Grab While Grabbin's Good

A shower of Federal cash will descend on New Mexico with passage of the President's recovery program by Congress. State and municipal officials should begin preparing to get out their buckets to put under the pump when the priming job begins. The gold rush of the '49 era will be a tame affair compared with the rush for the money. New Mexico might as well prepare to grab all it can get while the grabbin' is good. —Albuquerque Journal.

Lincoln County

School Library

At last the building for the Lincoln County School Library is nearly completed. It is a W.P.A. project sponsored by the Lincoln County Board of Education. The building is an asset to the county and to the town of Carrizozo. We should be very appreciative for the opportunity which has been given through the WPA to secure the services of workmen who are able to build so nearly a perfect structure as has been done in this instance. The material and equipment has cost approximately $4,800.00.

The principal reason for the erection of the building is to serve the schools from the common school districts of Lincoln County, but it is the wish of the sponsors that all other people from over the county may feel free to visit the library and use the books for reference and reading while there.

W. W. Smith of White Oaks has now fully recovered from injuries he sustained in a car mishap a short time ago.

Dewey Stokes had Joe and Martin Vega doing some plastering and fence work at his ranch home this week.

Mrs. Dick Willis and baby left last week for San Francisco to join her husband, who is employed at that place.

Fireman Ira Greer was in town this Thursday, on his regular run.

The Dance at the Country Club last Saturday night was successful from every point of view. The music was good, the attendance was unusually large, and everybody had a good time.

Work on the new power plant near the overpass is progressing rapidly; so is the work of street guttering on the east side of the railroad tracks.

The Straley brothers of Ancho were Carrizozo visitors Monday.

Curios Career of William Brown

William Brown, born amid the tall sycamores of Wabash, in the lowlands of Indiana. His father was a strong believer in what is known in religious circles as a "predestinarian," or in other terms, one who believes that some were born into this world for the purpose of being lost in the next, while others were brought here and foreordained to be saved.

He was so strict in bringing up his children, that he made their lives miserable. At the table, no child was permitted to speak or to leave without asking their father's permission. Sunday, for the children was looked forward to with dread. While other children would enjoy the open air and play innocent games, John Brown's could not leave the house. They were compelled to put in the time in reading the Bible and keep absolute silence.

It was in the spring of 1876 when William attained his majority and decided to leave home. It broke his mother's heart, but he told her that during his entire life, he had never had even an hour of childish playtime, but was taught that pleasure was the works of the devil. He also told her that he refused to believe as his father had taught him. He refused to believe that if God was the kind of a character his father had sought to make him believe, it was to him, a hollow mockery, for if that were true, God was a tyrant. And so in that frame of mind, he left home. During the bringing up of his children, John had never kissed them nor bestowed any affection on them, claiming that he would be making idols of them and be displeasing in the sight of God.

Leaving home on foot, his father walked with him to the brow of a hill, shook his hand and for the first time in his life that his son had ever known, tears came into his eyes. William walked for a distance of thirty miles before he stopped at a farm house and asked for work, which was given him. From that employment, he saved enough to take him to Chicago, where after weeks of fruitless search, he managed to secure a job as caretaker for the office of a large manufacturing industry. The manager noted his intelligence and after numerous tests, found him so honest and industrious, that he took him into his confidence, and in the course of several years, he became a stockholder in the firm. Fortune favored him and he became more than ordinarily wealthy. But from the day he left home, he never had entered a church. He developed into one of the most virulent of infidels and possessed a morbid hatred for all forms of religion.

Said the Governor to the President—

The following is a statement of a certain New Mexico Democrat, after reading of the Governor's recent visit to the President:

"While in Washington, Gov. Clyde Tingley offered to deliver New Mexico to the President for a third term, the President only smiled at the offer—no doubt he was thinking about the awful beating the Governor received at the hands of the New Mexico voters in the special election, held last September, when the Governor was going to change the state law so that he could run for a third term for Governor."

The lambasting the Governor gave Congressman Dempsey while he was in Washington, indicates that the Governor will be a candidate for Dempsey's seat in Congress, as well as his political scalp.

Well, I am sure Dempsey will come out so far ahead in the Democratic State Convention against Tingley in such a race, that Tingley will think, when the votes are tabulated, that he is reading the returns from the Special Election held last September."

Bert and Al Pfingsten, from Hondo and Lincoln, were present to witness the degree work conferred on Jack Pfingsten also of Lincoln. R. E. Kent of Oscura was present to see the conferring of the degree work.

UNDER PRESSURE

By George Agnew Chamberlain

CHAPTER XI

Dirk went to bed in the grip of a mild elation which made it difficult to distinguish between sleep and dreams. He awoke to a sense of commotion. A messenger was having trouble rousing Leonardo from much-needed sleep and presently the two of them were closeted with Don Jorge. Arnaldo joined Dirk at coffee and told him what was up: Dorado was doing his stuff two hours earlier than usual. The next moment Senor Maximiliano and his companions came out and started for the northeastern bastion. Dirk and Adan hurried to their rooms. Adan got a pair of binoculars and Dirk to fetch his Springfield. They caught up with Don Jorge and his party while the blind man was still groping his way up the turret stairs. Emerging into the glare of the morning sun Leonardo's glance fell on Dirk's rifle and immediately turned moist with envy. He caressed the blue-black barrel as though he touched a woman's cheek, then looked up pleadingly. Dirk laughed, let him test the gun for balance, but promptly took it back again.

Arrived beside the bastion, Arnaldo leaned against it and focused his field-glasses on a slowly moving pillar of dust. Presently the horsemen strung out along a ledge of rocky soil and he could count them. "Three more than yesterday," he announced.

"And four more yesterday than the day before," muttered Leonardo.

"If that's so," said Don Jorge, "Dorado must have escaped with more cash than I thought. As long as it holds out his troop will continue to grow."

"Do they always ride on the other side of the barranca?" asked Dirk.

"Of course," answered two voices at once.

"For the same reason we would be fools not to stay on this side," said Don Jorge. "The barranca is a barrier that runs for 20 miles. A child would have more sense than to lay himself open to getting trapped with an impassable ditch at his back."

"It was a stupid question," said Dirk, "but since we have plenty of time let me ask another. What's the sense of the daily ride? What does Dorado get out of it?"

"The tactical idea," said Don Jorge patiently, "is to intercept both reinforcements and escape. Incidentally Pepe wouldn't be average to plunder in the way of ransom."

"He's holding a package now," murmured Arnaldo.

"What package?" asked Don Jorge quickly.

"Yesterday I watched him capture a gringo by the name of Blackadder."

"Blackadder!" cried Dirk. "Why, Blackadder—"

"He stopped and caught his breath. Blackadder is the name of Miss Sewell's stepfather!" Glancing around he saw a rough table and two rusted iron chairs. He pushed the table so it stood end on against the parapet which was several inches higher.

"How far are they?" he asked.

"What are you doing?" said Arnaldo, looking down. "Never mind what I'm doing," said Dirk. "How far off are they?"

"Between one and two kilometers, senor," answered Leonardo mournfully.

"Eight kilometers make five miles," calculated Dirk aloud. "Leonardo, when you're sure they're under a thousand meters, sing out. What about it, Adan—can you spot Dorado? Is he riding at the head?"

"I'll tell you in a minute," said Adan, only half interested. "There's a bunch of three in the lead and I think he's on the alazon. Yes, that's Pepe; he's riding the big sorrel."

Dirk gauged the wind, set his sights for a thousand yards, loaded his rifle and stretched out, face down, on the table. Not wishing to scratch the barrel he made a wad of his felt hat and fixed it for a rest in the angle made by the parapet with the bastion.

"Don't forget, Leonardo; the minute you're sure they're under a kilometer."

"What's the use?" said Leonardo gloomily. "They won't come within range."

"Never mind about that," said Dirk sharply. "You do as I say."

Several minutes elapsed before Leonardo murmured, "When they come to the first row of the maguery plantation it will be only 800 meters and they will turn."

"Damn!" muttered Dirk but promptly relaxed all his muscles, drew a long slow breath and held it.

His cheek caressed the smooth oiled oak of the stock, his fingers closed on the rough grips. Taking a full bead, he fired. The bullet sang the high song of a bullet that finds no mark. A second can seem long, sometimes it can be divided into sections. An age after Leonardo had given up hope of a possible ricochet which by a miracle might hit Dorado on the bounce a puff of dust came back at his astonished eyes from far beyond the riders. While amazement still paralyzed his vocal chords he saw every horse sink on its haunches and come to a slithering stop. It was what Dirk had planned. In that instant of suspended movement he drew the foresight down to the vanishing point, steadied and fired again. There came the answering thud of a hit. Dorado's big sorrel squatted, rushed down under his rider and fell dead. "I missed him!" groaned Dirk. "I killed the horse!"

Joyce came racing along the esplanade. "Who did that?" she asked angrily. "Who fired that shot?"

Already Dorado had been swept up by two of his followers and the whole troop was riding away at a gallop; behind remained the still mound of the sorrel, a dark monument suddenly erected against the shimmering gold of the desert. Dirk rolled over and sat up.

"I did."

"You're a butcher!" cried Joyce, her eyes blazing. "You come to my house, an uninvited guest, and amuse yourself by shooting horses!"

Dirk's cheeks flushed with anger. "The man out there shot me up fore we start. You're going to ride Rayo because he's a shade lighter and not so touchy in the mouth. If you do what I say, you'll be all right; if you don't you may break a neck—the horse's or yours."

"I'll be good," said Joyce, impressed by his earnestness. "What are your orders?"

"Walk a mannequin horse for half a mile," said Dirk, "and you can do anything with him; start him off with a rush and he'll ride your arms out of their sockets. So we're going to take them away slow."

As they passed through the great gate there was a bit of prancing and champing on the bit but with soothing words and a light hand Dirk coaxed Tronido back into a walk and a moment later Joyce persuaded Rayo to follow suit. They rode along the faint trail, scarcely used save by ox-carts, which provided the sole access for cars to the hacienda. The road meandered more or less parallel to the barranca which widened by almost imperceptible gradations the farther they went. At last Dirk permitted a trot and turned amused eyes on Joyce. To his amazement she took it quite easily, leaned to it, caught its rhythm and laughed a happy laugh.

"Oh, Dirk!"

"Joyce!"

On the same impulse they slowed the horses again and stared at each other. "That was funny," said Joyce.

"Wasn't it?" agreed Dirk.

He urged Tronido into a trot, then lifted him into an easy canter and held him there. "How are you making it?" he asked.

"Fine," said Joyce, "but you tell me."

"Ease your back a bit and sit into the saddle. That's the stuff. Are you game for a gallop while we're still headed away from home?"

"Go ahead," said Joyce, and they did.

The horse under her seemed to flatten out. No founcing up and down, no swerving from a straight line—only the feel of mighty muscles rippling rhythmically.

They rode back more slowly and as they approached the hacienda she turned on him a face so glowing he felt his heart skip a beat and then do three in one.

"Well," she asked.

"Do you want to know the truth?"

"The whole truth."

"I thought it would take you a month to learn what you already know." He jumped off, handed her his reins to hold, tore down a high bean pole and laid it like a bar between two maguery plants. "Made to order," he commented as he mounted. "Watch me, then do exactly the same. Just tick on and leave the rest to Rayo."

She jumped the bar—once with a gasp of astonishment at her success, then ten times more with steadily increasing confidence and improving style. She would have been content to keep on for the rest of the day had not Dirk taken his revenge.

"If you don't let up," he remarked dryly, "you're going to find out there are more ways than one of killing a horse."

After an afternoon spent in grooming the horses for sheer love of the work he came to dinner aglow from what he called an earned bath. Already he regretted having brought no change beyond a single lounge suit but tonight Arnaldo, save for shoulders exaggerated beyond nature and a wasp-like waist, was dressed in like manner. Joyce had put on black—not the semi-evening frock of her first and last appearance at El Tenebroso, but it had an equal simplicity of line that gave her an almost sculptural appearance. Changing her clothes had changed her mood. Gracious and ready with her answers she yet was so distraught as to give an impression of inner stillness. Though she avoided looking directly at Dirk and Adan she was thinking of them, but thinking more of herself. What had come over her last night? Which person was she—the woman of no age who had been kissed and had kissed back, or the girl who had sat shoulder to shoulder on the parapet with a companion to whom she had poured out her heart as though she talked to another self? Were there fibers within her that responded to music alone and others that reverberated solely to the sidereal harmony of moon, planet and star? She wondered.

It is literally true that all life on earth is "hanging by a thread," the thread of gravitation which links us to the sun, and holds the earth within the beneficent sphere of its radiation. If this thread should break, or if it should stretch ever so slightly, or contract, even by the smallest amount, temperature conditions would so change on earth that we would all immediately freeze to death, or perish in a horror of suffocation and flame.

Dirk was engrossed in a masterly discussion of agrarianism between Don Jorge and Arnaldo. Fresh from the capital, Adan was packed to the gills with theory and regarded the parceling out of all the land in the republic as an ultimate panacea for every ill. Don Jorge, rooted in the soil, aware of its divergence and as close to the peon as he was to his tight-fitting charro breeches, admitted the cure only to damn it with a qualifying phrase—"In a thousand years."

"You can't overleap education the way you vault a manny horse," he exploded. "You'd have to have a mildly educated people, but first catch your educated executive—if you can. It isn't enough for a ruler to be honest, altruistic and stuffed with beneficent theories. Unless he's greater than God he can't bridge the gulf of ignorance between a peon and a tractor, nor grow enough gramma grass on a hundred hectares to give that peon's babies milk, nor change the sweep of wheat lands into lush bottoms crammed with garden truck. You agrarians run around with a foot-rule yelling, 'Behold the measure of all things!' You can measure a back yard with a footrule, but not a prairie. Our campesinos, dumb as they are, can see that. Do you know what they're saying?"

"No," said Adan smilingly, for he loved discussion for the talk's sake alone. "Tell me."

"They've heard what happened in the north and they're giving it out they'll do the same here."

"What's that?" asked Dirk.

"Crop the ears off any agrarians who set foot on La Barranca. They'll do it too, for though the peon has no education he has his backlog of fundamental knowledge. He doesn't have to starve to death to see starvation on the way any more than he had to learn to read and write before he could make up his mind the three model houses put up by my master and friend, Cutter Sewell, were no good."

Joyce looked up. "Why weren't they? I've always wondered."

"Because your father's education led him into the belief three rooms are better than one, while the peon's backlog of knowledge has taught him one room is infinitely better than three since the sum of the warmth of his kitchen fire, his milch goat, his wife, six children and a couple of pigs constitutes, at no expense, exactly the sort of central heating system which is slowly making England a livable country."

They laughed, rose and separated; it was already late, there was no need tonight to make the rounds.

How does a girl, lacking long social training and apparently innocent of finesse, leave one man in the lurch and walk off with another without either of them knowing how it happened? Dirk paused to ask Don Jorge a single unimportant question, but when he stepped out on the balcony Joyce and Adan were nowhere to be seen. He walked to the right hopefully until turning the angle opened a long empty vista.

precision of gravitation allows man to live here precariously, writer says

Has the thought occurred to you that there might be a time when summer never will come again?

We are accustomed to think of our ordinary seasonal variations in temperature as being of considerable magnitude. To us 100 degrees Fahrenheit is unbearably hot; 30 degrees below zero insufferably cold. When either of these temperatures is reached, according to Donald B. Harris, in the Coronet, we feel that nature must be exerting herself strenuously, in order to make us uncomfortable.

In order to get even a faint idea of how critical our temperature adjustment is, we must imagine a very large heat regulator with a dial 14 inches long. One end of this dial is 454 degrees below zero, 1,800,000 degrees above zero the other. Then the normal terrestrial range of temperature is represented by a line on the dial, narrower than the thickness of the thinnest piece of paper. If we are to maintain temperatures on earth as they are today, the pointer must be set squarely in the center of this line; if it is moved to one side or the other by even so much as the thickness of a hair, average temperatures on earth will either drop far below freezing, or rise above the boiling point of water.

It is literally true that all life on earth is "hanging by a thread," the thread of gravitation which links us to the sun, and holds the earth within the beneficent sphere of its radiation. FARM TOPICS

CITES EXPENSE IN POULTRY BUSINESS

Specialist Warns Novices to Plan in Advance.

By G. T. Klein, Extension Poultry Specialist, Massachusetts State College, WNU Service.

The poultry business is keenly competitive and requires a large investment. Unless a beginner has a sound knowledge of production and marketing problems, he will be seriously handicapped.

The poultry population has increased more than 30 per cent since 1930. Numbers of eggs on the market show an even greater increase because hens are better layers than they were seven years ago.

These things ought to be carefully considered by one who is thinking of going into the poultry business. The premium price for eggs has practically disappeared. There is the advantage of savings in transportation and perhaps some of the handling costs. There is also the opportunity for a limited number to sell eggs at retail, which gives an advantage.

This does not mean that it is no longer possible to make a satisfactory income from the poultry business. It does mean that more careful planning is necessary and that more birds per farm must be kept to realize the same income that was derived ten or fifteen years ago.

Poultry account studies have shown that the best paying part of the business is the sale of baby chicks. Following closely would be the sale of hatching eggs, and of course retailing gives higher income than the sale of eggs at wholesale.

The baby chick business is limited and will not stand a much greater expansion. The same is true with the sale of hatching eggs and establishing of retail routes. This should not discourage one who is able to do a little better job than the average fellow. It requires about 850 hens per person employed if eggs are to be sold at retail or for hatching and 1,200 to 1,500 if eggs are to be sold at wholesale. These numbers are necessary to derive an adequate income from the poultry business.

Twelve acres of land are needed for each 1,000 birds. As for investment, figures from farm studies show an investment of approximately $10 a bird. This figure includes the poultry, supplies, land and buildings, equipment and machinery.

Use of Home Grinder Assures Sharp Tools

Is the ax dull? The saw need sharpening? How about the pruning shears?

Successful work and pleasure in using tools depend largely on their condition, says Prof. L. M. Roehl of the New York State college of agriculture. All edge tools used on farms may be ground with a motor-driven emery grinder, and a grinder with the motor back of or below the grinding wheel is needed for this work.

There's a knack to grinding every farm tool, he says. At the same time, the operator is careful to avoid injury to himself. The guard should be kept over the emery wheel whenever the work permits. Certain tools, such as scythes, mowing-machine sickle, ensilage-cutter, blades, and ax require the removal of the grinding guard. The emery wheel itself needs care to sharpen tools well.

Hereford cattle were introduced into America in 1817 by Henry Clay.

Layers should be kept supplied with warm water during cold weather.

Appetite of all geese runs about the same and calls for no less than 90 per cent greens.

Five million dollars was spent in the last year to fight insect pests in California citrus groves.

The average farm family requires at least one hundred and fifty pounds of meat a year for each person.

Proper fencing of pasture land is important. Pastures that have been overgrazed should be fenced off and given a chance to develop.

Roast meat thermometers were first used by home economists at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, more than 35 years ago.

More chickens than people are numbered in many leading European countries.

Success or failure in raising calves depends on the skill and judgment of the feeder, and on his ability as a dairyman in handling calves.

Two Very Important Fashions for Spring

A TWO-PIECE tailored dress for street and business, and a softly detailed afternoon dress that's especially becoming to large figures. Even if you're not an experienced sewer, you'll enjoy making them, for the patterns are easy to follow and each includes a complete and detailed sew chart. So start right in, now, to discover how pleasant and economical it is to be your own dress-maker.

Dress With Jacket-Blouse

Exactly the style you want for street wear, shopping trips and business. The jacket blouse is so attractive, with its puff sleeves, fitted waistline and saucy little peplum. It can be worn with your spring-suit skirt, too. Make it up in flat crepe for immediate wear and later in linen or pique, using all one color or a printed blouse and plain skirt, as pictured.

For Large Women

A very graceful dress with slenderizing lines, thanks to the smooth shoulders, the cape sleeves, always fluttering to plump arms, and the skirt that's narrow round the hips and slightly wide at the hem. Gathers beneath the raglan shoulders make the blouse soft and becoming. In georgette, flat crepe or polka dot silk, this will be your spring favorite. Later, during hot weather, it will be a cool joy in dotted Swiss or voile.

The Patterns

1477 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39-inch material for the jacket and 2 yards of 39-inch material for the skirt.

1499 is designed for sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 2 yards of 39-inch material. If contrasting collar is wanted, it requires 3/4 yard.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Memory's Lane

He built a magnificent residence on Clybourne avenue in Chicago and had a large bay window made which reached to the edge of the sidewalk. In that window, he had several billiard tables and would invite his close friends to his home every Sunday. During the period when the church people were going and coming from worship, he would manage to have playing going on so that people, especially church attendants, could see how much he disregarded religion. So bitter had he grown, that he turned a deaf ear to anything of a religious nature.

It was during the time when Dwight L. Moody, the noted evangelist was conducting a series of meetings in Chicago, that William Brown's life was changed from one of the most damaging infidels into one of the most tender-hearted and powerful religionists this country had ever known. It was evident on a certain night, that he must interview a certain member of a New York firm, with which his industry had been dealing. After searching the hotel registers and making numerous inquiries, he was told that the party in question was attending the Moody meeting. He went to the auditorium gave one of the ushers a bill and requested him to find his party. He came back and said that the gentleman was in the balcony and desired that Mr. Brown occupy a seat next to him, which was vacant at that time.

Wm. Brown, who had never been inside of a church in all those years, went to his friend, took the seat beside him and then the powerful Moody spoke in the most tender tones of the love of God; how He was no respecter of persons; how impossible it was for Him to be otherwise than to love all of His creation, including man.

Thus it happened that William Brown, made into an infidel by the teachings of his own father, was regenerated into a new life, which he followed as long as he lived. In that long period, he had never heard from home, but in going back, he learned that his parents had died and his sister and brother were nowhere to be found. Now, who was Wm. Brown, the reader will ask and what became of him? Anyone who ever attended a series of meetings conducted by the late Billy Sunday, need not ask the question, for he was one of that noted evangelist's most trusted assistants. The above story of Wm. Brown was related by himself from the platform at a meeting for men at Burlington, Iowa, among whom was the writer of this true story, as it came from the lips of Wm. Brown, preacher and assistant evangelist.

Science Beats the Sun

INDUSTRIAL engineers have now developed the device shown above. Consumers' Information reports, to test colorfastness of fabrics, so that manufacturers can make sure in advance that their materials won't fade in the sun. Women have used to be sure that their dresses and draperies would retain their original brilliance until they had actually been exposed to sunlight. But through the use of this machine, developed by industrial research experts, it is now possible to tell whether dyed fabrics will hold their color. This is just one more of the many examples of how industry helps the consumer.

WHY PEOPLE GET COLD FEET

An educator says that the process of thinking draws the blood from the feet to the head. That may explain why some people get cold feet when they begin to think.

Also why some people's feet never get cold. And why some have such cool heads.

MAGNOLIA SERVICE STATION

The rapid development of the automobile is the marvel of the age, for this development was made despite years of poor and haphazard servicing. The modern service station of today has been evolved out of a mass of opinions, experiments and contradictions that for years were the despair of motorists. Out of chaos has come a business that is no longer problematical, but is based on engineering facts and orderliness.

All stations, of course do not measure up to the standard. Magnolia Service Station at 700 North Main Street in Roswell have demonstrated their ability to serve us just as efficiently and with the same thoroughness as any service in the large cities.

A thorough familiarity with the various makes of automobiles and their requirements, tires, batteries and the many accessories, with a sincere desire to please motorists of every class, has made this station one of the most prominent and popular in this section of the state. The highest grades of gasoline and motor oils, tires, accessories by the best manufacturers, these features are but a few indications of their efforts to serve the public well.

Ladies—and the men, too—find their many little courtesies most pleasing, for these are offered in a natural manner and are just a part of the days work.

Whether it be a wash and polish, greasing, refueling, repair or installation of a new tire or tube, you will find each employee has been selected for his ability to do a good job with a smile.

Many people from the out-of-town communities bring their cars there at regular intervals and have them completely serviced. Regular servicing of an automobile will add many miles of usefulness and reduce driving worries to a minimum.

Magnolia Service Station is an institution of which Roswell should be proud. Many people of the neighboring communities find it most reliable and convenient when visiting that city.

GILLILAND PRODUCE CO.

This modern establishment is a well known center of its kind in this section of the state. Extensive wholesale dealers in all kinds of fruits and produce. Honest dealings with the dealer, with years of service are results of this successful concern and enjoys an extensive patronage.

When this well known firm started in business they determined to handle fruits and produce of all kinds. They know these lines thoroughly and have arranged to offer the best there is, but they did not stop here, for they were indeed wise in their business and appreciated the necessity of real magnanimous service. They equipped themselves to furnish service second to none, and the success of this enterprise since they have been in business testifies to the wisdom of their course.

Scientific selling must be born of scientific knowledge and when you consult this firm you receive this information without expense.

Wholesale fruits and produce is their business and they know this line from the ground up.

They are prepared to give you all information regarding them and they consider it a part of their business to serve you in this manner. When you seek information from them you do not get a curt reply. A courteous response with comprehensive knowledge is returned to every request and you are not obligated in any way merely because you asked questions.

This section is indeed fortunate to have such a progressive firm to serve it in the line of fruits and produce for it adds in no little way to the progress and prosperity of the entire surrounding territory.

In making this review of the business interests we are glad to compliment Gilliland Produce Co. in Roswell at 221 East Second Street on the policy on which the business of the establishment is conducted and to say that this firm will greatly add to the development and expansion of this section of the state.

ANN'S NITE CLUB

Recreation is a word universally misunderstood and misinterpreted. It means to recreate. The only trouble is that so many people use it as a misnomer. The business man for example, is tied down to a routine, and no matter how he loves his business, he cannot be at it 24 hours out of the day. So he gets "fed-up" as it were, mentally if not physically, and must adopt some means of re-creating his mind for the stress of new business demands. In this respect what is better than a good brisk motor trip into town a repast of the finest foods and drinks the market affords and served immaculately and with a courtesy that is the last word? Why not motor to Ann's Night Club located on Dexter Rd. in Roswell where you will find Miss Ann and a better hostess does not exist. She conducts her establishment in such a manner that she has elicited the praise of every one of her patrons and thus it is not surprising that her establishment has become a sort of institution. Moreover, in spite of the excellence of the cuisine, the courtesy of the management and the splendid line of beverages served, including all the best brands, the cost of the final check will be a pleasant surprise. Better telephone Miss Ann of Ann's Night Club that you are on your way and a good time will be had by all. It's a trip worth while Phone Roswell 1417.

INJUDICIOUS ADVERTISING

A chemist's assistant had designed notice and exhibited the same when the owner confronted him. "You idiot," said the latter. "Read that again and think. Fancy saying 'Try Killeen's Cough Cure—it's the best—you'll never get better.' — Stray Stories.

SHE LOVED THEM BOTH

A three-year-old girl was taught to close her evening prayer during the temporary absence of the father with "and please watch over my papa." It sounded very sweet, but the mother's amusement may be imagined, when she added, "and you had better keep an eye on mamma, too!"

INTERESTING NOTES ON THE BANANA

YEARS ago many people regarded the banana as highly "indigestible" and certainly "not to be given to children." Now, however, doctors and dieticians come forward and advocate the use of this fruit for balancing any healthy diet.

Here are some important tips on the banana:

1. For eating purposes, the banana should be all yellow. Brown flecks are additional signs of perfection both in the flavor and food value of the fruit.

2. For cooking, the banana may be a bit green at the tips or kept for a few days for ripening. (Ripen the bananas at room temperature.)

3. To keep sliced bananas from darkening until time to serve, cover with any canned or fresh fruit juice or sprinkle with lemon juice.

4. Ripe bananas may be whipped into a heavy cream in a few minutes. This may be used as a base for cake frosting, desserts, etc.

The following banana novelties may be prepared in a jiffy with the aid of your electric refrigerator, range, and mixer. And just think, you'll not only be pleasing the family, but also adding necessary vitamins to its diet.

Add lemon juice and salt to mayonnaise and stir into cheese. Mix with pineapple, cherries, nuts and fold in cream. Last, add the bananas. Turn into freezing trays of electric refrigerator and freeze until solid but not icy. Serve on lettuce.

6 slices bread, butter, 3 bananas, sugar. Cut slices of bread 1/4 inch thick. Spread lightly with butter, then cover each slice with a layer of sliced bananas. Sprinkle lightly with sugar and brown delicately under the broiler.

Fried Bananas

Peel bananas, cut in halves crosswise or in quarters, and roll in sifted dry bread crumbs or in rolled cornflake crumbs. Fry in very hot fat, 395° F., until light brown. Drain on soft paper and serve with broiled chops, steaks, or hams.

Another method is to split bananas, roll in flour and saute on both sides, using a small amount of butter in a hot frying pan.

Spiced Bananas

1/2 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 whole cloves, 1 small stick cinnamon, 3 bananas. Boil vinegar, sugar, cloves and cinnamon until sugar is dissolved and the bubbles begin to look thick. Peel bananas, drop into the hot syrup and boil hard for two minutes. Remove from fire and cool.

Banana Frosting

1/2 cup banana pulp (1 banana), 2-2 1/2 cups confectioner's sugar, salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Mash banana with a silver fork and beat in sifted confectioner's sugar until the mixture is thick enough to spread. Add salt and flavoring. To make a "hard" sauce for pudding, use a little more sugar and pile in a dish.

Banana-Topped Custard for the Children

4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 2 cups scalded milk, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup bananas. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add egg slightly beaten. Pour in scalded milk, stirring constantly. Cook in double boiler until thick enough to coat the spoon. Cool, flavor and top with whipped cream and sliced banana.

TRAILER TIPS

Choose your trailer according to the manner in which you plan to use it most; the smaller, more compact unit for long trips at regular driving speeds; the heavier roomier type if you plan little driving and more permanent one-spot living.

It is safer to have them equipped with brakes. Almost any modern four-wheel brake car will safely handle trailers under that weight.

Streamlining is not a necessity; better to sacrifice looks and get a practical, serviceable interior.

If you intend to travel back roads, be sure you buy an outfit with sufficient road clearance to match that of your car.

Bear in mind that food preparation facilities and sleeping accommodations are most important.

Sportsmen will have an eye to the storage capacity for dunnage, such as fishing tackle, guns and ammunition, clothing, boots, decoys, etc.

Registration fees are required in most states, but the fees are very reasonable. In fact, ownership and use of trailers are still comparatively unhampered as 28 states have no tax on personal property.

Predictions for 1937 trailer production hover between the 70,000 and 80,000 mark—about double the 1936 output.

A fire broke out in the barracks. All rushed except No. 37.

Corporal—Isn't No. 37 coming out? No. 37—No, I'm on leave.

HE FITTED HIM

He was a good-natured Irishman and was one of a number of men employed in erecting a new building. The owner of the building said to him one day

"Pat, didn't you tell me that a brother of yours is a lawyer?" "Yes, sir," replied Pat. "And you're a hod carrier!" The good things of life are not equally divided, are they?" "No, sir," said Pat. "Poor fellow—my brother wouldn't do this to save his life."

NO WOMAN COULD SAY THAT TO HIM

The mistress of the house heard the bell ring and saw a Chinese vendor standing at the open front door. Stepping to the back of the hall she called out to the maid:

"There's a Chinaman at the door. You go, Ella!" This was too much for the Chinaman who stuck his head into the doorway and shouted indignantly: "You go talk yourself!"

A KEAL OBITUARY

Anyone of us would be proud to have an obituary that rings with as much truth and sincerity as that written for a Canadian sheep dog.

A gentleman has just passed on.

He was kind and courteous, respectful to his superiors and indulgent to his inferiors.

He had courage without bluster and pride without vaunting.

He was a loyal friend and a devoted companion.

He never picked a quarrel nor fled from a fight.

He loved children and delighted in their enjoyment.

He was generous and never critical.

He was full of the joy of living.

His name was "Hurly" and he was a sheep dog, eleven years old.

He lived happily, died serenely and left a volume of satisfying memories.

One on the Professor

Our friend the absent minded professor, jumped out of bed in the middle of the night ran to the stairs and shouted: "Who's down there in the kitchen?"

"Nobody," said the Burglar.

"Well, that's funny," said the professor. "I could have sworn I heard someone."

SOUNDS LIKE BARCASM

Customer — I want some powder to kill cockroaches.

Clerk — Will you take it with you?

Customer — No, I'll have the cockroaches call and you can rub it on their little tummies.

SPENDING FOR NEW JOBS

A single steel company spent more than eight million dollars last year in research work to create new products and more employment. Sixty-four buildings housed the laboratory activities of the company and the money spent in research totaled $8,400,000 during the year.

Customer — I should like to know why it is that the potatoes in the top bin cost that I bought from you.

Greener — That's easily explained. This variety of potatoes grows so fast that by the time a sackful is dug, the best ones are about twice the size of the first ones.

VACATION AT HOME

For those who have been unable to take a vacation during the summer we suggest that it is not yet too late to have all the thrills of a summer resort right at home. Here is how it may be done:

Move into the smallest bedroom in your house, if possible one immediately over the kitchen.

If your bed is soft and downy, put a couple of bricks in it.

Dig a hole in the garden, get into it and cover yourself up to the neck. When you get tired of this diversion wash yourself off with the garden hose.

Don't have any clothes washed for two weeks.

Sit on a rough board in the hot sun and hold a baited fish line in your hand.

If you wish to take a quiet nap in the afternoon, put a radio next to your bed and turn it on full blast.

In the evening remove the screens from the bedroom windows so that the mosquitoes can get into your room.

Go up to the roof and expose your self to the sun until you are nicely burned. Then take whatever exercise will make you stiff and sore.

When you have wearied of all this and wish to return to a normal life, send yourself a bill for $20. to $25 a week and don't forget to give a nice fat tip to the cook. — Woodville News.

SEE COPPED THE PRIZE

A game called for each participant to represent the title of some famous book or novel. One elderly lady (who copped the prize) appeared with a large picture of the Disease Quintuplets pinned across her gown. She said she represented Sinclair Lewis' latest novel, "It Can't Happen Here." — Plattville (Wis.)

JOKE-OF-THE-MONTH

Customer (at feed store) — I want some shorts for my legs.

Clerk — Oh, you're one of those smart guys. Next, I suppose you'll be coming in here and asking for crackers for your cows.

They borrow books they will not buy. They have no ethics nor religion. I wish some kind Puritanian guy would come my books with hearing pigeons.

PITY THE PREACHER

The preacher has a great time. If his hair is gray, he is too old. If he is a young man, he has not had experience enough. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he is setting a bad example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming; if she does not, she isn't interested in her husband's work. If the preacher reads from notes, he's a bore; if he speaks extemporaneously he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study, he doesn't mix enough with people; if he is seen around the streets he ought to be at home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on the poor, he is playing to the grandstand; if he calls at the homes of the wealthy, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, some one could have told him how to do better.

SORT OF CHOOSY

The hired girl had been sent down to the brook to fetch a pail of water, but stood gazing at the flowing stream apparently lost in thought.

"What is she waiting for?" asked her mistress, who was watching. "Dunno," wearily replied her husband. "Perhaps she hasn't seen a pailful yet that she likes." — Plattville, (Wis.) Witanes.

The tourist rushed into the country store. "I wanna quart of oil, some gas a couple of spark plugs, a timer, a 5-gallon kerosene can and four pie tins."

"All right," replied the astonished clerk. And you can see he has to be in the back room.

Modern Trend

Old Lady (visitor on dude ranch) — "What's that funny stuff on the sheep?"

Guide — "Wool."

Old Lady — "Wool? Huh, I'll bet it's half cotton."

Who? "What in the world are you doing to the deer with that saw?"

Hubby: "I'm making it higher for all these long-necked buckskin relatives."

SLEEP ON

The Irish foreman found one of his men sleeping in a corner. "Sleep on, ye idle spalpeen," he said, "sleep on. So long as ye slape ye've got a job; but when ye wake up you're out of wurk!"

"Is Jim a liar?"

"Well, I don't know as I would go so far as to call him a liar, but I'll tell you this much, when feeding these cows, his pigs won't stir until he gets someone else to call them for him."

The work is featured for the accommodation of auto-lots, farmers, garages and manufacturers, and is a great convenience to the public.

They have a most complete equipment and thus are prepared for the most accurate and intricate work, including the repairing of machinery as well as other forms of welding of all metals.

The Woodburn Welding & Blacksmith Shop in Roswell at 415 E. Second Street with phone Roswell-475 are experts in repairing anything in the way of broken parts. It makes no difference how little or how large they be, this firm can handle the job and complete it in a way that you will remember them next time you have anything in this line.

The American habit of throwing away articles that are cracked or broken which for a little money can be rebuilt and made as good as new is fast passing away with the settled life of the country and with the advent of the era we predict for this shop a feature in business that is fraught with a great promise.

They aid in keeping the wheels of industry on the move and render the trade the best of service. All you have to do if you are having trouble is to call them over the phone and they will soon be on the job and have your machinery on the move. With the rapid development of the country their service daily becomes more necessary to the industries of this section.

In making this annual business review of the onward progress of our community, we are pleased to be able to commend Woodburn Welding and Blacksmith Shop on the efficiency of the plant and to direct our readers here when in need of the best of their line.

MUST PAY FOR PIPING

The colored preacher, after talking to his congregation about free salvation, asked Brother Smith to take up the collection. A parishoner got to his feet and protested: "Parson, I thought you said salvation was free—free as the water we drink."

"Salvation is free, Brother," replied the minister. "It's free and water is free, but when we pipe it to you, you have to pay for the piping."—Wall Street Journal.

Price A Little Low.

A red haired boy applied for a job in a butcher shop. "How much will you give me?"

"Three dollars a week; but what can you do to make yourself useful around a butcher shop?"

"Anything."

"Well, be specific. Can you dress a chicken?"

Knew Where He Needed It.

Willie was being measured for his first made-to-order suit of clothes: "Do you want the shoulders padded, my little man?" inquired the tailor.

"Naw," said Willie. "Pud the seat."

Thousands and thousands of dollars are spent annually for fishing tackle. Which reminds us of the big sportsman who remarked to a little boy fishing next to him on the river bank: "You'll be a man like one of us some day." "Yes, sir," the boy answered, "I s'pose I will, but I'd rather stay small and ketch a few fish."

HARD TO DISTINGUISH SMELL

A lady went into a delicatessen store the other day for some limburger cheese. She complained that it didn't smell as strong as some she had been getting. "Well," said the proprietor, "it's hard to distinguish smells nowadays with business so rotten."

WHEN "MUSIC" ISN'T APPRECIATED

"It all depends on the point of view," he said reflectively. "What do you mean?" she asked. "Well, by way of illustration," he answered, "There's Mrs. Jones next door, who sings all day long. Looking at it from one point of view, we say 'Happy woman' and from another, 'Unhappy neighbor!'"

WHAT COLOR WOULD YOU BE?

During his visit to the church school the preacher put this question to a class of little girls: "If all the good people were white and all the bad people were black, what color would you be?" Some answered "white and others black." But little Mary replied "Please, sir, I'd be streaky."—Exchange.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR ABC'S?

OF COURSE you memorized your alphabet in your childhood but have you ever taken time to learn your ordinary ABC's—the Vitamin Family? If not, now is a splendid time to get at this because in May we celebrate Child Health Day and what could be a finer tribute to your children than for you to study something which will insure their well being?

Know them, that: A is for disease resistance B is for whetting the appetite and strengthening the digestive system C is for promoting the growth and health of teeth D is for building sturdy bones E is for the process of renewal F is for general growth

When you have conquered this information it would be well for you to secure a listing of the various foodstuffs which are classified under each of these letters. You can then intelligently plan your meals for perfect balance and health!

Here are some recipes which combine wholesomeness with a party air to appeal to the children:

ROSWELL MOTOR SUPPLY CO.

Superior to the vast majority of automobile supply parts, establishments and surpassed by none, either in general excellency of work or superiority of their stock, this well known firm has continued its successful career because the management and assistants are among the most experienced supply parts men in this part of the state.

By auto supplies we mean especially repair parts such as bearings for any make or model of automobile, gaskets, pistons, rings, fan belts, and other similar auto necessities. Their stock is one of the largest in the state.

This establishment is one of the firms that is not satisfied with a stock of a few parts. When they set out to sell the people of this section of the state they determined to keep everything that is in the line. Any one who has purchased from them or even been in their store will have to acknowledge that they have succeeded. We venture there are few stores in the much larger cities that have a more complete stock.

This establishment is thoroughly abreast with the times and have secured for the people a large stock of everything needed in the line of parts, repairs and supplies. And let us remark here that this firm is just about headquarters in these parts for supplies and whatever you may need in these lines call upon them for it.

They sell Gates Products, Broy-Warner Gears, Hohn-Werner Hydraulic Jacks and Alemite Equipment. We do not think we exaggerate when we state that this concern has saved the people of this community thousands of dollars in expense for they are the sales agents for standard lines of highest grade which are offered at the lowest prices quoted by anyone anywhere for quality supplies and accessories. They have a stock that represents an investment of many thousands of dollars and have left nothing undone in their endeavor to serve you faithfully.

We are more than glad to complement the Roswell Motor Supply Co., in Roswell at 108 East Second Street upon the position occupied in the industrial world of this section of the country and to assure the public that here they will always get courteous treatment and high grade goods.

New What You'd Call A Jersey

"Don't you want to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm on?" asked the hardware clerk as he wrapped up the nails. "They're cheap now. I can let you have a first-class one for $35."

"I'd rather put $35 in a cow," replied the farmer.

"But think," persisted the clerk, "how foolish you'd look riding on a cow."

"Oh, I don't know," said the farmer, stroking his chin, "no more foolish, I guess, than I would milkin' a bicycle."

Grown-ups poked fun at the poem "Darius, Green and His Flying Machine?"

"Death row" referred to prison cells instead of streets and highways?

Proof Positive

The customer finished his meal and called the waiter.

The manager came up a few moments later and bowed politely.

"You wished to speak to me, sir?" he said.

"Yes," said the customer, solemnly. "You must have a remarkably clean kitchen in this restaurant."

THE FIRST TIRE

The first pneumatic tire for an automobile was produced in 1888 in a factory employing only a handful of men. Today it is estimated that more than a million persons are employed, either directly or indirectly, producing materials for which about 1,225,000,000 pounds of rubber are required annually.

THERE IS AN OLD SAYING THAT...

"AN APPLE a day keeps the doctor away." Whether this statement is true or not applies do furnish so much valuable mineral salt, bulk and general vitamin content that they should not be overlooked in your menus.

The quality of apples differs in different sections of the country and it is well to investigate the various types before making a purchase. Some of the better known all-purpose apples are the Baldwin, Jonathan, McIntosh, Northern Spy, Spitzenberg, Wealthy, and Winesap. These are excellent for cooking or eating. The Delicious and Snow are fine eating apples but should not be used for cooking as they are too mild in flavor and their texture is not suitable for this purpose.

If you are looking for some new ideas for including apples in your food plans, try these: Broiled Pork Chops with Apple Rings. Preheat oven to 400 degrees and heat broiling pan and rack. When rack is heated, place chops on it and broil on one side, season with salt, then turn and on the unbroiled side place apple rings cut very thin. Use raw, core, unpeeled apples. Continue to broil until brown. The heat penetrates the apple flavor into the chops and makes a delicious combination.

Apple and Tuna Fish Salad. 1/2 cup sugar, 6 medium sized apples, pared and sliced, Juice of 1/2 lemon, 2 cups tuna fish, Baked, 1/2 cup celery, sliced, 1/2 cup mayonnaise. Sprinkle apples with lemon juice. Add tuna fish and celery; then mayonnaise. Toss together lightly. Arrange on crisp lettuce. Garnish with additional mayonnaise and strips of green pepper. Apple Pudding. 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 to 1 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 1/2 cups sliced apples, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup sugar, Juice of 1/2 lemon.

Sift and measure flour, then add sugar, spices, baking powder, salt. Sift together. Cut fat into flour, using fork. Add 1/2 cup apples, chopped, and milk to make a soft dough. Melt butter in bottom of small pudding pan. Add sugar and remaining apples and lemon juice. Pour over the batter. Steam 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Serve hot with lemon sauce or cream.

Apple Salad. 2 cups sliced apples, 1 cup diced celery, lettuce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/2 cup walnut meats, 1/2 cup mayonnaise. Add lemon juice to dried apples to prevent them from turning dark. Combine all ingredients, adding the mayonnaise and mixing well with a fork. Salad should be prepared in a very cool mixing bowl. Place crisp lettuce on individual salad plates. Arrange salad on lettuce and serve immediately.

Apple Rice Casserole. 1 1/2 cups rice, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 3 apples. Wash the rice and soak until laxy and tender in boiling salted water. Drain, and add corn syrup and sugar. Grease a baking dish and put in a layer of rice. Pare and slice apples, and place a layer of apples over rice. Continue until the dish is full, cover, and bake in slow oven of 325°F. until the apples are tender—about thirty minutes. Remove cover for last ten minutes to brown. Serve with milk or cream.

Spicy Apples. 1 1/2 cups sugar, 6 medium sized apples, 1 tablespoon fat, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, Blanched almonds, Cream, 3/4 cup water. Cook sugar and water together for 2 minutes. Cool and pour each plate of topped apples.

DR. E. A. GRISSOM

Dr. E. A. Grissom, located in Alamogordo, at 1100 Penn Ave., Phone Alamogordo-190 is a prominent and well known chiropractor. As we think of the afflictions that mankind is incidentally subjected to, we look at the smooth exterior of our body and wonder why. But the more we know about ourselves the easier we can understand cause and effect. In the first stages of life the principle thing to be noticed is the spinal nerve, the spine, being first, must be the medium through which nature builds a complete body.

pressure on the spinal nerves causing disease wherever those nerves extend. By making analysis of the spine, he can detect any displacement, can remove the pressure that causes disease. Good Health follows naturally. The human body is so constructed that it is unnatural for disease to creep in without cause. The nerve system is designed to give perfect health to all organs and keep them in repair. If through abnormal curvature, jolts, strains, falls or wrenches at some time in life the movable bones of the spine are displaced even slightly, they press on these nerves and obstruct the flow of life energy. Weakness and disease result in the organs that these nerves supply. Look into Chiropractic—the new health science, consult Dr. E. A. Grissom. Information and analysis will cost you nothing, then pass the word along to some suffering friend. We wish to call the reader's attention to Dr. E. A. Grissom who has a reputation above reproach and is one of our most successful chiropractors in Alamogordo.

Progress vs. Politics
 By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
 National Chairman
 Sentinels of the Republic

During the past few weeks various groups of citizens have appeared before Committees of Congress to urge constructive action in the cause of recovery. They have been asking government to lift its foot from the brakes which slow down progress, re-employment, and our national well-being.

America, they have pointed out, has the resources, the energy, the strength and the intelligence to continue the progress which in a century and a half developed our country from a fledgling republic into one of the greatest nations in history, and created high standards of living for its people.

In these statements they are supported by established facts. They, and the many American workers and carriers whom they represent, can show that in the United States we have, in addition to generous natural resources, more automobiles, more telephones, more radios, more railroads than any nation on earth.

They can show that the purchasing power of the American people is greater than the purchasing power of all the millions in Europe or in Asia.

They can add that the American people top the list in facilities for education for all. Throughout the world our nation is acknowledged as the home of religious tolerance and widespread opportunity.

These things, they can show, were not the gifts of states-holders and politicians. They were created and developed by the initiative, the strength and the love of freedom of the people themselves.

With such facts not only evident, but universally acknowledged, the average citizen continues to ask that our progress be allowed to continue, unchecked by the hand of politics, whether it bears gifts or a good.

Congress, it would seem, is lending a more willing ear to the demands of the people. In several recent instances it has demonstrated a readiness to put their desires above the promises and the pressure of politics.

All Americans will hope that Congressmen continue to consider the demands of the people above the voice of politics, and thus set us again on the road to recovery and re-employment.

Met at the home of Mrs. Don English, April 19, with a good attendance. A nice program was given, after which Mrs. Nellie Shaver Williams was honored with a miscellaneous shower. It was a complete surprise on Nellie and she received many nice and useful gifts. Refreshments of coffee and cake were served by the club, the bride cutting the bride's cake. The next meeting will be May 26, with Mrs. Hendry at Fort Stanton.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Death in the Grandstand"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Here's Harold T. Leach of Newark, N. J., with a story for us—the story of how he went out looking for thrills, and got one he never expected. The sort of thrill Hal was looking for was the kind you watch from the grandstand. He didn't expect to participate in any of the doggone things himself. But—well—before he knew it, Old Lady Adventure was climbing right up into that grandstand after him.

A dirty trick on the part of Old Lady Adventure, sez you? Well, let's not be too hasty in judging the old dame that packs the thrill bag.

As a matter of fact, she played not one trick, but two, on Hal Leach on that bright Sunday morning in 1912 and Hal swears that one of those tricks saved his life.

Now let's look over the first trick the old girl played on Hal. Hal set out that Sunday morning to go to the motorcycle races which were being run on a wooden track on South Orange avenue. And right from the beginning it looked to Hal as if the whole trip were hoodooed. He wanted to get to the track early and get a certain seat that was a favorite of his, right down in the front row and just above the tent where the riders rested, but one thing and another turned up to delay him.

Couldn't Get His Favorite Seat.

He started from home late, and just missed a trolley. He had to wait ten minutes for another one, and then, at the point where he had to transfer to the old South Orange avenue line, doggoned if he didn't just miss another car. He got to the track before the races started, but too late to get his favorite seat in the front row. He had to be content with one right back of it in the second row.

And maybe he didn't cuss his luck over that. He didn't know then that it was Old Gal Adventure that was putting the jinx on him.

There was a great crowd at the track that day. Every seat in the stands was filled before the races started, and the overflow of the mob was jamming the bull pen. Excitement was running high, for there were some doggone good races being run, and there was one particular event that everybody was interested in.

That was a race between Eddie Hasha and Johnnie Albright. A great rivalry had sprung up between these two. They were the fastest riders on the track, and this race was to decide which of them was the champ. There were three other riders in the race—just to make it more spectacular. But nobody was paying much attention to those other three guys. Every pair of eyes in the place were focused on Hasha and Albright.

Last Ride for These Racers.

It was a big day for Eddie Hasha and Johnnie Albright—and well it might be. For those two fellows were setting out on their last ride.

The race was a corker, right from the start. Hasha took the lead and held it. Johnnie Albright was right behind him. The other three riders trailed along in the rear. Eddie had run up a lead of a hundred yards or so on Albright, when suddenly things began to happen.

There was a four-inch black line circling the track, above which the racers were not allowed to go. Beyond that line the track banked up to a perpendicular wall four feet high. Above that was a fence of heavy wire behind which the spectators sat. That was for their protection in case of accident. But there are times when even the best of protections fail to protect.

Hasha, still in the lead, was clipping it off, at eight-five miles an hour, when suddenly he hit the deadline—that four-inch black line that went around the entire track. Immediately, the referee fired a gun, signalling a foul and ordering Eddie Hasha out of the race.

Hal Was in the Midst of Death.

But Eddie didn't stop. To the consternation of the crowd he kept right on going. His motorcycle whizzed right up that four feet of straight wall—right up the heavy mesh wire in front of the spectators—shot over the top of the fence and tumbled into the grandstand, RIGHT WHERE HAL LEACH HAD WANTED TO SIT.

There followed the wildest ten seconds that Hal ever saw in his life. Hasha dived headlong into a timber upright that supported the grandstand roof, and was killed. His machine landed in the midst of a shrieking mob of race fans in the front row, and right in front of Hal. His motor still going at top speed, it hopped crazily along that front row, killing and maiming as it went. Then it leaped high in the air, hurdled the wire fence again, and fell on top of Johnnie Albright as he sped on down the track in the lead of the other three riders.

Johnnie Albright was thrown from his motorcycle, and he was dead when they picked him up. Seven other men died in the grandstand from injuries they sustained when the motorcycle landed among them.

Says Hal Leach: "I helped lower the bodies down to the track, and then passed out of the picture—just from the shock—and was lowered down in my turn. Do you wonder why I get the shivers, even now, whenever a motorcycle dashes past me?"

Drift From Alaska Toward North Pole Is Bartlett's Plan

New York.—Captain Robert A. (Bob) Bartlett, North America's foremost veteran of the Arctic, has called for "three or four young fellows" or an ice-breaker and crew to carry out a drift expedition from the Alaska coast toward the North Pole similar to the feat just completed by four Soviet Russian scientists.

Warmly praising the achievement of the Russians in making detailed scientific observations through a nine-month vigil on an ice floe that drifted from the North pole toward the Greenland coast, Captain Bartlett said such an expedition would serve to complete knowledge of the other half of the Arctic basin.

The Arctic veteran, who accompanied the late Admiral Robert E. Peary as far north as 87 degrees 48 minutes north latitude on Peary's historic dash on foot to the North pole in 1909, called such an expedition as he proposes the natural complement to the work of the Russians.

Either a small group of men could drift on an ice floe or the proper type of wooden ship, imprisoned in the ice and clear the Siberian coast where ice pressure might destroy it, could carry out the work.

Must Start in Fall.

"It would be necessary to start from the Alaskan coast in the fall of the year," he explained. "Ice conditions for the type of boat necessary are best at that time of the year, while starting from Alaska is necessitated by the need for avoiding the Siberian coast."

Such a party would drift north-eastward in the direction of the pole, as the Russians drifted south-westward from the pole—both drifts being across the icy "roof of the world."

Fridtjof Nansen, famous Norwegian explorer, made a roughly similar trip in the Fram from 1893 to 1896, drifting from the Bering sea to a point near Spitzbergen which caught fast in the ice. But, Captain Bartlett believes, such a journey today would produce valuable results because of the many major scientific advances since that time and the improved instruments men on such an expedition would have at their command.

Interested particularly in the shape of the ocean floor, Captain Bartlett pointed out that such a group would have as an aid the sonic depth finder with which it might investigate the contour of the ocean bottom and the depth of the Polar sea.

Love of Cattle as "Money" Ruins the Land in Africa

London.—Love of money on the hoof is the root of most of the evils that afflict native tribes in Central and South Africa. It eats the land like a cancer, it brings the folk to the doors of black starvation.

It all goes back to the completely senseless regard the pastoral tribes have for cattle, Sir Daniel Hall, director of the John Innes Horticultural institution, pointed out in a Royal Institution lecture here. Cattle are money to the tribesmen, Sir Daniel explained. They do not eat them. They do not even milk them. They just keep them, increase their herds as much as possible, and use them only in swapping for wives and as means of prestige-gaining ostentation. They literally hoard herds.

These hoards of living money exact hungry usury off the land. They strip the grasslands bare. Their owners destroy the forests, to make new pastures. The cattle strip these also. Erosion sets in, gnawing the land into deep gullies. The people, threatened with starvation by the greedy feeding of their own luxury cattle, have to look to the government for bread.

Sumerians Went to Battle in Ass-Drawn Chariots

Chicago.—In the ass-and-buggy age, 2800 B. C., brave Sumerians jogged to war in chariots pulled by four plodding asses. Archeologists of the Oriental Institute, University of Chicago, have unearthed the evidence—a tiny model of this old-fashioned, turnout, found at ruins of Tall Agrab, near Baghdad in Mesopotamia.

The toy model proves Sumerians had asses at this early age, and casts doubt on the theory they had the more speedy animal, the horse, at that time. The model also reveals they equipped their wheels with copper studs in tire fashion, probably for better traction.

Oil for Troubled Water

Copenhagen.—Not just oil, but whale-oil, is the right prescription for the traditional troubled waters, experiments by the Danish research ship Ingolf have shown. During a severe gale, it was found that a gallon of whale oil released on the waves had as much effect as 21 gallons of fuel oil, and that the quieting effect lasted between three and four times as long.

Brides Sold by Weight

In some gypsy villages in Yugoslavia girl brides are sold by weight, the sale being held when the girls reach a marriageable age, says Pearson's London Weekly. The average price is between 2 pence and 3 pence a pound, the higher price being paid for girls who can dance and sing as well as cook. To prevent cheating, the gypsy chief keeps the weighing scales under lock and key. The sale of girl brides is a recognized practice in Yugoslavia, but only in gypsy villages are their values assessed by weight.

First Act of Congress

Owing to the lack of a quorum and the delay in organizing the new federal government, no bills were passed by the house and senate for nearly three months. The first law enacted was "an act to regulate the time and manner of administering certain oaths," and it was approved by President Washington on June 1, 1789. The second bill passed by both houses was "an act for laying a duty on goods, wares, and merchandise imported into the United States." This bill was approved by Washington on July 4 of the same year.

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses

TEETH--Your Passport to Good Health--and Tells How You Can Avoid the Tragedy of Dental Decay

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
8 East 39th Street, New York.

A SCIENTIST, who was also a wit, once remarked that you must be true to your teeth or they will be false to you. That most people do not heed this advice is evidenced by the fact that almost 100 per cent of the adult population is affected by some form of oral disease, and from 90 to 97 per cent of all school children have decayed teeth.

As there is a close relationship between healthy teeth and healthy bodies, and conversely, between decayed teeth and sickly bodies, it is easy to understand why science views this appalling situation with the greatest alarm—and why such an eminent authority as Professor Ernest A. Hooton of Harvard University warns that "unless steps are taken to discover preventives of tooth infection, and correctives of dental deformation, the course of human evolution will lead downward to extinction."

Health and Happiness Depend on Sound Teeth

That is a strong statement, but it is not an exaggeration, for it would be difficult to over-estimate the influence of the teeth upon human health and happiness.

Do you wonder how teeth can affect happiness? Consider, then, that a pretty face depends, first upon the position of the mouth when the lips are closed, and second, upon the appearance of the teeth when the lips are parted. You cannot have a lovely mouth when the lips close over crooked front teeth; you cannot have an attractive smile if the teeth are dull.

And when gums recede, and loosened teeth are forced out of their natural position, the position of the lips is likewise changed—with the result that the lower part of the face is disfigured.

Surely this is tragedy enough. But the effect of decayed teeth upon health is of far greater significance.

Dental Decay Does Extensive Damage

A decayed tooth is a poison factory, distributing its noxious product to every part of the body. In the body, that poison attacks and centers in the weakest spot.

It may lead to neuritis, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, or even duodenal ulcers. It may be a contributing cause of heart disease.

In view of such extensive damage, it is easy to understand why a prominent medical authority has declared that if the teeth were given proper care, so that dental decay became rare, instead of almost universal, more than half of all sickness would be eliminated.

Mothers Are to Blame For Children's Bad Teeth

It has been estimated that the temporary, or "baby teeth" of children come through the gums practically perfect in 98 per cent of all children. Yet, statistics show that by the time they reach the first grade, 90 per cent of the children, both from wealthy homes and from homes where money is scarce, have bad teeth; one-third have abscessed conditions in their mouths, and every fourth or fifth child does not have proper masticating surfaces.

If this disgraceful state of affairs is allowed to continue, the blame must be laid squarely at the doors of the nation's mothers.

Formerly it was thought that oral hygiene alone would prevent tooth decay. But though the importance of thoroughly cleansing the teeth is recognized today as never before, nutritional scientists have discovered that correct diet, plus mouth hygiene, is the real key to dental health.

Diet and Its Relation To Dental Disease

The teeth are living tissues, which require proper nourishment just as much as any other part of the body.

Every food element required for a healthy body plays its part in building healthy teeth. But special emphasis must be placed upon providing adequate amounts of calcium, phosphorus, and three vitamins, A, C and D.

Teeth Are Actually Formed Before Birth

These substances must be supplied before birth and throughout life.

Although teeth do not appear in a baby's mouth until some months after it is born, they are actually formed before birth.

It is during this period, therefore, that proper dieting should begin. The teeth are constructed of the same materials as the bones, chiefly calcium and phosphorus, and if the diet of the prospective mother is not adequate, these building materials are withdrawn from her own teeth and bones.

The old idea that mothers must sacrifice "a tooth for every child" arose because expectant mothers did not realize the importance of taking extra amounts of calcium, which is obtained from milk, cheese, dried peas and beans, green leafy vegetables and many nuts; phosphorus, which is abundant in egg yolk, cheese, whole grain cereals, dried legumes and milk; and vitamin D, which is supplied by fish-liver oils, irradiated foods, or those enriched with vitamin D concentrates and egg yolk.

It has been proved experimentally that when vitamin A is withheld, the teeth begin to deteriorate, and become chalky, white and brittle.

Vitamin C is so closely related to the health of teeth and gums that when it is lacking, profound changes occur, including swelling and bleeding of the gums and loosening of the teeth.

Four Important Rules For Dental Health

The prevention of dental decay and the preservation of sound teeth and healthy gums is founded on a four-point program:

First, a well-balanced diet containing an abundance of calcium, phosphorus and vitamins A, C and D.

Second, frequent and thorough brushing of the teeth, to remove all food particles. The use of an efficient dentifrice encourages efficient brushing and helps to keep the teeth looking attractive.

Third, the inclusion in the diet of foods that require the chewing, tearing, gnawing and biting for which our teeth were designed, such as raw cabbage, celery, apples and other fibrous foods.

Fourth, a visit to the dentist at least twice a year, so that he can check the condition of the teeth.

If every mother will follow this program, and train her children to follow it, the result will be a vast decrease in dental decay, and a forward step in human progress. For it is not too much to say that the SALVATION OF THE HUMAN RACE LIES IN SAVING ITS TEETH.

Questions Answered

Mrs. J. B. McK.—It is incorrect to say that rye bread is more, or less, fattening than white bread. A slice of rye bread supplies the same number of calories as a slice of white bread.

Miss F. S. P.—The sulphur dioxide used to bleach a good grade of dried fruit is present in a chemical combination that is entirely harmless.

Mrs. E. T. D.—Answering your question as to the effect of cooking on vitamin D, this is no problem in the kitchen. Natural vitamin D is virtually absent from most foods, but in irradiated foods, or those to which vitamin D concentrate has been added, the vitamin D is stable and ordinary cooking has little destructive effect on it.

Terence Shea Tells of His Bulging Barrels

A social worker with more enthusiasm than tact went to call upon Terence Shea, night watchman, at his home.

"I hope, Mr. Shea," she said, "that you do not squander your money in riotous living. May I ask what you do with your wages?"

"I'd just as soon tell you as not," replied Mr. Shea. "Tis $15 a week I make. When I've paid the rent, the provisions, and the milkman, and bought what's needed for Maggie and me five children, I deposit the rest of my money in barrels. Mostly, ma'am, sugar barrels. They're bigger an' hold more. But when I can't get them I use plain flour barrels."

Boy Scouts Learn Mounting of Wild Life.

Practical, Varied and Widespread Are Activities of the Boy Scouts

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

LEADERS among organized youth in this country are the Boy Scouts, although municipalities, churches, and fraternal organizations are promoting other youth movements.

Many practical things, not taught in schools, must be learned if a boy would work up from Tenderfoot to Eagle Scout. They include first-aid treatment in severe accidents; knowing the difference between sunstroke and heat exhaustion; how to revive drowning persons, or those unconscious from gas, smoke, or electrical contact; how to treat snake and dog bites; how to distinguish between simple and compound fractures, and what splints to use. Also, how to identify birds, especially those that protect trees and plants from insects; how to undress in deep water; to swim 100 yards carrying a person of one's own weight, and how to break a strangle hold in the water.

Because they "hike" so much, these boys, exploring the hills, woods, swamps, and streams about their home towns, are masters of local geography. Map-making they learn, too; photography and natural history.

Men's Jobs in Boys' Sizes. "Every task in Scouting," says Dr. James Russell, of Columbia University, "is a man's job cut down to boy's size. The appeal to a boy's interest is not because he is a boy, but because he wants to be a man."

The average boy is in school less than one-fifth of the hours in a year. But in free time he is just as receptive as in school, getting impressions, using ideas, reaching conclusions, forming habits, and organizing his mode of behavior. So habit becomes the basis of all efficiency; otherwise "we should spend our days learning anew the art of lacing our shoes, or holding a pen. Writing, made habitual, becomes so easy that the writer's whole attention may be centered on what he writes."

Inspiring boys to observe birds, plants, and animals, to map new country and build trails, arouses in them the explorers' instinct and a keener understanding of geography. No part of Scout training receives more attention.

Nature study, geography, and geology, whether carried on during hikes or at summer camps are particularly useful in stimulating the love of outdoor life in the city-bred boy.

Led by adult geologists, small groups of hand-picked Eagle Scouts have made exploring trips into many parts of Arizona, Utah, Nevada, and California.

Good Helpers of Scientists. From Central America a naturalist expedition of American Boy Scouts brought back skeletons of a crocodile, a six-foot iguana, and various monkeys. They also made photographs of the active volcanoes of Irazu and Poas, in Costa Rica. One boy in this party made a fine collection of lichens.

Scouts of Montreal and St. Johns, Canada, worked with the scientists of McGill University in checking the path of the sun's eclipse across Quebec in 1932.

Some newly discovered peaks and glaciers were added to our maps by Seattle Boy Scouts through their recent explorations in the wilderness of the Olympic peninsula of Washington.

Boy Scouts of Great Barrington, Mass., helped build a link in the Appalachian trail, planned to extend along the crest of the Appalachians from the Canadian border to the extremities of the mountain range in the far South. In this work they joined with the Green Mountain club, which has built a trail along the crest of the Vermont highlands. Boy Scouts worked on one link in western Massachusetts, stretching from the Vermont line, running over Mount Greylock, and other mountains to the New York state border.

Working with the state forestry service, Boy Scouts of Waterbury, Conn., started cutting fire trails through the Mattatuck forest near that city. The work of the Waterbury Boy Scouts is a part of the program in which Boy Scouts throughout Connecticut are working in the formation of patrols to mark trails and then patrol all state forests in order to prevent forest fires.

As a result of the work, the Scouts gained a first-hand knowledge of surveying and general forestry.

While exploring ancient mounds in Ohio, Scouts found many skeletons, pottery, arrowheads, skinning knives, and a grinding pestle.

When Syracuse University sent an expedition to the Andes, it was accompanied by an Eagle Scout, who spent six months there and helped the expedition with its study of rare birds, animals, and reptiles. Boy Scouts of Washington found a deposit of shellfish fossils on the bank of a stream, perfectly preserved since the days when the ocean covered the southwestern part of that state. Scouts went with the East Tennessee Archeological society when its expedition explored the Little Tennessee river in quest of the ruins of old Indian villages.

Learn Geography by Travel. More than 1,700 separate camps for Scouts were conducted in the United States in 1933.

Since an average trip to and from camp is about 50 miles, and 300,000 boys attended, they traveled a total distance of 15,000,000 miles. Add to this the many tramps out of camp and back, and the frequent hikes made by troops from their home town into the country, and a rough idea is gained of how the boys' knowledge of geography is enhanced.

Flinding his direction by the compass; the skillful use of tools in building huts and bridges; how to cook his own food in the open and set up a tent—are all among the practical phases of outdoor life taught to boys.

No such mass of boys ever assembled as met for the Scout World Jamboree at Birkenhead, England, in 1923, with more than 50,000 present, representing 73 different nationalities.

With the duke of Connaught, to review the opening parade, was Lord Baden-Powell, who gave the signal by blowing a blast on the kudu horn, the tocsin of Zulu warriors. To the bagpipe music of a Scottish boys' band, the army marched past. As they came in alphabetical order, the Americans marched first, followed by the Australians.

Their Jamboree in England. "It was the youth of the world that passed," wrote Sir Philip Gibbs.

"Arabs from Palestine, Morocco and Algeria in white robes, Indians in green turbans, black boys from the Gold Coast and Nigeria, natives of Jamaica, Kenya, Barbados, Ceylon, and other far countries of the British empire. Latin America was there, with splendid contingents from Brazil and Chile. The old countries of Europe—Spain, France, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Germany—had sent their young manhood, and new nations like Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania were strongly represented.

"The Danish Sea Rovers came like our own naval boys. The Brazilians were all in blue, except for white caps. The Irish Free State advanced under the green flag and the harp. The sons of former enemies—Bulgarians, Hungarians, Belgians, Austrians, Greeks, Finns, Swedes, Japanese.

An unforgettable moment for the American boys was when the prince of Wales, later Edward VIII, stood at attention to receive their salute.

Scouts in War and Disaster. On mine sweepers, colliers, and auxiliary ships British Sea Scouts served with distinction in the World war. Some were drafted to the grand fleet itself.

When the 47,000-ton hospital ship Britannic was torpedoed in the Mediterranean, several Scouts were among her crew.

When a Brooklyn garage burned, two men were overcome by smoke. A Scout carried one man out by the "fireman's drag," which he had been taught, and then rescued the other by dragging him out with a belt. He restored both men by giving artificial respiration, also learned in his troop.

A thirteen-year-old Texas Scout crawled on hands and knees into a burning house and brought out a baby. Another saved a comrade in Kansas who was caught on a live wire while climbing a tree. A California Scout lost his life trying to save two smaller boys from drowning.

An Italian Boy Scout on New York's East Side saved six people and a dog from a burning house.

Lesson for April 24

RECEIVING VISION FOR SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-10.
GOLDEN TEXT—This is my beloved Son; hear him.—Mark 9:7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—On a Mountain with Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—With Jesus on a Mountain Top.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Worship Prepares Us for Service.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place and Purpose of Vision.

"Where there is no vision the people perish," said the wise man of old (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His truth, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people will perish in their sins. But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God glorious and powerful, and then let them translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experiences into the daily ministry to the needs of their fellow-men, and there will be songs of salvation and joy.

The transfiguration of our Lord meant much to Him as it brought new assurance of His divine Sonship, His acceptance with the Father, and His resurrection to follow the death of the cross. We do well to recognize its testimony to Him, but we think today especially of the experience of the disciples and their preparation for service. We, like them, must

I. Know Christian Truth.

Fundamental in both Christian life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. One may come to Christ knowing little more than that He is the divine Saviour, and one may enter into Christian living with a meager knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible. But the Christian who fails to grow in knowledge will not grow in grace as he should.

The disciples came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the Father say, "This is my beloved Son." They learned more plainly the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment the foregleam of His coming glory. What important truths these are—His deity—His redemption—His coming kingship. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths?

II. Experience Spiritual Power.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power are necessary to effective life and testimony. They may not be in outward manifestation, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul, but they transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountain-top experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power. It came to D. L. Moody as he walked down a New York street, praying in agony, "Deliver me from myself. Take absolute sway." The story of what happened to him and through him as a surrendered instrument in God's hand is written large on the pages of history. Others had similar experiences. Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few; they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing, resulting in a stale and unfruitful orthodoxy that in turn produces a dreadful and unchristian religious system. It is not enough to know the truth, to be able to discuss it, to divide it, and possibly to fight about it. Let us study God's Word, but let the truth be baptized in the overflowing spiritual power of a personal experience with God.

III. Serve Needy Humanity.

Dr. Moore beautifully suggests that Jesus and the disciples went up to the place of prayer, into the place of glory, and down to the place of service. How fitting is that sequence. Much confusion exists in the church because those who have foolishly abandoned their interest in the truth of God's Word and have substituted the energy of the flesh for spiritual power, have been most diligent in service to humanity, while those who know and accept the truth about Christ, and who profess to believe in the power of the Spirit-filled life have failed to serve their needy neighbors. How delightful and useful is the normal, well-rounded life of the true Christian, one equipped with an understanding of Christian doctrine, endowed with Holy Ghost power, and humbly serving others.

Hook an Old Fashioned Rag Rug

OF ALL rug rugs the hooked type is the most fascinating and economical. A rug hook, such as may be purchased in notion and fancywork departments, and burlap a little larger than your finished rug are the essentials. Most rug hookers also use a frame of slats bolted together at the corners. They stretch the burlap over the frame and tack it. Some like a rather large stationary frame. Others use a small one and many hooked rugs are made without any frame at all.

Here is a quaint old rug pattern that you may mark off on your burlap with a yardstick and pencil. The numbers indicate the colors used for the original rug—now more than a hundred years old. The finished rug measures 28 by 34 inches. Allow two inches at all edges for hems. Overcast the edges, then mark the solid one-inch border just inside the hem allowance; then the large eight-inch squares; then the small two-inch squares; then draw the diagonal lines across the large squares as shown. Use wool-wool if possible and cut the strips no wider than one-half inch. Hold the strip against the wrong side of the burlap and pull loop of it through to the right side with the hook as shown. Short strips are as useful as long. Just pull the ends through and clip them.

TIPS to Gardeners

General Garden Care

MOST flowers should have little or no artificial watering until they are at least half grown. To get better and larger flower blossoms, cease watering when buds have formed.

For a continuous bloom, pick flowers regularly. This is most important with sweet peas and pansies, less so with petunias.

Avoid the common mistake of letting vegetables grow too large before picking.

Root crops—radishes, carrots, beets—are at their best when hardly half grown.

Pick peas just before pods fill out completely. Pick corn just at the "milk" stage, when the kernel, gouged with the finger nail, yields a milky juice. Use summer squash when they are small, just after the blossom has dropped off.

Certain other vegetables, of course, must be allowed to mature. Tomatoes should be ripened well on the vine, as should winter squash.

OLD LINCOLN TOWN

By means of a WPA project that is now under way, the historic old Court House at Lincoln in Lincoln County is being repaired, mentions an exchange, so far as possible, it goes on to say, the dilapidated structure will be made to look as it did in the days when Billy the Kid rode the range, and residents of that vast County didn't have to look clear over to China to see war.

Peaceful old Lincoln town, embaring in the sun! Yet, if the walls could speak they would tell an entirely different story.

USELESS INFORMATION

Two men were discussing how to keep their fingers free from cigarette stain. The first one showed the fingers on his left hand badly stained from Lady Godiva. The other bird remarked that he knew a way to clean the brown stain. He uses his other hand, and holds the cigarette between his fingers the first knuckle joint.
