NO NEW TAXES

The 1941 legislature should bear in mind the words of Govmessage to that body, he said: I would like to remind the members of the legislature that it has been my pledge and the pledge of the Demoeratic Party platform on which most of us were elected, that we will not create any new taxes.

Wherever possible, economles should be effected. If additional activities are to be undertaken or growth provided for, this must be done by effecting economies in other spending.

The cake and things you sent arrived okay only I did not get none on account of my buddies opened them. The trouble with the army is that you can't keep a separate mail ing address. Well, everything is going along good and life in the army ain't so bad once you make up your mind it can't be any too good.

not worry about me, Mom, as they are all pretty old, some even as old as 38 and 40. I don't know who is picking them, but it ain't Billy Rose.

At first I thought the Camp Fire Girls were being drafted, too, but I found out the government wants the soldiers to have as much amusement as they can get in the next war, including double features, swing music and Mickey Mouse. They even have cafeteria lunchrooms for visitors so if an outsider gets poisoned they can't blame it on the regular army cook.

The 'Original Cowgirl'

WHEN an automobile accident resulted in the death of Lucille Mulhall near the town of Mulhall, Okla., recently, it snapped another link with the Old West. For she was the "original cowgirl," the first of that tribe of daring young women who risk their necks riding bucking broncoes and roping steers or calves. But unlike many of the "synthetic cowgirls" you see at the ro-deos or in circuses today, Lucille Mulhall was "authentic."

She was the daughter of Col. Zach Mulhall, a pioneer of Oklahoma, the camps a hostess is a lady who whose ranch on Beaver creek once comprised more than 80,000 acres. While she was still a little girl her father offered to give her every yearling she could rope and brand by herself. But he soon begged off on his bargain when he noticed how many of his steers were wearing the brand of "L. M."

> When she was 14 she was the star attraction at the reunion of Roosevelt's Rough Riders in Oklahoma City in 1900. There she matched her

'Queen of the Range.'

Each contestant drew three steers by lot. Miss Mulhall got two big tough ones at the stort. She roped and tied the first one in 1 minute and 45 seconds. She cut that time down to 1 minute and 11 seconds with her second steer and she dropped her third one in the remarkable time of 40 seconds. Her total time for the three was 3 minutes and 36 seconds which was sev-

Just to prove that her victory at Fort Worth was no fluke, she entered a steer-roping contest at Mc-Alester, Okla., in 1903 and roped and tied three steers in 30%, 40 and 40% seconds. From that time on Lucille Mulhall was the sensation of every contest which she

If You Read in Bed You'll Want This Bag

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS THIS bag was planned as a hospital gift for someone who was finding days in bed difficult enough without having books, magazines, writing materials and spectacle case scattered about and forever gering lost. If you like to take an assortment of reading matter to bed, sick or well, you will enjoy a bag like this, Its hanger hook may be sewed to box springs. The bag shown here was made holstery material in tones of greer. with a touch of red in the pattern. The red was repeated in the sateen lining. The sketch gives all the dimensions and shows how the lining and the outside part were made. A coat hanger was cut down to measure 12 inches from end to end and was placed between the lining and the outside: these being stitched together around the top, as illustrated.

NOTE: As a service to our readers Mrs. Spears has prepared a series of six booklets of her original ideas. Each booklet contains 32 home-making projects with il-lustrated directions. Booklets are numbered from 1 to 6, numbers 3 and 4 containing directions for other types of bags and door pockets that will make house-keeping easier. BARTOW, GA.—How man states have turned out more state, especially in the way of quality, than the sovereign commonwealth of Georgia? In addition to Bobby Jones, Georgia also produced big Ed Dudley, one of the best of all the swingers, one of the star stylists of the game. And looking a long way back we still recall Bobby Walthour, who for years had the cycling championship and the six-day races at his

Georgia can offer a stout challenge, in the way of quality, to any other state. I doubt that any other -state-can offer two such headliners as Bobby Jones and Ty Cobb. In baseball Maryland isn't far

A half-dozen ringside veterans will claim the "greatest" tag for an equal number of fighters. Baseball enthusiasts have a hundred heroes. That isn't true of billiards. Billiard greatness and Willie Hoppe for 40 years. Willie, 53 years old, has devoted his life to the game. From the time lie was seven, he practiced from four to eight hours a day. He was a boy wonder at nine, playing exhibition games all over the country. Thirteen years ago he was referred to as "the grand old man of the

Three-Time Champion

In 1949 he won for the second time the world's three-cushlon championship by winning 20 straight games, a feat comparable to a Tony Galento victory over Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

In 1941 the New Yorker won his second consecutive three-cushion title, the third during his career.-He lost only one match in the 17-game tournament.

Hoppe's competitive career really started when he was 12. His father arranged a match for him with Al Taylor, 30 years old and one of the best balk-line players in the country. Taylor started out by being amused at his diminutive colleague. His amusement gave way to a totally different feeling when Willie won the match by a score of 300 to 207.

"In the past 25 years there has nover been a time when Willie did not hold at least one championship. According to his own estimate he has played or practiced billiards for about four hours a day for the last 40 years—the equivalent of 61/2 years of continuous play.

Allowance for Youth

His singleminded devotion to the game is responsible for much of his success. While most of his boyhood friends were playing shinny, baseball or indulging in some other strenuous pastime, Willie was at his father's pool table, figuring out the tough ones. He had to stand on a soap box because he wasn't tall enough to crouch over the edge of the table.

Even today Hoppe uses a sidearm stroke, the result of learning over his duties. the game before he was fall enough to adopt a standard shot.

Although billiards doesn't pay as well as it did 20 years ago, Willie still makes around $10,000 a year. In the early twenties he was making $25,000 a year.

All of which demonstrates why Willie is known as Mr. Billiards.

Luke Hamilin of the Brooklyn Dodgers says bad tonsils caused his poor play last season. He has had them removed.

"I have three girls in 'Las Vegas Nights. Each would use a different technique. Each technique would require eight reels to fold. So-I let Constance Moore get her man with the direct-approach technique, I give Virginia Dale a man before the picture starts, and I leave Lillian Cornell out on a limb with nary a male in sight. "The allure tech-woman conscious of the fact that she has an enormous amount of feminine appeal for men—a screen example would be Hedy Lamarr. Flattery is used by women ranging. from the baby-talk girls to the mothering type. There's the girl who gives the impression that she's helpless; men want to stand between her and the world-Bonnie Baker's an example. "There's the girl who uses the direct approach; spots the man she wants and makes no bones about it; she's a good sport, a playmate, and picks a man with the same characteristics. Barbara Stanwyck's a screen example, And the coquette, whose eyes say 'if you chase me I'll runbut not too far.' Like Virginia Dale on the screen.

"Then there's the one who is not brilliant and not dull, not beautiful and not homely; every girl asks, What's she got? The answer is 'She's got the man that a lot of other girls wanted." "

Some other girl may have Errol Flynn for a husband now; Olivia de Haviland's married him five times -on the screen-and when she finished "Santa Fe Trail" she fled to the equally ardent arms of James Cagney, in "Strawberry Blonde."

She was a little dubious about it; after all, Cagney's had a bad movie reputation where women were concorned since he squashed that grapefruit in a lady's face. But Olivia is safe in this one-he's cast as a belligerent dentist who gets into plenty of fights, but all with men.

"Ziegfeld Girl" voted for their fa- method to secure the repeal of vorite movie actress the other day. Vivian Leigh got eight votes, and as their stringent execution"? Bette Davis and Greta Garbo each got five. But-Judy Garland, Lana Turner and Hedy Lamarr couldn't be voted for. They're in the picture.

Billy the Kid has finally joined the side of law and order. It happened recently near Tucson, Ariz., where Robert Taylor was made a deputy sheriff of Pima county. Could Dickens Foresee?

Actually, the great novelist Dickens penned these words on December 30, 1854: "That war is, at any time and in any shape, a most dreadful and deplorable calamity we need no proverb to tell us; but it is just because it is such a calamity and because that calamity must not for ever be impending over us, at the fancy of one man against all mankind, that we must not allow that man to darken from our view the figures of peace and justice between whom and us he now interposes."

KNOW YOUR BANK

".N. S. F."

An N. S. F. check is one drawn on an account in which there are 'Not Sufficient Funds' to cover payment—in other words, it is an overdraft. An overdraft is actually a forced loan because if an N. S. F. check is honored the bank must pay out more money than it has received from the depositor and therefore the money must come out of the funds of other depositors. If a check is returned unpaid because of insufficient funds it is naturally injurious to the credit of the maker of the check. Depositors should keep an accurate record of checks drawn on their check stubs, and should avoid issuing N. S. F. checks.

Nazi Troop Detachments Enter Spain; Hitler Threatens New Sub Warfare; U. S. Invokes Priorities on Aluminum And Tools, as New Defense Measure

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.).

TONE OF WAR: Stepped Upward

Generally speaking, the advent of March saw the war news on all fronts stepped upward to new peaks of activity, rumor and expectation of a far more bitter and decisive vear than 1940.

There were more than minimal signs that Hitler was preparing to launch-vital-moves-on-at-least-two---First real force of the current-U. fronts, with possibility that he might add a third theater of war to his effort and might include Japan to take over a fourth.

Most war observers returning to this country and able to speak freely expected the invasion attempt to be dated somewhere between March 15 and May 1.

Resumption of test daylight raids over England were viewed as a certain sign that the day was not far distant.

The move in the Balkans was apparently being made, with Bulgaria scheduled as the avenue through which Nazi hordes would be given an open road to the Greek northern frontier.

Signs were less definite that this might be accompanied by a move to aid Italy in Africa, or that Hitler would make a general Mediterranean offensive part of his spring plan.

A move which sent detachments of Nazi troops into Spain was explained by German sources as the sending of aid to Santander, badly wrecked by hurricane and fire. In many quarters, however, it was pointed out that Santander was 160 miles below the French border, and that this force might be the vanguard of a Spanish-Nazi army which would saying that with conditions at their make an attack or a feint against Gibrakar. .

In a speech on the 21st birthday of the Nazi party Hitler told his people that a new phase of the war was "Coming in a short time and threatened a new and more terrible submarine campaign against British shipping. He sald that new submorine crews had been trained and new U-boots would be launched in the coming stepped-up attack.

The general belief was that Hit-"ler's master plan of strategy was unfolding itself gradually in a series of moves, some of them military, some of them diplomatic.

The plan, it was said, is based on the fact that in any invasion of Britain the Nazis would be under a disadvantage in not being able conceivably to put an equal force on the British Isles.

This being so, the main Hitler plan was said to be to strike in several different directions, i.e., Greece, Gibraltar, Africa, Malta, Suez, and in the South Pacific in order to screen the chief and central effort to land troops in Britain. It is figured, so these authorities say, that this plan might concelvably mislead the British into moving considerable groups of war units from one territory to another, might keep the fleet busy at the wrong place, might cause the sending of many British air squadrons away from the isles themselves.

Should this turn out to be based on fact, then it would push the date of the invasion attempt back from ear- | warily and under cover, and Japan lier estimates, and make the May I was moving under pressure from date seem more likely than one in I her Axis partners, apparently un-March or April.

With the lease-lend bill close to a final yote stage, the curtain was about to rise on an increased tempo in the war, and opposition members of congress in both house and senate were loud in their claims that 30 days would see this country added to those actively in the war.

INDUSTRY:

Priorities

S. defense economy was felt by the aluminum and machine tool producers as mandatory priorities for these materials were announced, E. R. Stettinius Jr., priorities director of the Office of Production Management of the Defense Commission issued the orders requiring that producers fill all defense orders in preference to nondefense when necessary to meet defense order delivery dates.

In his statement Stettinius said that OPM had tried to keep allocation of aluminum and machine tools on a voluntary basis but it had become "necessary and desirable" to enforce priorities so that defense industries could get the supplies they need.

FAR EAST: Crisis for U.S.

Most vital to this nation was the crisis on the Far Eastern front, perhaps part of the major Hitler plan to weaken England by embroiling the United States and Britain in a war with Japan.

In this great diplomatic poker game the stakes were the maximum. Steps in the struggle, much of which was being carried on behind closed doors and in diplomatic chambers, became gradually news items.

The British announced that the waters off the Malay states were being mined. The Chinese reported 150,000 Japanese troops were ready to move in the general direction of Singapore.

The Dutch East Indies called all ships into neutral ports. These were just outward manifestations that Jagan, under Axis pressure, was staging a show in the South Pacific, a show that had repercusbions from the White House when the President gently chided newsmen and members of congress for letting General Marshall's statement of the seriousness of the situation become public property. In this game Germany was seen as a kibitzer, but one who had Japan handling her chips on a fifty-fifty busis.

In the midst of it all came the announcement from Japan that Mippon stood ready to act as mediator to conduct negotiations for peace by all nations anywhere who were involved in war.

This move received a cold recept tion in Washington, Sumner Welles present pass, this nation was looking to deeds, not words, and that Japan,

LEASE-LEND:

Fight Bitter

The closing days of the lease-lend bill fight were bitter, but the outcome was portended when final polls showed 52 senators ready to vote for it, and 20 opposed.

This was somewhat less than the majority which administration forces had predicted would pass the bill and put it into effect, but still a comfortable margin.

But the fighting in the last hours was bitter, and many senators went far out on verbal limbs in predicting what would happen when the bill becomes law.

Senator Nye boldly declared "war by April 1." Senator Reynolds provided the most startling flop away from Rooseveltian ranks and made a three-hour speech against the bill which used up 15 columns of reading space in those anti-administration papers which printed its full text.

Doubtful: Whenever a ship from the Dutch East Indies comes into port, Charles ("Cannibal") Miller, who was born down in that part of the world, goes over to Brooklyn to visit officers and men. A ship that recently arrived had, as crew members, a number of Javanese who never before had been in this part of the world. Clad for the tropics, New York's winter climate was not at all to their liking. At dinner, the steward, who shivered constantly despite the fact that the dining room was well heated, was so courteous and served so well that Charley tipped him a dollar. The Javanese scrutinized the bill carefully, then ran to the purser and demanded that he be given gulders for it. The purser assured the young man the bill was good anywhere in the world. The steward, however, wa unconvinced. "How can the money of this country," he asked, "be any good when it is so cold?"

FULL TRACTOR LOAD EFFICIENT

Use of the Rated Capacity Saves Time, Fuel.

By R. H. REED (Associate in Agricultural Engineering, University of Illinois)

Up to one-half of all the time spent driving tractors in the field and 20 to 25 per cent of the fuel could be saved if tractors were loaded to their full rated capacity.

Pulling two or more light draft implements behind a tractor is one way of raising the load nearer to the rated capacity.

Among the machines which are particularly adaptable to being pulled in this manner are mowers, binders, rotary hoes, harrows, drills and culti-packers, All these implements have a low draft-pounds of pull-for each foot of width and thus are the units which contribute most to low average loading.

Mowers, for example, are wider than they used to be but still make a rather light load for most tractors. Some farmers have hitched one or two horse mowers behind the tractor to double, or even triple, the width of the cut and thus reduce the labor and fuel cost.

Two binders also may be pulled to advantage, especially in the northern half of Illinois. The combine has replaced most of the binders, but this fact frequently means that, where they are used, small horse binders are pulled behind a tractor operated at a very low per cent of its rated capacity.

The rotary hoe must be used in the wider widths if it is to load the tractor to capacity. Whenever possible, two, or even three, rotary hoes should be used to reduce labor, save fuel and enable the operator to obtain timeliness of operation.

Spike-tooth harrows must be very wide to develop a full tractor load. Fortunately, additional sections don't cost much, last a long time and are usable until worn out. They can be used regardless of their make or shape. Rollers and cultipackers have about the same characteristics.

Frequently the time and expense saved by using two implements will not justify the purchase of the second unit. Reed suggests that farmers may be able to exchange machines with their neighbors in order to use two units at the same time.

Losses From Crown Gall

Reduced With Calomel Losses from crown gall on seedling peach trees—a destructive nursery disease that has baffled control for half a century—may be greatly reduced by dipping peach pits in a strong solution of calomel before planting, report E. A. Siegler and J. J. Bowman of the Federal Bureau of Plant Industry. Nurserymenheretolore have had no effective means of controlling crown gall.

To test a method of protecting the injured peach seedlings from infection, Siegler and Bowman treated peach pits with calomel, using four ounces to a gallon of water. The treatment proved successful. In trials conducted at the U.S. Horticulture station, at Beltsville, Md., only 4 per cent of seedlings from calomel-treated pits became diseased, while 58 per cent of seedlings from untreated seed were infected. Similar tests last year showed about the same control of the disease.

Nurserymen can safely try the calomel-treatment, as it apparently does not reduce the stand of the young seedlings. One pound of calomel is enough to treat about 10 bushels of pits.

Butter, Eggs Lead

Food Stamp Sales How participants in the Food Stamp plan have been spending their stamps was revealed recently by the U.S. department of agriculture.

Approximately 14 per cent of the blue stamps are being used for butter, 14 per cent for eggs, 17 per cent for flour, rice and other cereal products, 12 per cent for vegetables, 13 per cent for fruits and 30 per cent for lard and pork products.

The Food Stamp plan has been extended to 250 areas. About 2,500,000 persons are taking part in the plan, creating new buying power at the rate of more than $5,000,000 a month for officially listed surplus foods at local stores in these areas.

Rich in Protein

Contrary to common belief, tye contains more protein than corn. Feeding trials have revealed that rye is equal to, or even superior to oats, corn or barley when fed in a grain mixture.

Before feeding tye to cows, it should be ground, and because of its gummy nature, should not make up more than 40 per cent of the total grain mixture. For best results it should be mixed with other grains. This also increases its paletability.

General Hague, Chief of Staff of the Army, had managed to dissipate with a calm smile that gravity in which he had emerged from conference with the President.

"There is nothing to give out, gentlemen," he said with quiet firmness, and strode to his military sedan that was waiting in the driveway.

.The general's car sped of to the long, concrete Munitions Building on Constitution Avenue that houses the War Department General Hague hurried to his offices on the second floor and instructed his aide-decamp to summon Colonel Flagwill. In a few minutes Flagwill, acting assistant chief of staff G-2, in charge of military intelligence, reported in from another wing.

"Sit down, Flagwill," the general invited. "The President has just decided to go to the bottom of this Mexican situation."

"That's good news, sir!" he exclaimed; and added in a quiet voice: "In that connection, my section has just completed our final estimate of the situation based on all present available information. Would you care to hear my report now?"

"Go ahead," Hague invited. "I'll be as brief as possible, sir. Our best estimate is 200,000 European regulars mobilized in Mexico. That covers organized infantry divisions, artillery, cavalry, tanks, air corps, and technical groups transported from Mediterranean ports during the past six months, together with some reservist infantry assembled from South American points. To all outward appearances they fully support the arguments of the new Mexican dictatorship that, as a part of the Mexican military forces, these troops are not the concern of the United States."

General Hague's straight mouth parted in a cynical smile.

"There is the big rub, Flagwill. The Mexican version has so rationalized their European army that the American public falls for the fiction completely. It almost has our State Department fooled, even when our ambassador knows the real commander in Mexico is Van Hassek, one of the smartest tacticians of the old Imperial Army."

"The subterfuge is obvious, sir," Flagwill averted. "My whole section agrees that the United States faces attack from Van Hassek's army." General Hague somberly nodded his head.

"I agree perfectly with your deductions, Flagwill, and informed the President pretty much to the same effect today. He is very gravely concerned and wants the facts as quickly as possible. But what can the President do unless Congress is convinced and facts are available for the public?"

"In the meantime, General, are we to reinforce our border garrisons for defense in event attack comes sooner than expected?"

The Chief of Staff grouned and said: "The President doesn't dare order troop concentrations now, Flagwill. Congress would probably refuse him an appropriation for transportation. He'd be accused of saber-rattling."

Flagwill mopped his brow and said slowly: "I see it all, sir. Just what's our move, please?''

"To collect facts. Our ambassador to France has something very secret hatched up with the French secret service. A chance to slip one of our officers into the Mexican service at Mexico City. Our first move is to select our man and send him to Paris to get his detailed instructions. It's very important that we pick the right man for this, a man with plenty of brains and backbone. I rather had young Benning in mind."

"An excellent choice," Flagwill promptly agreed. "But right now I've got Captain Benning down in San Antonio. Investigating another "Better bring him back to Washington at once," General Hague decided. "Instruct corps area to ship him by fast plane. Benning must sail from New York for France with-

Captain Allan Benning, in civilian clothes, sat waiting in a battered old coupe just outside Fort Sam Houston. For two weeks past he had been following one of those slender threads of investigation that/were intended to connect local espionage activities with the Van Hassek army in Mexico.

Important secrets had been stolen from southern military headquarters at the fort. Not least of these was the secret tables of organization of the proposed new American fighting division. Gone, too, was the file copy of army mobilization plans.

Benning's suspicion had centered promptly on a staff sergeant, Gaujos. "Not by reason of any action on the part of the sergeant, but because of an eloquent intangible, the palpable inconsistency of Gaujos' background, personality, and intelligence with his present occupation. Gaujos was a man of forty, a Frenchman by birth, had served as a combat pilot, with the French air corps during the World War. Three years ago he had taken out papers as an American citizen and enlisted in the army.

At headquarters-Gaujos' superiors swore by him. He was highly competent as an administrative clerk having supervision over half a dozen typists. To the casual observer Gaujos might have appeared a saturnine, stolidly satisfied man who had given up the struggle for higher success and settled happily into his present little groove. His face was long, lean, and angular and with small, level black eyes in which there was no friendliness.

With Benning, it had been a matter of baiting a trap. He had fabricated a secret report that American reserves were being sent to the border and had it placed, the night before, where Gaujos would find it in the course of his duty today. Now Benning was waiting for Gaujos to leave the fort when the headquarters crew knocked off work for the

The suspected man took a bus into San Antonio and had dinner at a hotel. He engaged a taxicab and headed south out of the city. It was dusk when Gaujos left his taxicab and proceeded down the road on foot from a point south of the old county poor farm. Benning parked his own coupe by the roadside and held the trail from a discreet distance. The suspected masquerader turned suddenly off the road into a field. Benning recognized it as a field that did service on occasion as an emergency landing-place for student fliers from Randolph Field. A fringe of willows lay along the road, and through these Gaujos plunged with the decisiveness of a man who knows where he is going.

But Benning learned a few moments later that Gaujos was not off his guard. As the captain eased into the willows, a stab of flame blinded his eyes, the bark of a pistol clapped his ears. He dove to the ground, his right hand whipping his own service pistol into play and sent a bullet driving at the spot whence had come the attack. Then he lay tensely wait-

The grim silence that followed was broken shortly by the kicking-over of a propeller out in the field, followed by the easy purr of a high-powered engine tuning for a take-off.

As Benning leaped to his feet, his eyes made out, in the vague light, a figure zigzagging at high speed into the field. Aiming carefully he sent one bullet after another driving after the fugitive until a metallic click told him his weapon was empty.

The runner made the plane, vaulted inside. Benning, now helpless to act, saw the shadowy plane waddle down the stubble and roar into the sky. In a twinkling it was swallowed up in the void of a Texas twilight.

Benning swore under his breath at his ill luck, returned to his coupe, and drove to his hotel in San Antonio. There was a burn at his neck which told him of a close call with death. He examined it critically, decided it was not serious enough to require an anti-telanus treatment, and called the corps area G-2 officer. Lieutenant Colonel Bart, on the telephone.

"Hard luck, sir." he reported. "But at least the experience confirms a hot trail. No doubt Gaujos was a more important agent than we thought and it's likely he has a team in San Antonio."

Bart replied crisply: "Meet me immediately at Kelly Field, Benning. Drive as fast as your flivver will take you."

When, fifteen minutes later, Benning sped up to the gate at the flying field. Lieutenant Colonel Bart was waiting in a military sedan into which he ushered the captain at

"I've a fast plane waiting for you, Benning," Bart announced. "You're to return immediately to Washington—orders of the Chief of G-2."

Benning felt the rise of his pulse as they drove down along the rows of hangars to where a sleek new observation plane waited with spinning motors. A captain in flying togs was standing under the fuselage of the observation plane. Bart said to him: "Wallin, this is your passenger for Washington. You're to deliver him there in the shortest possible time. That's all, Captain!"

In the sky there was the first rose glow of approaching sunrise when Benning made out, through the glass bottom of the plane, the wide silver ribbon of the Potomac. In the distance. Washington's Monument stood sentinel over the sleeping capital, the large round domes of Congress loomed up out of the granite and marble huddle of government buildings. As the plane swung down for a landing at Bolling Field, he glimpsed the gray hulk that houses the State Department and near-by, the trim outlines of the White House.

CHAPTER II

The plane swung back across the Anacostia and glided to a landing. Benning thanked the pilot for a safe journey north and sped by military sedan across the river into Washington. At the War Department he went to the second floor and reported to the G-2 section.

'Colonel Flagwill had come down early for Benning's arrival. His at sight of the young officer. He led the captain into a private office and closed the door.

Without formality Flagwill said: "Someone must go into Mexico and get the facts, Benning. I needn't remind you of the danger of such an enterprise. While I have thought of you for the detail, you need not accept unless you want to."

"Thanks for thinking of me, Colonel," Benning said with an easy "When do you wish me to

There was an approving gleam in the Flagwill eyes as he took from his pocket a bulky sealed letter and handed it to Benning.

"You're sailing for Europe at eleven on the America. Available information is in this letter. When you've read it, destroy it by burn-You'd better take a commercial plane to New York. Your boat reservations have been attended to. On landing at Southampton, cross the Channel to Le Havre and proceed to Paris by express. Our ambassador, Mr. Shields, will be expecting you in Paris. Any question, Benning?"

"I think not, sir," Benning said. "Good luck," Flagwill said, rising. "Do a thorough job of it and get the Mexican picture back here as soon as possible, consistent with thoroughness. I'll have an officer at the airport with your tickets and expense money. That's all, Captain."

The embassy staff had calculated to the minute when Benning was due to arrive from the Gare du Nord. No sooner had he dropped the bronze knocker than the embassy front door opened. A bespectacled male secretary locked him over in sharp appraisal and said, "You are the gentleman we're expecting?".

"Captain Benning, just in from the United States," the captain answered.

"Please come in," the secretary said. "Mr. Shields has reserved this hour and is waiting for you." The ambassador was at the door of his reception room to receive his visitor. Mr. Shields was a portly. smartly groomed man in late middle life. His round, florid face was an ingratiating smile as he invited Benning to a seat and tendered a cigarette,

. 'I'm glad you're here on the dot. Benning," he said. "There's quite a bit to be done in Paris, and you must be in Bordeaux tomorrow to catch your boat for Vera Cruz."

Benning said, "I'm at your disposal, sir."

The ambassador regarded his visitor with a certain whimsical wistfulness. He lighted a cigarette.

"You know, Benning," he said, "I decidedly envy you this opportunity for distinguished service. I think I know what's under the surface of things in Europe, but I can't prove anything in the concrete way that's necessary. So you must go to Mexico to do the job,"

"I'd suppose, sir," Benning commented, "that our government was informed at least of the larger diplomatic facts,"

"Facts?" Shields echoed the word derisively. "But there's only one accepted fact in international relations today: that the maps are listed for an overhaul. Outwardly everyone is praying for peace to come out of the current muddle. Under the surface the big question is, When will the lid blow off? We're looking to you for the answer. Benning." Benning's eyes narrowed. "I'm not sure I understand, sir." Mr. Shields laughed mirthlessly.

"I'll speak frankly. Why, after those devastating, murderous months of savage mass murder last year did the Coalition Powers patch up an armistice with the Allies while their armies squatted inconclusively on a mere segment of conquered Europe? Ostensibly to work out a peace formula to save civilization. But now everyone suspects the armistice is a Coalition subterfuge to shift some alignments, gather new forces, and-vastly more important -circumvent the United States from a disastrous armed intervention. didn't mean to get all steamed up on that subject, Benning. But in this grim world of reality in which I have to work, our smug provincialism at home does get on my nerves at times, not to mention how it cramps our style. Getting down to your work, do you by any chance remember the case of a Lieutenant Bromlitz of our army who escaped some two years ago from the United States?"

"Very distinctly, sir," Benning answered at once. "Happened in my own regiment at Fort Jay. Bromlitz was accused of stealing canteen funds. "Isn't it a bit extraordinary, air, that the French learned all this?" Benning wanted to know.

"Not when you consider the facts. Bromlitz, it appears, has a flair for romance. He fell very much in love with a girl in Luxembourg, told her his plans, promised to send for heras soon as he could afford it."

"And she spilled the beans." The ambassador smiled and said: "Why not? The French keep their ears to the ground and they've been paging Bromlitz since he first showed up in Luxembourg. CHRIST REJECTED

LESSON TEXT_Luke 20:9-20. GOLDEN TEXT-Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you. and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.-Matthew 5:11.

Rejection of Christ by Israel as a nation is pictured in our lesson. We know how the judgment of God has come upon that nation because of its failure to receive Him and believe on Him. God had to take the vineyard from them and give it to others (v. 16).

Men today reject Christ, and we find that the sin which causes them to do so and the judgment which follows are essentially the same as in the case of Israel. There is a reason for Christ rejection, and there is a certain time of answering to God for that sin.

I. Why Men Reject Christ (vv.

Self-will, the very heart of all sin, underlies every refusal to let Christ have His rightful control over our lives. There are two forces which may dominate and direct my life-God's will or self-will. Just as love of God is the essence of all virtue (Matt. 22:37-38), so love of self is the essence of all sin.

The leaders of Israel, both political and religious, had one great fear which dominated all of their thinking concerning Jesus; namely, that they would lose all their authority if He were recognized by the people for what the leaders must have known Him to be—the Son of God, and their rightful King. God had entrusted to them as underservants the care of His vineyard, and in their wicked greed they had determined to have it all for themselves even though it meant destroying the Son and rightful Heir.

We need only a moment's reflection to realize that this is exactly what occurs every time someone now rejects Christ. It is because in self-will that person decides that the one who has a right to his life is not to have it. There are many sins, but this is the root sin of them

II. What Happens When Men Reject Christ (vv. 10-18).

Judgment. It came to Israel, as all history even to this dark day so strikingly testifies. Just so, it will come to every one who rejects Christ.

It is not a slight-matter of comparative unimportance whether a man accepts or rejects Christ. He likes to make it appear so, saying that it is just something about the local church that he does not like, or the preacher does not exactly suit him: or perchance he hides behind the time-worn excuse that there are Benning made a swift deduction hypocrites in the church, when in

All of these excuses do not hide the fact that in self-will he is re-Christ. Af the end of that road he which may be hidden from fellow men by smooth words and polite manners.

Tear off that mask, unbelieving friend who may read these words, Face the truth that you are refusing Christ's authority because you are self-willed, and look squarely at the fact that "it is appointed untomen once to die, and after this cometh the judgment" (Heb. 9:27, R. V.)

III. How Men Reject Christ (vv. 19, 20).

Deceit and treachery of the vilest kind marked the rejection of Christ by Israel's leaders. They feared the people, and lacking the authority to condemn Him themselves they had to obtain some evidence under which the Roman law would have to sentence Him. It is significant that they could not find one bit of real proceed by trickery and treachery.

Christ rejection in our day is just as deceitful and treacherous, although it does not often appear so outwardly. As a matter of fact, the leaders of Israel were outwardly polite and careful. They sent spies who could "feign themselves to be just men." They "leared the people" and did not dare to speak openly against Him.

Men cover up their motives today. Some would wish to excuse themselves on the ground of lack of knowledge, but in our land at least that is largely their own choice. Others might say they have only been careless, but on what ground can one justify neglect of a life and death matter? Some blame the sins of professing Christians, but this is an individual matter-you must, answer for your own soul,

No matter which way man may turn in seeking for an excuse for his rejection of Christ, if he is honest he will have to admit that he has dealt deceitfully with God. When he does that, he is ready in repentance and faith to fake Christ as his Saviour and Lord.
