A. L. B.

In the city of Paris, France, five years ago, Robert Huon shot and killed Henri Camus in a quarrel over a girl at the Death's Head bar. He was sentenced to ten years imprisonment at the Devil's Island. Five years after that, a discharged soldier with a clean record, made his appearance at the Island and applied for a position as a guard and got it on his clean record in the service. His name was Camille Beudan. In one week after taking the job, he shot and killed Robert Huon. It happened in this manner. When Camille left the French army, he came home. His sister Carmel asked him for his papers, assuring him that they would be kept more safe in her custody. He consented. Then she donned his clothes, went to Devil's Island, applied for the job and after working a week, accomplished her purpose—that of killing the man who had killed her lover. During the week, she had escaped detection although the men considered her somewhat of a sissy. At her trial, she told the authorities at the prison that she was a woman and said she had determined to do what the law failed to do—to give him the death sentence. To make sure that she was not a man, the female guard made an examination with the above-named results. The next morning, she was found dead in her cell, having taken poison.

Just to show that while a faithful dog will die for his master, it might also betray him into the hands of his enemies by that same love and affection. Luis Carlos Prestes, the Brazilian revolutionist, who gave that country more trouble than any other individual, had a dog he named "Mestizo." So successful had been his endeavors in the revolution, that the Brazilian government sent out strong troops to effect his capture if possible. A body of soldiers went to his home in Rio de Janeiro, but he had escaped—but he made the mistake of leaving his dog behind. The soldiers were ordered to kill him after he had bitten several, but one of the company asked to have the dog and being given over to him, he soon had him the pet of the company. Prestes was hunted for many months until going to a house in an isolated place near his home town, they found all the doors locked. They broke in one of the doors and there on a couch lay the wasted figure of a man sick with a burning fever. Prestes might have evaded the searchers, had it not been for Mestizo. No sooner had he entered the room, he made a dash for the sickly figure, licking his face and hands with ardent affection which only a dog can give his master. Now, as Prestes recuperates, he faces life imprisonment and he has his faithful dog to blame for it and the

School Opened On Monday

School work in all departments is starting off nicely, with a large enrollment Wednesday; the school registers indicated the number enrolled in each grade being as follows—Pre-1st grade, 30; 1st grade, 20; Second, 25; Third, 22; Fourth, 22; Fifth, 23; Sixth, 27; 7th, 22; 8th, 23. Hi School: Freshmen, 33; Sophomore, 32; Junior, 21; Senior, 14; also 24 Post Graduates. Total enrollment in Grade Schools of 214 pupils and total enrollment in Hi School of 119. Our school Library has been greatly improved by the addition of new tables and 110 new books. Miss Marie Cole, the Librarian, is being overworked these days, cataloging the new books and looking after her music classes. Football practice has started in due form. It would be greatly improved if more boys came out for practice. The Supervised Study Plan in hi school is proving very successful and profitable; students are learning the work-habits of successful men and women.

August Lantz

Last night at the hour of 12 o'clock, August Lantz, an old resident of Carrizozo, passed away after a short illness. Mr. Lantz conducted a blacksmith shop in Carrizozo for many years and has a ranch about three miles east of town, where he and his wife made their home. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, particulars of which will appear in this paper next week.

Hoffman—Duncan

Last Saturday evening at the Methodist parsonage, Miss Annabelle Hoffman and Mr. James Duncan, were united in marriage, with Rev. Bell performing the ceremony.

The bride is the very attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoffman, and was one of the recent graduates of the Carrizozo High School.

The groom is a former C.C.C. boy, but is now employed by the Highway Department.

The young couple have the best wishes of their many friends in their new life.

J. K. Cook has had new roofing put on his home and Jewelry Shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Sabino Vidaurri and son Lucio were Albuquerque visitors last week.

District Court convened this week and adjourned until Monday morning, when jury cases will begin.

Tom Karr shipped 23 head of cattle to eastern markets this week.

Mrs. Agnes St. John is here from the Sacramento this week visiting the St. John families.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Moore and baby daughter of their ranch near Adobe were visitors here this Thursday, Mr. Moore having some potary work done at the Outlook office.

School Notes (Mrs. Irene Hart)

Friday, Sept. 8, the county teachers met in Carrizozo for a pre-school meeting. Supt. Carpenter of Carrizozo gave a very interesting address on the subject of "The Seven Mile Posts on the Road to Success." Those who had the privilege of hearing him received a great inspiration. The County Nurse, Miss Lydia Birkland, outlined her health program for the year for the teachers and made suggestions whereby the teachers might help carry out her plans. Mrs. Ola Jones, Rural School Supervisor, also gave a very interesting discussion regarding her program for the year. She had a nice display of new books and magazines which have been added to the library.

Of course, Mrs. Roselle, our very able Librarian, was present and made suggestions whereby she and the teachers might be able to use the Library facilities to greater advantage.

Mrs. Hart, the County School Superintendent, briefly discussed the plans she wished carried out during this school year.

Our esteemed friend, Rev. J. A. Bell, favored the group with a few well-chosen remarks.

The meeting adjourned at noon and the teachers spent the rest of the day checking out their supplies for the year.

Each of the 26 school buildings in the County have been thoroughly cleaned and repaired and in many instances new equipment has been added.

Attorney and Mrs. H. B. Hamilton are here this week from Santa Rosa, where the attorney has located and where they like their new location very much. Mr. Hamilton is attending court, during which time Mrs. Hamilton will visit among her many Carrizozo friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hall of Little Rock, Ark., came through here Monday on their way from a visit to Carlsbad Cavern and other places of interest in this locality. They will return by the way of Denver and Salt Lake City. Mrs. Hall is a niece of Mrs. Shearer and a cousin to Theo. Cook.

Be Careful How You Vote

On page 4 of this issue will be found a warning to voters in the coming election on Sept. 21. The election will determine whether or not, the Governor of New Mexico shall run for a third term. If we had a direct primary law in this state such as other states have, it might not be out of place to have such an amendment, but under existing laws, where a mighty political machine is in the saddle, it would fasten on the people of New Mexico a system of dictatorship, wherein the governor and other officials could be kept in office for life and further fasten on enormous taxes wrung from the people who would be helpless to extricate themselves from that position of political slavery.

The other proposed amendments, with the exception of the absentee ballot law, are equally as obnoxious. They would all place additional burdens on the shoulders of the taxpayers who are already squirming under the load too heavy to bear. As vigilance is the price of liberty, see that your votes in the coming election protect you from gang rule and dictatorship. Let us resolve and cast our votes accordingly, to wring the neck of dictatorship before it fastens its fangs on the people of New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rolland spent the week-end at El Paso on some business matters.

Diamond Dust

By Joe Chavez

The El Paso Auto Supply team failed to come for their scheduled game with Carrizozo last Sunday afternoon and upon receipt of a message to that effect, the Rodent Exterminators of Fort Stanton were called on to alternate for the El Paso team, which they gladly accepted and were on the grounds at the going of the bell. The game was interesting although very loosely played and Carrizozo won 15 to 11. Louis Baca of El Paso, a former Carrizozo boy, pitched a dandy game for Carrizozo with Andy Lucras behind the bat. The battery for Fort Stanton was "Cue Ball," Shipman and Luna. Umpires: Luck and Barnett.

On Labor Day, the Artesia Oil Gushers invaded this territory and engaged our boys in a hard-fought and thrilling game of baseball which everyone enjoyed. "Cue Ball" took the mound for Carrizozo and the Oilers began a fusillade against him and it seemed that it would be a repetition of that Tucumcari massacre way back in June. But Cue Ball finally settled down after having yielded six runs in four tormenting innings, and when our boys began to focus their eyes on the ball they hit the pellet hard and caught up with the Oilers and made them wake up to the realization that they had some tough opposition. From then on it was anybody's game until the Oilers went on another batting rampage and scored twice to win the game 8 to 6.

Jerry Beltran was the batting hero for Carrizozo, getting three clean smacks out of four trips to the plate. Fielding honors go to M. Ortiz and Tony Perea. Willie Zamora of Fort Stanton played second base for Carrizozo and Manuel (DiMaggio) Marquez held down first base. Umpires were Frank Vega, Meyer Barnett and Joe Chavez. In the second encounter of a double-header, Carrizozo and the Exterminators wound up the baseball season in a game replete with thrills and burlesque, Stanton winning 6 to 5. Carrizozo established a fine record this season with 13 wins and 6 defeats under the able management of Skipper Ben Sanchez, and if we are not pushing up daisies when the 1938 season strolls around, it will be our sincere wish that the boys merge again and give the town another winning ball club. Three rousing cheers for Manager Sanchez and his ball players!—Adios.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Comrey were here from their ranch near Capitan Wednesday, attending to some land matters in connection with the Taylor Grazing act.

Several people from Capitan attended the wedding dance at Community Hall last Saturday night.

Local Mention

Senator and Mrs. J. V. Taylor of Albuquerque were week-end visitors here, coming down to see their son Jimmy enrolled for another term in the Roswell Military Academy. Mr. Taylor is with the Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thornton of their ranch near Oscura were business visitors in town Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kimbrell of Picacho spent the week-end here as guests of the Wm. Kimbrell and Ben Holguin families.

Abel Pino from his ranch in the Tucson mountains visited the Gregorio Pino family here the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Bright and little son Lewis arrived home last Sunday evening from Albuquerque, where they had been since the closing of school. Phil finished his course on Aug. 1 and during that month he was in the employ of the forest service.

Manuel Chavez was operated on for appendicitis at the Johnson Hospital last Friday night and at present is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Marquez of Tucumcari spent the week-end here visiting the Saturnino Chavez family.

The work of placing the streets in readiness for graveling began the first of the week with Foreman Roy Skinner in charge of same. The men are going over the streets, filling holes and making them as level as possible and ready for the gravel. It won't be long now before we will have some good streets.

The dance given by the American Legion Monday night was the best that organization has given since the re-organization. The boys realized a neat sum from the undertaking.

Cres Mares, who has been in Portland, Colo., for the past six months, has returned to his old home in Corona. Glad to hear of your return, Cres.

Dr. F. S. Randles, who has been in the mining game at Mammoth, Ariz. for the past several months, is now at Fort Sumner, according to a letter received from him. We quote him as follows: "The purpose of this letter is not to be frivolous, fallacious, or factitious, but just to ask you to send my Outlook to Ft. Sumner, N. M., instead of Mammoth, Ariz."—End of quote.

Mrs. A. P. Meek of Brownwood, Texas, who spent the last week of July and the first week of August with her son, Prof. F. E. Meek at Fort Stanton, left for home after her visit accompanied by her son, who visited at his old home, returning here on Tuesday of this week. Before coming here, Mrs. Meek visited her sister, Mrs. Pinkard, at Portales.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Young and daughters moved to El Paso the latter part of last week, to which place Charley has been transferred in the S. P. water service.

ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Tusk of the Wild Boar"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Well, sir, here's a story that starts out with another story. A long time ago I got a letter, sent to the Adventurers' Club, from Java, in the Dutch East Indies, way over on the other side of the world. It came from Kaboel, whose address was Panggoengweg No. 2, Tegal, Java, and Kaboel said that he'd read in the paper that I was giving away money, and would I please send him a hundred dollars because he was very poor.

Well, sir, I wrote Kaboel a letter telling him I couldn't send him any money until he'd sent in an adventure yarn good enough to print in this column, and—well—I guess they have adventures over in Java, too, because in came the yarn from Kaboel.

Incidentally, here's where the Adventurers' club breaks another ironclad rule. You know these yarns are all true and they'll have to be vouched for. It's the club's custom to require that all papers be signed by the adventurer's name in full—first and last name, complete. But what are you going to do when a guy hasn't got any last name. Kaboel writes

"Kaboel is the only name I have. I am a pure blooded Javanese boy, and we do not have family names."

On a Week's Hunt in the Jungle.

And now for Kaboel's story. He says he's had lots of adventures, but this time he's going to tell us about a boar hunt he went on with his father and some of their Javanese neighbors. They set out for a week's hunting in the jungle one morning in 1929, taking with them a supply of beras, or unprepared rice, and dendeng, which is meat prepared with spices. They traveled through the jungle for two days, walking about eight hours a day, and stopping to eat and rest in the early afternoons when the sun was hottest.

During the first two nights, they slept on the ground, rolled up in blankets. After that they were in country where the wild boar were plentiful and dangerous. Then they climbed trees as soon as it got dark, and passed the night in them. On the third day they pitched camp and were ready to begin hunting. First they looked for water holes (drink places, Kaboel calls them) where the boars came at night to quench their thirst. They found several, and Kaboel and his dad hid in the undergrowth near one of them. The first night they killed three boars and carried them back to camp.

On the second night, about eight o'clock, a boar came out of the jungle across from where they were hiding. Kaboel and his dad both fired. The boar tumbled and fell. But the next moment he was on his feet again, his eyes gleaming malevolently, and was coming at them like a hurricane.

The guns they were using were old single shot affairs. There was no time to reload them. Kaboel's dad yelled to him to run, while he dashed off in another direction.

The boar could only follow one of them—and he picked on Kaboel. The boar was a scant ten yards from him, and the nearest tree was twenty-five or thirty yards away. Kaboel ran as he had never run in his life, but he COULDN'T OUTRUN THAT BOAR. Foot by foot it gained on him. By the time Kaboel reached the nearest tree, the boar was a scant yard behind.

Neat Trick That Fooled the Boar.

There was no time to climb that tree then. The boar would have ripped Kaboel's legs to pieces with his tusks while he was trying to get up it. But Kaboel had a trick up his sleeve—a trick known to all native boar hunters in Java. As he neared the tree he reached out and caught it with his hand—swung himself sharply around it.

The boar WENT THUNDERING BY HIM. Before he could stop he was ten yards away, and that was all the room Kaboel needed. Before the animal could turn around, Kaboel had started up the tree. The boar saw him—charged again—but he was just too late. By the time he reached the tree again, Kaboel was sitting pretty on one of the lower limbs.

But the boar wasn't giving up yet. He made a few desperate lunges up the side of the tree trunk, trying to climb up after Kaboel, then he began to walk around that tree. Around and around he went, pawing the ground with his hoofs and stopping every now and then to glare up into the tree at Kaboel.

Kaboel thought it would be only a short time before the boar either succumbed to his wounds or got tired of waiting and went away. But the boar, evidently, wasn't wounded very badly, and neither did he get tired of waiting for Kaboel to come down. Hour after hour went by. Dusk turned into night, and the night wore on. Still the boar hadn't given up. Still he paced around and around the tree, waiting to kill that man creature who had stung him with his shooting stick.

Kaboel Tied Himself in the Tree.

Kaboel was getting sleepy, but he fought sleep off. Once or twice he caught himself falling into a doze, and brought himself awake just in time to keep from falling out of the tree. That would never do. Once he landed on the ground, he would be ripped and trampled to death by the boar in a matter of seconds—minutes at the most.

Still, he was dead tired. The day had been a hard one, and his body ached with fatigue. He searched his pocket—and found a piece of rope that was all he wanted. Picking a nice comfortable spot in the upper branches of the tree, he tied himself to the trunk.

Sleeping in trees was nothing new to the Javanese boy. It was uncomfortable up there straddling that tree limb, but not uncomfortable enough to keep him from taking a nap when properly secured. He dozed off, and when he awoke again it was morning. The boar was gone. "Indeed, such animals are timid in daylight," says Kaboel. And Kaboel climbed down the tree and started back to camp.

Shipping Terms

Gross tonnage is the cubic contents or burden of the vessel in tons of 100 cubic feet each, as ascertained in a certain method prescribed by law. The net tonnage is the gross tonnage, less certain deductions for space occupied by engines, crew's quarters, etc., giving a rough measure of the capacity of the vessel for cargo or passengers. Deadweight is a ship's loading or cargo. The displacement is the weight of water displaced by the floating of the vessel, and is equal to the weight of the displacing body.

Anise of Paraley Family

The true anise is a member of the paraley family, native to southern Europe. It is a slender plant, two to four feet tall, with opposite oval sharply serrate leaves. Somewhat branched at the top the branches end in interrupted spikes of small blue flowers each a half inch long. The tubular calyx is also a purplish blue adding color to the flowering spike. The decided odor of the flower spike gives the name anise hyssop; botanists call it Agastache anethifolia and it is also known as fragrant giant hyssop.

GRABBED BY JAPANESE

Hokey-Pokey-Man of Peiping.

Cities of North China That Have Been Occupied by Nippon

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

JAPANESE occupation is not new to the port of Tsingtao, China, where Nippon troops were recently reported to have been denied permission to land by Chinese officials. While Germany was busy in Europe during the World war, the city, then under a 99-year lease to the German government, was occupied by the Japanese until hostilities in Europe ceased.

Facing the Yellow sea, on the southern coast of Shantung peninsula, Tsingtao has been from time to time a provincial capital as well as a dilapidated fishing port. Germany, in 1898, saw the city as a great port, a "German Hong Kong"—hence the 99-year lease. The German lease was eight years old when the harbor was opened to foreign trade. In the meantime several thousand Germans moved in, constructed new buildings and wide, tree-lined boulevards. New water and sewage systems were installed, granite piers built out in the harbor, which had been dredged and marked so that ocean-going vessels could dock and discharge or load cargoes with modern equipment. When the World war broke, Tsingtao had not only become a modern commercial Titan along the Chinese coast, but its splendid beaches and new hotel accommodations made it a vacation rendezvous for many residents of foreign colonies in the Orient.

Today Tsingtao is not the German Tsingtao. Before the Germans were driven out, they blew up its fortifications and demolished many other memorials of their occupation. Japanese airmen did considerable damage with airplane bombs. Yet Tsingtao remains one of China's leading ports, and one of the nearest Chinese ports to Japan.

Tientsin a Commercial Center.

Another Chinese city in which Japanese troops have concentrated recently is Tientsin, 70 miles from the gates of Peiping. News dispatches from Tientsin stated that its principal railway station was converted into an army supply depot for Nippon's soldiers. Few inland Chinese population centers display the modern aspect that the traveler discovers in Tientsin. While the city has its quarter of narrow, winding byways where children play amid odors typical of a Chinese city, the foreign quarter spreads its influence amid modern settings. Within a stone's throw of the tortuous streets are bank and commercial buildings of which most occidental cities would be proud, and there are the concessions of the British, French and Italians.

Tientsin is the chief commercial center of North China, largely because of its geographic location. The city is only about 30 miles from the sea, and nearby Tangku, on the lower Hai Ho in reality is the Tientsin seaport. The Pleyun Ho flows into the city from the northwest and the Grand canal also passes through it. Besides these trade arteries, century-old caravan routes and railroads spread from Tientsin like spokes in a gigantic wheel, penetrating Shantung, Jehol, Manchukuo, Honan, Shanai, Kansu and Inner Mongolia. While traders still ply the old routes, and railroads and small vessels add to the commercial animation of Tientsin, there also are industries in the city that employ many of its 1,368,000 people. Flour milling is a chief industry while cotton mills operate more than 300,000 spindles.

As Tientsin is "on the way" from the sea to Peiping, it has long been a key to the old capital.

Fighting in the Peiping area has again thrown a world spotlight on that frequently fought-over city, former capital of China and always a center of international interests.

Many foreigners are residents of Peiping, where embassies to China are retained, although offices must be established also in Nanking, the official capital of the central government. Such an arrangement has been adopted by the United States, which retains an embassy in Peiping guarded by a detachment of United States Marines. Other foreign embassies with armed guards are the British, French, Italian and Japanese.

Peiping the Focus of Affairs.

Peiping was the focus of perhaps the most widespread international tension on Chinese record during the anti-foreign Boxer uprising in 1900, when troops of several nations, including the United States, were landed and marched inland to rescue all Peiping's foreign residents, who had been besieged for two months in the British embassy.

As commercial and cultural mistress of China's northern plain, Peiping is the country's second largest city, being surpassed only by Shanghai. Its geographic location brings it into contact with Japanese-controlled Manchukuo on the northeast, semi-independent Tibetan provinces on the west, and Russian-controlled Mongolian republics on the northwest. The foreign embassies and branch offices of foreign business firms in Peiping give it the greatest international importance north of the Yangtze river. As center of the Hopen-Chahar council, it is a focus for the independence movement which has weakened ties between North China and the central government at Nanking.

Having lost the name of Peking, "northern capital," in 1928 when China's administrative center was moved south to Nanking, Peiping now finds its present title, "city of northern peace," threatened. In national affairs Peiping is a stronghold of tradition. Contrasting with the present Chinese capital, the northern metropolis has had many reincarnations as seat of China's government under such romance-freighted names as Peking, Cambulac, and Purple Imperial City. Its Mandarin dialect, the "Parisian French" of Chinese speech, comes closer than any other to being generally understood throughout the nation.

Famous Marco Polo Bridge.

When the boom and rattle of heavy guns and rifles disturbed the calm of Peiping recently, newspaper men sent back word that the first clashes were in the neighborhood of the Marco Polo bridge, nine miles southwest of the city. Many foreigners make excursions from Peiping to this ancient many-arched stone bridge, one of the most picturesque in northern China, which spans the muddy Yung-tung river.

Marco Polo bridge was named by foreigners in honor of the Venetian adventurer who first described it—albeit inaccurately—to the western world when he came to the Orient to call upon the fabulous Kublai Khan. The Chinese call it Lu Kou Chiao. Marco Polo praised the magnificent solid stone span of twenty-four arches on almost the same page with such Chinese novelties as beauty contests, daily baths, and black rock which was burned as a cheap substitute for wood. Europeans found the twenty-four arches the most credible part of the story, but it was actually the one inaccuracy. The arches numbered no more than thirteen, but countless loads of coal passed over them from western mines to supply Peiping with "black stone" fuel. The treacherous Yung-tung river in a Seventeenth-century flood clipped off two arches. Now the bridge has only eleven stone arches, mossy with age.

The Marco Polo bridge has played a significant role in the history of Peiping, to which it was once the main portal from the southwest. For centuries, when Peiping was the political as well as the cultural center of China's ancient civilization, the bridge played a dramatic part in invasions. It still bears its share of motor, caravan, and foot traffic.

CHOICES AND THEIR CONSEQUENCES IN A NATION'S LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 11:8-12, 28-32

GOLDEN TEXT—Choose you this day whom ye will serve.—Joshua 24:15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Country.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Choosing Sides.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Importance of Our Choices.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—My Part in Making Up the Nation's Mind.

Nations as well as individuals are responsible before God for the manner in which they live. They enjoy the blessings of right living and suffer the penalty of wrong moral choices. While it is true that national leaders may not always reflect the true character of the people, it is generally true that there is a sort of national character which over a longer period of time accurately represents the moral condition of the people as a whole.

Many earnest men and women believe that the United States of America stands today at the crossroads of national moral decision. There has been an unquestionable decadence of true religion, of home life, of social purity, and a growth of moral indifference and outright wickedness which causes men who think to cry out for a revival of old-fashioned spiritual and moral standards ere it be too late. The most effective, and in fact the only really effective way to bring that about, is a revival within the church of Christ, and a resultant renewal of its service in winning men to Jesus Christ as their Saviour and Lord. A 24-page booklet "Lessons in Soul-Winning," by Dr. Will H. Houghton, will be sent by the writer without charge to those requesting it. If possible enclose a 3 cent stamp.

I. Right Choices Result in Blessing (vv. 8, 9).

Making the right choice is in fact a simple matter, for it means only obedience to God's commandments. God is the author of the moral law. He alone can and does determine what is right and wrong. Man need not determine, nor is he equipped to decide that question. He can and must relate the details of his life to the law of God. How important it is then that he properly understand that law, and what folly it is to neglect the study of God's Word, where the commandments of God are made known unto men.

Choosing God's way means for both men and the nations which they make up (for my country is in the final analysis myself, and other individuals like me) the assurance of God's blessing and prosperity.

II. God Encourages Right Choices (vv. 10-12).

Our God is the great and untiring "giver of every good and perfect gift." We need but to lift up our eyes and look at His handiwork, or stir up our memories to recall His goodness, and we know that he and all his blessed works encourage us to do right—to live right.

But, alas, all too often God's choicest gifts are perverted and are used to bring the very opposite result. The most beautiful lakes and naturally delightful surroundings are used for resorts and clubs which all too often lead men to moral destruction. Parents almost fear that their daughters may be too attractive, for the world, the flesh, and the devil are constantly out "scouting" for beautiful women whose very God-given beauty may be used to glorify sin and lead others into disobedience to God.

III. Right and Wrong Are Fundamental and Eternal (vv. 26-32).

It needs to be repeated over and over again in these callous and indifferent days that there is laid down in the very constitution of the entire universe a moral distinction between right and wrong. Right is always right, and wrong is definitely and eternally wrong. There is no moral twilight zone, where things are neither white nor black, but a neutral gray.

Note that the difference between right and wrong was to be the same "on the other side of the Jordan." Time and place have no power to change moral law. What was right or wrong for your great-grandfather is right or wrong for you. What was right in your home on the farm is right in the city where you now live, or vice-versa. The passing of the years or a change of residence does not alter that law of God.

May God help the people of our nation, and all the countries of the earth, to remember that it is still true that "righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people" (Prov. 14:34).

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon expression is worn by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

KEEP BOWELS OPEN

NO person can be well and happy if constantly distressed with the evil effects of constipation. And no person needs to risk ill health by neglecting to keep the bowels wholesomely clean. Yet so many suffer! Are you one of them? Is constipation keeping you unfit and uncomfortable—bilious, bloated, tired without appetite, ambitious or enervated? Then try Doan's Regulets. They act mildly and without distress, contain no calomel nor habit-forming drugs, tone the liver, stimulate the flow of bile and promote well-balanced activity of the intestinal tract. Be regular with Regulets. Sold at all drug stores.

Keeping Up With Science

Anakatabats May Get You When You Are Up in the Air

Up and Down Currents Are Avoided by Pilots

By DR. FRANK THONE

Washington.—Anakatabats—are you acquainted with them? There's likely to be one in the air in your vicinity right now. So without much question you know anakatabats in a general sort of way at least, though probably not by that name.

Anakatabat is a newish word, not used much yet even in the profession for which it was invented, which is meteorology, the weather man's "ology." But because it rather neatly expresses a scientific idea and a material reality, anakatabat is likely to become more familiar in time—perhaps even to become street English.

Despite its Eskimoid appearance and sound, anakatabat is good Greek—indeed, very simple Greek. Put into equivalent simple English, it is "up-down-go."

What Goes Up, Comes Down.

The idea of an anakatabat is built on the ancient truism that what goes up must come down, or at any rate that if something goes up its equivalent must come down. We see this simply exemplified in the ordinary passenger elevator, where the weight of the cage is offset by the heavy counterweights that slide down the sides of the shaft when the cage goes up, and up when the cage comes down.

The same kind of thing happens in the air. When a strong current of air rises very fast, as it does when thunderhead clouds are piling up on the horizon, somewhere else an equivalent vertical wind is blowing the same amount of air downward, thus preserving atmospheric equilibrium. Such an up-down-going of air constitutes an anakatabat.

An anakatabat can be very dangerous to aircraft. Planes avoid them. They have wrecked three fine ships for the United States navy: Shenandoah, Akron, Macon. When you're up among the clouds, it's decidedly not a good thing to meet an anakatabat.

Cosmic Ray Balloon Tracked to Earth by an Airplane

Washington.—A star fell on a tobacco row at a farm near the little town of Aquasco, Md., some 30 miles from Washington. Moreover an airplane chased the star to earth.

Or at least that is what Franklyn Irvin Gibbons thought as he stopped hoeing his tobacco recently and watched a plane following a shining object coming down from the sky into his nearby cornfield.

"The 'star' was a radio balloon sent aloft by Dr. L. F. Curtiss of the national bureau of standards, which ascended some 17 miles and transmitted, back to earth, cosmic ray data. The zooming airplane was from the United States naval air station, flown by W. B. Fuller, radio-man first class, and O. T. Cooper, chief radioman. They noted the shining bag of the radio balloon falling at the rate of about 160 miles an hour at an altitude of 8,000 feet and dove to follow it to its landing. The coincidence is the first, ever known to occur in the new field of radio meteorology by which scientists are now probing the upper air to learn its weather and cosmic ray secrets.

Tiny radio transmitting sets carried aloft in small, unmanned balloons are reaching far beyond the limits of human flight in either airplanes or balloons.

Too Much Drainage Plays Hob With German Land

Berlin.—Drainage of areas better left as lake or swamp is proving a difficulty in Germany no less than in the United States.

For every area thus recovered and put to agricultural use, there is a neighboring area that is damaged through the lowering of its water table and the consequent disturbance of its biotic balance, declares Alwin Seifert in the German conservation journal, Naturschutz.

Digging drainage ditches is a principal occupation of the German Arbeitdienst, which is the equivalent of the American C. C. C. Herr Seifert is convinced that they are turning a good thing into a bad, by carrying it too far.

Lack of Vitamin C Found a Probable Cause of Pyorrhea

Your Dentist Can Supply the Deficiency Safely

Cambridge, Mass.—A link between pyorrhea and scurvy has been forged at the laboratories of the Harvard dental school here. Drs. Paul Boyle and David Weisberger have under way research which indicates that a lack of vitamin C in the diet may be the cause of—or at least a contributing factor to—pyorrhea just as this vitamin C has long been known to cause scurvy.

While the findings are yet incomplete they indicate, say the scientists, that as far as the general practitioner is concerned vitamin C treatment for pyorrhea "can be adopted with safety and it probably should be adopted as a routine measure in addition to, but not in place of, other recognized forms of therapy."

Humans and Guinea Pigs.

The Harvard dentists have been working with both animals and humans in their studies. Guinea pigs were fed diets varying in their vitamin C content and later checked to see the degree of pyorrhea which they developed. X-ray and microscopic examinations of these animals showed all the characteristics of the true pyorrhea in reproducible form.

Forty-eight human patients were studied in the dental school where their degree of pyorrhea symptoms were compared with the content of vitamin C in their blood. Twenty-three patients with a low vitamin C blood content had marked evidence of the disease. Ten patients with a reduced vitamin C blood content showed the gum disease but to a lesser extent than the first group. Among fifteen patients with normal vitamin C blood content only one case had the disease.

These human findings, it is emphasized, are not conclusive but they do offer a most consistently positive finding in cases of the advanced disease, Dr. Weisberger indicated.

Use of Vitamin C Relatively Safe.

To the layman and the average dental practitioner the research has three significant points: (1) The new test of vitamin C in the blood as employed is not practical for a dental office and will probably largely be confined to hospitals. (2) The suggested use of vitamin C is a relatively safe procedure, for most experts agree the body can handle an overdose easily. This is not true with vitamin D. (3) The improvement in the mouth tissues, around the teeth, which occurs when vitamin C is administered indicates the practical value of the treatment.

Vitamin C, found naturally in limes and lemons principally, is also available in tablet form as ascorbic acid or cevitamic acid. To maintain the normal amount of vitamin C in the blood a daily intake of 50 milligrams is sufficient.

Only 84 Wisent, or European Bison, Are Known to Be Alive

Berlin.—In striking contrast to the now seemingly assured survival of American buffalo, or bison, is the still precarious status of the European bison, or wisent. There are only 84 head of pure-blooded animals left, a summarizing study of the International Society for the Preservation of Wisent shows.

Yet scientists interested in the great shaggy animals are not discouraged, for recent years have shown at least a slight gain in numbers.

In addition to the pure-bloods, there are a good many hybrid wisent, results of crosses with American bison. By a process called "elimination breeding," in which only pure-blooded bulls are used with hybrid cows, the proportion of bison blood is being reduced in the hybrid stock, so that eventually these will be almost full-blooded wisent also.

Before the World war there used to be a large herd in the Russian Caucasus and another in Poland. During the war and the confused period afterwards, these animals were all killed by distressed populations needing food at any terms.

Rayon From Rice Husks New Industry for Japan

Tokyo.—A $2,000,000 industry is being promoted in Tokyo with the object of producing rayon-making pulp from rice-husks, of which a practically unlimited supply is assured in Japan.

The process which forms the basis of the new industry has been developed by the Tokyo industrial laboratory, a division of the department of commerce and industry, in collaboration with the research institute of the South Manchuria Railway company.

By VIRGINIA VALE

NO ONE could blame Robert Taylor if he decided to avoid New York City on his return from Europe. The reception his fans gave him was so frenzied a demonstration that several stalwart policemen are still nursing bruises.

It was bad enough at the railroad station, where screeching women broke through police lines and shoved each other around in an effort to shake his hand. But that was nothing to what occurred on the Berengaria just as the ship was about to sail with him on board. Girls in their teens simply swarmed all over the boat, climbing over railings, breaking through guard ropes, hiding themselves under life boats.

Sailing was delayed half an hour because a steward found two youngsters hiding under the bed in Taylor's stateroom, and it was thought wise to search the rest of the ship.

Taylor was wearing a three-year old battered brown felt hat, a brown sports coat, gray slacks and shirt and sturdy brown sports shoes and looked as wholesome and modest as a powerful farmhand.

Before "Vogues of 1938" opened in New York, the professional dress models association gave a party for Joan Bennett, and gave her a plaque to commemorate the occasion. They say she has given new dignity to the modeling profession by appearing in this picture. Joan is the most modest and inconspicuous guest of honor you ever saw at a party. She drifted in so quietly that few even saw her. She has many charming traits.

Columbia Pictures have entered the competition to see who can crowd the most radio, stage, and night club celebrities in one picture and at the moment it looks as if they are well in the lead. Their "Freshman Follies" will include Gertrude Nelsen, Jimmy Durante, Hal Le Roy, the sensational tap dancer, and Johnny Green, who has grown so popular as bandmaster on that Tuesday night automobile hour.

Several of the radio stars around N. B. C. headquarters are dashing through second-hand stores and Chinatown curio shops these days and studying books on Chinese ceramics at odd moments. It is all the fault of John Gambling, commentator on the Monday night "Melody Revue." He recently sold eight rare vases for five thousand dollars after buying them for eight hundred.

Ramon Novarro went to Reading and Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, a few days ago to attend the first showings of his Republic picture, "The Sheik Steps Out," and came back quite dazed and deeply touched by the warmth of his receptions. Crowds came from far and near to meet him at the station, escort him to his hotel and then on to the theater. He appeared four times a day and sang encore after encore and still the audience shouted for more.

Smilin' Ed McConnell, radio's well loved singer, humorist and philosopher has returned to the air for his sixth consecutive year as dispenser of good cheer on Sunday afternoons. With the new series of thirty-nine weeks comes a change of outlet to N. B. C.'s Blue Network, giving the Acme singer a coast-to-coast hookup. Genial and corpulent

Ed returned from "the little place in the North woods" after a summer of fishing, swimming and "jess' loafin' around." He is being supported in his half-hour broadcast by a distinguished group of musicians.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ida Lupino is going to be pretty cautious after this when she invites guests to dinner. W. C. Fields liked the cooking so well that he persuaded the cook to come to work for him. Halluc Shaw, the C. B. S. soprano, has been in New York for six months and has never been inside a night club. Says she likes symphony concerts better, but how does she know? . . . Marlene Dietrich is having a lot of peasant blouses made up in Budapest to bring home to her Hollywood friends. . . . The most widely-quoted joke in motion picture circles concerns the wild leopard which is being tamed to act with Katherine Hepburn in "Bringing Up Baby." Everyone says, "But who is going to tame Katie so she won't frighten the leopard?" . . . Eddie Cantor wears a blonde wig and impersonates a harem dancer in a sequence of "All About Me Town" and his daughters are enjoying it immensely. They pursue him calling him "Mama."

AROUND the HOUSE

A Combination Dish.—Two parts of tomatoes simmered with one part of celery makes a good combination dish.

In Preparing a Chicken Dinner.—A live chicken usually weighs a third more than a dressed chicken. Allow half a pound of dressed chicken per person.

For Basting Roasts.—Leftover fruit juices, especially those from spiced fruits, make excellent basting liquid for roasts, chops and ham dishes.

Picnic Lemonade.—One cup sugar, one cup water, one cup strong tea infusion, six lemons, one cup crushed pineapple, three quarts water. Cook the sugar and water to a thin syrup; add the tea, lemon juice, pineapple, and water. Serve iced. Sixteen to eighteen servings. Excellent to quench thirst. Juices from canned peaches, apricots, pears or cherries can be utilized for some of the water.

Dainty Shoulder Straps.—When making your undies try using narrow velvet ribbon for the shoulder straps. The velvet side next to the skin acts as a grip, while the satin on top looks dainty. You will find that ribbon-velvet straps will outlast any garment.

Save the Curtains.—A finger cut from an old glove and slipped over the end of a curtain rod enables it to be pushed through the curtain hems of the finest net without catching and tearing the fabric.

Raspberry Shrub.—To three quarts of red raspberries and one quart of sugar add one cup of vinegar. Cook slowly for half an hour and strain through cheesecloth. Pour into sterilized bottles and seal. Serve over ice cubes diluted with water to taste.

A Mended Cloth.—If a small hole is burnt or worn in an otherwise good white tablecloth, it can be "mended" most effectively by stitching a motif in fine crochet over it and cutting away the spoiled fabric underneath. Add one or two more motifs so that

"WE THE PEOPLE of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

That, as every one knows, is the Preamble of our famous Constitution, whose 150th anniversary America now celebrates.

To a world accustomed to rule by kings or favored cliques, the American Constitution must have seemed both startling and impractical when signed at Philadelphia's historic Independence Hall, on September 17, 1787.

But today we know its worth. History, and the unprecedented development of the United States in arm, in prestige, and in the progress of all its people, has demonstrated how effective a form of government was established on that firm foundation.

Today it stands an object of reverence by all Americans; a model of freedom to the oppressed of all nations.

At this time of nation-wide celebration, America pays tribute not to the Constitution alone, but also to the men who out of their experience and their aspirations for a free and happy nation wrote that famous Charter of Liberty.

But such tribute, however sincere, is not enough. The strength and power of the Constitution depend on the support of every successive generation to which it guarantees liberty and opportunity.

Only by that support have we remained in the past, and can we remain in the future, a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Only by that support can we the People continue to rule.

That is the message and the spirit of the Constitution Day Celebration.

Warning To Voters!

THE PEOPLE of this state are at the cross-roads. Either the amendments must be defeated, or Governor Tingley will set up a political machine so powerful that it will be impossible for the will of the people to be enforced. We do not want to sell our birthright for a mess of pottage. We want to live as decent American citizens under the banner of freedom and the God-given privilege of expressing our own rights.

Governor Tingley is determined to rule with an iron hand. It is his will against yours and mine . . . against the people. Hundreds of men over the state are reported to have lost their jobs because they dared speak against "If You Want Roads You Gotta Support Me" Tingley. Do we want this condition to continue indefinitely . . . for years and years to come?

The special election of Sept. 21 is of vital interest to every New Mexican. For the first time, a governor of New Mexico has built up a machine so strong that he believes he can demand whatever he wants of the voters and get it. Never before has the state been faced with an issue that would affect its future progress to such an extent as the vicious proposal of Governor "To-Get-Roads-You-Gotta-Support-Me" Tingley, to change the constitution so that he, the "savior" of New Mexico and the "best governor the state has ever had," may continue in office and perpetuate his political machine.

No matter how your back aches—how your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.
For three generations one woman has told another how to go "soothing through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus loosening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Soothing Through."

Louis Proves Worse Than Most Severe Critics Suspected

WHILE Joe Louis and Tommy Farr were taking care of their international relations at Yankee Stadium recently, two widely divergent viewpoints were developed.

Since then four other viewpoints have been added to the general confusion caused by the light fantastic performance within the ring.

V. P. (1)—The great radio audience's impression that it was a whale of a prize-fight.

V. P. (2)—The casual notion that Farr must be a considerably better fighter than even the ten unknown gees who previously had licked him ever suspected.

V. P. (3)—The well-founded belief that Louis looked even worse than a baldheaded space filler who thought he could do the job in five rounds.

V. P. (4)—The sum-it-all-up idea that the thing would be made an order for reviving Britain's faltering boxing industry if re-enacted in London next winter.

V. P. (1) can be disposed of summarily. It was by no means a great fight or even a good one.

V. P. (2) is not to be given the air so easily. Farr, as was known in advance, is mainly a young man composed of elbows, cunning and heart.

V. P. (3) is not to be given the air so easily. Farr, as was known in advance, is mainly a young man composed of elbows, cunning and heart.

Recalls Prediction on Harry Danning

Quotation from story written at San Antonio, Texas, on March 12, 1931, by H. Bradley:

There's a kid here nobody seems to notice but if you're wise you'll stick along with him in his opinion that he's going to be a Giants' star some day.

Howard Jones has abandoned the two team idea for his University of Southern California football squad, one for each half of the game, and will return to the old system of the eleven best men composing the varsity.

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

Washington.—More and more newspapers throughout the country are demanding that the President invoke the terms of the American Neutrality act with respect to the war—undeclared though it is—that is raging on Chinese soil.

There probably has never been a brutality comparable to the unspeakable outrage which Japan is committing in China; certainly, never in modern times.

Although the Tokyo government has yet to say it is fighting a war, the Japanese aggression in China is just as much a war as though the United States and Canada had taken up arms against each other and had proclaimed to the world that they were belligerents.

But what of other world powers? Lately, the Chinese have entered into a treaty with Soviet Russia which that nation promises not to participate in war against China.

What of Other Powers? which that nation promises not to participate in war against China.

Also, it ought to be mentioned that the treaty between the Soviet and China may be influential in Europe.

Word comes by cable from Paris that the French government has nationalized all of the railroads within the borders of that nation.

It may be that this news item will be passed over by many persons with the remark that the condition is several thousand miles across the Atlantic.

I call attention to this development for another reason. It happens that about three years ago members of President Roosevelt's so-called Brain Trust were planning exactly the same thing for the United States.

Strangely, the terms by which the French government, which is now completely socialistic, took over the railroads of France are identical with those which were under consideration by the Roosevelt Brain Trust.

It may be news to many persons to learn that the bunch of theorists who infest our government once actually drafted a bill for action by congress to nationalize the American railroads.

It may be that "it can't happen here," but I must confess a very deep fear. It seems to me the time has arrived for those who believe in ownership of their own homes, possession of their own money—whether the sum be small or large—to awaken to the trend of world events.

though the government officially remains neutral.

Further, if our President declared that war existed between Japan and China, doubtless Japan would be encouraged to declare war on China formally.

In some quarters in Washington, one will hear arguments that the United States ought to continue to keep its hands off the Far East situation.

The basic reason why these thinkers argue against a firm American attitude, however, is that China never has been subjugated.

Here's What to Sew

THIS is not a wishing-page, Miss lady, even though it is from a book of exclusive fashions by Sew-Your-Own!

Here is one frock that belongs in every woman's wardrobe. You'll look prettier in the kitchen, more comfortable at work—and in your silk crepe version—prettier in afternoon leisure or shopping on the avenue.

Simple 'm' Charming. A lusciously feminine frock for you, young but knowing ladies of fashion, is the model looking right at you from above center.

You cute, little lady of fashion, this is your lucky day. You and Mommy will agree on this dress

Uncle Phil Says: Indolence and Inability

There is room at the top fully as much because the intellectually indolent don't want to get there, as because of the inability of others to do it.

There wouldn't be so many nobodies if self-respect were more generally diffused.

We all love best a friend who is sometimes stubborn, generally good-natured.

A recluse may keep track of what is going on by the newspapers, but he misses an enormous fund of sub rosa information that circulates solely by vocal repetition.

just like two pals should agree. It buttons down the front, the way you want it to; its waist is snug as big sister's, and all in all it will make you feel the best-dressed girl in the whole assembly.

The Patterns. Pattern 1267 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35-inch material, plus 1 1/2 yards contrasting.

Pattern 1362 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material—with short sleeves 4 1/2 yards.

Pattern 1213 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, and 16 years. Size 10 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material, plus 1/2 yard contrasting with 1 1/2 yards of 1 1/2-inch bias binding.

Mermaids Vanishing. The "mermaids" will soon be extinct. These curious sea creatures, resembling human beings and which were mistaken for them by old-time sailors, are dugongs, a species of sea-cow, which were exceedingly common in the Indian and South Atlantic oceans years ago.

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood streams free of an excess of toxic impurities.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swollen ankles, and under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste.

"Coming by to gloat, when a man can't defend himself?" Hammond longed to snap out that regardless of Kenning's state, she was still able to offer rebuttal, but he refrained. This was a different Kay from the sure, almost patronizing person who had flown in here, sleek, well-groomed only a few months before. Now, there were hollows beneath her eyes; even her hair seemed to have lost some of its glint. A certain sympathy swept Hammond for her; he was glad of it, glad that the bitterness was gone.

"I'm sorry, Kay," he said slowly. "I wouldn't do anything to hurt you."

The girl had not heard him. She had turned swiftly back to the cot, watching intently.

"Get Sergeant Terry!" she commanded, in a queer voice. "Sergeant Terry?"

She straightened, railing. "Get Sergeant Terry! Go get Sergeant Terry! Can't you see Bruce is dying?"

A glaze had come into the man's eyes. Hammond ran from the room, returning in a moment with the sergeant. Kay stood beside the cot, straight, strangely wan.

"Sergeant," she said in a thin voice, "you have the right of a justice?"

"Yes, in some things." "Marriage?" "Yes."

She spoke slowly. "Will you marry Bruce Kenning and me?"

The sergeant appeared puzzled. "Does he—that is—"

"Ask him. He can answer with his eyes. He moves them for 'yes,' closes them for 'no.' Confirm it—and ask him. Only please hurry!"

"Yes, of course." The sergeant bent close with his queries. Bruce Kenning slowly moved his eyes.

"Hurry, Sergeant," the girl pleaded.

A frontier nurse was passing. The sergeant caught her by the arm.

"Wait a minute, please," he commanded, and with a gesture indicated that Jack also was to remain as a witness. Then, brokenly, from memory, he began to repeat the passages of the wedding ceremony: "Do you, Bruce Kenning, take this woman for your lawful wife?"

The eyes, more glassy, rolled slowly in answer. "And do you—?"

At last it was over. Jack Hammond walked dully away. A few months before, he had waded hip-deep in the waters of Lake Sapphire, to welcome this girl as his fiancée. Now, in a gambling house, he had stood as a witness while she married another man. His eyes fell on the roulette wheel. Life and roulette, a turn of the wheel, a bet placed at random, a call of the croupier announcing the loser.

Behind him, Kay Joyce was sobbing, the frontier nurse beside her as she knelt against Bruce Kenning's cot. There was little need for gentleness; Kenning was all but beyond pain. Hammond raised a hand to his throat. He left the room.

After a time, around the World Annie came out into the entrance where Jack stood talking at random with the sergeant.

"Well, the guy's kicked over," she said. "Funny she'd want to marry him, ain't it? And him dying—"

That night, Hammond saw Kay Joyce again, in the hallway of Annie's pavilion. Some of the dullness was gone from her features, giving way to the flare of her always easily aroused anger. Around the World Annie stood at the window, watching the flecking of a snow flurry against the pane.

"And I don't care what you say about it," Annie spat; "the thing was mine and I did what I pleased with it."

Hammond halted an instant, then started on toward the gambling room in search of Jeanne. Annie called him back.

"You're mixed up in this. What about them claims you signed over to Bruce Kenning?"

Hammond looked at her. "Well, what about them?" "Were they any good?" "Why ask?"

Around the World Annie breathed deeply, bulging her ponderous bosom.

"Me 'n' Kay Joyce have got an argument on about them. She says they're hers."

Hammond pressed his lips. "I guess they are," came finally. "She married Kenning for them."

Annie stared. "Did you?" she asked the girl. "Why marry a guy for a bunch of no-good claims?"

Kay Joyce only glared. Hammond said dully, "But they were worth millions, Annie."

"Millions?" she put a hand to her head. "Did you say millions?" "That's the indication."

"My Gawd!" the woman gasped. "And I—" she poked a finger at Hammond. "Remember me telling about a check or note or something he signed over? It was them claims. He must have been willing to hock anything to get out of here that night."

Hammond gestured futilely. This was becoming involved.

"Then you've got a lien against them for ten thousand dollars. But Kay inherited them when she married Kenning."

"That's what I've been trying to tell her," the girl snapped. Annie cut her off.

"Lien, hell. Those became mine when he signed 'em over to me. He said he was coming back the next morning. He didn't come back. And I wanted to give these frontier nurses a little present. They're swell gals. But, my Gawd, I didn't know I was passing 'em out a whole gold mine!"

"You had no right to give that away!" Kay Joyce cried. There was desperation in her voice. Annie faced her, suddenly seething.

"Listen, Baby! I gave it to 'em and I ain't squawking. Let's see if you've got the same amount of guts."

"But it's not fair. It was what I was going to live on. That's why I married him—so he could look after me. Don't you see—?" she gestured weakly. "I haven't anything. What in the world will become of me?"

Life and Roulette, a Turn of the Wheel—

"Oh, you'll live," said Annie. "Is the transfer recorded?" Hammond asked.

"Yeh," Annie pawed for a cigarette. "I thought it'd look bigger if I told 'em to do that. One of 'em went down to the office as soon as the tent had been put up again."

Hammond shrugged his shoulders. "I guess that's the end of it."

Kay flared. "No, it's not the end of it. She didn't have any right to do it! I'll fight for what's mine—if I have to—"

"Wait a minute, Baby," said Annie. "A dame like you ain't going to take nothing away from the frontier nurses. Not with a jury of miners doing the deciding. Specially when they know all the crookedness there was mixed up in it."

Sergeant Terry had strolled into the anteroom and stood silently by. Now he scratched a match and talked over the side of his black pipe.

"Kenning tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce," he said. "Lew Snade is one, Hammond here the other. More than that, he set fire to the bush, which is a good deal worse. I don't believe I'd resort to law."

The girl seemed to wilt. "But what am I going to do? Can't you understand? I haven't a thing! How will I live? How will I exist?"

"You still have half of the properties Kenning and I owned," Hammond interjected. "For that matter, you can have all of them—I'm going on, over the hill."

Three days later, Jack Hammond walked down to the lake with Jeanne Towers. A plane had just come in, one of the last of the season, until the lake froze, permitting the landing of ships on skis. Timmy Moon crawled out of the cockpit.

"Got a letter for you, Jack," he said. "A pilot gave it to me down at Fourcross."

Jack took the envelope and stared at the penciled writing. Suddenly his hands began to shake. With a quick, jerky motion, he tore off the end and pulled out the rough, lined sheet of paper within. The words blurred for a long moment, at last to clarify:

Cameron Bay, Great Bear Lake, Northwest Territories.

Dear Jack— A fellow just flew in from down your way and said there's been hell to pay all around. Well, Jack, I guess that's what makes a mining camp.

I thought I'd get this off by the pilot. He's hopping back this afternoon. If things don't turn out all right, and that girl has really done what this fellow says she did, what say we throw our grub in the same pack sack again? This is sure God's country down here at the Arctic.

Why, I know a place where there's enough rich stuff to set a fellow crazy. I never seen such a country; why it makes Sapphire Lake look like a two-spot. You and me could go wild finding stuff here, Jack. Why, there's a regular wall of quartz, stretching off into the Barren Lands God knows where. There ought to be enough gold in it to make a man sick.

Say, I hope this fellow didn't tell me all wrong about what happened down there. But if you are all through with Bar and everything, what say you do what you've really been wanting to do. Now that sounds funny, but everybody could see it but you—you know, see if you can't get the girl you are really crazy about.

Well, partner, come right to Cameron Bay if you do come up. And if you do ask Jeanne and she says she'll come with you, I'll be awfully glad.

Good luck to you, Partner. Joe.

P. S. Be sure to ask Jeanne. Wordlessly he read it again. Wordlessly he handed it to the girl. Her lips began to tremble as she read farther. Finally she looked up, her eyes misty, strangely eager.

"Well," she said brokenly, "are you going to ask me?"

A dog sled waited outside Sergeant Terry's tent the next morning, its tarpaulin high over the heaped provisions necessary to a long journey. Again, as Jeanne Towers and Jack Hammond stood before him, the Sergeant repeated as best he could from memory the passages of the wedding ceremony. There was a ring in his voice now and a smile on his generous, kindly lips. The service over, he followed them to the dog team and bowed stiffly, one hand properly crossed on his snow-flecked red tunic.

"A kiss for the bride?" Jack Hammond laughed, his old, reckless, deep-chested laugh. He released Jeanne from the arm which encircled her.

"A kiss for the police," she bantered, as she held up her lips. Sergeant Terry protested. "Please! Not for all of them."

After a time, there was only the man in red coat and yellow-striped blue breeches, standing there bare-headed, his stiff-brimmed hat held high.

Far away, where the fire line ended, a dog team wound slowly through the powdery snowfall, into the silvered, spirilike spruce and onward toward the Arctic.

They're Not All Professors— Those Absent-Minded Ones

Absent-mindedness isn't confined to the professors, says the Commentator.

The late Dwight W. Morrow once telephoned his secretary from Philadelphia, to inquire, "What am I in Philadelphia for?"

Secretary Henry A. Wallace, when he was in Czechoslovakia, packed his passport in a trunk that was shipped to London, while he set off in the opposite direction.

And J. David Stern, publisher of the New York Post and Philadelphia Record, was hurrying along the street when he met a friend. "Come on and have lunch with me," the friend said.

"If we go nearby," Stern said. "I'm late as it is."

They entered the nearest restaurant and sat down. Stern complained that he didn't know what was the matter with him, he didn't seem to be hungry.

"Beg pardon, sir," the waiter said, "but it's no wonder, sir. You just finished your lunch about ten minutes ago."

Clouds Pass By

The clouds I feared and worried about, and concerning which I wanted so much precious strength, lost their frown and revealed themselves as my friends. Other clouds never arrived—they were purely imaginary, or they melted away before they reached my threshold.—J. H. Jowett.

Helper of Humanity

He who helps a child helps humanity with a distinctness, with an immediateness, which no other help given to human creatures in any other stage of their human life can possibly give again.—Phillips Brooks.

A Great Motto

ONE of America's great business organizations has adopted a motto—a little five-letter word with a big meaning. It has been cut in huge granite letters over the entrance of recently constructed building used as a training school. It is made the theme of many employee discussions. It hangs over the desk of company executives. The word is THINK.

Educators, philosophers, preachers throughout the ages have written and talked about it. Rodin gave the world a famous statue called "The Thinker." "Think" is a significant word which human progress can be accomplished. It annoys people who have lazy minds, because thinking means mental effort. Practically all the accidents in the world are caused because people don't think. Thousands fail in life simply because they don't think. Others give great inventions to the world because they do think.—The Pick-Up.

A Safety Tip FOR YOUR WEEK-END TRIP

TAPPING RUBBER TREES ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

From the Firestone plantations in Liberia comes an ever-increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. Money saved here and in manufacturing and distribution enable Firestone to sell a safer, first-quality tire at lower prices.

Here's Why FIRESTONE STANDARD TIRES GIVE YOU MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

DON'T take chances on your Week End trip. Protect yourself and family by equipping your car with a set of new first-quality Firestone Standard Tires. Firestone builds extra quality and extra safety into these tires and sells them at lower prices because Firestone controls rubber and cotton supplies at their sources, manufactures with greater efficiency and distributes at lower cost.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord because every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping Process. This counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because there are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—because of the extra-tough, long-wearing tread.

You need all of these features to make your car tire-safe on your Week End trip. Firestone gives them to you at lower cost. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires—today's top tire value.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON SMOOTH WORN TIRES!

DO YOU KNOW THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children? THAT a million more were injured? THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to smooth, worn, unsafe tires?

COMMENTS

Lewis Burke

As Floyd Gibbons would say, "Hello, Everybody!" And how are you today? Gosh, we never saw you looking so well. Pray tell us your secret of always keeping so cheerful.

Swiped from the Tucumcari News — Indications point to a long-drawn-out pre-convention fight between the President and the Anti-New Dealers for control of the Democratic party.

Jim Farley declares that reports of trouble between radical Southern Democrats are just pure politix. In the first place, we doubt if Farley is a very competent judge of purity, an' in the next place, they ain't no such a thing as "pure" politix. — Cuckoo Comments.

IS THIS FAIR?

We note that Sandoval, Sierra and Socorro Commissioners refuse Republicans representation on special election boards. In other words, there are three Counties that will have an all-Fingley Board of judges for the Special Election.

As Will Rogers said in the movie "The County Chairman": "People don't care a cuss if you've conducted a clean campaign; they want to know 'Were you elected?' — And we're half inclined to believe that Senor Will was right at that!

All's fair in Love and War — and Politics, too for that matter.

LILY PONS

"The Girl from Paris," shown the first of this week at the Lyric, featured the dainty, petite Lily Pons, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Co. Miss Lily sang "The Blue Danube" waltz and a difficult aria from "The Barber of Seville." All present were enthralled by her remarkable interpretation of these numbers.

"The fight of Farr and Louis Monday night demonstrated that we now have a logical contender for the heavyweight championship. To stand up under 15 rounds such as Tommy did was quite an ordeal. Hall to Tommy Farr, our next champion," remarks a subscriber.

"You never can tell by looking at a frog how far he can jump," utters a fan with reference to the Louis — Farr fight. "Tommy was a second-rater, and I think he should be highly complimented for staying 15 rounds with the champion," opines another lover of heavyweight pugilistic encounters.

"I'd be willing to spend six months in the hospital, if I would get what Tommy Farr did out of the prize-fight," sighs a Reader.

—And wouldn't we all?

OH YEAH?

"We have no control of the voters," says Mr. Farley. If that man doesn't quit kidding us, we are going to get sore. — Dana Johnson.

FAMOUS QUESTIONS

"How do you think the special election will go? (If we knew, we could win some money.)

—Bo, Adios: I'll be back with more news commentaries next week, mayhap.

Warning to Motorists

As school will begin Sept. 6, remember that the children who have been playing in their own yards during the vacation period, will be on the streets, going and coming from school. Remember another thing, that the streets belong as much to the kids as to you. Moreover, the kids are looking to you for protection. See that they get it.

The Governor of the State of New Mexico has sent letters to the press in which he issues this same warning. Not only in school zones, but the streets in general should be watched at the different hours when the children are out of school. Be careful—it is much better to be safe yourself and have the kids safe, than be sorry.
