The People Rule

Election day passed off quietly, but determinedly. People said but very little, but went places and did things.

The vote over the County was past the 1400 mark, which was a good turn out for a special election. There was an absence of precinct workers, as the election was in no matter one of a political nature.

The warning notice published in this paper for the past two weeks helped to arouse the people to the necessity of putting a crimp on gang rule and dictatorship which cast its deadly shadows over the state of New Mexico—and they went forth as one man to assist in crushing the serpent before it was too late.

There was no organization in the move—no campaigning as in ordinary elections, but it did not require a Master Mind to see the determination in the people to bury the amendments, one and all. Amendment No. 1 was considered the lesser of the evils and consequently, fared the best—but in order to make assurance doubly sure, they allowed it to suffer with the others and make a clean slate.

New Mexico has furnished an example to other states, and what's more, to even the powers at Washington, that the attempt to fasten third-term and dictatorship on the masses of the people, will be dealt with in like manner. In that election, "We, the People," were in the saddle, striking down every amendment as fast as it raised its head. New Mexico, as a whole, did itself proud and that action should serve as a stern warning to others not to attempt the same. Six governors have gone on record endorsing the President for a third term, but let them beware of the people, who still rule.

For a time, many fully believed that the present administration with its enormous amount of power, had such a grasp on the people that what was at one time considered impossible, could now be done, but let such people take heart and under the flag of American Independence, we will again breathe the air of freedom.

The various classes have elected sponsors and officers as follows:

Honored Mother Advisor

At the home of Mrs. C. E. Freeman Tuesday afternoon, the Rainbow Girls entertained in honor of their Mother Advisor, Mrs. Dan Elliott. After playing of games and serving refreshments, the guest was presented with a beautiful gift, the presentation speech being made by Miss Agnes Degner.

ALLEGED MURDER AT HONDO

Earle Morris and Wm. Cox for several years have been rivals in the patent medicine business, each working as agents for their respective companies—Morris for the Rawleigh, and Cox for the Watson firms which handle all kinds of drugs, etc.

Time and again they had come near to blows over their work. Tuesday afternoon they met at Hondo and what passed between them nobody knows, for there were no witnesses to the fracas, in which Cox received a blow on the jaw, which, according to the nature of the inquest, was inflicted by Morris. The inquest was held Thursday afternoon and recommended holding of Morris until the hearing which will be held tomorrow or Monday. Morris waived testimony and will be examined at the above mentioned investigation. Morris is now in jail here.

Carrizozo-Socorro Hi-way

It has been graveled and oiled to Adobe, and only awaits the seal-coat to make it in fine condition. The road from the Viaduct and connecting with the portion from the forks at the railroad crossing, is now under headway, and will be completed in another week. This will give us an oiled road from here to Capitan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cleghorn of White Oaks were visitors in town last Saturday.

Mrs. Dan Elliott was an Alamogordo visitor several days this week.

Be sure and attend the Singing Convention at Aneho next Sunday. Bring lunch baskets.

See ad for Tularosa Rodeo on page 4 and be there!

Wells and "Hair Houses" of the Bedouins of Trans-Jordan

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

TRANS-JORDAN is a little country. Separated from Palestine by the great valley of the Jordan, the Dead sea, and Wadi el Araba on the west, it is hemmed in by the Levant states, Iraq and Arabia...

A little fringe along the Jordan and Dead sea depression is fertile because of perennial streams. Otherwise all is waste. It is a rolling plateau desert, mostly composed of white chalk and sandy soil. Flint chips and lumps of basalt are widely scattered.

There are no rivers. The Bedouin gets his water from ancient rock-cut water cisterns, from pools that collect in the wadi beds in winter, or from deep wells.

After winters of abundant rains and snows, the valleys and wadies may be lush with vegetation and aglow with wild flowers. In summer the whole desert is parched and dry. Scorching hot during the day, it is often bitterly cold at night.

Camel herders and shepherds who pass the night in the open, with only an old coat to sleep in, complain of the temperature changes. So did Jacob when he said, "In the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night."

The Bedouin inhabitants of Trans-Jordan are divided into three classes: the peasant farmers who live in villages and cultivate the soil; the seminomads who live in tents and have flocks and farm lands; and, lastly, the true Bedouin nomads, who live off their flocks and herds and migrate over long distances, even into the depths of Arabia proper.

All three classes look like true Bedouins and speak the same dialects, wear the same style of clothing, eat the same food, and share the same traditions. But the nomad Bedouins look down on the other classes and call them fellahin (farmers). It is this wandering tribe which is told about here.

Most vital in a desert country is the preservation of water sources. Wells are prized possessions. None but the owner tribe may draw water from them. Disputes over the use of wells have led to many a tribal war.

When Abraham's wells were seized by enemies, he had to protect himself with a covenant of possession. "And Abraham reproved Abimelech because of a well of water, which Abimelech's servants had violently taken away" (Genesis 21: 25).

Around the wells at watering time scenes are enacted which take one back thousands of years to the life of Bible days. Youths and men lead up their herds of camels. Sometimes hundreds of animals that have gone without water for days will be waiting in line for a drink.

With leather buckets and long ropes, two almost naked men draw water, chanting their weird, monotonous melodies and calling to the camels to drink. Herders keep the animals back, allowing only one or two at a trough at a time.

In the deserts where camels are the chief wealth, girls tend the goats. Shepherdesses often have a hard time watering their flocks. Camels are always favored. And when the camel herders come in from their waterless five-day grazing periods, the girls and their flocks get particularly inconsiderate treatment.

Work ceased while the traveler stopped to chat. Bedouins never hurry. With pride the old man surveyed his three sons and the new wellhole. They "dugged the well only that man and beast might drink."

The traveler asked whether he would charge for the right of watering to repay him for his labors. His slight form unbent. Lifting his head, he pointed to his sons with a majestic sweep of his hand.

He said, "Allah has requited me mercifully. In addition to these, I have other children and from His bounty we have yearly a sufficiency in our tents, besides flocks and camels. Should I pile up gold like yonder hill? What would it satisfy? Better we leave behind something whereby our fellows are benefited."

The black goat's-hair tent is the Bedouin's home, but he never speaks of it as a tent. To him, it is the belt shah'ar (house of hair). Most flexible of all abodes, it keeps out sun, sand, and winter winds. During hot days the sides can be lifted or removed at will. Then the tent is little more than a sunshade. In winter the coarse, heavy fabric cuts off icy blasts.

With few exceptions, the goats of these lands are black. From their shearings the Bedouin makes his tents. Thousands of years have brought little change in their construction.

The house of hair is oblong and has a long pitched roof with drooping ends. The smallest tents have nine poles altogether, with a row running lengthwise down the center, and shorter, lighter rows in front and back. Guy ropes extend outward from both sides and from the center of each end.

Detachable goat's-hair curtains form the sides and ends of the tent. They are fastened to the edge of the roof with wooden pins and fixed to the ground with pegs driven through rope loops.

The tent is pitched with its back to prevailing winds and storms. A curtain at the central pole usually divides it into two parts. One end is called the mahram section (belonging to the harem). Here lives the family, and here are stored bedding, rugs, copper cooking pots, and saddlery.

The other end, usually left more open, is called es-shigg and is the guest section where male visitors are received.

Sheik's Tent Often Large. The average Bedouin tent is 8 or 10 yards long and half as wide. But there is extreme variation in size. Poor herdsmen's tents are frequently much smaller, while those of sheikhs and richer tribesmen may be as much as 100 or 120 feet long.

In more elaborate tents, additional tent poles support the center. These tents are referred to by the number of central (or waist) poles. A 4-, 6-, or 10-waist house of hair means the same to a Bedouin as a 4-, 6-, or 10-room house to us.

There are sheik's tents that have nine waists, or ten sections. Three sections at one end are curtained off with sahas for wives and their families.

The chief wife has a double section to herself. But her apartment is also the storeroom for rugs, bedding, and food supplies for guests. Half the tent forms the shigg, or guest section.

If a Bedouin keeps no goats, he buys his goat's-hair cloth. But most families can provide their own goat's hair, and the women spin the yarn, weave the cloth, and sew the tent together. Pitching and striking the tents are also women's work.

STAR DUST Movie Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

ONCE more Rudy Vallee has shown that he is the greatest talent scout in the radio business. Tommy Riggs, the two-voiced personality who has been appearing on his program the last few weeks has made an outstanding success and will soon have a program of his own.

The brash little girl that Mr. Riggs plays with such devastating humor promises to be as popular one of these days as is Charlie McCarthy, the famous ventriloquist's dummy. Incidentally, the people whom Vallee started on the road to radio success ought to get together and put on a gala program as a tribute to him.

Mona Barrie is the latest screen belle to seek a change from Hollywood on the New York stage. While rehearsing for "Virginia," a great musical spectacle that will open the Center Theater in Radio City, she told me about her last—and she thinks best—picture. It is Jimmy Cagney's "Something to Sing About," in which Mona plays her first real comedy role.

James Cagney is the latest screen belle to seek a change from Hollywood on the New York stage. While rehearsing for "Virginia," a great musical spectacle that will open the Center Theater in Radio City, she told me about her last—and she thinks best—picture. It is Jimmy Cagney's "Something to Sing About," in which Mona plays her first real comedy role.

The greatest picture of the year, perhaps of many years, has received a chorus of critical acclaim such as has never been heard before. It is "The Life of Emile Zola" with Paul Muni. As crusader for the oppressed, as the most eloquent and forceful man of his time, Paul Muni gives an inspired performance. Don't let the praise of this picture drive you away from it with a faint suspicion that it may be educational, but dull. If offers the most exciting and thrilling evening you could spend in a theater.

With radio's summer lull over soon dozens of big programs will be angling for your attention. Irene Wicker, the greatly-beloved singing lady, moves to the Mutual network early in October offering a series of original sketches with music. Jack Benny returns to the air at the same time.

Margaret Tallichet, who abandoned a newspaper job in Texas to break into the movies, has found that even after a career is well started, it still has as many downs as ups. You may recall that she appealed to Carole Lombard for help and through her got a small contract with Solmick-International. Well, Miss Tallichet played small roles in "A Star Is Born" and then the studio decided to gamble on her to the extent of sending her east to dramatic school for further training. She appeared at the Mt. Kisco theater opposite no less a personage than Henry Fonda and proved conclusively that she needs a lot more training before she can play big roles.

Up in Dennis, Massachusetts, Gertrude Michael appeared on the stage in a play of early Colonial days and made a big hit. A regular parade of automobiles made the long trip from New York to see her, and when she came out on the stage the rafters rung with applause from her Broadway friends. They were saluting her courage in winning a two-year battle with serious illness as well as her fine skill as an actress.

ODDS AND ENDS—After trying to borrow Kenny Baker, or John Payne, or Jimmy Stewart, or Cary Grant, or Dick Arlen, the producer of Lily Font's next picture has finally given up the search for a new leading man and given the role to Gene Raymond who played in her last picture. Jack Benny's friends are saving all the reviews of "Artists and Models" which rave about his performance to show him when he returns from Europe. All through the making of the picture he quarreled with the director and objected to his lines and felt utterly dismayed over what he expected would be the flop of the year. Jean Crawford likes to run her pictures at home for her young niece to see. The child hoots every time she sees Auntie Jean on the screen.

John Barrymore is working up a hilarious imitation of Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy to amuse his friends between scenes at the studio.

The American Spirit
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

During the past year many Americans have been reading a book which describes various problems in the art of living that still await solution.

It is a cheerful book. It believes a large number of those problems will be solved, and that the solutions are not so far away. It believes that men and women striving with diligence, sincerity and self-confidence will find the answers—as did, for example, Thomas Edison and Luther Burbank in their separate and important fields.

During the same period have appeared other writings, either emanating from Europe or inspired by foreign pessimism. These take a different point of view.

They despair of the capacity of men and women, as such, to solve their problems. They urge that all initiative, all responsibility be surrendered to those who hold the reins of government—as in many foreign lands today—and that youth trade its hopes, its energies, its self-reliance, for a problematical and dull future of state care and state guidance.

Here are two divergent viewpoints. The first is American in approach and in method.

The second is foreign. It is the antithesis of the spirit which conquered our raw frontiers, and converted them into some of the most fruitful and pleasant home-sites on earth.

The new frontiers to be conquered are no longer geographical. But the spirit which will tame them and build thereon a fuller and happier life for men, is the same spirit of personal courage and confident enterprise that actuated our earlier pioneers.

It is the American spirit.

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

NEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a snarl for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. Beware. If you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Warning To Voters!

THE PEOPLE of this state are at the cross-roads. Either the amendments must be defeated, or Governor Tingley will set up a political machine so powerful that it will be impossible for the people to be enforced. We do not want to sell our birth-right for a mess of pottage. We want to live as decent American-citizens under the banner of freedom and the God-given privilege of expressing our own rights.

Governor Tingley is determined to rule with an iron hand. It is his will against yours and mine... against the people. Hundreds of men over the state are reported to have lost their jobs because they dared speak against "If You Want Roads You Gotta Support Me" Tingley. Do we want this condition to continue indefinitely... for years and years to come?

The special election of Sept. 21 is of vital interest to every New Mexican. For the first time, a governor of New Mexico has built up a machine so strong that he believes he can demand whatever he wants of the voters and get it. Never before has the state been faced with an issue that would affect its future progress to such an extent as the vicious proposal of Governor "To-Get-Roads-You-Gotta-Support-Me" Tingley, to change the constitution so that he, the "savior" of New Mexico and the "best governor the state has ever had," may continue in office and perpetuate his political machine.

WORLD'S HAPPIEST CHILDREN

Halliburton Tells of Russia's Schools Where Students So Love Their Work That It's Almost Impossible for Directors to Drive Them From It

By RICHARD HALLIBURTON
Author of "The Royal Road to Romance," etc.

WRITING home about Russia is one of the most difficult assignments I've ever had. To write forcefully and well about this infuriating but astounding country, one should have definite convictions and opinions. But, in keeping with the experience of most other foreigners, my convictions suffer such violent and such frequent changes that I hardly know myself from day to day what my convictions are.

Each morning I swear anew that the rule of the Soviets is the cruelest, most brutal, and most colossal racket ever rammed at pistol point down the throats of a helpless nation. But before night I will have seen some isolated feature of Bolshevism that is so enlightened, so advanced, and so inspiring, that for the moment I forgive and forget the tyranny that has produced it.

The Soviet system of persecuting and imprisoning the mother, sister, children of any Russian citizen who tries to escape from this gangland's grip, seems to me as inhuman and barbaric a custom as ever existed in the most savage ages of history.

But just when I am exploding with indignation because of it, I visit one of the model prisons—and immediately feel that it is we Americans, with our dismal and degrading prison system, who are the savages.

Schools Appease Wrath.

The ruthlessness and mercilessness with which the Bolsheviks go about exterminating all classes of Russian society except the third class—themselves—outrages my sense of justice, and sends me off on the warpath in defense of human liberties.

But again, my hostility against this crucifixion of the civilized minority cools when I enter one of the special Soviet schools, and see the protection and sympathy and spiritual stimulation being poured out to young people who before the revolution would have been—in some cases actually were—beggars, thieves, or illiterate and bestial peasants.

I've just come from two days spent in such schools and prisons. Let me tell about them quickly before I hear the crack of the racketeers' whip lashing out again from the Kremlin's towers, and before I put my fist through every complimentary word I've written about the Bolsheviks.

Here in Moscow is a school that is unique in the world—a state school for boys and girls who want to run away and join the circus!

Want to Join the Circus?

The circus school is advertised far and wide—from Vladivostok to Samarkand. The advertisement reads: Soviet Boys! Soviet Girls! Do you want to join the circus as an artist? Are you over fourteen and under eighteen? Come to us and learn clowning, juggling, tight-rope walking, acrobatics, horsemanship. We send you a ticket and pay for everything. The Soviet state needs you!

What boy—or for that matter, what girl—could resist such a truly wonderful, magical, invitation?

Thousands of applications pour in. At present the school directors can choose only a small fraction of those who plead to be admitted, accepting, preferably, the orphans and the homeless.

The freshman class numbers forty—the forty most fortunate children in the whole world, if we are to accept the opinion of the others who must just look on from the outside, and yearn.

All freshmen must take the same courses—acrobatic dancing, tumbling, bare-back and bicycle riding, gymnastics, tight-rope walking, flying trapeze. They also have three hours each day of academic study.

Soviet State Circus School.

The classes of freshmen, gawky and clumsy, are followed by the second year students (numbering thirty-five) who, now having a chance to specialize, are already excellent performers. When the seniors appear (reduced to twenty-five) one sees marvels of muscle and agility with barrel chests and bulging legs.

But no matter what the class, everybody goes through his tricks with the utmost joyousness and enthusiasm. The acrobats have to be pulled out of the ring to make way for the next performers. They retreat into the street and carry on with their hand-springs there. The clowns, having gone through their daily half hour of routine clowning, continue to fall down and paddle each other all over the school. The bare-back riders, both boys and girls, drive the poor old practice horse almost to death, pleading to be allowed just one more time around the ring, just one more dive through the paper hoops. The jugglers hide behind the scenery to steal another period of rehearsal. The whole school has to be driven home to the dormitories at night by means of angry threats of punishment from the director.

Lessons in toe dancing begin at six. At ten the muscles in their feet and legs are like iron. The regime is so strict and so severe that of every ten who enter the school only two graduate.

The day I visited the school the young aerial acrobats, flying and swinging high over the head of the instructor, positively refused to come down, and only shouted defiance back at him as they continued to sail through the air with the greatest of ease. The instructor finally had to turn the lights off in order to get his over-zealous flying trapezers home to supper.

In no other school on earth, I'm sure, are the students so profoundly in love with their "studies" as in this school. Here, for once, a sport-loving child gets all the sport his heart desires, accompanied by spangled costumes, and colored lights, and music, and white horses, and applause—all the glory of the circus.

In Russia the Soviets may be exiling thousands, tears may be flowing in oceans, and no man may be able to call his soul his own, but right in the midst of it are the one hundred happiest boys and girls on earth.

Ballet School in Russia.

Perhaps not quite so happy but certainly as absorbed in their work are the students in the Moscow state ballet school.

Here they begin not at fourteen but at four. Almost as soon as they can walk, physically perfect children are placed beside the exercise bar and trained to stand on their toes. Not only dancing, but expression, gestures and rhythm are taught the boys as well as the girls.

The average American boy would die of shame if he were caught taking lessons in looking ethereal and imitating a swan. But in Russia, ballet instruction is a deadly serious business, and one must be hard as nails to keep pace. Dancing is the students' whole world. They eat, sleep, and live to dance. And the results are marvelous. By twelve years old, the children have conquered the most intricate and difficult steps. At the 125th anniversary performance of the Moscow ballet school, with Stalin and all his ministers on hand, a fifteen-year-old boy, inspired by the presence of such divinities and by the crash of the hundred-piece orchestra, leaped and whirled about the stage with such winged toes and such incredible skill that he brought the dance-biased audience to its feet, and completely "stopped the show."

Out of every ten babies who enter the ballet school, perhaps only two finally graduate. No one can tell, when the child is four, what it will look like at fourteen. Often the boys grow up to be six feet, three, and too tall to imitate a swan. Or the girl, because of her ruthless exercising, may develop into such a husky half-back that it would take two dance partners instead of one to stagger with her on their shoulders across the stage. The discharges, therefore, are frequent.

But the child meanwhile has had the finest education possible in Russia, and is always provided with a sufficient livelihood elsewhere.

Such institutions as these would help melt anybody's wrath against the Bolsheviks. But it is in their penal system where the Soviets completely win one's sympathy and admiration.

Russia's Penal System.

About twenty miles outside Moscow is the world's perfect prison—perfect in that it turns out self-respecting, skilled, responsible citizens, and not furtive, embittered, broken men as in America. In the first place the word "prison" is not used, nor the word "prisoner." There are no cells, no bars, no guards, not even a wall. But the 3,500 boys and young men who live here have all been thorough-going criminals, and are serving sentences for every known crime from petty thieving to assassination.

The Soviets are implacable environmentalists. They insist that environment alone is to blame if young people take to crime. If the environment is improved, character will likewise improve.

So when offenders come to Bolshovo they are kept busy going to school, learning to be skilled workmen, learning to swim and dance and to govern themselves. Their labor in the institute factories is paid for on the same scale as work done by free men. Half their salary goes toward their clothes and board and keep. They can spend the other half in Moscow if they choose and on anything they like.

Marriage Encouraged.

A self-sufficient commune has grown up about the place. The older boys with good records are allowed to mate or marry with wives from outside. Such mating is in fact encouraged, and each couple is provided with private living quarters. There is a splendid school for the children of these menages. The result of this enlightened policy is that over eight hundred members of this commune are married, and eighteen hundred children laugh and sing around the "prison" grounds.

There is a hospital, excellently equipped. A movie and theater play to packed houses every night. So ideal and so carefree is life at Bolshovo that the director's problem, as at the circus school, is to persuade his men to leave when their sentence is up.

During the monster celebration on November 7th, members of all the state schools and labor unions in Moscow marched by Stalin's reviewing stand on Red square. He saluted them all, proudly, as they passed. But when a regiment of one thousand Bolshovo boys—one thousand ex-criminals—marched before him with their eyes shining, banners waving, and bands playing, Stalin and all his ministers cheered and cheered and cheered, and the tears streamed unrestrained down their leather cheeks.

And as these thousand "convicts" passed, I thought of Sing Sing, and San Quentin, and Blackwell's Island—and I almost wept myself—from shame!

ON BEING LOYAL TO HOME DISHES

How Americans Abroad Unconsciously Are Patriotic.

By EDITH M. BARBER
"IF THERE is anything we are serious about, it is neither religion nor learning, but food. We openly acclaim eating as one of the few joys of this human life," proclaims the Chinese author, Lin Yutang, in that fascinating book, "My Country and My People." He goes on to say that the question of attitude is very important, "for unless we are honest about it, we will never be able to lift eating and cooking into an art."

The author contrasts the attitudes of various nations toward the subject, insisting that the French and Chinese eat enthusiastically, while the English eat apologetically. The great Chinese poets and essayists do not hesitate to use cookery as subjects for their writing. Yutang insists that you cannot develop a national culinary art unless you are willing to discuss it and exchange your opinions on it.

There is more than a grain of truth in my opinion in the following: "Actually our love of fatherland is largely a matter of recollection of the keen sensual pleasures of our childhood. The loyalty to Uncle Sam is the loyalty to American doughnuts and the loyalty to the waterland is the loyalty to pflannkuchen and Stollen, but the Americans and Germans will not admit it. Many Americans while abroad sigh for their ham and sweet potatoes at home, but they will not admit that this makes them think of home, nor will they put it in their poetry."

Barbecued Ham.

2 slices ham, 1/2 inch thick
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/4 cup currant jelly
Pan-broil ham quickly on both sides. Remove from pan, stir in other ingredients to the fat in the pan, heat and pour over the ham.

Sweet Potato Pie.

3 large sweet potatoes, boiled
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
Pastry

Peel potatoes and mash. Add egg yolks and mix well. Stir in vanilla, cinnamon, salt and half the sugar. Mix well and pour into pie pan which has been lined with pastry. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit, until crust is brown, about 25 minutes. Make a meringue by beating egg whites stiff and folding in remaining sugar. Spread meringue on top of pie and continue baking in a slow oven, 300 degrees Fahrenheit, until meringue is brown, about 15 minutes.

Baked Ham With Pineapple.

1 eight-pound whole ham
4 bay leaves
1 onion
6 peppercorns
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups crushed canned pineapple
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 teaspoon mustard
Whole cloves
Wash ham and cover with water. Boil with bay leaves, six whole cloves, peppercorns and sliced onion until tender, about three hours. Let ham cool in the liquor, then remove and skin it. Rub fat surface of ham with brown sugar, allspice and cinnamon combined. Stick whole cloves generously over the surface. Meanwhile, bring to a boil crushed pineapple, vinegar and mustard. Set ham in roasting pan, pour the pineapple sauce around it and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, one hour, basting from time to time. Serve garnished with half slices of sauted pineapple.

Waffles.

2 1/2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs
1/2 cup melted shortening, or cooking oil
1 1/2 cups milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat eggs with rotary egg-beater, beat in melted fat, add milk, stir well and add dry ingredients, all at once. Beat well and bake in hot waffle iron until no steam escapes between edges.

Coffee Jelly.

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
3/4 cups hot strong coffee
1/2 cup sugar
Soak gelatin in cold water, add fresh hot coffee and the sugar. Stir until dissolved and pour into molds to chill.

Lobster Newburg.

2 pound lobster
1/4 cup butter
1 tablespoon flour
Salt
Paprika and nutmeg
1 cup thin cream
3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons sherry
Remove meat from shell and cut in cubes. Melt butter, stir in flour and seasonings and add cream gradually. Add lobster and when thick add egg yolks and flavoring mixed with some of the sauce.

Three Maids A-Sewing Go

LITTLE lady, it's time to say adieu, so long, good-by to that flimsy but faithful friend—your summer wardrobe. But don't fret, Milady, Sew-Your-Own is right on the job with sparkling new fashions for you; fashions that will make you forget the past and be remembered in the future. So let's not tarry; let's choose the style that's got the most sock for our particular figure and join this group that's going a-sewing!

Stadium Model.

Picture yourself in the trim-waisted little model at the left, if you would have an optimistic viewpoint and a head start on style this season. There's nothing younger than this topper with its dainty collar and cuffs, its snappy row of buttons and fetching peplum. The way it takes to the weightier fall fabrics is news, and equally intriguing is this fact: it's easy to sew!

Young 'n' Pretty.

Long slender lines of the princess variety make this the lucky number for your first autumn days. Of course you see it's a style to cut in at least two fabrics because it boasts utility plus beauty. If you're going to school you'll want it in acetate jersey or light-weight wool. Neat contrast is here, too, if you wish, in the collar, pocket flaps and buttons. (This is a simple eight-piece pattern.)

A Lift for You.

There's much ado about bodices this fall and unless you have a frock that carries a stylish one you won't feel right. Sew-Your-Own caters to this vogue in its new creation at the right. It is pencil slim and carefully styled to give you that chic young silhouette that distinguishes the lady of fashion. Make this handsome model of silk crepe, sheer wool or jersey and be fit for business or pleasure in town or country.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1376 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material.

Pattern 1347 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material. With long sleeves 5 1/2 yards plus 1/2 yard contrasting.

Pattern 1258 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material, with long sleeves, plus 1/2 yard of braid to finish as pictured.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

At That
The enthusiasm for making man perfect is fading. Some are for accepting him as he is—often pretty worthy.

Everything is likely to prove more or less of a disappointment. Even a bass drum doesn't make as much noise as it looks as if it ought to.

Celebrations resemble each other too much. This is why they wear out with the older people.

Closely Related

Belief and conduct act and react upon each other. A glad-eye a day keeps the elderly gay.

People with pleasant dispositions ought to "speak their minds" often.

Those who knew a man back in the old home town wonder how he succeeded in the big city. They think he's changed. He is changed. The city changes everyone.

COMMENTS

Lewis Burke

—Well, here we are!

And R U Listenin'?

This country correspondent will have to be excused this week, because my sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Lucas are here from Kansas City. Its strange about my brother-in-law, if the writer had a brother, he couldn't be any nicer to me. And that's that!

FDR Refuses Klan Comment; Demands Continue That He Ask Resignation of Justice Hugo Black.—Headline.

We note a news heading saying that President Roosevelt "didn't know" there was anything detrimental to the character of Justice Black.

—We would think that he'd make some investigations concerning an important office like Justice of the Supreme Court.

They won't let poor Hoover alone, a ship bearing his name was recently bombed in the Chino-Jap undeclared warfare.

Remarked a local man, "I saw a fellow hit his thumb while doing some carpenter work. It must have been very painful; what got me down was that all this bird exclaimed was, "My gracious!" (We dislike to swear, but—doggonit.)

The daily newspapers over the state are reaping a harvest with ads concerning the special election to be held on Sept. 21.

Rather reminds us of the last presidential campaign. We think that 75 per cent of the newspapers were for Landon, and the Literary Digest had the Kansas elected. The Digest broke it's pick by so doing.

Anyway, tiz the "silent voter" who really counts. He is a King in the voting booth; no mistake about that!

"It seems strange to me, that there are signs directly on the scene of the Malpais or Ancient Lava Flow, directing the attention of the tourist to stop and visit the Malpais. Seems to me that some notice should be placed at different places throughout town about this scene of grandeur." comments a Chicago traveling salesman.

Judging from the President's latest accusations against his political opponents, there must have been something like 17,000,000 Tories in the United States last year.—Si, Amigo.

"Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking," here's a ditty: A codfish lays a million eggs, While the helpful hen lays one, But the codfish doesn't cackle, To inform you what she's done.

And so we scorn the codfish, The helpful hen we prize, Which indicates to thoughtful minds

It p-a-y-s to advertise in the Outlook. — It doesn't r-r-y-m-a very well, but who cares?

—So, as they say around Carrizozo, "Buenas Tortillas" in other words, Adios.

"King of Kings"

At the Methodist Church Sunday evening, Sept. 19, at 8 p. m. The greatest dramatic story of Christ ever produced. We will actually be able to hear Christ speak Himself. The CCC Camp have kindly offered their folding chairs to fill all available spaces in order to seat the people. We are anxious to have people from every part of the county. You will never forget this picture. Both Catholics and Protestants have exhausted all the ancient sources and writings to produce this wonderful drama. So we invite all Catholics as well as all other denominations and those of no denomination.

There will be more Biblical information in this picture than you can teach in a lifetime. An actual movie-talkie has been produced where characters equal to any in the great passion play of Switzerland dare to impersonate Christ, Judas, Peter and Our Holy Saint John. I presume his majesty, the devil, will appear on the scene and speak. We have all longed to see the great passion play. Now is your opportunity for only 10 and 25c. 25% will go to help the church going in Carrizozo.—J. A. Bell
