintiff's attorney is H. B. Hamilton, whose P. O. address is 247-249 First National Bank Building, El Paso, Texas.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the State of New Mexico within and for the County of Lincoln, at the Court House at Carrizozo, Lincoln County, New Mexico, this 12th day of November, A. D. 1936.
