Beware Of The Trap

For the past six months, literature has appeared here and elsewhere from the German Library of Information in New York, which glorifies Hitler and pronounces him one of the greatest humanitarians the world has ever known.

To the person unacquainted with the life and career of Hitler such literature as this is so cunningly designed and so smoothly covered-up, that one might be caught unaware and the harm done after it is too late.

In connection with this misleading literature, they publish a list of weekly broadcasts coming from Berlin and ask readers of this "stuff" to listen in.

It is the purpose of this article to warn our people against reading this deceiving literature. This is a free country and they are taking advantage of that freedom to spread their damnable doctrine of totalitarianism.

It is the purpose of this article to warn our people against reading this deceiving literature. This is a free country and they are taking advantage of that freedom to spread their damnable doctrine of totalitarianism. This stuff should not be allowed to go through the mails, but our laws are so lenient in that respect, that this wave of poison is allowed to circulate.

Again, let us sound the warning to avoid reading such literature. If it comes in your mail, which it perhaps has; or if not, it will mark it "refused" and if turn it over to the postmaster, who in turn, will notify these propagandists to cease sending more. Don't read it. Don't tear it up and throw it in the waste basket, but do as we direct and everybody will do likewise, the stuff will soon quit coming here.

Radio and Newspapers

You frequently hear it said that the radio has taken the place of the newspapers and that what you read in your daily paper is a matter of history. We know of no better way to reply to that saying than to point the reader to conditions here last Sunday. An accident between here and El Paso, prevented trains from coming here for the entire day, and to the east, snow and sleet tied up trains so that none came in from that direction.

come until night.

Here is the point. You hear anything over the radio and it is gone. You have heard the gist of the message, but have forgotten the particulars. The next morning, you read about it in your newspaper with full particulars. If you have forgotten anything, the paper is on the table for the entire day to refer to as often as you wish, but what you have heard over the radio is gone forever. If you want to prove anything, your paper is there to prove or disprove what your opinion was, but you can't call back the radio message. We are not seeking to better the radio, but to show that the newspaper lasts the longest.

John James Audubon, Painter of Birds, Now Revealed as an Important Writer Who Was 'Witness to Our Heroic Age'

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

TO MOST Americans the name "Audubon" is synonymous with just one word—"birds." Three species bear his name, as does the society which is dedicated to the study, protection and preservation of those feathered denizens of America which were his life-long passion. We remember him also as the author-artist of a set of books which a fellow-scientist once called "the most magnificent monument that art has yet raised to ornithology." Yet there is another—and possibly a better—reason why John James Audubon should be remembered gratefully by his fellow-Americans.

That is because he was "a witness to our heroic age" and, as an appreciative and understanding witness, he was one of its best interpreters. Such is the theme of a new book, whose publication by the Houghton Mifflin company of Boston, was a major event of the 1940 publishing season. The book is "Audubon's America—The Narratives and Experiences of John James Audubon," illustrated with nearly a score of facsimiles of his prints and paintings in full color.

But more important than this inclusion of authentic reproductions of Audubon's paintings in a popular-priced book is the fact that his "narratives and experiences" in it are edited by Donald Culross Peattie. And Mr. Peattie, naturalist and author of such books as "Singing in the Wilderness" and "A Prairie Grove," is probably the one man in America today who is most competent to act as an appreciative and understanding interpreter of John James Audubon, a witness to and an interpreter of our heroic age.

Some of the most charming prose that Mr. Peattie has ever written is included in "What Audubon Knew," which serves as an introduction to the book. It says in part:

"The source of history is the narratives of those who lived it. Now of all those who ever lived here, traveled and greatly adventured, none could bear more fascinating testimony than John James Audubon. He had the advantage of being a foreigner. So that he took nothing for granted, and in the perspective of a more mature culture, all things American struck him as fresh. He had the further advantage that he was a genius, and a genius of art at that, so that to observe, to depict what he saw, was habitual and instinctive. "But Audubon had, too, a genius for the art of living. He lived with zest for the adventure and with personal ardors. He

THE VIRGINIAN OPOSSUM.

It is at this point in his essay that Mr. Peattie points out how Audubon's fame as an ornithologist, the renown which has made his name synonymous with the word "birds," has obscured his value to his fellow-Americans as "a witness of our heroic age." Moreover, his art as a painter has overshadowed his ability as a writer. For a professional writer he was, a man who wrote to sell and who did sell.

"I am not saying that he knew how to write history like the learned Parkman, or style like the choice Thoreau, or that he thought as an equal with Emerson," observes Mr. Peattie. "I am asserting only that while Cooper went to England while he wrote 'The Prairie' (an unreadable dull book, to my ears), Audubon was on the prairie, that where Emerson knew his Carlyle, Audubon knew his Mississippi squatters, that while Thoreau was libraries and are therefore known to only a few scholars and specialists in American history.

For these reasons Americans generally know little about Audubon, the artist, and what they do know about him as a chronicler of the period in which he lived is when he is quoted "in evidence for the unbelievable numbers of the passenger pigeons, or the destruction of the buffalo, or on some other point in natural history."

Therefore the great value of this book is that it "makes up in some measure for neglect of Audubon's precious testimony." For, as Mr. Peattie says, "as editor, I have preferred to bring him forward less as the naturalist than as one who knew river captains and roustabouts, pioneers and men of letters, Indians and scientists. This without, of course, alighting his natural history writings but reducing them to some reasonable proportion to the whole. That whole is the America of his day, America as he, and perhaps only he, knew it—Audubon's America."

How richly that promise is fulfilled is shown by a reading of the chapters which follow the introductory "What Audubon Knew," and Mr. Peattie's evaluation of "Audubon as a Witness." The titles of those chapters are indicative of the diversity of Audubon's experience, the catholicity of his interests and the scope of his "traveling around North America"—"Kentucky Days and Nights," "Hunters' Tales," "Pioneer Types," "Deep South," "Four Proud Fowl," "Down East for Birds and Subscribers" and "Out West With Buffalo and Indians."

To those who think of Audubon only in terms of birds, the amount of his writing about animals will be revealing. After completing his monumental work, "The Birds of America," he began work on "The Quadrupeds of America" and "into the new project the old master entered with all the zest, so he wrote his young friend Spencer Baird, that he had once felt for birds." So it is appropriate that this new book reproduces almost as many pictures of animals (seven in all) as it does pictures of birds (eight).

Not the least interesting feature of the book is a "Biographical Note" (a long "note" albeit, since it covers 22 pages!) which tells in interesting fashion the story of his life from the date of his birth, April 26, 1785, at the port of Les Cayes on Aux Cayes on the south coast of the republic of Haiti until his death in New York city on January 27, 1851.

This biographical sketch discusses the much-disputed story of his paternity and cites the fact that available documents prove conclusively that he was the natural son of Lieut. Jean Audubon of the French navy and a Creole woman of good birth, whose family name was either Rabin or Fougere. Says Mr. Peattie: "This should set at rest the preposterous claim that has recently (and only recently) been set up for him, that he was none other than the lost Dauphin, Louis XVII, majesty disguised as a wandering artist! This legend would be too far-fetched for notice if it were not, unfortunately, the one story about Audubon that sticks in many minds. Two women biographers of Audubon have recently taken it quite seriously, and thousands of words have been written in debate on this point. They can all be cut short by saying down a fact dealt by nobody. The unfortunate little Bourbon prince had a deformed ear, while Audubon's ears were both quite normal. Who will seriously argue the point beyond that?"

UNITY

"The election certainly proved that a lot of people admired Willie," he said.

"Now wait. It's all over and all we want now is unity. Right?" I said.

"Right. I suppose we should forget the violation of a tradition," he said.

"Lissen," I said. "Nothing matters now except that we all be united. No more arguments, no more dissensions. Right?"

"Right. The election's all over. But I still think the budget question important," he said.

"There you go being partisan," I said.

"I ain't partisan," he said.

"Yes, you are. All that matters is that democracy worked and we are all brothers. Right?" I said.

"Right. In the popular vote Willie was only a few million behind," he said.

"Nuts," I said. "If Roosevelt won by only two votes it would be final under our system and no sense beefing."

"Not at all. The popular vote showed an enormous switch against the New Deal policies," he said.

"Aw, go away! You just don't want unity," I said.

"Of course I want unity. It's the paramount need. But can't we still have it and talk reasonably?" he said.

"You're just another non-unity guy," I said. "You're too partisan. You're petty. You can't be big."

"Who can't be big?" he said.

"You can't. You're a worm, that's what you are. You ain't got no vision. You make me sick. All I'm asking is a little brotherhood and mutual respect, and you just stand there beefing," I said.

"For two cents I'd poke you one," he said.

"You and who else? You better go some place and learn to be tolerant, ya big dummy," I said.

"I am as tolerant as any man in this country, you big fakir," he said, taking a swing at me.

"Everybody in America is anxious for unity but you, you fathead," I said, socking him one on the chin.

"You just don't understand the spirit of democracy. You don't know what unity means, you poor sap," he said, sending a left to my ear.

A policeman came running up and separated us.

"What's the trouble?" the cop asked.

"Unity," I said.

The cop looked at us with disgust and impatience and walked away.

"Hell!" he said. "Everywhere I go I run into fights over THAT!"

THE LIGHTER VEIN AT TRAINING CAMPS

We're camping tonight on the old campground.

Camping tonight, my lady.

Tenting tonight, tenting tonight.

Tenting on the old campground; There'll be fancy balls tonight, Bridge and movies lily-white—Tenting on the old campground.

We are camping tonight on the old campground.

Hostesses here to cheer us; Tenting tonight, tenting tonight, We're tenting on the old campground.

Cheerful seem our training tests, For our folks are week-end guests—Tenting on the old campground.

—Old Song Revisited.

The draft army is to have no catch-as-catch-can entertainment this time. Recreation, diversion and good, clean fun are announced as a definite part of the army training plan, with hundreds of hostesses and junior hostesses bustling about the camps to see about getting up a dance, a bingo party, a bridge carnival or what have you.

The calls of "Squads right!" and "Attention!" will be mingled with "May I have this dance?" and "Aw, let's play some more!"

Uncle Sam's policy this time will be based on the theory that an army camp should in no way resemble a concentration camp, and that the more amusement the boys have the better.

The hostesses may be no younger than 30 and no older than 50, but their junior assistants may get under the wire as young as 25, which assures a reasonable amount of glamour and compeh.

FORAGE NEEDS HEALTHY SOIL

Pastures on Poor Land Lack Nourishment.

By PROF. W. A. ALBRECHT
(Soils Department, University of Missouri.)

Sick soils will not produce healthy plants. Sick plants will not nourish healthy live stock. Mal-nourished live stock will not yield the farmer a profitable income. So what shall it profit us, then, if our frantic search for a foolproof grass to grow on abused soil is successful?

We have become conservation conscious in recent years. We have come to recognize the threat to civilization from soil erosion. In many cases we have embraced the obvious solution—protective covering to heal the scars of wind and water, to hold the remaining surface and fertility.

But suppose we do succeed in getting the sick land back to grass? Suppose we do find plants that will exist? They will hold the surface, which is desirable, but will they restore the land to useful production?

Only if they are reinforced by vitally necessary nitrogen, phosphorus and potash can they assist in repairing the damage that has resulted from years of mining the soil of its fertility.

An increasing number of cases of animal malnutrition, animal irregularities and animal disease have been traced to soils that have lost their fertility. Chemical studies have been made of the soil and of vegetation it produced that alling animals consumed. When these chemical studies are related to animal case histories, they show that the trouble lies in the absence from the soil of plant nutrients essential for the plants and required in larger amounts by the animals.

Mining our soils of their fertility is bringing us face to face with the simple fact that plant factories are not running as efficiently for feed production as they once were.

We should try to balance the plant diet for better results in the plant factory, just as we try to balance the animal ration for better output by the meat or milk factory.

Plant rations are much simpler than animal rations. Lime and phosphorus treatment to soil are usually the first requisites in the light of plant and animal needs, because calcium is about eight times as plentiful in plant ash and 40 times so in the animal body as in the soil. For phosphorus the corresponding figures are roughly 140 to 400, according to the United States department of agriculture.

Remedying the plant ration by lime and phosphorus additions mainly to the soil will relieve us of remedying the animal ration in many cases, and will be much more simple than tinkering with animal physiology, which is infinitely complex.

A simple soil treatment, like liming, can do much for the animal's sake in terms of higher content of minerals and protein in the forage part of the ration. Lime applied to lespedeza has demonstrated its effect in many places. In one case it increased the lime content almost one-fifth. It was instrumental in helping the plant to rustle enough phosphorus out of the soil to increase the concentration of this nutrient by one-fifth. It enabled the plant factory to pack more than one-fourth more protein into each pound of hay, to say nothing of the yield increase per acre in all these items.

Set of Shelves From Spools and Can Lids

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THE other day I went to a Hobby Show and there, hanging on the wall with a blue ribbon pinned on it, were the spool shelves from SEWING Book 3! Of course, I searched out the proud girl who had made them, and she told me that she had also made the end table of spools that is in Book 5. I felt most as proud as she did. All her friends are saving spools for her and her urgent need at the moment was, "something to make for Mother for Christmas."

Here is my suggestion. An adorable set of three corner shelves made of a lid from a tin candy box, one from a cracker can and a coffee can put together with wire, spools and two beads. These shelves were painted cherry red and hung up with a brass hook to hold salt and pepper shakers, vinegar-cruet, and other things for making salads. Any homemaker will think of a dozen places where this handy set of shelves could be used. All the directions are here in this sketch.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's like wonder powder, constipation. You don't eat out enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy, fibered cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Eat All-Bran regularly and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg's Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Considering these facts, it seems strange indeed that until now no attempt has been made to bring together into one volume a general selection of the first-hand narratives of what Mr. Peattie calls "this shrewd and eager observer of all conditions and aspects of American men, manners and scenes." This has been due partly to the fact that Audubon's writings have been scattered through a wide assortment of volumes, many of which are to be found only in the larger DETROIT.—Hurry-up Yost is still wearing the same old Will Rogers grin. The man, who came to Ann Arbor as head coach with Willie Heston 40 years ago, today as athletic director looks at Tom Harmon, one of the greatest running backs of all time.

Forty-years ago Wolverine supporters, chanting "The Yellow and the Blue," looked upon Willie Heston as the nonpareil. Today the sport-loving city of Detroit can't believe that Heston was another Harmon.

As long as both belong to Michigan football history, Yost merely grins. "What about an all-time Michigan backfield," he asks, "with Benny Friedman at quarter, Heston and Harmon at the halves and Johnny Garrrels at full? What other all-time college backfield could ever equal that bunch? Name one."

The closest we could think of included Thorpe, Calao, Guyon, and Hudson or Mt. Pleasant at Carlsbad, or Glipp, Savoldi, Eichenlaub and Carideo or Dorals of Notre Dame, not overlooking Marty Brill.

The Michigan collection still leads.

The Harmon Case

When you get right down to the facts in the case, Tommy Harmon of Michigan has already proved his place in the football roundup.

In the 21 or more games of his career he has been a star at almost every start. They have checked him and there as Bob Zuppke did a year ago. But don't forget that even the brilliant Red Grange knew games where he failed to pick up two first downs. I saw one against Nebraska.

Football has known too many great backs to offer you any complete list—it had known some even before the days of Snake Ames at Princeton, one of the best, around 1889.

Heston, Eckersall, Thorpe, Coy, Mahan, Tryon, Glipp, Nevers, Grange, Nagurski, Joesting, Stevens, Dutch Clarke, Whitzer White and a long list of others have led the parade at one time or another. Don't believe for a second that all had nothing but big days. They have all known dark days on one or more occasions.

Grange Stopped

I still recall the day when I traveled with "Our Town" Frank Craven, the football loving actor, to Urbana to see Red Grange run against Nebraska which had a tackle by the name of Weir—a 220-pound hurdler. That day we failed to see the famous Redhead cross the scrimmage line.

Frank Reagan made over 300 yards against Princeton—but only six yards at ball carrying against Michigan.

Fritz Pollard at Brown was a star back, but Colgate stopped him colder than two dead mackerel.

No one can keep running forever. There were few backs the equals of Eddie Mahan, the Harvard Scotch but Cornell arrested his march at the line of scrimmage one afternoon.

There is a big argument now under way from Berkeley to Cambridge, meaning the Pacific and the Atlantic, as to where Harmon belongs in the galaxy of stars. Many of them will tell you Evashevski made him. Harmon will say so.

Self-Made Back

Evashevski is one of the best blocking backs of this generation. A grand football player. But he didn't make Tommy Harmon.

Harmon made Harmon. When Evashevski went out in the Penn game and his substitute entered, Harmon picked up even more ground.

Great backs make themselves—not their blockers, who can certainly help. But the main job is still up to the outstanding ball carrier, given any sort of a chance to get in motion.

The point is that Harmon has been a star since his first game—a star from his first game in 1925 to his last charge against Pennsylvania.

When he ran wild against California, starting his last college season, scoring 28 points, they all said the Golden Bear was only a fuzzy kitten. But the Golden Bear came back to beat St. Mary's, the team that beat Fordham, and to hold Washington to a 7-6 decision after Washington had played Minnesota practically to a standstill. So California must have had a few good football players on the field.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By ROBERT McSHANE
Released by Western Newspaper Union

BIG league baseball writers recently confirmed a fact long recognized around Detroit that Hank Greenberg was the player who put the Tigers out in front in 1940.

Greenberg, who risked his career last spring by shifting from first base to left field for the good of the Tigers, was named the most valuable player in the American league for the second time by a committee of 24 baseball writers, three from each of the eight cities in the circuit.

The Tigers' big slugger drove in 160 runs during the past season, hammering out 41 home runs. He led the junior league in both those departments. He batted .340, the highest mark of his career.

No one would have predicted last winter that Greenberg would be crowned the most valuable player in his league at the close of 1940. For seven years prior to the past season Hank had handled transactions at first base. Last spring he was switched to the outfield so that the valuable bat of Rudy York, as well as his own, could be kept in the lineup.

The Big Switch

Things were far from bright for the tall, lanky Bronx boy when the Tigers' front office called him to Detroit for a chat. It was then that the Detroit officials offered Greenberg his choice of taking a sizable salary slash or shifting from first base to the outfield in order to make a place for York, the misfit.

York hadn't proved satisfactory as an outfielder, a third baseman or a catcher and it was either one of two things—trade him or play him at first. The decision was up to Greenberg and it wasn't a particularly tough one to make. In the first place, no man relishes a salary slash. Then, too, Greenberg knew that York's bat would give Detroit needed power and that to trade him would be unthinkable. Hank went to the outfield.

Even though operating in strange territory and in the face of predictions that he would prove a flop, Hank not only kept up his share of the defense, but assisted materially in the Tigers' pennant success with a large variety of plain and fancy hitting. As soon as the switch was made Hank put everything he had in learning how to play his new position. No man in the Florida training camps worked harder than Greenberg.

Feller's Chance

It is not unlikely that the loyalty and co-operation Hank exhibited in making the transfer was, to some degree, responsible for his being named the league's most valuable player. The belief is strengthened when one remembers that Bob Feller, who won 27 games for the Cleveland Indians, was second in line. Greenberg received 292 points, Feller received 222.

Ordinarily, a pitcher with 27 victories would have more than a fair chance of winning the award. The fact that Feller took part in the June rebellion against Manager Oscar Vitt didn't help his cause when the 24 baseball writers cast their ballots. It is not at all impossible that Feller's lack of sympathy with managerial authority swayed the ballots of some of the writers against him.

Feller has been stoutly defended by Cleveland writers as a "misunderstood" young man. Probably that is true. We are inclined to agree that his part in the revolution has been exaggerated. But it is equally true that the public's sympathies were with Vitt, and that a stigma attached itself to those players who were insurrectionists. Through his own acts Feller was included in that classification.

If the choice between Greenberg and Feller was so close that it depended on a question of team spirit, the Detroit slugger certainly would get the vote of most observers.

Sport Shorts

Joe Louis' political campaigning for Wendell Willkie reduced his weight from 210 to 200 pounds.

Ben Hogan, Texas pro who plays out of White Plains, N. Y., has finished in the money in each of the 23 golf tournaments in which he competed this year.

Although Cornell is losing 20 of its first 22 men by graduation this year, Coach Carl Beavely says that he expects to have another strong eleven next year.

AN EXACTING DISCIPLESHIP

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:42-48
GOLDEN TEXT—No man having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.—Luke 9:62

Weak-kneed, watered-out, and "sickly" religious philosophies and activities have no right to call themselves Christian. Following Christ is not just a sweet sentimental impulse expressed in smooth words and formal religious exercises. It is a vital, virile, sacrificial faith which leads the true follower of Christ to be willing not only to die for Him, but also to live for Him in the face of opposition, hatred, yes, "through peril, toll and pain."

Let us put away these insipid imitations of Christianity which so often masquerade under its name and face our time with a call to discipleship which demands every fine, noble, manly and womanly quality. The lesson for today reveals that following Jesus (and please remember you are not ready to live for Him until you have been born again) calls for

I. Co-operation (vv. 49, 50).
The placing of the little child in their midst (vv. 46-48) and Jesus' words concerning true greatness revealed to John that he had been wrong in condemning the one who was working for Christ but who was not of their party. The true disciple recognizes that the man who truly loves and serves Christ is to be accepted in His name. We may not like his appearance, or his language, or his methods, or his friends, but we ought to love him and co-operate with him. Let us begin to practice that as well as to say we believe it.

II. Humility (vv. 51-53).
Gross discourtesy, evidently inspired by national hatred (the Jews and Samaritans had no dealings with each other), was shown toward the Lord Himself. His reaction gives us an example of humility, for He said not a word against them. The true follower of Jesus should expect such treatment from a hostile, devil-inspired world and emulate his master by showing love and

III. Patience (vv. 54-56).
The disciples wanted to show their power and authority by bringing the fires of destruction upon the enemies of Christ. That spirit has persisted in the church, the desire to call the fires of heaven (and possibly of hell) to destroy those who hinder or oppose us. Such is not the spirit of our God and His Christ, for He is "long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance."

IV. Sacrifice (vv. 57, 58).
The writer dislikes to use the word "sacrifice" in connection with our life and service for Christ, for in reality we sacrifice nothing which is not more than replaced (read Matt. 19:29). But at the same time it is true that God does call upon us as Christians to hold nothing dearer than our devotion to Him.

Following Christ is more than singing glibly or carelessly, "I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord." The one who starts out with Him is to count the cost (Luke 14: 28-33). He must expect the same treatment as Christ (II Tim. 3:12) and be willing to take it gladly (John 15:20; I Pet. 2:21). We ought to make this plain to professed believers. Tell young people the truth and you will see that they are ready to give themselves sacrificially for causes of this earth—why not for Christ?

V. Devotion (vv. 59-62).
It has been said that Christ is either Lord of all or He is not Lord at all. Even the demands which love may present on behalf of our aged father must not be permitted to stand between the Lord and His disciple.

Christianity is considerate and courteous, and our Lord is not here suggesting any neglect of the duties or amenities of life. The point is rather that the Lord must have first place whatever else may call for second thought.

The blight on the life and service of most Christians is that almost anything and everything else is allowed to take first place and the Lord must be satisfied with second or third place. Sometimes one wonders if He is given any real place at all in some lives.

No one who puts his hand to the plough in God's Kingdom and then wants to defer following through until a more convenient season, or who wants to go back to "old farwell" to someone who for the moment is more important than the Lord, is fit for His service. The way of joy and usefulness is the way of full and unconditional yielding to Him.

In Spite of Imperfections
He brought me forth also into a large place; he delivered me, because he delighted in me.—II Sam. 22:20

The Main Issue
Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life.—Proverbs 4:23

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ELLEN DREW wasn't much good as a waitress when she worked at Brown's confectionery, in Hollywood, but she's worth her weight in gold to the place now as an advertisement for it.

For instance, practically everyone who comes in wants a Cinderella special; a note on the menu announces that it's named for her.

If you sit in Booth F you'll see a sign saying "At this booth, a customer offered Ellen Drew the screen test that has taken her to stardom." She's been working in a dime store in Englewood, Ill., when she won a beauty contest conducted by the American Legion and went to Hollywood. She expected a film contract to follow, but it didn't. In two months she learned not to expect ever to get one.

But she made the test, and a contract followed. She is starred in three Paramount pictures awaiting release—"D. O. A.," "A Date With Destiny," and "Texas Rangers Ride Again," and also in "Christmas in July," now being shown.

Charles Grapewin, who was "Grandpa Joad" in the screen version of "The Grapes of Wrath," has been named to play "Jester Lester" in 28th Century-Fox's production of "Tobacco Road." Henry Ford will direct, and Nunnally Johnson, who did the script for "The Grapes of Wrath," will have the task of fixing up "Tobacco Road" so that it will pass the censors.

Joan Crawford, looking very stunning indeed, went to the National Horse show, in New York, on the first night, and easily outshone most of the ladies of the city's Four Hundred. She presented the cup for one of the special events. It's doubtful whether she saw much of the show, because there was always such a mob of autograph seekers around her that she was kept busy signing programs and odd bits of paper.

Bette Davis has shown once again that she's not afraid of competition; she's glad to have Mary Astor play the second feminine lead in "Far Horizon," though she says herself that the role is equal in importance to her own. Incidentally, Warner Brothers have taken up an option on a long-term contract for Miss Astor.

Keep your eye on Phillip Dorn, a young actor from Holland who plays "Dr. Ditten" in "Escape." His next appearance will be as Hedy Lamarr's husband in "Ziegfeld Girl."

The latest word is that Charlie Chaplin's next picture will be a musical of the London music halls in the nineties, the place and time where he himself got his start toward fame and fortune. It will be in "technicolor," and he will return to the character which made him famous.

Radio has one married couple with a record for anyone to shoot at. They're the "Uncle Ezra" and "Cecilia" of the air—Mr. and Mrs. Pat Barrett in private life—and they met when she was Nora Cuneen, touring the West with a musical comedy. One night the company's comedian didn't show up, and Pat Barrett stepped into the role, and into her life as well.

They've always worked as a team; before making their radio debut, 10 years ago, they toured in vaudeville. Even then they were doing character parts similar to their roles on the "Uncle Ezra" program.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . James Stewart is qualifying fast for the aviation service; he now has almost enough hours in the air to qualify for a transport license, entitling him to a commission in the air corps. . . The Bing Crosby program is to have more music and less conversation from now on, the conversation being what made it unique. . . George Carroll, considered one of America's most beautiful models, will be one of the glorified show girls in Warner's "Ziegfeld Girl." . . Jean Bennett withdrew from "Topper Returns" because she didn't want to compete with the role of a disappearing show, played by Carol Lombard.

KNOW YOUR BANK
What Is Done With The Money You Deposit?

In addition to providing a safe place for you to keep your money, a bank performs one of its important functions by putting these funds into constructive use. Here is what happens to a deposit: First, a sufficient amount of cash is kept in the bank's vaults to meet all reasonable withdrawal requirements. Second, the bank is required by law to maintain legal reserves with the Federal Reserve bank or with other approved depository banks. Finally, the amount of the deposit remaining is then available to borrowers and is converted into constructive use through loans for proper purposes and through sound investments.

HIDDEN WAYS

Here's a new detective team—young, quick-thinking David Mallory, a newspaperman, and Miss Agatha Paget, an elderly cripple who insists on sipping an occasional cocktail and who takes delight in debunking the "glorious" history of her blue-blooded family. Together they form an unbeatable pair of sleuths—better than the whole New York police department, and good enough to solve the baffling mystery surrounding the murder of a black-bearded stranger in a swanky New York apartment house. You'll see "Hidden Ways" in Frederic Van de Water's best yarn!

B. Harwell and Sewall Harwell, of Fort Sumner, De Baca County, New Mexico, (hereinafter known as the Lessees),

WITNESSETH

That, for and in consideration of the payment of the rental and the performance of all the covenants and agreements hereinafter contained by the Lessees, said Lessor hereby leases, demises and lets unto the said Lessees, for the term of twenty-five years, to-wit, from the 21st day of December, 1940, to the 21st day of December, 1965, the Carrizozo Municipal Gas System, together with all of its appurtenances, fixtures and equipment of every kind and description, including the storage tanks, mains, service pipes, meters, connections, valves and all other equipment, supplies, and property, now owned by the said Lessor, necessary for the convenient and proper operation of the said Municipal Gas System, together with lots 11, 12, 13 and 14, Block 1, McDonald Addition to the Town of Carrizozo, New Mexico, and together with the right to operate, use and maintain the said gas mains, pipes, connections, conduits, meters, etc., together with all necessary or desirable attachments, connections, fixtures and appurtenances now existing, and to lay and construct, equip, use or operate and maintain such additional gas mains, pipes, connections, conduits, and meters as may be necessary or desirable, in the discretion of the Lessees, across and through the streets, avenues, alleys, roads, highways and other public places and grounds of and within the Village of Carrizozo, as now or hereafter laid out, for the purpose of storing, conveying and transporting into, and through said Village, for distribution and sale for light, heat, power, and any and all other purposes, to persons and corporations inside, beyond and outside of the limits of said Village, provided that should the village limits of Carrizozo be extended into new areas, Lessees shall have the same rights herein granted in such new areas, all upon the following terms and conditions:

1. That the Lessees shall operate and maintain said gas system, and any extensions thereof, for the full term of twenty-five years, and provide and sell gas to the residents of the Village of Carrizozo, in conformity with all regulations and requirements of this lease and there shall be no discrimination by the Lessees, or their successors in interest, as to the use of said property and/or the facilities afforded by said gas system, by any person, regardless of race, color or creed.

2. That, as rental for the said gas system, with the appurtenances, fixtures, and equipment, and the rights and privileges granted herein, the said Lessees shall pay all outstanding bonded indebtedness of said municipal gas system, being the present outstanding issue of Carrizozo Municipal Gas System bonds, represented to be in the principal sum of $14,500.00, and the interest coupons thereto attached, as of the date of this contract, as and when the same shall become due and payable, and in the manner and at the times as hereinafter provided, to-wit:

a. It is hereby stipulated and agreed that the moneys on hand in the Municipal Gas System Fund representing uncollected and unobligated bond proceeds, and accretions thereto, resulting from the operation of said gas system, as of the date of this lease, shall be credited to the Lessees and applied on the payment of the interest installment to become due and payable on said bonds on the 15th day of January, 1941, and on the bonds to become due and payable on the 15th day of July, 1941, and that the Lessees shall pay monthly, commencing with the date of this lease, to the Lessor's treasurer, such sum as, with the credits aforesaid, may be required to assure a fund on hand sufficient to meet the interest requirements on the said 15th day of January, 1941, and the bond and interest requirements on the said 15th day of July, 1941.

b. That thereafter, to-wit, from and after the said 15th day of July, 1941, the said Lessees shall pay monthly to the Treasurer of the said Village of Carrizozo a sum equivalent to one-twelfth of the annual requirements for the respective year for principal and interest on the said outstanding revenue bonds of the Village of Carrizozo Gas System, until the same, both principal and interest, shall have been fully paid.

3. That for the first five years from and after the date of the said proposed lease, the Lessees shall furnish and sell gas through the said system to the inhabitants of the Village of Carrizozo, applying therefor and complying with the provisions of this lease and the municipal ordinances in effect, in accordance with the following schedule:

1st 1,500 cu. ft. $1.50 minimum
2nd 1,500 cu. ft. .70 per thousand
Next 7,000 cu. ft. .35 per thousand
Next 10,000 cu. ft. .50 per thousand
Next 20,000 cu. ft. .55 per thousand
All in excess of 40,000 cu. ft. .50 per thousand

Provided, however, that under special conditions of use and for quantities in excess of 40,000 cubic feet per month, the Lessees may, with the consent of the Lessor, establish rates in particular cases lower than, but not in excess of, 25¢ per thousand, provided no discrimination shall be made between consumers using gas in like quantities and under like conditions.

All of the above rates shall be subject to revision after five years from the date of this lease, and at the end of each three year period thereafter, upon the mutual agreement of the Lessor and Lessees; provided, however, that in event the Lessor and Lessees cannot agree upon a proposed revision thereof, then and in that event, either the Lessor or Lessees may submit said question to the then presiding Judge of the District Court in and for said County of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, whose decision shall be accepted by both the Lessor and Lessees as final and without the right of appeal.

4. This lease may be terminated by the Lessees upon the giving of ninety days' notice in writing to the Lessor providing the Lessees shall pay all sums as rental due to the date of the termination and all current accounts payable, without claim or right of damages to the Lessor against the Lessees.

5. The Lessees agree to protect and save harmless the Village of Carrizozo and its officers, or their successors, from any liability or damage, in connection with the operation and maintenance of said gas system and Lessees agree to forthwith obtain and keep in force during the leasehold period adequate public liability and property damage insurance, running in favor of and protecting the said Lessees, the Village of Carrizozo, and the members of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Carrizozo.

6. That upon the termination of this lease by expiration of the primary term, by cancellation, forfeiture, or otherwise, all rights of the Lessees herein shall cease and determine and the Village of Carrizozo shall be entitled to full possession, ownership and control thereof, together with all extensions, and additions thereto, and in as good a state of repair as the system now is, ordinary wear and tear, acts of God and causes over which Lessees have no control, excepted.

7. The location of all additional mains, pipes and laterals by the Lessees, and the depth thereof, shall be reported to the Mayor of the Village of Carrizozo, or the duly authorized representative thereof, and proper maps and plats showing all mains, pipes and laterals shall be furnished to the Village of Carrizozo by the Lessees. Such gas mains, pipes, conduits, connections and feeders shall be laid at a minimum depth of eighteen inches, unless the existence of other pipe lines, such as sewer, water, etc., may require them to be laid at a greater or lesser depth. In the opening and refilling of all openings by the Lessees, it shall relay the pavement and do all other work necessary to complete restoration of the streets, sidewalks or ground to a condition equally as good as when disturbed; and when the Lessees shall open any ground in the Village for the purpose of laying any gas pipes, or for any other purpose whatsoever, the Lessees shall open no more space at any one time or at one place, nor keep the same open any longer than is necessary to properly execute the work for which the same shall be opened; and shall do all such work in such manner as to interfere with travel as little as possible; and it is specifically required that, in all cases where work requires the exercise of skill, as in the laying or relaying of pavement, curbs or sidewalks, the Lessees shall employ skilled workmen familiar with the execution of such work. In all cases of construction work upon the streets, avenues, alleys, public places and parks within the Village of Carrizozo, Lessees shall give the Village at least two days' notice of such construction work prior to the commencement thereof. Whenever deemed necessary by the proper authorities, the Village shall have the right to designate its engineer or other persons to superintendent and supervise the refilling and repairing of highways, streets, avenues, roads, alleys and other public places and grounds; and the relaying and refilling of sidewalks, curbs and pavement or other ground so disturbed for the laying of said pipe lines, shall be at the expense of the Lessees, but, nevertheless, the same shall be done to the satisfaction of said Village, its engineer, or engineers, designated by it; and if the Lessees fail to restore the streets to the condition they were in before being disturbed, in accordance with this section, the Village may give fifteen days' notice and if the streets are not placed in such condition, or diligent efforts are not being made by the Lessees to place the same in such condition before the expiration of fifteen days then the Village may, at its election, restore said streets, sidewalks, pavements, curbs, avenues, roads, alleys and other grounds and public places to their former condition; and the Lessees shall pay the reasonable cost thereof to the Village, upon presentation of bill therefor. That where practicable all pipes necessary to be laid in the Village of Carrizozo shall be placed along the curbs or in the alleys.

8. This lease shall not be assigned, nor shall the properties hereby leased to the Lessees, or constructed or purchased by them as an extension, improvement or appurtenance thereto, or their right to operate under this lease, be assigned, or transferred, without the written consent of the Lessor; provided, however, that such consent shall be promptly given by the Lessor, upon request of the Lessees, unless there shall be some substantial and cogent reason why such consent should be refused, and in event such consent be refused after request made by Lessees, or the Lessor shall fail to act thereon within a reasonable time, the Lessees are hereby given the right to submit the question to the then presiding Judge of the District Court in and for the County of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, and both the Lessor and the Lessees hereby agree to accept and be bound by the decision of said presiding Judge, without right of appeal.

9. The Lessees shall at their own expense and without further or other order provide, erect and maintain at all times during the progress of construction work, suitable barricades, fences, signs or other adequate protection and shall provide, keep and maintain such red lights, danger signals and watchmen as may be necessary for the proper protection of the public.

10. The Lessees agree that the gas when delivered hereunder shall be at all times at a standard of not less than 530 British Thermal heat units per cubic foot tested at 7 ounces above atmospheric pressure at Carrizozo, New Mexico, and to determine whether the gas supplied is of the heating value above specified, the Village of Carrizozo may have tests made by a competent analyst under recognized and scientific processes, according to the approved method of making the same. Such tests shall be of samples of gas collected from the gas mains at any point or points in the Village. If the average result of such tests during any one month show that the heat value of the gas supply was below 530 British Thermal heat units per cubic foot, then said Lessees shall immediately take such steps as may be necessary to bring said heat value up to and maintain it at said required standard.

11. The Lessees guarantee to keep at all times a continuous and uniform pressure in the service pipes within the Village of Carrizozo of not less than four ounces, nor more than ten ounces, with a pressure variation of not to exceed four ounces in any one day. The Lessees further agree that they will at all times keep and maintain a sufficient pressure in their mains at the Village gates of the Village of Carrizozo to amply protect the consumers within said village against any danger of a deficiency in gas pressure in the service pipes of said Lessees being caused by sudden or unusual increases in the consumption of gas within said village. Provided that in the event such pressure shall ever drop below four ounces the Village may demand that Lessees maintain thereafter at all times an increased pressure at the village gate in such an amount as to insure against a repetition of such deficient pressure and such demand shall be immediately and continuously complied with by Lessees. Provided, further, that in the event it be necessary for Lessees to install intermediate lines within the Village of Carrizozo in order to maintain the pressure herein provided for, the pressure in said intermediate lines shall not exceed thirty pounds.

12. The Lessees agree to keep proper books of account and records, covering their operations under this lease, and to allow the Lessor, its proper representatives and agents, and the owners and holders of the said bonds, or any of them, to inspect such books of account and records at all reasonable times, and further to submit to the Treasurer of the Lessor, quarterly during each calendar year, if so requested, a full financial report of their operations under this lease, to include a statement of receipts, disbursements, bills and notes receivable and bills and notes payable, and other pertinent financial information, and, if requested, to also furnish a consolidated financial statement within thirty days after the close of each calendar year, showing, among other pertinent financial information, the net return to said Lessees from their operations of the said gas system hereunder.

13. All gas furnished or supplied by the Lessees shall be metered, and for that purpose the Lessees shall, at their own proper cost and expense, provide and install for each consumer a good and accurate meter of standard make, which said meter shall at all times be maintained to the accepted standard of accuracy; provided, however, that Lessees may use such of the meters as are now on hand and belonging to the Lessor and be required to provide only such additional meters as may be necessary in order to comply with the requirements of this paragraph.

14. The Lessees shall have the right to require from each consumer a reasonable deposit to guarantee payment of gas bills, which deposit shall be refunded to the consumer when service is discontinued. Provided, however, that any amount due Lessees upon unpaid bills of such consumer may be deducted prior to such refund.

15. The Lessor reserves the right to adopt from time to time in addition to the provisions herein contained, such ordinances as may be deemed necessary in the exercise of its police power, or otherwise; provided, that such regulations shall be reasonable and not destructive of nor inconsistent with the rights herein granted and not in conflict with the Constitution or Laws of the State of New Mexico.

16. That upon written request of the Board of Trustees, or any consumer, the Lessees will extend their lines at their own expense, a distance of not to exceed one hundred and fifty feet in order to serve any one consumer; that in the event an extension of more than one hundred and fifty feet is necessary in order to properly serve any one consumer, the Lessees herein shall extend such line, provided such consumer shall pay the actual cost thereof to the Lessees over and above said first one hundred and fifty feet; and provided further that said cost, over and above said first one hundred and fifty feet, shall be refunded to said consumer by the Lessees, as additional consumers are connected with said extension, and pay the Lessees their proportionate part of the cost of such extensions as herein provided.

17. That in case of a shortage of gas supply due to any cause, and Lessees are for said reason unable to furnish gas for all purposes, preference shall be given domestic consumers, schools and hospitals in the use of gas until such time as the gas supply shall prove adequate for all purposes.

18. This lease is conditioned upon the faithful performance of and compliance with all of the terms and conditions hereof, and any failure on the part of the Lessees to so perform or comply with, or any violation thereof, if not remedied within a reasonable time and, at all events, within thirty days from and after receipt of written notice thereof by the Lessees from the Mayor or Board of Trustees of Lessor, shall, at the option of Lessor, operate as a forfeiture hereof, and in the event it shall be necessary to bring an action in a court of competent jurisdiction to enforce such forfeiture, then and in that event, and provided such action shall result in favor of the Lessor, the Lessees shall pay all proper costs of suit, including a reasonable attorney fee to be fixed by the Court.

19. This lease and each and every of the terms and conditions thereof, with all of which the parties hereto agree to comply, shall extend to and be binding upon the successors, executors, administrators and assigns of the parties hereto.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF we have caused this notice to be dated and given this November 6, 1940, and ordered published in the Carrizozo Outlook of Carrizozo, New Mexico, on November 8th, 15th, 22nd and 29th, 1940.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Air and Naval Raiders Harass British As Greeks Hold Off Italian Invasion; Hitler-Molotov Talks Yield Little News; Dies Asks Funds for 'Sabotage' Probe

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

GRECO-ROMAN:

Round One to Greece

There seems little doubt any longer that the Greek victory over Italian forces has been as nearly complete as any action could be so early in a war. Fascist forces were reported fleeing from Koritza, setting fire to their supplies in this, the main base of the central attack. Italian stories that only 362 men were killed in the campaign hardly give with eye-witness reports by reputable correspondents of two things—huge piles of bodies in the mud of the Pindus mountain passes—huge concentration camps filled with Italian prisoners of war who are being widely quoted. Their reports of Italian attitude toward the war so encouraged England with the opportunity of dealing a crashing blow to Fascist morale that she sent big bomber squadrons to Taranto and smashed a goodly part of Italy's fleet. Italy denied much damage except to one ship, so British sent over observation planes, took pictures, and reported the details. Two capital ships apparently permanently put out of action, four other smaller ones.

DICTATOR METAXAS Tough going for Italy.

Stories of the Greek successes over the Italian forces further were borne out by the tone of Italian broadcasts and dispatches, telling of "reorganization" of the Italian drive; appointment of a new commander; also the Greek reports of attacks inside Albanian territory. Credit for the Greek victory was given to several factors: Greek knowledge of the terrain; enterprise of guerrilla bands; skill with the bayonet, and surprise machine-gun and artillery attacks on enemy columns in difficult mountain passes, plus sudden onslaughts of bad weather; also Premier John Metaxas has been watching follow-dictator Mussolini for some time.

Add to this stories from prisoners that they had no heart for the war and had been promised a relatively bloodless invasion, and one got a pretty good picture of the opening of the Greco-Roman war.

There were no surface signs that Italy was quitting, however, but might be steaming ahead for a more determined effort.

BRITAIN:

Feels Heavy Blows

The war has become more bitter for England, with Germany heavily increasing aerial attacks on cities, raining bombs on London and industrial centers like Coventry.

British, ever frank in admitting losses, reported Coventry in ruins, thousands slain and wounded. London damage was said to be terrific.

Losses at sea are staggering, and a raider on the loose in mid-Atlantic smashed into at least one large convoy. Germans first announced entire convoy sunk, along with Rangitiki, armored merchantman, and Jervis Bay, an auxiliary cruiser, which were protecting other ships.

Apparently this claim was made when numbers of SOS signals were heard and then news of convoy suddenly ceased. But British finally came through with the news that of 39 ships, 9 were missing, and later two of them showed up.

Naval hero was the commander of the Jervis Bay which boldly steamed to meet her stronger enemy, forcing raider's fire on herself, and permitting convoy to scatter.

Scandinavian skipper in convoy was so stirred by such bravery that he refused to flee to any great distance, returned to scene hours later.

Foreign Jottings . . .

Four Nazi vessels, heavily loaded, sailed from Tampico, Mexico, for European ports. Only one was heard from. She was the Phrygia, which "committed suicide" by scuttling rather than surrender to British and Canadian war vessels. She was barely outside Tampico when she sank. The other three were said to have headed back and to be lurking outside the harbor bars.

er, and had pleasure of picking up 65 survivors, many wounded. Jervis Bay went to the bottom of the ocean with her gallant commander, who had one arm shot away during the engagement.

Over England, German bombers are using a new technique, making more difficult still the task of anti-aircraft fire and the work of fighters. They fly over the country in waves, traveling single file, which Indians discovered centuries ago was a good defensive formation.

First raider drops its bombs, and succeeding ships get a view of scene below in the glare of the first explosions and see better when and where to let go. Flying is done at 30,000 to 35,000 feet.

In many cases, however, British report bombing is done on "time tables" when there are cloud formations, the bombers flying certain mathematical distances from flying fields and then letting their cargoes go without any aim whatever.

That Britain is generally feeling the pinch was seen by reports of further restrictions in rationing. However, nothing as drastic was reported as the apparently authentic dispatch from Berlin that dog meat was made legal human fodder.

DIPLOMATS:

Home and Abroad

Diplomats, both domestic and foreign, came into their own as far as the spotlight was concerned.

In Berlin they buzzed about the capital like flies; Molotov, (for whom bombs have been named) arriving with 33 guards and associates; lesser lights from Italy and the Balkans hovering about the outskirts of the main Hitler-Molotov talks, with even a sprinkling of Japanese lurking about where they wouldn't have to rub elbows too closely with the "hated Russians."

It was another case of the mountain laboring and bringing forth a mouse—at least as far as the dispatches went, though there may be and probably is a lot under the surface.

Out of it all has come to the public eye only the broadest platitudinous pledges:

Germany (with her Italian axis partner somewhat in the background) promises various powers that, if they are good, they will get something.

Germany and Italy will rule Europe.

Russia will get expansion room anywhere she wants as long as it doesn't interfere with European situations. Diplomats took this to mean at least a part of India and also perhaps Iran and portions of Turkey if she misbehaves.

Japan will get the rest of Asia, at least the southeastern part, and Russia and Japan are urged to get together at once about the rest of it.

In this country two diplomatic names stood out: Kennedy and Bullitt. The former was surrounded by a halo of rumors that he would resign following his "talk out of turn" in Boston. While denying much that was in the Globe interview, he continued to preach along about the same general lines, omitting his references to the death of democracy and the advent of national socialism in the United States.

Bullitt was being as signally rumored as Kennedy's successor. All he would say was that he wanted to resign to "speak and write" about conditions, and that the President had asked him to remain in public life, and that he was considering the matter.

The British used 2,000-pound aerial torpedoes in sinking the vessels of the Italian fleet at Taranto, they reported. The planes fly low to the water, drop the torpedoes pointing at the ships. It's a dangerous job. Americans returning from occupied France report bribery, gasoline bootlegging and the existence of a "black bourse" for dealing in foreign exchange.

LABOR: Green 'Collecting'

JOHN L. LEWIS Mr. Green 'collects'

The American Federation of Labor quarrel with the C. I. O. was rapidly reaching its climactic stage with the President of the United States announcing that the achieving of a permanent labor peace as an aid to the defense program would be one of the first agenda of his administration's third term.

William Green, collecting the spotlight as a result of his championship of the Roosevelt candidacy, immediately responded that he was willing to make a peace sans Lewis.

John L. Lewis was given a roaring demonstration as the C. I. O. unionists gathered for their third annual convention in Atlantic City. At the opening of the meeting he told delegates he was "stepping down" as their leader and he urged a "new unity" for the organization. Lewis had declared he would resign if President Roosevelt were re-elected.

All commentators agreed, however, that labor peace would be a very good thing if as and when it could be achieved.

SABOTAGE:

And Mr. Dies

Three explosions shattered powder plants in one hour; a crane fell over in a shipyard; a bridge fell apart on the West coast; fire attacked other plants, and the cry of "sabotage" was raised in the land.

The G-men, private and public detectives and Dies committee investigators have been running around at full speed trying to make miniature Black Toms out of each of these, or trying just as hard to disprove that they had anything to do with foreign agencies.

Mr. Dies, however, asking a million dollars of government money for a full probing of the situation, said he was going to publish a "white paper" giving names, addresses and full details of all the foreign consular agents, Russian, Japanese, German and Italian who are engaged in subversive activities, and whom he blames by implication for the chain of occurrences of damage and disaster to industry.

He recalls other events, like the war department fire which nearly destroyed the U. S. code books, and promises that he'll follow the smoke and find the fire.

Friends of the Dies committee pointed to the logical character of his hypothesis, that the Axis powers and partners would be very glad if disaster should overtake U. S. defense preparations, seeing that Mr. Roosevelt has promised Britain a fifty-fifty share in the whole job.

WAR OF THE WEEK:

Siam vs. Indo-China

Vichy announced Siam (Thailand) had gone to war with Indo-China which brought to a new front a miniature war which nevertheless will bring a very real death and destruction to the populations of the countries involved.

The Siamese, a dark brown race of small stature, are of Japanese and totalitarian leanings. The Indo-Chinese, larger and yellower, are one of the orphans of the Battle of France.

The war is another diplomatic outgrowth of the movement of Japan in southeastern Asia, and brings just one step nearer to the Philippines the Tripartite Powers.

AMERICAN SCENE:

In Brief

① The United States has freed credits for Martinique, French possession in the Indies, and will allow the purchase of $50,000, mostly in foodstuffs. The move is the first in a series by the U. S. to create a better relationship — to insure against the Nazis getting hold of U. S.-built planes on the beach there.

② Signs of differences of opinion in high circles on national defense were noted. There was a continuance of the controversy over the Garand vs. the Johnson automatic rifle. Knudsen said he thought the auto industry might throw itself into plane manufacture with speed and efficiency. Some leading auto men joined plane makers in disagreeing with him sharply.

③ British moves to get extension of U. S. credit for war purchases were started in this country, with every evidence that the effort will meet with the approval of the administration.

④ The duke of Windsor, in first of 14 interviews with Adela Rogers St. John, purporting to tell the story of his abdication and his love for the duchess, blames President Wilson for the present war, saying that a ruler of a country cannot cooperate with foreign diplomats. Wilson, he said, should not have attended the making of the Versailles pact.

Hidden Ways

SYNOPSIS

David Mallory, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as a switch-board operator in a swank apartment house, managed by obnoxious Timothy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra. One day, talking with Higgins in the lobby, David is alarmed by a piercing scream. David finds the scream came from the Ferriter apartment, not far from the Pagets. The Ferriters include Lyon and Everett, and their sister, Ione. Everett, a geologist, is helping Agatha Paget write a book about her blue-blooded ancestors. Inside the apartment they find a black-bearded man—dead. No weapon can be found. The police arrive. Higgins, who actively dislikes David, informs him that he is fired. David is called to the Paget apartment. Agatha Paget offers him a job helping write her family history—which will unearth a few family skeletons. He accepts the offer. Meanwhile, police suspect Lyon Ferriter of the murder. Jerry Cochrane of the Press offers David a job helping solve the murder. David accepts. He is called to work for Miss Paget. Later David meets Grosvonor Paget, Allegra's brother. Then, that night, David sees Grosvonor prowling through the Ferriter apartment. David confronts Grosvonor with the story. He is told to mind his own business.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

Grosvonor watched me as I took my tankard. I thought he expected me to reach a foot for a brass rail or blow froth on the floor. Perhaps it was another doubt that bothered him. I forgot to wonder about it in admiration of Miss Agatha.

She plunged her patrician nose into the foam and, after a brief instant, set down the vessel empty with a contented sigh. She caught my eye.

"Beer," she said with authority, "is a mass beverage, David. Its virtue lies in volume. People who sip their beer also like afternoon tea or Wagner on a fiddle. No beer, Allegra?"

The girl sat close beside her brother. He peered into his tankard. One of her hands lay on his bowed shoulder.

"No," she said and smiled, "I'm too sleepy."

"Always," Miss Agatha told me, nodding toward her niece, "the soul of courtesy. How much of that material did you get through?"

"All of it," I said.

It pleased her.

"Excellent," she exclaimed, with a tiny click of her teeth. "Then tomorrow we can get to work, burning the scandal at both ends."

"Isn't it nice," the girl asked, and I thought her jauntiness was forced, "that after all the family skeletons, Mr. Mallory will drink with you, Agatha?"

"Bah!" said Miss Agatha and reached for the untouched tankard, "David!"

"Just," I said as she paused, "an elevator man coming up in the world."

The wrinkles came about her eyelids. She chuckled.

"That isn't what I was going to say. Since you are in New York and your people are in Nebraska, you may have more use for families as institutions than I have. Distance makes relations more endurable to one another. Of course the republic is founded on the American home."

"There she goes," Allegra said in a loud aside to her brother.

"The family is the foundation of the nation," the old lady went on, "and I wonder if that isn't the trouble with things. I believe—"

The peal of the doorbell cut her short. Grosvonor rose to answer it.

"Damn," said Miss Agatha. "If it's that man Shannon again—"

It was Lyon Ferriter. I admitted Miss Paget's balance.

"Well!" she said warmly, as though a wish had been answered. "Come in and revel. Groves, another tankard."

Lyon checked the lad and smiled. His eyes, moving easily from face to face, rested on mine an instant, and once more seemed puzzled.

"Thanks," he said and bowed to Miss Agatha. "I shouldn't have intruded but they said downstairs that you had just returned. I came, with Captain Shannon's permission, to get some things from my flat and I wanted to thank you—all of you—for your neighborliness. There's an odd word to use in New York, but I can think of no better. You were very good to my sister, Miss Paget," he added more softly. "I shan't forget it. You've kept your head better than any of us, during this—unpleasantness."

"My dear man," Miss Agatha said crisply, "when you've lived as long as I have, a mere murder can't terrify you. And Ione?"

"Better," Lyon replied in the tender tone that always accompanied his mention of her. "We're coming back tomorrow. The Babylon is hardly a refuge. Newspaper men have found out where we were hiding. A police man's life is not a happy one."

He stood in the doorway, a brown, worn and pleasant figure, and spread his hands.

I said to Miss Agatha: "It's time I went—of several hours' after time."

"It," she answered and her eyes were merry, "you can stir that—that decoration there"—she nodded toward Grosvonor—"to air interest in fencing or any exercise, stay longer."

As I turned toward the door, Lyon's examination looked me. "The tankard," he repeated. "Oh, by George,

I know you now. Your face has bothered me for days. I saw you in Chicago.

"If you did," I told him, "you saw me get trimmed."

"By D'Armsilliac," he said as if that excused anything. "You know," he told the others, "this lad really is good."

"Was good," I corrected. "That was two years ago." I was glad he fortified the hasty lie I had told to cover Grosvonor. Lyon ran on like a boy.

"I use the sword a little myself. Sometime, I'd like to show you my collection of blades. Some of them are rather good."

I almost told him I had seen them. Then I remembered the dead man who had lain before them, and didn't. I gave Miss Agatha my new address and left them talking as easily as though the last thirty-odd hours never had happened.

The events of the final sixty minutes had scrambled my mind. They had kicked over what theories I had built and now memory of Allegra, loyal and valiant and fearful, fought against the erection of new. I was half-way to the corner before I remembered my suitcase still in Higgins' basement flat. Here was something definite to do, an antidote to bewilderment. I faced about and went back to the Morello.

The light was out before the basement door and the hallway beyond was dark. I thought that Higgins might be asleep. That stopped me for a moment. Asleep or awake, I decided, there would be a squabble and I might as well face it now. I closed the door, felt for a match and, finding none, went along the black hall.

My fingers touched the white-washed stone, once, twice. They reached out a third time and recoiled. They had brushed rough cloth and underneath that was a body, pressed tight and still against the wall.

For a second, neither of us moved, or breathed. Then I lurched forward, arms spread wide. My hands grazed the harsh fabric but found no hold. Something tripped me. I went down. A foot stamped on my knuckles, but its owner fell too, with a thud and a gasp and a flat chime of metal on stone. I leaped up to stumble once more over the thing that first had tripped me. I fell again, this time upon it. An angle smote me in the midriff, driving out my breath. I heard the quick sound of retreating feet. I saw, as I got to my knees, the outer door open and a dim figure that fled. Then I squatted, lighting in a blaze of light.

"Who else?" I asked, "was in here?" The superintendent chuckled and anger helped me get hold of myself.

"Who else?" he echoed. "Nobody, ye fool, but yourself and your chimney feet."

Higgins locked the door behind me. I stumbled up the steps.

The wind stung my face. Its blast seemed to scatter my mind. Someone had been in that basement hallway when I had entered—someone who feared to be found there, who had fought off my clumsy effort at capture. I had touched, I had heard the intruder. He had left his boot-mark on a bleeding knuckle. Suspicion that had pointed first to Lyon Ferriter, that had centered on Grosvonor Paget, swung wildly about now like a weathervane in a whirlwind. I had left both men upstairs. The dim figure I had seen dart through the doorway had seemed slighter than either. It could not have been the buxom Everett. Why had it been lurking in a basement hallway of all places? What had dropped to the floor with a clink of metal and then had vanished?

Suddenly, I wanted to confide in someone. It was the lonely wretchedness of the overburdened. I thought, as I slumped at my dusty overcoat and trousers, of Shannon, of Miss Agatha, of Allegra, and each time found at once good reason why I could not go to them. As I picked up my suitcase, an amused voice asked behind me:

"Ever try a whiskbroom, accomplice? You can buy them at all the better stores."

Jerry Cochrane's coat collar was turned up about his ears. His round face had been spanked red by cold and wind had watered his canny eyes. He was sane flesh and blood. I was glad to see him.

"What's this?" he asked, nodding at my suitcase. "The body?"

He was medicine for the jitters. At my question he gave a gesture, half shrug, half shiver.

"I trailed Lyon Ferriter from the Babylon," he said. "Your hall force wouldn't let me wait in the vestibule. I was across the street when I saw you go down the cellar. So when you came out, I—"

I grabbed his arm so hard that he stopped and stared. I had trouble getting hold of words.

"Who came out ahead of you?" he repeated, wide-eyed. "Out of the cellar? Nobody."

"I groaned. 'If you'd only watched,' I began, but he cut me short.

"Listen," he bade. "I didn't have anything else to do, except freeze. No one came out of the basement except you. What's all the heat—"

"Save it," I told him and ran toward the Morello. My suitcase battered my legs. I swore at it and myself. If Cochrane were not mistaken, if the intruder who fled had not gone up to the street, he had lurked in the area by the stairs until after I had left. He might still be hiding in that black pit.

Beyond the Morello, a taxi swung into the curb. Someone entered it. The door slammed and it fled away. We were too far off to see the license number or even the passenger clearly.

"Sometime," Cochrane asked politely, "when you're not quite so active, you'll let me in on this."

I told him, as well as I could, for I was winded, what had happened.

"Who was it?" Cochrane queried.

"I think," I answered, "it was Mr. Addison Sims of Seattle."

The wind boomed in the area while we talked in hushed voices. It struck my sweating face like the gush of a cold shower bath. Cochrane was panting, yet he shivered.

"Lyon?" he asked. I wondered why it should have been his first thought, as well as mine.

"Lyon Ferriter," I answered, "is upstairs—in Miss Paget's apartment. He couldn't have got down here ahead of me."

"Unless he took the hidden way the murderer traveled," Cochrane pointed out stubbornly, and his teeth chattered. "I'd like to know where he is, this minute."

I turned toward the steps and said: "I can go back and find out if he's still upstairs."

"I'd like to know," Cochrane repeated in a cold-shaken voice, as he followed me upward. "If I'm going to live to understand all this, I've got to get a taxi and a drink fast. Find out if Ferriter is still upstairs and then—"

But we had no need for search. As I came out of the area, a lean figure left the Morello vestibule. Shoulders hunched against the wind, Lyon Ferriter strode past us. I thought he recognized me, for he looked hard and seemed about to check his pace and then pressed on. We watched him to the corner.

"Anyone," Cochrane gasped through his rattling teeth, "who can go without an overcoat on a night like this is a murderer or a suicide. Hi, taxi!"

As we bounced along toward the address he gave, his questions prodded me once again through the story of my struggle in the basement.

"It doesn't make sense," he complained. "Maybe it was someone colder than me, even—some Forgotten Man ducking in out of the wind."

"He wasn't too numb to move fast," I reminded him. "And why should he hang out in the area after I'd flushed him, unless there still was something in the basement that he needed?"

"True," Cochrane said. "Perhaps he wanted to get his watch, or whatever you heard drop."

"I heard it drop," I told him, "but it wasn't there. I looked."

"It was, but it wasn't," he said bitterly. "And there you have the case in a few words, accomplice. I'm sorry we hired you. You keep messing up the puzzle. I owe you one, though, for your tip on the Babylon. I don't know who was wrong—Shannon or the Ferriters—when I ran 'em down."

Follow These Rules When Addressing Christmas Cards

IN ADDRESSING Christmas cards, many questions are bound to arise with regard to correct form. The following tips on addressing Christmas cards will, therefore, be welcomed by all who have cards to send.

Christmas greeting cards fall into two general classes, formal and informal. If you use printed or engraved cards for formal use, the title Miss, Mr., or Mrs. and Mrs. should preferably appear above the greeting. For instance: "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell wish you a Merry Christmas," rather than "A Merry Christmas from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell."

Whose name should come first, the husband's or the wife's? Generally, the husband's name comes first. On informal cards, signed in ink, it is quite proper to sign, "Bill and Shirley," or Bill and Shirley Adams, depending, of course, upon how well you know the acquaintance. A married woman, whether her husband is alive or not, should be addressed with "Mrs." prefixed to her husband's full name. Every card sent out should bear a Mr., Mrs., or Miss prefix. Failure to use this prefix is an unpardonable breach of courtesy.

Do not address a divorcee by her maiden name, unless such name has been established by legal procedure.

John Robertson may be a business associate of yours, to whom you want to send a Christmas card, but you do not know his wife. What shall you do in a case of this kind? It is quite proper to send your card to Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson, although, on the other hand, it is equally proper to send the card in his name only. It adds a little of the personal touch to learn the home address and send the card there, although directing the card to a business address is quite proper.

Some question as to the propriety of sending out Christmas cards may enter the minds of the family in mourning. By the same token, some question may arise as to the sending of Christmas cards to them. If the bereavement is very recent—within a month—it may be better for the family to omit Christmas cards. And cards to be sent to the family should be selected with considerable care.

Superstitions About Christmas

SIGNIFICANT meanings surround Christmas, according to superstitions believed in various parts of the world.

Q. In Holstein, Mistletoe is not only supposed to be a cure for all green wounds, but will insure success in the chase and give strength to the wrestler.

Q. Early Norsemen believed for centuries that the Mistletoe would give protection against both bodily ailments and evil spirits.

Q. A person who is born on Christmas will have power to see and command spirits, according to a Scottish belief.

Q. French peasants believe that babies born on Christmas have the gift of prophecy.

Q. If a baby is born at sermon time on Christmas Eve in Middle Europe, it portends that someone in the house will die within the year.

Q. Daughters born in the Vosges, France, on December 25 will be wise, witty and virtuous.

Q. A baby born on Christmas in Silesia will become either a lawyer or a thief.

Q. Girls in the ancient Duchy of Swavia seldom missed the opportunity offered by Christmas to look into the future at their future husbands. On Christmas Eve they would go to the woodpile to draw sticks. If a girl pulled a thick stick, her husband would be stout; if a long stick, he would be tall; if a crooked stick, he would be deformed. They would determine the business of their future husbands by dropping melted lead into a pan of cold water. The molten metal would form various shapes in cooling, and thus resemble the insignia of his occupation: hammer shape, a carpenter; shoe shape, a cobbler. Every piece of lead resembled some occupation to the old wives.

Q. A maiden in Switzerland who accepts a bunch of Edelweiss at Christmas also accepts the man who proffers it.

Q. All animals in the German Alps can speak on Christmas Eve.

Q. It is believed in the Netherlands that nothing sown on Christmas Eve will perish. Even seed sown in the snow will live.

Q. A Bohemian wife will die within a year if she burns a Christmas cake.

Q. To insure an abundant harvest in Denmark, some of the bread baked on Christmas is kept until sowing time, when it is mixed with the seed.

Q. It is said that bread baked on Christmas in England never becomes moldy.

Q. Ashes must not be thrown out on Christmas day in some sections of Europe, for fear they might be thrown into the Savior's face.

Q. Some families in Scandinavia place all their shoes together on Christmas. This will cause them to live in harmony throughout the year.

Christmas Tree Industry 'Aims to Please'

A highly developed industry, Christmas tree production aims to satisfy all types of customers. Here a workman after bundling his trees according to size and grade is sawing the butts to even lengths. In cities where ceilings are high, as in old communities, taller trees are desired. For modern low-ceilinged living rooms, only medium and shorter sizes find ready market. The most popular kind of Christmas tree is the fir. It is generally preferred because it tends to hold its needles longer than any other evergreen tree. Spruces, pines, hemlocks and red-cedars are also used as Christmas trees.

CHARM OF CHRISTMAS

THE chief charm of Christmas is its simplicity. It is a festival that appeals to everyone because everyone can understand it. A genuine fellowship pervades our common life—a fellowship whose source is our common share in the world's greatest life which was given to the whole world—Keriball.

French Village Portrays

Story of Christ's Birth Les Baux in France, a village of shepherds, puts on one of the most dramatic Christmas celebrations in the world, and has done it yearly for over a thousand years. The peasants act out the whole Bethlehem story. Joseph and Mary drive into the "City of David" with real oxen. Thousands of visitors come every Christmas eve to see the event.
