BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB

Sixteen members and 18 visitors were present at the annual Father-Daughter Banquet.

The president urged all members to attend the 54 Highway meeting to be held in Tucumcari on the 15th, that could possibly do so.

A letter addressed to Mr. Geo. A. Titworth from the New Mexico State Highway Dept. was read to the Club, which stated that 17.4 miles of road between Lincoln and Hondo had been placed in the hands of the Public Works Administration.

SCHOOL NEWS

Salvador de la Rosa of the Junior High School joined the Triplet Camp at Tularosa.

Nineteen students of 4th grade have won "Excellency Certificates in Penmanship."

Science Dept students watched an operation performed on a cat. Drs. Susman and Martinez performed the same for the benefit of the science classes.

The all-school carnival was a decided success.

The Seniors will present "Let's Go Somewhere," April 19th.

The Junior Homemakers are completing their spring dresses.

Baseball is the sport occupying the time of the Physical Education department.

The Spanish play will be given on April 26.

Supt. Carpenter visited his daughter, Mrs. Jimmy Jones, at Taos last week and Mr. Jones is assistant game warden in the Taos district.

Sabino Gonzales

The Albuquerque Journal of April 11, contained the death notice of Sabino Gonzales, 70, long time resident and pioneer of Lincoln County, and for many years the mail driver between Carrizozo and White Oaks.

Mrs. Joe Garcia attended the funeral of her aged aunt at Tularosa last week.

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Turner, Ralph, Vernon Petty and Ted Purcey spent the week-end in Albuquerque.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Petty and small daughter of Marcia were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Petty of the El Cibola Hotel a few days the first of the week.

There will be Community Singing next Sunday at the Baptist Church, beginning at 2 p.m.

W. J. Ferguson, President. Mrs. J. H. Fulmer of White Oaks was a visitor in town yesterday.

Mass Meeting of Taxpayers

In response to the notice in last week's issue, which was followed by handbills to the same effect, there was an exceptionally good attendance at the district courtroom Tuesday night.

Mr. Gallacher then called on the assemblage for opinions in order to get the sentiment and agree on what amount would be needed to cover the cost of the project.

Others spoke and all agreed that we needed the new school and additions. The next question brought out the mode of procedure which will be as follows:

A petition must be circulated and with the required amount of names, said petition will be presented to the Mayor and Board of Trustees, which will in turn, issue a call for an election to vote on the bond issue and if carried, the customary mode of procedure will follow according to law.

Diesel Light Plant For Corona

The people of Corona are showing their progressiveness by the alteration and modernization of their business places and the new addition to the high school, which is much admired and which should set an example for other towns in our county.

With Mr. Wm. Klier as manager, it is satisfying the demand for better and cheaper electric current by installing a large 6-cylinder Superior Diesel Power Unit in addition to the Witte Units.

Mr. Kroggel, the owner, has decided to reduce the present electric current rate, which is at present, below the rates charged by towns twice the size of Corona, to a still lower rate, starting with a minimum of $1.80 for residential users and a considerable reduction for commercial power users.

The new schedule will go into effect June 1, 1940.

After attending the annual meeting of the National Catholic Educational Association at Kansas City, Mo., Sisters Mary Hortense and Mary Stephen of Grand Rapids, Mich., extended their trip as far as Carrizozo, where they spent several days with the Sisters. They were greatly impressed with our country.

Local Mention

Mrs. Geo. A. Titworth and H. M. Belknap of Capitán were business visitors here Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. J. R. Jenkins of Corona was a visitor in town Monday of this week.

Mrs. Lulu Lewis and daughter, Miss Marys of their ranch at the head of the Malpais were visitors in town yesterday.

Mrs. Ira Greer arrived Tuesday evening from Tucumcari to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Johnson and other relatives.

Miss Zane Harkey and her guest, Miss Gwendolyn Bartholomew, returned last Saturday to take up their studies at the Woman's College in Denver.

FOR SALE - Turkey Eggs. J. R. Blackshere, Red Lake Ranch.

Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. R. W. Bowlin, daughters Nell Joy, Etta Loy and Miss Hilda Ann Barnett made a trip to Morenci, Arizona, last Friday and were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Coe, the Bowlin's oldest daughter. While there, they made a visit to C. H. Burrows, Supt. of the steel corporation, where Horace is employed and were taken on an inspection trip through the plant. They returned Monday.

Mrs. Nellie Reilly visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Scharf today (Friday.)

Mike Nalda, prominent wool grower of East Vaughn, was a business visitor here this week. Mike, as usual, is a very busy man and would have liked to have gone out to see his brother Louis at the Red Canyon Sheep ranch, but didn't have the time.

Walter Grumbler, Jr., is now driving the passenger bus for George Harkness between here and Roswell. We are glad to see Walter back with us again.

Mrs. Harriett Blackshere Wilson of the Blackshere ranch in the Red Lake country, was a visitor in town this Thursday.

We are glad to hear our old friend and esteemed editor of the Alamogordo News being back at his desk after a serious illness of about two months - but during his absence from the shop, his two sons, who are experts in the profession, carried on in a 100% manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Short of the Tokay Triple C Camp leased the Baker Cafe this week. Mr. Short is supply agent for the camp and an experienced cook. We welcome them to Carrizozo.

County Clerk Eddie Penfield is on his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Skinner of the Skinner Bonito Farm were Carrizozo visitors this Thursday.

Bert Pfingsten and daughter of Hondo attended the Father-Daughter Banquet Wednesday at the S. P. Hotel.

Elbert Brown, who has been in the S. P. Hospital at San Francisco for the past several weeks is expected home next week.

J. F. Petty of the Economy Grocery caught a nice string of fish at Elephant Butte Dam this week.

Dewey Gains in Public Favor

According to latest reports from the political field, Thomas E. Dewey, New York District Attorney, has gained in popularity in states where such elections have been held, to an amazing degree.

Up to now, he has 177 pledged votes and it is predicted that he will have at the lowest estimate, another 100 before the convention on June 2. In his whirlwind campaign, he has met with exceptional favor over his friendly adversary, Arthur Vandenburg of Michigan.

At Salt Lake City, where he spoke to an audience of 4,000 people, the streets were jammed with admirers who not being lucky enough to obtain seats, remained until he came out in order to pay their respects to the distinguished young attorney and applaud him before he was driven to his hotel. It was the same way in every state where he entered the primaries. His honesty, integrity, straightforwardness for which he is noted, appeals to the people and they are flocking to him.

Jane Mabry in Art Exhibit

To show what the development of merited art will accomplish, the Albuquerque Journal of Friday, April 5, gave preferred space with portrait to the artistic accomplishments of the above named lady, who is the daughter of our old friend, Will Robinson, Treasurer of Chaves County and newspaper columnist of high degree.

Mrs. Mabry, wife of Scott Mabry, young attorney, presented 21 of her paintings at Albuquerque last Sunday. Mrs. Mabry is far from being what some might call a "dabbler," but quite to the contrary, she is an artist of exceptional ability and in presenting her paintings, she wishes them judged according to their value.

The love of the art led her to develop her talents, which opened into a successful career and her work of art speaks for itself in glowing terms. She has disposed of many of her paintings in Washington and eastern points as well as in her home state at Roswell, Hobbs, Albuquerque and Santa Fe. The presentation at the Hilton Hotel consisted of the following paintings:

Nellie, Poppies, Dianne Sloan, Zuni, Hopi, Acequis Madre, West Virginia Autumn, The Brass Kettle, Red Still Life, Concord Bridge, San Antonio, The Poplars, Still with Fruit, Michele, Ploxx, Along the Canal, Mary Ann Long, Gladiola Navejo Woman, Old Timer and Red.

DELEGATES RETURN

J. H. Fulmer, Carl Degner of Carrizozo, Eddie Long of Capitán, Mrs. Geraldine DuBois Perkins and Greg Mares attended the Republican Convention at Albuquerque this Wednesday. Pat Hurley was the speaker of the occasion. A record-breaking attendance was reported.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

F. E. Richard, Mayor.

Attest: Morgan Lovelace, Clerk.

J. H. Fulmer, President of the White Oaks Metals Co., left yesterday for Tucson, Arizona, on a business trip in the interest of his company.

Mrs. P. C. St. John arrived on Wednesday morning from Albuquerque, where she visited the Sam Martinez, Andy Padilla and Lell St. John families for about ten days.

TAMPA, FLA.—A session with Clark Griffith, the Gray Fox of Washington, carries you back many a day and many a year.

My own first training camp thrill came in 1898 in Nashville. A tall, broad-shouldered, awkward-looking party came into the locker room, wearing a pale-blue suit with brass buttons.

He was over six-foot-two, weighed 200 pounds, and he was lanky in looks. In addition to blazing speed he had the fastest-breaking curve ball I've ever seen.

His name was George Edward (Rube) Waddell.

Even when he was fading out with tuberculosis he still had enough left to strike out 10 of Connie Mack's Athletics.

Griff's Top Thrill

Griff's top training camp thrill arrived in Atlanta around 1904.

Griff was waiting that morning to meet a young first baseman, just heading in from California. He had no other first baseman on his Yankee roster, so the rookie had to be good.

"Suppose he's a flop, what'll you do?" I asked the Old Fox.

"A flop?" said Griff. "He's going to be the greatest first baseman that ever lived. You wait and see."

The kid arrived around noon or a trifle later. He was well built.

CLARK GRIFFITH

on the lean side, with a quick, friendly smile. The personality part was all there.

"How many days before you'll be ready to start?" Griffith asked him. "I thought you played a game today," the rookie said.

"We do," Griff told him. "That's when I'd like to start," his young first baseman countered.

"I'm always in shape." That afternoon he made at least three plays around first that left year scalp aching. They were plays no one but a great artist could make.

With a runner on second someone laid a bunt along the first-base foul-line. The kid was on it like a bounding kangaroo in time to nail the runner at third. It took less than his first ball game to know that another star was on his way to the headlines.

The rookie's name was Hal Chase.

Another Fair Entry

There was the day back in August around the same period when an 18-year-old strapping came along.

First time up he laid down a bunt, beat it out, stole second and then third. He finished out the day with a double, triple and home run.

The Hon. Oliver Babe Hardy was among those present. Not a bad afternoon for an 18-year-old kid. His name was Tyrus Raymond Cobb of Royston, Ga.

Later on he only made over 4,000 base hits and stoly close to 1,000 bases before he took off the spikes after 24 years.

There were training camp days in the old Southern league, also. I recall two outfielders who caught and held the eye. They were great ball players the first time you saw them. Looking back a long, long way, this was around 1907 as I recall time, now shrouded in mists.

One played for Little Rock—the other for New Orleans. The first was the best looking outfielder I'd ever seen in action. And one of the best hitters. His name was Tris Speaker. The other was the best looking actor with a bat around the plate anyone had ever seen. His name was Shoeless Joe Jackson.

And there was the spring training season 21 years ago, back in 1919, when the Boston Red Sox decided to make a regular outfielder out of their crack left-handed pitcher. They had an idea he might turn out to be a first-class slugger.

In one of the March games here in Florida he insuled one that carried over 500 feet into a pine thicket beyond the field—the longest blow the oldest inhabitant had ever seen, not even barring the top hurricane. I was on that trip and I was looking at a fellow by the name of Babe Ruth.

Terrymen Are Question Mark In 1940 Race

By ROBERT McSHANE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

AS MEMPHIS BILL TERRY leads his New York Giants into the 1940 baseball wars he is faced with his biggest task since taking over the managerial reins back in June, 1932.

The Giants, who once dominated baseball in New York, have sagged badly. The Yanks, world's champions, are stronger than ever, and the Brooklyn Dodgers, once rated as a congregation of crackpots, rank above the Giants both in league standings and popular appeal.

All of which makes the Giants the city's "third club," a position which causes Terry no end of grief and sorrow. To make things worse, the team does not look much better today than it did at the close of last season.

Since Terry became manager the Giants have won one world's championship, in 1933, and three National league pennants, in 1933, 1936 and 1937. The club that limped home in fifth place last year was the fourth second division Giant ball club since 1902. Under the Terry regime the club has been in first place three times, second place once, and third place three times.

Critics of Terry—and they are plentiful—point out a good share of his success has been due to the very capable work of holdovers from the McGraw dynasty, notably Carl Hubbell, Mel Ott, Hal Schumacher and Joe Moore.

Ott, Hubbell Key Men

Hubbell and Ott are the two key men. Hubbell came up under the late McGraw in 1923, and Ott in 1925. Year after year they have been performing much-needed miracles for the Giants, Ott driving in runs and even doubling as a third baseman and right fielder, and Hubbell pitching his heart out in winning, five years in succession, more than 20 games a season.

The past two seasons have been off years for Hub. In 1938 he won only 11 and lost 9 games. The year before he won only 13 and dropped 16. The Giants were whipped both years. A year and a half ago Carl was forced to submit to an arm operation, and last year he wasn't ready to pitch until July. This year he figures he will be all right. So do the Giants.

Mel Ott's powerful bat has been a determining factor in Giant pennant battles ever since he joined the club. A dependable hitter, he was responsible for many a game chalked up in the win side of the column.

The most optimistic note emanating from the Giants is that Hubbell is already as good as ever. He has been under fire in early season games, and had demonstrated his old skill. So has Ott. At least that gives Manager Terry some cause for jubilation.

In a recent statement Terry remarked that "if I could win 77 games with the humpy-dumpy team I had last year, I don't see any reason in predicting less than 80 victories this year—said that will put me high up in the pennant race. Why shouldn't we be a better team? We're better at second, third, have a chance of improving in the outfield, and have a better first baseman."

It may be that Terry is whistling for the sake of courage. At least he appears to be overrating his team. He has a better infield than last year, at least defensively. The outfield is good; providing Joe Moore does not collapse.

Moore is no strapping, and it may be that young John Rucker will see plenty of action this year. Rucker has stood up well. He is a good hitter and a good fielder, and is very fast.

All-Wise Manager

Nevertheless the Giants are treading on dangerous ground. They haven't got the youngsters who can take up where Hubbell and Ott are likely to leave off. And those two gentlemen can't go on forever. The club has one advantage. Its overlord makes very few mistakes on the field.

Once in a while Terry does make an error of the field. He may have erred when he remarked that "the team that beats us will win the pennant."

ELMER SOUNDS A CALL

"I don't know no more than nobody else who will be the candidates for 'President this winter,'" declared Elmer Twitchell today, "but I would personally go for a sourpuss."

"A sourpuss?" the reporter asked, a little puzzled.

"Yes, sir," snapped Elmer, "a sourpuss. A deadpan candidate without a smile in his system. A fellow who can't photograph or screen well and who knows it. I am fed up with the old personality stuff in all public offices, and what is more I think a candidate with a severe mug and a what's-there-to-grin-over attitude might sweep the country."

"You don't mean that, Elmer," the reporter argued. "Everybody likes a radiant personality; everybody reacts to charm."

"Yeah," admitted Elmer, "and I'm for it, too, up to a point. But I think the personality theme has reached the point where the public is ripe for a swing the other way. This may be a sourpuss year."

Mr. Twitchell seemed quite serious about it.

"I like a genial, warm personality as well as the next man," he continued. "I am a sucker for charm, like the rest of the American public. Ordinarily I will vote for a man who screens well over a candidate who has nothing but efficiency to recommend him. Nine times out of ten I will go for the candidate with an appealing radio voice over the fellow for whom nothing can be said except that he would make a good President. But I now want a sourpuss. And for once I can be stampeded by a candidate whose voice on the air sounds like somebody filing a saw."

"It's a very strange argument you are making, Mr. Twitchell," the reporter put in. "A smile and a radio voice are generally considered important assets in any campaign."

"That's what you think," barked Elmer. "I think there's a reaction."

And it gives me a pain in the blouse to observe all the candidates on all sides grinning from ear to ear, trying to look like personality-plus boys on the screen and trying to register as the Voice of the Year on the radio. I tell you that if I was a candidate for public office today I would have my picture taken only when I looked like I was having an argument with a taxicab driver, and I would open all my radio speeches with, 'Well, folks, I am a punk on the radio; I don't intend to bother acquiring a technique. All I expect to do is to quote facts and figures in a dull voice.' This alone would make me a sensation."

"You wouldn't get to first base as a candidate for inspector of manhole covers," the reporter insisted.

"Maybe not," said Elmer, "but I still think otherwise. And I hope I am right, because no country can stand government by personality and microphone charm indefinitely. Ultimately a sourpuss is necessary medicine. In fact, I am busy on the idea. I have already started organizing the Sourpuss for President Clubs. No candidate with charm can even get close to us."

"America's outstanding inventors were honored at a big banquet the other night. But nobody has yet focused up who can devise a paper saphin that will stay on the knees at least through the soup course."

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THERE'S been a bit of knife-throwing going on in Hollywood, and it's been none too good for the nerves of the spectators who are scheduled to act as targets. Paulette Goddard is trying her hand at it, in preparation for her role in Cecil B. DeMille's "North West Mounted Police." She is scheduled to play "Louvette," whom Mr. DeMille described as "a combination of Circe, Desdemona, Carmen and a black panther."

She always gets her man, and knife-throwing is part of her menage. So she's been practicing around the studio. "It's hard work," she complained the other day. "I'm afraid I'll knock off a finger or chop off a toe before I'm through."

"Probably my toe," gloomily prophesied Bob Hope, who's working with her in "The Ghost Breakers."

And over at Warner Brothers' Steve Clemente is also hurling knives, in a corner of the set for "Torrid Zone." An expert, he easily slips a knife into a wall 15 paces away.

James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, stopping to watch him, noticed that there were two chalk marks on the wall, less than six inches apart, and that the knife went whistling neatly between them.

"What do those marks mean?" asked O'Brien.

"Those," answered Clemente, "represent your head and Mr. Cagney's. They'll be that close together when I throw a knife between them for the picture."

Bette Davis owns her own home at last. She's been in Hollywood for nine years, and lived in a different home each year—she's never owned a house, a ranch or even a vacant lot. But before beginning "All This and Heaven Too" she bought what the salesman called "An American farm house"; she says it reminds her of her childhood home in New England. It's just five minutes from the studio. It's also just a little too near the Los Angeles river, which overflowed its banks a few years ago, washing away several homes in the vicinity.

Martha Scott and William Holden, two of the stars in Sol Lesser's "Our Town," consumed 32 strawberry-ice cream sodas during the making of the love scenes for the picture, and at the moment wouldn't care if they never saw another one.

But Frank Craven, who finished 16 cans of tobacco in his pipe during his scenes, just went out and bought more for his personal use.

There's an entire Hollywood novel in a press announcement that was sent out a while ago, before Linda Darnell started east. "Miss Darnell will be accompanied to New York by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Darnell," it stated, "but her father, who is a clerk in the Dallas post office, will remain on the job back in Texas." Apparently even the fame of his very beautiful daughter doesn't dazzle Mr. Darnell.

Priscilla and Rosemary Lane received a substantial offer to become platinum blondes and turned it down. A representative of more than 5,000 hairdressers made it; he said that a scheme is being promoted to revive the platinum blonde craze introduced by the late Jean Harlow, and that several other stars are being approached with the same offer. It includes a royalty in addition to the flat advance sum.

Recently the students of Blue Ridge college, New Windsor, Md., selected Albert Dekker as the "Perfect Profile of 1940." Dekker won a narrow victory over Nelson Eddy; the girls selected him because his was the profile that impressed them most when they inspected the photographs of the contestants, which included every male star in Hollywood. What they didn't know was the man they chose as appears in his current picture, "Dr. Cyclops," with his head shaved and his nose obscured by a pair of glasses.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

HOSEA TELLS OF GOD'S FORGIVING LOVE

LESSON TEXT—Hosea 1:1-7:14-9. GOLDEN TEXT—If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—1 John 1:9.

God loves sinners! This is the message of the Bible. God hates sin, but He loves sinners and is eager that they should repent and receive His forgiveness. God even loves the backslider, the one who has been in fellowship with Him, tasted the joys of the eternal promised land and then turned back to the fleshpots of the world. This is the special message of the book of Hosea, for he deals with a backsliding and rebellious Israel, so determined to turn against God's love that they are described in 11:7 (R. V.) as being "bent on backsliding." Israel failed to heed God's warning, did not respond to His loving call, and went on to judgment. May none of us be so foolish and stubborn. God is now calling sinners in love and compassion, doing everything in His power to lead them to repentance and spiritual healing. "Today, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts" (Ps. 95:7, 8).

I, God Calling Sinners (6:1, 2).

The great loving heart of God longs after wayward men. Though they have in deliberate unbelief turned from Him, yet He sends His messenger to bring them His gracious invitation. No more beautiful word can be spoken than "Come." It speaks of an open door, of a forgiving spirit, of a desire for renewed fellowship.

Come, O sinner, and meet the Saviour. He it is who by both life and death has revealed the fullness of God's love to you. In Him you will find entrance into eternal life and joy. He says, "I am the door, by me if any man enter in he shall be saved" (John 10:9).

Observe also the word "return." The invitation from God is not only to those who have never known Him, but also to the backslider. How many miserably unhappy backslidden Christians there are in the world! Friend, if you are one of them, this invitation is especially for you!

II. God's Dealings With Sinners (6:3-7).

Our Lord is both compassionate and faithful in His dealings with sinners. He will win them with love and tenderness if they permit Him to do so, but if necessary He can also use the rod of punishment or the storm of unpleasant circumstances to drive them to Him. Remember that both the tenderness and the severity of God are expressions of His love.

With Israel God wanted to come as the gentle, reviving rain from heaven (v. 3), but because of their unrepentant attitude (v. 4) He had to come forth as One who hews down and destroys (v. 5). Even in this breaking down and destroying He is only preparing to rebuild. As the surgeon must first hurt in order to heal, God must sometimes cut deeply in order to remove the blight of sin.

These lines will probably be read by many who have wondered at the dealings of God with them. Perhaps they have been inclined to condemn Him as being unkind or severe. Let them be assured that God is love and that back of all of His dealings with men there is His tender purpose to bring them unto Himself for salvation or for blessing.

III. God Healing Sinners (14:4-9).

When sinners come to Him with words of repentance (14:3) God is ready to meet them and to heal all of their sins and backslidings. Observe that not only will He heal their past sins, but will cause their present position to be such that they may "love them freely" (v. 4), and then their future will be one of great glory. God is infinitely gracious and pours out His love without measure upon the sinner who returns to Him.

Verses 5 to 8 give a beautiful picture of God's blessings on the life of the regenerated man. The lily (v. 5) speaks of stately royal beauty. Lebanon (v. 6) is strength and stability, even as the great cedars of Lebanon were treasured for their strength. The spreading branches (v. 6) tell of expansion and growth. The olive tree (v. 7), the corn and the vine (v. 7), all speak of fruitfulness and usefulness. The smell of Lebanon (v. 8) is the smell of cedar and bespeaks a life so fragrant that it spreads around it the "sweet savor of Christ" (II Cor. 2:15). The evergreen fir tree (v. 8) speaks of constant freshness and beauty.

God has all these things in mind for every Christian, that is, for every sinner who will repent and turn to Him through Christ, and for every backslider who will return to Him today.

Lowly Maggot an Aid

To Flower Breeders

USE of the loathsome maggot in the development of more lovely flowers for the gardeners of the world constitutes a little-known phase of the science of flower breeding.

Often in his work the flower breeder obtains outstanding, single-plant specimens which give promise of becoming sensational, new flower creations. This remarkable plant individual must be protected from contamination (cross-pollination) by neighbor flowers. So the breeder encloses it, as it grows, in a muslin cage.

If the plant is to mature properly and produce seed, however, its flowers must be pollinated, but only with the pollen grains of that plant itself. Scientists call this "selfing."

Pollination by hand of all the caged plants on a flower breeding plot would be long, tedious work, so Gordon Morrison, Ferry-Morse Seed Station hybridist, enlists the aid of the maggot. It is the maggot of the objectionable blowfly, moreover. Blowfly maggots in the pupae stage are placed in the flower cage, subsequently maturing into flies. The insects are extremely active and they fly from flower to flower on the caged plant, doing an excellent job of spreading pollen from one blossom to another. The plant then proceeds to produce its prized crop of seed.

Thus the long-despised maggots do their part to help make the world more beautiful. Even so, let's hope flower breeders find a way to put them out of existence after they have done their pollination chore.

Kangaroo Court in Jail

About 1,700 of the 3,100 county and local jails in this country allow inmates to hold kangaroo courts, or mock trials presided over by the tougher prisoners, for the purpose of "maintaining discipline," which consists merely of delegating distasteful jobs to those they dislike and extorting money from others through ridiculous fines.—Collier's.

ADVISES YOUNG GIRLS ENTERING WOMANHOOD. Thousands of young girls entering womanhood have found a "real friend" in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help them get familiar with their bodies, moody, nervous spells, and relieve cramps, headache, backache, and other annoying troubles that beset every young woman. WORTH TRYING!

Apply the Rule. We have committed the Golden Rule to memory; now let us commit it to life.—Edwin Markham.

NIGHT COUGHS AND COLDS. Need More Than "Salvo" To Quickly Relieve DISTRESS! Before you go to bed rub your throat, chest and back with warming, soothing Musterole. You get such QUICK relief because Musterole is MORE than "just a salve." It's a warming, stimulating "counter-irritant" which helps relieve local congestion and pain due to colds. Its soothing vapors ease breathing. Used by millions for over 20 years! 8 strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra-Strong. 40¢. Hospital Size, $3.00.

MUSTEROLE. Exaggeration. We are never so happy, nor so unhappy, as we suppose ourselves to be.—La Rochefoucauld.

CONSTIPATED? Don't Let Gas, Nerve Pressure Keep You Miserable. When constipated five things may happen: IRRITATION. Accumulated wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This may produce often called headaches, a dull, lary feeling, loss of appetite, and dizziness. SECOND: Partially digested food starts the decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, and indigestion, and heartburn, bloating, you may feel sometimes sharp pains in the bowels. Then you can't sleep. You can't sleep. Now think it over. You feel tired, irritable, nervous, and miserable. BALANCE! Adients containing three laxatives and five cathartics gives you DOUBLED ACTION. It relieves gas, and GAS about at once, and usually clears the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief. Sold at all drug stores.

Bureau of Standards. A BUSINESS organization which wants to get the most for the money sets up standards by which to judge what is offered to it, just as in Washington the government maintains a Bureau of Standards. You can have your own Bureau of Standards, too. Just consult the advertising columns of your newspaper. They safeguard your purchasing power every day of every year.

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real? Is the Subject for Sunday, April 14. The Golden Text is: 'The Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; He will save us.'" Citation from Bible: "The Lord is good to all and His tender mercies are over all His works." Passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science reveals God, not as the author of sin, sickness and death, but as divine Principle, Supreme Being, Mind, exempt from all evil."

Old Customs: Santa sweaters in Rio de Janeiro follow the old custom that the man in the suit must not enter his sweetheart's house until they are engaged. Up to that happy time they must conduct their courtesies at a suitable distance from each other, usually talking over the garden hedge, or across the street from one side, the three feet away on the other.

Old Prof. Telequiz Says It's Thrifty To Telephone!

Here is His Question for Today...

QUESTION: Suppose you have a boy or girl at college, one hundred miles away. (You may have, at that... so here goes).

What would a 3-minute night or Sunday station-to-station call cost?

Did you say one dollar? Two dollars? Seventy-five cents?

ANSWER: The answer is forty cents. Your telephone takes you to other towns at little expense. Enjoy the thrill of hearing familiar voices across the miles... it's next best to being there.

Any city is really just across the street by telephone and you are usually connected while you hold the line--like local calls. Whose voices would you like to hear?

The operator will be glad to tell you rates to any towns you wish to call

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Release of Polish 'Documents' Creates Furore in Washington; Hull, Bullitt Deny Nazi Charge

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

HITLER SAY:

The Roosevelt administration indignantly denied spectacular charges by Germany. Herr Ribbentrop's aggressive Foreign Office charged that it had possession of 18 crucial documents, found in the Polish government archives at captured Warsaw.

President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull, and Bill Bullitt hastened to deny the accusations, as storm clouds gathered over America.

COUNT JERZY POTOCKI—Poland's ambassador to the U. S., whose alleged reports to Warsaw on conversations with William Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to Berlin. Said Potocki: "I deny the allegations . . . I never had any (such) conversations . . ."

union. But Congressman Hamilton Fish and the hardshell isolationists were infuriated, asserting that where there is smoke, there is a fire or two.

ANGLO-FRANCE:

The allied war council met, somewhat bewildered by it all, in London. The French and English reaffirmed their unity, barred any separate peace by either, and announced that their financial, economic and imperialistic co-operation would continue after the present war was over.

NAMES in the news

Congressman Hamilton Fish, who wanted Roosevelt's foreign activities investigated, himself led colored N. Y. troops in the last war. He fought with the French army.

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the U. S. public health service, declared that cancer, which caused more than 140,000 deaths last year, is on the increase and ranks as second leading cause of death.

The Irish Republican army of wild men demonstrated against tall, calm Eamon De Valera, premier of Eire. "Val" was born in New York, with a Spanish father, and an Irish mother and sympathies.

William Horlick Jr., 55, whose father started the multi-million-dollar Horlick malted milk fortune, died at Racine, Wis.

William F. Beckner, who began serving a two-year term for mail fraud in the Philippine railway bonds scandal, was revealed to be the husband of Adelaide Moffet, night club singer and heiress to Standard Oil millions.

Henry Ford II, grandson of the great Henry, is preparing to become a Roman Catholic. His grandfather comes of Irish Protestant stock. The boy's father is Edsel Ford.

let it be known, to take a more active part in pushing the war, and there was a lot of gossip about Chamberlain going the way of Daladier—into the prime-ministerial discard. Due to British naval losses, there was also talk of the axe for Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

It appeared that the neutrals would suffer, as the result of an increased war endeavor by the allies. Germany must be shut off from oil and iron, and if Norwegian, or Rumanian, or Russian neutrality suffered in consequence, that could not be helped.

Meanwhile, the Germans and Norwegians scored off one another 1 to 1. A German U-boat wormed its sinister way into Kirkwall, British base in the faraway Orkney islands north of Scotland, and "slung Churchill's whiskers, if any" by sinking a Norwegian freighter, which was "safely" held there by the British navy.

With the Spanish civil war a year over, the grandees (noble families of rank No. 1) took stock. Dictator Franco recently restored them their estates, confiscated by the late lamented republic, but still they had paid a heavy toll.

Records of the Dictator Francisco Franco—A year after the Spanish war ended, his people took stock.

Council of Grandees indicated that 40 princely ducal ones had been killed in the civil war, and that no less than 118 more of them had been "assassinated."

Pope Pius XII called for more Christianity in all nations, and for a rebirth of human decency in the face of hell on earth, ill will to men. He deplored the bombing of civilians, the violation of treaties, and the whole conception of power-politics and super-tough Realpolitik.

Woman-of-the-Week

MRS. HJALMAR PROCOPE

Uncertain of his nation's fate, Finnish Minister to the U. S. Hjalmar J. Procope kept mum about his marriage plans until Finland came to terms with Russia. After that he lost no time. Bundled aboard a U. S.-bound steamer was Miss Margaret Shaw of Yorkshire, England.

MON-MON-MONEY:

The house slapped through a mere billion-dollar Labor-Security appropriation, voted down about a quarter of a million for the ailing National Labor Relations board, which has been getting a panning on many fronts, and approved $17,450,000 for the National Youth administration.

The President got back to his office deak after a lengthy and fevered cold. He talked to Sumner Welles, fresh in from Europe, and gave out indications of pessimism as to any early peace abroad.

But, despite Vandenberg and Taft and others, Secretary Hull succeeded in beating the Pittman amendment to the Trade Agreements resolution, which would restore to the senate the power to ratify all future reciprocal trade pacts.

SUPREME THE COURT:

Our top tribunal found guilty the Ethyl Gasoline corporation, in an anti-trust case. Ethyl, despite her attractive name, was accused of licensing jobbers in a way contrary to the public weal.

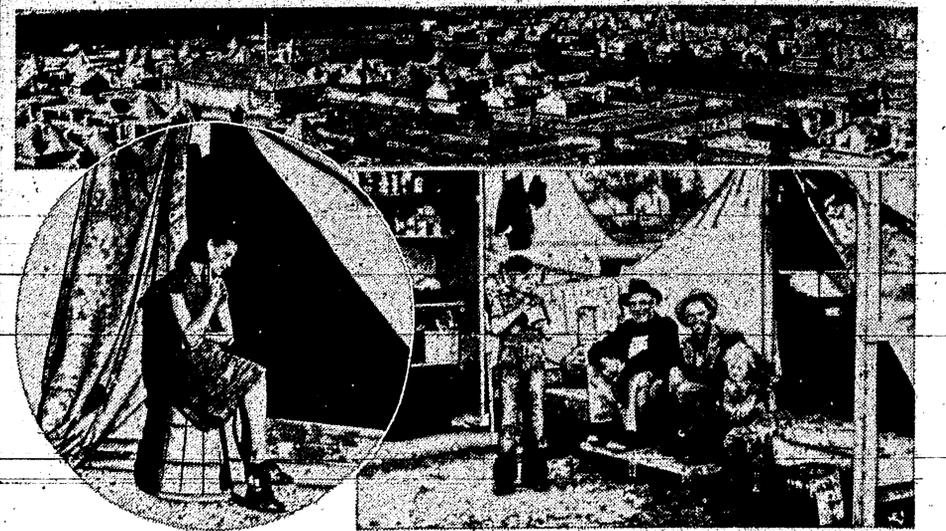

MURDER DE LUXE:

It is hoped that the English and Nazi newspapers do not go to town on tidings from Brooklyn, N. Y. There the mass-murder racket investigation continued under District Attorney O'Dwyer.

UP ABOVE:

The American airplane transport system is fast becoming one of the nation's good boys. We point with pride: Once we viewed with alarm. A full year has just passed without a single death or serious injury to any passenger, pilot, steward, or innocent bystander on the U. S. airways.

Things to make

WE OFFER here two new cut-outs. Practical as well as decorative features are incorporated in the duck; decorative-ness alone is the purpose of the sunbonnet girl. These designs, of course, are to be traced on wall-board, plywood or thin lumber. Jig, coping or keyhole saw may be used to cut them out, and when painted they become attractive ornaments for your lawn. Outlines for the 19-inch duck and his "Keep Off Grass" sign are on pattern Z9088, 15 cents. A "Use Walk" sign is also given. In about 24-inch size, the ever-popular sunbonnet girl and her sprinkling can are on pattern Z9088, 15 cents. Select one or both of these clever cutout figures. General cutout directions, as well as specific painting suggestions come with each pattern. Send order to:

'I Could Kick Myself'

Have you ever said that, when you have missed an opportunity that stared you in the face, or done something against your better judgment? If so, read on. A thoughtful mayor has provided an ingenious machine whereby you can kick yourself as often and as hard as you please. It's in a small town in South Carolina and was erected in 1937. You sit on a parallel bar and turn a handle. The handle rotates a windmill arrangement with four boots at the ends of it. As you turn, still full of annoyance with yourself, and believing that you thoroughly deserve it, the boots come round and administer a hearty kick in the pants. You can then rise and go on your way, resolved that never again will you merit such self-punishment. Until next time!

The Honorable Uncle Lancy

By ETHEL HUESTON

THE STORY THUS FAR

Left orphans by a tragic automobile accident which claimed the lives of their mother and father, three sisters, Helen, Adele and "Limpy," are visited by their Aunt Olympia, politically-minded wife of Senator Alonzo Delaporte Slophshire. She insists that the girls return with her to Washington, to make their home with them. In addition to loving the girls, Aunt Olympia knows they will be a terrific political asset. Senator Slophshire has as his political opponent one Brother Wilkie, a minister, whose political campaign is furthered by seven "unspeakable brats" who sit on the rostrum with him while he makes speeches. Aunt Olympia and the Senator, kind and loving, nevertheless know that their three nieces will mean votes for the Senator. Senator Slophshire, a pleasantly foggy individual who depends on the astuteness of his wife, prepares for their coming. Though Limpy, and gifts he can find, feeling that "children" should be occupied. When they first meet their "Uncle Lancy," as he is to be known, the girls take him to their united bosom. Soon Adele, most beautiful of the sisters, meets Len Hardesty, publicity man for Brother Wilkie. Though it is Len's job to help defeat the Senator, he promptly falls in love with Adele. Olympia buys an automobile house-trailer which will accommodate the five of them, and from which the Senator will campaign. Then she decides to hire a publicity agent for the Senator, securing the services of Dave Cooper.

"How can I drum up votes for the Governor," continued Len, "if I'm going to be upset over the Opposition all summer? Do you want to nip the budding career of a rising young genius?" "I'd love to. If you consider yourself a budding genius, which most people don't. Thanks, Len. I'll call him first thing in the morning." "You'll call him? Haven't you called him? Haven't you cinched it?" "Thanks for that, my darling old dragon!" he said, a ray of light breaking over his face. "I'll land him first. I know every sofa he sits on. Tough luck, old dear; the Governor's hiring an escort for the brats if he has to add an extra per cent to pay for him. Good-by, dear beautiful angel," he said to Adele. "For your sake, I tear myself away to corral that menace." The girls sat quite motionless until he had dashed from the room. Aunt Olympia contentedly lighted a cigarette. "Are you going to let him get away with it?" gasped Adele. "My dear," said Aunt Olympia, "in politics you never allow grass to grow where the Opposition is going to plant his foot. I tried to get Cecil this morning but he is up in New York writing up that model murder case for the tabloids. If Len Hardesty knows every sofa in Manhattan, he's had entirely too much experience to associate with you my dears."

CHAPTER V

On the next morning at eleven o'clock, Aunt Olympia received Cecil Dodd in the sitting room. She received him alone, having with difficulty hardened her heart to the girls' importunities, for they, eager curiosity doubly whetted by the united opposition of Uncle Lancy and Len Hardesty and by Aunt Olympia's defense, were eager for a glimpse of him. Aunt Olympia, for the only time, withstood their pleas. Even Limpy's "Aw, Aunt Olympia," did not move her. "I've been thinking of our talk the other day," she began at once. "Did I understand you to say you would like to try your hand at campaigning?" "I'm crazy to," he said boyishly. "I've applied for a job every place under the sun, but nobody will take me because I have no experience; and how the deuce can I get experience when nobody will try me out?" "Maybe you could give me a recommendation," he suggested. "No, I can't do that," she said flatly. "I don't know whether you're any good or not and I'm careful about my recommendations. But maybe I could give you a job—a very small job, of course. But it would be a starter." Cecil Dodd was so surprised he couldn't say a word. Refuse a recommendation—and give him a job! It seemed almost unethical. "Experience is worth more than money," he murmured, devoutly. "Not to us," she admitted. "Anyhow, I'll be something and we'll pay your expenses, and if anybody can teach you the racket, Dave Cooper can. With some help from me. You see, Cece, this isn't like the usual campaign. We've got our young nieces with us and we're going to take them along. Those girls are going to be our best asset in this campaign and we want someone—not quite so hard-boiled as Dave—to do full justice to their vote appeal. And since the girls will be around constantly, we'd like someone of agreeable disposition and some social experience—to be a sort of companion to them. And we think you'll do all right. You'll take orders from Dave, of course, and do what he tells you and go where you're sent. But your main job will be handling our end of the game." Cecil Dodd was boyishly delighted. When the first moment of reverent and worshipful awe had passed he found voice again. "Mrs. Slophshire," he said earnestly, "I'll work like a dog; I'll work day and night." Having come to this amicable agreement, Aunt Olympia asked him to stay and meet the girls. He accepted the invitation gratefully but Aunt Olympia could see that his mind was less on them than on the great opportunity which a bounteous Heaven had so surprisingly bestowed upon him. He responded courteously to the introductions but seemed not even to notice Adele's

"Not as good a reporter as Len Hardesty," thought Aunt Olympia. "Len hasn't overlooked a lash." The girls, considerably to their surprise, found him pleasant, even likable, and a decided contrast to the explosively verbose Len Hardesty. He was slight in build, not tall, but lithe, with a suggestion of muscular strength in his easy movements. His voice was low, almost diffident, his smile boyishly winsome. He dressed with that studied and expensive carelessness that is so revealing to the practiced eye. "Well, you may as well begin now as anytime," said Aunt Olympia. "Take a memorandum, will you?" He hastened to comply, drawing out his fountain pen and a small, elegant date book in limp leather. "Remind the Senator—or remind me to remind him—to be sure to write up and tell the farmer at Shires—that's our place up home—to have an extra suit of farm clothes for the Senator to borrow when he speaks at the Granges." The girls talked him over when he had gone. They agreed that Len Hardesty had been unjustly prejudiced and that Cecil was a nice boy and they could stand having him around. They thought his eager enthusiasm for the job rather pathetic. "Yes, it's pathetic," assented Aunt Olympia. "Cece is all right. The trouble is that he's always been able to do what he wanted to instead of what he had to. He has enough money to live on, so he's never had to fla his nose on the grindstone. It takes grindstone to make a newspaper man."

"He's really what you would call a sweet child," Helen wrote to Brick Landis. "He seems so young and so unspoiled, and yet Aunt Olympia says he's had his own way all his life and had everything he has ever wanted. He is taking this job with such deadly seriousness that she is beginning to fear he will neither amuse us nor drive Len Hardesty mad, which was her main object. He began bringing up huge volumes on politics to get Aunt Olympia's opinion of them, but she stopped that. She said he could get his opinions from her and Dave Cooper. He has bought a new, perfectly gorgeous, simply huge, brief case and a new portable typewriter. And whenever he is not sitting rapidly in the Senate gallery gazing down at his candidate and taking notes of every breath he draws, he is at the Press Club trying to make 'contacts.' I just wonder, Brick, if you take politics seriously enough. You didn't pay thirty dollars for a brief case and buy a new typewriter." Aunt Olympia went with Helen and Adele one afternoon to a large cocktail party—the invitations had said "tea." It was at the home of an outstanding Republican senator; they remembered that later, with some bitterness. Adele, left alone for a few minutes, was approached by a man, comparatively young, quite handsome, whom Adele instinctively labeled "a foreigner of some sort." "I met you just after you came in, Miss Rutherford," he said pleasantly. "I am Gabriel d'Alottli. I couldn't possibly expect you to remember me in that crowd and that confusion, but by the same token, you could not possibly expect me not to remember you in any crowd or any confusion. You are unforgettable." Adele smiled pleasantly. But she remembered Len Hardesty's warning, "Beware of embassies and attaches!" "Are you with one of the embassies?" she asked. "Alas, no! I have no such importance. I am just a young man trying to get along. But I know the embassy crowd and have friends among them, so I get around. May I bring you a drink?" "Not now, thanks." "To tell the truth, I am one of about a million foreigners trying to get the true American picture. I do free-lance correspondence for a few foreign papers and magazines, and naturally I am collecting my impressions for a book on America." "If you get the American picture, you see better than I do," she admitted. "It looks a hedgepodge to me. Like modern painting. You can't tell whether that pink splash is a lady's arm or a platter of fried liver with onions! And then it turns out to be a bunch of grapes." He laughed appreciatively. "I find the same difficulty, both with art and with America. But I am young and here's I shall die struggling.

Do you like Washington?"

"Oh, very much." "Of course you get the right start on it," he conceded. "It helps a good deal to be on the inside looking out and around, instead of, as I am, on the outside, waiting my turn at the knothole." "Oh, but that's my trouble! I'm on the outside, too." "You can't be far outside in the home of Senator Slophshire. He knows his America. I have often wondered about your senators. Do they act at home as they do on the floor?" "Um, something the same. Uncle Lancy wipes his glasses; and blushes through his thinning hair when he is flattered." "But what does he talk about? Does he merely say, as I would, how very beautiful you are? Does he complain about the eggs being overdone? Does he read his speeches to you?" Adele laughed. "He reads them to Helen, but she asked for it," she admitted. "Helen is trying to learn politics from the ground up. She is my older sister." "Dear me, is she going to run for something?" "Maybe. Anyhow, she made up her mind to learn it. She goes to committees and reads the Congressional Record and at night they go to the library and argue for hours over how many air defense guns are required here and there, and whether peace is preserved by more armaments or by disarming, and which end of a boat is the proper place to put guns and how many times the new destroyers can be torpedoed before they blow up—all that sort of thing." "Dear me! It sounds quite horrifying. Doesn't he expound it all to you, too?" "Oh, no. I don't listen. Limpy and I don't care for that sort of thing. We just pick out the best nuts and think of other things." "Simply profound of you, I should say. More important things! Like, where's your yellow basket?" "Oh, nothing half as profound as that. If we lost our yellow basket, Uncle Lancy would demand a congressional investigation and get it back for us."

Gabriel d'Alottli went away presently. He had not seen Helen before. Naturally, seeing Adele, one looked no further. He did not make the mistake of asking Adele to point out her sister. He was not so clumsy as that. He asked someone else, a stranger, where she was—Senator Slophshire's niece. The stranger, being a man, pointed to Adele. "No, I mean the other one; the studious one; her sister."

"Oh, yes, there is another one. Let's see. Oh, there she is; over by that window. The tall girl in the black hat and veil." Gabriel d'Alottli introduced himself to Helen. "I've been having a delightful chat with your very lovely sister," he said with engaging candor. "She tells me that you and I have a great deal in common; that we are a pair of young innocents in the primary department of the big college of politics."

"Oh, I'm not up to the primary department yet," said Helen. "I'm still in the cradle. But I am trying so hard to understand things—and making very little headway." "We must collaborate," he said. "We are having the same trouble. We have learned the 'c' and the 'a' and the 't'; now we must digest our wisdom and combine it into 'cat.' Perhaps two digestions, like heads, are better than one."

"It sounds promising," she said. "I confess that half the time I just listen and frown and don't even try to digest it—I keep hoping one acquires it gradually, like suntan, from persistent application. Perhaps between us we could get the 'c' and the 'a' and the 't' into a little kitten, at least, if not into a full-grown cat to begin with." "It's a bargain," he said heartily, shaking hands with her. "I shall go at once and make diplomatic overtures to your aunt."

Inside of five minutes he had Aunt Olympia's attention. "Mrs. Slophshire," he said ingratiatingly, "it is only fair to inform you, in strictest confidence, that I have been completely enchanted with your very lovely niece. How does one go about getting permission to call?" "One comes to tea." "Pardon my persistence. How soon does one come?" "Tomorrow. It will be nice to have you. We're living very quietly of course—almost in seclusion—because of that terrible tragedy—but I do want the girls to pick up what amusement they can." "I'll be at my most humorous, I promise you. I'll go around and collect some good stories for them."

"Don't!" she ejaculated. "If you're hearing the same ones I am, they are not fit for their young ears. Bring yourself—and leave your repertoire at home." "Who's that man?" she asked, turning to a friend who stood near. "That one—making tracks for the punch bowl. With too much lotion on his hair." "That? Why, that's Gabriel d'Alottli! You must know him. He goes everywhere."

"Oh, yes, I know him all right. But I've had so much trouble with that Alencon that I try not to pick up any foreign names. Gabriel d'Alottli. . . . Yes, I know him."

"He is very interesting," Helen wrote to Brick Landis a couple of weeks later. "And isn't it strange that he hasn't fallen in love with Adele? Well, he certainly has endeavored my study of the American system. He disagrees with me on nearly everything. He has the foreign idea of maintaining peace—that is, by bigger and better armaments. You'd almost think he was going to take out naturalization papers, he gets so wrought-up over America's lack of preparedness."

"To tell the truth he knows a lot more than I do about the American system, though he doesn't approve of most of it. He comes to the house quite often and once he went with me to one of Uncle Lancy's committees and we did agree on one thing: that it is mighty hard for a dozen men sitting around a table to agree on a policy to save the nation; especially when the plan goes from them to the Senate, then to the House, back to the Senate, and back to conference again; and when they do finally agree on something, there's still the White House to reckon with."

"You needn't worry, darling. He hasn't the suggestion of a crush on me. You can't fool women about that. Sometimes we think they have when they haven't, but we never think they haven't when they have. We're not that dumb. But we are both interested in the same things and it really is more exciting to argue with him than with Uncle Lancy. Uncle Lancy's always afraid of hurting my feelings, and Mr. d'Alottli isn't. But he isn't my type. I like 'em red headed and a bit roughed up."

"Oh, Brick, the session is nearly over and nothing has happened! Wouldn't you think one really big thing—an important thing—might happen while I am here, so I could get a glimpse beneath the surface?"

CHAPTER VI

Early in May, Aunt Olympia decided it was time for the assistant director of publicity, Cecil Dodd, to begin sending stories to the home papers. Olympia, who was an indefatigable maker of notes, had a list of "points" ready to start the campaign on her own and the girls' behalf; the Senator, except for incidental remarks in passing, was to be left to Dave Cooper. So she sent for Cecil and, at their laughing insistence on its educational value, permitted the girls to listen in.

"Now, you see, Cece," began Olympia, with great gusto, "politics is an elaborate and intricate system of build-up. That's all. Just build-up." Cecil took his limp leather loose-leaf notebook from his monogrammed thirty-dollar brief case and, with a U. S. Senate pencil the Senator had given him made a note of "build-up."

"A lot of it has to be done in advance because it must be gradual. An untimely climax gums up the works. It has to be a gradual ascent to the wind-up. Dave, as you know, is already at work building up the Senator's record and so forth but we women of the Senator's household must have our domestic build-up. The woman-vote, you know. Though a lot of males fall pretty hard for that domestic angle, too."

Cecil, raptly attentive, made a note of "domestic angle." "Now, in the first place, you must announce that certain salient facts were gleaned from Mrs. Slophshire in an interview. . . . This is an interview. . . . I'm going to answer the questions you would ask me if you had enough experience. Now, in answer to what should be your first question, I reply, with deep feeling, no, we have not as yet given a moment's thought to the coming campaign. That is left to the future. We—the Senator and I—are so happy in having these dear children with us, our home life is so full, so serene—Never say 'exciting.' Cece, for your life! Say 'satisfying.' Our home life is so serene, so satisfying—you might say serenely satisfying, if you like—that so far we have been entirely wrapped up in quiet family interests."

Bonnet, Sun Suit and Frock for Tot

USING this one clever pattern (1928-B) you can make a pretty complete play wardrobe for your young hopeful. It includes a scrap of a sun-suit, a sweet little frock, and a nice, scoopy, eye-shading bonnet, and every one of the three trifles takes practically no time to make. They're all just as comfortable to play in as they are cute-to-look-at.

The sun-suit consists of straps and gathers in the back, and is perfectly straight in the front.

1928-B

The yoke of the frock is extended into wings of kimono sleeve, and rows of braid trim every possible edge of both the frock and the bonnet. Simple as it is, the pattern includes a step-by-step new chart as well as complete directions. Gingham, seersucker, percale and chambray all come in colors which are particularly nice for tots' play togs like this.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1928-B is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 years. Size 3 requires 3 1/2 yards of 3 1/2-inch material without nap for the ensemble; 5 1/2 yards ricrac braid. Send order to:

Little old town, good afternoon!

German troops of invasion entered Copenhagen, Denmark's capital early Tuesday without resistance.

With lightning rapidity and overwhelming force, Germany's mighty war machine broke into the soil of her northern neighbor by land and sea at seven separate places, besides the capital.

The Norwegian capital of Oslo surrendered to the German army and air forces.

The Nazis will establish a "protectorate" in Norway and Denmark.

In other words, England handed Germany a blank check to sign.

Field Marshal Goring was right when he said Germany was going to strike a tremendous, decisive blow.

Monkey Business

On a lovely little island in a sunny southern sea, lived a chattering tribe of Monkeys, as happy as could be.

They lived on nuts and foliage and each one had his share—There was always enough to go around—and often some to spare.

While some of them were satisfied, there were some who seemed to feel, That if they had a leader they would get a better deal. So they had a big election and they did things up grand, They chose a great big monkey, the smartest of the band.

He made a great speech, he said—"MY FRIENDS," I guess you have named the proper Monkey to straighten out this M-e-s-s." He said, "If we would prosper, how plainly I can see we must take half the coconuts—and throw them in the sea."

And then a little later, when the nuts begin to grow, We will have to work together—dig up every other row. So they dug up half the peanuts, they worked for days and days, For he had promised them a profit for the ones they didn't raise.

But later in the season in the leader's first report, They found the crop of coconuts was very, very short. Now the little monkeys with their hair as soft as silk, Depend upon the coconuts for their supply of milk.

And before the common monkeys knew what 'twas all about, The smart ones cornered all the food and they were left without. Now the stronger ones are hungry and the weaker ones are dead—And the scheme to help the country is sadly in the red.

Of course, it's monkey business—we shouldn't make a fuss, But what if some big ape should try a stunt like that on us?

The Way of Bureaucracy

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

"He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people..."

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated..."

Here are two distinctively American statements. The first was written into the Declaration of Independence as a protest against the oppressions which brought on the Revolution. The second was written into our Bill of Rights. Together they express a fundamental national concept—that the citizen's right of privacy in his own life and his own home should remain inviolate.

But today millions of Americans are wondering just how far that principle is still honored. Today when more than 120,000 census-takers have been knocking at their doors to demand answers to personal questions that no earlier census asked, they are wondering if the American Spirit in Government has changed.

For they know that the men who established our Government never contemplated such a thing as forcing American citizens to reveal to census-takers—who may be political appointees or neighbors or both—the many personal matters, including wages, salary and other income, asked of some 130,000,000 American citizens in the 1940 census.

How, then, it may be asked, did America come to depart so far from these safeguards of the right of every man to personal privacy?

The answer is obvious. It is the old story of Bureaucracy feeding upon its own power. It is the story of what happens when politicians and job-holders are permitted to go their own way uncheckered by Congress or the people.

Bureaucratic snooping is not new—even to America. During the past few years we have seen much of it. But heretofore it has invaded the rights of only small and politically-uninfluential minorities—and for that reason has been tolerated by the people. Then, emboldened by the absence of effective protests, it insisted upon prying into the intimate affairs of every citizen.

Such are the methods of Bureaucratic oppression—yesterday the few; tomorrow the many.

That is how Bureaucracy always gains power, as the current history of totalitarian Europe, with its growing record of minority and religious persecution, will show. That is how Free Government is weakened.

"That is what the Founders meant when they said 'Etternal Vigilance is the Price of Liberty.' And that is what the people recognize when they protest against increasing intrusions of their right of privacy."
