The Carrizozo Legionnaires, including Ye Manager Bamberger, Commander Griffin, the bat boy, Jerry, the Barber, Park Manager John Miller, Cowboy Frank Vega, and last, but not the least, the scribbler of this column, left bright early for San Antonio last Sunday morning, with the anticipation of witnessing and enjoying a good, clean baseball game. Things went honky-dory along the route and we soon reached our destination—some with shriveled feet, others suffering with lumbago and the majority with hot, parched lips. The boys stretched out, rubbed their eyes and headed by Meyer-Barnett, began scouting for a place to quench our thirst and take the wrinkles out of our tummies. At last we arrived at our goal and Meyer began slaking the hash, and the way that boy made his acquaintance with the kitchen and the help, we are thinking that the lad worked there before coming over to greener pastures. It was fine culinary services, Meyer, and how we did appreciate it. Well, after "inhaling a bear" and relaxing a while, the boys had to do a little more mathematics. Where is the ball diamond? Finally, Oscar caught sight of a long-eared, lanky burro and suggested that we follow him and we wouldn't miss it. We did, and he was right! That poor beast of burden led us to an old abandoned field, where some poor sower of the soil has raised his frijoles and corn for the past forty years. Forecasting the recent rain there, our boys were given the task of plowing that piece of terrain. Wayne Van Schoyck made the first attempt at the art when he hit a two-bagger and was thrown out between home plate and first base. Meyer was next, but he didn't even get started, and so on down the line. Tony Perez ran with the motion of the pitcher towards the home plate and managed to nab a hard hit ball, but when he came up with it for the throw, he had a corn stalk in his hand instead of the ball. He dug in desperation and finally found the pill, but it was too late. We bet Jerry, the Barber, who is a master in the art of wagering his quarters, that the maize is six inches high over in that field now. Bamberger wanted to shift the scene to the railroad, but Mrs. Van Schoyck went him one better when she motioned that they turn the irrigation ditch on the field and see which side could sling the most mud. As it was, they beat us 12-to-4. After that tempest, we hobbled over to a lane, fenced with poultry netting, where a few cowhands engaged in calf and goat roping, which event produced much laughter. A tall, lanky fellow went after his calf and made a beautiful catch, but when he went to flank her, the calf pinned him underneath and two men had to run and assist both him and the calf to their feet. Frank Vega roped his calf and tied it in pretty fast time. Sally Ortiz and Jerry, the Barber made a quarter bet—Sally that the roper would catch the

SPENCER--TURNER

The Bar W Ranch, home of the T. A. Spencer family, was the scene of a beautiful wedding Monday, June 13 at 12 o'clock, when his daughter Jane Elizabeth Spencer, granddaughter of the late Governor W. C. McDonald, was united in holy matrimony to Dr. James Paul Turner. In the spacious living room was an altar of beautiful flowers, ferns and candles, where Rev. Lawson received the bridal party. Preceding the ceremony, a short program of instrumental music by Mrs. Kelley, vocal music by Mrs. Spratt, sister of the groom, was given. Soft music was played as Mrs. G. O'Neil Proud, the matron of honor and Mr. Claud Hough, best man, accompanied Dr. Turner to the altar, as the wedding march was played with Mrs. Kelley at the piano. Jane, on the arm of her father, descended the stairway to the altar where Rev. Lawson with a short, appropriate ring ceremony, joined the happy couple in wedlock in the presence of about two hundred friends. After congratulations, the couple led the guests to the dining room where a delicious buffet luncheon was served. About 1:30, the couple, amid showers of rice and good wishes, left on their wedding trip. The following were the out-of-town guests: Miss Helen Rolland, Santa Fe; the Poe Corns and LaFleurs, Roswell; Mrs. M. B. Parker and Barbara Garver, Los Angeles; Mrs. Elizabeth Spencer, the bride's grandmother, A. N. Spencer, Dallas; Mrs. F. A. Turner, mother of the groom, the Spratts, Artesia; the Garrets, Houghs, Mmes. Teboul and C. F. Hough, Mulvane, Kans.; Miss Carol Cristy, Honolulu; Mrs. Whitlow and daughter Betty, Tulsa; the Prouds, St. Louis; the Frank Rollands, Alamogordo; the Porters, Fort Stanton; the Tittsworths and Taylors, Capitan; Misses Gambrell, Brownfield and Claude, the Moultons, Bonda, J. V. Taylors and Mrs. Alice Davidson, Albuquerque. -Contributed. Mr. and Mrs. Hodgkinson of Westwood, Calif., Ferris Wall and son, Mrs. Gladys Homen of Neilbrier, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Garber of Chico, Calif., daughters and sons of R. E. Kent, left for their respective homes Tuesday after attending the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Kent.

BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB

Owing to the fact that many members of the Club are on their vacations and some sojourning in the mountain regions, the attendance was small. There was one visitor, Dr. Brewer of the Social Security Board, who was the guest of President McQuillen. After the dinner and business session, Mr. Brewer being introduced by the President, gave us a review of the Act and raised the curtain on certain phases of the law which were of valuable information to the Club. We asked for questions which he answered in an interesting manner, but claimed that the law was so extensive that it required more than ordinary study to be able to answer all questions put to a representative. The Club thanked Mr. Brewer for his talk, and the meeting adjourned.

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Step up here, boys and girls, and meet Distinguished Adventurer Thomas E. Dowling of Woodside, N. Y. Tommy Dowling started his adventuring career at an early age, and it wasn't his fault that he didn't start even earlier than that. He was born in England and, in 1915 when he was only thirteen years old, he tried to enlist in the army. They turned him down, but still he kept on trying.

He never got into any of the armed forces of his country, but he did the next best thing. When he was just a little over fourteen he managed to get himself taken on a transport ship as cabin boy to the captain.

There was a job that was more dangerous than many a soldier's. The North sea was alive with German submarines. Tommy served on two ships that were torpedoed, went through two collisions, and was in Halifax for the big explosion that practically demolished the whole town. But Tommy says that the one time he was really afraid for his life was not when his own ship was in danger, but when the Germans chucked a torpedo into another one—one he had never even been aboard.

Cargo of Chinese Coolies.

That happened on the fifth of February, 1918. Tommy was working on the S. S. Tunisian then. Ordinarily, the Tunisian carried Canadian troops over to England, but this trip they sailed out of Halifax with a load of two thousand Chinese coolies, who were being shipped to France to build railroads. Outside of Halifax the Tunisian joined up with a convoy of 12 vessels, and nothing important occurred until they were rounding the north of Ireland and making for Liverpool where they were due the next day. But then things did begin to happen.

A few hundred yards to port of the Tunisian was the S. S. Tuscania, which had been moving along beside them all through the trip. Maybe you remember what happened to the Tuscania. Well, Tommy was right there watching it. About six o'clock in the evening a torpedo hit her. There was a sudden roar—a geyser of water spouting up at her side—and she began to sink. Then—three hundred yards away—all hell broke loose on the S. S. Tunisian.

Fighting the Panic-Stricken Mob.

As the torpedo struck the Tuscania, the Tunisian trembled from stern to stern. Two thousand Chinese coolies, thrown into a panic, began a wild stampede for the lifeboats. And Tommy, in the midst of that stampede, fought for his life to keep from being thrown overboard.

The minute the roar sounded, Tommy ran to his station beside the captain's boat. He wasn't there two seconds before he was facing a frenzied mob of coolies, with but one thought in their minds—to get into that boat. The boat was hanging from the davits. Tommy jumped into it and tried to beat the Chinese off. He might as well have tried to beat back the sea itself. A horde of them thrust him aside—filled the boat—and still kept coming.

In vain Tommy yelled to them that there was nothing to be afraid of. They came on and on. "Above their screaming and chatter," he says, "I could hear one loud, ringing voice that seemed to be urging them forward. All at once the mob gave a terrific surge, and I was thrown back toward the outer edge of the boat."

How Tommy Saved Himself.

Right there, Tommy fought the battle of his life. He was pushed back over the side of the boat—out over the heaving water. Another inch and he'd be over the side. The Tunisian was racing for safety, with thousands of lives depending on her speed. There'd be no turning around to rescue anybody who fell overboard.

A boat fell dangled near his hand and Tommy grabbed for it. Another surging rush pushed him out of the lifeboat. He kicked and fought, trying to get his feet back on something solid again, but the pressure from behind was too great. Even as he struggled, a couple of screaming coolies were forced over the side and fell into the water. Another followed them—and another. The panic-stricken mob of Chinese on deck were shoving their more forehanded fellows to their doom.

Only his hold on the fall rope saved Tommy from the same fate. While he clung there, wondering how long he could hold on, he chanced to look back at another lifeboat a few yards down the deck. There, the same thing was happening, but as he watched, he saw two sailors scramble to safety by climbing the falls of their own boats, and hanging on the davits.

"That was my one way out," he says, "and I took it. My arms were aching and my strength was about spent, but I managed to get up to that davit overhead. When I got there I looked down just in time to see a couple more Chinese pushed overboard. Then I grabbed a stay and worked my way hand over hand to the safety of the bridge deck."

The turmoil wasn't over, even then. It kept up for the rest of the night, and didn't end until the Chinese were landed in Liverpool. They were 25 coolies short when they got there. They had gone over the side and drowned.

Prevention and Cure

We must beware everywhere of the letter that kills; seek everywhere for the spirit that makes glad and strong. We are told to visit them that are in prison. A good thing, but it were better if we could save them from going there. We are told to visit the sick; it were better still, and we should so better have fulfilled the law, if we could have saved some of them from falling sick.

The Great Horned Owl

The Great Horned Owl is valuable both to the farmer and to the sportsman. It lives chiefly on rodents, the most destructive pest of the farmer and orchardist. It preys occasionally on birds, weeding out the weak and sickly among game birds, and other species, leaving a healthy seed-stock.

No Longer Great

The great man's great works are done when he begins using his power to get even with somebody.

The "New England Primer"

The "New England Primer" was in such demand in Colonial days that, although editions reached tens of thousands, New England presses could not supply the trade. With this single book, which was a combined abecedarium, speller, reader and catechism, parents could teach their children the minimum requirements of Church and State, according to an authority at Mundelein college, Chicago.

Loan and Lend

"Loan" is properly used only as a noun, while "lend" is the verb; as, "I lent him (or will lend) him the money." "He asked me for a loan." The expression "money to loan" is correct, "to loan" being properly a noun (verbal) with the preposition "for" understood but not expressed.

Saying of Benjamin Franklin

"They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety," said Benjamin Franklin.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

EITHER crochet cotton or wool yarn in two or more colors may be used for a knitting bag or purses of woven fillet crochet. The foundation is made in the lightest color. The knitting bag in the sketch is white fillet with navy blue threads woven through, as shown. The zipper purse and vanity pouch are ecru with carmine and Delft blue woven stripes. The plain spaces between the stripes are made by weaving through the fillet mesh with matching thread. To start the fillet foundation, make a chain the length of your bag, then chain 5 more, turn, and make a double crochet in the 8th stitch from the hook. Chain 2, skip 2 and make a double crochet in next stitch. Repeat to end of row, then chain 5 and turn. *Make a double crochet in the top of the last double crochet. Chain 2. Continue across the row, then chain 5 and turn. Repeat from * until you have enough of the fillet mesh to make your bag or purse. The weaving is done with double thread and a large blunt needle. Work across and then back through each row of the fillet mesh as shown. When a new weaving thread is started, hide the ends in the edge of the crochet.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' latest book gives complete directions for making many other things for yourself and to use as gifts. It also fully illustrates ninety embroidery stitches with interesting variations. You will use these again and again for reference. Ask for Book 2, enclosing 25 cents (coins preferred). They were both writing letters, but suddenly hubby stopped and looked worried.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked his wife.

"Why—er—I had it on the tip of my tongue and now it's gone."

"Never mind," she said, "just think hard and it's bound to come back."

"Thinking won't bring this back. It was a stamp," said hubby.

Any Excuse—

One day a neighbor came over and wanted to borrow Grandpa's new rope. Said Grandpa: "No, I've got to use that rope today to tie up some sand."

After the neighbor had left a friend said: "Grandpa, you know you can't tie sand with a rope!"

"Remember, my boy," replied the old man, "you can do pretty near anything with a piece of rope—if you don't want to lend it."

"Thinking won't bring this back. It was a stamp," said hubby.

WHY CHANGE?

Don—Don't you ever change your mind about anything?

Joe—Very seldom. I have found I was just as wrong the second after I had changed it as I was before.

Mrs. Harder—Yes, and one visit of the paper hangers beats a cyclone.

Going Down

Two cronies met at lunch.

"How's things?" one asked.

"How are they? Rotten, old boy. Honestly, if they keep on like this it looks as though my last income tax return will be just about correct!" said the other, gloomily.

BANKING LOOKS AHEAD

Faith in the Future

In our complex economic system, the element of faith plays a tremendously important part. Workers, farmers, housewives and business men must have faith in their banks when they bring their deposits for safekeeping. Banks must have faith in individuals and enterprises when they advance credit. Business must have faith in the future before it will incur the risks of expansion and development. We believe that renewed faith and sincere cooperation on the part of all classes and groups of people will carry our country to new heights of abundance and well-being.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington.—New Deal political efforts have now reached an apparent nationwide scope in the strategy for control of the Democratic party machinery. It is no longer a secret—if it ever were concealed—that the White House board of strategy is determined to lick Democratic representatives and senators who have failed to respond to New Deal orders. This has happened despite President Roosevelt's repeated declarations that he is keeping hands off of all party primaries. The only exceptions to the above information are in states where incumbent Democrats are so solidly entrenched that there is no chance to defeat them for renomination.

The latest of numerous New Deal entries in primary races is in Maryland. David J. Lewis, a representative for many years, who is accounted a full-fledged New Dealer in all respects, has entered the race for the senatorial nomination against Sen. Millard Tydings, who has been off of the New Deal reservation many times. Mr. Lewis is to be regarded as formidable opposition. He announced his candidacy after a visit to the White House, and there was none who failed to understand that he had the presidential blessings. It had been known since the court reorganization fight that New Deal leaders were looking for someone to do battle against Senator Tydings.

The Lewis candidacy virtually completes the list. There will be no New Deal candidate against Sen. Bennett Clark in Missouri. The reason is that Senator Clark, despite his frequent attacks on the New Deal program, can not be defeated for the Democratic nomination. Much the same is true about Senator Longman of Connecticut. The New Deal board of strategy has no love for the Connecticut senator, but he is rather firmly entrenched in his state. So it seems the way to express the situation is that the New Deal strategists do not hate him quite enough to run a candidate against him.

In Colorado, Senator Adams has opposition from an avowed New Dealer. Senator Adams has never been quite so outspoken as men like Clark, or Burke of Nebraska, or Wheeler of Montana, but he has been "suspected" of being none too friendly to the New Deal as a whole. The board of strategy, therefore, is taking no chances.

Senator Adams' opponent is Justice B. C. Hilliard. A few hundred miles to the westward, a son of Justice Hilliard is seeking the Democratic nomination for the senate in Nevada. He is after the scalp of Sen. Pat McCarran, who has jumped off of the New Deal bandwagon when he disagreed with presidential programs. So it has been decreed that he, too, must go.

The Iowa battle is now over. In that fight, Harry Hopkins, professional reliever of destitution, sought to aid Representative Wearin relieve Sen. Guy Gillette of the Democratic nomination for the senate. The Hopkins outburst, given to newspaper correspondents here before the Iowa primary was: "If I were a voter in Iowa, I would support Ohio Wearin against Gillette." That raised plenty of hot winds in the senate and, since it came on top of the Pennsylvania primaries and on top of Son Jimmy Roosevelt's endorsement of Senator Pepper in Florida, it gave a tip-off as to how far the thing was going.

It was perhaps the Iowa meddling by Professor Hopkins that caused President Roosevelt to tell a press conference that he was taking no part at all in the state primaries. Prior to that time, however, he had quietly given his blessing to Senator McAdoo, over his several opponents in California; Senator Barkley, over "Happy" Chandler in Kentucky, and it is understood he has shown a preference for Senator Bulkley of Ohio, who is opposed for the Democratic nomination by former Gov. George White.

As is shown by the records, things are not all milk and honey for the 100 per centers who are Not All Milk and Honey seeking renomination. Mention was made of Bulkley in Ohio, and Barkley in Kentucky. Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, the great advocate of cheap money and the man who forced congress to enact legislation allowing for printing of three billion dollars in new silver certificates, has opposition that promises a bitter fight to the end. The same is true of Senator Thomas of Utah, who is confronted with a campaign of a defensive character. He must show why he is so strong for the New Deal to win renomination in that state from which also comes Senator King. Senator King has been a violent opponent of the New Deal.

Then, there is another 100 per center in the far West. Sen. James P. Pope has to fight off the attack of Worth Clark for the senatorial nomination. Mr. Clark, now a member of the house of representatives, is said here to be making a battle of it for Senator Pope whose chief claim to fame seems to be that he fathered the agricultural act of 1938—and nobody knows yet how to make the law work. Clark's record is regarded by many colleagues in the house as proving him to be a Democrat of the liberal type, for he has supported the President on numerous occasions while voting against White House dictation when he felt that he should do so.

The New Dealers have persuaded Governor Johnston of South Carolina to run against Sen. "Cotton Ed" Smith. At least, it is the assumption that the governor was persuaded to enter the race.

There is a fight on in another southern state also. Sen. Walter F. George has opposition for the Democratic nomination. Lawrence Camp, United States attorney at Atlanta, and a Roosevelt appointee, has fled for the nomination against Senator George. The understanding in Washington is that the New Dealers settled on Camp when they found that Governor Rivers of Georgia could not enter the fight because he was vulnerable on several points. Senator George, one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the senate and long highly regarded in that body, apparently has a hard fight because of the likelihood of a divided vote. There are several other candidates in the field and it has been suggested that the vote may be so divided as to bring about defeat of Senator George.

Months ago, of course, Sen. Fred Van Nuys was marked for "liquidation" in Indiana because of his activity against the President's court bill. The state machine in Indiana is completely under the domination of former Gov. Paul McNutt, who aspires to the White House, himself, in 1940, and McNutt is sticking with the New Dealers.

But to turn to another phase of the interparty fight, the question of use of relief funds in politics has become hotter than a pan of boiling grease. Judge Brady Stewart, manager for Chandler in Kentucky, lately wrote a letter of protest to President Roosevelt, charging among other things that relief was being handed out only to persons "approved" by the Barkley faction of the party. From Pennsylvania there have been many squeals about political use of relief funds by Senator Guffey, and in neither case has there been proof that the charges are not true. Undoubtedly, if the WPA workers are being used politically in some places, they are being used in many places; it is a condition that must be expected if the country is going to turn relief of destitution over to politicians. They will fill their gullet first.

The death of an individual whom one does not know, however important the individual may be, creates only passing interest. Perhaps that is why so little attention was paid to the death, a few weeks ago, of Dr. George F. Warren. Professor Warren was nationally known as a Cornell authority on the economics of agriculture; he was known, too, for his famed experiment in causing hens to lay more eggs by keeping them in electrically lighted hen houses at night. But Professor Warren will go down in history for a much more important reason than either of these. It was he who convinced President Roosevelt that prices could be controlled by the federal government by means of changing the gold content of the dollar.

Our currency structure had remained much the same for 50 years until Professor Warren became an advisor, a consultant, for the New Deal. There had been many attempts, much fanfare, many blowings of trumpets, about "tight money" or "Wall Street control" of money, or various other ideas such as the free silver of Bryan days and the equally silly scheme of Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, who wanted to print three billion dollars in new paper money to bring the country out of the depression. The native intelligence and solidarity of the country, however, brought us safely through those periods until Professor Warren came on the scene.

One need not review how the Thomas scheme for printing money was forced through congress nor how the Warren plan for control of prices was propagandized until members of the senate and the house, knowing nothing about economic subjects, swallowed the proposal. The gold content of the dollar was lowered—the dollar was devalued, and the government kept the profit, amounting to more than two billion dollars.

The important thing to remember is that a great government made such a costly experiment on its 130,000,000 citizens, and failed. For it must be said that the Warren scheme for raising prices has failed.

Eggs and Milk in Ulcer

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

SOME years ago I tried to put some weight on a patient who had been suffering with ulcer of the stomach. As the ulcer was healed, I suggested that he engage in light employment. An industrial firm had him make preliminary or first calls on householders. There was no particular mental effort required and as he was not "selling" anything on this visit, he received no re-buffs which might have caused emotional upsets.

I felt that the fresh air, the fact that he was doing something useful, the fluid and soft diet—four to five times a day—should bring results. At the end of a few weeks he had gained a couple of pounds, looked and felt better.

However, he thought my method was a little slow and decided to go to another city to consult a physician whom he knew, who was apparently having great success with a body building bread. He returned a few months later, the picture of health, and had gained 90 pounds. I was greatly surprised with his appearance and told him I would have to take my hat off to his physician and his bread. I asked him about the bread and how often he ate it.

Soft and Easily Digested.

"Oh," he said, "I only ate the bread a couple of times and didn't like it, but Dr. Blank had me taking 20 raw eggs and four to six quarts of milk a day."

Twenty eggs and six quarts of milk means a great many calories when we remember that each egg is 75 calories—a total of between 5,000 and 6,000, counting the milk of which each glass contains 160 calories. However, raw eggs and milk make up a liquid and soft diet, easily handled by the digestive system.

It is interesting to see this same treatment being used in cases of unhealed peptic ulcer (ulcer of the stomach or of the small intestine) when the patient is not confined to bed. Clinical Medicine and Surgery states that Dr. Horace W. Soper, St. Louis, at the Mississippi Valley Medical society meeting reported the case of a rolling mill worker who consumed 20 raw eggs and four quarts of undiluted milk daily.

Now the above treatment was given a strong rolling mill worker and might not be suitable for other cases of unhealed ulcer. It shows, however, the great healing and body building power of milk and eggs.

Community Health.

One of the hopeful signs of the times is that not only do physicians want to know why a pain or other symptom is present but the patients themselves question the physician and read and seek other means of learning the cause of their symptoms.

There are still, however, a large number of individuals who are satisfied to take a remedy for headache, stomach-ache, rheumatism, diarrhea or constipation, because a friend or acquaintance has recommended this particular remedy.

The surgeon general of the United States Public Health service, Dr. Thomas Parran, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, says that the best paying investment of all securities is community health. This means that by all and every means the simple but true facts of health should be made known to everybody.

"No variety of want is more individual, none strikes with a more uneven hand, than illness. The illness of the breadwinner, the disability of a mother, the failing health of children, these present problems which must be met by neighbors with the personal understanding of the whole community."

The thought then is that individual health and community health are the biggest assets of the individual and of the community, and all expense and thought invested in community health pays a bigger dividend than any other investment.

Strange Ship Disappearances.

The history of the sea is studded with strange ship disappearances. Many years ago the passenger ship Waratah, bearing 211 people, left Capetown, South Africa. Never seen again, the Waratah bequeathed another unsolved mystery of the ocean, says the Washington Post. Even more dramatic was the fate of the sailing vessel Marie Celeste, discovered in 1872 floating in mid-ocean, in perfect condition, not a soul aboard. Tables were set for breakfast, the stove still warm, but no one ever explained satisfactorily what happened. Most famous of sea myths is the Flying Dutchman, the ghost ship eternally doomed to sail around the Cape of Good Hope. For sailors to see this grim specter is a sign of bad luck.

Secrets of Ancients Survive Attacks of Modern Science

With television soon to become serious rival to the movies, and giant airplanes and "press-the-button" warships things which raise little comment from the average man, it is surprising that there are many secrets known to the ancients which have survived the attacks of modern science, says a writer in London Answers.

The Greeks could not weave linen or wool on anything like the scale we weave them today. But they wove them into the plemia, a form of cuirass which could not be penetrated by the sharpest dart or arrow. The secret has been lost—perhaps forever.

The Romans sank wells for water to great depths. Exactly how they did the boring is unknown.

The beautiful purple dye, known of old, has eluded the dye-makers of today. And modern builders can make nothing of the strong and durable cement used by the Greeks and the Romans in their walls. This cement was stronger and harder than the stone itself.

The knowledge possessed by the ancient Egyptians was very extensive. They had a method of dressing stone to withstand the ravages of time and weather. They also perfected the art of embalming. Probes, forceps, and other surgical instruments have been found in Egypt. For what purpose they were used we will never know.

That secret, along with many others, passed away with the destruction of the famous library at Alexandria in the Fifth century. The loss of the knowledge contained in that library was a blow to civilization.

Reading and Thinking

Reading furnishes the mind only with materials of knowledge; it is thinking makes what we read ours. So far as we apprehend and see the connection of ideas, so far it is ours; without that it is so much loose matter floating in our brain.—Locke.

Must Books Be Read?

The collector of books need not fear the challenge that is sure to be made, sooner or later, by his skeptical acquaintances: "Have you read them all?" The first idea he ought to get out of his head is that he must only buy books for immediate reading.

"The charm of a library," said that devout book lover, the late Arnold Bennett, "is seriously impaired when one has read the whole or nearly the whole of its contents."

Bennett confessed that he had hundreds of books he had never opened, and which, perhaps, he never would open. But he would not part with them. He knew they were good, and as he gazed on them, he said to them, "Some day, if chance favors, your turn will come. Be patient!"

Best Thoughts

Try to care about something in this vast world besides the gratification of small selfish desires. Try to care for what is best in thought and action—something that is good apart from the accidents of your own lot. Look on other lives besides your own. See what their troubles are, and how they are borne.—George Eliot.

WHEN LIFE DEPENDS ON TIRE SAFETY

IT'S ALWAYS Firestone

FOR 19 CONSECUTIVE YEARS THE WINNERS OF THE INDIANAPOLIS 500-MILE RACE HAVE PROTECTED THEIR LIVES WITH FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES

THEY said it couldn't be done — that tires could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite-hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has fire safety been put to such a gruelling test. Yet not one tire failed — not one single cord loosened — because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.

JULY 4th FORT STANTON CELEBRATION

Fort Stanton will have the biggest and best celebration this coming 4th of July they've ever had. A real old-time wild west circus will be the thing this year, with a good barbecue dinner at 11:30 consisting of hot roast beef, salad, buns, coffee and ice cream, will be furnished for the small sum of 50c, which includes admission to the Rodeo events and to the grounds. As the sideshow barker bellows— "Right this way, folks, and you'll see the biggest exhibition of fancy wild west rodeo, the greatest attraction in the County, all for the small sum of 50c, a half of one dollar."

L. A. Whitlock — I hear that the Lincoln County people are having one H of a time with Senator Perry Sears. He tries to emulate Hitler and Mussolini in his ruthless tactics. Judging from his recent defeat of the Bond Issue, I would feel a little that I'd evaporate from sight altogether.

A. J. Holland — We had a nice rainfall in Lincoln County Monday. I thought the only time we had precipitation was on the 4th of July.

Will Ed Harris — I see that we have three Negro pugilist champions—Henry Armstrong, John Henry Lewis, and Joe Louis. I'm confident that there will be only two shortly, because when Schmeling meets the Brown Bomber it'll just too bad for him.

Herman Kelt — I'm afraid that the German is too old to win over the Negro. But my money is on Max, nevertheless, even if he's a little weak on his pins.

Albert Ziegler — This rainfall Monday is worth a million dollars.

DIRTY WORK AT THE CROSSROADS?

Oscar W. Bamberger, County Treasurer—I recently received a letter postmarked Hondo which bore the following address— "Oscar W. Bamberger, County Treasurer, care of the new Court House—I hope"

—Some say it is the cussedness of Senator Sears, while others take it for a compliment. Your guess is just as good as ours! Is it something Putrid in Peru?

"It is too bad that McCall, the Florida youth, who confessed to the brutal kidnap - murder of little James Cash, had to go through the formality of a trial" mentions a local business man. "Save for the grace of God it might have happened to one of our loved ones."

— We also think they should make quick work of him.

Jeff Herron, the popular grocer, had an ad in The Outlook some time ago which read like this— "I am Green enough to treat you White." — Just like Jeff, who is a past master on getting up advertisements.

So, Adios; thanks for Listenin'!
