Jones, the taxidermist of Carlsbad reports the head the largest and most perfect he has mounted. One more elk was killed, the other a spike yearling was killed by Yule Miller. Each of the party got a buck, two of which were 200-pounders. The party had their own horses and camped out. Altogether 1600 lbs. of meat were brought home.

Last week-end, a 10-inch snow fell on the Cedar Creek Ski Course. Ruidoso has its first influx of skiers and the winter sports have opened with a bang. The Forest service has made great improvements on the course and skiers find it much better than last year.

Little Stories About Jesse James

Being born in the region near the old home of Jesse James, the writer will begin a series of stories of the outlaw, who performed many acts of benevolence, which have never appeared in print. The first of this series will deal with a certain law enacted in the Missouri legislature and was so condemned that it was soon repealed.

The law provided that where taxes became delinquent on property, it must be sold for the taxes and the law carried no provisions of leniency, whatever. Protests amounted to nothing and when the date was set for the first sale, they were to be sold and nobody knew who the auctioneer would be.

Just how Jesse managed the plan to defeat the law, nobody knew; neither did anyone recognize the strange man, who started the sale, so clever was his disguise. He made a short talk before opening the sale, in which he reviewed the law in its entirety and then said: "Ladies and gentlemen, as this property is to be sold for taxes, I will begin with the estate of Mrs. Lucy Lindsey. This lady has had several misfortunes, which have rendered her incapable of paying her taxes, but she expects to recover during the coming year and promises to pay the back taxes, but the law makes no provision for cases like that; therefore, her property will be the first to go on sale. She is a widow and has three children."

Then reaching in his hip pocket, he produced a revolver and laying it on the table, he said: "This property is now up for sale, but the first man who bids on it I'll kill him." Of course there were no bids and the sale was over. At the next session of the legislature, the law was repealed.

LOSS BY FIRES GREAT ON FARMS

Fires Are Preventable, Experts Assert.

By PROF. J. B. RODGERS
(Agricultural Engineering Department, University of Idaho.)

Loss from rural fires averages $400 every minute of the day, a loss the village home owner or farmer might reduce by his own efforts.

The farmer in particular, he points out, must be his own building inspector, zoning officer and in an emergency his own fireman and fire chief. If he does a good job in each case, he can do much toward reducing an annual rural fire loss of about $225,000,000.

When possible, farm buildings should be in line at right angles to prevailing winds. With this arrangement there is less danger of sparks being carried from one building to another. Roofs of major buildings should be of fire resistant material. Chimneys may be cleaned of soot using a few bricks or rocks in a sack at the end of a long rope. Furnaces, stoves, and stove pipes properly installed and inspected regularly reduce a common cause of fire.

A system of grounded conductors gives protection against lightning. Carelessness in handling lamps and lanterns, in disposing of ashes, in storing and handling gasoline and kerosene and in allowing rubbish to accumulate where it becomes a fire hazard accounts for many farm fires.

The U. S. Engineers report that many serious rural fires have been avoided because ladders were at hand and water or fire extinguishers were readily available. This is a safety measure that is always highly desirable.

Overcrowding Has Effect On Poultry Cannibalism

While feather picking, cannibalism, and egg eating are in part the result of dietary deficiencies, overcrowding is important among the causes, according to H. W. Titus of the federal bureau of poultry nutrition. It has been found that feather picking is less likely to occur if the diet contains about 20 per cent of barley or oats.

"Cannibalism" is a term used by some poultrymen in referring to the habit sometimes developed by chickens of picking one another's toes, combs, vents, feathers, and other parts of the body. Used in this sense, the term also includes feather picking; it is however, more common to restrict its use to those cases where blood is drawn.

Cannibalism is of most frequent occurrence in overcrowded flocks, but it may be due to some as yet unknown deficiency of the diet because the feeding of oats and barley appears to be of some value in prevention. The use of ruby-colored window panes and ruby-colored electric lamps in the poultry house is often a simpler means of preventing cannibalism.

Egg eating is also likely to develop as a result of overcrowding; however, the tendency to eat eggs is markedly stimulated by a deficiency of calcium in the diet.

Worm-Free Chicks Safer From Colds

Danger of colds in the poultry flock will be lessened by keeping the birds free from worms. Colds and worms often run hand in hand, since worms lower body resistance.

Watch the droppings and examine the intestinal tract of birds dressed for eating. If worms are found, treat the flock with individual worm capsules. A number of satisfactory worm expellers are now available on the market.

After treatment, thoroughly cleanse and disinfect the poultry house. Remove and burn all droppings or scatter them in a far-away field. Also keep the birds confined for 36 hours.

Birds with colds should be protected against drafts and overcrowding, and fed a balanced ration.

Sale of Fruit, Vegetables Doubles in Twenty Years

Average per capita consumption of fruits and vegetables in America is at least two to three times greater than 20 years ago, and maybe six to ten times that of 40 years ago, according to officials of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company. This greater domestic consumption is attributed to modern refrigeration and improved transportation.

Burn Out Stumps

Old stumps can be burned out with the use of saltpeter. First, put a hole two inches in diameter deep into the stump with a drill or hot iron. Drop two ounces of saltpeter into this hole and fill to the top with water. Plug up the hole entrance and leave until the liquid has been absorbed into the wood. Then fill the hole with paraffin or fuel oil and set on fire. If enough of the chemical has been used, the fire should burn until the stump is consumed.

THE LAST PAIR

Scene: Some desolate spot on this earth.

Characters: The last two survivors of a world war, a pair named Stoopey and Droopty.

Stoopey (as a hand grenade goes over his head)—Hah! You missed that time!

Droopty—I got the fellow behind you.

Stoopey—There's nobody behind me. Or behind you either. They've all been killed off.

Droopty—Gosh! has it got down to that? Are we really the only two left?

Stoopey—Yep.

Droopty—Well, who won?

Stoopey (sadly)—It's still a tie. I guess you and I'll have to fight it out.

Droopty—Hold on a minute . . . we oughta think that over. If I win you're left all alone. If you win I'm all left all alone. There wouldn't be any fun in that.

Stoopey—It might be an excellent idea. That makes everything a total loss. The complete end of a total war, see? No more arguments, no more back talk, no more alliances, no more trouble with anybody.

Droopty—That would be terrible. Stoopey—But it would be what we have been working toward all along!

Droopty—No; the winner would still have his hate left. What would he do with that?

Stoopey (thoughtfully)—That's the hard part. A man would have to hate somebody. It would be part of his nature after all these years.

Droopty—Yeah. But there'd be nobody he could hate, except himself. You couldn't hate yourself. Stoopey—There would be nothing else to do. And at this stage of hatreds it would be easy.

Droopty—There must be some way out. Let's compromise. Let's call it off. You and I as the last two survivors can then hate each other and be quite happy about it.

Stoopey (suspiciously)—How do I know I could trust you? The first thing I know you might soften up and want to be friendly.

Droopty—There was a time when you wouldn't have thought that a bad idea.

Stoopey—I know, but this hate business has gone on so long it's become a habit. I'm an addict. So are you.

Droopty—Maybe you're right. O. K! Stop worrying. If I give you my word to keep hating you 100 per cent I'll keep it. And I'll expect as much from you. (Wearily) Say, what was everybody fighting for, anyhow? I forget.

Stoopey—A better world. Everybody was determined to get it if it took the last man.

Droopty—And it damned near did!

Stoopey (looking around)—Well, anyhow, we're near that new order, that new setup.

Droopty—Boy, you can have it! Capital gone, the economic system's gone, the bankers are gone, the critics are gone, barriers are gone, frontiers are gone . . . everything.

Stoopey (his eyes falling on something in the wreckage)—Look. There's part of a broadcasting set over there. With just you and I left it's going to be awfully lonesome. We could put it together and still have the radio.

Droopty—Whatt and listen to EACH OTHER! (He shoots Stoopey, who doesn't seem to care much.)

IS THERE NO LIMIT?

"God Bless America" is a pretty fine patriotic number, and it has become the American song of the crisis, but something should be done to protect it in the clinches. Night club comics sing it immediately following pretty raw interludes, masters of ceremony call for it after their most risqué moments, and believe it or not, in one Broadway picture and vaudeville house a fat, coarse, faded female blues shouter swings into it with a comedian, after they have both been giving a club-smoker atmosphere to the proceedings. And with an enormous American flag as their backdrop! It may be too much to expect them to see anything wrong about it, but isn't it time the audience started throwing things?

WITHOUT GAS MASKS

"Hitler and Molotov Talk for Three Hours."—Headline. And they promised there would be no gas warfare this time!

KNOW YOUR BANK
What is Amortization?
Literally, amortization means killing off a debt by gradual means. It is a convenient plan of taking the amount of a loan, computing the entire amount of interest which will be payable thereon during the life of the loan and dividing the total into equal periodic payments. At first, that portion of the payment applying to interest is large in comparison with the portion applying to the principal of the loan. But each time a payment is made the principal is reduced and consequently a smaller part of the payment applies to interest and a larger part to payment on the loan. Its advantage is that it does not work a hardship on the borrower to extinguish his debt because as it is done gradually and not in a lump sum, he can budget his income to cover his periodic payments.

Christian Science Services

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is subject for Sunday. Golden Text: "Every house is builded by some man; but He Who built all things is God." Citation from Bible: "He hath made His wonderful works to be remembered; the Lord is gracious and full of compassion." Passage from Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made.

Notice!

On Dec. 1, Edna C. Cleghorn took over the management of the City Cafe in Capitlan. If you want home-cooked meals, home-made pies, etc., eat at the City Cafe. You will be treated at all times with utmost courtesy. Our aim will be to please you. Remember—City Cafe at Capitlan, on Main street, three doors from highway on west side.

Ups and downs of a woman's $50,000,000 romance. Her husband, who shot up like a rocket from a $20-per-week drug clerk to multi-millionaire socialite under her guidance, dies broke on one of the downs.

Also—Can't bomb out of men's minds Lady Godiva's heroic ride. The ancient city through whose streets she rode clothed only in her hair to lift the burden of her townfolk, almost wiped out by ruthless Nazi airmen. How the memory of her self-sacrifice still lives, even though its scene is turned to rubble and ashes, told in the American Weekly magazine with next week's Los Angeles Examiner.

Little old town, good afternoon!

HIGHWAY 54

Now is in pretty good condition. This thoroughfare is corduroyed from Carrizozo on in spots, but under the efficient work of Bob Eshom, the road is kept fairly smooth. Mr. Eshom has the highway under his supervision from Carrizozo to Temporal. Keep up the good work, Bob!

The weather has at last moderated to a degree that we are likely to have a warm, bright, day this Christmas.

Oh for a white Xmas Day! But the human mind is never satisfied; even as U & I. We hear there's sking at Ruidoso (Cedar Creek.)

The Carrizozo merchants are getting busy decorating their establishments for the day of all days.

There will be no empty stockings this Christmas, if the good people of Carrizozo can help it.

The democrats built the new Socorro County Court House — and now have to step down for Republican officials.

It is too warm for a fire in the afternoon here in the office.

The defeated candidate for the Presidency of Mexico generally starts a revolution, mentions W. A. Hart of Ruidoso.

VIVA GREEKS!

Win, lose or draw, we have to head it to the Greeks. Most people have forgotten it but before the Greeks were called upon to save European civilization from obliteration and did an awfully good job of it in a couple of places.

The task is somewhat more formidable this time — but the Greek spirit apparently is equal to the task of trying to do its part in defeating the Axis on a night on 1939 years of progress. — Socorro Chieftain.
