Ford Says "Leader" Is Hoodwinking U. S.

New York, April 28 — Henry Ford, without specifying to whom he referred, said today that the people have a leader "who is putting something over on them." He was asked whether he referred to a labor leader or to someone else. Mr. Ford declined to answer.

Mr. Ford made the statement in an interview when he was asked about general conditions. "There's a lot of people who are half asleep," he said. "They are looking for a leader and they have one who is putting something over on them; and they deserve it. People ought to be their own leaders."

Out-of-the-Ordinary

A. L. B.

It is an old saying that cats have nine lives, but a man by the name of Tom London of Duluth, Minnesota, had five. He fell from an apple tree, broke his back and was given up for dead, but he rallied and said he had a pleasant dream. He recovered and after being able to walk around, a high wall caved in on him, completely covering him up. They dug him out and physicians pronounced him dead. After he was laid out, he arose and asked what caused all the commotion. His third death took place when he fell into a man-hole in a sidewalk when coal was being sent down through a chute and was buried beneath over a ton of soft coal. He was again pronounced dead, but he came to life and was better than ever. The fourth occurred when he was painting on the second story of a building. The scaffold gave away and he fell to the concrete sidewalk, apparently a lifeless mass. Again pronounced dead, but he recovered. After all those trying ordeals, he entered his fifth death in this manner. He was watching a game of baseball, when a burning hot foul struck him directly in the temple and he passed out, to all appearances, so much so, that a doctor said "he is dead, or will be shortly." But Tom came out of it and as far as we know, is still going.

At Palo Alto, Calif., students at the Stanford University have adopted a queer method of telephoning their girl friends and it has cost them nothing but a trifle. They made plaster-of-paris molds the exact size and thickness of a nickel. They put the molds in the refrigerator, fill them with water and when they want to talk to the girls, they go to the cooler, take out an ice nickel, deposit it in the phone and talk. When the collector comes around and opens the box, he is greeted with a volley of pure water. After the telephone company threatened to take the phones out, the management paid the damage.

BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB

At the S. P. Hotel Wednesday evening, there was a good attendance. Pres. McQuillen occupied the chair, with Dr. Blaney as secretary. Matters of interest to the club for the good of Carrizozo and vicinity were taken up and discussed.

Mr. Albert Ziegler being the round-table speaker of the evening, gave the club a vivid picture of the early days in White Oaks, from the time gold was first discovered. He described how the heavily laden wagons drawn by oxen would propel loads of merchandise from Las Vegas and San Antonio through the mountains to the then thriving mining town, consuming one month in going and coming from Vegas and one week to San Antonio. Some of Mr. Ziegler's items in his discourse were serious, while others were humorous. One in particular was on a certain White Oaks merchant, who had a cask of fine wine sent from the east and when opened, it contained nothing stronger than water—the drivers of the oxen trains having quenched their thirst with the wine. The talk was very interesting and instructive.

At the next meeting, Mr. A. J. Rolland will tell of the early days of Carrizozo and will be looked forward to with additional interest.

Mrs. O. S. Stearns returned Wednesday, from El Paso, where she spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Stearns.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gardner and little daughter were here from Ruidoso this morning.

The Country Club will hold its 4th Annual Open Amateur Golf Tournament on the local course, June 10, 11 and 12. The Tournament Committee having also obtained the 1938 Southern New Mexico Golf Association event, has set September 2, 3 and 4 as the dates for that tournament.

Redfern Found Dead

Georgetown, British Guiana — The Waldeck expedition has established definitely that Paul Redfern, American aviator missing for more than 10 years, perished in the Venezuelan jungle, members of the expedition said today.

The Waldeck expedition was composed of Theo. Waldeck, New York explorer; his wife; Wm. Astor Chanler of New York and Dr. Frederick J. Fox of Boston. The Waldecks located the place where Redfern's plane crashed on the border of Venezuela and British Guiana while on a flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Buenos Aires.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris were in town today from Ancho.

Fred Sweet was a business visitor from Ancho this morning. Mrs. Cora Dutton was down from her home on the Nogal-Mesa this morning.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building
Washington, D. C.

Washington.—Dear Editor: I wish I could dodge writing a column this week. The whole Washington picture is so disturbed; the course is so uncertain; the future is so indefinite, that I must confess my inability to properly appraise and report on the situation. You will remember President Roosevelt once wrote a book which bore the title, "On Our Way." I guess that is correct as it applies to the national government now; only I can not figure out what the way is or where we are going.

To explain in some detail what my personal problem is, let me say that before I write each week, I have canvassed many, many people's opinions and have obtained the facts that are necessary for the discussion which I undertake. There has been no change in my method of work. Yet, I find myself ten days after Mr. Roosevelt has announced his new and larger spending program totally unable to get heads or tails of the story. That is to say, I have found both the heads and the tails but none of the heads or the tails seem to be from the same carcasses. They don't fit.

So, therefore, I must write that I have found nobody who has been able to tell me where we are going. I listened to Mr. Roosevelt's radio speech and read his message to congress about the $3,012,000,000 which he proposes to spend to stop the depression. I talked with officials of the Treasury and members of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors about the bill and a half of idle gold that is to be made "active" again, and I have looked into the program by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which is prepared to loan almost two billions to commerce and industry. There is so much activity about it, among the executive departments, that it seems something must come of it. There is activity at the capitol, too, but it is in the nature of a row over the question whether all of this spending will do any good.

The one tangible thing evident around the capitol is that perhaps 40 per cent of the representatives and senators have been left rather cold by the idea of a great new spending program. Somehow, they look back on the previous pump priming operations and they tell me that the pump was primed by a total of about eight billion dollars without causing the water to flow freely as a good, streamlined New Deal pump ought to work. These things they are saying in committee consideration of the various phases of the new program by which the President expects to bring back prosperity—or, at least, by which he hopes to check the depression.

There is a depression now. That may not be news particularly, but it is now official. It was a "recession" for some seven or eight months, according to all official pronouncements, but now that soft yard has grown claws and it has become a bold, bad depression. It is too bad that the depression had to come just when congressional elections lay ahead. Of course, there can be no connection between the spending campaign and the elections! Not being able to analyze the situation—a fact admitted at the start—I naturally would be the last to say that retention of house or senate seats is as important as providing funds for relief of the destitute, loans or grants to states, cities, counties or businesses that might otherwise find votes against New Deal candidates. We must forget that phase.

Now, obviously, being one who is unable to understand what is going on, what the plans are if it is planned that way, I should wait and see what will come out of the pump this time. But I am impatient. I am rather cynical, too. Whenever these things have failed to work once, I naturally have to be shown why they failed once and will work the second or the third or the fourth time they are tried. Around many of the New Deal propaganda bureaus, however, I have been assured that the vast spending plan will work this time. Indeed, it was intimated to me that I was rather stupid, just plain dumb, because I failed to understand. Really, the assurances given me by the press agents has had much more conviction than Mr. Roosevelt's speech.

One reader of my column wrote in the other day to inquire whether I believed all of this spending meant we are headed into inflation. At the moment, I am not much alarmed about that. All of the makings for a fine inflationary period are available. I mean that if congress were to be stamped by the confusion that I have mentioned, there could be a regular flood of printing-press money. Congress, however, is not going to be stamped. The sentiment is too evenly divided for and against the idea of spending our way back to prosperity. There are individuals in congress who actually think that the public debt of the nation is already too large. They think really that the new spending ought to be limited just to caring for the distressed unemployed. Of all things, they would refuse to vote out more money unless that money were to be used for feeding and clothing people.

I think I should mention also that there are a goodly number of persons at the capitol who have lowered themselves to the level of playing politics. They are even ridiculing our President. They are saying that most businesses, little as well as big, have lost confidence in Mr. Roosevelt and that it does not matter whether the New Deal spends one billion or ten, it will fail to restore that confidence. Being a simple-minded soul, I just stand by and listen to that. On the other hand, the heads of three important magazine publishing houses have told me lately that their advertising contracts are being cancelled right and left. The national advertisers have told the publishers they have to conserve what money they have because they don't know what is going to happen.

I do not understand why they are so frightened. You will remember Mr. Roosevelt said he had urged congress to enact only four laws that would affect business. That is, four this session. One of these is the bill, as described by the President, "to put a floor under wages and a ceiling over the hours of labor." All that legislation would do, of course, is bankrupt businesses here and there. But those can't be successful anyway. They haven't made any money in several years and why worry about them.

The message of the President did not make any mention of the laws that hold the country back. It is to be assumed he did not want to disturb business by calling attention to them. Matters of taxation, for instance, I am told in this connection that the tax rates must go higher next year. There is going to be a much larger deficit in the Treasury than was anticipated in January when I wrote in these columns how the budget was going to be balanced next year under plans outlined by the President. Something slipped in those plans. Now, they don't know at the Treasury when the budget can be balanced. Surely, not next year, because here is something more than three billions to be spent out of next year's money supplies that had not been counted on. This hateful depression is causing so much trouble!

I hope I have not made this Washington situation appear too mixed up. The circumstance has me quite puzzled, as I have plainly tried to say. There has been a story, a rumor, in circulation in Washington about a tiff between Mr. Roosevelt and Vice President Garner. Not that I believe in recording mere rumor, but more because of a sentence that was reportedly used by Mr. Garner, I want to write about it. The Vice President is a lovable soul, kind and amiable. He has a number of Texas expressions that appeal to me because they say so much in so few words.

Well, according to the rumor, Mr. Garner and a group of congressional leaders were in conference with the President. They were talking about the depression, or maybe the recession. What to do about it; how to meet it, and what the causes were. The President, it seems, has been sold the idea of this spending program as an aid to business, a priming of the pump. Rumor has it that Mr. Garner was asked what he thought could be done. His reply, a typical Garner answer, was: "Why don't you let the cattle put on some fat, Chief."

The President was reportedly quite displeased with the idea conveyed, an idea that the government had better quit harrasing business, quit trying to remake the country and reform human nature. Mr. Roosevelt subsequently denied the report vehemently, even rather angrily. There has been no denial or confirmation from Mr. Garner. He has been so silent about the thing that it is positively thunderous. As I said, I know of it only as rumor, but I do know that Mr. Garner's silence has convinced thousands of persons that there is some basis in fact for the report. In any event, the astute Vice President, if he made the remark, certainly said "a mouf full."

So, Mr. Editor, if you are still with me, let me say that the new spending program is going to be no more successful in restoring the country to prosperity than the earlier attempts. The nation can spend $450,000,000 in constructing new public buildings. Suppliers of material will sell that brick and stone and cement and plumbing supplies, etc. But after the job is done, darkness falls again and the men are out of work.

Low Back Pain

By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

WHEN an attack of low back pain occurs—lumbago and sciatica—the first thought is naturally to relieve pain which is very severe, especially in sciatica. Rest is also part of the treatment, particularly if there has been any strain from lifting, making a miss-step or from a fall or other injury.

However, if there has been no strain or injury, the first thought should be of infection and the commonest cause—teeth or tonsils—should be remembered. If infection is the cause and the patient is taking no medicine to relieve pain, he will not usually be free of pain even if he is resting in bed.

Dr. Barton

In strain, rest or freedom from pain can usually be obtained if the patient places himself in a position that will relieve the strain and take the "pull" off the muscles.

Danger From Infection.

Unfortunately there are cases where there is both infection and strain and there are cases where infection has previously been present and left some damage to the bones and joints of the lower back, which is followed by the present injury. Thus the disks of cushions between the lower back spinal bones may be injured and press on the spinal cord itself or its branches, causing intense pain in the hip extending to the back of the thigh and right down to the calf of the leg. Sometimes old infections will actually cause the joints between the spine bones to become fastened together so that sometimes two, three or four bones are thus fastened together, forming a splint and, of course, preventing proper movement in the lower back.

To tell whether the severe pain is due to strain or infection is often difficult. Dr. Joseph H. Barr, Boston, in Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery, reminds us that "the classic signs of low back strain are spasm or tightening of the muscles, lifting of the spine to the opposite side away from the injury, lessening of the normal amount of movement, inability to raise leg with knee straight, tender 'spots' down the back of the thigh and calf."

Exercise to Reduce.

In giving advice to reduce weight most physicians, including myself, suggest that the amount of food be reduced, particularly the fat and starch foods. Further suggestions are that the rest periods during the day, and also any rest periods during the night, be reduced in length. These suggestions, of course, make for "safe" reduction in weight.

However, the other big factor in reducing weight—exercise—is not stressed so much by health writers because many overweights have heart and bloodvessel conditions which may make vigorous exercise really dangerous. Besides many overweights—as they are over-weight, do not like exercise because the moving of their bodies causes too much effort.

Nevertheless, when there is no heart or bloodvessel condition present, exercise is really the best method of reducing weight as it gives in return for time and effort spent, greater strength of body—a strong individual mentally and physically. Gladstone said that systematic training of the body gave a larger rate of interest than any other investment.

Reducing the food intake is an excellent way to reduce weight because, as not enough food is eaten to supply the body's needs, some of the fat on the body is used to supply the amount needed, and thus fat is removed from the body with the resultant loss of weight.

In the case of the Turkish bath, perhaps 2 to 3 pounds of weight is removed because the heat drives the water out of the fat tissues. This weight is often put on again before leaving the bathing establishment or shortly afterwards by drinking a great amount of water.

You thus see that reducing the food intake will get rid of fat and water, and the Turkish bath will get rid of much water, yet neither of these methods give strength to the body itself; that is in the way of building up muscle. Exercise builds up muscle. With the increase in muscle—physical strength—there is an actual "desire" to take exercise. Instead of exercise being a bugbear, it becomes a real pleasure; in fact exercise invites itself.

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses LAXATIVE FOODS

Nationally Known Authority on Food Shows
How Right Diet Can Help You to Avoid Health Hazards of Faulty Elimination

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th Street, New York

THOUSANDS of men, women and children are alive today because we have learned how to prevent many types of infections and how to cure diseases which once caused untimely deaths.

We have reason to be proud of the achievements of science in fighting disease and lengthening the span of life. But we should be ashamed of the fact that hundreds of thousands of individuals are not getting the most out of life—indeed they are not realizing half their potentialities—because improper eating and faulty habits of hygiene cause them to suffer from that great evil of civilization—constipation.

EVILS OF CONSTIPATION

Someone has called constipation the most deadly disease, and while this may seem like an extreme statement, it becomes justifiable when one realizes the untold misery and wretchedness that may result when food residues remain to stagnate and putrefy in the body. Constipation muddies the complexion, dulls the eye and befores the brain. It causes a general feeling of discomfort and fullness in the abdomen, lack of appetite, bad breath, coated tongue, a feeling of lassitude and a tendency to become easily fatigued.

By weakening resistance, it opens the way to numberless diseases. Serious complications, such as irritation of the appendix, may occur as a result of the friction of hard masses of waste against the delicate walls of the intestine. Piles have frequently been laid at the door of faulty elimination. Do you wonder that I consider prompt, regular elimination the keynote of good health?

Its importance is readily understood when you consider the processes by which food is digested and absorbed. From the mouth, food passes down the esophagus into the stomach, where it is penetrated by the gastric juice. It then passes into the small intestine where it is mixed with the secretions of the liver and the pancreas. Here the nutritive elements are absorbed by minute, hair-like tubes which line the intestinal walls. These tubes converge into the blood vessels and lymphatics which transport nourishment to all parts of the body.

Undigested residues pass into the large intestine or colon, where they are normally moved along by a series of muscular contractions known as peristalsis, and finally evacuated. The amount of the evacuation varies in bulk with the amount of indigestible roughage contained in the food. When there is insufficient bulk to promote normal peristalsis, waste accumulates and we have the condition known as constipation with all its resulting evils. Bacteria prey upon the stagnating material, producing poisons which may be absorbed by the body.

There is not the slightest excuse for allowing this condition to develop. For the misery and wretchedness of constipation may easily be avoided by including in the diet:

FATE OF FOOD IN THE BODY
Liquids ESSENTIAL
REGULAR HABITS

NEED FOR VITAMIN B
Another important factor in promoting normal elimination is vitamin B, which has been shown to be essential for good muscular tone and activity of the digestive tract. Investigations with experimental animals have demonstrated that it requires twice as long to empty the large intestine when the diet is deficient in vitamin B. Yeast, egg yolk, milk, whole grain cereals, liver and green leafy vegetables are good sources of this vitamin.

LIQUIDS ESSENTIAL
A sufficient quantity of liquids is likewise necessary to prevent the contents of the lower intestine from becoming too hard for easy evacuation. In addition to water, the diet should therefore contain an abundance of milk, fruit juices and other beverages. Acidophilus milk and buttermilk are especially beneficial. Fats and oils, used in moderation, act as gentle lubricants.

REGULAR HABITS
It is most important to eat at regular hours and to establish regular times for evacuation, as this is a great aid to body rhythm. Guard carefully against over-eating, for this practice is a frequent cause of constipation. When the digestive system is over-

AROUND THE HOUSE
Hemming Sash Curtains.—Make the hems of sash curtains the same at the top and bottom. You can then use them either end-up.
Preserving the Oilcloth.—Bind the edges of oilcloth used for table coverings with bias tape. This will keep the edges from tearing or becoming ragged.
Rinse Silks Well.—Silk underthings should be washed in water that is barely warm, and should be rinsed in at least three fresh rinsing waters.
When Someone Is Ill.—Always wrap a rubber hotwater bottle in soft cloth before placing in a patient's bed. Place the bottle neck but not against the patient's flesh. If placed too close the patient may be burned before realizing it.
To Retain Juices in Meats.—To keep flavor and juices in meat when baking or frying, expose it to extreme heat first, then reduce the temperature and cook more slowly.
For That Musty Odor.—To remove a musty odor from a room, put a drop of oil of lavender into the corners.

Questions Answered

Mrs. B. T. M.—Do not worry if your child prefers the egg yolk to the white. The white is chiefly protein, and he can easily obtain protein from other foods, especially milk. But the yolk contains an abundance of minerals and vitamins in addition to protein and fat. Nutritionists have determined that the inclusion of one-egg-yolk daily in an otherwise adequate diet is an effective method of balancing the intake and output of iron in a child's diet.

Miss S. B.—No, the generous use of cream cannot be considered as a substitute for taking milk as a beverage or in cooked dishes. Cream is much higher in fat and contains less protein, minerals and vitamins, with the exception of vitamin A. Cream deserves to be included in the dietary for its vitamin A content, but it should not replace milk.

Mrs. A. McK.—Strawberries contain vitamins A, B and C. Recent experiments indicate that they rank with citrus fruits and tomatoes as a source of vitamin C. © WNU—C. Houston Goudiss—1933.

Hidden Benefits

Few housewives realize the underlying advantage of the use of a good light-oil furniture polish! Most polishes used only for the luster it bestows on the chairs, tables, piano, woodwork in the home. Rubbing the polish on cleans the furniture—works up a glow—and the outward effect is fresh and sparkling! But that is only part of the housewife's reward. For out of this domestic routine comes definite benefit to the furniture! A reputable polish, with a light oil base, does what is known as "feeding" the finish. The "massage" causes the oil to penetrate, seep into the pores of the wood—just enough to lubricate—and keep it healthy! Here, it is important to note that cheap polishes are made with a heavy oil base—and are "greasy" and unpleasant to use. The best polish—made with a fine light-oil base—is never greasy. Applied on a damp cloth (according to directions), it is neat to use and proves a boon to the furniture! Lack of polishing—or the use of a poor polish—will cause the finest wood to dry out, crack, split—for wood is a product of Nature and needs a certain amount of oily moisture. So polish the furniture regularly! Use a quality oil polish—it pays! For not only does the furniture look better—it is better! Its life is preserved!

WHEN YOU CLEAN HOUSE USE O-CEDAR—THE POLISH THAT CLEANS AND PRESERVES YOUR FURNITURE

More women use O-Cedar Polish than any other kind—for furniture, woodwork and floors. IT CLEANS AND PRESERVES.

Baseball and Hockey Keep Stewart Busy

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

Bill Stewart, manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, could give you a personal testimonial concerning the veracity of the old saw that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Compared to Bill, the one-armed paper hanger, the Swiss bell ringer, and the perpetual motion man are pikers.

You'd think a man would be entitled to a rest after accomplishing the miracle of winning the world's hockey championship with a team that people tittered at when the play-offs began. But not Bill. No sooner was the Stanley Cup series over than he donned his spikes, mask and chest protector and began calling balls and strikes as a National league umpire.

Hockey Student

The Hawks had finished sixth in a league of eight teams and barely edged into the Stanley Cup finals. First they took on the Montreal Canadiens. Everybody said they'd be a pushover. In the first game it looked as if the prediction would come true. The Canadiens won. Then the teams moved to Chicago and the Hawks captured two games, winning the right to meet the New York Americans, winners of the series between the second-place teams of the league's two divisions.

In the series with the Americans the Hawks repeated their winning performance. That put them in the finals for the Stanley Cup which never before had been won by an American. Their opponents were the admittedly superior Toronto Maple Leafs. The Hawks were on the spot.

The first game was at Toronto. Late in the day of this contest, Stewart regretfully decided that Mike Karakas, his star goalie, would have to be left out of the line-up because of a broken toe.

Bill Stewart

Confident that they would have an adequate defense man in Andy Kerr, a reserve goalie of the New York Americans, the Hawks were dumbfounded just before game time by a maneuver of the crafty Connie Smythe, the Leafs' manager. With the connivance of league officials "English Al" Moore, a castoff veteran, was foisted on the Hawks although his afternoon had been spent in a tavern and his orders for more ale had been frequent. But by some magic, Alfe played a whale of a game, made himself a hockey hero and held the Leafs to one goal while the Hawks were scoring three.

League politics again intervened and Moore was declared ineligible for the second game. Paul Goodman, an inexperienced recruit who had never seen a major league hockey game, was substituted. Goodman was easy for the Leaf marksman, Red Horner, the Leafs' bad man, contributed to the rout by breaking the nose of Doc Romnes and cutting Hawks Roger Jenkins and Louis Trudell to the skull with his stick. The Leafs won 5 to 1. Back they came to Chicago for the third and fourth games. Mike Karakas was back in the nets, his broken toe protected by a special steel guard. With the score tied at a goal apiece late in the game, Doc Romnes, who earlier got retaliation from Horner with his stick, gave the Hawks the win with a long hard shot.

In the final game the Blackhawks who couldn't possibly do it, won easily, taking the now demoralized Maple Leafs by a score of 4 to 1.

So Bill Stewart is a happy although tired man. And if he misses a few close decisions in the early days of the National league season, maybe it will be because he's thinking of hockey instead of baseball.

Another Ruth?

Rudolph Preston York, Detroit Tiger catcher who hails from Atco, Ga., has two ambitions this season. One is to break Babe Ruth's record for home runs. The other is to help bat the Tigers to the American League pennant. If Rudy accomplishes the first ambition, the second may automatically take care of itself.

York is hoping for the greatest season a ball player has ever had. Fans who saw him in the South this spring marveled at the way he bashed balls out of the parks. He wasn't establishing any new marks as far as his average was concerned, but whenever his bat met the ball, it was good for a non-stop trip.

Rudy has no illusions about being a great catcher although Cochran says he is a very much improved receiver. But he does know he can hit the ball. He also knows it is possible to break Babe Ruth's record.

ords, because he has crashed one down already. He drove out 18 home runs in a single month—August, 1937—which was one more than Ruth ever recorded for a similar period.

His total home run production in 1937 was 35. York had been tried out around the infield and found wanting. Detroit was desperate for catchers after the accident to Mickey Cochran, so they put Rudy behind the plate. When Cochran told him he was to be the club's regular catcher, he began a batting slump that made history. The season was then about two-thirds over, but he socked the ball at a clip that sent his average up 80 points. When the season closed he was the only batter in the league to average better than two bases every time he connected for a hit.

Polish Behemoth

Stanislaus Zbyszko, ancient Pole who was formerly king of the heavyweight wrestlers, is back in the United States, not as a wrestler, but as an impresario. Somewhere in the hinterlands of Poland he caught up with a giant named Wladyslaw Talun, who is first cousin to the "missing link" and who, Zbyszko believes, will be the next heavyweight wrestling champion.

Talun, towering six feet, eight inches in height and weighing 278 pounds was a lumberjack in one of Poland's vast forests. Zbyszko took the youngster to South America with him several years ago. This modern Gargantua didn't wrestle with any of the Gauchos, but spent hours each day learning the fundamentals of catch-as-catch-can from the old master.

Two months ago Zbyszko brought Talun to the United States. The pupil had apparently learned his lessons well, for he has had 20 matches and has yet to lose. None of his matches have gone beyond 12 minutes.

The bald-pated Zbyszko is enthusiastic about his young charge. For sentimental reasons he would like to see another Pole grab the championship, for Zbyszko is a great patriot. During the war when Poland was making a bid for independence Zbyszko, who had gathered a large fortune through his mat career, tossed practically everything into the treasury. Like his famous compatriot, Paderewski, the elder Zbyszko is a brilliant pianist.

Here and There

For the fifth time in the 38-year history of the American Bowling Congress a perfect 300 game was bowled during the meet in Chicago. Mike Blazak of Conneaut, Ohio, was the bowler who entered the hall of fame along with Billy Knox of Philadelphia; Charlie Reinlie, Kenosha, Wis.; Jack Karstens, Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Carl Mesenberg, Scranton, Ill. Approximately 1,800,000 games have been bowled in the journey since 1900, so the chances of getting a perfect score are one in 380,000. Ray Schalk, Jr., son of the greatest of White Sox catchers, is a starting pitcher for Hyde Park high school, Chicago. Young Schalk, although weighing only 130 pounds, is still growing and by graduation time two years hence may get a nod from organized baseball.

Rogers Hornsby has finally landed another baseball job, this time as coach of the Baltimore Orioles in the International league. The Rajah is also to be a pinch-hitter. The club management emphasized the fact that he had been signed solely in a coaching capacity and not with any idea that he would succeed Bucky Crouse as manager.

Better Diets Will Help to Conserve Our Human Resources

By JANE STAFFORD

Washington. — Conservation, to most of us, suggests such things as taking care of our forests and fuel supplies, flood prevention measures, wild life refuges and other activities to preserve or conserve our natural resources. The idea of conserving human resources is somewhat novel.

This very idea, however, was the subject of a recent conference in the nation's capital. Experts on population, eugenics, public health, birth control and psychiatry sat down together and tried to figure out what the nation's human resources are and how they can be conserved.

Food, well chosen and in abundant quantity, is an important feature of any program for conservation of human resources. Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling of the United States bureau of home economics told the conference. "Fully adequate diets are a conservation measure in the finest sense of the word," she declared. "Protective" Foods Needed.

Such diets, she pointed out, can raise health from levels generally accepted as average or usual to definitely superior planes. Observations on generation after generation of laboratory animals show that superior diets result in more rapid rate of growth in the young, larger size at all ages, better success in rearing the young, greater resistance to infection, and longer life. Some short-time observations, Doctor Stiebeling said, tend to show that human animals respond to diets in much the same way as the laboratory animals.

The chief difference between these superior diets and the usual inadequate diets is in the amount of the foods nutrition experts call "protective." These foods are fruits and green vegetables and milk and milk products (butter, cheese, buttermilk, etc.).

Conserving human resources by diet means, Doctor Stiebeling pointed out, increasing the purchase power of low-income groups and teaching all groups the importance of eating plenty of fruits, green vegetables and milk.

Vanadium Obtained From Steamship Flue Deposits

Bridgeville, Pa. — Vanadium, hard-to-get steel-alloying metal, usually mined at high labor cost and other expense in out-of-the-way desert and jungle regions, is now being produced at the rate of 200,000 pounds annually from the flue deposits of steamships burning Venezuelan oil, reports Jerome Strauss, vice president of the Vanadium Corporation of America, producer and importer of this rare metal.

Vanadium occurs in very small and quite variable amounts in almost all crude petroleum, he reports, but only the Venezuelan and Mexican oils provide enough vanadium to be of commercial value.

In recent years, this vanadium-bearing petroleum has been burned by steamships, and the non-flammable vanadium oxide left behind with the soot and coke, from which it is recovered when the burners of the steamships are cleaned. Occurring in concentrations of from 5 to 25 per cent in these soots and cokes, the vanadium oxide is extracted in the United States, Japan and England.

North Carolina Has Vast Supply of Ore of Lithium

Raleigh, N. C.—Millions of tons of spodumene, ore of featherlight, silvery lithium, lightest metal known, have been located in North Carolina, near Kings mountain, of Revolutionary war fame, since the first discovery of the crystalline white mineral by Frank Hess, United States bureau of mines geologist, in 1936.

Hundreds of thousands of tons stick up above the ground, where they can be cheaply quarried, and more lies near the surface, reports Herman J. Bryson, North Carolina state geologist. These deposits are the largest known in the world.

Lithium is used as a hardener in lead and aluminum alloys and in various medicines. Its compounds are used in pottery and glass manufacture, storage battery electrolytes, photographic processes, as a coloring agent in signal flares, and in several chemical processes.

Lettuce Seed Helped by Chemical Treatment

Washington. — Dormant lettuce seed will germinate much more freely if treated chemically before planting. Dr. Ross C. Thompson and William F. Koser of the Department of Agriculture have discovered. Most successful of the chemicals used was thiourea. A 1/2 per cent solution of this compound caused the germination of 94 per cent of the seeds tested, as compared with a little less than 23 per cent in the case of "control" lots of seed treated only with water.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Italian Hemstitching for a Chair Set

THE chair set shown here is made of an even meshed cream linen, marked off in squares of Italian hemstitching. Tiny scrolls in outline stitch with two diamonds in satin stitch are embroidered in all the outside corners. The scroll motif is shown at lower left. The tassels are made by raveling strips of the material and then rolling them.

The chair back piece measures 15 by 10 inches finished, and the chair arm pieces 7 1/2 by 7 1/2 inches. Allow 3/4-inch at all edges for the rolled hems. The hemstitched squares measure 2 1/2 inches. Mark them in pencil. The method of hemstitching the rolled edges is shown here at A and B. Remember that a moist thumb always helps in rolling an edge evenly. Italian hemstitching is really just two rows worked together as shown at C and D. To prepare the rows, draw two threads, skip four and then draw two more.

Readers who have received their copy of Mrs. Spears' book on Sewing, for the Home Decorator, will be pleased to know that

The People's Money
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Congress, as this is written, is discussing proposals to distribute billions of dollars in the hope of reviving recovery.

What the ultimate effect of such distribution may be, no one at this time can tell with certainty. What is known is that it will add greatly to that huge mortgage on the people's earnings—the National Debt.

What should be remembered is that all money spent by Government is the people's money. It comes out of their earnings—either present or future. Government, whether national or local, doesn't earn money. It spends it. The money is supplied by the people through their labor and initiative.

Since this is true, whatever spending is done by Government should be controlled by the people. They should know just where it is being spent and why. They should be in a position to put on the brakes when the rate of spending accelerates too swiftly. They should be assured that the public welfare, rather than political advantage, dominates in any spending project.

Under our form of government the people look to Congress to protect their interests in such programs. One of our basic principles is that control of the purse should be firmly in the hands of our Senators and Representatives.

That is something for members of Congress to remember at this time. They are trustees for the public, and, as such, cannot avoid the duty of exercising, on behalf of the people, both responsibility and constructive vision.

It's the people's money. They earned it. Whatever is spent must come out of their wages, out of their savings, out of their household budgets, either now or in the future. And to expend that money recklessly, or for any purpose other than the good of all the people, is to betray the people's trust.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Ice Age in the Bronx"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

For a long time I've been telling the cockeyed world that you don't have to go places to find adventure...

And now, here comes John Standmann of the Bronx to tell me I was right about that South pole business.

The Admiral loaded up a boat, signed on a crew, and sailed away toward the South pole...

It was in June, 1932, which is a doggone strange time for a man to go Arctic adventuring in the Bronx.

Working in Forty Below Zero.

The job was to crawl inside the freezing tunnel and hack and chip out all the ice.

Jack Was Pulled Out of the Freezing Tunnel.

while the plant was operating. It had to be done after closing time.

On this particular day, the plant had been working overtime itself.

He had just about decided to crawl back and thaw out when suddenly he heard the door of the tunnel open.

Locked in the Tunnel to Die.

It was cold enough in that tunnel, but Jack suddenly went colder.

Jack started to yell—he yelled until he was hoarse. But it was like yelling in a vacuum.

Nearly Crazy With Horror.

It wasn't a pleasant subject, but Jack couldn't help thinking about it.

Jack didn't have much hope that that would work. The walls were too thick.

Jack pounded for a long time. His body and face were numb.

Well sir, if anybody in the Byrd expedition had any adventure as thrilling or as nearly fatal as that, I haven't heard of it.

Wonderful Miniature Village of Bekonscot Attracts Many Visitors

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

AMAZING Bekonscot is a two-acre Lilliput, artfully created in flawless miniatures of wood and stone.

For six years Mr. Roland Callingham of Beaconsfield has worked to build this complete model village in the charming rock-garden of his Buckinghamshire home.

Here, where hip-high houses border yardwide streets busy with the traffic of toy automobiles and people less than two fingers broad.

"What is the use of a book," thought Alice, "without pictures or conversations?"

Village—Has-Every-Detail. From a swelling knoll at one corner of this Utopia for youngsters of any age the visitor overlooks an ideal thriving country town.

Everything is in correct proportion, with no minutest detail neglected—but an inch in Bekonscot is equivalent to a foot outside its gates.

Bekonscot's principal house of worship—and one of its leading attractions—dominates a little rise behind the town.

Pleasant homes of timber and stucco line fashionable Hill Crescent near North Bekonscot station.

The pulse of business beats strongest in High Street, where stores of many kinds line the block extending from Church street to East street.

in-motion. For their direction, "Slow" signs have been located at intersections.

Prominent in the outskirts of town is the hunt course, where snail, pink-coated horsemen in realistic postures and accouterments ride to hounds.

The comfortable Grantley Arms, with hospitable innkeeper offering hearty welcome to travelers descending from a coach.

Two windmills and a water mill commemorate old-time methods of handling grain.

Modern Bekonscotian country-lovers find rest from daily toil in bathing and boating on the lake.

Close at hand, a flag-bedecked pier pavilion juts into the lake.

On Bekonscot road, at the edge of town, a roadhouse does a booming business, principally, gossip says, because it is so handy to a tiled swimming pool with several bath-houses and a two-foot-diving tower with five springboards.

Behind the docks concrete steps lead up to a freight station.

This depot is on a spur of the famous Bekonscot railway.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for May 1

FOLLOWING VISION WITH SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:14-29. GOLDEN TEXT—All things are possible to him that believeth.—Mark 9:23.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Only Jesus Could Help.

JUNIOR TOPIC—At the Foot of the Mountain.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Up to Our Knowledge of Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Following Vision with Service.

One of the lessons that seems hard to learn and to keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountain-top experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end in themselves.

The writer has just attended a most unusual and blessed Bible conference, the leaders of which rightly apprehended this truth.

Jesus rightly characterized the time in which he lived as I. A Faithless Generation (vv. 14-19).

"Jesus found in the valley disputing scribes, a distracted father, a demon-possessed boy, and defeated disciples."

The keynote of our first division might well have been the sad words "they could not" in verse 18.

What a solemn warning there is for us in the experience of these followers of the Lord.

Happiness. Happiness grows at our own firesides and is not to be picked in strangers' gardens.—Douglas Jerrold.

Our Business. It is to you, who are grown men, noble and honorable, that the whole world calls for new work and noble deeds.

Oldsmobile Winners
Concluding a contest which attracted wider attention than any similar activity in the history of Oldsmobile, the company today was arranging for delivery of new Oldsmobile Six two-door sedans to the final group of five winners in the car-a-day-for-30-day competition directed by D. E. Halston, general sales manager. The contest was conducted through Oldsmobile dealers who arranged for the entrants to take a trial drive in an Oldsmobile car and provided them with entry blanks carrying space for 6 brief comments on the features and performance of the car. So many entries of outstanding merit were received that the task of the judges in selecting the winners proved extremely difficult.
