A Long-Deserved Honor Is Paid At Last to the Old-Time Printer For His Part in Building America

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON © Western Newspaper Union.

ECOGNITION has come at last to a corps of "forgotten men," a group of unsung heroes whose contribution to the forward march of American civilization has never been adequately acknowledged and honored.

They are the old-time printers, who bent over dusty type-cases in dimly-lit shops where they performed the multiple duties of editor, manager, advertising solicitor, pressman, and oft-times carrier and whose courage and vision played so important a part in the building of a democracy.

They are the men who performed the back-breaking task of "pulling" the old "G. Wash." (handpress) on which their papers were printed; who frequently accepted cordwood, pumpkins, eggs, poultry and a host of other commodities in lieu of money for subscriptions; and who never became rich except in the intangible reward of a consciousness that they aided in building up innumerable prosperous American communities.

There are only a few of them left, but they can still do a good job of "sticking type." As such they have been the object of a nationwide quest which will come to a climax this month when signal honors will be heaped upon the old-time printer who best typifies his fellows of another generation - the founders and trail-blazers for what has become one of modern America's major industries.

In a nation-wide old-time printers' contest sponsored by Callfornia's Sacramento-Golden Empire Centenniai celebration, 20 Veterans of the print shop have emerged victorious in the prelimtnary tests, conducted by the advertising clubs in 20 major cities. from more than 300 who competed. In semi-final contests being conducted this month, this group of 28 will be narrowed down to five men. One mun will represent each of the five regions, Northeastern states. Southern states, Central states, Mid-western states and Pacific states. The five regional winners will be brought to Sacramento, Calif., late this month for the grand finals, scheduled by the Sacramento-Golden Empire Centennial and the Sacramento Advertising club for April 28.

This final contest is to be held at historic Sutter's Fort and the winner will be crowned "King of the Old-Time Printers" at a ceremony which will honor the whole printing industry and all newspapers on the ninetieth anniversary of the founding of the West's first newspaper, the Placer Times, at Sutter's Fort on April 28, 1849. In addition, the "King of Old-Time Printers" will be awarded a $1,000 contract to supervise the production of an oldtime daily newspaper at Sutter's Fort during the Sacramento Centennial celebration. This unique publication will be printed on an old Washington handpress, one of the few remaining presses of this ancient vintage known to be in existence. Many of the most colorful and picturesque figures of the printing industry are among the 26 semi-finalists. One of them is a true pioneer of the Golden West. He is Charles H. Smith, 84-yearold business manager and coowner of the Catalina Islander. published at Avalon on California's famed Catalina Island.

Mr. Smith was born in 1855 at a small mining comp at Mt. Diablo, Calif., his parents having come west in the gold rush, following James Marshall's epochal gold discovery at Coloma, near Sacramento, in 1849. He entered the printing trade in 1869 at the age of 14.

Mr. Smith was a co-lounder of California's Native Sons of the Gölden West, a fraternal organization, and counts among his closest friends Frank C. Jordan, the 80-year-old California secretary of state and dean of American state secretaries. As a child Mr. Smith watched the building of the state capitol at Sacrameato on which his father was a workman.

Another native son is Charles Williams of St. Helens, Calif. who was sponsored in the contest. by the San Francisco Advertising club.

Another contestant who remembers historic events and historic personages is David Oil phant, winner in the preliminary contest conducted by the Chicago Federated Advertising club. Mr. Oliphant is 91 years old and has been engaged in the printing business for 79 years. He marched in the funeral procession of Abraham Lincoln and was well acquainted with Stephen A. Douglas

The "oldest" and the "youngest" in the contest is represented by 94-year-old Benjamin Franklin Walte of Johnson City, N. Y., and 64-year-old Louis E. Goodrich of Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. Waite, who was named in honor of Benjamin Franklin, the greatest of all American printers, was sponsored in the contest by both the Syracuse Advertising Club of New York and the Schenectady Advertising club. In spite of his advanced years, Mr. Waite is still active in the B. Waite

daily operation of his business, embracing all' branches of printing and the allied arts. He does job and book work, magazines and lithochrome work. He also publishes a newspaper, Life and Herald, and is one of its principal writers and advertising men. He is, in fact, able to engineer a complete campaign. He is the oldest living member of the International Typographical union, and started his career as a printer's devil in 1859 at Worcester, N. Y.

Mr. Waite counts among his acquaintances many famed business men and statesmen, including George Francis Train, of the Union Pacific railroad, and Theodore Roosevelt when he was New York police commissioner. He also worked with Col. Franklin Roosevelt, father of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He was also associated with Andrew Kellogg in development of off-setprinting on an old Rubel press.

The "youngster" in the semifinals is Louis E. Goodrich, who was sponsored > by the Advertising Club of City, Kansas Mo. He's a mere infant of 64 years, who still works daliy in display advertising composition on the Kansas City Star where he has been employed sinco 1887. Mr. Good-L. E. Goodrich rich served 16 years as "ad-alley" superintendent, having started his printing carcer in 1875. Like Mr. Smith and Mr. Ollphant, he numbers many famous persons among his acquaintances.

A printer for nearly 70 years is Robert E. Carr, 86 years old, of Hammond, La., the entry of the Advertising Club of New Orleans. Before coming South (he has lived in Hammond for 50 years) Mr. Carr worked in Chicago. He established the Daily Herald in Hammond in 1905 and operated it for 12 years—or until the outbreak of the World war, when newsprint soared to such a prohibitive price that the small daily and weekly newspaper found if difficult to operate. When the Herald ceased publication newsprint was quoted at 26 cents a pound, with restricted shipments. The Herald for a time managed to get sufficient supply to publish daily, except Sunday, for a limited time. One weekly paper used wallpaper for one edition, being unable to get "just one bundle" upon which to put out its issue. jobs or operating presses.

Mr. Carr abandoned his daily publication and confined his activities to his job printing plant. He is still able to do a day's work, putting in from six to eight hours a day.

The entry of the Typothetae of Philadelphia is Henry Shaw, 80 years old, who started printing at Millington's in London, England, in 1967 and-remainedactive until 1933. While employed in Paris. France, he witnessed and contributed to the building of the Statue of Liberty which was presented to the people of the Henry Shaw United States by the people of France in 1885.

A contestant who looks like the typical frontier editor is Ben Wood, who comes from one of the frontier" states -Arizona and who was sponsored in the contest by the Advertising Club of Phoenix, Ariz. He can tell some interesting tales of the "wild and woolly" days in

Ben P. Wood the Southwest. Another Western old-timer is T. A. Hayes, the entry of the Boise (Idaho) Advertising club. Mr. Hayes was born in 1861' and started as an apprentice printer in 1867. Despite his 88 years, he is still actively engaged in the business as head of the Hayes Printing company of Blackfoot, Idaho.

PAUL CROSSES INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:36; 16:4-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia.—Acts 16:10.

Guidance is the moment by moment need of every man and woman, boy and girl. The whole of life calls for decisions, many of which look quite innocent and unimportant, but upon which the destiny of an entire life may turn. Who does not recall the poet's lament over the want of an ordinary horseshoe nail which resulted in the loss of the shoe, which disabled the horse, whose rider was lost, with the result that the battle went against his people, Since the great issues of life may turn on the simplest of choices, we need guidance at every point in life. This need has been recognized by those who would make merchandise of their neighbors. Quacks and charlatans offer guidance by every method, from reading the palm, looking at the stars, or consulting the spirits, to those smug enterprises which pose as spiritual and talk much of prayer, but which do not honor the name of Christ nor recognize Him as Redeemer and

One of the glories of the Christian faith is that the believer is indwelt by the third person of the Trinity, the Holy Spirit Himself, who is ready and willing to give divine guidance in every detail of life from the smallest to the greatest.

We study today the coming of the gospel into Europe, and that means through our forefathers to America. We consider what from our viewpoint was a crucial point in the history of the Church. Thanks be to God that His servant Paul was in that hour obedient to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Observe that the gospel came to Europe

I. By Providential Hindrance (15: 36: 10:4-8).

Not only the steps, but also the stops of a good man are ordered of the Lord. That is not an easy lesson to learn. We may be as much in the will of the Lord when all of our efforts beem to be thwarted as when they prosper. Let us not for-

Paul had set out on a second journey to carry out a follow-up campaign in the cities where he had already preached. This was a goodplan and had God's blessing (see v. 5). But soon we find that word "forbidden" (v. 6) and then "suffered not" (v. 7). The Holy Spirit began to close doors to the gospel preacher. Now what? Shall he go on in determined self-will? Or shall he become discouraged and embittered in his soul? No, let him wait, for God is guiding him by providential hindrance, which is soon to be followed

II. By Divine Guldance (16:9, 10). make new ones,-Confucius." The Spirit spoke to Paul in a vision revealing the divine purpose that the gospel should go over into Macedonia. The Spirit leads in our day, possibly not by visions, but by impelling inward prompting complemented and checked by the teaching of Scripture and by providential circumstances, and a man may know what is the will of God.

A word of caution is needed at this point. Some earnest Christian people go astray by projecting their own desires and purposes into the place where they come to regard them as the will of God, and thus do themselves and others, and Christianity Itself much harm. The three things already mentioned should agree-(1) the inner prompting of the Spirit, (2) the leaching of God's Word, and (3) God's hand in our outward circumstances.

III. Through a Faithful Witness (vv. 11-14).

The gospel came to Europe because Paul and his fellow workers were faithful to their calling. When God led, they went to Macedonia (vv. 11, 12), where they sought out those who were in the place of prayer (v. 13). Paul spoke to them about Christ (v. 14). It is one thing to have a vision, it is another thing to be obedient to that vision (Acts 25:19). There are some who talk much of their consecration to God, but who give little evidence of it. The little girl was right (though her grammar was wrong) when she said, "It's better to walk your talk than to talk your walk,"

IV. Through a Receptive Heart (vv. 14,° 15). God sent an obedient messenger to the place where He had a prepared heart (v. 14). Space forbids much reference to this godly, successful business woman and housemother, but we do note that she not only received the Word of God into her own heart, but at once gave herself to the task of passing it on. The first thing she could do was to give aid and comfort to the messenger of the truth, and she did that at once. Be assured that from that day on she did all she could to prosper the gospel on its way through Europe and to the ends of the earth. Have we done likewise?

HEAQLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Horror of the Gray Spots"

LIELLO, EVERYBODY:

Adventure just happens to most people, but Jim Burnett of East-Rutherford, N. J., goes out and hunts-for his thrills. You know, I've always felt that you'll have just as many adventures if you stay right at home and let them hunt you up. But Jim seems to have had pretty good success with his system, too. In the last 20 years or so, Jim has adventured in 54 countries. But the biggest scare he ever got in his life was that time, way back in the interior of Brazil, when he ran into the Adventure of the Gray Spots.

In December, 1922, Jim and his pal Jay McKay were on their way up the Amazon on an errand of vengeance. A Portuguese half breed had killed McKay's father and fled upstream to hide in the wilderness. Jim and Jay had a hunch that they would find him in the Geral Indian country, and they had started off-after him.

For two weeks they traveled up-river in a molloca, a type of canoe used on the Amazon, turned south to ascend the River Purus and, after a week's paddling, picked up the murderer's trail from an Indian who said that a half-breed was hiding with a certain Geral tribe on a stream that branched off the Purus a few miles farther on. Voyagers Reach End of Their Trail.

They had paddled all that night, and dawn found them at the mouth of the unnamed tributary of the Purus that the Indian had described.

Then both of them turned and started to run back to their canoe.

Up that little stream they went. In a couple more hours they were at the spot to which the Indian had directed them—the end of their trail. They can their boat ashore on a narrow, sandy beach, and started ashore. Back in the jungle they could see an Indian village, and a group of half a dozen natives coming forward to meet them. "The Geral Indians were once considered the most sayage on the South American continent," says Jim, "but we advanced boldly toward the handful before us."

It was a tense situation, and Jim and Jay knew it. The Indians might be peaceably disposed and then again they might not. And even stantly, plants will be quickly afthough they might be inclined to be peaceable, they certainly wouldn't feel any too friendly to the two white men when they learned their errand was to take away the fugitive they had been sheltering. Yes-it was a tense situation all right-but nothing Jim or Jay had yet imagined was as bad as what actually happened.

The Indians were about twenty paces away when Jim saw them—the gray spots. The skins of every one of those Indians were gray and blotchy and spotted-spotted with the most dreadful disease known to the world. Leprosy:

Jim yelled: "Stop, McKay-stop!" McKay uttered just one word. "Lepers!" Then both of them turned and started to run back to their canoe.

They reached the river bank together, leaped over it and landed on the beach-right on top of a couple of Indian boys who had circled around them to see what they could steal from the boat. "They turned on us and fought us fiercely," says Jim, "no doubt resenting our catching them at it. They scratched and bit and kicked us before, finally we heaved them bodlly out ento the sand and pushed our molloca into the river amid a bediam of shouts from the advancing Indians.

Fear of Leprosy Haunts the Two Men.

"For the moment we had just one single thought in our minds—to | run slowly in one place for 20 get away from the immediate neighborhood. It wasn't until after a quarter of an hour of hard paddling, when we were a mile away down stream. that we realized, with a strange, sinking sensation in the pits of our stomachs that we had handled the leprous wretches—that they had bitten and scratched us."

Jim says that worrying about their exposure to leprosy was had enough, but the real horror of the business didn't hit themuntil a week later. Then, tiny, round gray spots began to appear on his and Jay McKay's wrists and arms. "The shock," says Jim, "was terrific. In fact, McKay's hair turned snow white-at the age of thirty. I wished that I were dead then and there, and I guess McKay did, too. Have you ever seen the Louisiana leper colony, or been in the Ladrones? I had always pitied those poor gray-skinned victims of a living death—and now I was becoming one mysell."

They pushed on down the river. In another two weeks the spots had spread over their entire bodies. Life, then, was like a nightmare. For there they were, thousands of miles away from civilization, coming down with the world's most dreaded disease. And even getting back to civilization would be scant comfort. Not even modern medicine can cure that hateful, wasting malady of which those spots were the first awful symptom.

Horror Grows Worse as Time Passes.

"The ghastly horror," says Jim, "grew on us day by day. We paddled along mechanically, like a couple of automatons, wishing to heaven we'd die-trying to get up the courage to end our mental agony. As we paddled, we prayed. We knew that no prayer could cure us, but I believe today that they saved us from a worse fate-madness!"

And then, one day as they were rounding a turn near the mouth of the Maderia river, they came upon another white man-a doctor from the English hospital at Porto Velho, and Jim says that if there ever was a messenger from heaven come in answer to a prayer, Doctor King was that messenger. There in the jungle he gave them a brief examination, and then he told them the news.

"Boys," he said, "I know you've been suffering the tortures of the damned, but you can stop worrying. Your cases are a rare form of false leprosy—a disease that looks a lot like the real thing, but which a good rest and a little medical attention will take care of. It won't be long before you're as fit as ever."

That ended those two lads' mission of vengeance. They never did catch the killer. But Jim hopes that if Jay McKay is in this country he reads this yarn. After all these years, he'd like to see him again.

Make it of flat crepe. checked or printed silk for now. Later on, have it in gingham, linen or batiste.

Pretty Basque Frock.

This adorable basque frock is smart for both school and parties.

Proper Watering

FACH year, more and more gardeners are learning that gardens should not be watered by sprinkling.

Sprinkling usually moistens the surface soil only and thus the roots naturally come up there for water. When the root system is concentrated near the surface there is more danger of injury by hoeing; and if sprinkling to not done confected by drouth.

Considered from the time angle, moreover, sprinkling is impractical. Many hours can be wasted holding the hose and directing the spray. Time of watering is not of great importance, but it is usually considered more economical to water thoroughly early in the forenoon or late in the afternoon since the soil can then be thoroughly soaked with less loss from evaporation.

The most efficient method of watering, according to Walter H. Nixon, Ferry Seed Breeding Station vegetable expert, in to lay the hose on the ground. Do not have too heavy a flow of water, or there will be a washing of soil and exposure of roots. Let the water minutes to half an hour. KEEP THE SUBSOIL MOIST.

It puffs out so charmingly at the shoulders, flares at the skirt hem. and hugs in to a small, pointed waist. Sash bows, tied in the back. draw it in snugly, and look gay and pretty besides. For school, choose gingham, calico or percale. For parties, taffeta or silk crepe. The Patterns.

That much is history. But now there are signs of impending trouble for the national labor relations board. With its main support, the C. I. O., having its troubles in collecting dues, and with the peace efforts of President Roosevelt who sought to get union men of the United States back in one organization having failed dismally, the labor board is up against it. In fact, to summarize the situation in the homely expression of my boyready to choke itself because of too much rope. It may not happen in happen before long. Why? The answer is that organized labor, as repit could chew. The reaction has now set in.

Demands for Amendment of Labor Act Grow Noisier

Advocates of amendment of the Wagner labor act have been knocking at the door a long time. Recently, the knocking has resembled sledge hammer pounding. A very large number of senators and representatives have heard it.

As a matter of fact, it was Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to get A. F. of L. | thing. and C. I. O. back into a single national union that has delayed the moves in congress looking to amendment of the labor law. C. I. O., having stood by the President when he was a candidate and having fought for his cause time after time, was entitled to the President's services as a peace negotiator. Many persons thought there would be happy reunion, but there was no chance at all from the very outset of the negotiations, and the affair did nothing to lift Mr. Roosevelt's wage carners-or so the C. I. O. prestige, especially in the rural areas where C. I. O. and sit-down strikes have much the same mean-

While the administration's plans for a union reunion were slipping, there came that sensational verdict by a federal court jury in Philadelphia which assessed $700,000 damages against the sit-down strikers in a hosiery plant. The damages were assessed directly against the men who did the job, and thus for the first time a responsibility, as i meant. well as a right, was given to labor. The right to strike long has been established and labor must guard it; never before, however, had there been a court determination that liability also exists if damage is done.

It is unnecessary here to review what the labor relations board has been doing. Time after time, it has been accused of dancing to the bagpipes played by C. I. O. The American Federation of Labor, among other critics, has charged it with rank C. I. O. favoritism. The board does not consist of persons capable of winning very much respect. True I believe they have very alert and fast-moving minds, but I cannot help regarding them as without any trace of judicial temperament. Without doubt, the country would be better off had all three members been ousted months ago.

Act and Its Administration Causes Widespread Criticism

It is, perhaps, as much because of the terrible administration of the law as from the inequities of the loosely drawn law itself that the criticism has been so widespread; Hundreds of cases, coming before the board, have left employers with personal losses as a result of oneaided determinations. Labor unions, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, have repeatedly asserted they could not obtain justice W the C. I. O. Agured in the stue-

In any event, there are now few years ago that any politician, senators and representatives sponseeking a harvest of votes, would soring a hatfull of amendments to rather have cut off his right arm | the law, and a large number of these than offend organized labor. In a amendments are being promoted by the A. F. of L. lobby at the capitol.

There is one amendment, for instance, that proposes to disband the present three-man board and supplant it with a five-man board. That, C I. O. Rather, John Lewis, the of course, is the political maneuver to get rid of people with whom conbitious and broke away from the gress is disgusted. The amendment is by Senator Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat.

Whether the A. F. of L. charges are true and whether the criticisms et states of the world is the overlooks the sear of employers have been justified, it remains as fact that C. I. O. is now opposing amendment to the act.

Hearings Are Delayed by

Various Stalling Maneuvers

Supporters of the law in its present form and defenders of the board as it is now made up succeeded for example in delaying hearings on amendments to the act for more than a month. They urged Senator Thomas of Utah, committee chairhood home: it looks like the swash- man, not to hold hearings while buckling, defiant calf is just about | peace negotiations were in progress. They insisted that it was unfair to embarrass the President in this session of congress, but it will his attempts to restore unity in the labor movement, and argued that hearings would bring bitter stateresented by the Lewis faction, made | ments into print. Mr. Thomas yieldthe same mistake as greedy big ed to the plea for delay, but eventubusiness frequently makes. It be- ally the pressure for action became came arrogant; it bit off more than | too strong even for the Utah senator to resist.

> And the friends of the law were right when they anticipated bitter words. Senator Wagner in his testimony spoke rather blatantly about critics being unacquainted with the purposes of the law. He felt, too, that there was no need for hasteabout changes. He rather hinted that there were some Ethiopian gentlemen in the woodpile, but failed to put his finger on them. He simply was standing pat about the whole

> A little later, however, the C. I. O. people named the terrible "conspirators" who wanted the act changed. The American Federation of Labor had "conspired" with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. There was the fine unseen hand, the Chamber of Commerce, big business, personified. It was the guilty party; it was speaking for the employers who want to grind poor workmen into the dust, destroy unionism, wreck the families of the shouted. Well, as far as I am concerned, I fail to see why the C. I. O. picked the Chamber of Commerce. It is so thoroughly discredited that it hasn't had any influence at the capitol in 10 years. Why anyone should think that the Chamber of Commerce could have started a movement as strong as the present demand for change of the labor act is quite beyond me. But that was what the C. I. O. charged. It may have been what Senator Wagner

Most of all, in the labor board's mind, the amendments would "conflict with the basic purposes of the act."

The coronation in Vatican City of a new pope has turned world attention to that tiniest of sovereign states. The importance of Vatican City in world affairs and how it compares in size to the other midgsubject of renewed discussion.

Vatican City, the newest and smallest sovereign state in the world, is a walled area of less than 109 acres entirely surrounded by Italian territory, the city of Rome. The new state came into being with signing of the Lateran treaty with Italy in 1929. The unification of Italy in 1870 had deprived the Roman pontiffs of a territory stretching from sea to sea, an area of about 16,000 square miles with a population of more than 3,000,000 persons.

Seen as Threat To Yank Regime

By ROBERT McSHANE

HEN the New York Yankees clinched their third straight American league pennant last year -to say nothing of the world series-the worry boys started working overtime. Moans of pure, unadulterated anguish could be heard distinctly from East Cape, Fla., to Tatoosh, Wash.

"Break up them Damyanks" became the rallying cry for thousands of viewers-with-alarm. The Yankees were too good. They were throttling baseball because they had a corner on all the talent. No one would be interested in a sure thing. Etc., etc.

Only one club ever won four straight pennants since the beginning of organized major league baseball in 1876. The New York Giants, headed by John McGraw annexed four National league pennants in a row from 1921 through

However, all good things come to an end sooner or later. The law of averages can't be repealed, and has just as much force today as it had before the Yanks started their rampage. One more thing-the luster of Lou Gehrig-one of the greatest first basemen in diamond history, is almost certain to be dimmed to the vanishing point this year.

Granted that the loss of one man won't break up the Yankee club. But it will be a serious psychological loss-almost as great as if Man-

It was back in June, 1925, that the Yanks, barked from his seat on the bench: "Gehrig, get up there and hit for Wanninger." Right there "Columbia Lou" started one of the most remarkable sporting feats in | Swift. history, a streak of 2,123 consecutive games at the close of the 1938 season. During the past two seasons he played in 157 games each.

Reticent by nature, his iron man feat never got for him the publicity it deserved. Since Babe Ruth started to slide, Gehrig has been the team's inspiration. His inevitable loss to the Yanks will be a serious blow to pennant hopes.

The iron man, though noticeably slipping, is sure to render valuable assistance to the club this season. Occasional rest periods will prolong his activities.

May Upset Yanks

Who can upset the Yanks? Mest authorities are of the opinion that it can't be done this season. But there are a few who are willing to concede the Boston Red Sox an outside chance. And well they might. for the Sox have a lot of what is needed to turn over a well-stocked apple cart.

The Red Sox have the best spirit of any team in the league, and they're going out to win with a team entirely capable of annexing that coveted banner. The Bosox are a young, hard-fighting outfit. They have one of the brightest assemblages of rookies in either league. including Ted Williams, the 20-yearold American Association batting king from the Minneapolis Millers. who will be stationed in right field. and Jim Tabor, a .330 clubber with the Millers a year ago. Tabor is being groomed for second base. Another-Woodrow Rich-is being touted as a real find. With Little Rock last year, he won 19 and lost 10 and yielded only 2.47 carned runs game.

Though there is considerable doubt about Lefty Grove, whose arm went "dead" last season, their pitching staff will be sufficient, even if the ancient Lefty does fade out. The Yanks, who have cut three straight world series melons, aren't as hungry for the honors as the Red Sox. Three straight titles dulls to some degree the arge to win, and that spells dynamite for any club. And it won't be the biggest surprise of the year, alarmists to the contrary, if the Boston Red Sox wind up the season about 10 games ahead of the Yankees. And the "break em up" boys would have to find something else to worry about.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS.

The Study Room .- Shiny sur faces, such as a highly polished study table or desk, satin stripes in wallpaper, and glossy paint for woodwork, are hard on the eyes and should be avoided.

Reviving Serge. - Blue serge suits can be revived by sponging with vinegar and water before they are pressed.

A Treat for Plants.—A-little ammonia in the water once a week when giving the plants their drink will keep the soil sweet and the leaves glossy.

To Clean Aluminum.—To clean aluminum kettles which have become discolored, rub them with a cloth dipped in lemon juice, then rinse in warm water.

Crystallized Honey.—Honey that has crystallized may be brought back to the liquid form by warming the container in moderately hot water. The temperature of the water should not rise above 140 degrees, or the honey will change color and it will lose some of its flavor.

Important Trifle.—A pinch of salt added to hot starch will give a high glow.

Scorched Linens. - To remove light scorches from linens, wet the stained area with cold water and expose it to the sun until the stain disappears.

Thinning Lacquer.-When using lacquer, never thin it with turpentine, benzine or linseed oil. Even a small trace of any of these liquids will ruin it. Use a commercial lacquer thinner instead.

Removing Duck Feathers,-To remove feathers from ducks, first pick them dry. This leaves a down all over the skin. To remove the down, wring out a large cloth in boiling water and wrap it around the duck for five minutes. Remove the cloth and the down can be wiped off easily with a dry cloth.

The sun was behind a bank of clouds and a light breeze had sprung up. When they took their places Rex calmly seated himself beside Joan. No need to consider Stuyvesant now, or be jealous of him. Stuyvesant was annexed and labeled as the property of another girl. The talk was general and much livelier than it had been earlier in the day. Stuyvesant and Hale were in high spirits. The others did their best to share the mood.

"It will really be nice to have you of Rex. He won't have me yet, at in New York," Joan told Hale under cover of the mild discussion between Stuyvesant and Bert. "I'm thinking of lots of things you can do for me. Besides," she added serenely, "I'd rather live in New York than in Chicago or California."

Hale shook his head at her. "You're trying to upset my poise," he said severely. "'It can't be done. Besides, my present plan is to die of a hopeless love for you. can't do that if you keep on encouraging me with these flirtations. I revive every time you smile at me. How the devil can I die if you keep on smiling?

"Couldn't you give up the funeral and live for me?" Joan wanted to know. But again Hale shook his head at her.

"I will not marry you, Joan," he said firmly. "Neither will I let you marry me. But you're driving me to desperate measures. I think I'll offer my heart and hand in selfdefense to Aunt Hosanna. She can protest me."

"I doubt it," Joan said thoughtfully. "She isn't even up to protecting Mrs. Spencer Forbes."

Hale shot a quick look at her. "Just what do you mean by that?" "Nothing. It's merely one of those enigmatic remarks that keep my friends guessing. She dropped the subject so definitely that Hale almost heard it fall

The consultation With Doctor Nick Crosby the following Tuesday morning was brisk and business-like. Crosby in his office was a very different person from the chatty man of the world he had been on Mrs. Nash's veranda, during Rex's first meeting with him. At Joan's suggestion Bert had the first appointment. At Bert's suggestion Rex accompanied him into the private office. It was assumed without discussion that Joan's examination would take more time. All Bert said was that he was nervously run down, and wanted help in upbuilding. Crosby made some tests, asked some questions, gave him some advice, and wrote out a prescription, all inside. of twenty minutes. Then Joan went in to the doctor alone, and the two young men waited for her in the ante-room. She was gone threeguarters of an hour. When the doctor had bowed her out of his private office, Rex muttered a word of apology and went into the consultingroom himself. There he faced the doctor expectantly.

"Well?" he asked. Crosby shrugged.

"Everything in Kneeland's case confirms what you told me in our talk last night. He'll soon be all right, with proper care and treatment."

"And Miss Kneeland?"

"I'm not so sure about her. don't like some of her symptoms. It's too soon to be definite. I want to watch her a while."

"What do you think the trouble is? Surely you must have some notion."

"I'm holding my notions in abeyance. She may have nothing but a masty case of indigestion. That can play the very mischief with a patient, once it gets a bad start. I've given her a tonic. I've told her not to eat anything between meals, and to avoid rich dishes. She has no appetite. The tonic may help that. She has been living principally on milk. That's all right for some people, but not so good for others. I've stopped it for the time. I'll talk to you about her in a week or any price. I can only live in hope," Hale said nothing. Girls were inexplicable, he was thinking. Here was Joan Kneeland, making these poor jokes in the presence of a cousin who was still ill and in love with her, It wasn't like her. She wasn't that type. No doubt she was tensed up after her visit to the doctor. Hale rode back to the Camp in silence, hardly hearing the desultory talk of his companions.

"I'm the only girl of my set who hasn't a car." Joan said, "That shows how economical I am," she went on cheerfully. "I have no expensive tastes at all. with more interest than he had new partnership.

"Not yet. I'm thinking about it and throwing out a few subtle hints," Joan explained.

"Is this maidenly?" Bert asked. He gave the wheel a whirl that lifted Joan from her seat. "No: It isn't good driving, either.

C. Houston Goudiss Explodes Some False Notions About Food: Warns Homemakers Against Fallacies and Superstitions

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

T HAS been well said that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. This is particularly true of dietary facts, for half-truths can be more misleading than lies.

There should be no place for half-truths, misinformationor superstition in a matter so vital as the choice of food. Yet judging from the letters that come to my desk, thousands of homemakers are being influ-oenced, not by scientific knowl- sensitive to a variety of other proedge, but by "old wives tein foods. But that is an abnortales," and a multitude of fads and fancies which there is not a shred of scientific evidence to support.

Some food fallacies are harmless. Others may be detrimental to health. For they result in an unbalanced diet that deprives the body of substances needed maintain physical efficiency at the highest possible level. tea, and the doctor refused an in-meat. It is wrongly charged that light meats are more wholesome than dark meats that veal is not completely digested . . . that meat is a contributing cause to disease, and many other equally foolish no-All these misconceptions are in a class with the absurd ideas that eating turnips will make you brave, that lettuce is a cure for insomnia, or fish a food for the brain.

There is no evidence to support the belief that some meats are less desirable than others because they are less completely digested. mal reaction and has no bearing on the use of cheese by persons in normal health.

Cheese Is Not Constipating

The mistaken idea that cheese is constipating doubtless arose from poor menu planning. Cheese is a highly concentrated food. It enjoys the distinction of being the most concentrated source of protein known. Because of this fact, menus containing cheese should be balanced by the inclusion of foods containing bulk or cellulose, such as fruits, vegetables or whole grain breads. When these foods are omitted, it is not the presence of cheese, but the absence of bulk that is responsible for the meal being insufficiently laxative, Homemakers who have the interests of their families at heart will banish the notion that cheese is either constipating or difficult to digest when properly used. They will give this splendid food a regular place in their menus and thereby provide valuable nourishment at a most economical cost. It is doubtful if any other food provides such a variety of important nutrients concentrated in such a small space. Besides Its fine quality protein, cheese is notable for its energy values, for supplying the minerals, calcium and phosphorus, needed for teeth and bones, and as a source of vitamin A.

READER living on a rural route in South Dakota writes me: "My parlor is 10 by 14 feet and has an 8 foot ceiling. Right in the center of the 16 foot wall are two windows, each 6 feet high and 3 feet wide. They are only 1 foot apart and 1 foot from the ceiling. How should I curtain these windows? Should the drapes cover the 1 foot space between them? How long should they be? Would you extend the drapes nearer the ceiling? I have been advised to do this.-S. A."

These questions are nice and definite and all dimensions are given. A scale drawing was made a little larger than the one shown here: 14 inch to a foot. This showed immediately that the windows needed to look wider rather the floor they are made into a unit

The speaker was endeavoring to impress a lesson upon the hearts and minds of the youngsters in his audience, when he said, "Now, boys, there were two men who were very rich. One of them had made his fortune by honesty and industry, and the other by fraud and reguery. Which of these two men would you prefer to be?"

There was a moment's hesitation, then a snappy youngster at the back of the room yelled out, "Which man made the most?"

Pino-Martinez

This morning (Friday) at 7 o'clock, at the St. Rita Church, with Rev. Fr. Salvatore officiating, Miss Louise Pino and Fred Martinez were united in marriage. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gregorio Pino. She was born and reared here, attended the local schools and graduated from high school with high honors.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Martinez and like his charming bride, was born and reared here and received his schooling in the Carrizozo schools and also attended the Lourdes Academy at Albuquerque for one term. He is at present employed by the Southern Pacific Hotel.

After the wedding ceremony, the newlyweds, their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Vegs, and the close relatives of both families went to the Pino ranch, where a bountiful dinner was enjoyed.

The many friends of this young courle wish them a life-long happiness.

What steps can be taken to bring the matter of exploring the Cravens' Bat Cave, and the Crockett Cavern to the attention of the Government? It would mean a great deal to Carrizozo if these caves were put in shape for visits by the general public, especially tourists. Let's push this idea along.

The Fountain of Youth flows from the feet, according to Edward Doherty. He says no one needs gland transplanting, any operation, to become young again. He only needs to walk.

But there is a lot of truth in Mr. Doherty's statement. - We haven't the 'guts' to do it.
