Joe Navarro Retires After serving with the G. & H., the A. T. & S. F., the E. P. & S. W. and the S. P. railroad companies for 35 years, Joe Navarro, caretaker of local S. P. Clubhouse, was retired on pension the latter part of last week. Joe will be greatly missed by all the railroad men and his many town friends, to all of whom he has endeared himself by his wit and humorous antics. In proof of that esteem, his many friends made a pool to purchase Joe a nice and valuable keepsake. Joe is a fine horticulturist and even the birds and pigeons will miss the fragrance and aroma of the Clubhouse lawn and beautiful flowers which Joe took pride in nursing all through the summer months. You are retired, Joe; but not forgotten. We join in wishing you health and happiness.

Short Stories About Jesse James

After the breaking out of the civil war in 1861, Jesse James and his brother Frank were more boys, ages 12 and 14 years. Like most people around Liberty and Platte City, they were sympathizers with the southern cause. They wanted to join the Southern army, but were too young.

They made their way to the headquarters of General Price and spent hours in begging him to allow them to enlist, to which appeals the good General turned a deaf ear. Finally, he told them that they could go with the army, but must not leave the camp. He gave them a letter to Major Silas Gordon, who turned them over to the cook with orders to give them light chores, but to keep close watch over them, so that they remained in camp.

One bright moonlight night late in October while the camp was asleep and the pickets paced their beats, the boys stole out of their tent and crept around the camp to see what it looked like. At last, they came to the outskirts and noticed strange objects moving toward the sleeping camp. The boys hid in the brush until they came near enough for recognition and saw they were Union soldiers. Hurriedly making their way back to camp, they gave the alarm and soldiers were sent out, dispersed the Federals and drove back from whence they came.

For that act of loyalty, the boys were given the liberty of the camp, but only in periods, for when the soldiers came marching by where they sat, peeling potatoes or washing dishes, they would pat them on the head and pass some kind remark of goodwill such as, 'good soldiers.' When General Price was notified, he smiled and nodded his head.

German Seamen To Be Interned at Fort Stanton

From reliable information, we learn that there will soon be a change made at the Triple-C camp at Stanton. The boys who have been occupying the camp, will be removed to the old girls' camp in Baca Canyon and their quarters at the Fort will be given to 470 seamen from one of the German steamers scuttled some time ago. Being seamen the reason for their being assigned to this place is because of the fact that the Fort is a marine base. They will be interned for the duration of the war and will receive $1.16 per day. They are not to be regarded as enemies, but to the contrary, they are sent here as our friends. The money paid out for their maintenance by our government will be repaid by Germany, in the way we understand it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bell of Jicarilla were visitors in town the first of the week.

County Clerk-elect Felix Ramey was in town Saturday.

THE BRAVERY OF OUR BUGLER IS MUCH SPOKEN OF...

The Story of a Forgotten American Hero

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

If it's Injun war history you're wanting, then you'd better talk to Tom Gatchell...

So I went to see T. J. Gatchell, druggist, historian and industrious collector of Wyoming lore...

These mementoes had been brought here from half a dozen battlefields in the country watered by the Yellowstone river...

In the midst of them hung what was once a copper cavalry bugle. Its mouthpiece was broken off...

"That?" replied Mr. Gatchell. "O, that was picked up on Massacre Hill—you know, the place where Fetterman and his crew were wiped out back in '66..."

A year or so later I was leafing idly through a bound volume of Horace Greeley's New York Semi-Weekly Tribune...

And here this record ends—except for this: Undoubtedly he was the bugler who sounded "Boots and Saddles" when the message, "Indians attacking the woodchoppers camp on Piney Island"...

His bravery, which was "much spoken of" by the Sioux, is not mentioned in any of the books which tell of Fort Phil Kearney's tragic history...

Those words seemed to leap out from the page. Instantly my mind raced back to a summer afternoon in Buffalo, Wyo...

But who was this heroic musician? His bravery, which was "much spoken of" by the Sioux...

Although the dull, dry pages of the "Report of the Secretary of War for the Year 1867" gives the names of the officers who were killed near Phil Kearney...

So, back to the New York Semi-Weekly Tribune and there on page one of the issue for January 17, 1867, appears an item headed "The Massacre at Fort Phil Kearney"...

Support the wood train, relieve it and report to me. Do not engage the Indians at its expense; under no circumstances pursue them over Lodge Trail Ridge."

We know that Fetterman disobeyed those orders and allowed himself to be drawn into an ambush. Then more than 2,000 Sioux and Cheyennes came boiling out of the ravines and coulees beyond Lodge Trail Ridge...

When they reached the end of the ridge and saw the hundreds of warriors swarming up the other side, sudden panic struck them. They let their horses go, and with them went their last chance to cut through the skirts

In 1869, He served on the Committee on the District of Columbia, Private Land Claims, Manufactures, and Printing.

THE INDIANS

The St. Louis Republican's special correspondent at Phil Kearney massacre, derived from the Commission St. Joseph gives the following account of the Fort...

The Sioux drew our men out of the fort, and killed them all. Our men fought like tigers, and would not have been overcome so easily if they had not kept so close together...

The expedition to the Indian country, under the command of Major-Gen. Hancock, left Leavenworth

So we know now who this brave bugler was—Adolph Metzger. It is obviously a German name and one which seems a bit out of place among such "Paddies" as Cuddy and Clancey...

But what was his station in life before he put on Uncle Sam's uniform of blue and was sent out to the windwept summit which is known today as "Massacre Hill"?

The records of this office show that one Adolph Metzger first enlisted May 29, 1854, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, for a period of five years at which time he stated that he was 21 years of age...

And here this record ends—except for this: Undoubtedly he was the bugler who sounded "Boots and Saddles" when the message, "Indians attacking the woodchoppers camp on Piney Island"...

Kelley from the "Fort Phil Kearney Massacre" in the collection of T. J. Gatchell of Buffalo, Wyo. At the right is the bugle carried by Adolph Metzger of Troop C, Second U. S. Cavalry.

ans attacking the woodchoppers camp on Piney Island" came to Fort Phil Kearney that morning. We know that he was one of the 26 troopers who accompanied the force of 80 picked men from the Eighteenth Infantry and two civilian volunteers...

But what was this bugler's name? Although the dull, dry pages of the "Report of the Secretary of War for the Year 1867" gives the names of the officers who were killed near Phil Kearney...

of death drawing closer and closer around them.

We can see them now as they threw themselves down behind the boulders which formed an irregular circle at the end of the bleak, snow-covered ridge...

There was a brief moment of hand-to-hand fighting, of crashing blows dealt with gun-barrels clenched in the hands of fear-maddened men who flailed about them desperately to ward off the slashing knives and smashing warclubs...

The fight there couldn't have lasted long. But in that last dreadful moment of laughter, in the midst of that swirl of struggling, swearing, screaming men, there was one who went berserk. It was Bugler Adolph Metzger...

There these doughboys and troopers "shared one tomb, buried, as they had fought, together"—thus, Colonel Carrington's official report to his department commander—until several years later when a national cemetery was established on the Little Big Horn in Montana...

And today the winds come sweeping down from the snow-capped peaks of the Big Horn range—the same mountains which once echoed to the haunting strains of "Taps" blown at old Fort Phil Kearney by Bugler Adolph Metzger...

But there's something to recall to them the manner of his dying. On the walls of a druggist's office in a little Wyoming city hangs what was once a cavalry bugle...

It is also written in the dusty records of the adjutant-general's office and it is printed on the yellowed pages of an old New York newspaper. Except for these, there is little else to remind his fellow-Americans that he once lived.

Ham & Eggs CHRISTMAS

FRESH snow crunched under Peter Dick Wright's shoes as he stomped into the waiting room...

Old Peter was still there, still minding his telegraph key as he had when Dick was a boy. But now it was Christmas; now Dick was home from the city, a successful young architect...

As he walked up to old Peter's grilled ticket window, Dick recalled the last time he stood in this station. Two and a half years ago, it was the day after Jean had left for New York in search of a career...

Nothing in Marysville for him then, either. There had been a quick decision, a closing of half-open doors; a tearful good-bye to his parents and then—off to the city. It was odd how a blow like that could give a fellow determination...

Old Pete looked up from his sheaf of train orders. "Well, Richard!" he cried, "Glad to see you, boy, and a Merry Christmas! Your folks know you're coming?"

"Merry Christmas to you, Pete!" Dick answered. It was nice, at that, to see a familiar face. "Mind if I use your phone? I caught an early train and Dad wasn't expecting me until tonight..."

A few minutes later the old family car was carrying him home. His Dad looked older, and a mite worried.

Gift Suggestion

One way to sure popularity with pipe and "makin'" smokers is to say "Merry Christmas" with the big one-pound Christmas gift packages of Prince Albert smoking tobacco...

Forget it, you imbecile! he snapped at himself. "That's a closed chapter in your life!"

It was a couple of hours later that he saw her. Skiing down Murray's hill for the last time he rounded Horseshoe bend to find Jean directly in his path. There was a shriek, a thud, and then four feet sticking out of a snowdrift.

"Jean!" he cried, unstrapping his skis and running to help her. "Are you hurt?"

It was rather unromantic, perhaps, pulling her out feet first. But she laughed at him and fell down again, pulling him after her.

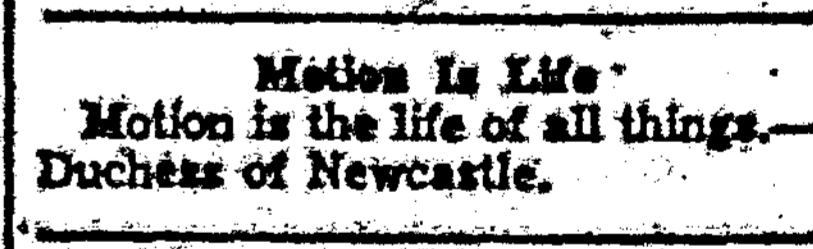

"You're going to get your face washed for that, Mr. Wright," she cried.

"Dick dear," she said, "I was wrong. Mother wrote that you'd be home for Christmas and—well, I had to come too. It's you and Maryville that I want, not New York. This morning when I saw you going past our house, I somehow knew that I should go with you. Not just today, Dick, but always!"

It was like ham and eggs, Dick thought, only the next day was Christmas—and Christmas meant turkey!

Footlights

By GRANTLAND RICE

WITH football's 1940 story told, it might be just as well for all colleges to move over just a trifle more to the sporting side.

Ohio State's charges against Carl Snavely were ridiculous for two reasons—

1. It was Francis Schmidt, the Ohio coach, who broke two rules in the Purdue game that were largely responsible for 10 of Ohio State's 17 points. His double illegal substitution of tackle Maag had a vital effect on the game.

2. If St. John and Schmidt were so certain that Snavely was directing most of the signals their first move should have been to notify the officials at once—or at least between halves.

It is to Purdue's credit—Purdue which had a legitimate squawk—that George Ade's alma mater made no official protest of any sort. Ohio State could have made a neat sporting gesture by refusing to accept credit for a double illegal victory.

Out of Print
Not all the squawks reach the headlines. I have heard from many sources that certain winning plays, such as passing the ball forward on laterals, have been on the illegal side.

This was the charge made against both Michigan and Columbia in the Penn and Georgia games. A Georgia photographer dug up the first protest, but the angle a camera takes can make a difference of 10 or 12 feet. So that one's out. The officials, after all, are in charge of the game and doing the best they can.

Football is a completely impossible game to judge, or handle perfectly. Looking down on the field with no obstruction, I've seen many penalties that should have been called, but were overlooked in the action of 22 men who often shut off an official's vision.

But no good comes from any post-game squawk—especially on the part of the loser.

In regard to illegal forward passing, most laterals are hairline decisions. It is impossible to pass a ball backward to a runner in front of you. So more than a few of the laterals are technically illegal. But they are matters of double-split seconds, difficult to follow.

Another Angle
It has gotten so today that most colleges with winning football teams are immediately thrown under suspicion.

Not long ago I ran across two well-known Yale and Harvard men. They told me the squawks emanating from their campus reservations was largely due to the fact that Cornell and Pennsylvania were digging up soft courses for certain stars who couldn't last two weeks in Harvard, Yale, Columbia, etc.

"The Ivy League," one of them said, "was supposed to belong to a group playing under exactly the same conditions—especially those conditions regarding proselyting and scholastic requirements. Today Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Army, Navy, Princeton, Columbia and Brown wouldn't be far apart."

"You know what happened when Cornell met Army and Penn met Yale and Princeton. All they scored was 141 points in the three games—I mean Penn and Cornell."

Too Much Guesswork
In the first place, Yale and Harvard and the others who believe they have a squawk coming should first be sure of their facts. As it is now they are merely guessing.

For example, there is the course in physical education. Bo McMillin tells me that at Indiana this is one of the harder courses, involving a good part of the training needed to finish in a medical school.

There are things that, for the good of football, can be ironed out back of the curtains, in place of vague charges that carry no proof of any sort. A Cornell or a Pennsylvania degree still ranks with any that I know about.

The idea today, in too many quarters, seems to be that all winding teams must be made the targets for the beaten.

College football, in many places, could use more of the sporting side. There is no law forcing any institution to schedule football games with any suspicious rivals.

The main purpose of football was supposed to be recreation and sport for sport's sake. It was never intended as a part of Nora's schedule in the old Roman colosseum.

It is a great game—one of the greatest—but it is also a game that is gradually developing entirely too many terrific habits in its own system.

I still say it would be a far better game if every student in every college and university were treated exactly the same as every other student in regard to proselyting, scholastic, jobs and financial handouts. Then we'd have a fair test of college football making. I believe that this would prove itself a real boon to the game.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

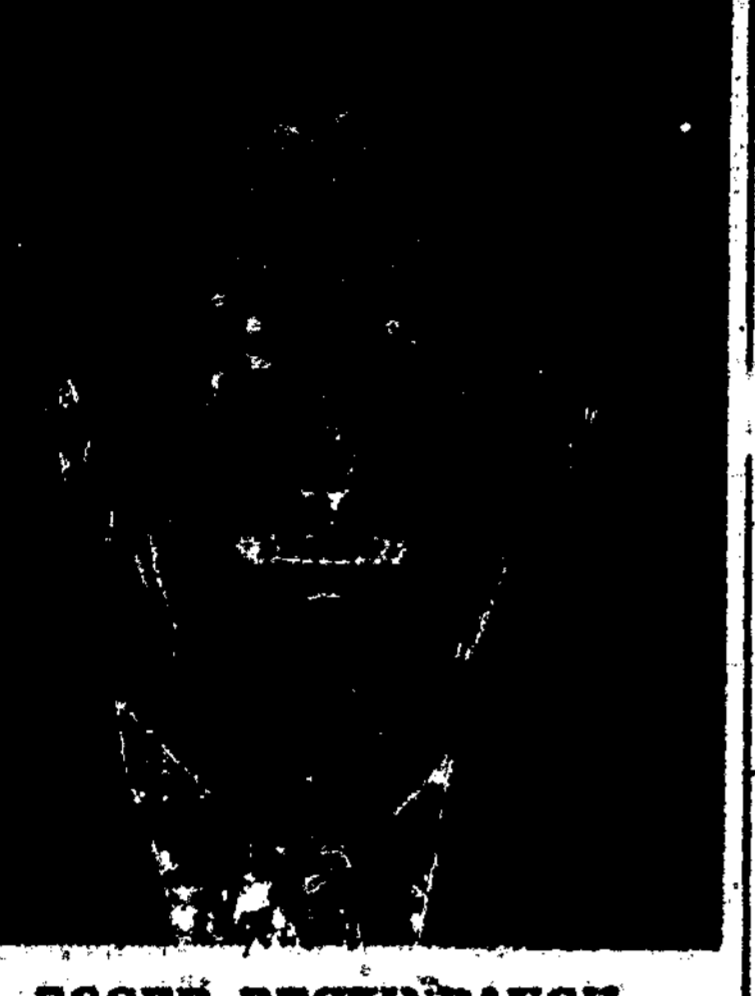

By ROBERT McSHANE

THE 1940 rebellion of the Cleveland Indians is a dead issue with their new manager, Roger Peckinpaugh.

A lot of baseball fans feel nothing but sympathy towards him. After all, he's stepping in as manager of a group of players who revolted openly against Oscar Vitt during last year's campaign. But that fact doesn't dishearten Peckinpaugh. Why should it? He wasn't bothered with discipline trouble from 1928 to 1933, his former regime as Cleveland manager.

Rather, he was troubled only once with the Tribe. It happened in 1932 when Fitcher Wesley Ferrell, Peck's ace, was taken out of a tight game. Was complained loudly, giving voice to a number of uncomplimentary remarks. Manager Peckinpaugh didn't fly off the handle. Instead, he thought the matter over, holding his judgment in reserve until the game was ended. Then he gave Ferrell a 10-day rest minus pay.

Quite a number of stories concerning the rebellion have reached his ears. But Peck isn't interested in last year. He summed up the situation not long ago when he said:

ROGER PECKINPAUGH

A Fresh Start
"Last season never happened so far as I'm concerned. It's none of my business. I don't care who was laid out and who, if anyone, was at fault. We'll start fresh in 1941. I will run the ball club to win games and I expect discipline. If the players want to play poker and the stakes aren't too high, that's all right with me. If they want to play golf, that's all right. They will have to get in early nights as usual. I don't see why I should have any trouble."

It is likely that the question of discipline won't arise to haunt him. But there are other factors of equal importance. Despite all of his troubles, Vitt brought the club home only one game out of first place. Any worse showing in 1941 is apt to give the wolves a chance to howl.

Peckinpaugh is faced with almost the same conditions today that resulted in his dismissal in the middle of the 1933 season. The major cause of his ouster, of course, was Cleveland's failure to win enough games. A contributing factor was the feeling of fans that he didn't show enough enthusiasm.

In direct contrast to Vitt, he is quiet and retiring. Vitt spent a great deal of time halting umpires. In fact, it was one of his favorite forms of recreation. The bleachers love it even though the players didn't.

The Beginning
Peck started his baseball career on the sandlots of Cleveland and caught on with the old Cleveland Naps in 1910. His boyhood idol was Larry Lajoie and he later played shortstop beside the great second baseman.

Since 1910 he has had only one job away from the diamond and the job kept him in close touch with the game. He had a promotional assignment with the American League which he relinquished to take command of the Indians.

Already the new manager has talked about trading for outfield power, and perhaps another pitcher. He can spend hours discussing the pitching ability of Bob Feller, who he rates as one of the game's truly great hurlers.

"I don't expect to work Bob more than any other pitcher," said Peck. "Of course, it's always a temptation in a close game to toes in a fel low like that as a ninth-inning reliever."

"I remember Clark Griffith had that temptation while he was managing Walter Johnson at Washington. Griff used to solve the problem by pitching Walter in the first game of a series and then sending him home so he couldn't weaken and use him in relief roles."

Sport Shorts
Judge Landis, czar of baseball, is 74 years old. Clark Griffith, the Old Fox of Washington, is 71. When Detroit's Thane East Texas Christian recently it marked their 100th victory under Coach Gus Dorais. Moe Berg, the greatest baseball catcher, holds the American league record for consecutive errorless games by a catcher—115. Mandy Hogan holds the National league record—120. Lou Gehrig received $261,926 for his 15 year service with the Yankees.

Another Pioneer Passes Away

Last Sunday morning at his home on the east side, Genovevo Griego, pioneer of Lincoln County, passed away after a short illness. Mr. Griego was a member of one of the first families who settled in the old town of Lincoln. He and his family moved to Carrizozo about 12 years ago. Mr. Griego was an upright and honest citizen and was highly identified in religious, civic and political circles.

Funeral services were held at the St. Rita Church Monday afternoon, with Rev. Father Salvatore officiating, after which the remains were accompanied by a large cortege to their last resting place in the local cemetery. He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, two daughters, three sons and other relatives, to all of whom the sympathy of this community is extended.

HIDDEN WAYS

By F. F. VAN DE WATER

FOR THE lover of good detective fiction—the collector of chills, creeps and clues—here is the prize mystery of the season. A guttural voice was David Mallory's only major working clue to a carefully planned murder. Undaunted, David worked with Miss Agatha Paget, an amazingly keen old lady, and together they spun their amazing solution to one of New York's most cunningly contrived crimes. A surprise ending brings a breathless thriller to a dramatic close. You'll thrill to every chapter of Frederick Van de Water's great new story.

KNOW YOUR BANK

Profits Are Essential To Safe Banking

Unless a bank operates at a profit it cannot remain a safe and sound institution. It is from profits that a bank builds up reserves to protect depositors against loss and to safeguard the stockholders' investment. In supplying the credit needs of a community a bank will sustain some losses on loans and investments. These losses must be "written off" against profits. Profits are essential to pay to stockholders a fair return on the money they have invested in this bank. Briefly, profits supply the cushion to provide for the safe and easy handling of emergency situations, the protection of the depositor, and the protection of the stockholder.

Little old town, good afternoon!

TO GENTLEMEN:

A lovely, smart "Betty Rose" Ladies' Coat or a new Frock will delight Her. — See them at the Burke Gift Shop.

Will Robinson, county treasurer, has started a new "Know Your New Mexico" series, giving a daily talk over the local radio station nightly.

He very appropriately selected "O Fair New Mexico" as his theme song. When the first presentation was given Monday night, he was scheduled to talk on "Billy the Kid." The program was all set, but a few minutes in advance, it was discovered that the station recording of "O Fair New Mexico," the state song, had been broken.

He called Miss Elizabeth Garrett, the composer, to see if she had a recording that could be used and she volunteered to come to the studio and play the song for him—and she did.

The program was about "Billy the Kid" outlaw of the pioneer days, whose career was dramatized by Sheriff Pat Garrett, father of the well-known Roswell musician. — Roswell Dispatch.

Will Robinson is well known here; he is the Dean of columnists of the Sunshing State.

The Carrizozo Business Men's Club invited Bill to make a talk some time ago — but didn't give the subject of his address. Mr. Robinson said it didn't make any difference to him, as he could speak on almost any subject for five minutes or three hours.

Carrizozo's Best Shopping Place

Our old friend Tom Bragg and Mrs. Bragg were down from the Bonito Saturday. Tom won the gun offered for the biggest deer killed during the hunting season. Tom presented us with a nice juicy chunk of venison.

Frankie Silva was here from the Tucson mountains Monday on some business.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilario Macg are now residing in Carrizozo, where Hilario is employed on the school project

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Collier of Alto have returned from a 19-day vacation in Arizona. They took in the World's Premiere of the motion picture "Arizona" held in Tucson. They visited the set where the picture was filmed and met many of the actors who were there. From there they went to Phoenix, took motion pictures of the official opening of the Fiesta del Sol Celebracion Parada and the Driving Club Horse Races and Horse Show and spent a glorious week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Monte Gardanhire of El Chico Riding Stables.

Mrs. Robert Eshom was an Ancho visitor yesterday.
